

The Outcast basketball team, composed of former Dunbar High School athletes, will participate in a special effort, the Vernel Hightower Fund, when they play the KSEL Pink Raiders in a basketball benefit. The Outcast was second in city competition this season and received third place in a regional tournament at Canyon, Texas recently.

The public is cordially invited to attend this fine effort Friday evening, April 6, in the Dunbar Auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

SBA Drops Crippling Minority Revisions In Grant Program

Washington—(NBNS)—Black businessmen have been successful in getting the Small Business Administration to drop plans which would have severely hampered minority business owners.

SBA had proposed amendments to its "8-A" program. These changes, blacks have contended, would make them ineligible for the program which sets aside certain noncompetitive contracts specifically for minority companies.

A number of Senators and Congressmen joined the black businessmen in arguing against the proposals. The National Association of Black Manufacturers and the National Small Business Association were among the groups opposing the changes.

Under the proposed SBA changes, which were published in the Federal Register on March 6, a company would have to be both owned and controlled by members of minorities to benefit from the 8-A set aside program.

Present regulations demand that minority members need either own or control a company, but not both.

Among other changes, the proposed regulations would require that minority group members own 60 per cent of a company, instead of the present 51 per cent requirement. And non-minority investors would be able to invest in only one 8-A company, there are no restrictions currently.

Most opponents of the changes said they would cost a small business at least $2,000 to make the necessary legal modifications to comply with the proposed regulations.

"Minority businessmen can ill-afford to use that kind of money for that sort of purpose," said Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., a leading opponent of the measure.

"Worse yet, the minority businessman, who is already short on capital, will have a still more difficult time persuading others to go into business with him if they are limited to only 40 per cent ownership."

SBA Administrator Thomas Kleppe said the proposals were revised "as a result of excellent public response." He said the agency had "modified the program from time to time since its inception and feels it can make it even more effective by the proposed changes."

Instead, SBA says it will make only minor administrative changes "to assist in administering the program in the 10 SBA regions."

SBA contends the undisclosed amend-

Civil Rights Leaders "Mute" Blacks' Progress According to Political Authors this Week

Washington—(NBNS)—Two political authors who argued the advantages of "centrist" politics in their book three years ago charged this week that liberals and civil rights leaders have deliberately downplayed the progress made by blacks during the past decade in order to keep Federal dollars flowing in the direction of black and poor people.

Richard Scammon, a former director of the Census Bureau, and Ben J. Wattenberg, a former political adviser to Sen. Henry Jackson (D-Wash.), who wrote "The Real Majority" in 1970, said in a breakfast with reporters this week that civil rights leaders are cognizant of the advances made by blacks, especially in employment and education, but that they have "elected as a matter of policy to mute any public acknowledgement or celebration of black accomplishments in order to maintain moral and political pressure on the administration and on public opinion."

They also claimed that more than half of the country's black population are now members of the middle class, an allegation based on data from the U.S. Census Bureau's 1970 count and subsequent surveys.

Scammon and Wattenberg said they selected a median family income of $8,000 a year as the line between lower and middle class in the north and $6,000 a year in the south. By those standards, 52 per cent of the black populace are now in the middle class category. They conceded that the choice of their figures was arbitrary.

However, on a nationwide basis, blacks in 1971 had a median family income of $6,400 as opposed to $10,672 for whites.

They cited as examples of this downplaying of black gains a statement by Georgia State Rep. Julian Bond that blacks are not faring any better when compared to whites than they were before the civil rights struggle began and a 1971 speech by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie (D-Maine), who described what he termed the "failure of American liberalism."

In addition, the two authors said the gains made by blacks are evident in the number of federal programs that have spent billions of dollars to upgrade the education and living conditions of blacks.

If you maintain that the black man is no better off than before, then you're saying we have thrown all these billions down a rat hole, and then you're asking for more. This is counterproductive," Scammon said.

"The way to do it is to trumpet your accomplishments and ask for more," Wattenberg added.

Wattenberg also said that in 1968, the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and former Sen. Eugene McCarthy "went around the country seeing who could come up with the biggest unemployment figures for the ghettos" and that the figures were often exaggerated.

The burden of proof for showing that federal programs have not worked ought to be placed on the president, the authors charged, but that the "new left" has played into his (the president's) hands. Scammon called it "the mugging of the liberals by the new left."

Grand Jury in D.C. Looking at Recent Moslem Murders

Washington—(NBNS)—Although D.C. police have refused to comment on any aspect of the intensive investigation of the slaying of seven Hanafi Moslems here on January 18, the Superior Court grand jury is expanding its investigations to include a robbery-multiple rape incident that occurred in Philadelphia last December.

According to sources close to the investigation, items found near the scene of the D.C. slayings which include a gun and identification papers were stolen in the Philadelphia incident. D.C. police investigators went to Philadelphia to participate in the investigation about two weeks after the Hanafi killings.

A federal grand jury in Philadelphia is assisting the D.C. Grand Jury in hearing testimony related to the Hanafi slayings. No indictments have been returned yet.

Seven Moslems, who were killed in the incident, ranged in age from 9 days to 25 years. Two others were wounded, Bibi Khaalis, 26, and Almina Khaalis, 23, the two wives of the Moslem groups leader, Abdul Khaalis. Both were shot several times in the head.

The Hanafis have accused the Moslems who are under the leadership of Elijah Mahammad, with whom the Hanafis have intense theological disagreements, of being responsible for the murders.

Minister Louis Farrakahn, national spokesman for the Muslims, denied, however, that there was any violent feud between the followers of Muhammad and other orthodox Moslems. "No white folks, we're not going to kill each other. You're going to have to come and do it yourselves," he said.

The grand jury investigation, however, seems to be attempting to manufacture the existence of a "get Hanafi" policy among Muhammads group in their investigation. The bulk of those subpoenaed by the grand jury appear to be members of Muhammads group although there is no evidence that points in that direction which has come to light.

ments will probably not affect applicants directly.

The new proposed amendments will be published soon for public comment.

But black businessmen say they will be watching to see if SBA tries to implement the old proposals on an administrative basis.

Lubbock is Site of New Texas Instruments Semiconductor Plant—To Open Next Month

Texas Instruments Incorporated last week announced plans to manufacture semiconductor products in Lubbock beginning in June in a 39,000 sq. ft. building on a five acre site at Loop 289 and 12th Street. The company also announced it has an option to purchase a 200 acre site in north Lubbock at Loop 289 and University Ave. to accommodate longer-range manufacturing plans.

The two-phase program for Lubbock was outlined by TI Executive Vice President J. Fred Bucy, Jr., in a luncheon meeting sponsored by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

He said the initial facility will require a work force estimated at more than 500 in its first year of operation, and that local interviews would begin within 30 days. TI expects to begin production in Lubbock by June 1, and be in full three-shift operation within six months.

Mr. Bucy said a 4000 sq. ft. cafeteria will be added to the existing 35,000 sq. ft. building formerly occupied by the Bibb Company at the 12th Street site. Other modifications to the facility were started this week.

Except for a cadre of experienced technical and supervisory personnel with special skills to be transferred to Lubbock, all positions for the new plant will be filled from local applicants, he said.

The realization of TI's plans for a full-scale operation in Lubbock on the proposed 200-acre site will depend on market development and other factors, but long-range plans envision a facility that would accommodate an eventual employment level of more than 2000, Mr. Bucy added.

Integrated circuits, one of the products to be made in Lubbock, are complete electronic circuits formed within tiny chips of silicon material typically one-tenth of an inch square. They were invented by Texas Instruments in 1958 and now account for industry sales of over one billion dollars annually on a worldwide basis. The type integrated circuits to be made by TI in Lubbock are used in such products as television sets, computers, and automotive electronics.

Optoelectronic devices represent another major product line to be manufactured in Lubbock. The devices use materials that emit or detect visible or invisible light. The visible light emitting types are used in numerical displays for industrial instruments and calculators, for example. The invisible light emitting and sensing types are used typically in pairs as tiny "electric eyes" to read the holes in computer punch cards of tapes. TI is recognized as an industry leader in this technology.

Mr. Bucy said considerations involved in the selection of Lubbock for a new TI manufacturing site included the availability of highly motivated people, a nearby major airport facility, and Texas Tech University, which will be an important source of technical and administrative talent.

Texas Instruments has major manufacturing facilities in Dallas, Sherman, Austin, and Houston as parts of a worldwide network of 39 plants in 17 countries. TI's subsidiary, Geophysical Service, Inc., has a network of ten geophysical data processing centers around the world, including centers in Dallas, Houston, and Midland, conducts geophysical operations in 29 countries, and owns five seismic vessels for offshore surveys.

Support The Sickle Cell Anemia Benefit Game Friday

A great effort is being put together by members of the Outcast basketball team to contribute to the Vernell Hightower Fund. Members of this basketball team, all young men of the black community, are working hard to make this effort a success.

This team will play a benefit game Friday, April 6, in the Dunbar High School Gym, at 7:30 p.m. against KSEL, local radio station. Admission is only $1.00.

We can all help this effort by purchasing tickets from members of the team or by coming out to the game on Friday evening. It is for a good cause and your support is definitely needed. If you cannot attend the game for reasons beyond your control, why not purchase tickets to help this worthwhile project?

It is good to see young people in the community working with the entire community for a cause which helps somebody. The young men involved are utilizing all of their energies to make this effort a great success. With your support, moral and financial, this effort will go over real big.

Sickle Cell Anemia is a bad disease for members of the black community. With one out of every ten being a carrier of the disease and one out of every 400 blacks having the disease is dreadful to even think about. The Hightower youth died from this dreadful disease and her sister, Gwendolyn who is 14 years of age, is also a victim.

Let's support this effort and do what we can to make it go over big. We all can support this effort today and Friday.

Why Not Make Applications For Positions with City's New TI Plant?

Last week, in a special meeting, officials of Texas Instruments of Dallas, Texas (TI) made it known that they will have a plant in operation in our community by July 1st. This is definitely good news for the citizens of Lubbock.

We would, however, advise you to make applications for some of the jobs which will be open when the new plant comes to town. According to officials, the plant will employ 500 people the first year and this figure will increase as the plant grows.

We must take this time to urge you to write to this company and let them know that you are concerned in becoming a part of this effort in our community. If you are interested in working for this nationally known company, you may let them know by writing them at: P.O. Box 10508, Lubbock, Texas 79408.

Don't be guilty of not letting the personnel department know that you would like to be a part of this needed effort in the Hub City. It wouldn't hurt for you to enclose a resume of your work history and skills that you possess.

We must take this time and thank those who made it possible for TI to select Lubbock, Texas as a site for this plant. The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and its industrial committee must be commended for a job well done. Not only these people, but our city officials for working with a company such as TI so that Lubbock would be chosen.

It would make good sense for any person of the black community to start making contact now so that you will be considered when its time for the hiring. Don't hesitate, for it may be too late. Let TI know that you would like to be a part of this growing industry.

JACK ANDERSON'S WEEKLY SPECIAL

More On Watergate by Jack Anderson

(Copyright, 1973, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington—Watergate conspirator James McCord has alleged that pressure was brought on the Watergate defendants to plead guilty and, thereby, to keep the details of the scandal out of the court record. He also named higher-ups whom he claimed had advance knowledge of the Watergate break-in and bugging. His charges have brought howls of denial from the White House.

I happened to be at the Arlington Towers, where the Watergate defendants were holding their secret strategy sessions just before Christmas. I was waiting in a nearby room for one of the Watergate figures to report the latest developments to me.

After the session broke up, my informant slipped into my room and reported that powerful pressure had been brought on the defendants to plead guilty. He said E. Howard Hunt, the Watergate ringleader, had made the pitch. Hunt promised that their families would receive $1,000 a month while they were in prison and implied an early pardon would be arranged. My informant said Hunt had a charismatic influence over the other defendants. Most had worked under him during the Bay of Pigs plotting.

We wrote a story, which was published on December 26th, about the pressure and the $1,000-a-month offer. But we held back the other details to protect my source. We are now free to tell more about the incident, although we still cannot reveal the source. But the incident strongly suggests that McCord is telling the truth.

White House sources also told us months ago that presidential aides John Dean and Jeb Magruder were far more deeply implicated in the Watergate affair than they were admitting. These are the same higher-ups whom McCord has now named.

We don't pretend to know the whole Watergate story and have been able to put together only some of the jig-saw pieces. But the way to get the truth is for President Nixon to cooperate with the Senate, not to obstruct its investigation.

Deep Concern

We reported on June 12, 1969, that the Kremlin was seriously considering a preventive attack on China. The story was confirmed two months later by CIA Director Richard Helms, who told newsmen about the danger during a deep background session. Since we didn't attend the background session, we are free to reveal that Helms was the man who confirmed the story.

The Kremlin wanted to knock out China's nuclear works before China developed nuclear missiles that could menace Russia. The Central Intelligence Agency now believes it's too late for Russia to consider a preventive attack. China now has an estimated four dozen nuclear-tipped missiles

Black culture and Afro-American history, also said that if Europeans had acknowledged that ancient Egypt was black, "it would have thrown history all out of kilter."

It is worth noting that the black historian also commented on some U.S. state laws that determine that individuals with "one drop of black blood" are automatically considered "Negroes." He made his point clear, however, by saying, "by this stupid law, we have a whole lot of white people who think they are white but they really belong to us."

It was interesting to hear other highlights of the program which included the denunciation of the word "Negro" by Professor Clarke. He said, "I dismiss the word 'Negro' because it is an adjective that someone made a noun out of and slapped it on a people."

The point he made about a race was most interesting. "When one thinks of a race of people, we think of land, history, and culture," he said. This makes a lot of sense, for when we think of a Frenchman, one thinks of Paris. On the other hand, when we use the word "Negro", we think of a condition, not a race.

Clarke did say, however, that "race" is a man-made thing, coined by the pseudoscientific thinking of Europeans. He believed that migrations caused people to acclimate to new environments. In doing so, he attributed this to certain groups developing new physical attributes.

As I See It, was quite happy to have the opportunity of hearing the wisdom of Dr. Clarke. I hope many of you had an opportunity of doing same. I hope we are viewers of "Black Journal" and other black oriented programs which can help us think. As Brother Cleaver said in his publication of "Soul on Ice", we must learn to use our minds instead of our bodies.

Hearing Brother Clarke over "Black Journal" will make you want to use your mind and not just your body.

Thought of the Week: "God had made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitation." Acts 17:26.

I was really impressed with fourteen young men at Texas Tech University who wanted to do something for the university while they were home during the spring vacation last week. The young men, from Houston, Dallas, San Antonio and other places south, are in the process of setting up an Omega Psi Phi Fraternity on the campus.

As the group approached me, they wanted to go back to their respective high schools and tell students about Texas deployed against Soviet cities, including Moscow itself.

The CIA has no doubt that Russia would win a nuclear war with China. But the CIA believes the price would be too high. It almost surely would cost Russia most of her great cities. Most intelligence experts agree with the CIA.

But some of President Nixon's key intelligence advisers inside the National Security Agency still regard a Soviet attack on China as a real possibility. The Soviets now have at least 41 divisions massed along the China border. They are backed by an arsenal of nuclear weapons.

White House sources tell us the President is deeply concerned that the Soviets might strike. He warned Soviet Chairman Leonid Brezhnev in Moscow last year against such an attack. The President is worried that a war between Russia and China would erupt into a world war, with horrible nuclear devastation. Even a nuclear exchange between Russia and China, alone, would endanger the United States. For the United States is downwind from Asia. The wind currents would carry the nuclear fall-out directly over this country.

Thus, President Nixon, once the implacable foe of both Communist giants, is now in the curious role of trying to keep peace between them.

Still There

The withdrawal of American military forces from South Vietnam definitely does not mean the United States is abandoning the Saigon regime or pulling out of Southeast Asia. The military command has simply been transferred from Saigon to Nakhon Phanom in Thailand. Just across the border from Laos.

The command will continue to operate, keeping air and naval forces on the alert, until the peace is stabilized in Indochina.

Meanwhile, the United States will continue to bolster South Vietnam with economic aid. Counting both direct and indirect aid, the American taxpayers will pay between 70 to 90 per cent of the actual cost of running the South Vietnamese government.

The United States will also supply friendly governments in Southeast Asia with all the arms they need to stay in power. Military shipments will be increased to Australia, Cambodia, Indonesia, Laos, Thailand and the Philippines. The strategy will be to furnish arms, but no longer men, to support our allies in Southeast Asia.

President Nixon also intends to maintain American military power in Asia. The 7th Fleet will continue to patrol Asian waters, although it has already been cut back from six to four carriers. A Marine division will also be kept in Okinawa, if permission can be arranged with Japan.

The 7th Air Force will make its headquarters in Thailand as long as Indochina is threatened by Communist forces. The President hopes to reduce this threat by offering economic aid to Hanoi and persuading the North Vietnamese they would be better off developing friendly, peaceful relations with the United States. Thereafter, the 7th Air Force would be pulled back to the Philippines.

A couple of years ago, this powerful American presence in Asia would have upset Peking. But now the Chinese Communists secretly welcome the 7th Fleet and 7th Air Force as a deterrent to the Soviet forces massed on the Chinese border.

Tech. These young men wanted to do something which would help the university.

It's always wonderful to see young men of the black community who are willing to utilize their talents to help others. This is what it is all about. The group has made it clear that their involvement in the fraternity will be based around "community development."

As I See It had an opportunity of talking with Russell Harden, tax-assessor for Lubbock County, one day last week. This writer was concerned about the opportunities with his department. I was quite concerned about there being no black sisters working during the license plate rush this year.

He told me that he had three applicants for the part-time position, but only one was qualified. This person, however, did get a better position with a law firm in Lubbock, according to Mr. Hardin.

The Lubbock County official made it clear that he is looking for blacks who are qualified to work with this department. I would urge any black sister or brother to go by and put in an application with this office as well as any office in the county.

Police Beat

Burglary

Ewart Morris, 1816 Avenue C, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that he opened his place of business one morning last week and found that it had been burglarized.

According to Morris, he hadn't been in the building in a week. It was learned that entry was gained through the side door. The only thing that was missing was a pay telephone. He told police that the telephone was on the wall the last time he entered the building.

Theft by Bailee

Willie Gentry, 1402 Avenue D, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that he gave a 60 or 65 year old man a $20 bill to get change for him one night last week.

He told police that he hasn't seen the man since. He also told police that he did not want to file charges against the elder man.

Gentry told police that he was at B&K's place when the money was lost.

Burglary

Melvin Shields, 1816 East 1st Street, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that persons unknown did break into his residence by breaking out a rear bedroom window and tearing up a window screen.

According to the police report, approximately $100 worth of damage was done to the residence.

It was learned that a gold watch with 15 diamonds, valued at $100, and $75 worth of record albums were taken from the residence.

Mae Simmons Community Center Broken Into

Mrs. Olivia Laster, manager of Mae Simmons Community Center, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that the building was burglarized one night last week. Entry was apparently gained by throwing a rock through a plate glass window.

Several boxes of candy were taken from a concession stand in the building.

Approximately $30 worth of damage was done to the recreation center and $20 worth of candy was taken.

Husband Shoots at Wife's Apartment

A Lubbock woman reported to the Lubbock Police Department that she was coming home from work one day last week and saw her husband in his pickup with another woman.

She said that she went home and he drove up by her apartment and shot four times at the apartment with what looked like a .22 caliber pistol.

She reported that she would file charges against her husband this week.

Black American Background Notes: As West Africa moves into a second decade of independence, there is a groping for greater self-reliance, however the country will continue to need foreign capital and expertise in the development of natural resources. However most students of the African story agree that it is in promoting agriculture that the best opportunities lie for improving the quality of life of the majority of Africans.

Cotton, for example, has developed rapidly in some sections, and livestock development in areas bordering on the Sahara is promising. Rice is also a major food staple imported in large quantity, and in a number of countries, rice production is being expanded to meet local demand and—with the great potential of the rainforest areas—regional demand. Senegal is a peanut country and Ghana is cocoa land. Consequently much of Africa today is seeking commodity stabilization agreements and crop diversification, especially in foods.

Governments and external leaders are giving increasing attention to the problem of improving the life of the rural poor. In Upper Volta, for example, a World Bank project is designed to improve the food supply and health of thousands of W.A. people. Such countries as Gambia, Cameroon, Ivory Coast, Senegal and others have taken new initiations in the field of tourism.

Coordination and cooperation in railway projects, such as between Senegal and Mali, Upper Volta and the Ivory Coast, Niger and Dahomey, and in electric power and interconnection among Ghana and Togo and Dahomey are examples of the benefits that can be derived from such regional efforts.

There will no doubt continue to be a growing world-wide interest in Western Africa; foreign capital and external technical assistance would continue to play a vital role in facilitating the adjustment process of economies.

In the meantime, Nigeria, with her expansive territory of fertile land, covering an area of about 500,000 square miles of tropical climate is said to be destined to become one of the most economically developed countries in all of Africa. The booming oil industry has continued to make a tremendous impact on the nation's economy and Nigeria ranks among the top 10 world oil producers. Agricultural products like cocoa, palm oil, cotton, rank next in importance. Substantial revenue is also realized from the export of minerals, hides, skin and timber. Nearly seventy million people live in Nigeria alone. And more than three hundred million people are at her doorstep, reports show.

Recent reports show that an ever increasing number of black church communicants are leaving the black church for membership in former all-white congregations. Why? Watch for an in depth study of the problem by a bellringer here soon.

"Black Voices", a sepiia publication with headquarters in Oklahoma City is making quite a hit in West Texas & New Mexico. It is clean and has a beautiful format.

Recent great quotes: "Black higher education at black-oriented colleges is at the crossroads, with one road leading to greater financial growth expanded educational facilities and full participation in the mainstream of American education. The other road leads to stagnation, continued crumbs from the federal and private financial tables which these schools historically have received—and the loss to this nation of the trained minds of these thousands of young black students." Morris B. Abram in Dallas recently at the annual meeting of the United Negro College Fund. Abram is a former president of the Field Foundation and honorary president of the American Jewish Committee.

A bellringer writes that Fred Jones, a Black American businessman, churchman and civic leader is a candidate for a school board post in the Midland school trustee election of April 7th. With the letter is enclosed a background survey which in part states: "attended high school and vocational training in electronics—owner of radio and TV shop and service center—president of Washington Youth Center Board—member of the board of Human Relations Council and an active member of the East Side Church of Christ." Jones is seeking the spot left vacant by L.E. Ausbie, the first of his ethnic background to serve on the board and word is that he left a most creditable record.

Hear tell that a new daily paper is headed to the Permian Basin in the near future. It will be the official organ of the University of Texas of the Permian Basin in Odessa. This will be good training ground for budding black journalists with new opportunities opening every day in many facets of the mass media.

Midland County Public Library continues to be a leader in furnishing a rich reservoir of black literature and history with such recent additions as "Peoples and Cultures of Africa by E.P. Skinner, Black Women in White America, by Gerda Lerner, and Black Sects and Cults" by Joseph R. Washington. And for young black beauties there is "Essence" magazine that is way out and "Jet" that puts it where it's at. If your area library doesn't have the stuff, they can borrow from MPL. That's cooperation bellringers.

The Life, Philosophy and Teachings of Martin Luther King, will be the subject of a series of talks by yours truly in the Clovis-Portales, New Mexico area in April. Now back to the library. Oh yes, drop by the Black Literature and History Section of the Library at Eastern New Mexico University in Portales when you are in that area. It is great with more to come.

Great Quotes: The black church does need a genuine threat. It generally has become corrupt, soft, flabby and largely unconcerned about people. But it would be the height of folly to believe that conditions would be any better served if Muhammad's Muslims dominated the scene with their preachments of hate, no matter how worthy may be their doctrine of self-help. End of quote from the Oklahoma Eagle.

Lincoln-Douglas Club Sponsors 7th Annual Tea Here Recently

The seventh annual Lincoln-

Douglas Tea was held Sunday, April 1, 1973 at the Mae Simmons Community Center. Theme for the event was "The Three Dimensions Of A Complete Life."

Mrs. Joan Y. Ervin, secretary of the club, served as Mistress of Ceremonies for the affair. Rev. V. Brown, pastor of Carter Chapel C.M.E. Church was the featured speaker and did a dynamic job.

There was a panel discussion: "Is Civilization Progress" by Mrs. L.S. Graves; "Passive Resistance" by Rev. Embory Moss; "A Time for Moral Courage" by Mrs. J.A. Chatman; "Old World to Conquer".

Entertainment for the tea was provided by Little Master Alvin Chatman, who rendered a beautiful solo accompanied by his cousin Little Mistress Phea. Also Mrs. L.S. Graves chose to sing "You Don't Know How Blessed you are."

Mrs. Gertrude Miller did a beautiful rendition of "America Come Back to God" which was most appropriate at the close of the Panel Discussion.

At the close of the afternoon

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

Howard Grubbs, for more years than he may want to admit, has been the executive secretary of the Southwest Conference. Howard is retiring and he also is being honored this weekend.

The honor goes to a deserving man. Howard has toiled long, hard, and well for the conference. The former TCU athletic star, biting down on his usual cigar, has been a master of handling irate sports writers, angry coaches, disgruntled athletic directors and sometimes quarrelsome faculty athletic representatives.

I have known Howard for many years and he deserves bouquets if for no other reason that he had Harold V. Ratliff to endure through much of his long tenure.

Surviving Harold was a major accomplishment. The former AP sports editor was a deceiving person. He could be wild and zany, prompting guffaws with his remarks, acting friendly and comical in the same breath. And then, Zing! Here came the embarrassing question.

Yes, and Harold, like a dog gnawing a bone, stayed with it until he got an answer or a quotable quote.

You could almost see the stomach liquids churning inside Howard at these times. But he'd chew away on his cigar, grin and often came back with a quip of his own that delighted the press.

You never felt that you got close to Howard. You did, however, know that he was fair and he'd always give an honest answer, if he could. He often was in the position of knowing things, but couldn't reveal them, or comment. And he earned the respect of all for handling a difficult task in a gracious manner.

His replacements are excellent choices. Cliff Speegle, former Oklahoma State coach and director of officials, will replace Howard. He has large shoes to fill, but he's shown that he's capable of filling them.

Wilbur Evans, thought to be in line for the job at one time, moves up to the position of Cotton Bowl Athletic Assn. executive secretary. And there can be no quarrel with this assignment. It goes to the most deserving man we know.

Congratulations to both deserving men.

It hardly seems possible, but another baseball campaign is almost here. Action in the major leagues is about to get underway and another interesting season looms.

Right quick, if you want to win some money, here are choices: Pittsburgh and Cincinnati in the National League and Oakland and New York in the American.

Look for the leading contenders to be the White Sox and Orioles, the Astros and the Mets.

The death of Joe Kerbel went almost unnoticed, because there was no comment aside from his obituary. Whatever you may have thought of the man, he was a successful coach.

Joe's death, although unexpected, was not a surprise. He enjoyed eating and it showed. He dieted for a while and reduced his weight, but a friend told me recently, when we were discussing the late coach, that he had gained even more following retirement.

Joe Kerbel was a controversial figure. He could be as mean as a hungry wolf. At the same time he could be as gentle as a kitten. He was mercurial. He could slap a player across the face for some boo-boo, then console another kid for a greater mistake.

He insisted on his teams standing along the sidelines, because it was important to winning. He was a perfectionist, dissatisfied with imperfect play.

No one could argue that he didn't know football. He did. He was a real student, always trying to learn something more from the sport that he loved. Indeed, football was his life.

He was not a lovable man, as such, but he never was too busy to talk football, with anyone. He apparently had few real friends. At the same time, he earned the respect of associates and rivals. I feel that I have lost a friend.

If viewers missed the Boston-Montreal hockey game on TV Sunday, they missed an exciting game, a well-played game. Two great teams proved that you don't have to have fights to have great hockey.

The contact was hard, but it wasn't dirty. There were few penalties and the actions was fast and furious. The two teams swept up and down the ice, but there was great checking to go with the brilliant stick work shown and the amazing movements of the players.

The upcoming Stanley Cup playoffs should be brilliant, with hockey at its best. Somehow Canadians always save their best efforts for the playoffs, from Stanley Cup to Provincial amateur titles.

Although the Bruins and the Canadians left something to be desired in spots, Montreal showed its class. I was impressed with this team that usually is found in the thick of championship hockey. I might go so far as to bet a quid or two on the Canadians.

Have heart, Texas Tech fans, the mantle of summer school will soon draw the shades on Red Raider spring sports. Hope springs eternal in the hearts of Raider fans each spring and soon turns to ashes. Tech just doesn't do well, normally, in spring weather.

It's a challenge, though. Football and basketball are on the upswing and challenging. If Tech wants to be the really complete athletic university, it will have to bring its spring sports programs up. And since spring sports don't bring in much, if any, revenue, that puts the bee right on the back of the financial supporters.

Final Rites Read for Jerry Cook Friday

Final rites were read last Friday afternoon for Jerry Lee Cook, 29, of 3615 Walnut Avenue, at Jamison's Funeral Chapel with the Rev. A.L. Davis, pastor of Greater Saint Luke Baptist Church, officiating.

Burial was held at Peaceful Gardens Cemetery under the direction of Jamison and Son Funeral Home.

Cook was found shot to death last week on a vacant lot in the 2400 block of East 37th Street. Survivors include his wife, Mrs.

Emma Cook, of the home; two daughters, Arlanda and Charlene, both of the home; a son, Johnny Roy Bailey, of the home; three sisters, Jewel Thornton of Albuquerque, New Mexico; Myrtle Jane Cook of Lubbock and Mrs. Gwendolyn Ruth Standefer of Lubbock; six brothers, Milton, Carl Eugene, Bobby Earl, and Larry, all of Lubbock; LeRoy Cook of Post, Texas and James Edwin Cook of Fort Lewis, Washington. His father, Earnest Cook of 1701 Avenue C; and his mother, Mrs. Gracie Evelyn Cook of Lubbock.

Dedication Services On Tap Saturday

Members of Alexander Chapel Church of God in Christ, 1709 East 31st Street, will help the choir in a special dedication service on Saturday, April 7, at 7:30 p.m. The choir will dedicate the robes of the choir in this effort.

Everyone is invited to attend this wonderful program. There will be special drawing for a 15" black and white G.E. television set. According to an official, you don't have to be present to win.

Several choirs will be on this program. They include: Alexander Chapel choir, Ford Temple choir of Littlefield; St. James Choir, Ford Memorial Choir, St. Matthews Choir, Jerusalem Temple and the lovely singing of Rev. and Mrs. R.L. Caro. The Brown sisters will also appear on the special program. There will be other groups and duets and solos from some of our city's better known singers.

Supt. M.J. Alexander, pastor, invites the public to come out and hear this lovely affair. Mr. E. C. Collins is choir president.

CAB Recieves State Grant Here Recently

Governor Dolph Briscoe today announced his approval of a community action grant of $46,440 in new federal funds to Community Action Board in Lubbock County, Inc. in Lubbock for continuation of the agency's ongoing Administration and General Community Programming programs for six months.

Funded under Title II of the Economic Opportunity Act, the grant is a phase-out grant effective retroactively to March 1, 1973. The grant includes allocations of $19,536 for Administration and $26,904 for General Community Programming.

Funds for Administration will be used to develop more efficient administration in the areas of general and fiscal management, planning, program development, mobilization of resources, date collection, self-evaluation and board and community support.

Objectives of the General Community Programming program include providing technical assistance and seed money to eight neighborhood groups for the development of neighborhood projects. The agency also plans to develop a better system of coordination with existing agencies to avoid duplication of services, to develop a senior citizens' program and to provide nutritional health care for some 800 infants of indigent families.

This will assure you of any additional blood you or your family might need. We will explain more about the program later.

The monthly business meeting will be held Sunday, April 8. Brethren make plans to be in our monthly business meeting Sunday.

Sister Elva Carroll and Sister Georgia Malone are still on the shut in list. Mrs. Nannie Pitts is on the sick list. Remember all these people in your prayers in God.

Mount Gilead Baptist Church

"The Mount Gilead Baptist Church, the friendly church where the soul and spirit meet. The church where everybody is somebody. The church extends to members and public a cordial and clarion call to worship with us each week."

The Usher Board would like to thank the many who helped to make our program what it was last Sunday evening. We thank the soloist three, the donors many, and the present assemblage. Without all of you we would not have fared as well as we did. Thanks also to the Senior Choir, our organist and pianist. Thanks all of you.

Let us continue to pray for our sick and shut in. Mr. Arthur Gipson, Mr. Dave Bailey, and anyone else not listed here.

Mount Vernon United Methodist Church

Easter is the fourth Sunday and this means there are only three more Sundays until Easter. We hope to see our choir members at practice this week so we can practice for special Easter Sunday music this season.

We should also be getting ready for April 18 when we are to worship with the Agape United Methodist Church in a joint Holy Week service. Mark this on your calendar.

Little Master Arline Goode began training on last week to serve the church as an Acolyte. This will bring our number up to four.

The Parsonage Committee consists of the following persons: Mr. D.C. Kinner, Mrs. E.R. Walker, Mrs. E.D. Quinney, Mrs. A.R. Swain, Mr. B.J. Strong, Mrs. L.V. McKelvey, and Mrs. Roberta Bascus.

Greater Saint Luke Baptist Church

The Ushers of our church will sponsor Rev. Gerald Garland and the Freewill Baptist Church Sunday afternoon, April 8, at 3 p.m. This meeting is an effort toward the church.

Bible Band meets at the church on Thursday afternoon. Come by and be with us, we will do you good.

Members of the Sarah Circle met this week in the home of Sister

Willie Mae Dickson, 1601 Vanda Avenue, Apt. C.

Prayer meeting is held each Wednesday evening at seven. What would it profit a man to gain the whole world and lose his own soul?

Let us pray for and visit our sick and shut in. Sisters Ida Johnson, Maggie Tatum, Dolly Howard, Florence Guyton and Rosanna Harris are shut in. Btothers Samuel Swisher and Wilmar Wilson remain ill.

Bethel A.M. E. Church

Rev. Leon McNeil, presiding elder, preached a dynamic sermon, "Lord Is It I", last Sunday morning. The spirit was high and everyone hearing the presiding elder was blessed. His wife, Mrs. Iris McNeil, rendered a lovely solo before his preaching.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. E.J. Donald, Darrell, was christened by Rev. McNeil. He also administered the Communion with the assistance of Rev. A.W. Wilson, our pastor, and Rev. Jack Robinson.

Rev. Floyd Green, Jr. and members of the Gospel Chapel A.M.E. Church of Slaton presented a special program last Sunday afternoon for the Youth Choir. Senior Choir #2 sung for the services.

The Third Quarterly Conference was held Monday evening with Presiding Elder McNeil in charge.

The Rev. Mrs. L.E. Moore of Dallas will be presented in her annual revival at our church beginning April 10.

The District Conference will convene April 11 and 12 in Big Springs, Texas.

Let us continue to pray for and visit our sick and shut in members. Members sick this week include Mrs. Estelle Pierce, Mrs. Maunita Terrell, Mrs. Nannie Pitts, Mrs. B. Brown, Mrs. Vernell Baldwin and Mr. Mack Jamison.

United Baptist Church

An evening of songs at the United Baptist Church at 1504 East 15th St. will be held on April 8th at 3 p.m.

All churches of the city are invited to come and hear the one and only black group from Texas Tech.

If you do not come, you will miss a treat. They are the greatest.

This effort is sponsored by Sister H.K. Jefferson.

Lyons Chapel Baptist Church

God cared enough to send the best, that's why we, the members of Lyons Chapel Baptist Church invite you to visit us and share the best.

Sunday's services were good and well attended. Rev. O.D. Hollins, our pastor, brought the message. His subject was: "The Unresolved Mysteries of God." His text was John 3:1-5.

HOW TO BAKE A CHEESECAKE

A delicious way to please with cheese--and with ease--is by fixing a Famous Cheesecake.

FAMOUS CHEESECAKE

- 6 Eggs separated
- 1 cup Sugar
- 2 lbs. Temp*Tee Whipped Cream Cheese
- 8 ounces Breakstone Sour Cream
- 2 tablespoons Flour
- 2 Lemon rinds grated and juice

Beat egg yolks with 3/4 cup sugar. Add cheese, beat smooth. Stir in sour cream, flour, lemon. Beat whites stiff, gradually beat in 1/4 cup sugar. Fold into cheese. Pour into spring-form pan lined on bottom and 2/3 up sides with crumb crust. Place in cold oven, set at 325°F. moderate. Bake 1 hour, until set. Turn off heat, open door, let cake cool. Cake sinks somewhat as it cools.

CRUMB CRUST

Blend 1/4 cup butter, 1 1/2 cups graham cracker crumbs, 1/4 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon. Pat evenly and firmly on bottom and sides of pan. Chill; or bake 10 minutes in 350°F. oven, cool before adding filling.
