Reese AFB To Hold Open House

Reese Air Force Base (12 miles west of Lubbock, Texas) will host a public open house on Saturday, September 16, 1978 between 10:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.

The event will honor the 31st anniversary of the establishment of the United States Air Force as a separate service on September 18, 1947.

The Thunderbirds, the official U.S. Air Force aerial demonstration team will be the day's featured attraction. Their show will begin on the flight line at 3:00 p.m. sharp and will last until 4:00 p.m.

The Thunderbirds will be flying the same type of T-38 Talon jets that are flown by the student pilots at Reese in the later stages of their year long training program.

To date, a number of aircraft that are flown from Air Force bases throughout the United States are scheduled to be on static display for public inspection along the flight line. They will be joined by a number of the Confederate Air Force's historic aircraft and by craft flown by members of the Experimental Aircraft Association. Reese's own T-37 and T-38 jet trainers will be included in the static display.

A number of exhibits depicting the activities of all the military services will be on display either on the flight line or in the hangars. Other training areas such as the new Instrument Flight Simulator will also be open. Guided tours will be available at the Simulator.

If transportation arrangements can be arranged in time, a U.S. Navy Parachute Demonstration Team will perform at 12:30 p.m.

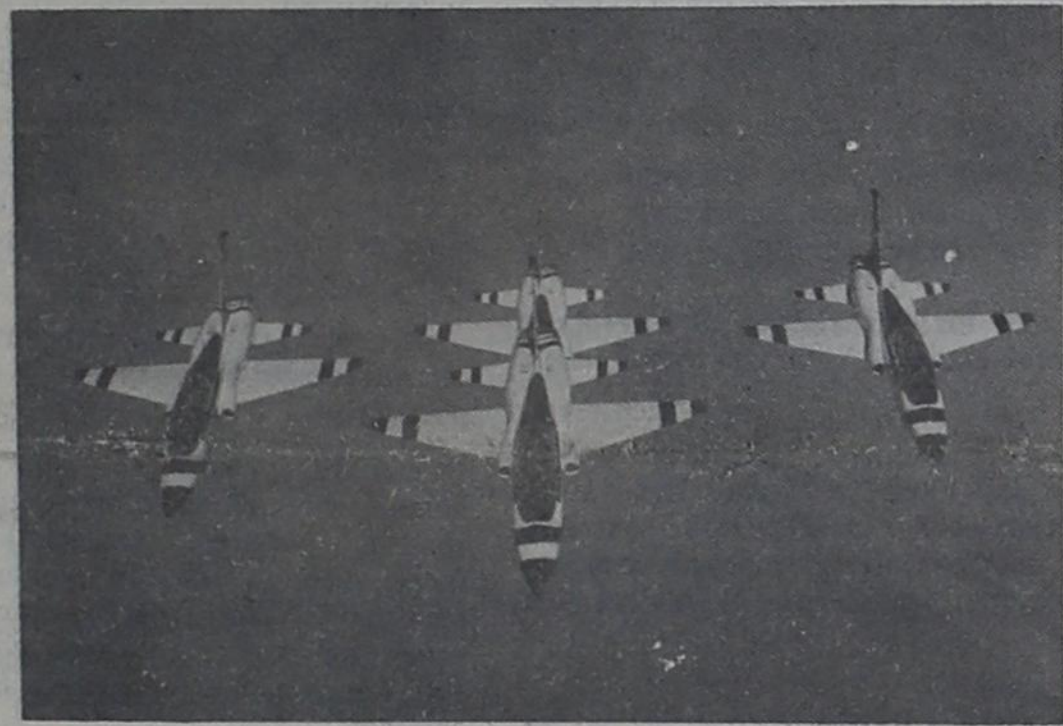

The Lubbock SPARKS, a radio controlled model airplane club will demonstrate their aerobatic flying skills at 2:00 p.m.

Music for the event will be provided by the bands from South Plains College in Levelland and Frenship High School in Wolf-forth.

Among the aircraft scheduled for display are the A-4 Skyraider, F-105 Thunderchief, F-106 Delta Dart, F-4 Phantom, KC-135 Stratotanker, and CH-47 helicopter. The Confederate Air Force will have historic models such as the BT-13, BT-22, F-24, P-40, P-51, SNJ and a Japanese Zero on display.

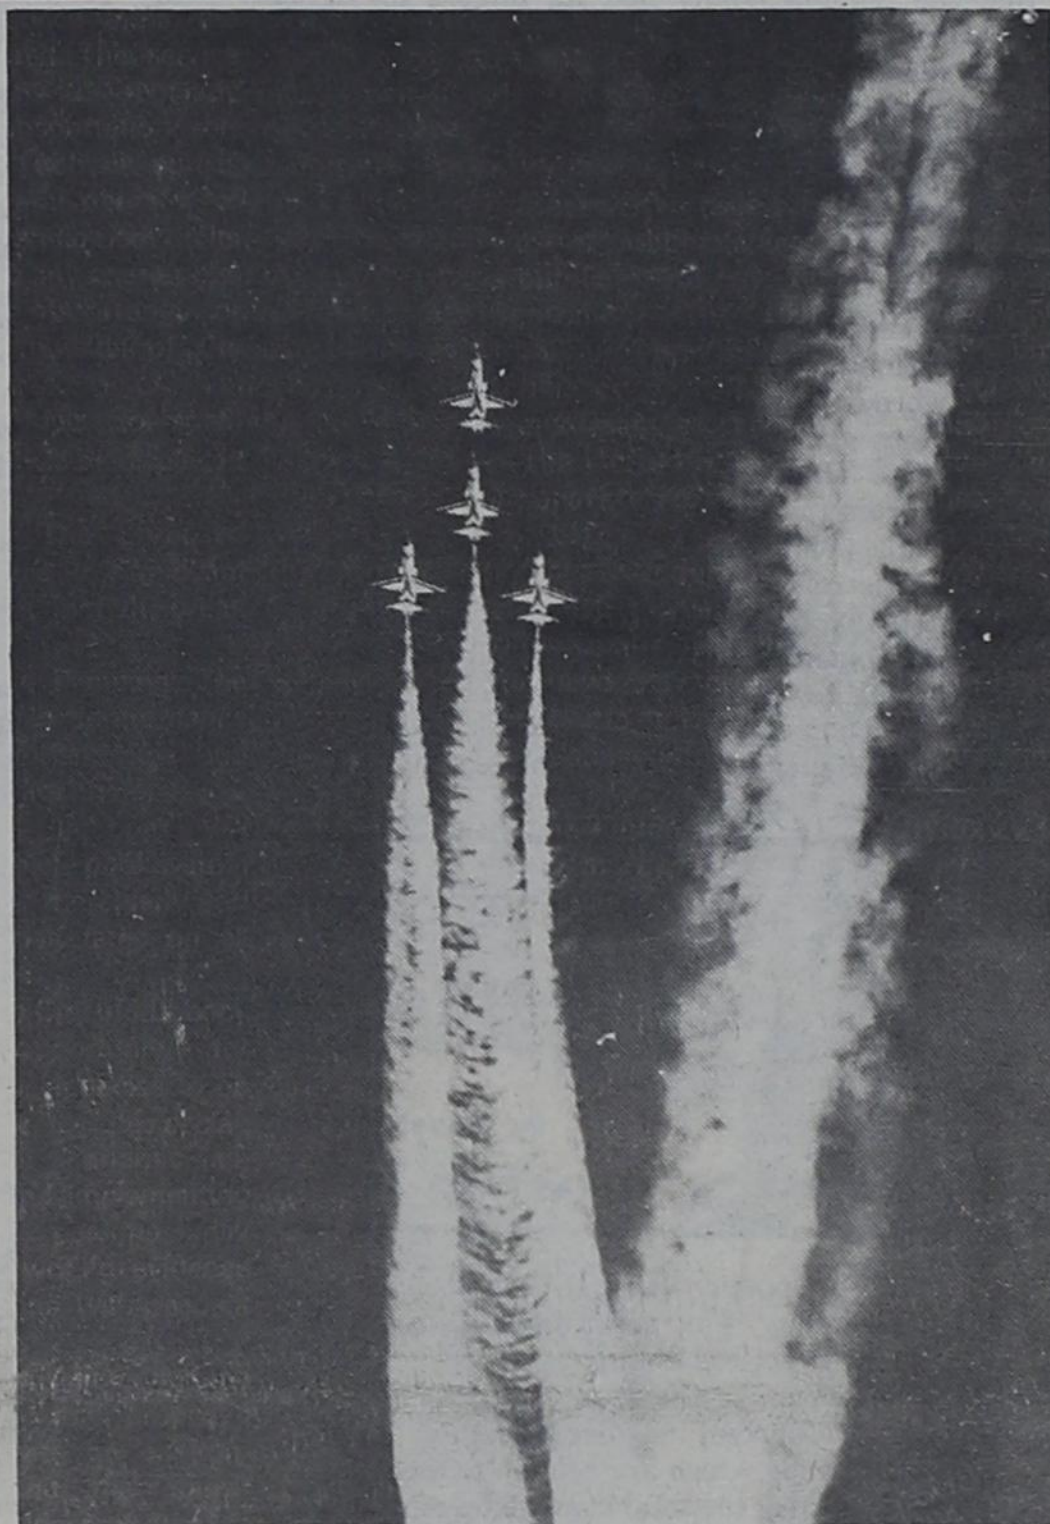

The Antique Car Club of Lubbock will also have a large number of their automobiles on display along the flight line.

Mayors Giles McCrary of Post, and Dirk West of Lubbock will join Colonel Charles E. Bishop, the commander of Reese's 64th Flying Training Wing as members of the Thunderbird inspection part before their show. They will be joined by J.G. Stacy of Levelland, and Dave Collier and John Scoggin of Lubbock.

LED BY LT. COL. DAN CHERRY, the Thunderbirds show what it's like to fly in the close diamond formation, but this time from a bird's-eye view. The team travels an average of 200 days each year, displaying the capabilities of Air Force people and equipment.

New Focus For Child Abuse Research

Modern child abuse research focuses on mental health of abusing parents, stressful home situations and the part the child plays in causing the abuse.

Today, understanding the cause of abuse is as great as knowing how to cope with the problem, says Dorothy Taylor, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

With more than 162,000 children in Texas battered or mistreated emotionally this past year, the need for child abuse and neglect answers grows more critical, the specialist explains.

Abuser's Mental Health

Mental health of the abuser is a factor in child maltreatment. Some factors affecting mental health and linked to abuse include alcoholism, disturbance in eating and sleeping, and depression.

The most common trait among abusers is role reversal—when the parent wants the child to love him and support his needs rather than the parent giving nurturance to the child, Miss Taylor points out.

"Therefore, when the child cannot meet the parent's expectations—and the child's inability to walk, talk or control his bowels or bladder may further antagonize—abuse occurs.

"The irrational parent cannot accept the child at a child's level and expects adult behavior. This frustration leads to a total loss of self control," she says.

Homelife

Abuse relates to home situations, too.

No matter how little or how much money the family has, when too much stress or pressure is present, violence will likely occur, the specialist reports.

Money shortage, unemployment, lack of or loss of power or status are traits often found in child abusers.

In addition, research reports child abusers exhibit isolation or less involvement in the commun-

Library Sponsors Annual Book Sale

The Friends of the Lubbock City-County Library will sponsor an Annual Book Sale Sept. 14-16 at the Godeke Branch Library, 2001-19th Street (across the street from Lubbock Senior High School). The event will be held from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Sept. 14, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sept. 15, and from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sept. 16. The Friends gathered the material during the Spring of 1978 through donations of used books magazines, etc. The Annual Book Sale offers the public marvelous opportunity to select from used books, magazines, fiction and non-fiction, bound and paperback text books, special interests, sets and single volumes, amateur and professional, popular and scientific.

The Friends have been able to provide the library with $20,000 worth of gifts from proceeds from annual book sales over the past 11 years. The latest gift was a $2600 video cassette recorder which operates on the same principle as a tape deck plus viewer.

Lunch Bunch Meeting

"Wine-making at Home" will be the topic of Dr. Clinton McPherson's talk at Lunch Bunch on Tuesday, Sept. 19.

Dr. McPherson is Associate Professor of Chemistry at Texas Tech University and is involved in the local grape growing and wine-making industry. He will show slides to illustrate his talk.

Lunch Bunch meets each Tuesday from 12:15 to 12:45 in the Mahon Community Room of the Lubbock City-County Library. The public is invited to bring a sack lunch and enjoy the coffee and free program provided by the Library.

Criminal Justice Grants Approved

Governor Dolph Briscoe has approved three criminal justice grants affecting Lubbock County. They are:

- $66,834 to Lubbock County for Project Intercept, a juvenile diversion project involving the Lubbock County Juvenile Probation Department and the Lubbock Independent School District;

- $46,457 to the South Plains Association of Governments for the regional law enforcement training program, and

- $39,259 to the South Plains Association of Governments for criminal justice planning.

The local grants were among 99 approved by Governor Briscoe statewide from Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) funds under the Crime Control Act of 1976.

Mark White Names Campaign Coordinator

Mark White, Candidate for Attorney General, announced that Leroy Beck, Jr., has become a Campaign Coordinator.

Beck, 35, will travel throughout the state, organizing committees for White, with special concentration in the Black Community.

Beck was Deputy Director of the Elections Division of the Secretary of State's Office, and was instrumental in getting students at Prairie View A&M University to register to vote. He also helped coordinate the statewide voter registration drive, which resulted in a record 6.3 million people being eligible to vote. Beck helped write several voter reform bills, which are now law.

"Working with Mark in the Secretary of State's Office, I saw that he approached issues with an open mind, encouraging suggestions and ideas from a wide range of people," said Beck. "Mark will bring these same qualities to the Attorney General's Office. He will be fair in seeking out all viewpoints, then independently pursue a solution," Beck added.

White said "Leroy did outstanding work in the Elections Division of the Secretary of State's Office. He is a fine lawyer and a good leader. I am happy to have his support in the campaign."

Beck was Deputy Director of the Elections Division in the Secretary of State's Office from 1974-1977. He then became a member of Governor Dolph Briscoe's legal staff. Earlier this year, Beck was a statewide coordinator in the governor's campaign.

Beck received his law degree from Texas Southern University in 1972. His first job as an attorney was in the General Counsel's office of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington, D.C. Beck resides in Austin with his wife and two children.

Catholicism and the Black Experience: Walter Hubbard of Seattle, Washington and president of the National Office for Black Catholics (NOBC), recently reflected that prior to Pope Paul VI, there had not been a single black bishop in the U.S.A. Nonetheless during his 15 year tenure four had been appointed and he lauded the late pope for his forthright stands against racism and for justice and human rights.

The National Office for Black Catholics, which also came into existence during the late pope's tenure, has often cited his invitation for blacks to "enrich the church with your unique gift of blackness, which it needs in this historic hour."

The most recently appointed bishop by the late pope was Joseph A. Francis, auxiliary of Newark, N.J. commented: "I do not want to reflect on the death of Pope Paul VI because Popes never really die. I am deeply moved by the influence which Pope Paul VI had upon my life as a black man, as a black Catholic, as a black religious, and now, as a black bishop."

He concluded: "Pope Paul has not been eulogized for his tremendous social justice and peace accomplishments. People in general, and blacks in particular, are sadly aware of his efforts in combatting racism and the offshoots of racism—namely, segregation and discrimination. I for one, will work to see that Pope Paul continues to live in my personal commitments and efforts."

Most American black catholics are mindful of the fact that, in the first 150 years of this country's existence, only 10 American Negroes had been permitted to become priests and that every one of them had to take his training in a foreign country. Pope Paul by his appointments in this country did much to help change America's black Catholics from a mission status to one of full participation, welcome and dignity in the Roman Catholic Church.

Chimes: A great number of bellringers are now in New Orleans as we write these lines attending the National Baptist Convention, U.S.A., Inc. Theme for the 1978 session is: "Our Next Forward Step." We hope to have a full report of this body here soon, reported to be the largest delegation of Black Baptists in the world.

It was during Pope Paul's reign that major strides occurred in advancing understanding and mutual respect between Catholics and Jews. Pope Paul made a fundamental contribution to promoting interreligious friendship through his personal appointment of the Vatican Secretariat on Catholic-Jewish Relations, according to our bellringer sources, and by his issuance of the Vatican Guidelines calling for concrete actions to implore ties between Jewish faiths and other peoples.

The lovely Jayne Kennedy recently joined Brent Musburger and Irv Cross in hosting "The NFL Today," the Emmy Award-winning program broadcast by CBS Sports during the current football season. Selected to replace Phyllis George, Ms. Kennedy made her debut on the show a short time ago. A former Miss Ohio, Ms. Kennedy has appeared in a variety of television series and feature films. As one bellringer put it recently its "from the gorgeous Phyllis George to the beautiful and winsome Jayne Kennedy," who makes her home in Pasadena and is 26 years old.

Most of my readers know of my long-time interest in Black History and many have supported our endeavors in this regards through the years. Now our ambition is to house a collection of books, pamphlets, newspapers, etc. on Black History in the beautiful little church of Friendship C.M.E. located at 315 S. Pecan in Pecos, Texas. Pecos is one of the most interesting towns in West Texas and an ideal location for such a project. Watch for details on how you can be a part of this noteworthy project here soon.

Bishop Earl G. Hunt, Jr. of the United Methodist Church said recently that one of the greatest needs of the church today is great preaching. "A personal knowledge of the living God and His Gospel is first. Others are: love for human beings—even the unlovely; hard, gruelling work; a terrible, frightening urgency and believing prayer." Great words we say. Until later, Peace.

OF PETS

If one of this nation's approximately 40 million dogs belongs to you, you probably want his diet to be as special as he is.

What constitutes a well-balanced diet for the healthy, mature animal may not be right for the differing nutritional needs of the puppy or the aging dog.

A young dog has higher protein needs. The dog over 7, on the other hand, needs more easily digested food containing extra calcium and phosphorus. Dogs who get too many calories should have meals that contain fewer calories but still provide all the needed vitamins, minerals and protein.

Animal nutritionists have developed a line of foods specifically tailored to the changing nutritional needs of dogs. Each of the four varieties of Gaines Cycle dog food provides a completely balanced meal that fulfills the special nutritional requirements of a dog in each important stage of his life.

Newly available in a dry form consisting of crunchy nuggets, Cycle 1 dry food supplies the needs of the rapidly growing puppy. Cycles 2, 3 and 4 are designed for the different nutritional needs of adult, less active and aging dogs, respectively.

A DOG'S DIET SHOULD reflect his changing needs.

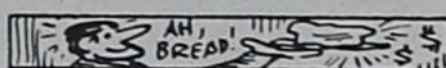

Many owners think that their pets will thrive best on a diet composed solely of red meat. The fact is that dogs need adequate amounts of other nutrients not present in meat. While many people think they are doing their dogs a favor by feeding them table scraps and extras, experts recommend that such extras comprise no more than 10 per cent of the dog's diet.

Mrs. Willie Mae Reed of Methodist Hospital received a check for the amount of $1,759.91 in donations from many friends, relatives and churches. The money was donated to Mrs. Reed to help with some of her medical bills. She had a car accident on Oct. 4, 1977, and has been a patient in Methodist Hospital since then. Presenting the check to Mrs. Reed is Mrs. Sally Anderson, chairman of the Reed fund. Mrs. Anderson and members of the Church of the Living God (P.G.T.) has been working on this fund raising since March. Mrs. Anderson, the members, and family of Mrs. Reed would like to thank everyone for their donations.

WASHINGTON—Determining economic policy in a financial world as complex as ours is a task not easily accomplished by even the most astute economists.

The business community, at one time, enjoyed freedom from governmental interference and our free enterprise system, for the most part, fostered a healthy and vigorous financial system in which prices changed only moderately from year to year, wage increases were geared primarily to merit and seniority, and profit margins were predictable.

Today, our nation's staggering rate of inflation, hearty demands by some labor groups, excessive price escalation by some large corporations, and constantly fluctuating profit formulas challenge not only the expertise of corporate America as well as the small businessperson, but also impact the average wage-earner in a very substantial way.

However, in 1978 a new "economic philosophy" has been offered—this time not by the politicians or so-called economic experts, but instead, by the people—a move I, for one, applaud.

The excitement of the people of California in passing Proposition 13 has triggered additional interest in economics and in our systems of taxation and government spending. A subject area that would have bored much of America in more constant times is now a common dinner table topic.

The merits and demerits of Proposition 13 will be debated and may not be particularly obvious for years to come. Recently backers of the Kemp-Roth legislative action hailed it as the answer to the problems of Middle America. However, what Kemp-Roth failed to include with their cut in federal taxes was a limitation of government spending.

As any fiscal conservative knows, our long-term economic stability relies heavily upon a realistic balance between supply and demand. When supply exceeds demand, an economic slowdown is imminent (note the severe recessions in the early '70s). When demand greatly exceeds supply, a rapid rise in inflation normally occurs.

This leads me to my point. If we have an enormous cut in federal taxes without an also healthy cut in federal spending, it could cause the federal government to exceed greatly the already $800 billion national debt. If this should happen, then the demand on the federal government would far outweigh the available tax dollars to deliver the supply of services, thereby causing a new round of excessive inflation. In a real sense, the federal tax cut could be offset by inflation.

Therefore we need a tax cut coupled with a limit on government spending. A balanced federal budget would slow federal spending, shore up the American dollar and help put an end to the growth of the enormous national debt.

That is why this month I agreed to sponsor House Joint Resolution 130, which calls for a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget by 1983.

Earlier this year I attempted to pass through the House an amendment with similar goals, an amendment that would have contained federal spending at its current level (except in a few essential areas) and would have diminished the federal deficit by $7 billion.

A tax cut is essential—but also essential is a cut in government spending.

When driving, keep your head and torso upright, and don't bend in the direction in which you're turning. Only then can you be in the right balance to make sensitive driving judgments.

KELLY'S HEROES

by Joe Kelly

It was the half and I was frantically calling all (?) my friends to see if I could buy a hang glider. After all, with Tech leading Southern Cal, 9-0, the moon didn't look that far away.

The bubble burst in the second half, though, and visions of a major upset went by the boards. But friends, that was an impressive showing by the Red Raiders, who gained in defeat. Moral victories are for losers, generally, but this was one that brought pride.

Years from now fans will be talking about that great goalline stand, where the Raiders held the powerful Trojans on four plays. A breakdown here could have led to a rout.

Unfortunately, Southern Cal regrouped at the half and came back strong. They abandoned their inside attack and went to the outside and to the air. The strategy paid off as the less experienced Raiders were not able to defend against inside and outside.

Still, the Raiders didn't play dead and, when the Trojans had to kick a field goal to ice down the victory, it was a tribute to the tremendous defense of Tech.

By the time the fourth quarter had arrived, it was apparent that it would be up to the defense to hold USC. The Raiders' offense had been completely stifled by the Trojans. Tech couldn't move on the ground and the aerial attack also failed.

Southern Cal, of course, was rated among the top 10 in the nation prior to the game, given a chance at the national title. The Trojans may still make it, but they need to improve.

So do the Raiders, naturally, and a major concern must be the inability to generate much offense. But Raiders inexplicably failed to go wide when it was obvious that the inside same was stymied and the passing attack wasn't working.

Fortunately, Tech has two weeks to regroup and get ready for Arizona, a good team, but not quite the caliber of USC. It is an important two weeks in rebuilding program.

But this first game lent encouragement to Tech fans. It also brought respect for Rex Dockery, who never complained about having to play USC in the opener, who went into the game with an obvious positive attitude and who didn't criticize or complain after the game.

SMU beat TCU as expected, but if you listened to the game, the Horned Frogs had a chance to keep it much closer. They seemed to lose some wind out of their sails when they failed.

And Rice did a great job against Iowa State, a team well regarded in the Big 8, as well as nationally.

A&M rolled past Kansas with its usual solid game, although the Aggies lacked the spark that makes them an attractive team. They pounced it out and the statistics showed their power.

This week the other schools open the season, with the top attraction the second league game, Texas at Rice. The Longhorns should roll by the Owls without too much trouble.

Arkansas has what appears to be a relatively easy opener against Vanderbilt, while another conference favorite, Houston could have a tough time at Memphis State—but should win.

Baylor has a tough opener against Georgia in a TV game. The Bears ought to win.

SMU takes it aerial circus to Florida and the Gators have a chance to hurt the SWC image in their home opener.

Meanwhile, the baseball races are winding down slowly and the most interesting race right now is in the American League East, where the Yankees have been sheer dynamite.

New York unbelievably swept four games from Boston in the Red Sox home park and were awesome in the process. Now, as of Sunday, they are tied for first place. Are they for real? Time will tell, and there's not much time left.

The interesting question is whether they would have staged the drive they have if Billy Martin were still managing. Or did the calmer Bob Lemon have a settling affect on the club?

Whatever, you have to give credit to Lemon. The Yankees have staged a storybook finish so far. Their big problem is a letdown following the Bosox series and the long, hard run to tie for the lead. It isn't over, one way or another, and the two teams meet in New York this weekend. That could tell the story.

Casserole Cooking—Make Two, Freeze One

Today's smart shopper knows how important a freezer can be in getting the most for your food dollar. It allows you to buy meat and other items on special, helps you preserve produce from your own garden and aids in avoiding leftovers by packaging foods to fit your family's needs.

The freezer can also be a big timesaver. Instead of cooking one meal at a time, cook two and put one in your freezer. Most casseroles freeze very well if they are wrapped properly. Also, preparing less expensive casseroles (as opposed to quick, but more expensive entrees) at your leisure lets you save money in the long run.

When freezing casseroles, line the pan with aluminum foil, fill with food and wrap well. Freeze until solid, then remove from the pan. Freeze prepared food as soon as possible and store at a temperature of 0°F. or lower. Be sure to label and date all packages in your freezer to facilitate later use. Casseroles can be stored in the freezer for up to 3 months.

Our Tuna Lasagne is a unique variation of an old favorite that's perfect for freezing. Packed with nutritious foods (tuna, cheese, milk, spinach) this wholesome and delicious dish will soon be a household favorite. As an added bonus Tuna Lasagne is low in cholesterol and saturated fat since it is prepared with Fleischmann's Corn Oil Margarine, skim milk and low fat cheeses. And isn't it nice knowing you have another delicious casserole waiting for you in the freezer!

TUNA LASAGNE

- 6 tablespoons Fleischmann's Corn Oil Margarine
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 8 ounces shredded partially skimmed Mozzarella cheese
- 1 container (12-ounce) pot cheese
- 2 packages (9-ounces each) frozen chop-

- ped spinach, cooked and drained
- 2 cans (7-ounces each) tuna, drained and flaked
- 1/4 cup unsifted flour
- 1-1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/8 teaspoon white pepper
- 3 cups skim milk
- 2 jars (15-1/2 ounces each) Marinara Sauce
- 1 pound lasagne noodles, cooked and drained
- Melt 2 tablespoons corn oil margarine in saucepan. Add onion and saute until lightly browned. Measure out 1 cup shredded Mozzarella cheese and set aside. Combine remaining Mozzarella with pot cheese, spinach, tuna, and sauteed onion.

tom of each of two 13 x 9 x 2-inch baking pans. Place a layer of lasagne noodles over sauce. Top with 1/6 of the tuna mixture, 1/6 of the white sauce and about 1/8 of the remaining Marinara Sauce. Beginning with lasagne noodles repeat layers two more times. Top with remaining lasagne noodles and Marinara Sauce. Sprinkle reserved Mozzarella cheese over casseroles. Bake at 375°F. 25 to 30 minutes, until hot and bubbling. Makes 2 casseroles, 6 servings each.

Freezing Instructions: To freeze one casserole, line pan with foil leaving ends extended over sides. Fill pan and wrap well. Freeze until solid. Remove lasagne from pan. Return to freezer for up to 3 months.

To serve, peel off foil and place lasagne in baking pan. Thaw in refrigerator overnight. Bake covered at 375°F. 30 minutes; remove cover and bake 30 minutes longer, or until hot and bubbling.

First, take one small part of your paycheck, put it into the Payroll Savings Plan, and buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

Then just sit back and watch your dough rise. 'Cause Bonds are one of the easiest ways to save you'll ever find.

(Not to mention one of the safest.)

After all, they've been around a long, long time. And they've always paid off. To the penny. And if they're ever lost, stolen, or destroyed, they'll be replaced.

So take stock in your country. Buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

When you need dough, they rise to the occasion.

PUBLIC NOTICE SUMMARY OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS GENERAL ELECTION NOV. 7, 1978

"The Tax Relief Amendment" (H.J.R. 1)

H.J.R. 1 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution allowing the legislature to exempt intangible personal property, requiring the legislature to exempt certain household goods and personal effects, and allowing the legislature to exempt all or part of the personal property homestead from state and local property taxation.

The amendment requires the legislature to provide for the taxation of farm and ranch land on the basis of its productive capacity instead of its market value and allows the legislature to provide for the taxation of timber land on its productive capacity.

The amendment permits local governments to extend the present exemption of not less than $3,000 of the residence homestead of persons 65 and older to include certain disabled persons.

The amendment grants an exemption from public school property taxes of $5,000 of the market value of the residence homestead. It authorizes the legislature to grant an additional exemption from public school property taxes of an amount not to exceed $10,000 of the market value of the residence homesteads of persons 65 years of age or older and certain disabled persons. If a person 65 years of age or older qualifies for this exemption, the total amount of public school taxes imposed on that person's homestead may not be increased.

The amendment prevents local governments from increasing property taxes unless the governing body provides public notice and conducts a public hearing. The amendment requires the legislature to provide by law for each property owner to receive notice of the revaluation of his property and the amount taxes will be increased.

The amendment limits appropriations from state tax revenue to an amount not to exceed Texas' estimated economic growth rate, with the legislature authorized to make exceptions for emergencies.

The amendment prohibits the statewide appraisal of real property for property tax purposes. Enforcement of uniform standards and procedures for appraisal of property for property tax purposes is required to originate in the taxing authority where the property tax is imposed.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment providing for tax relief for residential homesteads, elderly persons, disabled persons, and agricultural land; for personal property exemptions; for truth in taxation procedures, including citizen involvement; for a redefinition of the tax base; for limitations on state spending; and for property tax administration."

NUMBER ONE (S.J.R. 50)

S.J.R. 50 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to delete an archaic reference to the "Deaf and Dumb Asylum." The amendment would allow the State of Texas to purchase products and services done by handicapped individuals in nonprofit rehabilitation facilities without complying with bid requirements applicable to other state contracts. The amendment also would eliminate the formality of the approval of certain state contracts by the Governor, the Secretary of State and the Comptroller of Public Accounts.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment deleting the archaic reference to the 'Deaf and Dumb Asylum,' allowing certain products and services of handicapped individuals to be used by agencies and departments of state government, requiring the procurement of other products and services required in the operation of state government to be made under bids awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, making all such procurement processes subject to laws enacted by the legislature, and eliminating the requirement that the Governor, the Secretary of State, and the Comptroller of Public Accounts of Texas be personally involved with such transactions."

NUMBER TWO (S.J.R. 55)

S.J.R. 55 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to permit local governments to issue bonds for the reconstruction or acquisition of facilities (land, equipment and improvements) designed to develop employment opportunities. These bonds would be payable solely from the revenue from the sale or lease of these facilities. The building or acquisition of such facilities must be determined by the local government to be necessary to develop employment opportunities.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to provide that the legislature may permit political subdivisions to issue revenue bonds to develop employment opportunities for its citizens."

NUMBER THREE (S.J.R. 44)

S.J.R. 44 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution which would allow the legislature to authorize cities and towns to issue tax increment bonds to finance the redevelopment of blighted areas. The bonds are to be paid solely from revenue from municipal tax increments. Payment cannot be made from the revenue of municipal taxes, utilities, or other services.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to give the legislature the power to authorize cities and towns to issue bonds to finance the redevelopment of blighted areas and prohibiting any city or town from granting its money or lending its credit for such purposes."

NUMBER FOUR (S.J.R. 53)

S.J.R. 53 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to allow the legislature to exempt from taxation solar or wind-powered energy devices.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to exempt from taxation solar and wind-powered energy devices."

NUMBER FIVE (H.J.R. 37)

H.J.R. 37 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to grant exclusive jurisdiction to justices of the peace in civil cases where the amount in controversy does not exceed $200, except where the legislature gives exclusive jurisdiction to another court.

The amendment grants justices of the peace concurrent jurisdiction with county courts where the amount in controversy is between $200 and $500, except where the legislature gives the county court exclusive jurisdiction.

The amendment also grants justices of the peace concurrent jurisdiction with both county and district courts where the amount in controversy is between $500 and $1,000, except where the legislature gives the county or district court exclusive jurisdiction.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to extend the jurisdiction of justices of the peace in civil cases."

NUMBER SIX (S.J.R. 45)

S.J.R. 45 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to allow the legislature to expand the number of judges on any court of civil appeals. Presently courts of civil appeals are limited to a chief justice and two associate justices. The amendment also would allow the courts to sit in sections, with the concurrence of a majority of the judges sitting in the section necessary to decide a case.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment permitting the legislature to increase the number of justices on a court of civil appeals, permitting a court of civil appeals to sit in sections, and requiring a concurrence of a majority of justices to decide a case."

NUMBER SEVEN (S.J.R. 48)

S.J.R. 48 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution eliminating the State Building Commission and the State Building Fund. The authority of the State Building Commission has been transferred by law to the State Board of Control.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to repeal the constitutional authority for the State Building Commission and the State Building Fund."

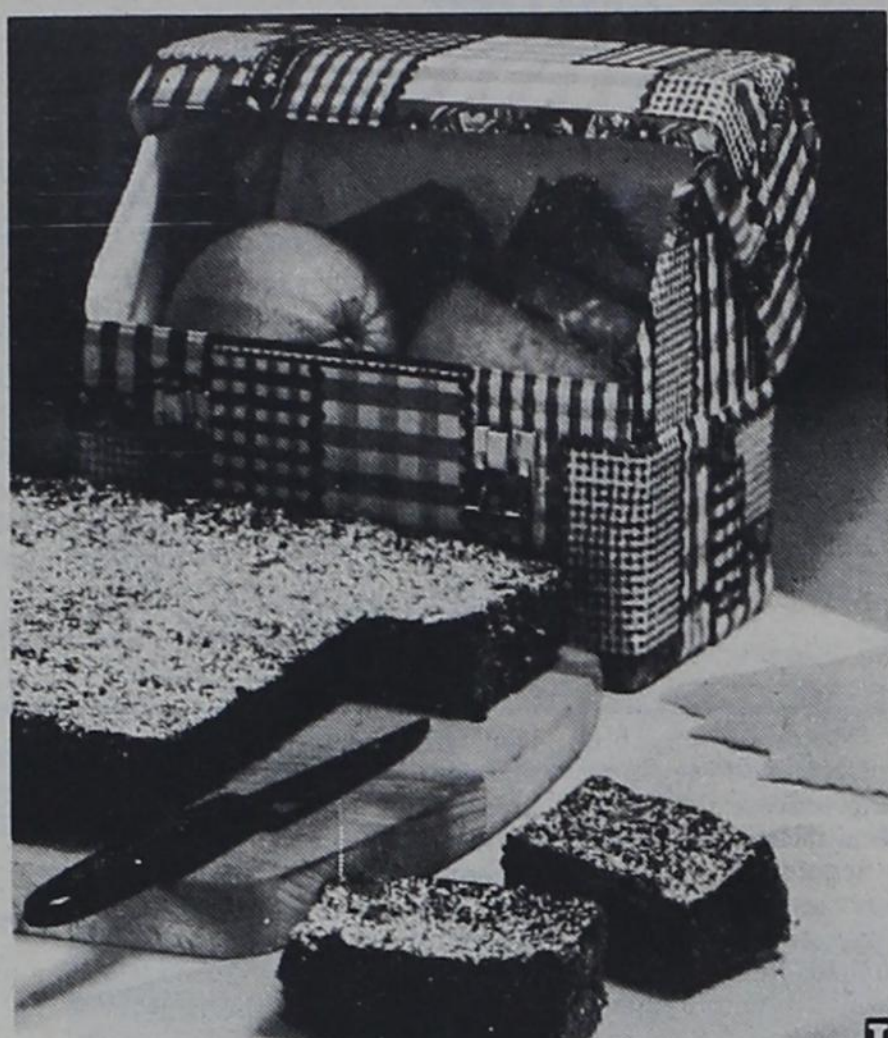

NUMBER EIGHT (H.J.R. 42)

H.J.R. 42 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution allowing certain political subdivisions or districts in the state that can presently issue bonds or otherwise lend its credit to engage in fire-fighting activities and to issue bonds or otherwise lend its credit to support such activities.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendments authorizing certain districts to engage in fire-fighting activities and to issue bonds or other indebtedness or to issue bonds or otherwise lend their credit for fire-fighting purposes."

Sheridan's Ride

by Jack Sheridan

The week's big entertainment blast will be, of course, the anticipated opening of the 1978-79 season at Lubbock Theatre Centre when the highly regarded American musical smash, "Man of La Mancha," bows at 8:15 p.m. Friday. The setting is the intimate little LTC Playhouse, 2508 Ave. P.

With Doug Cummins directing and Harlan Reddell and company performing, "Man of La Mancha" will be repeated on Sept. 16, 18-19, and 21-23.

The reserved seats are $5.50 for adults and $4.50 for children. Reservations may be made by contacting the LTC Box Office in the showplace.

Right now there is a plethora of holdovers on the local movie screens so we have no film on tap for reviewing in this issue. But coming up, as the current stock completes its runs are such highly-touted pictures as Woody Allen's serious film (he is not in it, he directed-produced it) "Interiors", Robert Altman's "A Wedding", Jack Nicholson and John ("Animal House") Belushi's "Goin' South", the all-star "Death on the Nile," another Agatha Christie thriller à la the most successful "Murder on the Orient Express" a couple of seasons back, "Big Wednesday," "The Driver," another top star set-up, "The Boys from Brazil," and the fil, bow of Farrah Fawcett-Majors (so?) "Someone Is Killing Her Husband."

Actually, the best line-up of continuous film fare right at the moment is found by subscribers to the Home Box Office adjunct on television. This service is well worth the investment, covering not only movies but sports and comedy specials, and September's slate has some goodies headed by multiple showings of the second-highest box office favorite of last year, Burt Reynolds-Jackie Gleason "Smokey and the Bandit." "Star Wars" is of course the all time box office champ, the record set up during that same period.

Other film highlights being featured on HBO during the month include "March or Die," the wildly popular "American Graffiti," "The Domino Principle," "Handle with Care," "Sorcerer," Disney's "The Apple Dumpling Gang," "Silver Streak" and Sophia Loren's "A Special Day" with Marcello Mastroianni. Of interest, too, on HBO will be the end of the month bow of a film that never made it to the Lubbock screens, "September 30, 1955." That date, in case it has slipped your mind, is the death date for the star sensation, James Dean. The young, moody player, who scored in "East of Eden," "Rebel Without a Cause," "Giant," crashed his high speed Porche on a California highway causing instant death, right at the pinnacle of his meteoric rise. Since then, the star's memory has achieved cult status, quite similar to the inexplicable homage current for the late Elvis Presley. Richard Thomas ("The Waltons") is the star of this little effort.

Brought back from previous HBO outings are a raft of interesting films, too, interluded through the month, such as "Sherlock Holmes' Smarter Brother," "Islands in the Stream," "Jesus Christ Superstar," "Bobby Deerfield," "Black Sunday," "MacArthur," and the like.

All the HBO films are uncut from their theatrical release, uncensored in any way, with adult fare steered mostly away from the prime time period. Ratings are clearly indicated, as in the movie houses, with each screening.

You must say that the recent invitational preview gathering and the subsequent exhibition and sale of the Starline Collector Galleries of Albuquerque was the social kick-off for the new autumn-fall-spring season in the city. The event, held at the First Federal Plaza this past week, was in essence a benefit sale for the Lubbock Symphony, with the local organization reaping a percentage amount in each transaction.

The invitational list was a dress-up group, ladies in long skirts mainly, men shaved and be-lotioned and refreshments were served, with musical hits from famed musicals being played nicely by an organ, three young lady violinists and none other than Lubbock Symphony's founder-conductor William A. Harrod strumming his Strad in his usual professional expertise.

The art display was a full one, taxing the spacious quarters, covering all manner of subject and media. It was, I think, a show more in quantity and in quality and, in fact, there were some works on view that boggled the mind with the ineptitude and faulty techniques evidenced. I don't know exactly why it is but a good number of so-called South-western scene paintings all hang to a trite and unoriginal treatment, while surprisingly the nudes in the show were portraits of ungainly, angular females. Abstraction, realism and draftsmanship examples were all on display and are still available for viewing during the First Federal regular business hours.

And that's about it for this week. It is, as you see, the "lull" before the "storm," as "Man of La Mancha" opening this week will unleash a flood of happy and entertaining events to fill the cooling days. We've got football and shows and concerts and exhibitions and "who could ask for anything more?" as the old song goes.

Inflation: Running Out of Options

Some time ago in this space, we suggested that current inflationary trends were severe enough to warrant imposing mandatory wage and price controls. When we first discussed the latest round of inflation, and its impact on the minority business community, the national rate of inflation was hovering around 7.2%. Today, as more recent figures now confirm, we are confronting double-digit inflation with no immediate decline in sight. So in effect, the inflation picture has worsened. That spells trouble for the entire small business community and particular trouble for minority entrepreneurs.

To understand why, we must remember that businesses generally cope with inflation by passing on higher costs to consumers. Minority firms don't have that luxury. In the first place, many of our firms are in marginal market areas, which means that their inventories are fairly limited. Therefore, their prices are higher, and in most cases have already reached the saturation point. Hence, we can't afford to raise prices any further without pricing ourselves out of the market. So when the price of doing business increases, our firms have to absorb the increase. As a result, we flirt with bankruptcy.

Several things are happening. First, the cost of doing business is increasing. Second, real disposable income for consumers is shrinking. So consumers have less money to spend on essentials. Third, the concentration of our firms is another problem. Nearly 75% of minority firms are involved in retail trade and selected services. When disposable incomes are low, those services are among the first consumers choose to drop.

Finally, while the national rate of unemployment is declining, the rate of unemployment in the inner cities has not benefited from this national reduction. That's important to remember because most of our firms are located in areas where the rate of unemployment remains high—considerably higher than the national average. So we must contend with both inflation and unemployment.

Placing everything in context, government must take strong actions to stabilize prices. Jawboning and voluntary controls continue to fail. There's an old political adage that says: when you run out of alternatives, you no longer have a problem. With respect to inflation, we are clearly running out of alternatives to mandatory wage and price controls. It is instructive to note that liberal economist Galbraith has called for mandatory controls; while the conservative Chairman of the Federal Reserve, William Miller, has called on business and labor to voluntarily impose wage and price "guidelines". So there is a feeling from liberals and conservatives that some form of controls is desirable. People seem to have more of a problem with the phrase "wage and price controls" than with its impact.

But perhaps of greater importance is the result of a recently released Gallop poll which shows that a majority of the American people now favor wage and price controls as the only way to curb our inflationary pattern. The Gallop survey was taken two months ago, before double-digit inflation was confirmed. Yet surprisingly, it reveals that virtually every segment of the population (by race, sex, education, income, religion, political and labor union affiliation) supports mandatory controls. While we do not suggest that government should run on the basis of public opinion polls, we are aware that the sentiment of the people cannot long be ignored. Our government inflation fighters must get down to the serious business of asking: have we already run out of options to wage and price controls?

By the time we got through airport security and on our way to the gate, she was laughing and crying at the same time.

Wesołe Urodzie, Mama. (Happy birthday, Mama.)

The bus was crowded, cramped and hot. I leaned down through a jumble of elbows and shopping bags and spoke to my mother.

"You're gonna love this birthday present, Mom."

She replied in Polish, not trusting her English in front of strangers. "So why are you dragging me on a bus clear across town?"

"It's something special, Mom. Something special."

And special it was. I'd been saving for this for years. Ever since my first job, I'd been buying U.S. Savings Bonds so I could give my mom the best birthday ever.

We stepped off the bus. I grabbed Mom and hurried her through the airport. By the time we got through airport security and on our way to the gate, she was laughing and crying at the same time.

"Now I know!" she said. "You're going to send me to Poland to visit Aunt Emilia."

"No, Mom."

Her face fell, but she tried to hide her emotions.

"No, Mom. You're not going to Poland. Because I've brought Aunt Emilia over here!"

The look on my mother's face when she saw her sister was worth everything I'd saved for. But then, I guess that's what love is all about.

"Happy birthday, Mama."

What's Your OPINION?

Food Labeling: Tell It To Washington!

The Food and Drug Administration, U.S. Department of Agriculture and Federal Trade Commission want to learn what information consumers want on food labels. So they are inviting you to express your views personally or in writing.

The consumer comments will be used to develop ways to improve food labels. The goal is to make sure that the information on labels is what consumers want and is presented in a way they understand.

Labeling and advertising can be the two most effective tools you can use in making informed choices about the nutritional quality, safety and economic differences among the foods you buy.

The government would like your views on food labeling, the current information on labels you find most—or least—effective, and what new information you would like to see on food labels. In fact, they will welcome your opinions and suggestions on any aspect of labeling.
