Bell Telephone Laboratories Helping Young Blacks Pursue Science Careers

Agnew Wants "Better Schools"—Busing to End Quickly

Nashville, Tenn-(NBNS)-Vice President Spiro Agnew wants to end all school busing for the purpose of integration and he says the President's proposal for a moratorium on court-ordered school busing would effectively do just that.

"We're going to have an end to this busing and we're going to have it very clear," Agnew told a crowd here while campaigning for the re-election of an incumbent Senator.

"The reason we have all the confusion about this subject now is that the President's proposals were not acted on by Congress, and they came up with some lukewarm measure that's being misconstrued by the courts," the vice president said.

"This administration is for quality education, but there is no relationship between busing and equal opportunity.

"You can bus children from bad schools to good schools but there are only so many good schools. The answer is to make them all good schools," he continued.

Agnew, at the same time, called on the Congress to enact the President's moratorium on busing and once and for all "end this kind of busing."

The House has adopted substantially what the President has asked for, but the more liberal Senate has been reluctant to consider his proposals. Senate leaders, however, have agreed to discuss the measures before Congress adjourns later this year.

Nixon Approves School Lunch, Breakfast Programs Recently

Washington-(NBNS)-President Nixon has finally approved an expanded school breakfast and lunch program. The new law also provides for an expansion of the summer school ground feeding programs, which the Administration had bitterly fought while the measure was in the Congress.

The measure increased to eight cents per meal the federal subsidy paid for all lunches, whether free or reduced or otherwise. The previous level was only six cents.

States are now permitted to increase the number of free lunches it provides for needy children by 25 percent more than the Secretary of Agriculture proposed earlier.

The number of reduced price lunches was also raised by the Congress by 50 percent over the proposed limits, with an assurance that additional federal aid would be available for any extra lunches.

The school breakfast program—launched two years ago—was also expanded. It started as a pilot program to give needy children a nutritional start each school day.

In the past, the Congress has placed authorization ceilings on the breakfast and summer lunch programs, but they have been eliminated under the new law which allows the appropriation of funds to rise as the states' needs increase.

The measure also repeals the Agriculture Department's authority to ban food vending machines, as long as the products are nutritional.

"Blacks are discouraged in many ways from pursuing careers in science," says Henry Thomas, a black college graduate. "For example, we are told—as I was told only recently by one of my teachers—that a black person, in effect, cannot be a research scientist."

A new Bell Telephone Laboratories program might reverse the trend in thinking displayed by Thomas' teacher. It's the Bell Labs Cooperative Research Fellowship Program, designed to find, develop and hire more minority group members for positions on the Labs' professional research staff.

Thomas, who ranked at the top of his Temple University physics class, was the program's first participant. He spent his summer at Bell Labs researching the possibility of using X-rays to study phase transition in ferro-electric materials.

The program offers tuition, living expenses and summer employment in research to outstanding minority group college graduates while they study for masters and doctorate degrees. It is under way at Bell Labs locations in Holmdel and Murray Hill, N.J., and Indian Hill, Ill.

Once accepted into the program, each student will work closely with a member of the technical staff at Bell Labs. The scientist will guide the student's work in the summer and act as an adviser in his graduate studies.

Those completing the Fellowship Program and earning their doctorate degrees will be reviewed for appointment as Bell Labs researchers or other Labs positions.

In addition to the Cooperative Research Fellowship Program, the Bell System's research unit is conducting three other work-study programs to increase minority group employment.

The Engineering Scholarship Program offers promising high school students full four-year scholarships to technical schools to study electrical engineering, mechanical engineering or computer science.

The Associate Degree Scholarship Program has been started to motivate students toward greater academic achievement and stimulate interest in science or business careers. This program provides full tuition support at technical institutes and community colleges for students pursuing associate degrees in technical or business disciplines.

Bell Labs also has a Secretarial Scholarship Program which provides minority candidates with full scholarship support for one year at secretarial schools.

To date, 91 minority group candidates are participating in these programs.

NAACP Meeting Changed From Regular Date

In view of the fact that the State Convention of the NAACP will be convening in Orange, Texas, Sunday, October 8, 1972, the regular monthly meeting of the Lubbock County Branch NAACP Chapter will be postponed until Sunday, October 15, 1972, at 3:00 p.m. Our Lubbock County Branch Chapter President, Dr. F.L. Lovings, will be in attendance at this convention, along with other members of this chapter.

Lubbock OIC to Observe National OIC Day Oct. 11

The Lubbock Opportunities Industrialization Center has announced that it will be observing National OIC Day on Oct. 11.

Lubbock and 43 other cities will observe OIC Day with the "Everybody Can Be Somebody" Spectacular, a closed circuit, giant screen telecast which will be shown in the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium at 8:00 p.m. on October 11. LOIC has planned local activities to begin in the Auditorium at 7:00.

LOIC Executive Director Eddie Richardson says, "It will be the first time that all 109 OIC's of America will have activities on the same day."

OIC is the world's largest community based non-profit manpower training organization. The Lubbock center has been in operation for a little more than one year and has trained 504 people and placed 204 on jobs.

More than three dozen celebrities will participate in the show, some of whom are Bob Hope, Sammy Davis, Jr., Aretha Franklin, Bill Cosby, Johnny Carson, Duke Ellington, and Carroll O'Connor, who is better known as Archie Bunker.

Richardson explains that the title, "Everybody Can Be Somebody," is one of the basic ideas behind OIC.

Job Quota Plans Being Ignored According to NAACP Charges

by Paul H. Wyche

Washington-(NBNS)Charging that the President has dropped the "Philadelphia Plan" for hiring minority workers in exchange for labor support this November, a civil rights leader called it a "retreat in equal employment."

Herbert Hill, National Labor Director for the NAACP, said his charge was based on a memorandum issued by Labor Secretary James Hodgson, which the Administration said was meant to clarify the President's position on quotas, goals in the hiring of minorities and women.

Dated Sept. 15, and sent to all department heads, Hodgson said that goals based on a percentage of an area's population were not to be used for determining the hiring of minorities and women.

"The Hodgson memorandum," Hill said, "confirms charges that the Nixon Administration has abandoned the Philadelphia Plan and other contract compliance measures in the construction industry where there continued to exist a blatant nationwide pattern of racial discrimination in employment."

"The Hodgson memorandum is even more invidious because the new policy applies to all employment under Federal contractors and is not limited to construction alone," Hill continued.

"The vast impact of this retreat is evidenced by the fact that one out of every three jobs in the nation's economy is the direct result of Federal government contracts with private industry," he said.

In the memorandum, Hodgson said:

"The goals required of government contractors" should be merely used "as targets or levels of achievement by which the contractors' good faith efforts... are measured... Therefore, failure to achieve... goals is not to be regarded as, per se, a violation... They have not been and are not intended to become presumptive factors in determining" a contractor's eligibility for federal contracts.

A spokesman for the Labor Department said that there was absolutely "no retreat, and we don't see where the memo says that at all."

Contractors "were never really required to hire minorities, because that could only have meant firing white workers and that could be quotas. They (contractors) were only required to show a good faith effort in trying to hire minorities," the Labor Department spokesman said.

Hill said the Hodgson memo "removes the major... standard for measuring 'good faith' efforts that will produce any significant results."

It's October, Where Is The Director of Human Relations Committee?

Several months ago the city council made it known that they would see that an executive director of the Human Relations Commission would be hired. It's October and this was the time when the person was to be placed in this position.

This person would serve an important role in city government if he is given an opportunity to do so. The person, too, must be someone who can contribute something positive to the entire city of Lubbock and not just one segment of the population.

It was suggested by concerned citizens, including member of the board of HRC, that the person be hired several months ago. They, too, were cautious about the type of individual to be hired for the role. It is good to see these people concerned about getting someone who can really do the job.

"Available funds" was the reason why the position was not filled several months ago. It was hoped that money would be made available in October. It's that time of the year and we hope that the director will come on board now in order to carry out the responsibilities of his office.

Of course, we also hope enough funds are made available to effectively run such an office—and to also include the employment of a secretary. We must all realize that to get capable people to operate in this capacity, there must be a positive salary offered for each person hired, plus the necessary funds to run the office as it should be.

This operation will be a serious business and the citizens of this city are entitled to a well equipped program in order for the effort to meet the goals already established by the Human Relations Commission, as appointed, incidentally, by the City Council.

Without any doubt, a capable person operating this program, and utilizing the resources at hand, can be a very important asset to the city of Lubbock. The director's participation and "heading off" of many of the problems in town, will more than pay his salary if he is abreast with what is happening. On the other hand, money is never a problem—after a crisis has arisen—only when a positive, preventive program needs funding and support.

Lubbock, as well as any other city on the South Plains, needs this type of effort if it is to live up to the city's potential. We cannot afford to allow this program to be a symptom fighter, rather than one which will evaluate the total shortcomings of the city.

There are many positive programs which could come out of this effort if the city gets started now by seeing that the staff is hired and given the reins to move forward for the entire City of Lubbock. We feel sure that all citizens will be proud of what will come out of this new effort in our city government. And we also would urge all citizens to get behind the effort to see that it is a success.

It's the time of the year when we were promised a director and staff for the Human Relations Commission and we are all awaiting the appointment of a director. There is a lot of work for this person and his office to get started on. Let's bring him on board now!

THE LANSKY MEMOS

By Jack Anderson

1972 Pulitzer Prize Winner for National Reporting (Copyright, 1972, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington—The U.S. Justice Department secretly furnished Israel with Internal Revenue and Immigration Service memos to help convince Israeli authorities to deport aging crime lord, Meyer Lansky.

Lansky tried to take advantage of Israel's strong refugee law, which offers a home to all Jewish refugees. But the Israeli authorities decided that the law was not intended to protect fugitives from justice. Lansky has been given a one-way ticket back to the United States, where he faces federal charges.

Among the U.S. documents supplied to the Israelis was an Immigration Service memo linking Lansky to the Notorious gangster "Bugs" Siegel.

The memo quotes an informer named Benjamin Baron as saying that Lansky "was a co-leader with Bugs Siegel of a gang employed as 'protectionist' of a bootlegging combine and... was involved in murder and kidnapping."

A memo from the Internal Revenue Service summed up Lansky's career in these words: "Lansky's history shows that he has been a criminal all his adult life. During the entire time he was closely associated, both personally and in his business rackets, with many of the leading criminals in the United States."

—Black Pressure Ali—

Black leaders in America and Africa are trying quietly to persuade boxer Muhammad Ali not to go ahead with his planned exhibition bout in South Africa in November.

The day before Ali's recent fight against Floyd Patterson, Ali's business manager, Herbert Muhammad, met privately with several black African leaders at a cozy lunch at the United Nations. Included were Ambassador Farah of Somali and Ambassador Thian, the permanent representative

As I See It

by T. J. Patterson

Tomorrow, October 6th, is the last day a person can register to vote for the upcoming presidential election in November. At the present time, there are more than 83,000 persons who have registered to vote in Lubbock County, and there are still some who haven't registered.

Voting is the responsibility of every citizen within this county as well as any county in Texas or anywhere in the nation. We must get involved by getting ready to participate in such an endeavor. Don't fool yourselves by saying that your input doesn't matter. And don't be made a fool of, for it does matter.

Why not take advantage of the new registration laws and the Supreme Court ruling which has made it possible for a person to register thirty days prior to a given election. The general election is Tuesday, November 7, and you must register by 5:00 p.m. Friday, October 6th.

Thus far, citizens of Lubbock County have surpassed the previous voter registration total—which was 65,000 plus. During the last presidential election, a total of 51,073 persons did vote. We can top that figure if we all get involved in the upcoming action.

There is so much we can do with our precious vote if we really use it. By just registering and then not executing our right to vote is even worse than not registering in the first place. After you have registered—you must vote.

You still have time to become a registered voter—until tomorrow—if you really want to become eligible to vote. Think about it. As I See It, we must all think seriously about getting involved.

Thought of the Week: "When you get something for nothing, you just haven't been billed for it yet."

The Youth Football League of Lubbock (YFL) is a good program for the city of Lubbock. We must, at this time, take necessary steps to see that of African Unity. They argued at length that Ali's visit would be a major setback for opponents of South Africa's hated policy of apartheid. But apparently their arguments were unavailing. Herbert finally shrugged and said Ali had signed a contract and that no one could change Ali's mind.

But the black leaders haven't given up. They intend to appeal to the aging leader of the Black Muslim movement, Elijah Muhammad himself, to convince Ali not to go to South Africa. Ali is one of old Elijah's most devoted disciples.

Making the appeal to Elijah Muhammad will be Dennis Brutus, a 47-year-old black South African poet now teaching at Northwestern University. It was Brutus who, last summer, was so successful in helping persuade Avery Brundage to prohibit Rhodesia from participating in the Olympic games.

—Intelligence Reports—

War Widens—Israel apparently is planning military operations against both Iraq and Libya for their support of Palestinian terrorists. In the past, both countries have been immune to Israeli reprisals because of their distance from Israel, but not secret intelligence reports warn that Israel is preparing to retaliate against Arab nations beyond its borders. Israel is said to be especially upset over reports that Libya has given $25 million in oil revenues to the Palestinian terrorists.

Gangster Playland—In the Bahamas, Prime Minister Lynden Pindling is following up his solid parliamentary election victory by seeking full independence from Britain—a move Britain does not oppose. But intelligence reports claim that Pindling has received strong financial support from American gangsters. When the British leave, the reports warn, the Bahamas may become a paradise for the American underworld.

—Around the U.S.—

Lest We Forget—President Nixon told visitors privately the other day that he was distressed over the ITT and Watergate scandals, but that he didn't think they would hurt him on election day. They were too complicated, he said, for the public to understand. The President also commented that the public's memory on government scandals was short. He suggested that the voters have already forgotten, for example, what the ITT scandal was all about.

total representation of all people are on the board of commissioners of this needed program.

This year, there was a new involvement on the part of a boy to play in the league. For a fellow, between the ages of 10 and 13, to play in the league, he had to pay $15.00. There is nothing wrong with the fee, but there should have been input from the Black and brown communities as well as other poor communities, before this decision was made.

It's hard to understand the problems of the Black, brown or any poor community if you are not a part of it. There has to be some means of communications from those areas in order to prevent problems from occurring in such a deserving program as the YFL.

There appears to be a substantial number of participants on the part of the youth of the Black community. They like the program and are doing a splendid job. These young fellows need representation from their communities on the board of commissioners.

It's too late this season, but with proper planning something could be done about this next season.

There are a lot of people in the community who have contributed something to the welfare of its progress. As I See It, it would make sense for the citizens of Lubbock to be made aware of those persons who have done something for the betterment of their community.

One citizen, Ernest Butler, Jr., has contributed much to this community and something special should be done for a man who has not been selfish toward his brothers and sisters.

Of course, Brother Butler has his opinion about working in the community, as any person does, but he too, has made his contribution. He has been the victim of a heart attack recently, but is still concerned about his community.

It would be a good thing if the citizens of Lubbock would do something for a man who has done something for others. He's one of us, so let's show him that we care about what he has done.

In another house burglary, Allie Mae McBride, of 2603 Date Avenue, reported to Lubbock police that she left her home and while away, someone broke inside.

She returned home and found that the screen had been cut, left open, and the door knocked in—causing heavy damage to her property.

by Joe Kelly

What a magnificent effort the Red Raiders gave Saturday night! It wasn't enough, but it was close. Close doesn't win, although this is one time when maybe Tech won by losing.

A breakdown in blocking caused two fumbles and a pass interception. That was 17 points for Texas, more than enough in a game that was tighter than a new shoe.

Take those breaks away and the Raiders probably won.

You can second guess all you want. I'll leave that to the once-a-week experts. But you don't gamble against a team that is as big and strong as Texas with much of any success.

At his press conference after the game, Jim Carlen said that Texas did surprise him with the blitz, something the Horns haven't done in the past.

He also paid tribute to Alan Lowry as a fine operator at quarterback. He said that the option was the toughest thing Tech had to defend against and said that Tech always had trouble with it.

Asked what it took, Carlen replied quickly, "quality players. That's why Penn State and Notre Dame stopped the option."

Gaines Baty and Aubrey McCain did a good job at defensive ends, but the tackles aren't big, strong and quick enough against a superior blocking line.

"I hoped that Lowry hadn't matured, but he had," Carlen said. "He showed great poise and ability. And Texas didn't have just one great linebacker, it had two. Their pass rush made the difference."

Carlen said that it was disappointing to lose, not from the standpoint of effort, but from the mistakes made. He predicted that the players would recover before this week's game.

As for Tulsa coming up, Carlen said that Tech unquestionably would be down a little mentally, but he thought Tulsa would be, too.

"Tulsa is vastly improved since the start of the year," Carlen declared. "Their quarterback is a lot like Lowry. And their running backs are the best set we've seen—and this includes Texas."

"Their offensive line is big and strong. Their receivers are good, too, with good speed. Their field goal kicker probably is the best we'll see."

And they probably have the best defensive secondary we'll face. Their defensive line is also strong.

Then Carlen summed it up quickly. "Tulsa is more explosive than anything we've seen so far."

"What do they do best? I'd say their running game, their pass defense and a good quarterback. If fans don't come out to see this game, they'll miss one of the best games of the year here."

At 3:00 anniversary services were held for Pastor and Mrs. S.N. North. Rev. E. Canada from Salton, Texas delivered the address with power and feeling which was enjoyed by all present. His subject, "The Church" was taken from Matt. 5:13-15.

Services went very well beginning with Sunday School which convened under the very capable supervision of Sunday School Superintendent Robert Ray.

Sunday morning worship service began at 11:30. The choir stand was graced by the senior choir. Due to illness the pastor, Bishop J.E. Alexander, was unable to be present. The Sunday morning message was delivered by Rev. John A. Jackson, encouraging the unification of all Christian believers. Prayer was offered for the sick. Also a call to discipleship was made.
