STEP Program Reduces Injury Accidents

Injury accidents on Slide Road have dropped significantly since the Selective Traffic Enforcement Program (STEP) began Oct. 1, police officials announced today.

From January through September, a total of 58 accidents with injuries occurred along Slide Road between 34th Street and Loop 289. That's an average of more than six injury accidents per month.

Since Oct. 1, only two injury accidents have occurred, one at 34th Street and one at the entrance to South Plains Mall.

"People can complain about getting tickets if they want to," said STEP coordinator Sgt. Jerry Stevens. "But they sure have cut down on accidents."

When the STEP program began Oct. 1, traffic officers were ticketing speeders on Slide Road for speeds up to 85 mph. "Right now I'd say the average speed on Slide Road is about the speed limit," Stevens said.

Citywide, injury accidents are down slightly from a year ago. Through Oct. 31, there were 1,337 accidents with injuries compared with 1,971 during the first 10 months a year ago.

During the first two weeks in November, Lubbock recorded 86 accidents with injuries, down from 101 during the same period last year.

Traffic deaths through Nov. 15 stood at 35 compared with 42 at the same time in 1977.

The eight STEP officers ticketed 1,003 drivers for hazardous moving violations during the first two weeks of November. During October, STEP officers issued 1,804 moving violation tickets, and regular duty police officers wrote more than 1,500 citations for moving violations.

Stevens said STEP officers are shifting their assignments to other hours and other areas in an effort to reduce accidents in key locations.

"Due to a high accident rate, we will be spending several hours watching the intersection of 19th Street and Indiana Avenue," he said. There were 12 injury accidents at 19th and Indiana from January through September and five more since Oct. 1.

"The biggest problem is people running red lights and making illegal turns," he said. "But a lot of accidents are happening because drivers continue making left turns after the left turn arrow goes off. This is extremely hazardous, because the oncoming traffic is traveling 45 miles an hour and has a green light also. It's easy to misjudge the time you have to make a left turn."

And because of continued speeding along the thoroughfare,

"Indiana Avenue as a whole will be receiving special attention for awhile," Stevens said.

MASONIC PHILANTHROPY—At a recent New York reception, members of the Charitable Foundation of the United Supreme Council, Scottish Rite Masons presented United Negro College Fund Executive Director Christopher F. Edley (center) with a $5,000 contribution. The money will aid UNCF in supporting the country's colleges and universities across the country. Shown here with Mr. Edley are Henry A. Dove, Charitable Foundation President, (right), and Dr. John W. Davis, a consultant to the NAACP Legal Defense Fund, which also received a grant from the Scottish Rite Masons.

Local Woman Enjoys Being Self Employed

Mrs. Willie Lee Lewis

Mrs. Willie Lee Lewis is a local self-employed woman who is making her way up to the top as she is running a local beauty salon.

The Doll House of Hair, located at 1701 Parkway Drive in the Parkway Mall, has been in operation since March of this year. Although the salon has been in operation for eight months it is showing a true sign of progress and success.

Mrs. Lewis has not worked with hair all her life, she was an employee for Pioneer Gas for 5 years. She became interested in cosmetology because of the encouragement from her sister who is also a cosmetologist.

After graduating from high school in Clovis, N.M., Mrs. Lewis attended Odessa Beauty Culture School, where she received her license to operate as a beautician in 1953. Mrs. Lewis is married to Marvin Lewis and has one son and three step daughters.

Her first job in the field of cosmetology was in Baltimore, Maryland where she worked for a year. She later moved to Lubbock where she worked in various salons such as Hemphill Wells (when it was in Monterey Center), Personality Cut and Swirl, Bea Beauty Salon, Del Monterey Salon, Cinderella Beauty Salon, and the Magnificent Salon.

Mrs. Lewis later moved to Plainview where she owned and operated a salon for 7 years. She also was a beautician in Albuquerque, N.M. for three years.

The staff of the House of Hair does not profess in hair styling only, they also have a line of hair care products. Doll's House of Hair is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday thru Friday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday. Aside from her salon duties, she is also the vice president of the Hub City Beautician League.

Mrs. Lewis says, "I have enjoyed working here in the Mall, and it has benefitted me as well as the customer by its location."

When asked how she feels about blacks going into business for themselves, Mrs. Lewis replied, "I think that all blacks that are willing and able to open a business of their own should do so. I also feel that being self employed is much easier than being employed by someone else."

All in all, the business world is booming every day. There is no stopping it. Owning your own business is not easy, but you must be determined and confident."

What's Going on at the Health Department

The Health Department is on the go building and developing ways to make a healthier you. The purpose of the Health Department is to preserve and promote health as well as prevent disease.

Dr. Orr, the new director of the Health Department since February of this year, is very concerned about the community's health. Dr. Orr has a degree in Public Relations; is a pediatrician, and she was also in private practice in Midland, Texas for 14 years.

Dr. Orr would like to emphasize that there are many facilities offered at the Health Dept. that many people are not aware of that will benefit the low income person. It does not necessarily mean that you must be on welfare.

There are medical programs as well as environmental programs. All doctors and nurses are from Medical School.

The medical program consists of maternity clinics; venereal disease clinics, laboratories, dental clinics, immunization, Community Health Program, vital statistics where one may purchase a copy of a birth or death certificate, and a Well Child Clinic, which will open in February of 1979.

Maternity clinics are divided to help the low income female during her pregnancy. It is not at all like family planning. Their purpose is to care for the mother to show her ways to care for herself and the baby. The doctors try to get them in at the beginning of their pregnancy.

The venereal disease clinic handles the treatments of venereal disease cases. All information is confidential. The clinic has an investigator, Angie Carillo, who tries to reach contacts who may have the disease and try to have them come to the clinic for treatments.

Immunization manages the issuing of shots to babies and children. In February the Well Child Clinic will be in operation to examine children as well as to immunize them.

The Dental Clinic handles patients who meet a certain income criteria set by the state. One must not be over the age of 18.

The laboratory has all of the latest facilities for testing food, water, milk, and for venereal disease.

The Community Health program consists of nurses who visit the homes of people who need care and treatment. For instance, a mother may need to be shown how to care for her baby as well as herself.

The main concern of the Health Dept. is sanitation problems. This is part of the Environmental Program.

There are people (sanitarians) who are authorized to inspect restaurants all over the city on a regular basis for health violations. The sanitarians are there to prevent infection such as food disease and salmonella, a food poisoning.

At the present there are 5 sanitarians who inspect the restaurants every six months. If 4 more people are added, then the inspections would be every four months. Later on, if there are 15 sanitarians, the inspections would be once a month. Dr. Orr is trying to increase the inspection periods and in order to do this the staff of the sanitarians must increase also.

There are some sanitarians who inspect the milk that is brought into Lubbock, once a month, and have been proven to be effective for more than 30 years. Just think how effective it would be if the restaurants were inspected this often.

Dr. Orr has proposed an ordinance change concerning sanitation inspections.

The proposal was presented to the Board of Health Friday, November 10, 1978, by Dr. Orr. The board must decide for or against the ordinance change. In the event the Board is in favor of the change, it is then presented to the City Council. The Council must have a first and second reading of the proposal. If they

A DAY of THANKSGIVING

JACK ANDERSON WITH JOE SPEAR WEEKLY SPECIAL

Carter's Interest Pleases Big Banks

WASHINGTON—The story of inflation can be translated into simple terms. In plain, pocketbook language, it means higher prices at the supermarket and the gas station.

The Thanksgiving turkey, for example, will cost 15 to 20 cents a pound more than it did last year. And the price of hamburger has gone up more than 35 cents a pound. Here in Washington, premium gasoline has hit 80 cents a gallon.

President Carter is taking some drastic measures to hold down inflation. He has been congratulated for his measures by big bankers around the world. The celebrated Swiss banker, Edgar De Picciotto, for example, summed up the sentiment in baking circles with a simple statement. "People have to suffer," he said, "to pay for a quarter of a century of boom growth."

In Chicago, Robert Abound of the First National Bank applauded the president. In Los Angeles, Richard Kjeldsen of the Security Pacific National Bank termed the president's actions "just what the doctor ordered."

Carter, in short, is suddenly the darling of big bankers. And there is good reason.

The president raised interest rates higher than they have ever been. This will enrich the big banks. They can now charge more for the money they lend. They will fatten their profits at the expense of Americans who buy homes, cars and appliances on credit.

The president has it all figured out. He believes the common people won't be able to afford the high interest rates. They will borrow less money and buy fewer houses and cars. Supposedly, this will force down prices.

The president's policy will penalize the people and benefit the banks. Some economic experts believe he can reduce inflation without squeezing it out of the people. For example, he can slash federal spending. In past reports, we have documented how the bureaucrats squander tax money.

It will take sacrifice and hardship to stop inflation. But Carter has put the burden on the people, not on the bureaucrats or the bankers. Many economists believe the president could reduce inflation more fairly by imposing price, wage and import controls.

The banks have also helped create today's economic strain. They handed out loans overseas, where the interest rates were higher. Many of these loans have gone bad. The secret figures, we are told, exceed $170 billion in bad loans and $230 billion in undamaged loans.

If the indebted governments start defaulting on their loans, the shock waves would rock the U.S. banking system. But if this should happen, it's a safe bet the taxpayers would be called on again to bail out the banks.

Amin's Dilemma: Idi Amin, the brutal dictator of Uganda, has staged an incursion into the neighboring country of Tanzania. The Tanzanians are striking back and, according to intelligence reports, may be able to drive into Uganda and perhaps overthrow Amin himself.

Sources inside Amin's presidential palace have passed word to us that the situation in Uganda is critical. Once one of the richest countries in Africa, Uganda is now impoverished. International corporations will no longer deliver goods unless they are paid in advance. Thus the populace is short of everything.

There is a serious gasoline shortage. Salt is rationed. The people don't have enough cooking oil. But Idi Amin has terrorized them until they are too frightened to protest.

Now the shortages are beginning to affect the army. The food is poor and there isn't enough gasoline for the mechanized units. Sometimes Idi Amin cannot meet the payroll.

This has stirred mutiny in some units. According to intelligence reports, rebellious troops were stationed on the Tanzanian border. So Amin ordered his air force to bomb the Tanzanian town of Bukoba in the hope, apparently, that it would provide the Tanzanians into attacking his rebellious troops.

Prudent Secretary: Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano is fudging in his all-out war on smokers. The secretary is a former three-package-a-day puffer himself. But he saw the light through a haze of cigarette smoke and has been in the forefront of the anti-smoking campaign ever since. Califano has proposed legislation to eliminate smoking in public buildings and has segregated the HEW offices into smoking and non-smoking sections.

But now the battle-weary secretary has hedged on calling for an end to $70 million worth of federal subsidies to tobacco farmers. The subsidies help the farmers earn yearly profits amounting to almost two and a half billion dollars.

In public, Califano maintains that the subsidies aren't important in his anti-smoking campaign. But privately, the secretary admits that he would like the subsidies eliminated.

Our sources claim that Califano wants to avoid a backstage battle with President Carter on the issue. The president promised about 400,000 tobacco growers in the Southern states that they will continue to receive the subsidies. So, if the ambitious Califano pushes for an end to the federal handouts, he would also be risking his tenure as a member of the Carter Cabinet.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—State government again entered a new fiscal year period Comptroller Bob Bullock filed with the governor's office a 1978 annual financial report showing the surplus as of last August 31.

The year-end cash balance was $244.8 million greater than that at the beginning of the year.

Bullock's report indicated state government had total revenues and beginning cash of $11.1 billion during the year and spent $8.4 billion.

The comptroller said the favorable position was made possible by record revenues from major taxes. Income included $5 billion in taxes, $2 billion in federal aid, $414 million in licenses and fees, $665 million from investments of state funds and $405 million in revenue from state-owned lands.

"The economic environment of Texas government should be the envy of budget-makers in the other 49 states and is closely linked to the state's prospering economy," Bullock said.

Biggest expenditure was $3.7 billion for public education at all levels—46 per cent of all outgo.

Public welfare ranked second with outlays of $1.6 billion. Spending for state highways totaled $921.8 million.

The report showed Texas population at 12.8 million, an increase of 2.8 per cent over the last year.

Per capita personal income averaged $6,803 in 1977—a 10.3 per cent jump.

Data Requested

A legislative committee, assessing effect of the new tax relief constitutional amendment, requested full information on value of property owned by the aged and disabled.

The Legislative Commission on Public School Finance requested the School Tax Assessment Practices Board to come up with the data to aid assessment of the amendment's impact on school finances.

The amendment grants a $5,000 exemption from school taxes to homeowners and permits an additional exemption of up to $10,000 on market value of homes owned by the elderly and disabled.

In their special session last summer, legislators set aside $450 million to reimburse school districts for revenue lost due to increased exemptions.

The commission will also assess impact of exempting intangible property from the tax base and other factors bearing on school finance.

A report on the exemptions will be made at the commission's next meeting here December 1.

Bids Taken

The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation accepted bids this week for 44 highway construction projects expected to cost about $67 million.

Largest project is the $21.5 million (estimated) completion of the southwest quadrant of IH 820 around Fort Worth.

The department earlier announced federal approval of a 20-project program to provide transportation for the aged and handicapped.

Eleven of the first $458,115 worth of projects will provide funds for organizations in urbanized areas, nine in non-urban areas. The Urban Mass Transportation Administration offers grants for equipment purchases where local sponsors agree to operate and subsidize cost of special transportation for the aged and handicapped.

Courts Speak

The Court of Criminal Appeals ordered a new trial for a Yorktown man awaiting execution for murder of a policeman because he wasn't provided a lawyer before he signed a confession.

The State Supreme Court, in a Grayson County case, held a district judge cannot retain authority over a county's tax rolls. The judge blocked a couple from carrying on their suit to invalidate the Grayson County tax rolls, then rescinded the order.

District Judge Harley Clark of Austin turned down a suit attacking an Interscholastic League rule which requires high school athletes who move to a new school from out of state to wait a year to play in league competition.

In other cases, the Court of Criminal Appeals:

—Ordered a new trial for a Houston man sentenced to life for aggravated robbery.

—Threw out a 15-year-to-life sentence of a Bexar County man for robbery.

—Reversed a 10-year sentence of a Weatherford man for possession of marijuana.

Appointments

Ben Teague of Austin has been named acting commissioner of occupational education and technology at the Texas Education Agency.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe appointed Dr. William F. Ross of Dallas to the statewide Health Coordinating Council for a two-year unexpired term.

Briscoe also placed Robert J. Cheaney II of Santa Anna and Ross L. Jones of Coleman on the board of directors of the Central Colorado River Authority. They replace Oscar L. Cheaney of Santa Anna and Maurice B. Kingsbery of Coleman.

Short Snorts

Bill Clements, elected Texas' first Republican governor in 105 years at the November general election, already is making plans for his transition to the top state executive office. A separate office will coordinate inauguration plans.

Texas Good Neighbor Commission officially frowned on construction of a high fence between El Paso and Juarez—or any spot on the 2,000-mile border.

Port Arthur and Brenham savings and loan associations filed applications for branch offices in Dallas and Harris County. Hearings were set by the Savings and Loan Department December 4.

A Senate committee held another hearing on prospective alternatives to the property tax as a major Texas revenue source.

Texas Education Agency launched a six months intensive study of vocational education administration and programs.

Texas Railroad Commission provided money to local governments for rail planning studies in Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, El Paso, Bryan, College Station and Laredo.

KELLY'S HEROES

by Joe Kelly

Okay, Rex Dockery, you have my vote for coach of the year in the SWC, hands down. I think you and your staff have done a superlative job under adverse conditions. It's been remarkable.

I don't say that because you defeated SMU Saturday. The decision was made before that. The SMU victory was great and it assured Texas Tech of having a .500 season. Actually, better than just .500. And that in itself is unbelievable. Before the season, not even the experts picked a 6-5 record.

It shouldn't have been as close as it was, really. Tech had every opportunity to break the game wide open. Instead, the Raiders had to settle for field goals—and that's a risky way to win.

Six times Tech got inside the SMU 10 yard line, but came out of it with only one touchdown, two fumbles and three field goals. That was 13 points, but SMU scored 14 points on two touchdowns, so field position really didn't reward Tech that much.

The final two and a half minutes were really fingernail biting time. The two teams kept trading breaks, as though neither wanted to win the game. Finally, Ted Watts ended all that nonsense.

In the long run, it was the Raider defense that turned the tide. The Raiders gave, but they didn't break, and Mike Ford is the type who never lets you relax. He's scary, and he has one or two good runners, along with a better than average front line. It was a memorable game.

Bill Yoeman brings his Houston road show here this week and it, for Tech fans, won't be very entertaining, I'm afraid. The Cougars aren't going to be sidelined from their trip to the Cotton bowl.

Still, I think it will be a good game and Tech will give the Cougars a good fight. The Coogs had an open date last week and that gave Bill a chance to see the Raiders in person. I talked to him before the game (he sat three seats from me in the pressbox) and we talked about many things. The most significant was his rating of Danny Davis, his quarterback.

"He's a winner," Bill declared. "He makes things happen. He rallies our whole team—and we have a pretty good quarterback sitting on the bench (Delrick Brown). Shepherd? He's going to be good. He has a good attitude."

About Texas, Bill said that "they're deceptive. They may not look good, but all they do is beat you. They have a good team." As for A&M, he agreed that he wouldn't be surprised if they beat Arkansas (My pick. They didn't). He said F.A. Dry would do the job at TCU.

The conference race is running down and the real shocker isn't so much that Houston is going to win, with UT second, it's that Tech is tied (with Arkansas) for third. Experts thought only Rice would be under Tech.

Now the bowls are shaping up and four SWC teams will be engaged. If Tech beat Houston, it MIGHT get a bowl bid, but don't hold your breath. It would give the Raiders more "spring training," but this shouldn't be the year. I'm not wild about Notre Dame being back in the Cotton, but it's a good gate game.

The last weekend was a notable one. Friday morning I heard voices in smiling voices when I went out there, my youngest and his bride were at my age, is better forgotten).

They, along with Junior (he hates that), who is a junior at Tech, went to the SMU game and yelled their heads off.

That night I had the pleasure of visiting the reunion of the 1953 Gator Bowl squad, a party hosted by ends Claude (Pete) Harland and Harold Spraggins. There was a wonderful turnout—and what a football team you could have fielded from those that were there.

For example, the team that had the two best quarterbaks any team has ever had, Jack Kirkpatrick and Jerry Johnson, were there. I've mentioned two ends already and the tackles were Jimmy Williams and Jerry Walker. Name two better Tech tackles.

There were many others on hand, too numerous to mention, along with the coach, DeWitt Weaver, as well as his golfing son, Dee Dee. And, as the night wore on, in came Rodney Allison, not a bad quarterback himself some 24 years after Kirkpatrick and Johnson.

Rodney, incidentally, said that they had had a lousy year, but there were promises of changes and things looked better for next year.

Along with everything else, Gerald Myers unveiled his new running offense against the Bulgarian Nationals, and if this edition of the Red Raiders doesn't bring out the fans, nothing will. He has speed, quickness and shooting on this squad.

No one has seen the other teams in the SWC, but if there's a better freshman than Jeff Taylor of Hobbs, I don't want to see him. Taylor has speed, quickness and he can jump. He also has a fine shooting touch. Gerald's biggest problem will be deciding who is going to play—and when and how much.

One thing I'd like to clear up is Ron Reeves' "fumble" on the goalline. What had happened, we asked him?

"First of all," the calm, poised freshman said quietly, "I didn't fumble. I went forward. My momentum stopped. SMU players started pushing me back. I was already starting to get up when I saw the officials signal that SMU had the ball.

"I can't figure it out. How many ways can you fumble on a quarterback sneak?"

Hank Aaron—Pearl Bailey Win Awards: They were two of the nine men and women from the United States and Canada who were recently honored with the 1979 Encyclopedia Britannica Award for Achievement in Life. Aaron received the Achievement in Sports Award and Miss Bailey was honored for achievement in the Performing Arts. Recipients for the 1979 award were selected on the basis of notable contributions in the fields of public service, business, the arts, science, sports and education, as well as attitude and accomplishments.

Hank Aaron became a star baseball player from the moment he joined the Milwaukee Braves in 1954. Although a rookie, he was named the team's Most Valuable Player that year. Today he is looked upon as one of the greatest performers in the history of baseball. He is best known for having broken Babe Ruth's career home run record of 714, a feat he accomplished while a member of the Atlanta Braves in April 1974.

Aaron also became the first player to total more than 3,000 career hits and more than 500 home runs, and is one of only five players ever to hit more than 30 homers and steal more than 30 bases in a season. He was named to the National League all-star team 16 times, was the league's Most Valuable Player in 1957 and was named Player of the Year by Sporting News in 1956 and 1963. Today, he is a vice-president with the Atlanta Braves.

Pearl Bailey began her singing career in small coal-mining towns in Pennsylvania but soon moved up to some of the best known nightclubs in New York. In 1964, she made her stage debut in "St. Louis Woman" and was honored with the Donaldson Award as the best newcomer on Broadway, only the first of many awards she has received. She has appeared in a number of Broadway plays, including "Hello Dolly", for which she won a special "Tony" in 1968. She starred in her own television show in 1970 and 1971. She has five books to her credit. She has traveled abroad extensively and has been honored by many governments of the world, including Egypt and Jordan.

United Methodism's national communications agency has been challenged to provide "creative" leadership for the denomination in the mass communications area such as investigating the ownership of radio and television stations, increasing its influence in national communications policy-making and in general representing the church's point of view in all sections of the nation.

"I find that the evangelistic zeal is missing in many of our mainline Protestant churches. Mainline Protestant churches appear to be on the defensive and are losing membership. Television seems to have become the main enculturating tool of our society, rather than the home, the church or the school. Where the church is missing the boat is in television, Charles Cappleman, general manager of CBS Television City, told United Methodist officials in Communications recently.

Recent Great Quotes: "Lest we forget the stony roads we have had to trod, the blood of the slaughtered and the highways watered with the tears of our parents, we may not appreciate how far we have come. We may also forget the direction in which we are heading.

"Do not misunderstand me. I am very proud to be one of a handful of major city black mayors. It is a very select company. But, sometimes, while bragging about the 5,000 or so black elected officials we have, we need to be reminded that there are more than 500,000 elected officials in this country which means that we have less than 1 percent of the total. We have made good progress, but there is much more to be done." End of quote from Mayor Ernest "Dutch" Morial, first black mayor of New Orleans, La.

Our congratulations to The Black Oriented Oklahoma Eagle for recently publishing the largest single newspaper in the 150th year history of the black press in America. The publisher, Bob Goodwin Jr., commenting said: "There is so much history recorded in so many places throughout the state of Oklahoma, that it would take several publications of like size to even touch the surface. The issue marked the 60th anniversary of the North Tulsa based twice weekly publication.

Sheridan's Ride

by Jack Sheridan

This week's top priority in the column, must, I think, be a kind of apology to Lubbock Theatre Centre for missing one of its four performances recently of the Neil Simon comedy, "The Odd Couple." This marks one of the very few times that I have missed a production by this time-honored, longtime (to me) close amateur theatrical asset of our city.

I could offer a number of reasons, not the least would be pressure of outside commitments. But, there is an underlying and, I suspect, truer reason for my apathy for this show and I might as well admit it. I simply did not want to sit through this now-hoary comedy one more time.

We've had the national roadshow of this comedy veteran, Hayloft entries, Lubbock Theatre Centre itself one prior, the movie version, sliding into the long-running variation of the television series. That's a plenty, for me. Granted, "The Odd Couple" is a very, very funny show, or was before the lines and situations became so ingrained to the regular stage or moviegoer, television addict, that the individual attendee could recite the lines by rote, play out the original situations by imitation.

Let's face it, the bloom is off the rose on this one. I don't know when LTC's play-reading committee decided to warm over this one yet again, but it is regrettable, when one considers there are so many other vehicles that have yet to be given a local unveiling, fresh and new to this area. "The Odd Couple" should be pensioned off; like a champion racer, it should be turned out to pasture, perhaps to "stud" to continue its original comedic innovations in newer, rollicking Simon work. Incidentally, Simon's new film (that is, the one based on yet another of his stage hits), "California Suite" will be on the Cinema West screen during the upcoming holiday season. 'Nuff said, about "The Odd Couple."

Speaking of the holiday season, once again I protect the hot-eyed commercial approach to Christmas yet again this year. I think it is deplorable that we have Broadway lined with the pole trees a week before Thanksgiving, that Santa Clauses by the score are already making their triumphal pre-holiday drop-ins to supermarkets, malls and what have you, and that the papers have already started their not-so-subliminal workouts on the national pocketbook, all under the guise of Christmas. What has become of the delicious mystery, the spiritual uplift, the meaning of the times and season? The "buck" may be sick on the international marketplace, but there seems to be a goodly lot of people who are single-purposely aiming to separate you and me from our Christmas money just as soon as humanly, electronically possible.

Speaking of local embarrassments, which Metro Lubbock seems to enjoy vicariously upon its citizens, perhaps the most in this category is the KLBK-TV, Channel 13, commercial horror that uses the ghastly jingle, "You Turn Us On, We'll Turn You On." I rather think this is locally-produced, it simply couldn't be that the national CBS network could foist something so puerile and sickening as this concept on its member stations. And KLBK has no compunctions about repeating the same shameful effort not once but twice in the same half-hour. Like the pathetic old lady who closes out this nauseating bit says, "That's tacky!" and never has a commercial climaxed with its own review before. This one ranks alongside the dreadful commercials wherein local owners of businesses take to the television enterprises and in general alienate potential customers by their own colossal ineptitude as speakers and performers. Lubbock's standard verges too often on a base of mediocrity and that mediocrity is more often than not reflected in the areas of public communication, press, radio and the intrusive tube.

Now, take, for instance, the Century 21 real estate horror—you take it, I can't. A few runs-through of those precocious kids showing houses and yapping in their high-itched nasal twangs is enough to turn me off the sponsor for all time!

There's a very, very funny movie, albeit a rollocking vulgar and outspoken one, Mel Brooks' "Blazing Saddles," the western film take-off that has become a classic in its own right, showing right now at the Winchester Theatre. It's naughty, but it's the hilarious springboard that sent Mel Brooks on his way and gave us some of his players, including Madeleine Kahn, to perfection. It's a howl and don't pass it up. It's a limited run, but the repeaters at this one are, I'll bet, going to match the newcomers head by head.

By now you know that "The Boys From Brazil," the South American Nazi thriller with Gregory Peck and Sir Laurence Olivier and James Mason (in a small role) is holding steady at the Fox 4 complex. This is the story, incredible as it is, that treats with clones around the world being readied for the next Nazi push. Gregory Peck is the "evil one" for a change, opposed to Olivier and the final scenes are bloody, gory and taut. It's look-see if you haven't already.

A word about Channel 5 (KTX-T=V) and its 2 p.m. each Saturday classic movie string. Last week's "Hobson's Choices", starring Charles Laughton in one of his finest characterizations, with Brenda de Banzie and John Mills was well worth the seeing and this Saturday the highly-praised, award-winning "La Strada" a Fellini film that is classic starring Anthony Quinn is on tap. These films are among the best every produced and your attention is hereby directed.

This is the week of the year that boasts the truly American jewel in its midriff. I'm speaking of Thanksgiving Day, tomorrow, Thursday.

Thanksgiving means a lot to many people in many ways. It is a traditional day of family get-togethers, the feasting, the visiting, the outpouring of closeness and love. It is primarily the day set aside to make us conscious of our blessings and our gratitudes.

For many it is a lonely day, a day of emptiness, the loners. Most of us cope, however; time and circumstance has created a resistant callous on fellings and emotions, a shell that helps from Thanksgiving through the New Year's festivities drumming around us incessantly and persistently. Some of us don't have too much to be thankful for, on cursory examination, I think. But, down deep, we do. We're not only thankful but, more than that, the feasting is in the hope that sustains, that next time around will be better.

So, count your blessings and be grateful. In other words, you all have a fine, rewarding, enriching and comforting day, hear?

How we sweetened the melting pot.

We all pitched in. That's how we sweetened the melting pot called America.

Like a big family coming together for a festive meal, each immigrant group has added its contribution. The world's best skills, talents, minds, hearts, music, children, customs, that's what's gone into America.

We've put them all together and they've nourished the greatest nation in the world.

And the best thing is, we haven't stopped pitching in.

Today 9 1/2 million American workers invest in their country by buying U.S. Savings Bonds.

You can too. Sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. It's an easy, automatic way to sweeten your life while you sweeten your land by taking stock in America with U.S. Savings Bonds.

Series E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4 1/2% the first year). Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.
