Charter Change Requested

Panther Boss Free on Bail

Oakland — (NBNS) — Black Panther Party leader, Huey Newton, has been released from the Oakland jail after posting $5,000 bail on charges that he was a felon in possession of a gun. He and John Henry Seale, brother of Bobby Seale, were arrested after a barroom brawl with two plainclothes vice officers. Both men are now free.

Watergate Guard Honored

Philadelphia — (NBNS) — Frank Wills, the black guard who ignited the Watergate affair was honored at the 17th annual convention of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. He received the organization's highest honor—the Martin Luther King Award. Wills, now 26, and unemployed was the security guard on duty who discovered the Watergate break-in.

SLA Trials Shifted

San Francisco — (NBNS) — The trials of two alleged Symbionese Liberation Army members has been shifted from the Oakland-Berkeley area since the California Court of Appeals believes the jury chosen might be prejudiced. Both defendants are white.

Black Oil Company In Alabama

Montgomery — (NBNS) — A black-owned company has bared plans to build a $250 million oil refinery in Tuskegee, Ala.

Charles Wallace, president of Wallace and Wallace Chemical and Oil Corp. of New York said that the refinery will have a capacity of 150,000 barrels a day. It will be built at the site of the old World War II Tuskegee Air Base. Reacting, Gov. George Wallace said the move shows "people of goodwill and vision of both races can cooperate for their mutual benefit."

And the industrialist, who hails from Thomasville, Ga., said: "It was the cordial and sincere welcome given to us in Alabama from Gov. Wallace and his staff that helped us finally decide Tuskegee site."

Vandalism, Arson Rip Black Families

New York — (NBNS) — Southeast Queens, on the Nassau County line, has again been the scene of an incident of vandalism and arson against black families. A house recently purchased by

American Blacks and Jews Are Urged To Re-Establish Ties by Jessie Jackson

San Francisco — (NBNS) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson has urged black leaders across the country to convene a meeting with Jewish leaders to reaffirm their ties and "to reassess our relationship."

Jackson, president of Operation PUSH (People United to Save Humanity), told an audience of about 1,500 at the closing banquet of the 64th annual convention of the National Urban League that black-jewish relationships had suffered a downfall in recent months over the issue of job and education quotas.

Although he did not mention it directly, Jackson was referring to the DeFunnis case which challenged the question of quotas for blacks while excluding Jews—a

Ella Iles PTA Meeting Thursday

A very important Parent Teachers Association (PTA) meeting will be held at Ella Iles Elementary School Thursday evening (tonight), August 29, at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

The main order of business, which is urgent according to some parents, is to elect officers for the school year.

Every parents is invited to attend as well as persons of the community who are concerned about this organization and Ella Iles Elementary School.

sort of reverse discrimination as charged by the proponents.

Jackson said, "people who marched with us and demonstrated with us 10 years ago are now meeting us in the Supreme Court," as adversaries over the quota issue.

The 32-year-old Baptist preacher urged Vernon E. Jordan Jr., executive director of the league; Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; and the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, to "sit down with leaders of the American Jewish Committee and B'nai B'rith and assess our relationship earnestly."

"There is much to be gained by being together, and too much to lose by being apart," Jackson told the audience.

Jackson said that blacks should rely more on ethics, excellence and economics rather than ethnicity in their struggle for a better life in the U.S.

Jackson said: "You cannot be against the rape of black women, you've got to be against rape. You cannot be against the murder of blacks, you have got to be against murder. You cannot be against robbery of black people, you have got to be against robbery."

"We have got to move from the ethnic to the ethics, and then to excellence," he said, adding that "Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune

Lubbock HRC Will "Write Letter" to Fired Employee

In an emergency meeting of the Human Relations Commission Tuesday evening, nine of the fifteen members of the group voted to write Frank Jones a letter informing him they, the Human Relations Commission (HRC), had done all they could to find out the problems involved in getting him reinstated with the City of Lubbock.

The meeting, which lasted approximately forty minutes in Room 214 of City Hall, was quite informal, as the position HRC could take was explained in the case of Jones. E. G. Nunez, chairman of HRC, told the group, "We will write a letter to Mr. Jones and explain we've gone as far as we can." He continued, "We feel as though there are opportunities for him to get his job back if he presents himself to the personnel office."

Jones was terminated from City

Students Get Long Labor Day Holiday

A long Labor Day weekend is in store for students of Lubbock Public Schools.

Classes will resume on Wednesday, September 4th.

What is sometimes pledged by politicians during the campaign year is often times forgotten once they are in office. But as a result of last week's city council meeting, some of those campaign statements made last year by some councilmen, especially those favoring the expansion of the city council, came back to them recycled as a reminder by the East Lubbock Business Association (ELBA).

In his presentation before the city council, Harold Chatman, a board member of ELBA, stated that perhaps the council should be reminded of those pledges made during last year's election, and that it should call a city-wide election to allow voters to decide the issue of whether the city council is to be enlarged from five to seven members, with residential requirements for the new members.

Such a requirement would mean that each candidate for the two new seats would have to reside in East Lubbock. If approved by the voters in the charter election, this would, in all probability, enhance the opportunity for the city to have a black city councilman.

By having these new positions added to the city council, Chatman believes that there will be more input from the citizens of East Lubbock. "By expanding the council," he said, "we'll have more input into these areas."

Although Chatman said ELBA felt that there was a need to remind the council of the campaign pledges, he added, "We're not pushing, we're just reminding the council."

If the resolution by ELBA sparked any interest among the council members, the response to it came in limited discussion by the city councilmen. Only two members talked about the resolution.

Councilwoman Carolyn Jordan said she was in favor of holding a city-wide election on the issue, adding that there should be some population statistics studied on the matter to aid the city council in establishing residential boundaries.

Mrs. Jordan raised the question of whether the resolution by ELBA suggested that the association wanted the city to be sectioned into a ward system, a system similar to the ward system in Houston. Chatman, and T.J. Patterson, ELBA's president, replied that this was not the case. Both added that in the city council meeting to be held in September, they would welcome an opportunity to present suggestions on where residential lines can be laid in accordance to population statistics.

ELBA also recommended that should the voters approve the two new council positions, the city council should immediately make appointees to them as a start. Mayor Roy Bass said he thought that the council did not have the power in the charter to appoint individuals to it. Although Councilwoman Jordan indicated that there could be a special election to fill the positions, Mayor Bass indicated the charter study committee should be reactivated to study the proposal. There was no indication of when the committee would be reactivated.

Later, Councilwoman Jordan said the expansion of the council might have a chance to pass approval by the voters, even though most citizens may think that all is well with the present five-man council. She indicated that many citizens thought city government would collapse "if a woman was elected to the council." But, she said, things haven't been turned upside down, and that fear is no longer prevalent.

Parents, Come to The Aid of Your Children

Now is the time for parents to come to the aid of their children by attending the Parent Teachers Association (PTA) meeting being held at your child's school this week or next, or the weeks thereafter. It is time for parents to go to the schools—elementary, junior or senior high—and do their part to upgrade the schools.

In the past, we have sat at home and let the principals and teachers run the schools without any input from us, the parents of the children who are attending these schools. We've got to get up off it and go help the schools. We are talking about helping in more ways than going to a football or basketball game. As parents, your input is needed in others areas of the public school system.

It would be hard to determine the last time a group of black parents from East Lubbock attended a meeting of the board of trustees. It would also be hard to determine when a school in east Lubbock has had a large group of concerned parents to be present and doing something constructive about the problems of the school their child attends.

We would like to call your attention to an important meeting at Ella Iles Elementary School tonight (Thursday). We received word from some of the faithful few parents that this will be an "important meeting" and every parent of Ella Iles school children are urged to attend this meeting. The meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m.

Not only will Ella Iles Elementary School have important PTA meetings this year, but every school's PTA is important and we as parents should do our utmost to become a vital part of the school's effort.

Parents, let's all come to the aid of our children this school year. As parents, we are just as important as the principal and teachers. We can contribute something to the welfare of our children's schools if we get involved now. After all, these are our children. Education is essential for all of our children. We can start aiding our children by becoming involved in the PTA meetings and all school functions.

Why don't you check this out. It is very important.

As I See It

by T. J. Patterson

Two representatives of the East Lubbock Business Association (ELBA) made a positive step to the Mayor and City Council last Thursday morning. The presentation, in the form of a resolution to enlarge the City Council, was received from a positive point of view from the present city administration. The most important part of the resolution said: "Do hereby recommend to this City Council that they call an election of the people to vote upon the issue of enlargement of the city council from five (5) to seven (7) members with residential requirements for all members."

I must admit that the same type of effort has been attempted over the past three city administrations, namely: W.D. "Dub" Rogers, Dr. James Granberry, and Morris "Moe" Turner. This writer hopes something will be done with the Roy Bass administration for which we can all be proud.

It is high time for some consideration to be given to this matter of enlarging the present city council. In the past, as many of you may recall, a commission was appointed to recommend the steps the city must take in this matter. Several city administrations ago that commission was appointed and now maybe, just maybe, the present City Council and Mayor can do something about this needed effort.

No matter what happens, I hope something will be done about the enlargement of the present city council. This thing has been studied too much. If we keep on studying this matter, we'll study it to death.

I hope ELBA's resolution was well received by the present City Council. It is about time for something to be done in this area. Not only does East Lubbock welcome this move, but the entire city of Lubbock is already talking about this overdue thing.

Speaking of resolutions this week, R. Byrn Bass, Jr., is introducing a resolution to next month's meeting of the Lubbock Housing Authority Board. Brother Bass, a young man concerned about the housing situation, is very sincere about the outcome of this effort in Lubbock.

In a recent letter to the executive director of the LHAB and Jim Sexton, chairman, he spelled out the necessity of enlarging the present housing board from five (5) to nine (9) members.

The resolution, in part, stated: "The Lubbock Housing Authority Board feels that achieving maximum input requires the enlargement of the Lubbock Housing Authority Board from five (5) to nine (9) members, with at least two (2) of the new members being from minority groups, and further that one resident of each housing project should serve as an ex-officio member of the Board."

It continued: "Resolve, that the Lubbock City Council expand the Lubbock Housing Authority Board from five (5) to nine (9) members, that at least two (2) of the members appointed be representative of Black or Mexican-American background, and that the City Council empower the Lubbock Housing Authority Board to secure in whatever manner it sees fit, one representative from each of the housing projects under its control to sit as an ex-officio member of the Board."

I hope the board members of LHA will look real close at the resolution. It can only help housing projects such as Green Fair Manor and Hub Homes. Surely, the Board members, namely Shirley Reese, Richard Rollison, and Bill Swinney will adhere to this effort.

It is about time for something to be done about the housing problem in the Lubbock community. This move could very well put the board in the right direction. Although Brother Rollison is the only black on the present board... I hope he will address himself to see that the board is enlarged from the board's point of view. I realize that the City Council must act on this matter. But with complete cooperation from all board members, surely the City Council will move in the same direction.

JACK ANDERSON'S WEEKLY SPECIAL

FORD AND AMNESTY

by Jack Anderson

From United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Washington—It took courage for President Ford to tell stunned veterans to their faces that he supports conditional amnesty.

He knew this would outrage the veterans, who are dead set against amnesty. But in keeping with his policy of leveling with the American people, he made his amnesty statement to the toughest of all the veterans groups, the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Ford set the stage for his surprise announcement carefully. He called Sens. Robert Taft and Claiborne Pell to the White House to listen to their amnesty proposal. Then he went them one better, suggesting amnesty not only for draft dodgers but for all deserters as well.

It will take all of the President's influence, however, to push an amnesty bill through Congress. Mississippi's crusty old James Eastland is expected to bottle up the legislation in his Senate Judiciary Committee.

It's unlikely, therefore, that an amnesty bill will pass this session. But as one senator put it, "The President has made it more politically acceptable to support amnesty."

Of course, some suspicious souls feel that President Ford is merely setting the stage for amnesty to someone else—Former President Richard Nixon.

The Bitter Truth: President Ford has told his advisers that he wants the "unvarnished truth" about the economy and he is getting it. Here is what they have told him in their confidential, early-morning strateg sessions:

A new wave of inflation is expected to hit the nation. Wholesale prices shot up almost four per cent in July. This is an alarming development, which will mean higher retail prices this fall.

The drought in the Midwest may have the same effect on food prices as the oil embargo had on gas prices. Millions of impoverished Americans simply won't be able to afford the food they need to survive. The government will have to move fast to prevent a hunger rebellion.

The cost of buying foreign oil, meanwhile, is draining away our dollars at an alarming $28 billion annual rate. Even the United States, with its vast wealth, can't afford to continue paying out such a tremendous annual sum for oil without going bankrupt. But to make matters worse, U.S. banks are loaning large sums to foreign governments to help them pay their fuel costs.

But perhaps the most disturbing news of all is that U.S. industrial production has leveled off and the gross national product is continuing to slip. The economic experts also warned President Ford that unemployment could hit seven per cent next year.

What these statistics mean is that the nation still hasn't shaken itself out of its economic slump. The slump could develop into an economic collapse unless the President acts quickly.

He put it best himself behind closed White House doors. "We've got to face up," he said, "to certain economic fundamentals."

Crime Crackdown: Atty. Gen. William Saxbe has ordered his prosecutors across the country to crack down on hardened criminals.

Saxbe's research indicates that most violent crimes are committed by a few incorrigibles. They are the repeaters who move in and out of prison. They learn how to beat the system. They get quick paroles for good behavior an use

Without any doubt, Brother Bass has a good proposal to the LHA board of directors. I hope they will follow suit on this matter. Good job, Byrn, keep the ball rolling.

Since school has begun once again, I would hope that there are some young people at Estacado and Dunbar High School who are interested in becoming reporters at their respective schools. This would allow an opportunity for some young persons to get a better glimpse of the newspaper business.

If there are any high school students who are concerned about contributing news to the West Texas Times, then please contact me as soon as possible. Several years ago, there were several young ladies at Dunbar who did a splendid job in reporting news of their school. I hope there are young people who would like to do the same this year.

Those young people who would like to contribute something to this newspaper, contact me by calling 744-9714 or write me at P.O. Box 225, Lubbock, Texas 79408. I hope some of you will have an interest in this opportunity.

This writer noticed that Brother R.J. Givens, owner of Givens Real Estate, was busy putting "for sale signs" for land in the 2500 and 2600 blocks of Globe Avenue. This is good. Maybe some people in the area will purchase some of this real estate so we can continue building back East Lubbock.

Speaking about building East Lubbock, I still believe that the corner of East Broadway Avenue and Quire Avenue is a good prospect for developing a moving business district. Whether many people believe it or not, East Lubbock can grow if we all get behind it and start buying some of the vacant real estate over here.

All of us need to start taking advantage of the real estate in East Lubbock by buying it now. East Lubbock can come back to be something thriving for all of us.

legal obstructions to delay sentencing when they are caught again.

Thus, they wind up on the streets less experienced criminals are stuck behind bars. Saxbe's studies show that the incorrigibles invariably continue their crime rampage after they are freed.

Saxbe has told aides that the few hardcore criminals are terrorizing society and changing the life-style of law-abiding Americans. He pointed out, for example, that 60 per cent of the robberies in one large community were cleared up by the arrest of only five incorrigibles.

Therefore, the attorney general has ordered his prosecutors to give first priority to the incorrigibles. He would rather leave it to others to worry about whether society is to blame for the misbehavior of hardened criminals. The Justice Department's job, he has stressed, is to keep them in prison so they can't keep on menacing society.

High Hopes: The elevation of Gerald Ford to the presidency has dramatically changed Republican prospects. Until Richard Nixon resigned, GOP leaders had been bracing for a Democratic landslide in November. Many members of Congress announced their premature retirements because the political atmosphere in Washington had become so poisoned.

Now Republican leaders believe they will be able to hold the line in November. They expect the loss of no more than half-a-dozen House seats. In the Senate, they expect to lose a seat in Florida but to gain a seat in Nevada. Other Senate seats, which looked like they would go to Democrats, are now considered safe.

Utah is typical. The secret Republican polls showed that the Democratic candidate, Wayne Owens, was leading by a wide margin during the last days of President Nixon. But now, the Republican candidate, Jake Garn, has suddenly overtaken Owens in the polls by two percentage points.

Republican leaders, however, are still holding their breath. Economic reverses could wipe out all the good will that President Ford has gained for the party.

In times of economic uncertainty, the voters usually vote Democratic. And Capitol Hill has been swamped with letters from constituents complaining about high prices and expressing worry over recession. Many fear another depression similar to the 1930s may be coming.

This could damage Republican prospects in November unless Ford can persuade the American people he has a firm hold on the economy.

For The Good: In private conversations, President Ford has spoken earnestly about the lessons on Watergate. He believes that the Watergate horrors have had some good effects. Most important, he has told friends, is the effect upon basic American freedoms.

He has acknowledged in the strictest of privacy that the Watergate evidence shows his predecessor, Richard Nixon, permitted some of these freedoms to be abused.

As one of his first moves, therefore, the new President intends to support legislation to safeguard the right of privacy. He has asked Republican congressional leaders to study the available bills and to recommend which one he should endorse.

He has stressed that he wants to strengthen the laws against such Watergate abuses as government burglaries, wiretaps and other violations of individual rights.

President Ford pointed out to friends that he had put up on the Cabinet Room the portraits of two of his favorite Presidents—Abraham Lincoln and Harry Truman. "As you can see," Ford said, "we've changed the pictures."

Both Lincoln and Truman held sacred the sovereignty of the people, Ford noted. Lincoln spoke eloquently of government "of the people, by the people and for the people." Truman said he looked upon the presidency as being on loan from the American people.

This is also the philosophy of Gerald Ford.

Girl Scouts Need Volunteers

One of the basic strengths of our society is the concept of voluntary social action. For most Americans voluntarism means a commitment to improving the quality of life—in the community, in the nation.

By donating their time and skills to organizations such as Girl Scouts, many citizens are able to give responsible service to their communities. We need Girl Scouts and they need us.

This fall, Girl Scouts are again conducting an adult recruitment drive for volunteer leaders, in their continuing effort to bring Girl Scouting within reach of all girls who want to belong.

In Girl Scouting voluntarism is more than a simple commitment; it's a way of life. And, since the ultimate responsibility for the Girl Scout movement rests with the volunteers and their dedication to young people, we are happy to lend our support to the organization's adult recruitment campaign.

Today, over half a million women and men work in partnership with more than three million Girl Scouts in the country. But—and it's an important but—there is a vital need for at least twice that many adult volunteers if the organization is to achieve its goal of serving every girl who wants to be a Girl Scout.

There is a long list of girls ages 6 through 17 who are waiting to become Girl Scouts in our area. To give them this opportunity for self-development and to give yourself personal satisfaction, join Scouting—be a Girl Scout leader. Get in touch with Caprock Girl Scout Council and find out how you can fit in.

Minority Scholarship in Humanities to Be Awarded at University of Texas

A $2,000 four-year scholarship which will aid a minority student in the College of Humanities at The University of Texas will be awarded for the first time this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter Christie of Houston established the scholarship in memory of Mrs. Marie Peckinpugh McCullough, a close friend of the Christie family for many years. Mrs. McCullough was a member of a well-known Houston family.

Mr. Christie, a Houston banker and chairman of the fund-raising committee of the UT Arts and Sciences Foundation Advisory Council, said he and his wife Janet, are interested in the promotion of scholarships for minority students, and they hope the establishment of the Marie Peckinpugh McCullough Memorial Scholarship will lead to others.

Dean Stanley N. Werbow of the College of Humanities added that he hoped the scholarship will "help encourage more minority students to study subjects in humanities where career opportunities are available to them."

Interested undergraduate students or prospective students should apply to Associate Dean James Ayres in West Mall Office Building 203, Austin, Texas 78712, phone 512, 471-4336.

USDA Proposed New Food Stamp Regulations

Under a proposed regulation announced today by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, an individual who wants to retain eligibility for food stamp program benefits would have to accept a job which requires joining a bonafide labor organization recognized by the National Labor Relations Act. The regulation would not require the recipient to join a company union.

In order to participate in the food stamp program all recipients, with certain exceptions, must register for and accept employment. Current regulations, however, permit a recipient to refuse a job in which he is required to join, resign from, or refrain from joining any legitimate labor organization. The proposed amendment is in line with regulations for the Work Incentive Program of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Public comments are invited on the proposed regulation which is scheduled for publication in the Federal Register on Wednesday, August 21. Written comments may be mailed or delivered to Royal Shipp, Acting Director, Food Stamp Division, Food and Nutrition Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 200250, so as to be received not later than September 20, 1974. Comments received will be open to public inspection.

Economic Seminar Scheduled Here

Dr. Gary North, an internationally known economic commentator, will present a seminar on survival in the coming economic crisis. The seminar begins Friday evening, September 6, 1974, in Lubbock, and will continue all day Saturday.

Dr. North (PhD., UCLA) shocked the financial world in the summer of 1969 by predicting President Nixon's imposition of price and wage controls, two full years before the decision was made. He also predicted in 1969 that 1973 would be the year that mass inflation would appear in the United States. Both predictions were published in national economic magazines, and both have come true. In March 1970 he predicted a copper penny shortage by the middle of the decade—it's here.

A major economic crisis is on the way, Dr. North says, and the only long-run answer is a return to basic biblical principles of economics. As outlined in his book, An Introduction to Christian Economics, we need a return to the gold standard, the abolition of price controls on energy sources, and the long-run goals of reduced government budgets and amortization of all government debt.

The seminar will attempt to answer the following questions: Is there a credit crunch coming? How long can inflation go on? Can businessmen save capitalism? 1977, is this the key year? Will the banks survive? Can a family hedge against disaster? Coins on margin: how risky? Is there a truly Christian Economics?

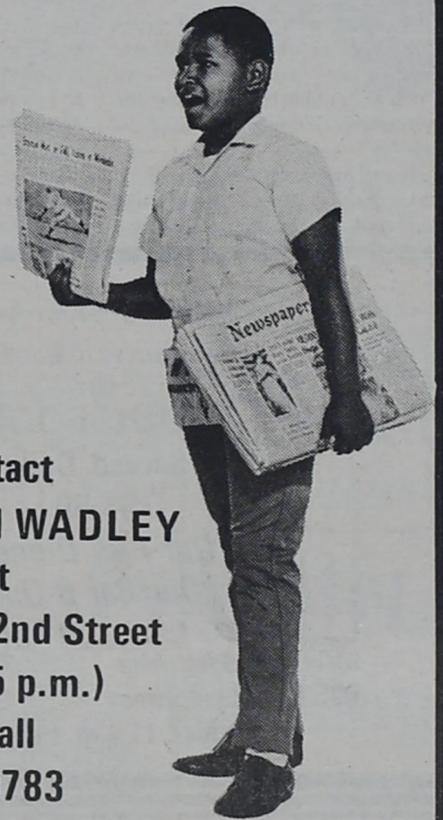

The seminar is sponsored by businessmen of the Lubbock Bible Church as part of their Christian witness to the community. The Friday evening session is free of charge; the Saturday morning and afternoon sessions will cost $7.50 per individual or $10 per couple ($2.50 for Tech and LCC students). Seating is limited, so come early. Friday, Sept. 6 at 8 p.m. and Saturday, Sept. 7 at 9:30 a.m. and 12 noon, 1:30 and 4 p.m. at the KOKO Convention Center, 5201 Avenue Q, Lubbock.

Recent Discoveries in Massachusetts Foreshadows Syphilis Vaccine Research

Washington — (NBNS) — A discovery by two University of Massachusetts scientists has opened the possibility of developing a vaccine which will give immunity to syphilis.

The scientists have found that the bacterium that causes syphilis has been misclassified since it was discovered in 1905 by two European scientists. The original discoverers thought its an "anaerobic" bacterium since it died more quickly when exposed to air than when kept in an oxygen-free environment.

But, until Dr. Charles D. Cox and Mrs. Miriam K. Barber began re-examining this conclusion recently, scientists have been troubled by their inability to grow the syphilis bacterium in the laboratory.

Dr. Cox, who spent 20 years studying related organisms, believes they now have the clue which will enable them to grow the bacterium and develop an effective vaccine.

He and his co-worker have found that oxygen is toxic to the syphilis bacterium but that it needs oxygen to live and grow. Now they must find out what else to feed the bacterium in the laboratory to produce specimens for further research.

"I've got to find out if its glucose or the long chain fatty acids that it depends upon," Dr. Cox said.

"If we can grow it, then we can do many other things like try to find out how it causes damage to arteries and the brain, if there is more than one strain of the organism, and hopefully develop a vaccine."

Syphilis can be cured with penicillin and other antibiotics, if the disease is treated in its earliest stages, but the spirochetes sometimes persist in the eye or spinal fluid. "We don't know what these spirochetes are doing there," he said.

Seeking Experience

Akron, Ohio—Bob Whitaker, 30, an elementary education major at Akron University, needs practical experience with youngsters. He plans to go into the baby sitting business for experience since he's single and has no small relatives.

Ford Signs Education Bill

Washington — (NBNS) — President Ford has signed a controversial school aid bill which former President Nixon at one time threatened to veto.

The $25 billion measure was described by Ford as a "good", but "not perfect bill" and he suggested that he was signing it in the "spirit of cooperation and conciliation."

The bill, however, contains the strongest anti-busing approved by the Congress and signed into public law to date. Those provisions restrict federal courts from ordering busing of children beyond the next closest school to a child's home.

But judges are given the leeway to order more distant busing if needed to meet the constitutional rights of black children.

That option open to the courts, plus rejection of Congress in the final bill of the House-passes provisions allowing the reopening of existing busing orders—favored by both Nixon and Ford—in the view of civil rights lawyers make the new busing restrictions largely ineffective.

The major provision in the education bill is a new formula for Title I funds which are pumped into school districts with concentrations of children from low income families. It directs more federal money to rural areas and suburbs than to cities.

Minority Owned Firm Receives FAA Electronics Bid

The Federal Aviation Administration of the U.S. Department of Transportation in conjunction with the Small Business Administration (SBA) has awarded a $345,268 electronic sub-system equipment contract to Oklahoma Aerotronics Inc. of Hartshorne, Okla., FAA

Correcting the Record

There is substantial concern, and rightly so, over the low public image of business today.

Unfortunately, there are a few bad apples in most barrels which give impetus to this feeling. However, if the nation's antitrust laws had been enforced as urged by the independent business people through the National Federation of Independent Business, these situations would not exist either.

The biggest problem is the belief that business earns huge profits. In fact, surveys have shown that a majority of the public believes that business makes 28 per cent profit on sales. The true facts are, that with the exception of big oil, the average profit on sales is high when it hits 5 per cent.

This erroneous impression could easily be solved. A headline showing a company made so many millions in profit for the year looks huge, but these figures are not related to the volume of sales.

The public relations directors of many corporations could easily correct this false impression by giving out the details along this line. "For the year just ended X Company showed a net profit of 2 per cent on sales of $100,000,000. This is slightly over (or under as the case may be) than last year."

Of course, any public relation director who adopted this sensible course instead of releasing box car figures related to earnings per share would get his head chopped off by the company management.

But the average consumer, noting the box car profit figures for a company whose products he or she buys immediately says, "my goodness, they are really gouging me," when in reality, the profit only amounts to 2 or 3 cents per dollar spent for the product.

As a matter of fact, to really correct the false public impression it would be well if the earnings of a company were reported not only as a percentage of sales, but allied with this percentage of profit there would be shown the percentage of the sales that was taken by taxes. In many cases more of the consumer's dollar goes to pay the taxes on the product than goes for profit.

Of course, it is pretty certain some bureau would issue a regulation against revealing such information on the grounds of national security.

Assuming that corporate PR people don't dare release this type of information, perhaps business editor's should insist that all company profits be reported in terms of profit percentage on sales. This would accomplish two important objectives. One would be to instill in the public the truth about profits, and secondly, it would help dispell the common complaint that the news media has an anti-business bias. But such a tactic would cause free spending politicians to squirm.

Administrator Alexander P. Butterfield announced recently.

The minority owned firm will provide 264 maintenance VHF transceivers (very high frequency transmitter-receivers) for air to ground communication by FAA flight inspection personnel when checking air nautical equipment at the more than 400 FAA air traffic terminal facilities.

Butterfield noted that the contract was the third awarded to the Oklahoma concern. The first, for $348,468, was for 398 maintenance VHF transceivers. The second, for $514,653, was for 639 emergency VHF transceivers for use by FAA air traffic controllers in the event of normal communication equipment failure or power blackout.

The FAA contracts were negotiated by the SBA pursuant to Section 8 (a) of the Small Business Act.

Paula White Named "Miss Teenage NAACP 1974" in Snyder Pageant

Snyder—Paula White was chosen 1974 Miss Teenage NAACP in a pageant held Saturday night at the Child Development Center.

Miss White is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Torrence of Columbus, Ohio, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. R.J. Nelson of Snyder.

First runner-up was Regina Lewis, the second runner-up was Debra Collins and third runner-up was Debra Davis.

Mrs. W.M. Washington, director of Lubbock City and County Dept., was featured speaker at the event. She emphasized the responsibilities of parents to the youth of today and leaders of tomorrow to insure stability, religious, governmental and family strength. She said all must become involved and participate in their lives, offering encouragement, guidance and aspirations.

"In order to be leaders, you must be good followers," said Mrs. Washington. "Each of us has a special place in the organization and world. Being a follower of leaders will encourage you to learn a short course in human relations. If a leader wants loyalty, interest and best efforts, he must take into consideration the fact that youth needs a sense of belonging, a feeling of sincere welcome, a feeling of honesty needed for the total self and not just for one's hands, money or time."

She listed six guides for meeting this task, the sixth being "I admit I made a mistake," the fifth "You did a good job," the fourth "What is your opinion?", the third, "If you please," the second "Thank You", and the first in importance, "we". The least important word is "I", said Mrs. Washington.

She concluded by noting that a child's future will be determined "by how much effort we as individuals contributed to this life. If we ever needed young people with a sense of purpose and a sense of direction, it is now, and it is necessary for parental involvement."

The local NAACP Chapter expressed appreciation to local merchants who made the pageant possible. These included Snyder Athletic Center, Hinshaw's House of Flowers, Perry's, Tot-2-Teen, Dryden's Shoes, Harold Bennett Office Supply, Burgess Pharmacy, Hall Drugs, Carter Western Wear, Williams Jewelry, Anthony's, Thompson's Shoe Store, Whitfield's Fabric Shop, J.C. Penney, Top Dollar, Gibson's, White's Auto, Gray's, Mode O Day.

Southern Christian Leadership Conference Ends Disappointing 17th Convention

Philadelphia — (NBNS) — The Southern Christian Leadership Conference has ended its 17th convention—and its first in a northern city—after a disappointingly small turnout of delegates.

The S.C.L.C. leaders had forecast an attendance of more than 2,000. But only 300 turned up for the annual banquet, which was transferred from the Sheraton's main ballroom to a West Philadelphia church after advance sales totalled only 16.

Attendance at convention workshops was usually less than 100 persons, and a final march and rally at Independence Hall, where the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy was to deliver a "black declaration of independence," was cancelled.

Dr. Abernathy attributed the small turnout to the fact that

"times have changed. People are complacent now," he said, "and things have to get worse before they get aroused."

Some former supports of the S.C.L.C., he said, are benefiting from the progress made under the leadership of the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., and are fearful of losing those gains. Others, he added, "feel they've got little during the decade of civil rights struggle and have given up."

"But they ought not to forget the bridge Martin crossed," he declared. "Black America owes it to Martin to keep his dream alive."

Dr. Abernathy acknowledged the financial difficulties of the S.C.L.C. but said the organization is almost out of the red.

"We have been in existence for 17 years and have been broke 18", he said.

Lectureship Series to Be Presented by Friends of The Classics Next Month

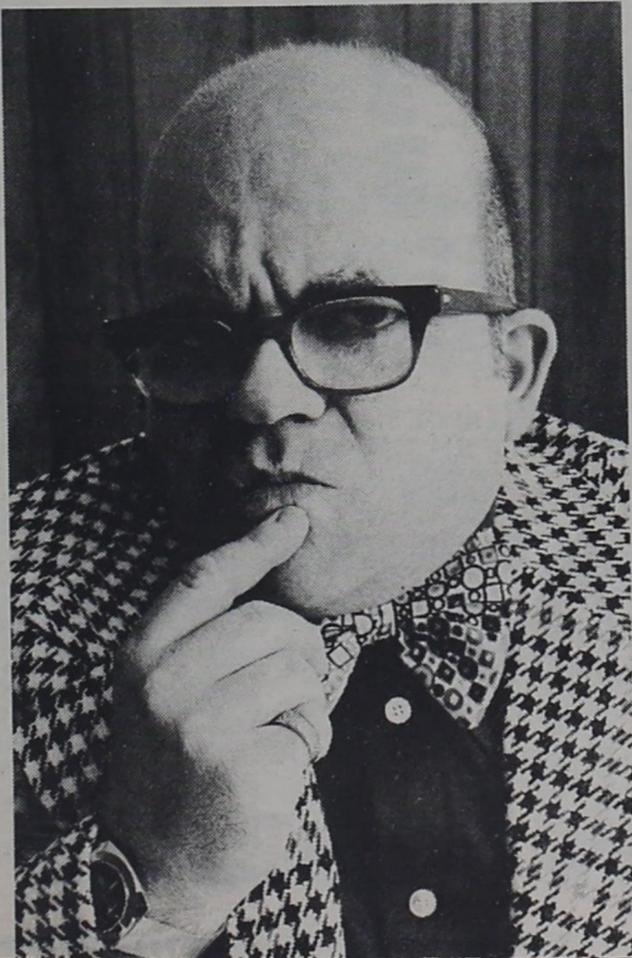

Greek democracy will live again during September when the Voice of the People program presents a four-part lectureship series. The lectures, sponsored by the Lubbock Friends of the Classics, will feature five distinguished humanists who will compare the Athenian experiment with American and Texas democracy.

Dr. Mary Louise Brewer, president of the Friends and Professor Emeritus at Texas Tech University, said the lectures will be held September 5, 11, 18 and 25 at 8 p.m. at the Garden and Arts Center, 4215 University. The lectureship series is made possible through a grant from the Texas Committee for the Humanities and Public Policy and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The Voice of the People lectures will include W. Robert Connor, professor and chairman of Classics, Princeton University, Sept. 5; John J. Bodoh, Dean of Liberal Arts and Sciences at Clarion State College in Clarion, Pa. and Clarke Cochran, Department of Political Science, Texas Tech University, Sept. 11; Gerald P. Else, professor of Classics and Director, Center for Coordination of Ancient and Modern Studies, University of Michigan, Sept. 18; and Dr. Mary Louise Brewer, Professor Emeritus of English, Texas Tech University, Sept. 25.

If you're so rich, why aren't you smart?

So you're making a good salary. But you're not saving any of it. Instead, you want to go after the "big deal" that's going to make you a cool million. Maybe.

What happens if your big scheme goes sour? You've still got to get through the future. And, let's face it. Nobody can afford to take tomorrow for granted.

So maybe you'd better join the Payroll Savings Plan now. Just sign up at work. An amount you specify will be set aside from your paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

That way, you can still afford to take a few financial risks, if that's your bag. But you'll always have a solid cash reserve to fall back on. And that's being smart.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4 1/2% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen or destroyed. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

Friends, it may be that I'm belaboring a dead cat with an equally dead worm, but any resemblance to pro football by the new WFL is in the imagination of the announcers.

I'm sorry. Maybe it's because age is beginning to take its toll on these tired old orbs, or perhaps it's because I've seen too much football. At any rate, I've seen two games a week for going on a month now and it doesn't seem to get that much better.

Unfortunately for the new league, the veterans of the NFL decided to report back to camp. In little more than a week, they were ready for combat. And it soon became apparent that these gentlemen knew what the game was all about.

In fact, after watching the Miami-Minnesota clash, it was painfully evident that either team would have beaten the best in the WFL a la Bobby Riggs, that is, one hand tied, anchored by a 50-pound cement block and blindfolded to boot.

I would hate to be considered a snob, especially after carefully culturing the other aspect for so many years as a sports writer. And it smacks of snobbery to play down the WFL.

The new league is manfully trying, and the loop gets an A for effort and an A plus for enthusiasm. Unfortunately, experience and execution is lacking. Until the more capable, experienced NFL stars get to the WFL, it will remain a far step behind the NFL.

I didn't get out to see Texas Tech Saturday, finding that rain and sun left too much work to do, but the reports received did indicate that the Red Raiders are alive, well and enthusiastic.

For the coaches, the first three days were painful. They had to work the squad in shorts and helmets, sans pads. Aside from the condition of players and obviously natural talents, it's a teeth-biting period before the players scrimmage.

Unfortunately, it appears to be wasted effort this year, for Denne Freeman, the extremely capable successor to Harold V. Ratliff as AP sports editor, has awarded the title to Texas.

I don't know that a blood transfusion would dilute the Orange in Denne's veins. I'm not sure that I'd want the operation. After all, difference of opinion is what makes horse races. And the Southwest Conference title goes to the team with the most horses.

It's logical that Denne would pick the Horns. I might do the same, were I in his shoes. Still, I question the line of logic he uses. And he had quite a line in Sunday mornings editions.

For instance, A&M can't beat Texas in Austin, except for the time that Bear Bryant did it. And Arkansas is a perennial second because James Street and Company apparently put a jinx on the Razorbacks that has lasted.

As for Tech, the Raiders can't do it because they must play Texas in September and, last year, didn't get over the shock of playing the Longhorns until the second half.

My, my, the Longhorns were so "confident" of winning that they dug out a formation they hadn't used in 10 years. And it wasn't until Rosy Leaks personally took charge late in the game that the Orange felt even a vestige of confidence.

Okay, Denne, have your fun. I'm glad you're going to be in Lubbock Sept. 28. I think that you're going to see just how much of a psychological factor the Horns have going.

I hope Leaks plays in that game, that he starts and goes all the way. I'd hate to have to write that "of course, Texas was without Leaks in the lineup."

Let's not kid ourselves, folks. Tech must play both Iowa State and New Mexico, but these are preliminaries to THE game.

According to the TV news Sunday night, the NCAA was going to slap a two-year probation on SMU in football and one in basketball for violations. The violations, of course, are old knowledge.

SMU admitted, late last year, it's guilt in paying players for tackles, etc. It hoped, naturally, to get off lightly and the ruse succeeded within the conference, which slapped wrists and nothing more than that. The NCAA didn't take as charitable a view, apparently. You hate to see penalties to good friends, but you hate to see the cause for them, too.

When I came home from a week in Sweetwater and points southeast, I found the Texas Tech "media guide" for football. It's an outstanding publication and Ralph Carpenter deserves tremendous credit for another magnificent job.

From cover to cover, the book is attractive, informative and interesting. The Tech football fan ought to buy a book if he wants to be really informed. I'm glad the brochure came to our house.

In an earlier mail was another magazine, the L.L. Bean Fall Catalog. Like spring, when the fall issue arrives, you know that the season is here.

Although the prices stop me on some items, it's a thing of beauty and the articles described are great. Admittedly, much of the material is for folks living in much colder areas, but there's a lot that folks in the Southwest can use. And the company stands behind its products, which means a lot, especially in these days.

Had a letter from old buddy Jim Whitelaw of Saranac Lake, N.Y., this week and the first thing that tumbled out of his letter was a picture of a 2 lb. 4 oz., 12 1/2 inch Rainbow trout.

No, he didn't catch it, but it was taken from a nearby lake and Jim says that he hopes the weather holds so that he can do some fall fishing. Some of the best fishing of the year in that area comes after the tourists have left, as well as before.

Jim writes that "I had my sister out fishing on Miller Pond a few weeks ago and she hooked into two very large pike, both of which snapped her 10-pound test mono as if it were two pounds.

"We never saw either of them but they took off with the power and speed of a drag racer. I'll never forget the expressions on her face! I'm sure that both of these were in the 12-15 pound class and wished that I had been able to get one on myself."

Okay, you good-looking bum, tantalize me! You know I can't do a thing about it until next year—and besides, my wife probably will be like your sister and all I'll get is sunburned, sweaty and bug bitten. But, boy, even to read about it makes you excited.

Well, I've got you in one place. I can watch Texas Tech football and that's pretty doggone enjoyable. And I'll write you about the fun at the Cotton Bowl! Go ahead and write about your fish!

Undefeated Reese Softball Team Dominates Local Tournament Here

The Reese Latin American Club continued its three-year undefeated streak recently by taking first place in the Second Annual Lubbock Softball Tournament sponsored by the Tertulianos, a Latin American organization at Texas Tech University in Lubbock.

The Reese team made the playoffs by walloping the team representing the League of United Latin American Citizens from Lubbock, by the score of 18-5. Coach Raul Sanchez praised the defensive play of his squad in all their games as well as the pitching of Douglas Ballinger and timely devastating hitting by Ed Compton, Rick Lopez, Mike Selan and Richard Gamez.

In center field for the Reese squad, Rick Zoll made some play-saving catches and his accuracy in throwing from the outfield kept many runners from advancing.

The club played for the city championship by defeating the Lubbock team of Howard and Gladden's at Mackenzie Park. The final score was 7-2. Ed Compton once again led the hitting attack for the Reese squad. His first two times up he hit home runs. The third time he approached the batter's box, the opposition decided to walk him for fear of losing another ball out of the park.

Defense in the championship game included such standouts as third baseman Vincente Ramirez, short stop Raul Ritchie, second bagger Richard Riveria and first baseman Ed Compton.

Coach Sanchez is proud to point out that the teams three-year record is 20-0. This outstanding record reflects both on and off-base competition.

The club welcomes challenges from other Reese organizations.

For such games, the team requests that a donation-admission charge be made for spectators. Proceeds will go to Reese Cub Scout Pack 548.

Critics Press Mormons on Boy Scout Bias

Salt Lake City — (NBNS) — A Mormon Church decision to admit black youths to leadership positions in church-sponsored Boy Scout troops has not stilled criticism of Mormon racial policies.

Utah leaders of the NAACP called the new policy "racist" and said they would go ahead with a civil rights suit against the church.

"It is apparent that the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints and the Boy Scouts of America are bedfellows against the interests of black people," said Mike Clark, an NAACP spokesman.

The Boy Scout issue exploded when a black youth was denied an appointment as senior patrol leader in a church-sponsored troop on the grounds that leadership positions were reserved for boys eligible for the Mormon church priesthood. Blacks may be members of the church but are denied by church doctrine from the priesthood.

Spencer W. Kimball, Mormon president, said the church "never intended to discriminate against anyone. He said the church's scouting policy was adopted in 1973 with the approval of the Boy Scouts of America to correlate all priesthood meetings and scouting activities.

Threatened with a civil rights suit, the church announced a revision of its policy 'o permit black youths to assume leadership positions in church-sponsored troops.

Clark, a University of Utah political science professor, said the church's new statement "has changed absolutely nothing" since it merely provides that "generally the Deacons Quorum president will serve as the senior patrol leader" unless someone else "is better qualified."

of Lubbock employment in October of 1973. In a letter received from Joe Minkley, Personnel Director, he was told: "It is our opinion that you did not return as soon as you reasonably could and therefore it is our decision to uphold your supervisor in dismissing you from employment".

Jone was relieved from his position in the water department of the city for lack of attendance to his job. He appealed his case to the HRC to determine his position on the job. At the Tuesday evening meeting several members of the HRC asked whether or not Mr. Jones would receive retroactive pay since he had been terminated from the City of Lubbock employment. It was the expressed opinion of the HRC that they could not determine that factor.

Mrs. L. S. Graves, board member, questioned the order of events—as reported by Mr. Jones and by the City Manager's office—and the members present, after some deliberation, made note of the conflict.

Jones was credited with having done "splendid work", by one of the HRC members, "while he was with the City." But no further action on his case will be undertaken by the Commission according to Tuesday nights meeting.

Jones, a graduate of Dunbar High School, is the brother of Oscar Jones, a member of the Human Relations Commission.

Then Jackson turned to the Nixon administration and its relation to black participation in the U.S. economy.

He said that the administration was not conducting "serious economics" as far as blacks are concerned, because it placed blacks only in small businesses.

"We work, but we don't have any money, that is our fundamental economic problem," he said in urging blacks to get into the professions and into ownership of major businesses.

THANK YOU

The pastor, Rev. S.R. Roberts; Angelic Choir and members of Mount Gilead Baptist Church send our many thanks to our many friends and members for their attendance of our program last Sunday, August 25. Rev. Roy Jones' message and the Angelic Choir's program were successful. Our theme: "In Times Like These" was quite appropriate.

We shall always remember your fine support in all of our programs. A special thanks to Rev. Gary Bunton for a number rendered on Sunday, August 18.

We appreciate the visitation of Brother Johnson of Dallas, Texas; Rev. S.N. North and Brother and Sister O'Neal of Albuquerque, New Mexico.

church, and a large number of visitors in attendance. The Rev. Shephard, at this time, was the church pianist. He took much of his time having rehearsals and producing programs for the choirs. Then he had two choirs, an adult and junior choir.

After rehearsals, at times, the Rev. Shephard would have a prayer meeting. We would sing, then we would pray, and each time we got closer to God. Because of this, we knew that this was what God wanted and we tried our best. We were invited to all federations, anniversaries, and city wide missions. The church was truly a gift from God. It had praying, loving, singing and a closeness to God feeling.

Of course, as you would expect, Satan came and left on special occasions. He could come in soon as an organization got started, and he would attempt to bring it down. Satan would slow things down and God would step in and put things back in operation. You see, Satan came in all forms and he had many tricks. It was as though God and Satan was in competition. As days got longer, Satan got busier. Finally there was nothing. Satan had claimed his victory. The members felt that all the work God had accomplished, Satan had destroyed.

The members slowly went straying from the church. Soon, there was no members, no church, and most of all, no hope. There were a few members left who attempted to keep the church going, but seemed always to fail. There were preachers who came and left. Either the preachers or the members couldn't come to an agreement on matters. The church was down to about nine people that attended, no one with the naked eye could see why these put themselves in the trouble of trying to keep this church going. The people would say there is no use, this church will never be anything.

Others believed that Satan had mastered the church. But you know the saying, "Satan comes in all forms and many ways".

These nine people, must have wanted to get something going because at times if the preachers had something else to do at 11:00 a.m. on Sunday mornings, then the service for that Sunday would be postponed until about 1 p.m. that afternoon. Truly, all we (the members) can say is, "There's gotta be a God for He has performed a miracle that no man greater can perform. For He brought to us this wonderful family. This man, Rev. Shephard to whom we believed at one time that we would never see again. With this, Rev. Shephard brought with him a few followers whom we have grown to love and cherish a great deal. God has given us the strength in which we thought Satan would control forever. We have changed our church name to First Progressive Baptist Church. And we have been stressing the name ever since. These are some of the organizations we have going at our church:

Brotherhood—1st of every month—Thursday.

Mission—1st and 3rd Tuesday.

Prayer Meeting—Every Wednesday.

Choir Rehearsal—Every Saturday evening.

Sunday School—10 a.m. Sunday Morning.

Church Service—11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sundays.

These are just some of the organizations that we have going on in our church for right now. These are some fields that we have to show how progressive we are.

We have the first church that doesn't take up an evening offering.

In making goals for Sunday School, we give Bibles to our Sunday School students for attending Sunday School for eight Sundays without absence unless sick leave or just have to.

The young people put on programs for Youth Sunday without the Pastor or any other adult member helping.

These are things and goals we have strived for and we are hoping to get more of these good works accomplished. And we are asking you to pray for us that we may get stronger in the Lord's work.
