Dedicated to Informing the Citizens of West Texas

Texas Voter Registration Qualifications Outlined

Qualifications for voting in Texas are: you must be a citizen of the United States, be at least 18 years of age on the day of the election, a resident of the county, and must be registered to vote.

Persons not entitled to vote are those convicted of a felony whose full rights of citizenship have not been restored or those found mentally incompetent by a court of law.

To register to vote, complete a post card application for voter registration and mail it postage-free, or present it in person to the registrar of voters in your county (usually the Tax Assessor-Collector). You may register to vote at any time, but your applications must be received by the registrar of voters 30 days before an election in order to vote in that election. You may register to vote if you are at least 17 years and 10 months of age, but you may not vote until you are 18 years of age.

Any person giving false information to secure voter registration for himself or any other person is guilty of a third degree felony.

There is no fee or poll tax for registering to vote.

Soon after the registrar receives your application for voter registration, you will receive your Voter Registration Certificate. Immediately upon receipt of your certificate, you should examine it closely. If it is correct, sign it and carry it in your wallet. If the information is wrong, make the necessary corrections on the space provided and return it to the registrar. He will issue you a revised certificate.

Your Voter Registration Certificate identifies you as a registered voter in your precinct and should be presented at the polling place on the day of the election.

You will receive a current color coded certificate every two years as long as you remain at the address shown on your current certificate. The color for the 1978-1979 Voter Registration Certificate is yellow. If you have not already received your yellow certificate, contact your registrar since your old (blue) certificate expired on March 1, 1978.

If you lose or misplace your certificate, notify the registrar and he will issue you a duplicate certificate. You may still vote without your certificate at the polling place by signing an Affidavit of Lost or Misplaced Certificate.

After you have become a registered voter you may wish to become a Deputy Volunteer Registrar by applying with the County Tax Assessor-Collector.

A qualified voter can vote absentee if he expects to be absent from the county on election day, is sick, physically disabled, or expecting childbirth (doctor's certificate needed), or has religious beliefs which prevent him from going to the polling place on election day. Also, if he is 65 years of age or older on election day (no doctor's

A person can vote absentee by personal appearance at the Absentee Voting Clerk's office or at any duly designated branch office during designated office hours; or by mail.

If a voter becomes sick or disabled five days before election day he may request in writing that the Absentee Clerk send him

Tower Calls For Moratorium On Minimum Wage Increase

WASHINGTON—Calling the new minimum wage rates enacted in 1977 "a tool of inflation", Senator John Tower (R-Tex) today introduced legislation to provide for a one-year moratorium on the next increases scheduled to take effect January 1, 1979, as well as a one-year postponement of the changes scheduled to take effect in the tip credit provisions of the law.

"During Senate debate on the Fair Labor Standards Act, a number of us warned against raising the minimum wage, citing the bill's potential for increasing inflation and boosting unemployment. Unfortunately, our efforts did not prevail; and even more unfortunately, we find ourselves, less than one year into the scheduled rate increases, with the dubious honor of being able to say, 'I told you so.'" Tower said.

Under the new schedule, the minimum wage rate increased from $2.30 to $2.65 at the beginning of this year, and is set to go to $2.90 in 1979.

Tower said the facts clearly show the magnitude of the problem. "We are in a double digit inflation position. The unemployment rate for youth, who are most immediately affected by changes in the minimum wage, is 16.3%. And for young blacks, the jobless rate is a staggering 37%. The decline in the dollar in international money markets has become a problem of major concern, and the threat this poses to financial markets and our economic well-being in general is creating an uneasy feeling among financial experts."

Tower declared that, in addition to the statistics, men and women of all philosophical persuasions who are economic experts, have also advocated a slow down in the scheduled hikes in order to give the economy a chance to revive.

"William Miller, Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, said he 'personally would welcome' a two year deferral of the minimum wage increase." Tower noted, "Others have also echoed this opinion. Arthur Okun, senior economist at the Brookings Institution said, 'The country would be better off if we postponed both the minimum wage and the Social Security hikes.'"

"I believe that Congress must take the initiative here and acknowledge the well-recognized fact that the size and the timing of last year's minimum wage increases, while undoubtedly a political plus among many

House Speaker 'Tip' O'Neill:
D.C.'s 2nd Most Powerful Man

Copyright, 1978, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON—House Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill has emerged as the second most powerful man in Washington. The big, rumped Irishman has the respect of his colleagues.

His natural environment is a smoke-filled back room. He enthusiastically contributes to the pollution by blowing out great billows of cigar smoke. His massive bulk always dominates the room, with his white mane the most visible landmark through the smog.

The bear-hugging, back-slapping O'Neill has three basic beliefs—the Catholic faith, the Democratic Party and his divine right to make political deals.

He chewed out President Carter for failing to consult him before appointing Elliot Richardson as a maritime negotiator. It seems that Richardson was a political rival of O'Neill's back in Boston.

O'Neill then shoved down the president's throat a Massachusetts crony named Robert Griffin. Carter kept Griffin on as deputy to General Services Administrator Jack Eckerd. This helped to precipitate Eckerd's resignation.

Then the new administrator, Jay Solomon, threatened to quit over Griffin. Both administrators complained that Griffin was obstructing their efforts to clean up the agency.

This time Carter got rid of Griffin. But the enraged O'Neill raised such a howl that the president hastily appointed Griffin to a new job as a White House trade specialist.

Now O'Neill is pushing another Boston buddy, John McGarry, for Federal Election Commissioner. The job pays $50,000 a year. More importantly, it would give him jurisdiction over congressional campaign financing.

In other words, the Speaker is behind the appointment of the man who will police his fund-raising activities. In the past, O'Neill has raised hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Apparently, he didn't need the money for his own campaign. He seldom has serious opposition. Instead, he spreads the boodle around to key Democrats, whose support he needs in the House.

The vouchers also show that O'Neill spent thousands of dollars on car repairs, expensive meals, parties, gifts and unitemized air fares. At one party paid for out of his campaign chest, O'Neill gave away 50 silver champagne buckets as party favors.

A spokesman for O'Neill has denied any impropriety. But the Speaker's choice for Federal Elections Commissioner came under fire over his finances.

The General Accounting Office's tax expert, Reka Hoff, completed a secret report on McGarry's income tax returns. The report raised questions on the propriety and legality of McGarry's tax deductions.

The Senate Rules Committee notified the White House of the alleged improprieties. This could lead to another confrontation between President Carter and the great grizzly bear of the House.

Political Prisoners: United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young recently stirred up a controversy by claiming there are hundreds of political prisoners in U.S. jails. Now Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., has called on House Judiciary Committee Chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J., to hold hearings on human rights violations in the United States.

"The purpose of such an investigation," wrote Conyers in his private letter, "would be to define what constitutes human rights violations and interference with the criminal justice system."

We have studied the case, for example, of Ben Chavis, the leader of the Wilmington Ten. He was sent to jail for arson. But the case against him was flimsy. We are convinced it was really his civil rights activism that landed him in jail.

Conyers has now compiled a list of about 90 prisoners in this country who he claims are the victims of political oppression. The National Conference of Black Lawyers, meeting in New Orleans, also decided to compile a list. And the respected Amnesty International has put together its own list.

Perhaps the House Judiciary Committee will now begin looking into these cases.

Watch on Waste: One of Washington's most effective watchdogs on waste, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., has furnished us with a few of his findings.

The Air Force spent $18,799 of the taxpayers' money, for example, to replace 1,400 tons of sand in the sand traps at the Lackland Air Force Base golf course in Texas. The Air Force explained that the new sand was needed to rebuild sand traps that had been eroded by rainwater.

The National Transportation Safety Board spent $5,000 to replace its official seal. Officials explained that the old designs had an outdated Bicentennial look.

The National Institute on Mental Health commissioned a "Smorgasbord and Obesity" study. Seventeen hundred people were observed gorging themselves at four different ethnic smorgasbords. The researchers concluded that far more food is eaten at restaurants featuring smorgasbord than traditional menu service. It cost the taxpayers $3,000 to learn this.

confirmation of Yantis after Austin Sen. Lloyd Doggett invoked the traditional "Senatorial courtesy" to block the appointment.

Frank Sheffield, head of the Natural Resources Council since it was created last December, was transferred to a natural resources post in the Governor's Office of Budget and Planning. Sheffield was paid $30,000 while sitting in the chair now occupied by Yantis.

After only one day on his new job, Sheffield resigned saying that he was "deeply disappointed in the decision to replace me as director of the Natural Resources Council."

Yantis' appointment is not subject to Senate confirmation since 1977 legislation creating the Council states the executive director will serve at the pleasure of the governor. Most observers agree Yantis does not expect to continue in the job after Briscoe leaves office in January.

AG Opinions

A district judge who is eligible for retirement may be assigned as a special judge even though he may have been defeated for reelection. Attorney General John Hill said.

In other opinions, Hill concluded:

—A complaint to a city concerning a subcontractor's administration of a CETA-funded project is subject to disclosure under the Open Records Act.

—The Texas Pawnshop Act is not applicable to state banks which under normal banking practices take possession of tangible personal property as collateral for loans.

—Taxicab financial and usage reports submitted to a city are subject to disclosure under the Open Records Act.

Howard Jarvis, father of California's Proposition 13, called Texas legislators "cowardly" during a speech in Fort Worth. During his Texas stop, Jarvis took on AFL-CIO President Harry Hubbard in a radio debate which became heated at times.

Hubbard's frequent calls for a "more considered approach" to tax matters are causing observers to wonder whether organized labor will oppose the tax relief amendment this fall.

Mondale Visit

Vice President Walter Mondale made a series of stops in Texas last weekend designed to boost the candidacy of senatorial hopeful Rep. Bob Krueger. One of Mondale's stops included Austin where he attended a reception honoring State Democratic Party Chairman Calvin Guest.

Short Snorts

Attorney General John Hill has called on Department of Energy officials for a full public airing of plans to store nuclear wastes in the Panhandle.

Mrs. Harry Hornby Jr., Uvalde newspaper publisher, has been named to replace her late husband on the State University System Board of Regents.

During June, the average Texas production worker in manufacturing earned $5.84 an hour for a 41.5 hour week.

Adult Evening Class Registration Underway

Registration for the fall quarter of Lubbock Evening High School, an education program for adults only, is being conducted this month for classes that start August 30.

The program, sponsored by the Lubbock Independent School District, is open to men and women, 17 or older, who have been out of school for at least one semester.

Registration is being held at the Adult Education Office, 2013 13th Street. The office is open from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m., Monday through Thursday of each week.

After August 30 students may enroll at the Evening High School office, on the second floor of Lubbock High School, Monday through Thursday, 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. The last day of registration is September 10.

Graduates receive a regular high school diploma, according to Harvy Owen, adult education coordinator.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Sen. Walter Mengden, Houston Republican, announced he will strongly oppose any attempt in the Texas Legislature to ratify the proposed amendment to the U.S. Constitution to give Washington, D.C., two U.S. senators.

"I am shocked and appalled that two-thirds of the members of the U.S. Congress would vote for something so incredibly stupid," he said.

"To give the city of Washington, D.C., two voting U.S. senators—the exact same representation the entire state of Texas has in the Senate—is utter insanity," the out-spoken senator said. "Washington, D.C., is not a state, it is a city. If it needs representation in the U.S. Senate, then the people should be allowed to vote for the U.S. senators from Virginia, but not have two all their own," Mengden said.

Clayton Eyes Tenure

House Speaker Bill Clayton's staff is reportedly working on a proposal to abolish tenure for all new faculty members at public colleges and universities in the state.

The tenure system would be replaced with 10-year renewable contracts, subject to review by administrators and faculty members.

A Clayton aide said this does not mean the speaker is committed to pushing the legislation during the next legislative session which begins in January. "The speaker's staff works on proposals of interest to him and House members often pick them up and sponsor them."

Former Gov. Allan Shivers, chairman of the UT System Board of Regents, said he doesn't expect UT to take a position until the proposal is discussed at length.

Yantis' New Job

Hugh C. Yantis Jr., former State Insurance Board chairman, is the new executive director of the Natural Resources Council. Gov. Briscoe appointed Yantis, 64, to the $38,592-a-year post after the Senate, during the special session, voted 29-1 against Yantis' appointment to the Insurance Board post. Only Bryan Sen. Bill Moore voted for the

Energy Hotline
By Jeanette Hodges
Lubbock County Home Energy Agent

Carpets and rugs energy-conserving? This question has been asked frequently so I thought I would share the answer here for others who may have the same question. In a recent study, 18 different carpets were selected from fibers and styles currently on sale in the marketplace. They included: acrylic, nylon, polyester, polypropylene, and wool; and level loop, cut pile plush, high-low loop (tip sheared), shag, and saxony. Five different carpet underlayments (padding) were also tested.

Each of the 18 samples were first tested to determine its resistance to the passage of heat. These tests showed a direct relation between its total thickness and pile construction of carpet that provides its insulation potential. Air spaces or pockets between the fibers hold the warm air in and keep it from escaping.

Carpet underlayment also provides insulation value according to its thickness and, as in carpet, the larger the number of air spaces or pockets between the fibers, rubber, or plastic, the better the insulation benefits.

Samples of carpet and underlayment combinations were selected with different insulation values for tests in 20 different sized and shaped houses. The study found that a carpet with a greater insulation value can produce energy savings twice that of another carpet with a lower insulation value. The insulation values for a carpet and underlayment will add together and the combination will give even greater savings.

In the summer months, carpet can be used to keep a house cooler by keeping the warmer air outside, especially for a house with an open foundation or crawl space. The insulation by the carpet can cut down on air conditioning costs the same way insulation can cut down on heating bills in the winter. The use of carpet to reduce cooling costs was studied in nine cities, with the savings in air conditioning electricity bills ranging from $3.00 a year in Duluth, Minnesota, to $54.00 a year in Fort Worth, Texas.

The answer to the question of whether carpet in the home can save on the annual heating cost is YES. These tests showed savings up to 13% in annual home heating bills can be achieved by the use of carpet. The actual savings will depend upon the location, shape, and size of the home, local fuel rates, seasonal degree days and type of carpet and underlayment selected.

KELLY'S HEROES

by Joe Kelly

When J.T. King cleans out his desk tomorrow, if he hasn't already, he can look back on a Texas Tech career that has seen the Raiders come from nothing to the top ranks in the nation.

Jake took over a football program that had threatened to be great, but which had fallen badly. After the Gator Bowl team of 1953, the Raiders had stumbled, tripped and fallen. In all honesty, DeWitt Weaver had left a legacy of talent that was far short of Southwest Conference standards.

The most pressing challenge was to build a program that could compete. It wasn't easy. That meant strong recruiting and, with an austere budget, it wasn't easy.

But Jake did it. He built a strong staff and then he hit the trail. It was slow work, but eventually it paid off. His first year it was 4-6. Then he hit bottom with a 1-9 record. That was to be the last time Tech fell that low.

In 1963 Tech was 5-5 and on the way. The following year the Raiders were 6-3-1 and went to the Sun Bowl. The next year it was 8-2 and a return to the Gator Bowl.

What could well have been the signal that Tech had arrived came in 1964, when the Raiders and Rice tied, in Houston. The Owls always had been a nemesis. Since that tie, Tech has been 10-2 against the Owls and has gone on to greatness.

How did it come about that Jake got the opportunity to guide the Raiders. First, of course, the much-traveled coach was picked as an assistant. Then he went after the head job.

Weaver was in trouble, which is and was no secret. He stayed on long enough to guide Tech through its first SWC season, but then the change was made. As pointed out last week, it wasn't the most popular move. Many wanted a "big name" coach, but sound as gold Jake was given the nod.

If I had to pick the one event that earned Jake the job, it would have to be the weekend Tech played Arizona in Tucson. The Raiders were quartered at a dude ranch outside of town.

After dinner, Weaver and the other coaches went to town. Jake stayed at the ranch, along with Dr. J. William Davis and one or two other athletic council members. We were sitting around talking in general terms when Jake suggested I run down the road and get some refreshments, along with cheese and crackers.

When I returned, the talk was on football and Dr. Davis, I believe it was, asked Jake what it took to win in the SWC. That opened the floodgates.

Jake carefully, calmly and quietly outlined exactly what it took to win. He outlined his philosophy of coaching. He went over Tech's situation, its status, what needed to be done. It was a masterful explanation by a man who knew what he was talking about.

When the evening broke up, I went to bed convinced that I had seen a superb job of selling. Jake simply told the truth, laid it on the line. If it just happened that he fit the description of what was needed, someone with experience in the SWC and knowledge of what it took to win, so what.

Therefore, it came as no surprise when Jake was offered the job and took it. It may not have been popular at the time, but hindsight was to show that it was a wise move.

The stadium had been enlarged as part of Tech's agreement before it could gain SWC membership, but there was much more to be done. Top priority, of course, was to build the football program to conference standards.

This was done and the Raiders became an asset to the league, which long had withstood its bid. Indeed, Texas made more money playing Tech in Lubbock than it did from any other game.

With Polk Robison as athletic director, the program went smoothly ahead. Polk and Jake made a strong team, working together and building up the formerly sagging fortunes.

With football on the upswing, it was time to modernize the athletic plant, not only because it was needed, but also to aid recruiting efforts. And so, little by little, construction was heard and seen more regularly.

Additional seats were added to the stadium. Astro-turf replaced Tex Turf 10. A new athletic dining hall, with offices for coaches to reduce the strain on the present athletic offices, was built. Now, a new scoreboard has been erected and a Lettermen's lounge is under construction.

The pressbox has been improved and upgraded. There is a good track facility that was lacking. The baseball field has been improved. Everywhere you look you see signs that Tech has reached major college standards in facilities.

Now Jake passes the torch on to a new regime. He can look back on his tenure with pride and satisfaction. He has fought the good fight and come out the winner.

Years from now Tech supporters will look back at the King Era and they may well call it the golden age of Tech athletics. To paraphrase the old expression, Tech crawled until J.T. King came along and then it learned to walk—to walk tall, I might truthfully add.

Good luck, Jake. I hope retirement is as good to you as you have been to me, Tech and thousands of others. You may be retired, but you never will be forgotten.

Bell Goes To Electronic Switching In Lubbock's Telephone System

Lubbock's telephone system will become one of the first fully computerized systems in the world with the final phase of Southwestern Bell's conversion to electronic switching and Zero-Plus Dialing here in late September, according to Division Manager Bob Dunbar. The combination local-long distance conversion is one of the largest undertaken by the telephone company, Dunbar said.

"With this conversion, Lubbock will be served entirely by electronic switching and all customers can dial all calls direct. Plus, all customers can have optional custom calling services and Touch-Tone service."

Converting to electronic switching are the company's PORTER-SHERWOOD offices, which serve telephone numbers beginning with 76 and 744 or 747. All numbers beginning with 79, 745, 742, or 743 are already served by ESS and Zero-Plus.

"In addition, all long distance calls placed from Lubbock will be switched through the new ESS machine, which is located in our new downtown building at 1420 Broadway. Lubbock customers will notice a difference in the speed with which their local and long distance calls are completed."

"Speed is one of the features of Electronic Switching. Increased reliability and faster trouble diagnosis and repair are two other important features of our ESS equipment. This particular ESS equipment has an improved 'brain' called a 1A central processor. This is one of the first in our company

Minimum Wage . . .

sectors, was a serious economic mistake, and the brunt of his misguided policy will fall hardest on those very individuals whose earning are most closely associated with the minimum wage level," the Senior Texas senator stated.

Citing the increased number of government-sponsored jobs to be provided in the Comprehensive Education and Training Act before the Senate, along with the unemployment caused by the minimum wage increases, Tower said, "Now here we are, passing one law which has already cost nearly $2.4 billion in terms of lost jobs just this year, and now we are about to pass another law costing over $8 billion in 1979, to create new jobs. On the one hand, Congress is throwing thousands of people out of work only to turn right around and cite the resulting unemployment statistics as a basis for more government make-work jobs. Once again, the taxpayers are being taken for a ride."

and means that our equipment will have a greater call-handling and storage capacity."

Simultaneous with the ESS conversion, Southwestern Bell is making Zero-Plus Dialing available to the rest of the city.

"Zero-Plus is a faster, more accurate way of making an operator-assisted long distance call. One-Plus is still the cheapest and fastest way to call long distance when you can use the service. But Zero-Plus is faster when you make a collect, person-to-person, credit card call or call billed to a third number or from a pay phone.

"To make a Zero-Plus call, you must dial zero, plus the area code (unless it is 806) and the distant telephone number," Dunbar said.

"From a customer's standpoint, the new Custom Calling features are the most unique thing about ESS. We have been able to offer these features to our 79 telephone number customers since December. Soon we can offer them to the rest of the city."

Dunbar described the features:

- "Call Waiting gives you control over the 'busy number' problem. If you're talking on the phone, and someone else calls you, a gentle tone tells you another call is waiting. You may then put the first person 'on hold' by depressing the switch-hook and answer the second call. You may even talk alternately to both parties, keeping one on hold while you talk to the other. The decision to answer the second caller is yours. If you choose not to answer, the second caller hears continued ringing as if no one were there to answer."
- "Three-Way Calling allows you to set up a conference call with two other parties. You can add another party to a conversation already in progress or call two different parties at the start."

- "Call Forwarding allows your calls to follow you. If you're expecting a call but must leave home, just dial a code plus the number of a phone where you are going. If someone dials your number, the call will automatically transfer to the number you provided. Also good for vacationers who wish to have their calls transferred to a neighbor or relative while they're gone. When you return home, dial a short code to restore calls to your phone."
- "Speed calling allows you to call frequently dialed numbers with only a few digits. It's faster and easier—especially for youngsters who have trouble remembering telephone numbers."

"We've spent more than $50 million to upgrade service in Lubbock during the past two years and I think it has worked to the benefit of our customers here. To be sure, we still have a big job ahead just handling growth, but I think we are getting our operations to the point where we can have better control over that growth. Our Lubbock customers will be the beneficiaries," Dunbar added.

Rep. Krueger Praises Mahon

U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger, August 10, praised retiring council appropriations chairman George Mahon for "successfully leading the House of Representatives in passage of a record defense bill to guarantee the military preparedness of the nation."

"The 14th and final year of George Mahon's chairmanship has finished efforts to implement damaging across the boards defense cuts," Krueger said. Krueger was referring to proposals offered to cut defense expenditures including an amendment to cut $2.2 billion, a proposal to cut 1 per cent of the total defense budget, and another which would have cut $643.2 million. These amendments were defeated.

"I have consistently supported efforts to reduce the federal deficit through decreased government spending," Krueger said. "However, the proposed defense cuts would have crippled our nation's defense capabilities. Defense cutbacks at this time would have cost us more in the long run than the temporary benefits which the cuts would have provided."

In May, Krueger offered an amendment to the first concurrent budget resolution which would have decreased the federal deficit by cutting 2 per cent from each budget function, except in the areas of defense, veterans programs, and agriculture.

"Rep. Mahon and the majority of house members have also recognized the importance of preserving military preparedness, and I applaud the chairman's work in guiding the course of 1978 defense expenditures," Krueger said.

During consideration of the DOD appropriation bill, Krueger also voted in favor of preserving funds for the Nimitz class Nuclear Aircraft Carrier. Funding for the carrier, approved by the House, will help to bolster the U.S. Navy at a time of increasing Soviet Naval strength.

Earn College Credits By Televised Courses

South Plains television viewers may earn college credit this fall by enrolling in one or more televised courses offered by Texas Tech University.

The five courses are General Psychology (Psy 130-14), History of the U.S. to 1877 (History 231-43), World Religions (Relg 339-3), Introduction to Theater and Cinema II (Th A 234-2) and Contemporary Social Issues (Soc 4308-3). Each leads to three hours of academic credit.

All the courses except Contemporary Social Issues will be broadcast by KTXT-TV, Channel 5. The Contemporary Social Issues course is based on the mini-series "Roots," which will be broadcast by KMCC-TV, Channel 28.

Course procedures vary for resident Texas Tech students and out-of-town or extension students, as well as for full- and part-time Texas Tech students.

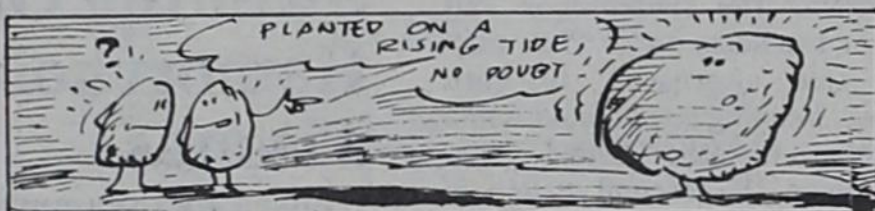

All courses will feature "hotline" service during specified hours, when students may telephone the course instructor for information or assistance.

Resident students will register for the courses during regular registration. Part-time students who take no more than two courses from Texas Tech will register in the same way as extension students. Extension students will register in Building X-15 across from Lubbock Municipal Auditorium from 8 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Registration will continue through the first class meeting of each course. Students may also register during orientation meetings.

Registration information, tuition rates and course procedures are available at the Division of Continuing Education, (806) 742-2354 weekdays, 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

Sheridan's Ride

by Jack Sheridan

With the end of August upon us, the traditional "taking the wraps off" the proposed entries for Lubbock's entertainment season for the fall and spring is now in order. And, there is a host of good things on tap on the municipal level, not meagrely aided and abetted by the "city within the city," Texas Tech University.

We've already had a visit from "The Stars of the Texas Ballet" just during this past week at the Civic Centre, a performance that passed this reviewer by, since the Lubbock Cultural Affairs Council, headed by Jim Toland, sponsors of the event, failed to include the West Texas Times on its official press list. Well, so be it. The Texas Ballet is a newly-formed state organization and this was its maiden brief tour debut. There is always room for one more, heaven knows, and so we do regret missing the neophyte company and its panel of visiting guest stars. It's to be hoped the Texas Ballet thrives and takes an important place among the cultural assets of the Southwest, Texas in particular.

Texas Tech Music Center, coupling once again with Civic Lubbock, Inc. under the magical touch of director John Gillas, has announced the production for the Civic Centre Theatre Oct. 27-28 of yet another beloved and favorite operas. This one will be Puccini's delightful and poignant "La Boheme," that story of the ravenous and devil-may-care tragedy set among the garrets of Paris. The opera, as is the custom for John Gillas productions, will, of course, be sung in English.

The Texas Tech University Theatre will unveil its slate for the coming year with "Romeo and Juliet" and will follow with "Vanities" and "The Equestrian Assassination of Billy the Kid," an original, experimental script by Tech doctoral candidate Steven Peters. Anent the title of this one, I should think the "Equestrian" angle would be enough to induce some degree of chills on campus, since the cancellation of the proposed "Equus," in a skirmish as ridiculous and unnecessary as anything that could have taken place in an alleged institution of higher learning such as the stature Texas Tech hopes to achieve one of these days.

The little Lab Theatre dashes into the lesbian scene with the forthcoming production of "The Killing of Sister George" and that will be trailed by Oliver Hailey's "Who's Happy Now?"

The Tech University Artists Series has a stellar lineup for campus family and the general public, highlighted by the one-man show study, "Divisions and Delights," excerpting the works of Oscar Wilde in the person of Vincent Price as Wilde. This one is unwrapped in the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium one time only, at 8:15 p.m. Sept. 27. Price has not been in Lubbock since he came on the scene as art advisor for Sears and, at the same time, touting his gourmet cook book.

Other highlights of the Artists Series include Jimmy Driftwood and the Ozark Folk Festival, the Houston Ballet doing "The Sleeping Beauty," Dudley Riggs Brave New Workshop, Keith Berger (a return visit for him) the Canadian Brass and the John Biggs Consort (also a returnee entry).

Continuing is, of course, "Fiddler on the Roof" at the refurbished and re-named Hayloft Dinner Theatre, now known as the Country Squire Dinner Theatre. We're not on THAT list either, apparently, but no matter!

Upcoming the interesting and sure-to-be-successful "Man of La Mancha" musical set for a September bow at the Lubbock Theatre Centre.

Along about October there'll be the kick-off dates for the Lubbock Symphony Orchestra and the Lubbock Community Concerts slate, both pinpointed for the Civic Centre Theatre.

And, across town, also in October, will see the opening of still two more small theatres for movies, which will turn Showplace 4 into Showplace 6, under the guiding hand of a newcomer Steve Richardson, who succeeded to the managerial post at the 66th and University complex taking over for Ron Reid, who decamped our city for his home area of Montana during this past month.

"Foul Play," the Goldie Hawn-Chevy Chase comedy a la swiped ideas from Alfred Hitchcock, continues merrily at the Fox 4-complex. Set in San Francisco (yes, Virginia, there IS yet another hilly car chase), the picture is the best of Hawn yet, who has, despite a supporting actress Oscar for "The Cactus Flower," never really socked her career in with any kind of impact. She improved a lot in this one and she makes the most of it. Poor Chase, the NBC Saturday show refugee, doesn't get too much opportunity to display his stuff but what he does is personable and amusing.

I must tell you this purely personal happening. I have an efficiency apartment, you know, one room tiny kitchen and bath. In this apartment complex we pay our own utilities, so that means I fork over for the electricity, garbage and water to Lubbock Power and Light and Water, along with my telephone bill. During the recent lengthy heat waves my air conditioner has been inoperative. It was only fixed a week or so ago. I don't run it much (affects my sinuses) so aside from my baths and the electric stove, used for breakfast and the warming of pot pies and TV dinners mainly, I live meagerly. My neighbors run their air conditioners all day and night and are cooks of high order, roasts, baking and what have you.

All of that leads up to all of this. And, mark this well. My meter is read (sic) on the 2nd day of each month, the billing following around the 15th or so. On June 2, the bill was $29.13. On July 2, the billing was $31.52 and on Aug. 2, believe this or not, that billing is $68.86!!! That, dear readers, represents a jump of more than 100 percent. Yet, my life style has not varied a whit over that three month period!!

Of course, I hid myself in bewilderment and outrage to LP&L offices where I laid my pitiful case in front of trouble-shooter Jack Diamond. He was nice enough, he even sent a reader out to peer at the meter again—if it was actually done in the first place. Well, Jack Diamond was affable but then, he could afford to be—he and his outfit will reap that $68.86 in the next week!

Oh, yes. Those neighboring apartments of mine who live it up—they are bedroom apartments, much larger than mine—one bill is $28 for the month, the other $48, which means that my tab triples one and $20 plus more than the other!

And meeting this current bill means that I have to work at my drill press for seven full work days to just pay up.

Something was and is mighty sorry down at the city's utility office but, what can a man do. I can't run a store by matchsticks and operate my television set with a candle!

I'm, to put it mildly, sore as the devil and still uncomprehending. Maybe somebody else can come up with a reasonable explanation. I wish they would.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. Tariff Increase Now Effective

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's tariff, filed in compliance with the Public Utility Commission's final order issued on August 2nd granting SWB a $124.5 million increase, has become effective. (SWB had requested $214.3 million.)

The tariff was filed with the Commission staff August 4th and approved on August 14th.

This latest increase will NOT affect basic residential and basic business service rates. (Some optional business services may increase slightly.) There will also be NO increases in long distance rates, directory assistance charges, pay telephone or WATS service.

The increase will however affect customers' moves, connections and/or changes in service.

A new alternative rate system, referred to as Residential Measured Rate Service, will be offered in portions of 15 exchanges on an OPTIONAL basis and will be available within six months.

It will be priced between 60 and 70 percent of single party flat rate in each exchange, with 25 free calls and a charge of eight cents per call for each call over the minimum.

The new residential service will be made available in portions of the following exchanges: Austin Metro Exchange, Amarillo, Beaumont, Corpus Christi, Dallas Metro, Fort Worth Metro, Galveston, Harlingen, Houston Metro, Lubbock, Midland, San Antonio, San Benito, Tyler and Wichita Falls.

The new rates became effective August 14, 1978, with the exception of the residential measured rate service which will be implemented within six months, and any changes in billing will be reflected in customers' bills dated August 15th and mailed August 22, 1978.

BARBECUE—TEXAS STYLE

Even if you've never been to Texas, the idea of a Texas barbecue is so delicious to contemplate that you can almost smell the biscuits baking and the spicy barbecued beef simmering.

TEXAS STYLE BARBECUED BEEF

- 5 pounds (about) brisket of beef
- 1-3/4 cups (18 oz. bottle) all-purpose barbecue sauce, any flavor
- 2 medium onions, thinly sliced
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- 1 teaspoon chili powder

Place meat in shallow pan. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over meat. Cover and bake at 325° for about 4 hours, or until tender, basting occasionally. Remove cover and bake 30 minutes longer, basting occasionally to glaze meat. Skim off excess fat from drippings; thicken, if desired, and serve as a sauce. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

REPORT TO CONSUMERS

You may end up paying less for some of the things you buy if you pay attention to these suggestions.

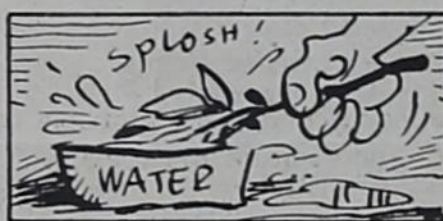

When buying an appliance, look for smooth edges and corners, a UL approval symbol, and accessible, easy-to-read controls.

To save on fuel bills, cover your exposed water heater tank with insulation, paint it with a glossy paint or wrap it with aluminum foil. Despite all America's efforts at conservation, we're going to need a lot more energy in the future.

One way we can get it when we need it, say the experts at the Electric Power Research Institute, is through energy storage. Electric utilities are considering storing energy in the form of steam or compressed air. That way, electricity is generated when demand (therefore price) is low and used when demand is high. The stored energy, generally supplied from coal and nuclear generating plants, is used to displace energy normally supplied from oil-fired combustion turbines.

Read labels to find less costly substitutes for more expensive food. You may be surprised how much protein you can provide your family from a jar of peanut butter.

The ancient Greeks tried to make rain by dipping oak branches in water.

When people lose confidence in the leaders of the nation, the country is threatened with revolution.
