

COMPTech Stops Utah 29-22: New Mexico Saturday

Big rugged New Mexico furnishes the next test for Texas Tech's young football team this Saturday in a regionally televised game that has a 12:45 p.m. kickoff slated for Jones Stadium.

It's doubtful that Rufus Myers will be greatly impressed. The 6-0, 200-pound sophomore from Calhoun County certainly showed little respect for Utah last Saturday in the Red Raider opener. The strong back ripped the Ute line for 135 yards on 29 carries and scored the decisive touchdown with only 41 seconds showing.

"We just let it get away", a crestfallen Utah coach Bill Meek declared.

And that's just what happened, as the opportunistic Raiders struck for two touchdowns in the space of three minutes and five seconds to turn a 22-14 loss into a 29-22 victory.

Tech scored the first two times it held the ball, with Joe Barnes passing seven yards to Andre Tillman for the first and Myers scoring on a 4 yard run for the second.

But the Utes were even more effective. They scored on their first two possessions, but on only one offensive scrimmage. Flanker Steve Odom returned Tech's touchdown kickoff 93 yards for the tying score and then marched for a second when Don VanGelder passed two yards to Ike Spencer. Dan Marelli's missed placement gave Tech a 14-13 lead, which it held until Utah's first possession of the last half.

VanGelder drove the Utes 66 yards, with Spencer going over from two yards out. An unsuccessful try for two points left Utah ahead, 19-14.

Later in the third period, Tech's defenses stiffened at the Raider six and, on fourth down, Marelli booted a 24-yard field goal.

It stayed 22-14 until Gary Bartel slanted in front of Marelli, blocked his kick into the end zone and noseguard David Knaus fell on the ball for a touchdown. And Lawrence Williams followed with a sensational diving catch of Barnes' pass for the tying two points.

On the first play after the kickoff, George Herro tipped a pass and Curtis Jordan picked it off. Tech drove for a field goal to win, but Myers had other ideas. He carried on half of Tech's eight plays, his final carry going for nine yards and the winning touchdown.

Local NAACP Group to Host State Confab

"This year's annual session of the Texas State Conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) will be the greatest program ever in the state of Texas," says Dr. F.L. Lovings, local president and coordinator of activities.

The 37th annual session will convene at the Red Raider Convention Center here on October 5 and 6 (Friday and Saturday). With a theme "Lest We Forget—The Stony Rod We Trod", the state convention will draw approximately 250 delegates from throughout the state.

Speakers for the two day confab will include Gloster B. Current, Director of Branch and Field Administration NAACP, New York City, N.Y.; and the Honorable Percy Sutton, President of Burroughs of Manhattan, New York City.

For more than thirty years, Mr. Current has been one of the Association's most ardent workers. Joining NAACP in 1936, he was first assigned to the group's Youth Councils at Detroit, and three years afterward was appointed to the chairmanship of the Central Youth Council Committee, and the National College Chapters.

From 1941 to 1946, he served as Executive Secretary of the Detroit Branch where he directed a strong campaign for integrated housing; and fought bigotry and mob violence in that city. Since 1946, he has headed the Department of Branches which has overall supervision of field services, membership, program and organizational activities of over 1,706 branches in 50 states with a membership of 450,000.

He received his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1941 from West Virginia State College, and a Master's in Public Administration, Wayne University in 1950. He is a member of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity and St. Paul Methodist Church, Jamaica, New York. He is married and has three children.

Current will deliver the main address at the Mass Public meeting Friday evening, Oct. 5, at 8 p.m. in the main ballroom. Sutton will speak at the Freedom Fund Banquet on Saturday evening, Oct. 6, at 8 p.m.

A Walter White Memorial Banquet will be held Saturday noon in the main ballroom of the convention center.

Other activities will include a Minister's Breakfast on Saturday morning at 7:30 a.m. in the All American Room of the center. Workshops will be held on Saturday morning, beginning at 8:30 a.m. with the various topics and speakers. Those appearing on program during the workshop sessions include:

Gillispie Wilson, past president of Texas State Conference; Mrs. Ann L. German, field director at large, Region VI; Honorable Andrew Jefferson; Irvin Brown, project coordinator of Minority Officers Procurement Program, NAACP; James McClure, Office of Civil Rights, Dept. of HEW; Joe Black, vice president of Greyhound Corporation; Prof. Emory Davis of Texas Tech University; Dr. Hazel Taylor, Texas Tech University; Atty. Miles Schulze, Office of Civil Rights, Dept. of HEW; Robert Alexander, U.S. Department of Justice and Richard L. Dockery, Southwest Regional Director.

James Brown, Jr., National Youth Director, will be guest speaker for the youth of the conference. Youth workshops will involve: Education, "Moving Up or Sliding Through", Rufus Huffman, field staff of NAACP; and "We Can't Stop Now", Carla G. Ranger, Youth field director.

"I think the program is going to be great. We'll involve people from Texas Tech University and other locals. There will also be speakers from the national, state and out-of-state level," says Dr. Lovings.

"This is the first time ever, this type of a state session has been held on the Caprock", he concluded.

Registration fee for non-members of the NAACP will be $5.00. The public is invited to attend the various workshops and the Mass Public Meeting.

Justice Dept. Challenges Election Laws Recently

The Department of Justice sought last week to intervene in a private suit against the State of Mississippi to challenge the constitutionality of a 1962 state election law.

Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson said the motion to intervene was filed in U.S. District Court in Oxford, Mississippi. Named as defendants in the suit were Mississippi Governor William L. Waller and other state and local officials.

The original suit was filed in May, 1973, by four black Mississippi residents, including Mrs. Rosa Stewart, who was an unsuccessful candidate for alderman in Starkville, Mississippi, in an election held last March.

The plaintiffs argued that the 1962 state law was designed to prevent the election of blacks as city aldermen by providing that they be elected at large rather than by wards.

Before the bill was passed by the state legislature, Mississippi towns had the option of electing their city aldermen either at-large or from individual wards.

The Justice Department's complaint challenges the constitutionality of the bill on the grounds that it has a racial effect and purpose.

HEW Contract Awarded to Atlanta Activist Lonnie King Being Questioned

Atlanta—(NBNS)—A five-month old contract from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare awarded to Atlanta activist Lonnie King is now being attacked by Georgia Republicans.

The Republicans objected to the awarding of the $200,000 contract, but were persuaded to hold off their objections by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce officials until a compromise could be reached on Atlanta's desegregation suit that was pending at the time.

King's help was vital, the chamber officials said, to efforts to work out a compromise settlement. As president of the Atlanta branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, King was generally identified as the key figure in the negotiations.

Chamber officials confirmed that they interceded in March when Georgia Republican chairman Bob Shaw began criticizing government handling of a $198,857 contract between HEW and the Onyx Corp., a firm with which King is associated.

Ordered by the NAACP national office to repudiate the settlement, which de-emphasizes busing to achieve racial balance and requires the school system to place additional blacks in executive positions, King and other members of the executive committee of the Atlanta branch refused and were suspended from the NAACP.

King is identified as "project director" in a lengthy contract under which Onyx Corp. is to provide "technical assistance" to Head Start agencies.

Shaw said he complained to HEW officials in Washington after he learned the contract was awarded to King's firm without bids and that a letter in which he outlines his complaints was sent back to the Atlanta office of HEW.

"At that time, the school suit was in its waning hours and they (the Chamber of Commerce) were trying to hold things in line," Shaw said. "They called me and said, 'should the contract be cancelled, it would pretty much put Lonnie out of business. He would lose his livelihood.'"

Shaw said he met with King at the request of chamber executive vice president Charles Crowder and agreed to hold his peace until the school suit was settled.

"I don't understand the relevancy of this at this moment," King said. "This all took place about six months ago. I don't understand why these reports start coming back after the facts were quieted down."

Because of his involvement with Onys, the HEW contract is one "of the most scrutinized contracts HEW ever made," King said.

Black Opposes Racial Quotas In Military

Washington—(NBNS)—The Pentagon's race relations director says he opposes the idea of quotas for blacks in the Army, although there is a continuing trend toward black enlisted corps and lily-white officer corps.

H. Minton Francis, who is the Defense Department's top minority affairs officer, said it was the responsibility of the American people if blacks far exceeded minority representation in other areas of society.

During the month of June, blacks comprised 24 per cent of the recruits, while the figure was placed at 35 per cent in July and 31 per cent in August. The black officer strength is dropping, however, from 4 to 2 per cent since many college-bound blacks are avoiding the military services.

"If young brothers in the street would rather not push dope or lead a life of crime, (and thus join the Army) this is the Army's success," Francis said.

Cleaver Appeal For Asylum

Paris—(NBNS)—Former Black Panther Party leader Eldridge Cleaver has asked a French Court to overturn a government decision refusing political asylum in that country.

Black Baptist Leader Raps Watergate

Los Angeles—(NBNS)—Dr. Joseph H. Jackson, the president of the largest black organization in the country, views the Watergate scandal as evidence of "how unsound is the nation's soundness, and how impure is the nation's purity."

The president of the National Baptist Convention, U.S.A. Inc. said the world's citizens and Americans should return to their foundations and "practice good will, fellowship and trust instead of suspicion, doubt and intrigue."

Mondale Assails Nixon Veto of Wage Bill

Milwaukee—(NBNS)—Sen. Walter Condale, Democrat of Minnesota, called President Nixon's veto of the minimum wage bill a "cruel blow to millions of working Americans."

"The minimum wage has not increased since 1966 and prices during that period have risen by more than 3.5 per cent," Mondale said. "But the President says a $2 an hour minimum wage that doesn't even make up for inflation is inflationary."

He said the bill's $2 an hour provision was "not even enough to bring a worker and his family above the poverty line, but Nixon says it's too much."

State Selling Five African Antelope

Santa Fe, N.M.—(NBNS)—The state's Game and Fish Department is selling the last of its members of the southern African antelope family, since they have been unable to adapt to their new surroundings.

The five antelope will be sold by sealed bid, with the minimum of $13,500.

Black Leaders Look To 1976 Elections

Denver—(NBNS)—A small, secret meeting between black Democrats and Republicans last week may pave the way for black political unity and a new political strategy.

The meeting, the first time blacks from the two parties had joined in such an effort, was also the first time black elected officials had joined to coordinate black political efforts for the 1976 presidential campaign.

The meeting, deliberately held to 16 persons, was described as preliminary and no decisions were made.

The gathering was arranged by Colorado State Sen. George Brown, Georgia State Rep. Julian Bond and Mayor Richard C. Hatcher of Gary, Ind.

One of the primary topics of discussion was the problem of declining interest among blacks in voting. One report presented at the meeting said that blacks "are still essentially without substantial political power and continue to suffer because of it."

The meeting was held in secret partly because several important black leaders were not invited. Two non-elected black leaders, Vernon E. Jordan, National Urban League director, and Jesse Jackson, head of People United to Save Humanity, were invited but did not attend.

It's Really True, "Black Ain't Always Beautiful"

There's no doubt about it, it's sickening "to the bones" on how we treat each other as black people. We must echo what the Houston Informer said last week in an editorial entitled "Black Ain't Always Beautiful". Many times it becomes a bad thing when we find ourselves hurting one another.

This newspaper, over the past ten years, has been running the Police Beat, for we feel as though you, as a reader, should know of some of the criminal activities which are happening in our community. Although many times, the acts may appear to be comical, you must realize that these things are happening to black brothers and sisters in Lubbock.

If you've paid close attention to those ungodly acts, you'll quickly agree with us when we say that "Black Ain't Always Beautiful". It can be, however, if we would discontinue some of our bad acts on one another. It's a shame that we find ourselves involved in situations which hurts our image of one another. We can do better if we would realize exactly what we are doing and how silly it appears.

It doesn't make any sense for us to continue to allow some of these type of things to happen to one another. The Grand Jury in Lubbock met last week and many blacks were indicted for acts which were allegedly committed by a brother or a sister. These acts included everything from murder to burglary, and we have the nerve to shout from the top of our voices that "Black is Beautiful" after we have been responsible for the death of a brother or sister or even broke into the home of one of us. This is not a beautiful thing for us as black people to be involved with, especially to be known as the person responsible for such a dreadful act.

In the Police Beat we try hard to let you know exactly what happened from week to week in our community. We have been criticized by some black people on this effort, but we could care less on how you feel, because it is our duty to inform and caution you on what is happening in our black community. The truth will help, and we're concerned about helping every brother or sister, regardless of their socio-economic condition.

It's sickening, each week, to go to the Lubbock Police Department and read the "rap sheet" and find cases which are happening in our community. Over the years, however, we have been able to contain our composure so we could make you aware at all times that something is happening our community that you should be aware of from week to week. We're sure you'll agree that "Black Ain't Beautiful All The Time".

This week, for example, the "rap sheet" informs us that a ten year old black sister was allegedly raped by an eighteen year old black man. This is a bad thing in our community when our little girls can't even relax in their own homes and not be able to be a little girl without some dog taking advantage of her. This is ridiculous when this type of a situation happens in our community.

In another case, this week, we find a young beautiful black sister, age 17, wanting to take her own life, because "I felt unwanted and thought nobody cared anything about me." This type of an act should make all of us who are parents to stop and think about the situation our young are living in the black community. Somewhere along the way, this young sister was forgotten by her loved ones. She is not the only one in the black community of Lubbock who sees black as not being beautiful.

We could go on and on and name situations which involve the lives of our young people. We hope that we'll awaken to the fact that it is one thing to shout "Black is beautiful", and another thing to live a beautiful life as black people.

If we are to do our part in making our community beautiful, we're gonna have to quit keeping our mouths closed and start getting involved in our local situation. If we continue our aiding and abetting criminal activities in our community, we'll hurt our effort in establishing a beautiful community. Keep this in mind, however, if we don't do our job as strong people in the black community, "Black is Beautiful" slogan will remain a false one. We can all help to make it a true slogan by doing our part and helping one another as it should be.

JACK ANDERSON'S WEEKLY SPECIAL

OVER THE OIL BARREL

by Jack Anderson

(Copyright, 1973, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington—For the sake of Middle East oil, President Nixon is prepared to show more sympathy for the Arab cause.

In the past, he has ignored warnings from the State Department that Saudi Arabia literally had the United States over a barrel—the oil barrel. Saudi Arabia alone has enough oil reserves to save the United States from a critical shortage of gasoline and fuel oil.

The State Department has pleaded that Saudi Arabia would like to be aligned with America, that Egypt has thrown out its Soviet military advisers and that the Saudi-Egyptian axis could keep the Arab world from turning against the West.

But the least the Saudis and Egyptians would expect, the State Department has warned, would be support in gaining concessions from Israel.

Last year was an election year, and President Nixon didn't want to antagonize Jewish voters. Therefore, he ignored the State Department's appeals. In return, the Israeli ambassador made a public statement about Nixon's friendship toward Israel. This helped to win Nixon more Jewish votes than any Republican has received in the past quarter-century.

But now, the President is more concerned with solving the oil crisis. He has told friends that his appointment of Henry Kissinger, a Jew, to be secretary of state should make it possible politically for him to shift closer to the Arab side.

One move he is considering is a tax on contributions, which go to support foreign countries. This would be aimed at the United Jewish Appeal, which raises tax-free donations to aid Israel.

President Nixon has suddenly become very oil-minded.

Crisis in Education: The nation's schools are facing a financial crisis. In many communities, racial integration and liberal teaching have raised parents' hackles. The public, therefore, has turned down property taxes, which are urgently needed to pay school bills.

As a result, many schools across the nation are opening without sufficient funds to keep them going through the school year. Other schools have been forced to make drastic cutbacks. Special teachers and guidance counselors have been dropped. This has left an oversupply of teachers.

Black teachers, who used to teach in all-black schools, are finding it difficult to get jobs in the newly integrated schools.

The average teacher's salary is still less than $10,000 a year, far less than the average carpenter, plumber, brick layer or truck driver is paid.

Student services have also been cut back. Classes have been enlarged. Less private counseling is available. Some schools have also been forced to close their cafeterias.

As I See It

by T.J. Patterson

Several years ago, a Supreme Court ruling changed the teacher situation in our Lubbock Public Schools System. Since that time, there appears to be many problems. Last week, for example, a local school board official informed this writer about a problem which was happening in three of our elementary public schools. This official advised me the matter was relayed to our school superintendent and the problem was stopped. This matter, however, was brought to this officials attention by several parents.

In checking out the problem, this writer did contact the three principals involved (two by telephone and the other in person). All principals were concerned about the matter and are willing to see to it that problems such as this or others are taken care of immediately.

I am a person who believes that we must all speak the truth about any given situation. When we are after the truth, we don't have to worry about what we have said or where we have said it. No matter how many problems arrive in our public schools in Lubbock, we as parents should be informed and get involved to help correct the matter.

Our Parent Teachers Associations are geared so parents and teachers can get involved in their school situation. We, as parents, should contribute something to these meetings and look for something out of them. I was talking to a principal on Friday afternoon and he was informing me on the scheduled PTA activities for the remainder of the year. This was good, but the only program he had was programs where our children were performing. I asked him, "What about parent participation?" He answered by saying, "The only way we can get the parents out is when their children are on the program." This may be his way of parent involvement, but parent involvement goes farther than that.

Speaking of parent involvement, many of you can remember the time when there were only black teachers at Dunbar, E.C. Struggs, Wheatley and Ella Iles schools. When you thought your little Johnny or Mary was being mistreated by a teacher, you ran up to that school and raised hell about your children. Now, since there are not many blacks on the various faculties, we stay at home and do nothing or gossip about it at the beauty shop, barber shop or over the telephone.

It wouldn't hurt anything to get involved with the local Congress is expected to come to the rescue with $900 million to aid elementary and secondary education. But President Nixon has already vetoed four previous education bills. He is not expected to accept this one.

Meanwhile, Americans continue to spend more on frivolity than education.

Feeding Inflation Fires: Commodity prices have just taken the biggest jump since price controls were removed after World War II. This has the biggest jump since price controls were removed after World War II. This has the public far more upset than the Watergate scandal ever did. An alarmed President Nixon, therefore, has tried to blame the price rise on Congress.

To give weight to his words, he vetoed a bill that would have increased the minimum wage. He argued that a higher minimum wage would feed the fires of inflation. He has shown more interest, however, in holding down the wages of the poor than the profits of the rich.

Soaring oil income, interest rates and other profits—which benefit the rich—also feed the fires of inflation.

The truth is that the President's economic advisers have been giving him poor advice. His top expert on inflation, Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz, told him that an open marketplace would keep inflation in check. The President's chief economic adviser, Herbert Stein, also argued against government controls.

Both advisers forecast that the inflation rate could be curbed. This led the President to pledge to reduce the 1973 inflation rate below three per cent. During the first six months, the inflation rate shot above an annual eight per cent almost three times what his advisers anticipated.

In desperation, the President slapped on an emergency price freeze during the summer. But the price pressures are now blowing the lid off the economy. The President is trying to lay the blame on Congress. But it's his own economic advisers who have been wrong.

Lip Service: The illegal use of campaign contributions for spying and burglary has politicians of every shade again paying lip service to reforms.

But while they mouth pieties to the people, many are working behind the scenes to cripple or kill meaningful reforms.

Neither the Democratic nor Republican leaders in Congress are enthusiastic enough about campaign spending reforms to lead the fight. For their campaigns are bank-rolled by fat-cat businessmen or powerful unions.

So far, reformers in the House haven't been able to get a hearing this year, because House administration chairman Wayne Hays is dragging his feet. Just last week, he called off hearings again.

In the Senate, hearings are scheduled later this month. But the showdown will be in the House.

Representatives John Anderson, an Illinois Republican and Morris Udall, an Arizona Democrat, are leading the fight for financial reform. Their bill would provide for an independent elections commission, a limit on individual contributions and strict oversight of all the complicated financial dealings of campaign committees.

Despite the horrors of Watergate, a few lonely congressmen face an uphill battle to bring reform to our political system.

problems which exists in the schools. Since Supreme Court rulings placed our black teachers all over the city, we could at least visit the schools and let the teachers who are teaching our young people know that we are concerned. Let them know we don't want our children mistreated and we expect our children to do their part.

On the other hand, each parent should start at home helping their children. Teach our young people how important it is to get along with their peers and to be concerned about the education they are getting at the various schools.

I must admit, however, there should be more black teachers in the local public schools, especially in the classrooms where they are really needed. In this respect, integration has done our black children a disservice. Although, we must realize at the time we wanted white teachers to teach our children. Of course, there are white teachers who are most concerned about the welfare of our children, not just whites, brown or blacks, but children. With their expertise, they need capable black teachers in the same schools with them, working together as a team so our young children can gain something.

I realize, now, we are using numbers to determine the number of black teachers to be placed in the schools in our community. This, to me, is hurting our effort. We need to change the image of this effort so our young people will have a chance in life to help themselves and the world. Get involved, parents, and let your schools know how you feel. After all, they can't read your minds.

I would like to express my appreciation to those of you who called our stopped and gave your opinion on last week's paper entitled, "In Lubbock, Black Churches Need to Be More Involved". Some of you were in accord with what I said, while others were reluctant to express your opinion after talking with me. Nevertheless, it takes all people to express their opinion about any given situation.

Since this is a problem in our community, we've all got to do our part to make this thing of upgrading our community a reality. Make it a reality so your young people will have an opportunity to make it in life. We've got to deal more with the truth of the matter and not continue to evade the issues which are slowly defeating our position.

I hope every minister in Lubbock as well as West Texas will get involved with the community aspect. It is a must also that every member of any congregation get involved to help our in this situation.

On August 19 at the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum, over 80,000 persons gathered together for the largest regularly held concert in the country, the Watts Summer Festival Concert '73. The concert was a benefit for the Watts Summer Festival and highlighted the festival week which included among its many activities a parade and park displays.

World renowned celebrities and recording artists from all over the world came into Los Angeles to participate in the days events. On hand and ready to perform were Stax recording artists, The Soul Children; United Artists hitmaker, Bobby Womack; the Intruders and Billy Paul from Philadelphia International, Barbara Mason, Barry White, Love Unlimited, Azteca, El Chicano, Edwin Starr, The Dramatics, Bloodstone, The Infallibles, Thelma Houston, and M.C. Richard Pryer. It was truly shaping up to be quite a day.

Throughout the performances a blue sky and an average temperature of 95 degrees, greeted the crowds who danced along in their seats with the performers.

All day long, one after another, the artists gave their best to their fans and they loved every minute of it.

Truly a day to remember, a benefit for the Watts Summer Festival, a benefit for the people. "A Better Watts, A Better World."

Life would be more simple if more people were willing to be ust themselves.

DEAR EDITOR

Dear Mr. Patterson,
I would love to be a yearly subscriber of the West Texas Times, but I have a family, Mrs. H.L. Ragsdale and her daughters that bring the Times to my home each week. No matter how bad it may get, they are here every Thursday. If I am not home, they will leave it in my mail box. They have been bringing it for about 2 years, and I am proud to see young people working, and the mother right with them all the time.
Also I am proud to see a mother that don't let her daughters out all by themselves, and if the children can't come, she is here. I just had to write this note to you to let you see how I love and enjoy the West Texas Times and how I love this family who has been so nice to me and many more.

Blood Pressure Program to be Held at South Plains Fair Each Day by Heart Association

We have found that one of the contributing factors to thousands of deaths each year is the unrecognized problem of high blood pressure however, it will receive the attention in our city next week through a public service program known as CHEC (Community Hypertension Evaluation Clinic) at the South Plains Fair, under the sponsorship of the Lubbock County Division of the American Heart Association, the Lubbock County Medical Association and Ciba Pharmaceutical Company. A fully staffed CHEC booth will be held at the South Plains Fair, September 22-29 from 1:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. each week day. This service is offered with no charge. Volunteer registered nurses, licensed vocational nurses, and medical students will staff the booth during the eight days of the fair.

These qualified people will be using a device known as a sphygmomanometer, an inflatable cuff which fits around a persons upper arm to measure blood pressure. The volunteers expect to screen many of the thousands expected to be at the fair this year.

The object of this program that had its beginning about six years ago in Lubbock, is blood pressure, the force with which the blood is pumped out of the heart and pushed into blood vessels. According to a statement by the National Heart Institute, "Uncontrolled high blood pressure forces the heart to work harder and may eventually cause a stroke, heart attack and heart failure". Although a blood pressure exceeding normal levels is easy to detect, a spokesman for the Ciba Pharmaceutical firm said that "Many cases go undetected because high blood pressure produces no obvious symptoms."

For years the American Heart Association has had prime interest in heart disease, with the trend being toward emphasis on the prevention of the disease rather than research on the cure.

Mrs. Emmaline Chatman, who is presently serving on the Board of Directors of the Lubbock County Division of the Heart Association and Co-ordinator for the hypertension clinic, states "the blood pressure procedure takes two to three minutes and they are hopeful to have enough persons on duty in order that several persons can be screened at one time."

There were two clinics held at South Plains Mall last year and the heart association volunteers screened approximately 1,150 persons.

Many cities throughout the state of Texas are now using the hypertension clinic since its beginning in Lubbock was quite successful, yet Mrs. Chatman feels that the Lubbock program, as successful as it has been within the past five years screening thousands of Lubbock and county residents, it is only a partial success until the thousands of others have been reached. And this is the reason why all of us with the Lubbock County Division continue to work diligently with hypertension clinics, "because we sincerely feel that an ounce of prevention is worth much more than a pound of cure".

Last spring at their annual meeting, Mrs. Chatman was presented the distinguished service award, the divisions highest. She said she was grateful for this, but felt so undeserving because so many people had helped in many ways to make the programs successful.

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

Coach Jim Carlen walked into the Texas Tech Media Hospitality suite Saturday night with a puckish grin on his face, which prompted me to ask if he had (that trilling game ending) planned that way all the time?

"Not on your life!" he exclaimed. "Nobody could ever accuse me of that!"

Jim obviously was pleased that Tech had won and remarked that he'd take them any way he could get them.

That about explained the reaction of the fans, too, and led one observer to remark that, by Sunday night, the fans would remember only that Tech had won, not things that happened during the course of the game that would have brought down their ire.

As it was, the Raiders won because they never gave up. They could have, because it began to look as though time had run out. Then, lightning struck twice so fast that Utah didn't know what hit.

Carlen had high praise for Rufus Myers, who came on strong in his first varsity game.

"He's the only runner I ever had who could run the way he does. He's tough enough to run up the gut. His footwork is something else. And he runs for daylight, too."

Carlen also had praise for Joe Barnes, especially when he called time out in a tough situation.

"Most quarterbacks would have gone ahead and run the play and gotten in trouble," he said, "but Joe was smart enough to recognize trouble and call time out."

The Tech coach also stressed the fact that he had said all along that Utah would be the toughest opening game for Tech since he'd been here.

"I was right, too," he asserted, and then, when a writer asked about the Tulane game his second year, he said: "That was the reverse situation. We had the game won and gave it to them, just like Utah had it won tonight."

*****

Bill Meek earlier had echoed Carlen on Utah's giving the game away. "We just let it get away", he said, "but two bad plays killed us. I thought we played a good game, and we played a good team, too."

Meek and Carlen disagreed about the turning point, Jim saying it was the blocked punt and Bill pointing to Ryan's pass interception "that turned the game around."

"Even if we had had to punt," Meek said, "they'd have had the ball deep in their own end of the field, with a long way to go."

It was a far different opener than a year ago, when Utah came here with dissension on the squad and six regulars out. And, for sheer offense, the Utes had a superior club.

Tech received a good test, leading Carlen to observe that "they did a good job picking at us. They'd pick here, then there. They aren't like Texas. Shoot, Texas just rolls up its sleeves and says 'here we come'. Utah has a fine offense. That Odom will run back punts against a lot of teams before the year's over."

Anyway, the Raiders gave the crowd all the excitement it could have wanted and it will be surprising if there isn't a bigger crowd Saturday afternoon when New Mexico comes here.

The Lobos were tough last year, could be tougher this year. And, don't forget, Tech never has been a good TV team. If the boob tube jinx hangs on, the game Saturday could be a real barnburner.

Incidentally, the fans didn't leave last week, even when it looked hopeless, and Carlen said that they, the fans, never would know what they meant to the Raiders in helping fire them up.

Just a brief note: Before this hits the light of day, Hammerin Hank Aaron may well have tied Babe Ruth's record of 714 career homers. But whether he does it this week, next week or next week, Aaron is sure to be enshrined.

As I have said before, the man richly deserves the honor. He's been a credit to the game. He has been a super star. He already has earned a niche in baseball's shrine.

Also, one thing I plan to do is attend the dinner at which Jesse Owens will be the speaker. I have an idea that he is going to give one of the great motivational talks we have heard here.

It behooves the city to really lay out the red carpet for Owens, not because he was voted the half century's top athlete, but because, in the toughest testing ground of all, in pre-war Nazi Germany, he gave the United States one of its greatest hours in the Olympics.

Home Sewing Boom Underway

Home sewing is one of the ten fastest growing industries in the United States.

Because of this, the number of fabric outlets has quintupled since 1967. Reported sales for sewing machines, patterns, notions and fabrics totaled over $3 billion in 1972.

Currently there are over 45 million homesewers, and predictions indicate that by 1977, this figure will increase by 25 to 30 per cent. Popularity of sewing stems from several factors—two of which are leisure time utilized for creative purposes and the resulting satisfaction gained by a sense of accomplishment.

Other important factors include high ready-to-wear prices, lack of selection and poor workmanship. Ease of sewing today's fabrics, abundance of available time savers and sophisticated promotional programs also have greatly boosted sewing popularity.

Another influence comes from menswear. From neckties to designer suits, menswear fabrics, patterns and notions are in demand.

Men sew too. Home economics programs have offered all-male sewing courses for several years, and surveys reveal that many new students take sewing more seriously than women.

However, their interests are more highly associated along career aspirations, as tailors or retailers, than women students.

The average home seamstress doesn't sew for necessity, but to stretch family income. For example, with today's rapid increases for food and housing, home sewing serves to release additional dollars in these areas as well as others held in special values by the family.

With today's wide variety, homesewers easily remain in vogue with the assistance of fashionable pattern designs and fabrics.

September Is Better Breakfast Month

Breakfast begins a new day—so start out right. September is "Better Breakfast Month" and the ideal time to get into the habit of eating a good breakfast.

It is important to every family member, especially youngsters starting back to school. Generally, students make better grades and learn more when they eat breakfast. Breakfast is exactly what the name indicates—ending the fast from the night before.

However, it doesn't have to consist of bacon, eggs, cereal or toast. Any nutritious food will do if it furnishes one-fourth of the day's needs.

Try hot dogs, hamburgers, cheese, beans, peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, soup, macaroni and cheese, creamed meat or fish over potatoes, or cottage cheese and fruit.

Through imagination and planning, children can be well-fed at breakfast, even if the mother works away from home and had limited time for food preparation. Such working mothers can prepare foods the evening before and refrigerate them. Then family members can grab these breakfast foods before rushing off to work or school.

Some examples include sandwich makings, reconstituted fruit juice, nutritious cookies or meat pies. Mincement, oatmeal-raisin or other nutritious cookies make ideal "quickie" breakfast foods that can be eaten on the run, so keep plenty on hand.

Another possibility involves having pancake batter made up and the skillet ready to use. This way, a child just turns on the heat and pours batter onto the hot skillet. It takes only a few minutes and a little effort on the child's part to have piping hot pancakes and syrup.

Department of Justice Files Housing Suit

The Department of Justice filed its first housing discrimination suit in Dayton, Ohio, today, charging a home builder with quoting higher prices to black persons.

Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson said the suit was filed in U.S. District Court in Dayton against Custom Craft Construction Co.

The suit said the Dayton builder has pursued a policy and practice of racial discrimination by offering houses for sale to blacks on more expensive terms than those offered to white persons.

In addition, the suit said, the builder has made statements indicating a preference for white buyers and has misrepresented to blacks that houses are not available for purchase.

The suit asked for a court order enjoining the company from engaging in any act that violates the Fair Housing Act of 1968 and from failing to correct the continuing effects of its alleged discriminatory practices.

"The constitutional amendment to include within the scope of homestead protection the real property of a single adult person which meets the other requirements of homestead property, and to provide that a family homestead may not be abandoned except with the consent of both spouses."

Provides that no law creating a conservation and reclamation district shall be passed unless a copy of the proposed law is delivered to the commissioners court of each county and to the governing body of each incorporated city or town in whose jurisdiction said district or any part thereof is or will be located. Each such commissioners court and governing body may file its written consent or opposition to the proposed law with the Governor, Lieutenant Governor and Speaker of the House of Representatives. Each special law creating such a district must comply with general laws then in effect relating to consent by political subdivisions to the creation of such districts.

Provides that the district court, concurrently with the county court, shall have the general jurisdiction of a probate court and in a probate proceeding shall also have the jurisdiction otherwise conferred on it by law. It also provides that the legislature may increase, diminish, or eliminate the jurisdiction of the district court or county court in probate matters, may adopt rules governing the filing, distribution, or transfer of cases and proceedings as between the courts having jurisdiction of probate matters, and may provide that all appeals in probate matters shall be to the courts of civil appeals.

NUMBER SEVEN ON THE BALLOT (H.J.R. 6)

Article III, Section 49-b of the Texas Constitution is amended to:

Provide for an additional $100 million in bonds or obligations of the State of Texas for the Veterans' Land Fund. This amendment increases the present $400 million authorization to $500 million;

Remove the present provision which permits buying of land only by those veterans who served between September 16, 1940 and the date of formal withdrawal of United States troops from the armed conflict in Viet Nam. This amendment would allow all veterans who served after September 16, 1940 to buy land from the Veterans' Land Fund, provided they are otherwise qualified;

Provide that, in the event of the death of an eligible

Texas veteran after the veteran has filed with the Board an application and contract of sale to purchase through the Board the tract selected by him or her and before the purchase has been completed, then the surviving spouse may complete the transaction.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

Authorizes and requires incorporated cities, towns, and villages, regardless of population and notwithstanding the constitutional limitations on total tax rates, to levy such annual ad valorem taxes on the taxable property in the city, town or village as are necessary to pay the principal of and interest on, when due, the general obligations hereinafter issued by the city, town, or village. The legislature is empowered to limit by general or special law the total principal amount of general obligations which may be issued, but unless and until the legislature acts to do so, the limitations established by statute with respect to the total principal amount of bonds which may be issued by independent school districts shall apply as the rate limitation on cities, towns, and villages.

The wording of the proposed constitutional amendment as it appears on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to authorize cities, towns, and villages to levy such ad valorem taxes as are sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on their general obligations hereafter issued subject to the restrictions provided by law."

The Black Experience: "The Negro revolt has no precedent in American history. It involves ten percent of the nation's population. Yet it is a revolution in which the rebels carry no arms, throw up no street barricades, liquidate no rulers, and with remarkably few exceptions so far, initiate no violence. It has as a rally song an old Baptist hymn, one described as "a now mournful, now serene piece called 'We Shall Overcome'." From Direct Action in the South". (A report Nov. 1963).

Later, some violence did develop as students of history will remember but it was more or less contained within the areas it developed. The report stated that blacks still had not overcome the ignorance, intolerance, and injustice which had oppressed them for generations and that their crusade for freedom had not yet reached the promised land.

The concept of using non-violent means to achieve justifiable ends did not, of course, originate with the Black American. Perhaps it is as old as Moses' struggle with the Egyptian Pharaoh, and it embraces the same deep justifications: On the one hand, an outraged sense of justice and a constant reliance on God's leadership; on the other hand, realization that non-violence is the only practical protest available to a minority far weaker than the dominant powers of society. But the report continued: "Further than this the parallel does not go. The Hebrews wanted out. Black Americans want in."

Where do we date the beginning of the Black Revolt? The report concludes that it was the year 1909 with the founding of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. And many students of the Black Revolt today conclude that the struggle still goes on for full equality but with less heat and intensity and that the beat goes on and on.

Names in the News: Christine Hathorn, 5977 The Paseo, Kansas City, Mo. is the 27 year old author of "The Undoing of Miss Abigail Wrigley", a mystery novel with sinister intrigue woven throughout the book. She is a native of Meridian, Oklahoma and a graduate of Langston University and the Univ. of Kansas.

Carl Rowan, black syndicated columnist for Dallas A.M. News: "Mark down Aug. 22, 1973, as the day when the relationship between the President and the White House press corps reached the man to man level where it belongs. Richard Nixon vs the press is going to be a feature attraction every day he remains in the presidency. Only the onrush of history will tell whether that is good or bad for the country."

We shall miss an old friend, the Rev. J.S. Sykes, veteran minister and civic leader of the Southwest, who died not so long ago after a long and fruitful life. He died in Oklahoma City and was a subscribing Life member of the NAACP. A. Lewis Williams, newly elected editor of the A.M.E. Christian Recorder has created a great deal of interest in his advocacy of the abolishment of the assessment system. In an editorial entitled "The A.M.E. Church Faces the Last Quarter of The 20th Century", Editor Williams said "the assessment system is definitely non-Christian". He added "It shows a horrible lack of faith in God and His people. As we turn from assessments we must turn to stewardship. The time has come." End of quote. This stand is most likely to provoke much debate in black Methodist circles for sometime to come, it was reported. And until later, Peace.

Bulletins: The Rev. John P. Adams, 50, has been awarded the Martin Luther King, Jr. Award of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. A United Methodist executive from Washington, D.C., he is the first white person to receive the award. He is director for law, justice and community relations of the Board of Church and Society.

Chicago—Nationally known evangelical leaders will gather here, Nov. 23-25, for a Thanksgiving workshop during which they will prepare a Declaration on Evangelicals and Social Concern. The sessions will take place at the Wabash Street YMCA, according to Dr. Ronald J. Sider, acting director of Messiah College in Philadelphia, who declared "this will be an historic opportunity to proclaim the entire Biblical message of concern for the whole man."

Rev. O.H. Lakey, pastor of Cedar Crest C.M.E. Church, 1616 East Illinois Street, Dallas, Texas has announced his candidacy for editor of The Christian Index, official organ of the denomination at Memphis, Tenn. Rev. Lakey is pastor of one of Texas' largest churches and a part-time instructor of religious education at Texas College at Tyler, Texas.

New Appointments Announced at Tech

The appointment of Dr. Carmyn H. Morrow and the reappointment of Dr. Maynette D. Williams, both as assistant deans of the college of Home Economics at Texas Tech University, were announced Thursday by President Grover E. Murray.

Dr. Donald S. Longworth is dean of the college which is one of the largest in the United States and which offers both undergraduate and graduate programs in four areas, clothing and textiles, food and nutrition, home economics education, and home and family

Dr. Williams' responsibilities will continue in the areas of coordinating graduate programs and the work of the college's three institutes which relate to family resources, food and nutrition and textiles.

"Dr. Morrow's appointment," Dr. Longworth said, "will enable us to expand our program of academic advising in the college. We will be able to offer a program that is more sensitive to student needs and provide greater opportunities for those who are talented and ambitious."

He said that Dr. Morrow's responsibilities will be primarily in the area of undergraduate counseling.

Dr. Murray pointed out that each of the women has had experience on university committees and has served the university well outside of the classroom.

"It is particularly gratifying to find on our own campus the quality of administrator Texas Tech University needs," the President said. "The College of Home Economics began building its outstanding record when Texas Tech opened its doors almost 50 years ago, and we have every expectation that its present leadership will contribute greatly to new goals, including an expanded graduate program."

Dr. Williams' first appointment as assistant dean came last September. She earned both her bachelor's and master's degrees at Texas Tech University and completed work for the doctoral degree in textiles and clothing at Ohio State University in 1966. At that time she returned to Texas Tech to teach. She also has had experience as a homemaking teacher in Alameda, Calif., and as a member of the faculty at New York State University, College at Plattsburgh. From 1967 to 1969 she served as a home economist for J.C. Penney Company in New York City.

In addition to numerous published articles and the preparation of several multi-media teaching units, she is now completing work on the manuscript for a book on "Improving Classroom Teaching," co-authored by Texas Tech Prof. Mary M. Boswell of the Department of Home Economics Education. She has been an exhibitor at meetings of the American Home Economics Association, the Texas HEA and the Virginia HEA.

Dr. Morrow received her undergraduate degree at Tuskegee Institute in Alabama. She earned the master's degree at the University of Wisconsin and the doctoral degree in clothing and textiles at Pennsylvania State University.

She has served on the faculties of Arkansas AM&N College in Pine Bluff and Grambling College in Louisiana.

Receives Gold Bars

Ronald Hereford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Limual Julian Hereford, Sr. of 2909 Beech Avenue, was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the U.S. Army recently at services at Texas Tech University. He will be stationed in Maryland for three months.

He graduated this summer from Texas Tech University where he received a degree in accounting. He is a graduate of Dunbar High school.

Among Dr. Morrow's professional memberships is the American Home Economics Association of College Professors of Textiles and Clothing
