Maurice L. Richard, 2901 East Colgate, announced Monday evening in a special news conference at the Holiday Inn East that he would seek the position of City Councilman, Place 4, in the upcoming City Council election.

"I will conduct a grass root campaign, in all neighborhoods of Lubbock—South-east, Southwest, Northeast and Northwest," said Richard, an unsuccessful candidate for a city council post two years ago. He made it clear that he is concerned about the welfare of all people in the City of Lubbock in the fifty minute press conference.

The 28-year-old installer for Western Electric, gave as his platform this year; drug abuse, pollution, adequate city planning and better communication for all citizens.

Mr. Richard told newsmen that he had been unanimously endorsed by the Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance. The president of the organization, Rev. A.L. Dunn, confirmed the alliance support after being presented at the news conference.

"I can't work any harder than I did two years ago, but I can work smarter," Richard said. He made it clear that he would apply his experience from "mistakes I made" in the last attempt at office, during this campaign.

After commending the present city council for a job well done following the May, 1970 tornado, he pointed out that some problems might have been avoided if there were "communications." He cited the turmoil in Lubbock in September when the City of Lubbock was put under a curfew. "There was no city-wide curfew," he said, "if you were going to a ball game they wouldn't arrest you."

The young man made it clear that he is not seeking the city post because he is Black, but . . . "because I have the necessary credentials as anyone else who seeks the post."

Already filing for the post is Jerry Nislar, a local businessman in the city.

Four Announce Here For Mayor, City Council

Election 1972 is figured to be a "big thing" in the Hub City come this spring. With more than the required thirty days filing prior to the election, four Lubbock men have already filed for the mayor and councilman posts.

A tire service owner tossed his hat into the mayor's race "ring" first, and a present City Councilman became the second to enter his name in the mayor's contest.

The entrance of Maurice L. Richard, 28, of 2901 East Colgate, brought the total to four Monday afternoon. He is seeking Council Place 4.

Willie Barnett, 32, of 918 Adrian, a native of Quannah, was the first to file for the mayor's post. He has lived in Lubbock for ten years.

Surprising everyone at city hall with his filing, Barnett has stated that he would run as a "working man's candidate." He made it known that he had considered running two years ago, but decided to wait after finding out that Mayor James Granberry was going to run, he was quoted as saying.

It had been brewing for several

Civic, Business Leaders to Aid Texas Southern University Silver Anniversary Fund Drive

Eight outstanding community leaders this week announced their active support of Texas Southern University in its 25th Anniversary effort to raise $1.5 million. At a luncheon at the Houston Club, Ralph S. O'Connor and M.J. Anderson, co-chairmen of the Silver Anniversary Fund, introduced to the press those eight citizens who compose the Steering Committee for the campaign.

Dr. Marvin C. Griffin, Chairman of the TSU Board of Directors announced 100% participation in contributions and pledges from the board's membership.

The members of the Texas Southern University Silver Anniversary Fund Steering Committee are: Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, Chairman of the Board, The Houston Post; Mr. Nat S. Rogers, President, First City National Bank; Mr. Gerald D. Hines, President, Gerald D. Hines Interests; Mr. William C. Bagby, President, Five Resources, Inc.

Also: Mr. Jay Hurwitz, President, Westheimer Transfer and Storage; the Honorable Wells Stewart, Judge, Court of Domestic Relations; the Honorable Andrew L. Jefferson, Judge, Court of Domestic Relations;

Mr. Robert H. Allen, President, Gulf Resources and Chemical.

Mr. O'Connor, president of High Resources, Inc. and Mr. Anderson, an Austin, Texas real estate investor and insurance broker, are Co-Chairmen of the drive. Both men are members of the University Board of Directors.

The Silver Anniversary Fund is the first major public appeal for financial support in the school's twenty-five year history as a State University.

Like other state supported schools, Texas Southern University needs, and is now actively seeking, additional support funds from the private sector. These monies are needed for maintenance support and continued development of projects and equipment.

"State supported," as it is generally applied to colleges and universities which are accountable to state governments, generates an erroneous conception to the general public. The money appropriated by the State falls far short of what is required to maintain the standard of excellence.

Congressional Black Caucus Calls for Hearings On Mass Media and Black Community in March

Yette Invited. . . .

Washington, D.C.—The Congressional Black Caucus this month announced that it will hold a set of ad hoc Congressional hearings on the mass media and the Black community on March 6 and 7, under the direction and chairmanship of Congressman William Clay, (D-Mo.).

According to Rep. Clay, "Numerous instances of the white mass media's failure to properly interpret the Black movement and the issues affecting the Black community, their unwillingness to adequately increase minority employment on their staffs, and the insidious method of firing a number of highly competent Black journalists prompted this thorough investigation on the mass media."

The full statement of the Congressional Black Caucus' announcement included its support of Samuel F. Yette, fired correspondent of Newsweek, Washington Bureau, and said that he had been invited to testify at the hearings. The reference to the Yette case stated that the most recent and dramatic firing of Samuel Yette is another case in point and example of the situation, ironically occurring at the time the hearings were being planned.

A tentative list of about 20 individuals have been invited to air their specific experiences in regard to Black people and the white-controlled mass media. Each witness has been asked to submit along with testimony a set of recommendations. These recommendations will be used as a part of the National Black Agenda now being prepared by the Congressional Black Caucus. The agenda is a set of national

"THIS AINT TOO COOL, BABY," were the words of one East Lubbock resident after viewing the above scene this week. Over twenty bales of burnt cotton has been placed on a vacant lot South of the Coronado Apartments (in the background on Juniper Avenue) and just North of the newly erected Furr's Frozen Food complex (across the tracks). Several of the bales had broken their ties and the West Texas wind was making good work of blowing cotton all over East Lubbock. (Staff Photo)

Garbage Charge Is Not Well Received

Many citizens are complaining about the new garbage "tax" they received as a new year's present. Especially those in poor sections found the new charge somewhat undesirable. Many feel as though the City of Lubbock is unjust in bringing on new charges, garbage charges, while not making an effort at improving the collection service.

There are a great number of citizens who agree with the idea of a petition being circulated by the League of Women Voters in Lubbock to put the question before the voters of the city. In the strictest sense of the word, placing the question before the voters is a good idea, prior to levying another charge, which really isn't a charge, but another manner in which to raise revenue for the entire city operation. Let's hope this will be the outcome of the ladies' efforts. The only way to settle an unwanted or undesired problem is to let the people decide what is best for them.

In poorer communities, regardless of race, creed or color, trash and rubbish is not given the same priority as it is in the more affluent neighborhoods. There are too many signs of less care in the poorer communities. This being the case, some type of justification should be given if the garbage charge is to be the same for all citizens in Lubbock.

Furthermore, there must be some means to upgrade our sanitation department, but local study and input should be considered prior to a "helter-skelter" answer all evils approach is started.

Citizens should not be expected to pay and pay, while at the same time receiving less and less service—and this situation exists throughout the City of Lubbock. On the same hand, people in less affluent areas will not pay more and more, knowing that they are receiving less service than others in the community who are charged no more for the same service. City Fathers, before you put any more wheels in motion, these things should be considered. The citizens of a city help make it what it is, let none of us forget that.

Let's take this garbage "tax" to the polls; sign the petition being circulated by the League of Women Voters.

As I See It

by T. J. Patterson

"As I See It" all of us should be concerned about the venereal disease (VD) problem we have in Lubbock. Governor Preston Smith has proclaimed the month of January as VD Awareness Month in Texas and last week Mayor James Granberry proclaimed this week as "VD Awareness Week in Lubbock."

It is fitting and proper that we all become aware of the serious problem we have in the City of Lubbock. In Lubbock County, at the same time, last year gonorrhea cases soared to 413. Syphilis cases, according to the Lubbock City-County Health Department's records, totaled 47 in 1971—down from 63 cases in 1970 when the county ranked seventh in the nation.

Awareness is definitely needed for all Lubbock

Think!

by Dr. R. W. Jones

Who Is The Fool!

How many times has someone come to you and said, "I think you should do this because you are the logical one to do it"? If you checked carefully after each time this was done to you, I believe that you would discover that whatever was suggested was for the benefit of the suggester and you were played for the fool. However, in the long run, actually, who was the fool?

Let's regress a few years to when we were in high school. For some of us, I admit, that might be an eon. We can all think of someone who constantly cheated on exams, term papers, and copied from our papers. Try to think of where that person is and what he is doing today. Three out of five times you will find an individual who is insecure and inefficient. Oops, could that be you? Well, I've reached that old cliché, "You reap what you sow." The beautiful butterfly that is helped to get out of the cocoon can not survive because he did not learn how to strengthen his wings in order to carry himself through life. In other words, by being helped he cheated nature

County citizens as well as those who reside in the West Texas community. We cannot, however, limit our awareness to only one week or one month of the year. As concerned citizens, we should make sure that we are familiar with the seriousness of VD. This can be done by contacting the Lubbock City-County Health Department for information.

If you are a member of an organization or club, it wouldn't hurt to ask for a representative of the health unit to come out and explain further this problem.

The Lubbock Opportunities Industrialization Center (LOIC) had a splendid reception-tea last week for Congressman and Mrs. George Mahon. Many Lubbock citizens also added to the success of this special effort.

A special fund drive was announced by the local training center last week to raise $150,000 to $200,000 to expand and enrich this project. Let's all get behind this fund drive and help make the LOIC a great thing for all people in Lubbock and the surrounding communities.

*****

Thought of the Week: "A day is a wonderful thing. It is like a great doorway flung wide for you to pass through into all manner of adventures."

Over twenty bales of burnt cotton have been dropped on a vacant lot, south of Coronado Apartments. They have been there for several days now. This is not a very pretty picture (as can be seen on the front page) for our East Lubbock community or the entire City of Lubbock for that matter.

This land was set aside during the Mayor W.D. "Dub" Rogers administration for a play ground area for the little tots in the apartment complex. Since that time, however, weeds have grown up and the area has become an unpleasant site although several pieces of playground equipment have been placed there. Now, with the cotton dumped on the lot, it is more than just an unpleasant sight, it is an eyesore.

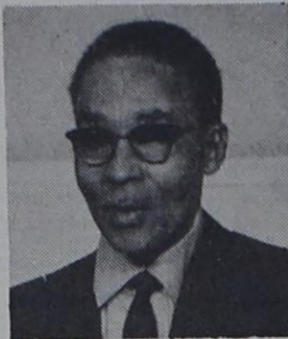

The cotton is no longer burning and its owner should come back and pick up the remains. By the way, I wonder if Mr. Furr knows the burnt cotton is just across the tracks from his new cafeteria complex?

*****

It looks as though the residents of the Green-Fair Manor Apartments are working together in their "War on Trash and Rubbish." This is certainly good, and I would hope that these citizens set a pattern of doing things together for others to follow.

If you look real hard, it's easily observed that there could be other projects that should be undertaken. How about Voter's Registration?

Not only Green-Fair, but all other apartment complexes in Lubbock should start doing things together. You talk about a Voter's Registration Drive, "The Way I See It", It's there!

and violated the routine set up for the survival of the butterfly. Hardly a day passes that we don't hear someone say, "This younger generation is made up of fools." Is that statement true, or is it made because there is envy of the non-conformity of the youth and the challenge they present to the existence of the elder generation? I almost made the state that the escape of a few of them with drugs is foolish, but would I have placed the blame in the right channel? Shouldn't it be in the youth's home where there is no motivation or mode of communication? So who is the real fool—Youth or Parent?

Someone whom I admire and respect a great deal made a statement during one of our pre-dawn conversations that "The Civil Rights movement has gotten so complicated and baffling that it has passed over the heads of the majority of the people." That statement is so true. Conversations are so muddled with "loss of identity," "Black Culture," and "our freedom." All of these things we have, but the privilege to implement them we do not have.

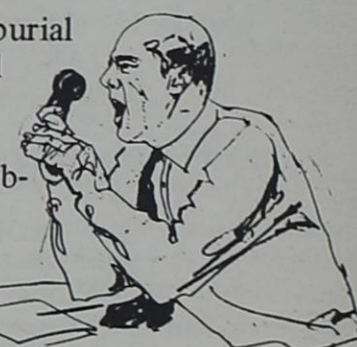

We are outside the strata of economics and we are unable to penetrate it because we fail to pull together as a unit. That applies especially to the power struck and image seeking fool. There is no way we can survive as an entity or unit without green power, regardless to all the culture we know, the identity we have, if we fail to implement the freedom which we already have.

Stop using people. If you don't have "guts," admit it and stop losing time trying to figure out how you can get credit for something which you haven't had the courage to do. Life is a peculiar process. You get out of it exactly what you put into it—no more, no less. If we aren't careful we will end up like the St. Augustine sea gull. At one time, this species of gull was great divers and fishers. Then the shrimp boats came into their area and started disposing refuse of shrimps. The gull came ashore and started waiting for the tides to bring in the remains of the cleaned shrimp. Suddenly the shrimp beds were exhausted and the shrimp boats left St. Augustine and the sea gulls found that they had forgotten how to fish for themselves, so they starved and are almost extinct. As Elijah Muhammad says, "Do for yourself."

Examine yourself and others around you and see who is the fool.

From The Business Desk

We had a very quite burial here in Lubbock several months ago, memory doesn't help me at the present time remember just when, but it has not been too long ago.

The event I am speaking of was the secret services held and the final rites read over the proposed change in our City Charter to allow representative Council Seats at City Hall. Last word I had, several months back, was that the committee, headed by Dr. J.W. Davis of Texas Tech, had proposed a solution to the present system, which is not exactly fair, at a Council meeting and this proposal had been forwarded to the legal department at City Hall. There the trail stops, just like so many other proposals, with no further word and for all practical application no further hope of improvement.

I would like to see a revival of this "dead" issue, and furthermore, I would like to see the City Council take it upon themselves to consider both proposals relating to the issue. The one that the Davis committee proposed, with three councilmen living in specific area and four others running at large, and the one that others have proposed, where six members of the council live in certain areas, and the mayor live anywhere in the city. Under either proposal, though, I hope the candidates have to "run at large" or in other words, answer to all the citizens in the city.

Perhaps, with the League of Women Voters working on an issue to place on the April ballot, the City Council will go ahead with the proposals about the Charter change and place these proposals on the ballot also. I would like to see both ideas presented to the voters, so they could determine themselves which system they wanted. Could it be possible that someone at City Hall would take the initiative, and settle this problem now?

Ella Iles Principal, Charles Harrell, Likes His New Position, Parents Cooperation

Charles Harrell, principal at Ella Iles Elementary School, describes his faculty as "tremendous" and says that his teachers' devotion to duty and the very cooperative attitude of the parents have been invaluable to him during the first semester of his new assignment.

Harrell took his new post this past fall in a swap-out with Charles Johnson. Johnson is now principal at Wheelock, which Harrell served for two years. The Iles position calls for Harrell to supervise the education of some 375 children, with nineteen teachers plus supportive personnel.

The new principal believes that progress, started under former principals, continues to be made at the school. He comments that the recent bad weather has shown the value of the gymnasium at the school, the only one for elementary schools in Lubbock. Students have put to good use the indoor facility when weather did not permit play outside.

Harrell has a sound background of classroom experience that helps him in his duties of curriculum supervision. He began teaching at Lubbock's Thompson Elementary School in January 1962, and remained there for three and a half years. He taught classes and served as head teacher for one year at North Avenue U. Elementary School, and then returned to Thompson as assistant principal. In September 1969 he was elevated to the principalship at Wheelock Elementary School. His bachelor's degree was taken at Texas Tech in 1959, and his master's at the State College of Arkansas in 1966.

New Deal is the birthplace for the native Texan. His wife, Freddy, is a teacher of nine years' experience, and is currently working with Lubbock's Basic Education program. Mr. and Mrs. Harrell have two sons, ages seven and four years.

Defense. That's the name of the game, not only in football, but also in most sports. The late Texas Tech football coach, Dell Morgan, used to say: "I'll give you the statistics if you'll give me the score." And it hasn't changed, even though he hasn't coached here in over 20 years.

Oh, sure, Dallas looked awesome on offense without a flaw in the attack. Roger Staubach passed extremely well; Duane Thomas, Calvin Hill and Walt Garrison ran with authority; the offensive line blocked like crazy. But it was the defense that won the game.

If you can't move the ball consistently, you're not going to score. And Miami was shut down about as completely as any team ever has been. And you know something? We knew it was the "Dooms Day" defense even without all the high school stuff KLBK flashed on the screen to show everybody how hep they were.

And so Texas finally has a major league team in every sense of the word, world champions, kings of the hill. It's been a long time coming, which doesn't make it any the less sweet. Now that it's here, it could be here a long time, for the Cowboys appear to be pretty well set.

The football recruiting season is in full swing and a lot of people, chided by Coach Jim Carlen for not helping, are wondering just what they can do. The NCAA and Southwest Conference are pretty explicit about what they can't do, such as bringing a boy to the campus, wining and dining him with the intent of helping him make up his mind, buying him clothes or other things.

So, what can I do? Coach Carlen isn't interested in finding out that you know of a halfback at Buckaroo High who runs the 100 in 9.2, weighs 215, stands 6-3, has a straight A average, heads the Epworth League and can tear down buildings like the Great Plains Life—that's not a bad thought—with his bare hands.

If he's that good, Tech already knows about him. What you can do is talk Tech enthusiastically to the boy and his aparents. You can make a point of seeing him on a friendly basis, or calling him. And most important, you can find out who has influence over him and/or his parents.

"That's the secret of Texas' success," Athletic Director J.T. King says. "Influence. Texas, because of its vast alumni, can influence a boy to attend Texas. They do an outstanding job of finding out who has influence through the father's job, his bank, his church and other such information.

This information then is put to good use without the coaches doing any more than being legal. But the way is paved for them.

"Tech, because it is so young, is years away from being where Texas is right now," King says. "The situation will improve as time goes on, but it isn't going to get better overnight. It's better now than it was when Tech first went into the conference."

Some 10 years or so ago, Gene Gibson was sitting in a Waco hotel room, talking with another former basketball player who lived in the Dallas area. The ex mentioned his regret at losing a Dallas prospect to SMU.

Gibson exploded. The boy had narrowed his choice down to Tech and SMU. Gibson asked the Tech alumni living in the Dallas area to phone, or go by and see the boy, encourage him to come to Tech.

After he had signed, Gibson asked him why SMU, not Tech. In essence, this is what the boys said:

"Coach, I liked you, the student body, the campus. I would have come to Tech, but hardly any alumni from Tech called me. On the otherhand, SMU alumni kept the front door bell ringing, urging me to go to SMU. I figured that if they were that interested in me, they must have a pretty good school."

At the risk of having treason screamed at us, possibly the best thing that happened last Saturday afternoon was Tech's not beating Baylor by 25 or 30 points. At one point it looked entirely possible.

As it was, Tech failed to break the press well and, when it did, it didn't take advantage of the situation by moving the ball through. The Raiders could have picked up a bunch of points by smarter ball handling.

So, Tech hung on and it may have been for the best. Now the team knows that it must play its best for 40 minutes, not 35. And it also knows that it faces a supreme challenge in Waco Feb. 12. There will be no room for overconfidence. The victory was an important one and, for most of the game, the Raiders looked like major contenders—which they are.

The Roundup: Anyone know anything about Chuck Harrison? The former Raider turned pro baseballer, hasn't been seen around here this winter. . . Wonder if the small basketball crowd last Saturday was due to the ad in the A-J that said: "Baylor Vs. Texas Tech-Jones Stadium-Saturday, 2 p.m." Didn't think to check the West stands on the way to the Coliseum. . . Heard around town: A Tech baseball team member bought warmup jackets for the whole squad because there's no baseball budget left. . . Minor league baseball's by-passing Lubbock has an ironic twist. KSEL, which was leading the fight to get it here, caused it to keep on going because the station wouldn't agree to broadcast the games—because it allegedly will air Ranger broadcasts. . . Things-we-could-do-without Dept: References to "Bob Bass' Miami Floridians." He's the guy who stuck up the athletic department for a big raise in the summer with the threat of leaving—and then did leave, in the middle of the season. Phooey.

with Bob Tieuel, Jr.

Black History Notes for Busy Newspaper Readers—Booker T. Washington (1856-1915), was born a slave at Hale's Ford, Virginia. Owing to the fact that he lacked funds, he walked about two hundred miles from his home to Hampton Institute, where he enrolled in 1872. After graduation he taught in Malden, West Virginia before entering Wayland Seminary in Washington, D.C. He later returned to Hampton to teach Indian boys and in 1881, he was appointed principal of Tuskegee Institute, which at the time consisted of two small frame buildings and thirty students.

Under Washington's direction, the Tuskegee institution achieved world-wide fame. In 1895 he was invited to be the spokesman for the Negro at the Atlanta Exposition where he delivered his now immortal speech containing the famous "Let down your bucket where you are", lines.

Booker T. Washington served as a consultant on the race problem for both presidents Theodore Roosevelt and William Howard Taft. In 1900, he organized the National Negro Business League and participated in the organization of the General Education Board and of the Phelps Stokes Fund.

Washington's philosophy created a great rift between the conservative and liberal schools of thought on the race question of his day, with the latter groups often designating him as an "Uncle Tom" and an advocate of biracial segregation.

Today new and interesting viewpoints are now being advanced about his role as a leader and many of his then considered racial views are finding general acceptance across racial and creedal ties. One thing history will show is that Washington was a pioneer in his advocacy of vocational education and the wisdom of his views may yet be vindicated, students proclaim.

With only about fifty thousand American adherents and slightly more than two million followers throughout the world, the Baha'i faith nearly doubled its strength in 1970 and continues to hope and pray for a single religion encompassing all the beliefs of East and West. Most of the twenty thousand new believers in Baha'i are blacks, for whom the promise of full equality has natural appeal.

To achieve the ultimate "condition of the soul" one must adhere to ethical and moral behavior, including truth, honesty, humility, trustworthiness, justice, compassion and mercy. Service to humanity is a form of worship, along with loyalty and obedience to one's government. The Baha'i literature has been translated into 420 languages, according to our Bellringer informant.

Out of School with Nothing to Do—She's Glad She Joined Neighborhood Youth Corps!

"The Neighborhood Youth Corps (NYC) has changed my outlook on life," admits Mrs. Branetta Joy Cook, of 2713 East 9th Street. She is presently employed at the Adult Learning Center as the secretary to Mr. Bill Reddell, Material Specialist.

"Out of school and nothing to do, so I joined the Neighborhood Youth Corps in Lubbock, Texas; and I'm glad I did," smiles Mrs. Branetta Joy Cook, 2713 East 9th Street. "I liked it a lot, it helped me a great deal," she added.

Mrs. Cook, one of many young people in the local manpower development program which is geared at reaching those who dropped out of school, is a positive person and as she says, "I want to continue to grow."

She started her training with NYC in the Soil Conservation office in September, 1970. She was given the series of tests before her enrollment in NYC and all indicated that she had a high intelligence quotient. Although Mrs. Cook dropped out of school in the eleventh grade, her test scores indicated that she functioned as a twelfth grader.

Her supervisor at the Soil Conservation Office, Mrs. Murice Burton, assistant area clerk, was responsible for working closely with her. As Mrs. Cook says, "She helped me put things together in a big way."

Working more than 1,000 hours with that office, Mrs. Burton admits, "Mrs. Cook wanted to learn and was quite cooperative and congenial and as a result of this, it paid off."

"It was easy for me," admits Mrs. Cook. "You see, I had very good instruction and now I know which way in life I'm going." She received her General Equivalency Diploma (GED) in February, 1971 and began to work on shorthand and other office machines in her night school studies.

The Adult Learning Center had an opening for a secretary and Mr. Bill Reddell interviewed and tested Mrs. Cook last May. As a result of her well rounded background in secretary administration functions, she was hired in her present position as Mr. Reddell's secretary in June.

A former student of Estacado High School, she is married to Bobby Cook and they are proud parents of a son, Bobby, Jr., age 19 months. They are members of New Hope Baptist Church, Rev. A.L. Dunn, pastor.

Mr. Reddell says of her work, "Mrs. Cook is very cooperative, efficient and follows directions well. In other words, she is a self-starter."

"If I had to sum up what NYC has done for me, I'd say it's changed my outlook on life. Now I can contribute something to my family, community and country," she says. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Beaty is something special in the Black community. She has proven that it can be done. NYC was her answer; to make it was her goal and she is doing it in a real big way.

To Be Master of Something

Amarillo—I was impressed by the quote from Muhammad Ali, when he encouraged young Blacks to go to school and learn. I would like to add just one thing to that quote, and that is, "Master whatever you learn." I have often told young Blacks that whatever you do try to be the best. If you are picking up paper, try to be the best "paper-picker-upper" there is.

We often hear someone say, the fate of the world rests on the shoulders of our young people. This brings a thought to my mind, are we encouraging these young people to master something worth while or, are we telling them, "I made it on a fourth grade education?"

Why not tell them that the days of "this is your mammy" are out, gone and should be forgotten. Now all we have got to get rid of is the Uncle Toms and the Do Gooders. Someone asked Don Ross, writer of "From the Ghetto Line" for the Oklahoma Eagle an interesting question.

Don said, "They wanted to know what an Uncle Tom was, of course we all know an Uncle Tom is a person that buys his daughter a black doll and a white doll for Christmas, and when he has a white friend over he puts the black doll in a box in the closet." Well said Don.

Have you seen the human tumbleweed? A tumbleweed is beautiful while it is growing up, but then it dries, breaks off from its roots and starts rolling and tumbling along, going no place in particular. There are some people just like that, perfectly satisfied with going nor getting anywhere in life.

Wake up Black Amarillo! Black West Texas and Blacks wherever you are! Be the best of whatever you are. If you are a liar, be the best, get the lie straight so that you can tell it the same way each time, if you gossip, be the best, preacher, teacher or the man or woman on the street—be a master of your thing, whatever it is.

ence expected of the first class institution.

University sources reveal that the million and a half dollars sought will be used in the following ways:

$250,000 is for augmenting library holdings. Currently the university library has 200,000 volumes, 150,000 fewer than today's needs require. Additionally, instructional aids applying current technology of the learning process are also needed.

$750,000 will renovate and maintain present physical resources. Modern facilities and equipment especially in the School of Technology, are critically needed. New sources of support are also sorely-needed for the present physical plant.

$250,000 is needed for Texas Southern students, generally from low income backgrounds. Scholarship and loan funds will keep them in school.

$250,000 is for faculty improvement. Salaries are far below the national average, and beneath the median for other Texas schools. It is imperative that they be improved if the university is to retain its present faculty and attract outstanding new personnel.

Messiah Presbyterian Church Honors Mrs. Juanita P. Simmons

Sunday, January 16, members of the United Messiah Presbyterian Church sponsored a dinner after the morning services in honor of Mrs. Juanita P. Simmons, who has served some 35 years as superintendent of the Sunday Church School and has been serving in a leadership capacity for the congregation while the church has been vacant of a pastor.

Among the friends who shared this occasion were Mesdames Lena Sheffield and Georgia Higgins, Mr. Williard O'Neil Boyd of Wichita Falls, Texas, who is a student at Texas Tech University, and former members of the church, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Brandon and family, Mrs. Oma McQuinney and her granddaughter, Johndrice Stene Harris and Mr. Joe Davenport.

Mr. Douglas Sedberry was present and gave the morning message. He brought greetings from the University Presbyterian Church of Houston, Texas, where he and his family are members.

This was surely a special occasion for Mrs. Simmons.
