N.A.A.C.P. Organization Upholds People's Rights

OMBE ASSISTS MINORITY IN BUYING FIRM—The U.S. Department of Commerce's Office of Minority Business Enterprise (OMBE) has assisted a black businessman in acquiring ownership of a major Swiss precision screw product manufacturing firm—Jaymax Precision Products, Inc.—in Prospect, Connecticut. The firm was acquired by Rupert Sterling, who received financial and business packaging support from a minority assistance organization operating under an OMBE grant. Seen above, top left photo, on a recent visit and tour of the firm's plant, Dr. Randolph T. Blackwell, OMBE director, third from left, and Carolyn Pleasant, OMBE program officer, are shown the plant's assembly line by Sterling, second from left, and John Perun, Jaymax production manager. In top right photo, left to right Sterling, Pleasant, and Blackwell stand outside Jaymax. Bottom left photo shows Dr. Blackwell, Pleasant, and Sterling inspecting a hopper in the plant's secondary operations area. Bottom right photo, Perun, Sterling, Blackwell and Pleasant examine a finished rack of precision screw parts. Sterling, a native of Antigua in the West Indies, is Jaymax chairman of the board of directors. Jaymax, a leading manufacturer of components for electronics, automobiles, cameras, household appliances, clocks, business machines, and dental equipment, was purchased for in excess of $1.5 million. Its annual sales this year are estimated at $3-million. The financing consortium in the purchase was led by Minority Equity Capital Company (MECCO), a New York-based minority enterprise small business investment company (MESBIC), with financial coordination by MECCO's vice president, Rayton Gerald. Commenting on the acquisition, Dr. Blackwell said, "We expect more such acquisitions in the future as we emphasize development of large-scale minority-owned firms within the American economy." ### Firm Joins Ranks Of Minority-Owned Companies

With assistance from the U.S. Department of Commerce's Office of Minority Business Enterprise (OMBE), ownership of a major Swiss precision screw product manufacturing firm — Jaymax Precision Products, Inc.—has passed into minority hands.

The Prospect, Connecticut firm was acquired by Rupert Sterling, who received financial and business packaging support from an organization operating under a grant from OMBE.

Dr. Randolph T. Blackwell, OMBE director, on a recent visit and tour of the New England plant, said, "the transactions mark a milestone in OMBE's efforts to assist minority entrepreneurs get into major acquisitions.

"We expect more such acquisitions in the future as we emphasize development of large-scale minority-owned firms within the American economy," Blackwell said.

Jaymax, one of the leading American manufacturers of components for electronic equipment, automobiles, cameras, household appliances, clocks, business machines and dental equipment, was purchased from Ventron Corporation.

The financing consortium was led by Minority Equity Capital Company (MECCO), a New York-based minority enterprise small business investment company. The financing was coordinated by MECCO's vice president, Rayton Gerald.

Dr. Blackwell said the purchase price of Jaymax was in excess of $1.5 million. Annual sales this year are estimated at $3 million.

Rupert Sterling, the new Jaymax chairman of the board of directors, brings extensive experience in market planning and research to the newly acquired company. Sterling formerly worked in executive positions with General Electric, National Broadcasting Company, and Radio Corporation of America.

I was once told that N.A.A.C.P. stood for "Niggers Ain't All Colored People." Although the statement may be true, N.A.A.C.P. stands for National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. It is the way black men can join together as one.

According to Rev. Jones, president of Lubbock's chapter, "The purpose of the NAACP is to ensure that the rights of the people are upheld and not violated. If they are, we shall do what we can within our power to see that their rights are not infringed upon." Rev. Jones is the pastor of Mt. Zion Baptist Church in New Home, Texas. He has been a member of the NAACP for three years.

The NAACP has been in existence since 1909. There are 81 branches in Texas consisting of 9 to 12,000 members. The Lubbock Chapter was started in about 1943, but was later forgotten about because of the decrease in members. In 1971, the organization was revised with Dr. Loving presiding as President and later on, attorney Gene Gaines. When Rev. Jones came into office, July 2, 1978, there were about 125 members, but today there are 300 members. The officers are: President-Rev. Jones; 1st Vice-President-George Scott; 2nd Vice-President-Tom Burtis; 3rd Vice President - David Sowell; Secretary-Joan Ervin; Executive Secretary-Linda Fields; and Treasurer-Kate Noble.

To become a NAACP member, all one must do is to fill out a membership slip and return it to the NAACP headquarters. The yearly membership fee is $5.00 for local membership. There is not an age limit as to membership. There is a Youth Counsel, under the direction of Mrs. Rose Wilson, consisting of ages 17-21 with a $2.00 annual membership dues. The members are just everyday people and not businessmen or intellectuals alone. Rev. Jones is a preacher.

NAACP is a non-violent organization. It was established in Lubbock because there was a need for it. There is great need where there are minorities and discrimination. It is not an organization which thrives off of rumors. In other words, it will not investigate a complaint unless there is evidence. The NAACP was predominantly black, but in recent years there have been whites who are members. Rev. Jones invites all races of people to join and become a part of their organization.

Rev. Jones states, "People who excel in criticism are the ones who are sitting on the side lines saying we are not doing nothing. If they feel we are not doing anything then why don't they join us to see what we are doing. If they still don't agree, well be to yourself."

"When a person understands the purpose and the true image of the NAACP then maybe they will join and become involved."

NAACP is here to benefit the community. They are concerned with discriminatory problems that may conflict ones job. They are interested in the problem the east side community faces relating to the lack of concern on the part of our city officials.

Rev. Jones' philosophy is, "I feel that more can be accomplished by sitting down and talking things over. The man who spends his time thinking and once as thought and applies it, will come out ahead." He also says, "The man who can take a slap from another man proves to be a greater man than the one who slapped him."

Presently the NAACP is trying to reach a goal of recruiting at least 500 members by Spring. Their meetings are held every second Saturday, at Mae Simmons Community Center, at 7:00 p.m. On December 9, they will hold their election of new officers.

The NAACP is working for you. They are active in surrounding towns, such as Muleshoe, Brownfield, Lamesa, Plainview and all the little towns in-between and not merely Lubbock.

"The NAACP in my opinion is the greatest organization short of the church. If there was ever a time I would have to sacrifice, I would be willing. I am totally committed and all it stands for, whether being the president or a member," replied Rev. Jones.

The NAACP is working for you to help you.

Tech Museum Offers Two Special Events

Two special events, an exhibit called "A Kid's Christmas" and a special Christmas program for children, will be offered in December at The Museum of Texas Tech University.

The exhibit, for "kids" of all ages, will be on display from Dec. 3 to Jan. 2. It features Santa's workshop, with elves preparing toys for Christmas delivery.

The toys are from The Museum's historical and doll collections.

The West Texas Museum Association (WTMA) will sponsor a special afternoon opening of the exhibit. Featured will be the Bell Choir of the First Baptist Church, performing at 2:30 and 3:30 p.m. in the main gallery, and the William H. Evans Junior High Ensemble.

The public is invited, according to Special Events Committee Chairperson Mrs. John Bowen. There is no charge.

The Junior Program Committee, headed by Mrs. David Northington, is in charge of the special Christmas program at 10 a.m., Dec. 9, sponsored by the WTMA.

After a tour of the Christmas exhibit, the Tech Teen Theater

Carter Prepares for 2nd Term White House Staff Aims for '80

Copyright, 1978, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON—Although President Carter has not announced that he will seek another term, the White House staff is quietly gearing up for the 1980 campaign. Carter's aides have no doubt that he will be the Democratic candidate. In the backrooms of the White House, therefore, the staff has been shaping its 1980 strategy.

Carter won the presidency by campaigning as an outsider who would bring a fresh perspective to Washington. It may be awkward for him to strike the same pose in 1980. He might not appear to the voters to be an outsider after he has been running the government for four years.

Nevertheless, he will attempt to maintain the same image. He'll continue to pose as an outsider, with an anti-Washington perspective. But he'll claim that he has now gained the experience he will need to accomplish his goals.

The people who have embarrassed Carter during his first term will be pushed into the background. He will try to disassociate himself from his former money man, Bert Hance, who faces possible indictment for his banking practices. Carter's former campaign chief, Hamilton Jordan, has developed an image as a swinger and carouser. Jordan will stay in the background in 1980.

Aides expect inflation to be the main issue in the campaign. The president is gambling that he can control inflation by taking the conservative approach. But already, labor leaders are complaining that Carter's policies benefit bankers and businessmen at the expense of the workers.

Black leaders have also complained that unemployment among blacks is higher than it was during Carter's 1976 presidential campaign. So Carter could face a revolt in 1980 from the labor unions, ethnic groups and liberal constituency, which gave him his strongest backing in 1976.

This raises the possibility that California's governor Jerry Brown or Massachusetts' Sen. Ted Kennedy might challenge Carter for the Democratic nomination in 1980. Our sources say the president will meet them head on, entering every primary and taking on every challenger.

But he could be hampered in the general election by the Republican victories this year. GOP governors now control the political machines in such key states as Oregon, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Texas and Wisconsin.

Most presidents have been re-elected. The preliminary signs indicate that Carter could be an exception.

Financial Disclosure: In the coming months, we will personally call on all of the 1980 candidates for the presidency to open up their income tax returns to public inspection. Rep. Phil Crane, R-Ill., has already announced his candidacy for the White House. So we asked him to show us his returns, which he did.

Crane's income last year was $88,177. He paid a federal tax of $23,765 and a state tax of $1,790. This is 27 percent of his income, which is considerably more than most taxpayers in his bracket pay.

The handsome, square-jawed Crane collected the majority of his income from the taxpayers—$54,000 in salary. He earned $24,200 from lectures, and made an additional $3,000 from his Indiana farm. The rest is miscellaneous income, such as interest.

Thus Crane is setting a good example for other presidential candidates to follow.

Diplomatic Digest: An estimated 60,000 Nicaraguans have fled their homeland in anticipation of a new outbreak of civil strife. Some 10,000 of them are in Costa Rican refugee camps maintained by the Red Cross and the Young Men's Christian Association. The refugees endure drenching rains and scorching temperatures in their tent cities. Yet, they obviously prefer these harsh living conditions to life in Nicaragua.

—We previously reported that Libyan students were being trained in air traffic control methods at the Federal Aviation Administration academy in Oklahoma City. Now we have learned that Libyan strongman Muammar Qaddafi has been slow to pay for the training. The U.S. embassy in Tripoli recently dunned Libya for $114,000 in student fees. When last we checked, the Libyans still owed the FAA between $60,000 and $80,000.

Cheap Mistake: The Pentagon's procurement experts have finally committed a blunder that didn't cost the American taxpayers a dime. But it cost the Saudi Arabian government a bundle.

The mistake occurred when the U.S. Army agreed to purchase uniforms for the Saudi army. But the brass hats used standard American sizes when they ordered the outfits. Since the Saudis are considerably smaller than Americans, the Pentagon ended up with an excess of half a million yards of cloth.

That little boo-boo will cost the Saudis $2.7 million.

Headlines and Footnotes: Next year, the U.S. Mint will introduce the Susan B. Anthony dollar coin, which will be smaller than a 50-cent piece but larger than a quarter. Vending machine companies are ecstatic because the new coin will enable them to increase their prices ... Intelligence reports warn that the battery compartments of certain cameras are being used to smuggle drugs into the United States ... Interior Department attorney James Webb has written a terse note to his underlings asking them to explain in writing why they are not contributing to charity campaigns. As yet, no one has bothered to respond to Webb's request.

Texas Bank Does it Again

The Texas Bank team is 4-0 in men's City League Basketball. Last Monday night, they handily defeated the Iciers 122 to 63. Langston Williams led the scoring with 25 points, followed by Larry Lawrence with 24 and Reggie Ramey with 22.

Monday, November 27th they handed Johnson Manufacturing a defeat by the score of 125 to 53! For some serious "get-down" basketball, show up at Thompson Junior High School Monday, Dec. 11th at 7 p.m., when Texas Bank takes on Carl Sanders Building. Admission is free.

STATE CAPITAL
HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Governor-elect Bill Clements proposes to recommend an effective $2 billion worth of tax relief during his first two years in office.

Clements, planning transition and inaugural activities, announced his legislative program will assign high priority to a new $1 billion tax reduction package.

But he emphasized that is in addition to the approximate $1 billion worth of benefits to taxpayers—home and agricultural land owners, primarily—proposed in the tax relief constitutional amendment. The amendment, submitted by the legislature last August, was approved by voters November 7.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, while cautioning that budget recommendations are still being developed, said he agrees with Clements that a significant tax reduction, in the range of $2 billion, will be possible next year.

"In my opinion, there will be adequate funds for additional tax reduction," Briscoe said at a news conference. "I hope we have a cut in the range of $1 billion—in addition to that called for by the tax relief amendment."

Clements indicated strongly he is leaning toward recommending that one cent of the sales tax ($500 million a year) be applied toward forced reduction of school property taxes.

Another possibility, he conceded, is a flat reduction of one cent in the sales tax. The governor-elect also favors elimination of the state's 10 cent property tax for college building.

Law Proposed

Attorney General John Hill contends Texas should have a fair campaign practices law.

If one had been in effect, Hill said, late-hour campaign tactics by supporters of Clements in their gubernatorial race would have overstepped it.

The attorney general protested distribution of campaign pamphlets implying Clements was "superior as a candidate on the basis of religious faith."

Clements has denied any part in distributing the pamphlet.

Hill also criticized Clements' proposals for a major tax reduction. He said the recommendation is excessive.

The attorney general said he intends to remain as titular head of the Texas Democratic party for the rest of the year when he leaves office.

Coal to Increase

Texas coal production will quadruple by the year 2,000, while oil and gas output is cut almost in half, according to U.S. Commerce Department projections.

The Commerce survey indicates Texans will use a little less oil, about as much natural gas and 10 times as much coal.

Gas production by 1985, according to the study, may drop from seven trillion cubic feet to slightly more than six trillion. Oil production is expected to drop from four million barrels a day in 1976 to 3.3 million in 1985 and finally to two million by 2,000.

The forecast projects completion of coal slurry pipelines from Colorado and Montana to the Houston area in another two decades.

Courts Speak

In reversing a minor theft conviction, Texas Court of Criminal Appeals held persons who do not speak English are entitled to interpreters during trial even if they fail to ask.

The same court reversed a Lubbock robbery conviction due to introduction of evidence acquired in an illegal search warrant.

It further reversed a life sentence assessed a LaPorte man in a forgery case and, threw out McKinney drug case convictions due to faulty instructions by the trial judge.

Texas Supreme Court reversed a $7,500 insurance judgment in a case where a pilot who crashed his plane held medical and flying certificates issued after he made representations concerning a heart condition. The finding upheld the trial court, which had been overruled in part by the Eastland Court of Civil Appeals.

Fourth Court of Civil Appeals reversed a $3 million damage award against Southwestern Bell to a former company executive and the family of a deceased top official.

Appointments Announced

Gov. Dolph Briscoe named Freeman B. Dunn of Porter and T.L. Roach Jr. of Amarillo to vacancies on the Texas Board of Corrections. Briscoe also named these judicial appointees: P. Oswin Crisman, Kenneth C. Kippel, Joan T. Winn and Steven G. Condos, all of Dallas.

Erwin G. Ernest of Huntsville, John Ray Harrison of Houston, David Hittner of Houston, Robert S. Webb III of Houston, William W. Kilgarlin of Houston, and Alice A. Bonner of Houston. They will occupy 44th, 95th, 191st, 330th family district, 12th, 113th, 133rd, 312th, 215th, and 80th district courts respectively.

Short Snorts

Gov. Briscoe, in a speech at Abilene, called for more Texas toll roads. The State Insurance Board staff recommended a $60 million cut in workers compensation insurance premiums.

January meetings of two major associations—realtors and school teachers—contributed to a shortage of hotel rooms during the inauguration of Bill Clements and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby January 16.

Republican governors accepted an invitation from Clements to hold their 1979 national meeting in Texas—probably in Austin.

Opinion portions of a survey of teachers are excepted from disclosure, but remaining compiled results of the survey must be made public, Attorney General Hill said in a new opinion.

Hundreds of bills are being introduced in the House and Senate in preparation for the 1979 legislative session.

KELLY'S HEROES

by Joe Kelly

Like the boxer, waking up from a brief nap on the canvas said, what happened?

Simple and elementary, my dear Mr. Watson, Texas Tech zipped when it should have zagged.

Arkansas obviously was ready to play the type of game of which it is capable of playing; Tech had, mentally, finished its season when it upset Houston.

The Raiders probably thought that they were ready for the Razorbacks, but it soon became apparent that no miracle was going to take place. No, the Raiders were no up to facing the Hog juggernaut.

So the season comes to a close, and what a marvelous season it has been. Despite all the pessimistic birds like me, the Raiders came up with a campaign that was unbelievable. Talk to anyone. Almost without exception, the most victories foreseen were six—and that was real optimism.

Instead, the Raiders were 7-4, with a wealth of talent in the lower classes for the future; the coach of the year; freshman of the year; offensive back of the year; and some all-conference selections.

It will have to go down as one of Tech's finest hours. Rex Dockery surpassed all expectations and built what promises to be the foundation for winning teams in the future.

Now, where the shadows were hanging heavy, bright clouds are flooding the horizon. The future looks good and a strong recruiting season, which ought to be a lot easier now, should make it even better.

Congratulations, Rex, and to your staff and to your players. It was a great year.

What would happen when Texas Tech's young basketball team ran into a "good" team? That answer wasn't long in coming. Not long after the Raider footballers had fallen last Saturday, the Raider basketballmen toppled North Carolina-Charlotte, not a bad team.

What's more, it was done on the road, and the Raiders had to come from behind at that. The road victory has to give the team confidence, along with the fact that it played tough defense when it had to play it.

Maybe them two patsies Tech played were worth it, even though we hope that the Raiders play tougher opposition in the future. You don't build national recognition on the likes of Tech's first two foes.

Of course, I remember Polk Robinson saying, years ago, that "they don't remember who you played, they just remember how many games you won." He was referring to football, but the same can be said of basketball.

Still, fans want to see good competition, not teams that they have never heard of and who aren't equal to this caliber of ball.

The bowls are all set and there is no question but what the attention will be on the Sugar Bowl, which came up with the top two teams in the ratings, Penn State and Alabama.

Last year it was the Cotton Bowl with Notre Dame and Texas. It paid off with No. 1 ranking for the Irish and reams of publicity.

The Cotton will have a good bowl with Houston and the Irish, even if it isn't a top game. The Cougars, however, will have to get their act together if they expect to stand up to the Irish.

The firing of Sparky Anderson by the Cincinnati Reds was a real shocker. How could the Reds have fired a man who has taken them to the top and consistently has his club in contention.

Sparky had his problems with injuries to key people this past year or he might well have won the title. Still, with Pete Rose leaving, he may well be in better shape. Rose's bat and glove meant a lot of victories for the Reds—and how can you replace someone like him? You don't, really.

Rose, at last count, was still holding out for what he thinks is the best offer. You can't blame him. Since the courts ruled that contracts are not worth much, why not get all you can?

The free agent situation could be straightened out quickly if the owners simply would stick together and say that they aren't going to touch any free agent. Something close to that is happening in pro football, but not strong enough to be effective.

But where would the New York Yankees be without the free agent draft? George Steinbrenner has picked up some tremendous talent—along with headaches—in the free agent market.

Now he has added Tommy John, the classy Los Angeles lefthander, who obviously is one of the best in baseball. Still, John hasn't proven to me that he can, consistently, go more than seven strong innings. Of course, that's why New York picked up Rich Gossage—and let Sparky Lyle go.

Mutual Broadcasting of SWC football has come under heavy fire from Texas Tech, if no one else, although there is a strong suspicion that Tech is not alone. The broadcast formula left a lot to be desired.

Mutual did correct the situation where you missed two plays on a commercial. That was a glaring mistake. But there were times when you scanned the dial and couldn't hear the game you wanted. That type of broadcasting defeats the purpose of a conference-sponsored network.

Looking ahead to next year, Texas Tech ought to be in line to set a new attendance record. The first game, indeed, may set a new single game mark. That's when Southern Cal comes here for the lid lifter.

In addition, Tech gets Texas A&M and Arkansas, and with any kind of team, and record, they ought to produce sellout crowds. Again, if Tech has any kind of record, even Rice, TCU and New Mexico ought to draw well.

Those who don't have tickets, it's not too late to sign up now. It would be the wise thing to do.

Handel's 'Messiah' to be Presented December 10

Handel's Messiah has become a seasonable commodity, turning up almost exclusively during the Christmas and Easter seasons. The Christmas season is upon us, and in keeping with the times, the Choral Division and the Orchestral Division of the Tech Music Dept., will combine forces to present a performance of the Christmas portion of Handel's Messiah on Sunday, Dec. 10 at 3:00 p.m.

Emilia Simone

Faculty who will serve as soloists for the Lubbock presentation. The Soprano Solos will be sung by Ms. Emilia Simone, newly appointed faculty member. She was born in New York City and is a graduate of Queens College and the Yale School of Music. She has

Kyung Wook Shin

Mr. Paul Ellsworth, Conductor of the University Symphony, will direct the performance.

Few people realize that outstanding musical talent is recruited in the State of Texas, as vigorously as football and basketball talent. To keep the flow of talented music students coming to Texas Tech, the above Divisions have felt the necessity of attempting to increase their Scholarship Budget. With this in mind, the Messiah Concert will be the annual Scholarship Concert. Admission for the performance will be $5 for adults and $2.50 for students. Tickets can be purchased in Room 103 of the Music Dept. at Texas Tech. Call Betty Brown 742-2270.

Joining the 75 piece orchestra and 160 voice chorus will be members of the Tech Voice

The alto solos will be performed by Assistant professor of music Sue Arnold. Ms. Arnold received her Bachelor of Arts degree from Campbell College and her Master of Music degree from the University of Illinois. John Gillas, Director of Opera Theater at Tech will be the Tenor Soloist. Mr. Gillas received his Master of Science degree and Bachelor of Music degree from Indiana University.

John Gillas

Kyung Wook Shin, well known Baritone and member of the voice faculty at Tech will perform the bass solos. Shin has degrees from Seoul National University and Indiana University.

Sue Arnold

appeared as soloist with the Yale Symphony, New Haven Chorale, Manhattan Chorale, New Haven Symphony and Brooklyn Symphony. She just recently appeared as Mimi in the Lubbock presentation of Puccini's opera La Boheme.

1978-79 CDBG Program Amendment Proposed

Last spring, the Dept. of Housing and Urban Development withheld $226,000 from the City of Lubbock's Community Development Block Grant program to repay the Urban Renewal loan on the Memorial Center Complex. In September 1978, the last loan payment was made leaving an uncommitted balance of $142,919.24.

The City of Lubbock must prepare an amendment to the 1978-79 CDBG program to allocate the $142,919.24 to new projects or activities. The proposed amendment includes the following projects:

A. Intensified Code Enforcement — $81,860.00. This project will help prevent the early decline of neighborhoods by identifying deteriorating conditions and making efforts to stop them. The Zoning and Building Inspection Departments will increase their efforts to identify and prosecute violations of the City's Zoning Ordinances and Building Codes as well as other health and safety codes.

B. Ahead of Paving Utilities — $46,791.00. Funds were not budgeted in the 1978-79 CDBG street paving project to allow for the construction of water and sewer lines along and beneath those streets identified for paving.

C. Improvements to Water Mains in Mackenzie State Park — $7,356.00. To enable the Parks and Recreation Department to effectively use the new water canon to irrigate MacKenzie State Park improvements are needed in the water mains. The improvements will allow for a more efficient use of water and will allow for the use of water from the Canyon Lakes water system.

D. Improvements at the Lubbock Lake Site — $5,200.00. The Lubbock Lake Site Development Corporation is requesting CDBG funds for improvements to the Lubbock Lake Site. The improvements include sidewalks, handrails, and foot bridges.

The Lubbock City Council will conduct a public hearing on the proposed amendment on December 7 and 14, 1978 at 10:15 a.m. Both hearings will be held in the City Council Chambers of the Municipal Building at 916 Texas Ave. All interested persons are invited to attend the hearings and express their views regarding the amendment.

The amendment is available for public inspection in the Community Development Office, Room 207 of the Municipal Building. For more information call the Community Development Coordinator at 762-6411 ext. 2290 or 2291.

Higher Food Prices Seen

Food prices next year will be from 6 to 7½ percent higher than in 1978, according to a prominent U.S. Department of Agriculture economist.

J.B. Penn, deputy administrator for economics, in the Department's Economics Statistics and Cooperatives Service, made the forecast at the National Food and Agriculture Outlook Conference in Washington recently.

"Retail meat prices will again contribute significantly to higher food prices," Penn said. "We expect retail prices for beef and veal for all of 1979 to average 11.5 percent higher than in 1978. All red meat will be higher."

He said the "most noticeable increases" will come in the first six months of the new year.

"Processed fruits and vegetables will also increase at a double-digit inflation rate," Penn continued. "While prices at the farm level are expected to be just slightly higher, marketing cost increases will be primarily responsible for the much larger price increases."

"Prices for dairy products, sugar and sweetener, cereal and bakery products, and fats and oils are expected to increase at about 7 percent for the year."

Sheridan's Ride

by Jack Sheridan

The film's called "Dona Flor e Seus Dois Maridos" (Portugese) and translated into English it means "Dona Flor and Her Two Husbands." It is having a brief, interim run this week at the South Plains Mall Cinemas I-IV.

It is a rarity in this outpost to have a current, popular foreign film playing a regular house. I think the last major one was the French Academy Award winner, "Cousin, Cousine" if memory serves me well.

"Dona Flor" is Brazilian, unusual enough in itself. Much of it was filmed in the Bahia area, set in the 1940s, and the settings are very interesting and provide color.

The slight, satirical little plot tells of the mulatto lady, Dona Flor, who is married to a handsome, blonde, slim and vigorous no-good. He is a gambler, womanizer, hedonist supreme, who takes off for his gambling spots after he has fulfilled his chores on his wedding night.

But, bad as he is, he has gotten Dona Flor all the way. As the film starts, Vadinho, for it is he, dies suddenly during a Mardi Gras celebration. Dona Flor is distraught, she mourns and she keeps mourning for more than a year. The withdrawal of her physical life drains her and her hardnosed mother and friends all urge her to seek another man for her needed fulfillment.

Teodoro, stuffy pharmacist, heavy bachelor, has eyes for Dona Flor and in due course of time they marry. Teodoro has rigid rules, everything labeled and in its place. Love-making is direct, limited and emotionless, simply physical.

Little by little Dona Flor recalls the torrid times with the late Vadinho and she wills him back to vibrant, demanding life. He materializes, always naked and ready, but only Dona Flor can see him. She tries to hold out but his importuning again turns her on and she yields.

Mocking, seducing, Vadinho scoffs at his successor and ultimately Dona Flor decided to employ voodoo to have Vadinho dismissed, to return him to that limbo from whence she had willed him.

But, she reckons without her insatiable body and his expertise. The voodoo ruse breaks down and Vadinho is as present as ever. There is a delicious shot of Dona Flor and her two husbands, one on each side of her in the family bed. And that last shot as Dona Flor and her two husbands march out of the church arm in arm and down the street is provocative and amusing.

The film, in color, is uneven and yet it has its charm. It has been dubbed in English so there are no annoying subtitles here, the dubbing a quite commendable job. The hour and a half or so long film is R-rated and what nudity there is is not frontal. The dialogue is salty at times, as it would be. It's not a great film and it won't be around too long. But, for film buffs who might be interested in a film from a source rarely seen here, if ever, Brazil, it has its interest and its light entertainment value.

Sonia Braga is the name of the lady who plays Dona Flor, while the two husbands are played by Jose Wilker of the body and Mauro Mendonca as the pharmacist. It's pretty much Braga's film, and, of course, the sensual quality of Wilker's presence.

I had a visitor the other afternoon. It was old friend, actor, writer, publisher and western movie authority, Lubbock's Les Adams. Adams is probably the best versed man in the art of the western movie in the international sense. For a long time now Les, in addition to his daily work as a route man for Coca Cola, has been raising his family, been deeply involved in the productions of the Summer Mummies and on stage as well as actor. He only just concluded a four-day run as one of the poker players in the Lubbock Theatre Centre's "The Odd Couple."

His family reflects the theater interests, too, for his wife, Mickye, is an LTC veteran and is now daily manager at the Country Squire Dinner Theater. His daughter, Shannon, is both actress and plays a leading role in the Lubbock Civic Ballet.

But, first and foremost, Les Adams is the chronicler of the western movie. He has a collection of press books, stills, ads, promotional material end upon end and his reference magazine "Yesterday's Saturdays" is highly subscribed in the United States and abroad.

The purpose of Les' visit to me, bless his thespic heart, was to present me with a copy of his huge reference book on western films, "Shoot-Em-Ups," "The Complete Reference Guide to Westerns of the Sound Era."

What a monumental job this big, heavy book is! Scattered throughout are scenes from films that have never been reproduced before.

The book, dedicated to Harry Carey and Buck Jones, of late, lamented adventures, and to Hal Taliaferro, who was known on screen as Wally Wales.

Adams shares co-star billing in this book with western authority, writer Buck Rainey, who has prefaced each listing section with a fascinating, colorful account of the strides and losses made in each era. The book starts with a section "The Silent Years (1903-1927)" and then moves into "The Transition Years (1928-1932)", that era of conversion from silent to sound. From then on there are 10 more sections, each cleverly titled and subtitled, that brings the whole reference study to its climax with "The Continental Westerns (1962-1977)," embracing all those "spaghetti westerns" from Italy and the western genre from other sources outside the United States.

It's a grand, impressive and entertaining listing that gives all related western films, their directors, studios, dates of release, running times, story and screenplay authorship and other credits.

When I point out that the listings embrace more than 3,000 film titles in this 40-year period, you'll see what I mean by "magnificent job."

The big book is priced at $30 a copy and is published by Arlington House. It'll make a breathtaking gift for any movie buff and its place in the libraries of the world for reference is assured.

Lubbock book stores have not picked up the item yet but they very much should. If Amarillo stores can carry it, how come Les Adams' home town is remiss? Well, it'll come about, I'm sure.

In the meantime, I'm proud as heck with my treasured copy and deeply grateful to and highly proud of Les Adams.

Tips on Buying a Christmas Tree

Many people still enjoy and appreciate the beauty, color and aroma of a traditional cut Christmas tree. Everett Janne, landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, offers some tips to help you select your Yule tree and maintain it in the best possible condition throughout the holiday season.

1. Choose your tree early. Most Christmas trees are cut four or five weeks before they arrive on the lot. The sooner you can get the tree home and into water, the better.

2. Select a full, dense tree that is evenly branched. The branches should be firm and flexible. Shake the branches when selecting to see if needles fall. Fresh, healthy Yule trees do not drop their needles.

3. Select a tree with good green color. This indicates that the choice is fresh, has good needle retention, fragrance, fire resistance and longer holiday beauty.

4. Once you have selected your tree, saw off the lower two inches of the trunk. This will help the tree absorb water which will insure freshness and lasting qualities.

5. Stand the tree in water in a cool location outside until you are ready to trim it. Then, place it in a tree stand that holds water and keep it filled during the holiday season.

6. Place your tree in the coolest location possible indoors, away from the open fireplace, radiators and heaters.

"While it might seem a great waste to cut down thousands of trees every year just to have something to hang ornaments on at Christmas, we really should not criticize this practice," says Janne.

"The majority of trees cut for Christmas are grown specifically for that purpose on commercial Christmas tree farms. They are just as much a crop as fruits and vegetables. In addition, we can be sure that, like fruits and vegetables, these trees are carefully replanted for future harvests."

Single Purpose CDBG Grants

The Department of Housing and Urban Development has made over $3 million in Community Development Block Grant money available for single purpose grants. All SMSA cities and counties in the Dallas area office are eligible to apply for the grants. The maximum grant award will be $500,000.

The City of Lubbock will submit a pre-application for the $500,000 grant to the HUD Area Office by December 15, 1978. The proposed application seeks money to help in the Phyllis-Wheatley redevelopment project. The project includes acquisition of property and relocation of the Phyllis-Wheatley residents to a more suitable living environment. The total cost of the multi-phase project is estimated to be $2.2 million.

Two public hearings on the pre-application will be conducted by the Lubbock City Council. One hearing will be Thursday, December 7, 1978 at 11:45 a.m. and the second hearing on Thursday, December 14, 1978 at 11:45 a.m. The public hearings will be held in the City Council Chambers of the Municipal Building at 916 Texas Avenue.

Residents of the area and any other interested individual or organization are encouraged to attend the meeting and express their views regarding the proposed project. Copies of the application are available in the Community Development Office Room 207 of the Municipal Building. For more information call the Community Development Coordinator at 762-6411 ext. 2290 or 2291.

Tech Sponsors Band Uniform Design Contest

During 1979 a $500 scholarship will be awarded to the winner of a Texas Tech University band uniform design contest.

Full-time students at Texas Tech and at Lubbock County high schools may enter an original design before the deadline, Dec. 31.

Marilu Grace, contest coordinator and Texas Tech instructor in clothing and textiles, said, "Members of local civic clubs talked with band members and decided to donate money for new uniforms, which hopefully will be on the backs of the band members during the fall of 1979."

Designs must be original, in color and on 8 1/2 x 11-inch paper. They should include front and back views and head dress, predominantly in Texas Tech colors of black and red. Jackets need to be slenderizing, preferably covering the derriere, and long pants must be included in the design.

"Flexibility of uniforms is also important because of the marching formations of the band," Grace said. "Detachable items are good."

Tech bands director M. Dean Killion, representatives of the Tech faculty and civic leaders of Lubbock will judge the entries. The winner will be notified by March 1, 1979.

Designs will be judged on originality, suitability for a band uniform, comfort for marching, adaptability to group formations on the field and esthetic appeal.

If the winner is a high school student, the scholarship money will be held at Tech until the fall semester following the student's high school graduation. If not activated within a year after the student's graduation, the scholarship will automatically be forfeited. If a Tech student wins, the scholarship must be activated by fall 1980.

A student may submit as many designs as desired by attaching entries to the official form which will be published in the "Lubbock Avalanche-Journal" and the "University Daily." Entries should be mailed to Marilu Grace, Contest Chairperson, Department of Clothing and Textiles, Box 4170, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, 79409.

The Black Experience—Another World Championship? Leon Spinks will reclaim the world's heavyweight championship he lost to Muhammad Ali, will straighten out his personal life and be a model champion, his manager, Mitt Barnes of St. Louis told a group of black correspondents, including this one, in Oklahoma City recently. He said Spinks was not ready to be champion when he defeated Ali for the title in Las Vegas Feb. 15.

"When you're the champion, everybody wants you to be the public's champion. I think any champion should just hibernate, go off where no one can get to him. He's got to watch himself," continued Barnes.

"Let me tell you this. Anytime you get the people down on you, I don't care if you're the president or the world champion, anytime you get the people down on you, you're done. And that's what happened to Leon. His public image tore him up," said Barnes.

Spinks didn't exactly help things himself. He was picked up time after time for reckless driving or driving without a license after winning the title. He was arrested once and charged with possession of cocaine, but the charge was later dropped. Barnes says Spinks was framed on the drug charge.

Spinks had just turned 15 when he asked Barnes to train him to be a boxer. Barnes said it took a lot of training and that they would fight as an amateur in Wichita and Kansas City, then it got to where nobody would fight us. Leon decided he wanted to join the Marines and work on making the Olympics.

Press reports that Spinks was drunk in New Orleans the night before the fight with Ali are wrong, stated Barnes. We're ready to start negotiating for Spinks next fight with Duane Bobick or Rany Stephens. Spinks is currently building a $200,000 training facility at the Lake of the Ozarks. "He'll be champion again, when he gets all this other stuff off his neck," believes Manager Barnes.

That government is strongest, Thomas Jefferson wrote in 1807 "of which every man feels himself a part". By that criterion, the government of the United States is far from strong, believes bellringer R.L.W. Early indications are that only about 34 percent of the voting age population cast ballots for U.S. House races in the November 7 elections. This could be the lowest voter turnout in history in an off year election since 32.5 percent of the potential electorate went to the polls in 1942.

The growth of voter apathy has been accompanied by an increase in the number of so-called PAC's (political action committees) representing business, education, labor, oil and other special-interest groups. "PACs are multiplying like rabbits says Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and "they are doing their best to buy every senator, every representative and every issue in sight".

Blacks, Mexicans and other minority ethnics who are most in need of political representation are steadily falling behind. According to a Census Bureau survey of persons of voting age in 1976, fully 51.3 percent of the black respondents are 68.2 percent of the Hispanic-Americans reported that they did not vote in 1976. The percentage not voting will no doubt be greater in 1978 returns. Was R.E. Coulson right when he wrote in 1955: "Maybe neither of the candidates was worth voting for".

Black Colleges in Trouble? An editorial from the Daily Oklahoman recently: "There is too much overlap in Oklahoma's 17 educational institutions today, yet residents of some communities are pushing to have the Legislature create more colleges to serve their areas ... Langston is a typical example. Because it is a black school in an age when black demands recognition, one hardly dares suggest that Langston be closed and its students transferred to nearby Oklahoma State University or Central State. But Langston offers nothing to that cannot be obtained in other state educational institutions—and in some instances, at a lower per student cost". End of quote. And the beat goes on. Unlike Bishop, Texas College, Wiley etc. Langston is state supported.

As we type out these lines my Mom is still waging a brave fight against terminal cancer at the Prague, Oklahoma 74864. Thanks bellringer for all the cards, flowers, telegrams from over the nation. More later and until then—Be a good neighbor. They come in all colors.

Use Zip Codes on Christmas Mail

Postmaster Elmer J. Reed, Jr. is reminding customers that for the best service this Christmas season they should use ZIP Codes, place their return address in the upper left corner of the envelope and use proper postage.

"By following these suggestions," Postmaster Reed says, "Customers will be assured good mail service this holiday season."

It is important, the Lubbock postmaster says, that families "double check" envelopes and cards to be certain that proper postage is affixed. Envelopes without postage will be returned to senders, if possible, or delayed by postage-due procedures.

When the return address is placed on envelopes bearing holiday greetings, it also helps remind friends of one's current address.

And, if the family to whom a holiday message is sent moved more than a year ago, it cannot be forwarded. With a return address, postmaster Reed says, such letters are returned to the sender with a notation that the forwarding "order" has expired.

It works!

Since 1974, the year the 55MPH speed limit began, it's been the single biggest factor in reducing highway deaths... by more than 36,000. 55 saves gas, too. Driving at 55 rather than 70 can improve gas mileage up to 39%. So keep up the good work. Keep your speed at 55. It works - for all of us.

Handbell Choir to Perform for Lunch Bunch

The Adult Handbell Choir of First Christian Church under the direction of Mrs. Julie Wyrick will be the next feature at Lunch Bunch on Tuesday, December 12. The Choir has been in existence since 1968, and Mrs. Wyrick has directed it for the past year. She is organist for First Christian Church, and plays both piano and organ for the Lubbock Civic Choral.

Lunch Bunch meets each Tuesday from 12:15 to 12:45 p.m. in the Mahon Community Room of the Lubbock City-County Library, 1306 9th Street. The public is invited to bring a sack lunch and enjoy coffee and the free program provided by the Library.
