NEWS BRIEFS

NOW Threatens to Sue OEO Over Jaycee Grant

Washington — (NBNS)—The National Organization of Women has warned the Office of Economic Opportunity to reject the grant application of the U.S. Jaycees to disseminate success stories on the program.

NOW President Wilma Scott, in a letter, to OEO Acting Director Alvin Arnett, contended that the grant would be illegal since the Jaycees exclude women from membership.

Pointing to a possible $3 million grant to the Jaycees to disseminate stories of men who have been successful in the anti-poverty program, Scott said NOW would take legal action "to restrain or enjoin" the grant.

She said the organization's legal action would be based on the Economic Opportunity Act of 1972, which specifically prohibits sex discrimination.

Black Democrats Support Quotas in Delegate Selection

Atlanta — (NBNS) — Southern black Democrats meeting here last week announced their support for the quota system in selecting delegates to national presidential conventions and said that unless there are "built-in safeguards, mandates, people will not fall in line and let minorities have their fair share." Their support came during testimony before the Democrats' Commission on Delegate Selection and party structure.

Urban League Selects New Prexy

Washington — (NBNS) — The National Urban League closed its 63rd annual conference here last week with the installation of Donald H. McGannon as its new president. The president of Westinghouse Electric Corporation's Broadcasting, Learning and Leisure Time Division succeeds James A. Linen, chairman of the executive committee of Time, Inc. McGannon, like his predecessors, is white.

HUD Chief Vows Anti-Bias Policy

Washington — (NBNS) — Housing and Urban Development Secretary James T. Lynn said last week that he will vigorously enforce the anti-bias clause of President Nixon's $2.3 billion community development bill if it becomes law.

Addressing the National Urban League's 63rd annual conference here, Lynn said, "this provision has teeth in it" because of previously passed civil rights laws and because the HUD Secretary has the authority to withhold funds from communities which discriminated.

America's Blacks Still Trail Whites in Income and Employment Figures

Washington—(NBNS)—Although black enrollment in the nation's colleges doubled during the last five years, blacks still trail whites in income and employment levels and the rate in closing the gap is slowing down, according to a report released last week by the Census Bureau.

The report notes that the income disparity between median income blacks and whites was about the same last year as it was in 1967, about $6,900 for blacks and $11,500 for whites.

It also states that the rate of improvement in blacks' position in the United States slowed down from the "substantial social and economic gains" of the 1960s.

"In recent years, progress continued in some areas, notably education. However, in some other areas, no improvements were noted. And in 1973, blacks still remain behind whites in most social and economic areas."

The report said there is evidence to confirm recent reports that the number of black poor increased in the last year, while the number of white poor decreased. About 7.7 million blacks were in the low income level last year, representing about 33 percent of the entire black population, while

Judge Orders HUD to Restore Housing Plans

Washington—(NBNS)—A U.S. District Court judge last week ordered the Department of Housing and Urban Development to resume three federally subsidized housing programs which he said had been illegally suspended last January because Administration officials said they were ineffective and needed to be re-evaluated.

Judge Charles R. Richey ordered HUD Secretary James T. Lynn to accept applications for the subsidies because "the simple fact is that the programs are not in operation. This fact is not consistent with expressed Congressional policy."

"It is not within the discretion of the executive to refuse to execute the laws passed by Congress but with which the executive presently disagrees," the District Court judge ruled.

Last Jan. 8 then-Secretary George Romney stopped applications to the three programs which subsidize low and moderate income housing construction. President Nixon, in his budget request for this fiscal year, did not ask for any new funds to continue the three programs.

But, last week, the court said that "if a decision to suspend or terminate these programs is made, it shall be made by Congress."

there were 16.2 million whites in the low income category, or about nine percent of the total.

In 1971, one-fourth of all black families in this country received public assistance, compared to only five percent of white families. However, the proportion of black and other minority families with incomes above $10,000 increased from 22 percent in 1966 to 30 percent in 1971.

The report also notes that about 727,000 blacks enrolled in college in 1972, which was double the number in 1967. About 18 percent of all blacks aged 18 to 24 were in college, compared with only 13 percent five years ago.

The number of whites enrolled in college totaled 7.4 million last year, including 26 percent of youths aged 18 to 24.

The high school drop out rate for blacks aged 14 to 24 declined from 23.9 percent in 1967 to 17.8 percent last year. The white drop out rate in 1972 was 10.7 percent.

The number of black high school graduates aged 20 to 29 increased from 54 percent in 1967 to 65 percent in 1972. The proportion of blacks aged 24 to 34 with at least four years of college increased from 5.4 percent to eight percent.

Sterilization Charges On the Increase

Aiken, S.C.—(NBNS)—Dorothy Waters, a 30-year-old black woman and the mother of five children, said last week that she was denied medical care by a local white obstetrician under Medicaid unless she agreed to be sterilized and that her offer to pay for the delivery was rejected.

She charged that this refusal forced her to accept sterilization, especially after she was told by Dr. C.H. Pierce, one of only three obstetricians in the county, all of whom are white, told her, "Listen here, young lady, this is my tax money paying for this baby and I'm tired of paying for illegitimate children. If you don't want this (sterilization) find another doctor."

Dr. Pierce could not be reached for comment and his attorney, B. Henderson Johnson, refused to comment.

According to reports, more than a third of the welfare mothers who had babies this year at Medicaid expense in the Aiken Hospital have been sterilized under a policy followed by the three obstetricians. A Justice Department official said last week that the FBI is investigating to determine whether federal laws have been violated. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare is already investigating the Aiken situation.

Eastern Little League All-Stars fell to Abilene Dixie Monday evening at Snyder by a score of 6-4 in bi-district play. A three-run homer in the sixth inning decided the victor as Eastern led 4-3 at the time.

Abilene's Dixie will travel to Waco Monday to play in the state tournament.

Eastern's power was felt in the second and fourth innings when Daryl Lewis and Curtis Neloms who blasted home runs. During playoff competition, the young fellows from Eastern blasted ten home runs.

Darrell Green, who struck out six batters in three innings, was relieved by Neloms who was credited with the loss.

Tracy Thomas of Dixie was credited with the win.

Eastern won their district title last week when they defeated Southern Little League of Lubbock.

Beauty Pageant to Be Seen on Channel 11

The 1973 Third Annual Finals of Miss Black Teenage America Beauty Pageant & U.S. Teen Revue will take place on Friday, July 27th in New York City at the Broadway Theatre, and will once again be taped for an internationally syndicated 60 minute color TV special.

Contestants from 34 states including Alaska, Hawaii and The Virgin Islands will compete for the coveted crown. As a gesture of international understanding, Special Teen Guests representing Canada, Trinidad, Jamaica, Antigua and Bermuda have been invited to participate in the pageant and take part in the U.S. Teen Revue exciting production number, entitled "The Magic of Broadway—Our Way".

Station KCBD, Channel 11 in Lubbock will carry the televised version of the pageant on Sunday, August 5, from 10:30 p.m. to midnight.

EEOC Sues Companies For Discrimination

Washington—(NBNS)—The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission has filed lawsuits against several firms, including a television station and a newspaper, charging them with discriminatory practices against blacks.

In a suit filed in Tennessee, the EEOC charged that WREC-TV in Memphis, which is owned by the New York Times, discriminates against blacks and women in recruitment and hiring practices.

The Memphis suit was the first by the agency against a television station, officials said. EEOC contends that the Memphis station maintains "sex and race segregated departments and job classifications."

In another suit, the agency claims that blacks are discriminated against in the application and apprenticeship programs of the Seattle Post Intelligencer, a morning newspaper owned by the Hearst chain.

EDITORIALS

This Is No Time to Attempt to Stall Progress!

After several years of endorsing an enlargement of the City Council in this newspaper, Mayor Morris Turner has spoken out about the issue, and last week suggested that the matter be brought before the public in the upcoming April city elections. This is good, because the citizens of Lubbock need to make the final decision on the future of their city in regard to its political arena.

Shortly after the Mayor made his pitch in this regard, the local daily newspaper decided that the issue should not be brought to the attention of the public, and stated various reasons. In an editorial last week in the daily newspaper, it was stated: "...the Council should give the entire package a thorough look, then hand it to a 'blue ribbon' group of leading citizens, numbering no more than 15 or 20, for some definite recommendations. During the fall, citizens could offer their feelings in three or four 'town hall' type meetings, conducted by the study group."

The package, as mentioned in the above paragraph includes: a limitation on campaign spending for city office candidates, expansion of the City Council and a clarification of the duties of the mayor.

Realizing of course that the daily newspaper in this fair city is now under new ownership and management, the West Texas Times still feels that the other newspaper must realize that a group of "leading citizens" has met many times in the past and recommended that the City Council be enlarged. On top of that, those seeking office last year used the expansion of the council as one of their basic tools to capture the eyes, ears, and votes of the minority communities in the City of Lubbock.

Aside from the efforts of the West Texas Times, a project sponsored by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, "Lubbock Goals for the Seventies", utilized the idea of "town hall" meetings to gain input from local citizens on their thinking along this line, as well as many other necessary matters, several years ago. One of the sub-committees, Citizens Contribution and Involvement, which was chaired by the editor of the West Texas Times, made it known that one of the specific "Goals of the Seventies" was better representation on the City Council and boards of government by members of the minority community in order to help motivate involvement. "Election of city and school board representatives by districts" was spelled out in this particular goal. This, the committee made known, would help the involvement aspect of all Lubbock citizens.

For years now, we have found ourselves in the City of Lubbock studying our problems to death, while we are frequently told that another study of the problem is needed before any action can be undertaken. Under the past three mayors, going back a number of years now, there has been studies made on the problem of enlargement of the City Council. Each time it has been recommended that the City Charter be amended to allow larger City Councils. At this point in the history of our city, it seems to this newspaper that nothing is more important than the opportunity for all districts in the city to be represented by residents of the respective areas. It is the hope of this newspaper that the Mayor and Council members do not let the other newspaper in this town stall progress in the guise of another "citizens study".

Those persons in our city who have kept up with the "on again, off again" study of the enlargement of the City Council since the administration of W.D. "Dub" Rogers, will attest to the fact that it is the consensus of the taxpayers of Lubbock that enlargement of the City Council and better representation is needed.

To further stall or put off the opinions of "experts" in the past would be a very subtle way of telling the minority groups in this city, black, brown and poor white, that they will never be allowed the opportunity of participating in their city's government. This should not be allowed to happen—as Lubbock belongs to all its taxpaying citizens and should be operated in that manner. People in Lubbock, regardless of their ethnic background or residence, are tired of being promised one thing and watching something entirely different happen.

Although the other newspaper in the city is under new ownership, by persons who haven't lived in the City of Lubbock a year, they should have inquired about the facts behind the situation before recommending another stall. Certainly there are people on the staff who could have advised the new owners as to what had transpired on this issue in the past. It certainly would be unfair to assume that the local daily did not think equal representation on the City Council was desirable.

Lubbock is growing in leaps and bounds, and the citizens of Lubbock can't afford to continue to stall on matters which affect every citizen in Lubbock. It's true, what affects East Lubbock affects all other areas of the city, including Southwest Lubbock. It's time to quit beating around the bush and get down to some hard work to see if the majority of the citizens wouldn't like to see a more fairly represented city.

We can appreciate the efforts of our mayor last week, but we can't appreciate the attitude of the other newspaper—that the city should once again stall on the idea of enlarging the council. Let's take a real hard look on what is happening in our city and get on with bringing this matter before the citizens of Lubbock come this April.

This is not the time to do an "about face" on the idea that "Lubbock Leads the Way".

As I See It

by T. J. Patterson

The young fellows of the Eastern Little League All-Star team made a contribution to the City of Lubbock this year. It has been a long baseball season, from May until July, and those fourteen fellows represented us well all the way. Although they were defeated by Dixie Little League of Abilene at Snyder Monday evening 6-4, they went down like the real champions they are.

We should also appreciate what all the coaches, Clarence Wells, Homer Avery and Bobby Brandon, have done for our young fellows. Not only have they shown the youngsters the correct way to master the game of baseball in the Little League, but they have also encouraged good sportsmanship.

As I See It, the citizens of Lubbock should be proud to have such a group of young fellows, age 12, who are willing to contribute something which we all can be proud of. Not only these young fellows, who captured an Area win and a District win, but those fellows who began back in May getting ready for competition in the Eastern Little League. There were six teams who made all of this happen. Those teams—Giants, Barons, Indians, Monarchs, Greys and Oilers—and their coaches have contributed a great deal.

The loss last Monday evening should serve as a lesson for the young fellows from Eastern. It should show them that as young fellows competing on a baseball field, the game of life is the same. Sometimes you'll win and at other times you'll lose, but you can't give up. You must continue to work as hard as you can to reach what you are looking for in life.

I hope that these young fellows will continue to strive for the many good things in life. Let's hope that not only will you master the game of baseball, but that you will become better students in school. Each of you has the potential of moving on to higher things. Don't, for God sake, let your defeat last Monday stop your motivation. You've got too much going for you.

It was certainly a wonderful thing for me in Snyder last Monday to hear the announcer say, "Now, representing the City of Lubbock—Eastern Little League". That alone, young people, should let you know that you have something going for you. Not only did you represent the Eastern Little League, but you represented a city of more than 149,000 people. That is really something—after all, not many people can say they have represented a city of people—especially young fellows your age.

As I See It, all of you are champs. You have done your best. Keep your head up, there is always tomorrow!

And a "Thank You" to the parents for staying behind the fellows and for allowing the Eastern Little League to have such fine fellows. The Board of Directors of Eastern Little League are to be commended for sponsoring a fine tournament this year. Again, Coaches, thanks for your concern. The investment you placed in those young fellows will pay off one day.

The City Council is studying the budget for next year's operation. It would be a good thing if Mae Simmons Park could have some rest rooms. During the Eastern Little League baseball season, portable toilets are placed on the east side of the baseball diamond for public use. These portable restrooms may serve the purpose during the baseball season, but they certainly are not around for the public to use the rest of the year.

The construction of restrooms is needed badly at Mae Simmons park. It's rather embarrassing when we sponsor a Little League tournament—as we did this year—and our guests have to use portable toilets.

Could it be that Park Board members don't believe we need to wash our faces in East Lubbock?

I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Scott, of 2409 Globe Avenue, on their 25th wedding anniversary. Their children—Linda, Patricia, Francis and Eddie, surprised them recently with a silver anniversary surprise.

Good luck to you, Mr. and Mrs. Scott—may you have many, many more happy anniversaries.

It's been several weeks since Mr. David Stiles told this writer they would paint the dumpsters in Green-Fair Manor. He said they would paint four a day—wonder when?

and the whole meat industry has been thrown out of gear. This secretly pleases some of the President's economic advisers who are philosophically opposed to government controls. They hope the beef shortage will cause a public revolt against all economic controls.

Tampering with the market, however, is a dangerous game. Even the experts can't be sure what the economic consequences will be.

Backroom Battle: The battle of the budget has been crowded off the front pages by the Watergate scandal. But a bitter struggle is raging in the backrooms between the Nixon Administration and the Congress over spending.

For example, the Administration impounded nearly $1.5 billion that Congress had appropriated for housing and community development. Now the Senate has quietly voted to cut off the salaries and expenses for bureaucrats in the Department of Housing and Urban Development unless the money is released.

The Office of Management and Budget also slashed $10 million from the Veterans Administration budget for veterans' hospitals. The cuts would prevent the hospitals from having air conditioning in the summer. This would mean many sick veterans would have to swelter through the long, hot summer in places like Gulfport, Miss., and Waco, Texas.

In retaliation, California's Sen. Alan Cranston introduced an amendment stipulating that no money in the budget could be used for air conditioning the budget cutters' offices until such time as the money for veterans' air conditioning is released.

Under the Constitution, Congress is supposed to control the purse strings. But President Nixon has often ignored the will of Congress in handling money. Now Congress is quietly fighting back.

Black Market Boon: At the end of World War II and the Korean War, a bonanza of surplus military equipment became available to the public at giveaway prices. Canteens, sleeping bags, folding shovels and fatigue shirts became staples in surplus stores and college campuses across the nation. Many Americans were able to put old army jeeps, trucks and other heavy equipment to productive use.

Now that the United States has ended its involvement in the Vietnam War, however, none of these surplus spoils have shown up on the American market. The Pentagon claims all the usable equipment has been turned over to our allies in Southeast Asia.

A recent advertisement in the Singapore Straits Times tells where the equipment that cost U.S. taxpayers so much has gone:

"U.S. army equipment available," the ad says. "Large assortment of fork lifts, cranes, tractors, payloaders, road rollers, warehouse trailers, equipment and truck spare parts..."

It looks as if our Asian allies are peddling our military surplus on the black market.

JACK ANDERSON'S WEEKLY SPECIAL

ZIEGLER, LAIRD IN SHOWDOWN

by Jack Anderson

(Copyright, 1973, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington—The debate inside the White House over Watergate is developing into a showdown between Ron Ziegler and Mel Laird.

Ziegler got his White House job through the ousted chief of staff, Bob Haldeman, whose loyalists are still scattered throughout the Nixon Administration. Ziegler has now become the leader of this Haldeman-Ehrlichman faction.

They want President Nixon to thumb his nose at his critics and to take a hard line on Watergate. They argue that the public admires a strong leader and, therefore, will applaud a defiant Nixon.

Laird, on the other hand, has warned the President that his refusal to cooperate with the Watergate investigation makes him look guilty. Laird believes the way to get rid of the Watergate cancer is to cut it out. He would like to fire the Halderman-Ehrlichman appointees, to cooperate with the Watergate investigation and to clear up the whole mess as quickly as possible.

Laird looks upon Ziegler, in particular, as the symbol of the Watergate coverup. Public confidence in the White House cannot be restored, Laird argues, as long as Ziegler is around.

Yet it was Ziegler, not Laird, whom the President took with him to Camp David to decide whether to turn over the White House tapes to the Watergate prosecutors. The President, who is combative by nature, came back in a defiant mood and threw down the gauntlet.

Bob Haldeman and John Ehrlichman may have been fired from the White House. But their influence still remains.

Anxious Eye: White House sources whisper that President Nixon is more worried about the economy than Watergate. He keeps an anxious eye particularly on meat prices. At the first outcry from housewives last spring, he froze the price of beef nearly three months before he imposed the freeze on other products. Now he is easing price controls on nearly all products except beef. The President has told subordinates that if Americans don't get their red meat, there will be red in their eyes.

But the tight control of beef is already causing a beef shortage. The prices of pork and other meats are skyrocketing, while beef remains the same. Smart shoppers, therefore, are buying up beef and ignoring the higher-priced meats.

Already, many supermarkets are running low on beef

Police Beat

Aggravated Assault

There were several aggravated assaults this week in the community. It would help all of us to be well aware of this type of activity happening in our community. Here are a few of these assaults.

Melissa Jones, 1001 East 28th Street, was stopped by police at the corner of 8th and Avenue A one night last week. She told police that she was at a cafe at 701 Avenue C when she had a problem.

She stated that a man, approximately 22 years of age, beat her up. She told police, "He beat me in the face with his fists." She said that she would file charges this week.

Aggravated Assault

Frank Anthony, 2805 Juniper Avenue, Apt. 6, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that two men did jump on him and beat him up in the area of the grain elevator, East 37th Street and Ute Avenue, one night last week.

He said the men did kick him in the face and in the back. "I will definitely file charges on the two subjects this week", he said.

Aggravated Assault

A Lubbock woman reported to Lubbock police that she and her husband had a fight which apparently began over an argument, according to two witnesses.

She told police that her husband came home drunk and started pushing her around. According to the wife, he picked up a Coke bottle and hit her (what a brave man). She told police that she ran to the kitchen and picked up an aluminum cooking pot, brand name is Miracle Maid, and hit him on the forehead.

When police came to check out the incident, her husband was found slumped on the kitchen floor and was still in a prone position after the blow from the Miracle Maid cooking pot.

His wife, who apparently still loves him, accompanied him to the hospital by AID Ambulance.

One thing about it, a Miracle Maid cooking pot will not only cook a meal but it will stop a charging husband from beating up his wife. Do you agree?

Assault

Jay Alford White, Jr., 2613 Weber Drive, Apt. A, had a hot problem one night last week and it wasn't no dream.

White was questioned by police at West Texas Hospital about an incident which happened to him. He told police that persons unknown threw what appeared to be hot cooking grease on him while he was sleeping at his apartment one night last week.

It was made known that the skin was peeling off his face and chest. You know, sleeping in your own home is tuff this day and time.

Assault

Boy, here's one which is hard to understand. Eugene Cleaver, 2108 East 29th Street, reported to Lubbock Police that he did go through the intersection of 50th Street and Avenue A and did get splashed by another car in a water puddle.

He said the car stopped in the 800 block of 50th Street and when he got out to advise the person who had splashed water on him, he was punched in the right cheek by the splasher.

He said he would file charges against the man.

House Burglary

Ervin Butler, 2701 Quirt Avenue, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that someone unknown did gain entry to his house through a window.

After entry was gained, the unknown person did take two pistols, a 25 and 32 caliber. The pistols were valued at $75.

Mrs. Ruby Jay of Dallas, a sister of Mrs. Simmons, spent the week-end here also. Her daughter, Clarissa, drove down Sunday. She was accompanied by Harold Greenwood of Dallas.

Mr. T.H. and Hoover Gardner of Dallas visited their uncle here, Rev. T.B. Reece, who is a patient at Methodist Hospital.

Mrs. Juanita Simmons is yet a patient at Methodist Hospital, but is some better at this report. Rev. T.B. Reece is confined there also and is improving.

Lubbock Schools Offer New Program For Youngsters

Are you the parents of a child who is not developing at the expected rate? Do you have a friend or relative whose child appears to have a delay in one or more areas of growth? A new program offered by Lubbock Public Schools is now available for parents of such children.

The new program is called "Developmental Education Birth to Three," or DEBT. The federally financed program is designed to show parents meaningful ways to work with children who are behind in their development. The program's services are free.

The goal of the new program is to identify the children in Lubbock who are behind in their development and to provide help to parents who will teach their children. DEBT services involve home training programs and counseling for the parents. "We will be able to recommend to parents the various state and community agencies that might help their children," said Mrs. Gloria Galey, teacher-coordinator for the new program.

Parents of a child six months of age who is unable to reach out for an object, or a child eleven months of age who is unable to make familiar babbling sounds and say simple words like "mama", or a child eighteen months of age who is not walking are invited to use the services of the new program.

Children between birth and three years of age, as of September 1, 1973, will be eligible for the program if they have special development needs. DEBT will provide materials, developmental toys, individualized programs, and suggested instruction methods.

Parents are invited to call the DEBT office at 747-7970, or may write to DEBT, 1628 19th Street, Lubbock, Texas 79401.

and Bobby Brandon, were honored in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Lusk last Saturday evening by the parents.

Parents were showing their appreciation for the manner in which the young people have conducted during this summer baseball.

A well decorated table of food and other good looking items, the young fellows enjoyed themselves.

Dr. and Mrs. F.L. Lovings were among those in attendance. Dr. Lovings is the president of Eastern Little League.

Bogus-Weatherspoon Reunion Held Recently

These two youngsters, little master Kerry Millner and Miss

Lisa Isaacs, just helped their great grandfather, Mr. Daniel Bogus of Marlin, Texas, celebrate a family reunion, which included four generations. Kerry, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Millner, and Lisa, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Isaacs, were the youngest members of the family present when the family gathered in Marlin on July 14 for the reunion.

The reunion dinner was served at the home of Mrs. Fannie Lovings of Marlin.

Traveling from Lubbock with their families were Mmes. Margie Castilow, Lorene English, Doris Washington, Laverne Parson, Carolyn Isaacs, Shirley Millner, and Tonya English. Also Mr. and Mrs. Chris Bogus, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bogus, Raymond Bugus and Darryl Wilson.

Coming from Los Angeles, California were Mr. and Mrs. George English and their sons, Tony, Michael and Ricky.

The Weatherspoon family was represented by Mrs. George

Teachers Report For Duty Thursday

The first administrative staff meeting for the new school term will be held Thursday at 1:30 p.m. in the Lubbock Public Schools central administrative offices building. Preparations are being made for an expected peak enrollment of 32,800 students, pre-school through grade 12.

Teachers will report August 14, beginning the new school year at an 8:30 a.m. general faculty meeting in Lubbock Municipal Auditorium. Registration for the elementary school students, kindergarten through grade six, will be conducted August 16.

Junior and senior high students, grades 7-12, were pre-registered in the spring, according to Howard Price, director of secondary education. He said that the junior and senior high school students who are new to the city or who have changed attendance zones since they registered last spring should report to their new schools for registration sometime next week, August 6-10.

The first day of classes is scheduled for August 20. One hundred eighty days of instruction through May 24 are planned for the year.

Kindergarten Set Must Have Shots

Five year old children who enroll in the public kindergarten classes next month will need to meet the same immunization requirements as first grade students, according to Bill Parker, director of pupil personnel for Lubbock Public Schools.

All children who are five years of age on or before Sept. 1 will be eligible for the kindergarten program. Parker said that birth certificates or other proof of age would be needed to verify the birthdates of children enrolled in the classes.

State law requires immunization for all students enrolled in school. For children through 11 years of age, immunization is required for polio, diphtheria tetanus, measles (rubeola) and rubella (three day or German measles). For students 12 years of age and older, polio and diphtheria tetanus immunizations are required.

Parker said that most students who have been in school have satisfied the immunization requirements. He expressed concern that many younger children might be delayed in enrolling for school and urged parents to arrange for the needed immunizations or to secure the records from health clinics and family physicians. Mrs. Gayle McComb, director of the Well Baby Clinic, 102 Ave. P, said that her office would be able to provide records on request of parents of children that have been served by that facility.

For children who need to begin the immunization program, the City-County Health Clinic has announced that immunizations will be given on Mondays and Fridays from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. and 1:00 to 4:30 p.m. The clinic is located at 1202 Jarvis.

A mass immunization program is planned for six locations in the city on August 7 from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m., according to Mrs. Dorothea Surratt, director of

by Joe Kelly

They came from all over, many with their families, most with their wives. They laughed, they joked, they told stories. They played golf, they loafed, they watched baseball on television. But mostly they had a good time talking about the past.

These were the former West Texas-New Mexico League stars, who had come back to Lubbock for an oldtimer's game that became a victim of a West Texas rainstorm.

During their playing days, they'd have looked at the sky, prayed for just such a storm and then enjoyed a rare night off. Saturday they looked at the sky and prayed that it didn't rain.

A lot of fans joined them in prayer. Many veteran league watchers had already left their homes to drive to the Hub City. A few managed to get a glimpse of some of the players and to talk with them at their motel. But mostly, the old fan was robbed of a chance to see former heroes.

A lot of the players who had told Jackie Sullivan that they'd be here failed to show. But there were a lot on hand, ready to don their uniforms and prance through two or three innings.

Some questioned that they'd be able to get into baseball pants. Some looked almost as fit today as they did 15 to 25 years ago. Some parting their hair with their hands, some had considerably more gray showing. But, all in all, they looked the same.

One of the newer stars to come to Lubbock was Bob Crues. And, as you might expect, when talked turned to umpires, Bob brought up how he was robbed of his 70th home run in 1948.

It was in Abilene and the umpires were Smith and Frank, two of the better ones. Bob hit a shot that bounced off the scoreboard, located some eight feet outside the park.

"The ball bounced back onto the field, an outfielder retrieved it and I was tagged out between second and third. Everybody in the park knew it was a home run except the umpires."

Later, in the final game of the season, Lubbock played a doubleheader in Amarillo. The Gold Sox had to win the first game to make the playoffs—and they did.

The second game meant nothing. As a result, every time Crues came to bat Don Moore told him what Bob Clofelter was going to throw. Bob dug in, but he couldn't life one over the fence.

"I guess maybe I had a 'bad game'," Crues said. "I only got five for seven".

Ray Faust, who used to toil on the mound for Amarillo and Lubbock, took great delight in telling everyone about the time I covered a game and wrote that an opposing player hit one out of the park on "a hanging fast ball".

"Never heard of a hanging fast ball", Ray exclaimed. As a matter of fact, I haven't either, but Ray says that he still has the game story that appeared, so my membership in the Goat Club is paid up.

Irrepressible Jackie Wilcox and his wife, Irene, were on hand, along with Mike and Mary Dooley, from Tyler. Jackie, as usual, bubbled joyfully; Mike, as usual, was quiet.

Big Ted Clawitter, former Gold Sox catcher, had a great time remembering old days. Ted, now 61, is retired, the only player to enjoy such status. Ted was stumped when Rip Griffin referred to the need to keep the organization going because of the great camaraderie.

The word stumped Ted, but his face suddenly broke into a big smile and he cracked: "So that's what it was all those years. I wish somebody had told me earlier!"

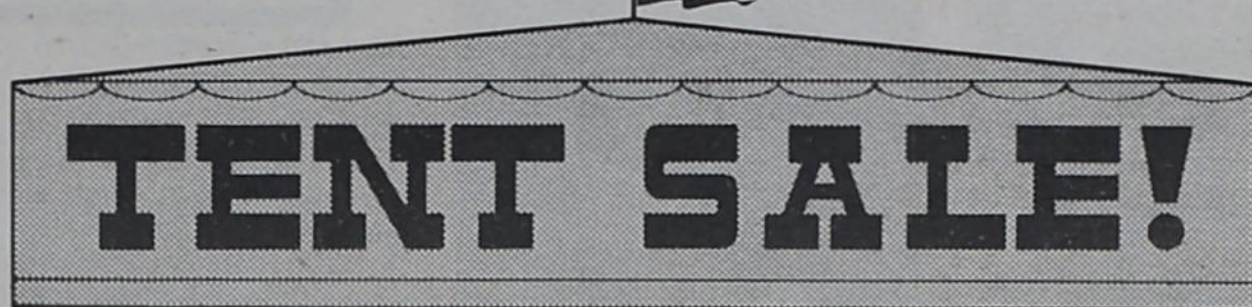

They came in, those old-timers, to enjoy talking and swapping stories. Players like Johnny Follis, Eulis Rosson, Frank Benites, Carmen Ferullo, Joe Fortin, Milt Ardrey, Floyd Walker, Stan Grzywacz, Oz Engel, Carroll Berryman, Mel Earsley, Art Bowland, Al Carr, Herman Brown.

If the rain had held off, there would have been more of them from Lubbock and the surrounding area. Perhaps next year there will be another chance to see these men, now in their 40s and 50s, or more.

Bill Metzger hosted the whole crew at his home for a buffet dinner after the game was called off. It was a great time and, as the night wore on, there was more and more laughter as incidents from playing days were told and retold.

Then, little by little, the group dwindled. They started saying their goodbyes. They headed home. They expressed hopes of being together again, soon. Honestly, that lump of nostalgia almost choked, it got so big. What a great, great gang.

Miss Cynthia Yvonne Harris and Larry Wayne Moore plan to exchange wedding vows at 7 p.m. Saturday, August 4, in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harris, Sr., 1508 East 1st Place.

Miss Harris, a junior at Estacado High School, is employed in the IBM section of the U.S. Federal Building.

Applications Being Taken Now for Winter Head Start Program in Lubbock Schools

Applications for the Winter Head Start Program in Lubbock Public Schools are being taken for the classes that will begin September 6. The program will extend through February 28, according to C.A. Farley, coordinator of Title I programs for the schools.

Head Start classes will be offered at Guadalupe, Harwell, Iles, Jackson, McWhorter, Martin, and Posey elementary schools. Applications may be picked up and returned at these locations. In addition, application forms are available at Bean, Bozeman, Mahon, Southeast, Tubbs, Thompson, Wheatley, and Wolfarth elementary schools.

Eligible four year old children from throughout the school district will be enrolled September 6 in the seven schools, regardless of their home attendance area, Farley said. Children with special physical and educational handicaps will be enrolled in the program at Guadalupe Elementary School. The handicapped students will be provided free buss transportation.

The federally-funded classes are designed for children from low income families. Students must be four years of age on or before September 1, 1973. The maximum family incomes used to determine eligibility are scaled according to the number of children in the family. For families with one or two children, the maximum is $4,321; for three children, $4,901; four, $5,551; five, $6,201; six, $6,851; and seven, $7,501. For families with more than seven children, the maximum income may be increased $650 per additional child.

Parent involvement is required by the program guidelines, according to Farley. The students' parents will be expected to attend monthly meetings and to participate in classroom activities at least one hour per week.

Mount Gilead Baptist Church
 "The Mount Gilead Baptist Church, the friendly church where the soul and spirit meet. The church where everybody is somebody. The church extends to members and public a cordial and clarion call to worship with us each week."

The W.M.U. was in charge of last Sunday evenings' program. A splendid program was held on this fifth Sunday.

Let us continue to pray for our sick and shut-in members.

Bethel A.M.E. Church
 Services were well attended last Sunday morning with Rev. Franklin, pastor of Johnson Chapel A.M.E. Church of Odessa as guest speaker. His subject, "Brace the Mind", was inspiring for everyone. Senior Choir No. 2 rendered music for the morning.

Mrs. A.W. Wilson gave a splendid report on the State Youth Meeting in Waco last week. Delegates making the trip were Pam Cunningham, Dorsell Benson, F.E. Brown, Donald Britt and Shelia Patterson. Each gave a report on their involvement to the Sunday School Department.

Several youth of our congregation met with young people of First Christian Church last Sunday to make plans for a swimming party on Friday, August 17. Additional plans will be made on retreat to Palo Duro Canyon later in September.

The Youth Choir will travel to Morning Star Baptist Church in Levelland, Texas Sunday as special guest of Rev. C.D. Collins, pastor.

Bishop John Adams, Presiding Bishop of Texas, will be the pulpit speaker on Sunday, August 26.

The Northwest Texas Annual Conference will convene in Amarillo, Texas at Johnson Chapel A.M.E. Church August 28. Rev. A.J. Davis is host pastor.

Friendship Baptist Church
 Brownfield—Mrs. Ethel Williams was at her post of duty at the usual hour. The lesson was turned over to the teacher for deep discussion.

Our pastor, S.N. North, brought the climax to the Sunday School lesson, and was enjoyed by all.

Our pastor came forward with a powerful message. His subject as "God is Able", text "If it be so, our God, whom we serve, is able to deliver us". Daniel 3:17.

At the 3:30 service, the missionary president, Mrs. Carter delivered a short program. Our pastor gave the missionary ministry to the women. His subject "Tell the world about this", text "And go quickly and tell my disciples that He has risen from the dead", Matt. 28:7. May we continue to pray for all those who are shut-in.

Lyons Chapel Baptist Church
 Our reasons for not attending church on days that it rains and snows are evident that we as people are more afraid of rain and snow than going to hell.

Sunday services were excellent, the devil stayed at home out of the rain. Dr. Floyd Perry brought the message: "A Need for a Shepherd." His text was Psalms 23:1-4.

The Brotherhood Revival was closed on Sunday evening. The men sang beautifully each night and reached their final climax Sunday evening. Rev. M.A. Brown did a tremendous job of bringing the message on Sunday evening. It was excellent. If we missed this, we've missed a treat.

Sunday, August 5, at 3 p.m., the Gospel Chorus will be sponsoring a musical. The public is invited to attend.

We are asking your prayers for Mrs. Carrie Malone, Mrs.
