Many residents of the black community in Lubbock as well as other communities on the South Plains of Texas have graduated or attended a predominantly black college. These communities have benefited greatly from the development of these individuals from those colleges.

At present time, approximately 300 citizens of our community are involved in an effort to raise money for the United Negro College Fund (UNCF). UNCF represents a consortium of 41 predominantly black colleges and universities in America. All are private and fully-accredited. Specifically, our efforts locally are directed at the six predominantly black colleges in Texas. Namely; Bishop College, Dallas; Jarvis Christian College, Hawkins; Huston-Tillotson, Austin; Paul Quinn College, Waco; Texas College, Tyler; and Wiley College, Marshall.

In order to reach a goal of $25,000 for these colleges, a UNCF Mini-Telethon will air over KMCC-TV, Channel 28, Saturday evening, August 13, from 7 to 10. Outstanding stars from the entertainment field will provide the show from Las Vegas, Nev., plus local personalities talking about this worthwhile effort.

UNCF schools are in the great tradition of the plurality in this nation. Just as Brandeis as a Jewish institution and Notre Dame as a Catholic one have been distinguished for their contributions to our total enrichment, so too have the predominantly black colleges done this.

UNCF schools, by constitution, have never, and never will, segregate. They are open to all who wish to enroll. At present, there are some 5% non-blacks attending these colleges in Texas.

All gifts and contributions to this effort are tax-deductible.

The annual Melba Bandy Master Clinic for victims of Myasthenia Gravis (M.G.) will be held August 26 and 27 in Hale Center. The clinic is free, and scheduled for 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. every day.

Myasthenia Gravis is a neuromuscular disease characterized by varying weakness of the body's voluntary muscles. Aggravated by emotion, exertion, infection or stress, the first symptoms may be unusual fatigue along with an aching back, neck or leg.

It is treated sometimes with bedrest and anticholinesterase drugs. Other frequent early signs and symptoms are drooping eyelids, blurred vision, and, in more severe cases, slurring nasal tones, jaw weakness and fatigue while chewing. Many complain of arm fatigue in reaching up and legs tired from short walks or stairs.

The disease has no known cause or cure, and one of its suspected victims is Aristotle Onassis. M.G. is non-communicable.

Dr. J.E. Tether of Indianapolis,

Ind., will conduct the clinic assisted by the medical staff of the Hi-Plains Hospital. Dr. Tether is a noted authority on M.G. and has been in the field for over 20 years. EDITORIALS

UNCF Needs Your Support

Every black citizen in Lubbock should be talking about the upcoming United Negro College Fund (UNCF) Mini-Telethon which will air on KMCC-TV, Channel 28, Saturday evening, August 13, from 7 to 10. Your support will help many young people in Texas have an opportunity to grow in many ways.

Not only will black men and women benefit from this effort, but non-blacks too. At present time, approximately five per cent non-blacks (whites and browns) are attending the six predominantly black colleges which will benefit from this effort. Those schools are Bishop College, Dallas; Jarvis Christian College, Hawkins; Huston-Tillotson College, Austin; Paul Quinn College, Waco; Texas College, Tyler; and Wiley College, Marshall.

Let's talk about this worthwhile television special which will make it possible for some great things for our young people. Tell your family, other relatives and friends about this goal of $25,000. Let them know that at least 90 per cent of all blacks in Lubbock who has college credit either graduated from or attended one of these six colleges in Texas.

If every black in Lubbock gave $2.50 toward this goal of $25,000, we would reach it without any problems. As we've suggested many times on this page, we must support our own programs. We must come together and help programs as the UNCF Mini-Telethon.

Why not, beginning today (Wednesday), call at least five people and talk about UNCF. Tell them the importance of the UNCF Mini-Telethon. Call whites and browns!! Let them know they can help too. Most of all, let them know that you are behind this Mini-Telethon. If this is done, the ripple effect will be tremendous. We just got to have your help.

At the beginning (March, 1977), there were only three people involved with this effort. By the first week in April, fifteen concerned people had been recruited. As of this date, there are at least 350 citizens in our community involved. This is great!! We can't forget, however, that the Eta Delta Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority got this thing off the ground in January, 1976. Lubbock was the first market in the state to have such an effort.

Anyway, the UNCF Mini-Telethon needs your support. The West Texas Times pledges their support and hopes you will do likewise.

"A MIND IS A TERRIBLE THING TO WASTE!!!"

As I See It . . .

By T. J. Patterson

Since April of this year, many Lubbockites have been making preparation for a worthwhile program which will climax on Saturday evening, August 13, from 7 to 10 p.m. over KMCC-TV, Channel 28. It will be the second United Negro College Fund (UNCF) Mini-Telethon. It's something special for young people in our community and Texas.

Citizens from throughout our city have pitched in to see that the goal of $25,000 will become a reality. With concerned people, like those involved, a positive message has been told about this important effort.

At the beginning, there were only three people in the planning state. That figure changed after the first planning meeting when fifteen concerned Lubbockites attended. To date, there are at least 350 people working directly or indirectly for the UNCF Mini-Telethon effort in Lubbock.

Not only are there Lubbockites, from throughout the city working for these predominately black colleges, but we have many friends in Plainview, Slaton, Littlefield, Levelland, Tahoka, Lamesa and other South Plains towns helping us.

Right here in Lubbock, for example, the regular meeting of the Lubbock chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) have postponed their meeting so their members can get involved in this effort. Of course, there are other organizations and clubs who will be doing the same. This is good and it shows that black people can work together. Not only can black people work together, but citizens from throughout our community can work with each other for projects which will help.

This effort on Saturday will need the help of everyone in the community. Of course, there will be a splendid three hour program, including outstanding talent from Las Vegas, Nev., but we need your help to reach this $25,000 goal. No one is too small, because every little bit helps a good cause.

As you tune in on Saturday evening, keep this point before you: "A Mind Is A Terrible Thing To Waste." You can help by giving whatever you can on Saturday evening.

This writer hopes the City of Lubbock has made preparation to take care of the six foot weeds on the East 24th Street overpass. Summer is about gone and the weeds haven't been cut yet. As this writer said recently, the citizens of east Lubbock appreciate the monies set aside to improve the overpass, but those cotton picking weeds have got to go.

Not ONLY the weeds on the overpass, but there are weeds growing high in the median on Quirt Avenue, between East 24th Street and East 30th Street. Those weeds growing in this area hurts the pretty scenery of this neighborhood.

It would make a lot of sense for something to be done about the Coronado Apartments. After looking at the pictures taken of this complex last week, surely something can be done about this situation.

This writer hopes this unpleasant sight will be brought to the attention of those persons who can help make this a positive place in which to live. At least, let's make it liveable for the young people who live in the area.

This writer hasn't given up on the many opportunities for the citizens who live in east Lubbock. There are still opportunities for many of us. As black people, we've got to get up and take the chance so we will have a better place to rear our young people.

There needs to be more communication between the older blacks and younger ones. If this is done, we can work out a solution on how to develop what we got. At the same time, we don't need to talk about it. We need to do something about the situation.

As I See It, with the right communications, we can go a long way in Lubbock. Keep in mind that what is good for the black community is good for Lubbock. Don't let anyone tell you different. East Lubbock, where the majority of blacks live, can become a viable part of Lubbock if we care.

It will mean a little sacrifice on the part of all of us. Sure, there needs to be more businesses, educational opportunities, houses, recreational opportunities and many more areas of development. With concern for each other, this can be done. If you look around east Lubbock, one will see an increase in whites developing businesses in east Lubbock.

Just think about it...It can be done.

JACK ANDERSON'S WEEKLY SPECIAL

NASA Is Ahead Of 'Star Wars' On Some Of Its Energy Ideas

by Jack Anderson with Joe Spear

(Copyright 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON—Americans are in a tizzy over the box office smash movie "Star Wars." What they don't realize is that our own space agency is ahead of "Star Wars" in some of its concepts.

U.S. space scientists have come up with a futuristic scheme, for example, to supply the United States with all the energy it needs from outer space. It's a type of solar energy with a "Star Wars" twist.

The National aeronautics and Space administration would like to launch 20 giant satellites which would transform sunlight into electricity. The scientists claim that 20 satellites, microwaving the energy to earth, would be enough to supply the entire nation.

The solar-electric satellites would resemble enormous venetian blinds. Each would measure several miles long. The frames would have a thin cover, dotted with millions of tiny solar power cells.

The project would take years of research and cost millions of dollars. Space officials, therefore, have turned to Congress for help. They contacted House Democratic leader James Wright of Texas who recently arranged for the space experts to brief White House energy czar James Schlesinger and Budget Director Bert Lance.

To Wright's dismay, the White House rejected the space project—at least for now. White House officials called solar-electric satellites a long-term solution. They want immediate results.

The space experts, nevertheless, are certain the solar satellites will work. So the day may come when our energy will come from outer space instead of underground.

Carter's Comeuppance—Not long ago, Rep. Wright flew home to Texas for a short rest. He was exhausted and wanted a few days of seclusion. So he called his sister, Betty, who owns two small farms on Dead Man's Creek near the town of Wimberly.

She calls one place "Up Yonder," the other "Down Yonder." She agreed to let her prominent brother stay at "Down Yonder." Early one morning, President Carter wanted to talk to Wright, and an aide tracked him to "Up Yonder."

His sister, Betty, took the call. The aide explained that the president wanted to speak with the House Democratic Leader. Betty, a Stern college professor, coolly weighed the request. At last she agreed to give the telephone number for "Down Yonder."

But she instructed the Carter aide that it was only seven in the morning in Texas, and the president must not disturb her brother before nine o'clock, Texas time.

President Carter finally talked to Jim Wright. But the president obediently waited two hours before calling him.

Dwindling Kitty—Former President Richard Nixon raised a reported $60 million for his 1972 presidential campaign. All that's left for the litigants to fight over is $355,000.

There probably won't be anything left over by the time the lawsuits are settled. It looks as if the trustees and attorneys are going to pocket it all.

During the last quarter, for example, the trustees collected more than $16,000 to cover their fees. The lawyers, as usual, did better. They drained off $41,000 for servicing the trust. At that rate, the trustees and lawyers will wind up with $228,000 in another year.

This will leave hardly enough to last them another six months. Meanwhile, the Internal Revenue Service is also demanding a cut.

Under The Dome—The Senate recently had another close vote on the issue of "double-dippers." These are retired military men who collect pension checks and work for the federal government at the same time. The opponents of double-dipping lost, thanks in part to votes of seven senators who are double-dippers themselves. Sens. Howard Cannon, D.-Nev., Robert Dole, R.-Kan., John Glenn, D.-Ohio, Barry Goldwater, R.-Ariz., Daniel Inouye, D.-Hawaii, Robert Stafford, D.-Vt., and Strom Thurmond, R.-S.C., all collect military pensions.

—Congress is once again considering a no-fault auto insurance bill. Under such a system, an accident victim would collect from his own insurance firm. But American trial lawyers are dead set against it—mainly because they make a billion dollars a year handling accident cases. A group of trial lawyers held their convention in Washington last week, and they went all out to lobby the legislators. They hired one young man, for example, whose sole job was to attend social functions and make sure that each congressman had a drink in his hand at all times.

—Sen. Ed Zorinsky, D.-Neb., doesn't fit the politician's mold. When the Republicans refused him a nomination, he ran for the Senate as a Democrat and won. When he got to Capitol Hill, the Senate leadership sent him a bejeweled, American flag lapel-pin to welcome him to their club. Zorinsky swiftly sent it back. "If I want any jewelry," he fumed, "I'll buy it myself."

Remains In Plains—Not everyone in Plains, Ga., wants to work in Washington. The pilot who used to ferry Jimmy Carter around, Tom Peterson, has turned down a top job.

Peterson used to complain to his distinguished passenger about the federal government's handling of general aviation. So after his election, Carter offered to put his former pilot in charge of general aviation.

But Peterson decided that the bureaucracy was too rigid for him to change. So he'll stay in Plains where he still operates a small charter service.

Poverty Status Information Issued

Detailed information about the money income in 1975 of both persons and families and the characteristics of persons and families below the poverty line in 1975 are contained in two reports issued today by the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce.

The two reports contain 1975 income and poverty data in much more detail than the information in a combined advance report on income and persons living in poverty issued by the Bureau in September 1976. At that time, the Bureau reported that there were 25.9 million persons living below the low-income level in 1975 and that median family income was $13,720, an increase of six percent over the revised 1974 median family income ($12,900). However, because prices rose nine percent between 1974 and 1975, the $13,720 median income figure in 1975 represented a decline of three percent (or $360) in real income from the previous year.

The new income report contains 60 tables, many expanded from previous reports, showing information on families and unrelated individuals by total money income, median income, mean income, race, and Spanish origin; on selected characteristics of families with heads working year round full time by median income, mean income, race, and Spanish origin; and on persons 14 years old and over by total money income, median income, and mean income. In addition, the tables contain more detailed income distributions than shown previously.

The new poverty report has 44 tables showing detailed information on the number of persons below the poverty level by age, sex, and Spanish origin; on the educational attainment and work experience of poor persons; on the metropolitan-nonmetropolitan residence of poor persons and families by age, race, and sex; on the marital status and living arrangements of family heads and unrelated individuals; on the employment and work experience of heads of families by sex and race of head; and on "working mothers"—women with children under 18 years old by their own work status, age of children, type of family or subfamily, and race.

Copies of the reports, Money Income in 1975 of Families and Persons in the United States, P-60, No. 105 and Characteristics of the Population Below the Poverty Level: 1975, P-60, No. 106, may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402 or from Commerce District Offices in major cities of the U.S. The prices are $4.60 and $4.05 respectively.

EDA Approves Grant To Help Show Neighborhood Growth

Approval of a $106,399 grant to help expand a national program demonstrating the innovative use of community-owned credit unions to stimulate neighborhood economic growth was announced today by Robert T. Hall, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Economic Development.

The grant from the Commerce Department's Economic Development Administration to conduct the national program will go to the Center for Urban Ethnic Affairs, 1521 16th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C.

The funds will be used to help pay the costs of a staff to plan and conduct the program in one rural area and in inner-city neighborhoods of four cities.

The goal of the program is to demonstrate the effectiveness of community-owned credit unions in financing housing repairs and new construction and in stimulating economic growth.

It will offer management and technical assistance to help the local credit unions expand by encouraging deposits by non-members such as industrial firms, banks and churches.

The program also will provide training to local officers in coordinating investments of credit union funds with plans for neighborhood development of businesses and for attracting job generating industry.

Assistance is now extended by the center to neighborhood credit unions sponsored by Amigos Unidos in San Juan, Texas, and the Guadalupe Organization at Guadalupe, Arizona; and to the Casa Credit Union of Springfield, Massachusetts; the St. Joseph's County Community Credit Union of South Bend, Indiana; and the St. Peter's Credit Union of Hartford, Connecticut.

The Center for Urban Ethnic Affairs will provide $43,790 to complete the $150,189 total cost of the program for one year.

FASHION 1902—The dressmaking and millinery establishment, vintage 1902, is on display through mid-September at The Museum of Texas Tech University. The shop is a successor to the gallery display of a turn-of-the-century lawyer's office. A part of the exhibit shows the modiste, left, dressed in white linen with a punchwork design called "broderie Anglaise." She is wearing a silver chatelaine at the waist to hold her measuring tape, needles, scissors, thimble and other sewing notions. Her "customer" is wearing a white lace ballgown over pale pink taffeta. (Tech Photo)

Rootsearching

As you trace your family, you may find some Louisiana ancestors. If so you will be interested in "A Southern Catholic Heritage; Volume I [1704-1813]" by Charles E. Nolan. Softbound, 188 pps. illustrated, indexed. Copies are available from Dr. Nolan, the Archdiocese of New Orleans, 7887 Walmsley Ave., New Orleans, La. 70125, $15. This is a selected annotated bibliography of local and diocesan archives of the Archbishopric of New Orleans.

It gives a brief description of the baptismal, marriage, and death records held by each parish. These records did not specify race until the 1770's, when separate registers were begun for blacks and whites. Part of the Code Noir (Black Code) required all slaveholders to instruct their slaves in the Catholic faith, which led to the inclusion of slaves as well as "free persons of color."

The listed registers are written in Spanish, French, or English, according to which country controlled the area at the time. A few records continue into the 1840's.

The editors of the Black Abolitionist Papers Editorial Project, funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities and the National Historical Publications and Records Commission, is asking for help in locating correspondence, speeches editorials, and any other primary source materials of black abolitionists from 1830 to 1865. Any assistance in locating documents will be greatly appreciated. Please send your information to the Black Abolitionist Papers, 100 Main Hall, University of Wisconsin, La Crosse, Wisc. 54601.

Mrs. Mardema Ogletree, 4907 18th St., Lubbock 79416 would like to hear from anyone descended from the black soldiers with Capt. Nicholas Nolan's 10th cavalry in the Lubbock area in 1877.

Mrs. Jimmie Little, Rt. 1, Box 320, Prospect, Ky. 40059 is compiling a book on the LITTLE families in America. Members and descendants of any LITTLE family are invited to submit information on their line for inclusion in work. Please state race.

Mr. William E. Glenn, Box 995, Douglas, Ariz. 85607 would like to get in touch with descendants of Fannie GLENN, who is listed as the Slave of W.T. GLENN in the 1860 Llano County, Texas slave schedule. Her age was given as 47. According to a family letter, when W.T. GLENN married Martha BOSTON, her family gave them 2 slaves, a man, and Fannie, who nursed Martha BOSTON as a baby. Fannie then nursed all of Martha's 11 children. She lived to be 104 years old and was loved and remembered by all of the GLENN children. She probably died in Kerrville, Texas, about 1917.

If you can help any of the researchers, please write to them.

Plan to attend the South Plains Genealogical Society Annual Summer Genealogical Research Workshop on Saturday at the Garden and Arts Center, 4215 University Avenue, from 9 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Beginner classes will be taught at 9:30 a.m. and at 1:30 p.m. Both the classes and the workshop are open to the public, free of charge. This is an excellent opportunity for you to get help with your family tree!

Please send your queries to Marleta Childs, 2308 21st St., Lubbock 79411.

KELLY'S HEROES

By Joe Kelly

Like everybody else, I'm a more than a little sick of the continued heat. Suddenly, day after day, it's the same thing, clear, blue skies, temperatures in the 90's, no rain.

So, call me crazy, but last Thursday, Aug. 4, about 10 a.m., there was a touch of fall in the air. KFYO said that the temperature, at that hour, was 80. But at that hour it didn't FEEL 80, the wind was dry, there was a rustle of leaves and it felt like early fall.

Of course, psychologically, the fact that Texas Tech opens football practice a week from tomorrow and that the first game, against Baylor, is only a month, four weeks, from Saturday, might have something to do with it. Maybe.

Suffice it to say, football is on the way. They've already played the first exhibition games, and the high schools, as usual, are even closer to their first games. Thus, all is coming.

It hardly seems possible that a month ago I had an Army field jacket closed tight to my throat to ward off early morning chill, that I assumed the fetal position in the sleeping bag to keep warm and that a fire felt good, as well as utilitarian.

Vacations come and go, even though their memories linger on. Beware, though, the one who lets them linger too long. Life moves forward and he who doesn't keep pace is in trouble.

The coaches of the Southwest Conference have met and avoided boasting about their teams too much, as well as avoiding the trap of picking someone else to win.

The thing that impressed was that all seemed to think that the SWC was going to be the strongest conference in the land and that Tech, Houston and A&M should be favored, chased closely by Texas, Arkansas and Baylor. TCU and SMU thus would be spoilers.

While on vacation, being an avid buyer of newspapers, I learned a number of things. For instance, wooden baseball bats are making a comeback in some areas. A family in Mannsville, N.Y., is making them and they are being used all over the nation.

In Toronto, Can., the Star reported that former Techsan Ecomet Burley had been injured, but not seriously. A baseball story about the Blue Jays remarked that "Jays lineup yesterday wouldn't strike fear into the hearts of many opposing pitchers, especially the final five men in the order."

"Doug Ault (former Tech star), batting xith, was batting .253..."

Toronto is proud of its achievements in many sports and we respect the paper for the support. Still, an exhortation to Billy Martin to remember Ron Fairly in the All Star game might better have been overlooked. Martin used Fairly as a pinch hitter. Fairly struck out.

Another headline proclaimed that even a Canadian could win the Canadian Open. Strike three again. Lee Trevino, a Mexican from the other side of the U.S. border, won it.

Sports in Canada, despite the appearance of easy going and almost indifference, is serious business. The Canadians take sports, especially hockey, seriously.

Thus, it came as no surprise that there were in depth stories on the Blue Jays, the Argonauts, the Canadian Open, including a full course layout, feature stories in a special supplement and complete reports from both sides of the border.

Closer to home the Arkansas Democrat had an in depth interview with Lou Holtz, successor to Frank Broyles, and his opinion on Razorback football.

"I don't think I've ever been around a team that had as many question marks as this one," Holtz is quoted. "But we have a chance to develop and improve."

The greatest areas of concern, the story said, were the offensive line, receivers, quarterbacks, defensive ends and linebackers.

Closer to home, in Lubbock, to be exact, I read with more than passing interest the award from the NCAA to Dr. J. William Davis, certainly a recognition well deserved.

It emphasized a thought I've had for a long time. An active, driving athletic committee at the local chamber of commerce could bring recognition to many local figures, who all too often toil successfully, get recognition elsewhere and are ignored at home.

I read, too, a salute to Ralph Bumpass, something this column had done some time before. By coincidence, there was, in the waiting mail, an article about E.J. Holub that Ralph had mailed. Highlights of that article will make a later column.

There also was the sad news that a good friend, Vivian Parks, had gone to her reward. Vivian long was active in women's golf circles and a leader in West Texas, as well as Lubbock.

The "foreign" press had duly reported that Gary Cunningham had assumed the hot spot as UCLA basketball coach. He should do well, without the same pressure that Gene Bartow had.

Then, a report on the increase on fishing and hunting licenses. As a comparison of interest, New Yorkers pay $6.25 for a license, $11.25 for a combination hunting and fishing license. Non-residents pay $17.25 for a fishing license, or $10.25 for a six-day license, $32.50 for a small game hunting license, $52.50 for big game.

It was created in 1962 under the presidency of SCLC founder, the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. It is presented each year to the individual who has done the most in the struggle to help the suffering poor and the struggle for equal justice.

Ringling The Bell . . .

With Bob Tieuel

From a Black Point of View: Attorney-General Griffin Bell was preceded by a former president of a prestigious Mid-Western university who came to the Justice Department with the reputation of being a great liberal—J. Edgar Hoover. Many black leaders, including the national black-oriented Courier believe that he was a disappointment and a failure at many points, especially in inter-racial matters.

It was against this cloudy background that Griffin Bell came to the Justice Department as its chief officer. His nomination was bitterly assailed by the NAACP and other civil rights organizations. His memberships in two lilly-white country clubs was cited as well as some of his opinions on school intergration.

Yet Bell has surprised both his supporters and detractors. His performance to date is at the highest level of the responsibility vested in him. Especially "in the highly combustible and politically laden school busing issue where he has not hesitated to put the power of his office in line with the requirement of the law," cites the Courier.

Bell has appointed black lawyers to top slots—something that has not happened since the establishment of the Justice Department as an integral function of the federal system. As keen-eyed black columnist Carl T. Rowan observes in the Dallas Morning News: "Bell has proposed and endorsed some far reaching changes in our laws to give the underprivileged something close to equal justice with the privileged." It is a good augury.

Recent Great Quotes: "The black man has had it hard in this country for more than 350 years. The white people who have befriended the Negro by and large have not had the courage to go against the current practice in the environment. Even most of the black man's best friends have not wanted to risk political, economic, and social status." From Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president Atlanta (Ga) Board of Education.

Black Baptist Minister to Run for Lieutenant Governor: The Rev. John Hill Westbrook, pastor of True Vine Baptist Church of Tyler, Texas who is 29, has announced his candidacy saying he refuses to believe only wealthy whites were capable of running the government. Westbrook is a Democrat and said he wanted "to run as a candidate that happens to be black rather than a black candidate."

On Energy: "A library of Congress study concludes that deregulating newly produced natural gas will cost consumers between $6 and $9 billion during the first year and that the cost will rise sharply during the next five years. The American Gas Association, providing one of the cost conservative estimates, computes the cost at $39 billion by 1985, the Library of Congress says at least $77 billion ... Producers will not be satisfied until the prices they get for fuels produced in the United States are equal to those set for imported oil by OPEC. Indeed the question now is not whether oil and gas prices in the United States should be controlled, but by whom—the federal government or the OPEC monopoly... Interstate natural gas prices have risen 760 percent in the last 11 years and domestic oil prices have all but quadrupled since 1973 but domestic oil production has also fallen." U.S. Representative John E. Moss, democrat from California.

On Negro College Fund: Here in Dallas, we have had an opportunity to meet a number of staff members of the United Negro College Fund and they inform us that they will be in West Texas real soon. A series of TV telethons are planned for the Lubbock area, the Midland-Odessa area and other points. Would like to see one launched for Southeastern New Mexico that would take in the Clovis-Roswell-Carlsbad area. There is not a large black population in the latter area and many in the Anglo section are anxious to help the cause of higher education for blacks.

The United Negro College Fund is a group of some forty-one black colleges throughout the nation, who have banded together to raise funds to keep the colleges operating. Last year nearly fifteen million dollars was raised through the combined efforts of people who really believe that "a mind is a terrible thing to waste."

T.J. Patterson, editor of the black edition of The West Texas Times is on the lips of many staff members here in Dallas and he is coordinating the West Texas drive for the fund, it is reported. Also had opportunity to meet Tony Davis, black publisher of the Dallas Weekly, with a circulation of over 50,000. He directs the Dallas area "telethon" of the United Negro College Fund.

Alex Haley, author of "Roots" will serve as national vice-chairman of the United Negro College Fund this year. A. Dean Swift, president of Sears & Roebuck and Company is general chairman. Lewis W. Foy, chairman of Bethlehem Steel, and John R. Opel, president of IBM Corp., are serving with Haley as national vice-chairmen.

A nation-wide A.M.E. Laymen's Convention will be held in Kansas City August 1-7, 1977. Some five thousand delegates and visitors expected and Baptists prepare to invade Miami, Florida in September with Church of God in Christ members preparing for their annual trek to Memphis. More later. Until then, Peace...
