Judge Orders Search For Syphilis Survivors

Montgomery, Ala.—(NBNS)—A federal judge has ordered the U.S. Public Health Service to search for any remaining survivors of the 32-year study of untreated syphilis.

U.S. District Judge Frank Johnson, who is hearing the $2 billion class action damage suit against the government, said he wants to find out if more than the 80 plaintiffs—the remaining survivors of the experiment—are still alive. Some 600 black men in Macon County participated in the syphilis order.

New Trial For Klansman

Gadsden, Ala.—(NBNS)—A Gadsden Ku Klux Klans member, who is accused of killing a black minister, will apparently get a new trial since a Circuit Court jury of 11 white men and one black man failed to reach a verdict. A majority of the panel voted for his conviction.

Aubrey Gene Arledge ironically was identified as the planner of the killing of Rev. Edward Pace by his 21-year-old son, Ricky, who said he was an FBI informer.

The younger Arledge maintained that he was on the porch of the black minister when Bruce Botsford fired the shots that killed him while the father waited across the street at the Klan hangout.

Food Stamp Program Expanded

Washington—(NBNS)—The soaring grocery bills confronting the poor will get a small assist beginning on July 1 when millions of needy will be receiving additional food stamps.

The Agriculture Department has announced an increase of about 5.6 per cent, to $150 a month, for a family of four, including two school-age children. Congress instructed the department to make semi-annual adjustments in food stamp allocations to reflect changes in food costs nationally.

Another Shockley Battle

New York—(NBNS)—Dr. William Shockley, who espouses a theory that blacks are genetically inferior in intelligence, had his speech delayed for two hours at New York University by demonstrators. Black and white students, after being threatened with expulsion by the police, left the hall shouting "no time for racists." Shockley was discussing his suggestion for payment of bonuses for voluntary sterilization.

Mitchell Looking At Mayor's Race

Baltimore — (NBNS) — Maryland Congressman Parren Mitchell says he is thinking about running against incumbent Baltimore Mayor William Donald Schaefer in next year's contest.

"Someone black has to carry the burden," Mitchell said in a

ELBA Sponsors First Seminar

Jack Martin, a local attorney, was the first in a series of speakers to appear before the East Lubbock Business Association's Seminar series held at the Wheatley Elementary School last Sunday afternoon. His lecture was based on important laws and procedures that business men and women must be abreast with in order to participate in the business community.

Sixteen members and non-members attended the first effort which was termed a success by those in attendance. Harold Chatman, secretary of the ELBA board of directors, said: "We really received a great deal from the first seminar and we hope the following

"It's all over and we really appreciate the efforts of everyone helping us to make it a big success", says Mrs. Marie Long, local president of the Lucky 12 Club, who helped coordinate the 24th annual convention of the Stokes-Parker District Texas Association of Women's Clubs last week at the Red Raider Convention Center. Mrs. Janice Ross, president of the Swahili Ladies Club, was responsible for the works of her club members.

One of the speakers during the three day confab, Mrs. Albert Dillard of Bakersfield, California, who is Southwest Region N.A.C.W.C., Inc., encouraged the women on Saturday morning during her address to get involved in their communities. "We must go back to our communities and tell the people how important it is for us to get out and vote in any election being held in our district," she said. "The ballot is more effective than the bullet", she continued.

Mrs. Dillard spoke kind words about Mrs. N.W. Stokes, past president and president emeritus of the Stokes-District, who has been responsible for the growth of the district organization.

Mrs. Stokes, a resident of San Angelo, expressed her appreciation to the group of more than 180 ladies who had come to the convention. She said, "We have got to keep on doing good works for our community and invite other ladies to participate in our efforts."

Mrs. Essie Person of Big Springs, president of the Stokes-Parker District, expressed her appreciation on the part of the local clubs, Lucky 12 and Swahili, for a magnificent job they had done to make this affair a success.

Mrs. Person stated: "We have come to Lubbock with a purpose. A writer once said, 'The man without a purpose is like a ship without a rudder—a waif, a nothing, a no man.' Have a purpose in life and, having it, throw such strength of mind and muscle into your works as God has given you."

At the local welcome program, Mrs. Joan Y. Ervin served as mistress of ceremonies and gave a welcome to the group from the local clubs. Other welcome addresses were given by Jack Davidson of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, Rev. A.L. Davis for the Ministerial Alliance; Roy Roberts for the public schools and T.J. Patterson for the local fraternities. Music for the program was sponsored by the Mount Gilead Angelic Choir. Other music for the confab was given by Joseph Jones.

With a motto of "Lifting As We Climb," ladies came to the convention from Odessa, Midland, San Angelo, Abilene, Colorado City, McCamey, Sweetwater, Big Springs and Lubbock.

The awards banquet and debutante presentation was held on Saturday evening.

Tech Announces Scholarship for Minority Students

Texas Tech University announced Thursday, April 18, a new $1,000 annual scholarship in architecture. The scholarship is the gift of the Lubbock and Panhandle chapters of the American Institute of Architects (AIA).

Paul Kenyon of Amarillo, the president of the Panhandle Chapter, and E.W. (Bill) Cartwright, president of the Lubbock Chapter each presented a $500 check to the Texas Tech University Foundation for the 1974-75 award.

They said the money would be used to encourage minority students who otherwise would not be able to begin their professional architectural studies. The award will be made, preferably, to a freshman student who would hold it for the first three years of his study.

"After that time," Kenyon said, "the student should have developed sufficient skills to find part time employment in an architectural firm and so be able to help himself for the final two years of study."

The student must be a resident of Texas and must maintain a C grade average in order to hold the scholarship.

Application forms may be obtained from the Department of Architecture, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Texas, 79409. They

EDITORIALS

Your Vote Can Make A Difference

We know that all the readers of the West Texas Times and their many relatives and friends can make a significant difference at the polls come May 4th. It is important that we understand the type of potential we have by going to the polls and casting our individual vote. It's our responsibility to do just that if we are to receive the necessary things our community needs.

We've all been down and frustrated about the way things have been in our community, but on May 4th we have an opportunity to cast our vote and show that we do care about the way our Lubbock County government and State Representative and Senator areas are functioning. We also have a right to cast our vote and let the entire state of Texas know who we will support in the governor's election, either Republican or Democratic Primary.

It's too late to look back at the lack of interest we showed during the City Council and School Board elections. It's time to make the next two years not so tough on us as citizens of the community. If we go to the polls and vote in large numbers and let those persons who are running know that we can decide any election in our area anytime, then we'll get something accomplished at all levels of our local political sub-divisions (city or county).

At present time, however, you can tell by the number of political advertisements in the West Texas Times that many politicians don't believe you will vote in the upcoming election as compared to the turnout on the last elections held. If we look at the situation, we can prove to those persons seeking office that you can and will turn out in great numbers.

In order for us to turn out in great numbers, now is the time for us to start calling our many friends and telling them to get out and vote. If each of us would be responsible for getting ten (10) people to the polls, you'll be surprised over the outcome. We can start now on our traveling to and from the community and see that we get all the people we can to go to the polls and vote on May 4th from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Don't let anyone talk out of voting for the person of your choice. We would advise you to consider those persons who did advertise in this newspaper, at least they thought enough to place an advertisement in this weekly newspaper.

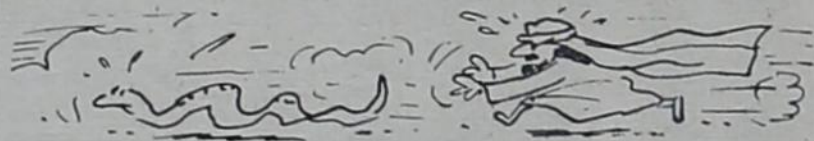

Of course, we at the West Texas Times are not telling you who to vote for and why. What we are telling you is to get out and vote for the person of your choice in the various political races. Regardless of who you vote for, please study the candidates and even ask questions about those persons running for office.

We can't let the ripple effect of Watergate keep us from doing our political duty. We've got a lot we can accomplish if we would only take ten minutes to go to the polls and vote. Let's not blame it on the shortage of gas, because many of us travel to other functions which are not as important as voting in this day and time.

As adults and parents, let's change our participating ways when it comes to doing our duty for our community. Let's give our young people some type of example, rather than remaining an apathetic community of residents in East Lubbock or any other community in West Texas.

We hope every young person who reads this editorial will do all they can to help get our community out to vote on May 4th. If you are 18 years old and have registered, you too, have a responsibility to vote. Surely, there are young dynamic brothers and sisters who are willing to do their part in seeing that our community is well represented in numbers in the upcoming election.

West Texas is wide open for those person who really want to do something. By voting on May 4th, we all can become a part of what is happening. If we go out in strong numbers, you can bet the effect will be felt throughout the area.

The ancient Arabs believed that eating the heart or liver of a serpent gave them the power to read omens from birds.

As I See It

by T.J. Patterson

The members of the Lucky 12 Social Club and Swahili Ladies Club proved, beyond a doubt, that quality is very important when it comes to putting together a project in which the city of Lubbock and West Texas can be proud. These ladies were responsible for the 24th annual convention of the Stokes-Parker District, Texas Association of Women's Clubs last week at the Red Raider Convention Center.

With a theme: "Black Women Being Concerned and Getting Involved", the ladies did just that as they inspired women and men of our community on how important it is for all of us to get involved.

They had numerous activities and each was as beautiful as any this writer has seen in Lubbock. It did, without any doubt, take hard work for this convention to be a success. As Mrs. Marie Long, president of the Lucky 12 Club, told me, "Everything is wonderful and we appreciate the cooperation of those who made it happen."

I hope those ladies present at the meeting took note of the words of Mrs. Albert Dillard of Bakersfield, California and president of the Southwest Region, when she said: "Let's go back to our communities and vote. Not only should we vote, but tell others how important it is to vote."

A great deal was observed by this writer at the events I attended. Perhaps the most outstanding thing I saw was the unity among those present. The women conducted their business in a business like manner and got on with other matters at hand. This is truly a good omen of what this organization is all about.

All I can say is, Ladies, you did a splendid job, and I wish the best of luck in the future. I hope I will be able to attend another one of your sessions. There are nine communities in the Stokes-Parker District, and the way it looks, Lubbock won't be a host city for nine more years. Anyway, I'm sure the impressions that Lubbock left upon the group, they'll never forget the hospitality given them by the host clubs, Lucky 12 and Swahili Ladies Clubs.

Tell your ladies, Mrs. Long and Mrs. Janice Ross, that we at the Times are impressed with what you are doing and we hope we can work with you more in the future. Thanks for a job well done.

Words can't express how I felt last Saturday evening at the Johnson House Restaurant when members of the Eta Theta Chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi professional business fraternity presented me with the "Civic Award". I was indeed surprised over the matter, but elated over what had been given me.

My wife, Bobbie, new about the award several weeks ago, but she didn't give any indication as to what was about to happen. Thanks Bobbie for what you did. God bless all you who made this award possible.

I hope I will live up to the award as it is something special in my life. Awards like this one, makes a person want to keep on, keeping on each day. No matter how many obstacles that are placed in my path, I know that I can keep trying a little bit harder and everything will work out all right.

We only have a little more than a week before the May 4 Primaries (Republican and Democrat). As citizens of Lubbock and West Texas, we should all take advantage of this and get out and vote. If we vote in this Primary it will help us in so many ways.

Get out and vote for the candidate of your choice. Don't stay at home and care less about the election. Your vote is very precious. So go to the polls and use it. Why not take someone with you when you vote.

As I See It, we can change the political situation in our community if we get out the vote.

We Goofed!

In this space last week this newspaper erroneously stated that there were two public swimming pools west of University Avenue and South of 4th Street. In making this statement, we took issue with Mr. Vaughn Hendrie who had stated in his column "City Hall Notebook" that he was mistaken about the locations of K.N. Clapp and Maxey Pools.

Mr. Hendrie was correct in his placement of Clapp Pool East of University Avenue. Our apologies, and we sincerely desire that this was our first and last error. It wasn't and probably isn't.

FIGHTING BACK

by Jack Anderson

(Copyright, 1974, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington—The guerrilla tactics of the Symbionese Liberation Army have Washington officials worried. They have spent the past two decades developing counter-insurgency tactics. American Special Forces are quietly helping governments around the world fight guerrillas, who in the past have always operated in the jungles or the mountains or other remote hideouts.

But the Symbionese Liberation Army is typical of a new breed of guerrillas. They make their hideouts right in the hearts of our great cities. They stage daring assassinations, kidnappings and bank robberies in crowded neighborhoods. Then they disappear, not into the brush, but into the ghettos.

Both the FBI and the Pentagon are studying how to cope with this new menace. Clearly, the urban guerrillas are radicals who are willing to jeopardize innocent lives to achieve their revolutionary aims. The counter-insurgency tactics of the jungles simply won't work in the crowded cities.

Our tacticians, therefore, are devising new means to fight the urban guerrillas and stop the terrorism.

Hughes Connection: Phantom billionaire Howard Hughes may yet be the downfall of President Nixon. The relationship goes back to the 1950s. The late Drew Pearson and I dug out the fact that Hughes had loaned Nixon's brother Don $205,000 with only a $13,000 lot as collateral. The scandal contributed to Richard Nixon's defeat for president in 1960 and for governor of California in 1962.

Despite these bad political burns, the Nixons seemed unable to keep away from Hughes. Don Nixon continued to consort with Hughes aides after his brother moved into the White House in 1969.

On August 6, 1971, we revealed that Hughes had secretly siphoned $100,000 from his Nevada gambling operations for the President. The cash was delivered in two $50,000 bundles to the President's friend, Bebe Rebozo, at Key Biscayne and San Clemente.

I told Senate Watergate investigators all I knew about the payoff. I told them Rebozo had distributed the money to the President's secretary and the Nixon family. I also reported that the President had full knowledge of the whole affair. For proof, I suggested that the President's personal attorney, Herb Kalmbach, be questioned under oath.

The Watergate investigators followed my suggestion and they now have Kalmbach's sworn testimony. I have also given the committee additional corroborative evidence.

This could prove that the $100,000 cash gift was intended, not as a campaign contribution as Rebozo has claimed, but as part of a personal slush fund for the President.

Kissinger Coup Coming? The stage is set for Henry Kissinger to pull off another of his patented miracles. Within a few months, if all goes as planned, he will normalize relations between the United States and India.

The love-hate relationship between the United States and India is one of the enduring ironies of modern times. The two nations are the world's largest democracies. Yet they have usually been at odds. The lowest point came just two years ago during the India-Pakistan conflict.

We published top-secret documents revealing that the Nixon Administration was tilting toward the Pakistan dictatorship. Indo-American affairs hit bottom when President Nixon personally ordered a halt in economic aid to New Delhi.

In recent months, however, relations have slowly improved. American diplomats have hinted that the United States might be willing, if requested, to resume economic aid. The Indians have quietly let Washington know they are interested. Already, over $75 million has been set aside for India, provided that agreements can be worked out. For one thing, American diplomats want to establish an American naval base on the Indian Ocean island of Diego Garcia.

Now the stage is set for Kissinger to fly to New Delhi for face-to-face discussions with Indian leaders. He expects to come home with another diplomatic triumph.

Wasteful Ways: The Federal Energy Office is worried that Americans are returning to their wasteful ways now that the Arab oil embargo has been lifted. Conservation practices are still essential to prevent shortages.

There is also a danger that the Middle East negotiations will break down and that the oil embargo will be reimposed. Intelligence reports claim that the suicide raid on an Israeli village by Arab extremists was deliberately staged to provoke Israel into reprisals that would scuttle the peace talks. They came dangerously close to achieving their goal.

The United States, meanwhile, is drifting into greater dependency on Middle East oil. Strategists have warned that the Nixon Administration isn't doing enough to develop new sources of energy. This could lead to an acute crisis, they claim, by the end of the decade.

The financial crisis may become even worse than the energy crisis. President Nixon's own top economists have warned privately that the United States economy cannot stand the multibillion dollar financial drain that it will cost to buy enough oil to keep the country going during the 1970s.

One thing is becoming increasingly clear. The days of superabundant oil and gas are gone.

In Gear: The House impeachment inquiry, after a slow start, is moving into gear.

The staff has almost completed its extensive review and evaluation of the work of other investigative bodies. Now the staff has started drafting the bills of particulars, which will outline the case against President Nixon.

This work is being directed by two senior staff lawyers, Richard Cates and Bernard Nussbaum. But already, they have encountered partisan opposition.

Sam Garrison, the No. 2 Republican lawyer on the staff, has complained privately that the GOP staff members have been excluded from the drafting sessions. Furthermore, Garrison has argued that Cates and Nussbaum are preparing too hostile a case against the President.

Their work, of course, has not been made public, and only a few senior congressmen are privy to the drafts. But our sources say the bills of particulars include allegations that the President was involved in the Watergate cover-up and the ITT affair.

Much of the material in the briefs is taken from the public record. But our details, presented in an organized fashion, add up to a formidable case.

Police Beat

House Burglary

Velma Diggs, 1915 East 1st Street, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that persons unknown entered her house while she was away and removed one of her valuables. Taken from the house was a portable television set valued at approximately $399 plus tax.

After an investigation by police, it was learned that there were no signs of physical force used to enter the house.

Destruction of Private Property

Jonell Johnson, 3310 East Bates Avenue, reported to Lubbock police that persons unknown threw bricks through two of her windows. One of the window panes broken was the garage door window and another window on the south side of the house.

Assault

Lovie Sanders, 2410 Weber Drive, Apt. D, reported to Lubbock police that one night last week she was at a local club and that she stayed there from 9:30 to 10:30 p.m. As she started to leave, according to the police report, two people (man and woman) did grab her and hold her arms and did kick, hit and scratch her.

Although Mrs. Sanders didn't report the incident until the next day when she called police to her apartment, she said the woman cursed her several times.

House Burglary

Alonzo McAllister, 3503 East Bates Avenue, reported to Lubbock police that someone broke into his home while he and his wife were at work one day last week. The unknown persons did enter the McAllister home by breaking a bedroom window.

A radio and camera were taken in the heist. There was no value on the items on the police report.

He told police that this was the fourth time in eighteen days to have their home burglarized. "We sure would like for the police to patrol our area a little closer", said Mr. McAllister.

Criminal Mischief

Kathleen Alexander, 2630 East Bates Avenue, reported that persons unknown removed and damaged a window screen to their house. The frame was broken and the screen wire was pulled loose from the frame.

She said that she did not know how much it would cost to replace the screen. Entry, however, was not gained.

Vandalism

H.J. Manahan, 1303 East 17th Street, reported to Lubbock police that a Lubbock woman threw a rock through the glass of his 1967 model car.

This incident happened at 3607 Zenith Avenue one day last week.

Project Share Studies Racism in Louisiana High School Athletics

The West Texas Times learned last week that Len Chew, assistant professor of Social Work and director of a non-profit college and community organization called "Project Share" on the campus of Grambling College, has undertaken an extensive dimensional perusal of institutional racism in Louisiana high school athletics.

Of particular interest to Chew and his research team, largely composed of Grambling College field work students and volunteers who are active in most all of "Share's" activities, is the flagrant "integrational imbalance" exhibited in the recent state basketball tournament game this past season.

Chew described "integrational imbalance" as a disproportionate amount of black coaches and black players first of all on a single team basis, and second, in proportion to the cornucopic set-up, that is, the lack of blacks as compared to the plethora of whites (coaches, players, per capita whites coached by blacks per capita blacks coached by whites) in the recent basketball tournament "system" of operation.

"The study, as yet unfinished, has already revealed one startling fact", admits Chew. He continued, "Of the six different classes that make up the basketball conglomerate (4-A, 3-A, 2-A, 1-A, 1-B, 1-C), one-half are without blacks either in the capacity of players to coaches."

Chew injected, "we want to show the effect . . . the adverse effect of integration in Louisiana athletics, using this particular study only as one example."

Chew, a former resident of Lubbock and graduate of Dunbar High School, was the first director of the Mae Simmons Multi Purpose Center. He was also responsible for founding the West Texas Workers Association and was successful in securing a $40,000 grant during the first year of the program. He is also a chartered member of the United Lions of Lubbock and organized the first work exchange program.

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

How, you say, could you call Sunday's hockey game between Boston and Chicago a great game when the score wound up 8-6? That's a good question.

Primarily, it was a good game because it had all the elements that make great hockey—sharp passing, fast forming formations, heavy, but clean, checking, great shooting, outstanding goalie work, fast and furious sweeps of the rink.

By all the old, established standards, except the score, it was great hockey. Twenty years or so ago an 8-6 game would have been hooted out of existence. Scores normally were 1-0, 2-1 and only occasionally 3-2.

Fourteen goals in one game would have called for an examination of the players and the goalies would have been on their way to the outermost reaches of Saskatchewan.

What has made the big different probably is the slapshot, the slightly curved sticks. The puck takes off and, if the goalie is screened at all, it's almost impossible for him to stop a score.

Actually, the defense is as strong as it ever was and the goalies Sunday made some miraculous saves. Basically, hockey hasn't changed, and maybe the added scoring is good for the sport.

I was talking with Harry Walker, one of the city's premier sports buffs, Sunday morning. Harry was brought up on the Brooklyn Dodgers in the days when they played at Ebbets Field.

Slightly before that I was brought up on the old Giants, who used to play at the Polo Grounds. Both teams have fled New York for California and both ball parks have been razed, which is enough to stir some nostalgia.

My Dad used to take me to the Polo Grounds, now and then, to see the Giants. I became a Giant fan, thanks in no small measure to the fact that George Kelly (no kin) played first base.

Then one day I was taken to the Polo Grounds, but this time it was to see the Yankees, whose own stadium wasn't even in the building stage. That was when Babe Ruth was just coming into flower as an outfielder and home run hitter. One game and I was a Yankee fan.

In those days you took the subway in downtown New York until it became the elevated. It was a long ride through tenement areas and I well remember being thankful I didn't have to live as the families we saw.

Going to a game at the Polo Grounds was a great thrill, even though the ice cream and soda pop vendors may have been of more interest than the players a good part of the time. As time went on, the El went by Yankee Stadium and you could see the structure rising majestically.

Later I was to spend many afternoons in that stadium, marveling at the grace of Ruth, the stolidness of Lou Gehrig, the effortless ease with which Earl Combs patrolled centerfield, the power of Bob Meusel, the agility of Tony Lazzeri and the guts of Joe Dugan, one of the fine third basemen.

I wasn't to get back to the Polo Grounds until 1962, thanks to Texas Tech's playing Boston College in Boston. I went to the old stadium because E.J. Holub and the Dallas Texans were playing the New York Titans.

It was one of the last games in the storied old stadium, which was showing its age. Already the skeleton that was to become Shea Stadium was rising on the meadows.

It seems a shame, really, that places like Ebbets Field, the Polo Grounds and other stadia must give way to progress. There's even an unshed tear that Hubber Park had to give way to a mobile home parking lot, because those stadia tell the story of man's victories and defeats, the human foibles that are part of history.

I don't remember the last time I saw a baseball game in Yankee Stadium. It's been a good 13 or 14 years since I saw a football game there, something of an irony, because the football Giants played in Yankee Stadium.

In 1939 and 1940 I inhabited Griffith Stadium, also gone now, in Washington, where Sam West was the mainstay of a collection of players a cut above the initial Mets.

The Senators of those days always came home from spring training with high hopes and glowing press notices about such great young stars as Joe Kraskauskas, Ken Chase, Buddy Kelly, Jake Early. Then summer would come and the spring flowers faded.

Walter Johnson, the "Big Train" and an immortal, did the radio broadcasts. Often he, the press, the grounds crew and the grandstand help outnumbered the spectators.

But it was major league baseball and you had a chance to see young Ted Williams, Joe DiMaggio and other future great stars. You even had the thrill of seeing the woebegone Nats rise up and blast the great Bob Feller into oblivion, led by Kelly, Cecil Travis, Lubbock's own Sam West and yes, by Zeke "Bananas" Bonura.

Zeke Bonura! I hadn't thought of him in years. He was a picture of grace around first base. I think he even led the league a year or two in fielding. Of course Zeke had a little trouble with ground balls hit to his right. Yep, and with ground balls hit to his left or even right at him. But he was graceful. And he could hit.

Those really were great days in Washington. In addition to seeing baseball, there was the opportunity to see the football games of Maryland, Catholic U, Georgetown and George Washington, to say nothing of the Redskins.

Later, pro basketball and hockey came in, although they never got the following that the Skins did. Still, it was a great time to be young, sportsminded and with few cares. It would be great to live those days over again.

Kathy Richardson is "Track Sweetheart" first time in the history of the school that a faculty member has received such an honor.

A Vocational Adjustment Coordinator, Mrs. Richardson was presented this honor at the school's athletic banquet. This honor, coming as a great shock and surprise to Mrs. Richardson, was something to be proud of. The track team wanted to show their appreciation to Mrs. Richardson for always being around when they needed her most.

During the past four years, she has taught at Estacado High School, she hasn't missed a performance by the students at Estacado, mainly sports, win or lose. She is always among the crowd, said one official.

"We need many more Kathy Richardsons in our schools today; and we encourage you, Mrs. Richardson, to keep up the good works," was the words of another official. "God bless you."

Mrs. Richardson is a member of the St. Patrick Catholic Church.

Editor T.J. Patterson is Presented
"Civic Award" by Alpha Kappa Psi

T.J. Patterson, editor of the West Texas Times, was the recipient of the "Civic Award" presented by Eta Theta Chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi professional business fraternity, Texas Tech University, last Saturday evening at the chapter's annual spring banquet at the Johnson House Restaurant.

The award states "For service to country and community and for inspiring leadership". It continued, "Eta Theta Chapter, Texas Tech University, 1974, confers this award in recognition of his ideals and his efforts to enrich the lives of others."

Patterson, who is assistant to the dean in the College of Business Administration at Texas Tech, is president of the East Lubbock Business Association and past director of the Lubbock County Community Action Board. He serves on several community organization boards in the city of Lubbock.

He said, "I really appreciate this honor and I hope I can continue to live up to its worth."

Mental Health Campaign Set

The Lubbock County Association for Mental Health has announced it will forego its annual door-to-door "Bellringer" campaign for funds this year, according to Mrs. Fray Smith, president.

In a letter to the community and past contributors to the organization, former Governor Preston Smith, chairman, explains the efforts of the Mental Health Association and its continuing services to the community, but "because we are all deluged with door-to-door appeals for worthy causes" the drive will not be carried on from house to house as in the past.

A special educational presentation of the group is a seminar presented periodically since 1966. Assisted by other community organizations such as the Human Development Center, Weight Watchers, Commission to Combat Drug Abuse, Alcoholics Anonymous, Family Service Association, Lubbock State School, Volunteer

Black Leader Raps Ford Endorsement

Montgomery, Ala. — (NBNS) — A black civil rights and Democratic Party leader has rapped the endorsement of Gov. George Wallace by Tuskegee Mayor Johnny Ford and called the action an effort to try "to lead his people to the slaughter house."

Joe Reed, an old line party regular and head of the black Alabama Democratic Conference, after learning of the unqualified support and endorsement of Wallace by Ford said he doubted the governor would receive much black support in much of the state.

"I don't believe black folks who got the vote in spite of George Wallace will fall for this," he said. "Wallace said he hasn't changed, and I take him at his word."

The governor, who is running for re-election has insisted that he has not changed, and neither has his attitude. Rather, he maintains that the attitude of the country has. Reed said he doubted that Wallace could even carry the state capitol, Montgomery.

However, in his announcement of support for the Alabama governor, Ford said that Wallace might even win his city of Tuskegee with its 83 per cent black population. "Traditionally cities with black majorities had not had an equal shot (at grant support from the state)," Ford said in commenting on how helpful Wallace has been to his city, which is regarded largely as a black college town.

"I want to ensure that Uskegee has an opportunity to be considered on an equal basis with other cities," Ford commented. "I'm a Democrat and I'm convinced that Governor Wallace is going to be the nominee for governor. I've had a chance to work with the governor over a year and a half and that experience has been a positive one."

He said he thought the governor would "do better among blacks in the rest of the state" than he has in the past. "Our people have come to realize that voting for people is one way of assuring that their community will get at least its fair share of resources," Mayor Ford commented. "That's what it's really all about."

Ford, who was elected mayor in early 1972, endorsed President Nixon for re-election that year because he maintained the President would help the city get large amounts of Federal aid. He said Wallace would continue to be generous with state funds for Tuskegee as a result of the endorsement.

"I'm not telling people how to vote," he said, "but I wouldn't hesitate to tell anybody who asked why I chose (Governor Wallace) as I did."

Tuskegee and Macon County have been the focal points of racial problems in the state for decades. It took a Federal Court order to permit registration of black Bureau and others, a day-long area-wide seminar, "Not for Women Only" is scheduled for April 30 at the First Christian Church.

The symposium will deal with problems ranging from children's learning disabilities to those of aging parents. The housewife's "empty nest" syndrome and its related problems of alcoholism and obesity will be discussed. Teenage drug problems and other mental health and emotional disorders will be covered.

The seminar is open to the public. Registration is $2.00. Participants are to bring a sack lunch, although sandwiches and beverages will be available at the meeting, Mrs. Smith said.

Diet drinks have been donated by Weight Watchers, for sale at lunchtime. Proceeds will be contributed to the Mental Health Association, according to Adele McGinty, Director, Weight Watchers of West Texas.

The most overworked thing in life is the jaw, both during and after mealtime.

A compliment remains the best way to insure cooperation.

DEAR EDITOR

Dear Sir,

On reviewing my records over the past 20 months, I find no cancelled check to West Texas Times, therefore, you will find enclosed, my check for $8.00 to cover 2 years subscription.

Upon our arrival here in August 1972, we found Lubbock embroiled in the strike of sanitary workers. Aside from a small monetary contribution, I felt I needed to help in some other way. An acquaintance recommended that I subscribe to your paper, to "get another slant on the news". Your paper, as well as the University Daily, has been an aid in helping me keep the news in proper perspective, especially the local news.

My husband and I are leaving your town, but do want to say thank you to everyone who has been so kind to our family during our stay here, and at Tech.

Sincerely,
A. Williams

Sir:

I am writing to see if you have stopped my paper as I haven't received it since some time in February. I am paid up until June.

I am also checking my post office.
I remain,
Mrs. Willie B. Grayson
1303 W. 32nd St.
Plainview, Texas

(Editor's Note: Since the Post Office does not forward second class mail, it is important for all subscribers to notify the newspaper office immediately when you have moved and a new address is required on your subscription.)

Dear Sir:

Just a note answering your incorrect editorial regarding the swimming pool at George Woods Park, and my actions.

1—I was in favor of the swimming pool, even though it cost $225,000 instead of $180,000 as originally planned.

2—I wanted a first class facility in East Lubbock, and was willing to pay the extra money for it, even though Southwest Lubbock does not have any developed park, or any swimming pool.

3—The City was spending $48,000 for the Leroy Elmore Park in SW Lubbock, but I was still in favor of spending more money in East Lubbock for the benefit of the citizens there.

4—Wanting to spend $225,000 in East Lubbock doesn't sound to me that I'm favoring SW Lubbock.

5—I was favoring East Lubbock in this matter and intend to continue to do so, in spite of your incorrect editorial opinion.

6—Additionally, the ambulance response time in East Lubbock is much improved due to the establishment of an ambulance substation there. I was a leading participant for the negotiations with Aid Ambulance Co. that resulted in the East Lubbock Ambulance substation.

7—It is personally discouraging to me to fight for the benefit of the East Lubbock citizens, and not get credit for my efforts. In addition then I get an editorial discrediting me, in a slanderous personal manner.

8—As a member of the NAACP, with a helpful concern for East Lubbock, it is totally mystifying to me why I should be singled out for attack by your editorial, when I was the member of the City Council who made the motion to restore the cuts from the pool and its facilities, and made the motion to build the complete first class facility as it will be.

Actions such as yours are certainly not in the best interest of Lubbock, and more specifically the East Lubbock community.

Sincerely,
Bryce Campbell, DDS

THANK YOU
We wish to thank our many, many friends for all your deeds of kindness and love shown us during the illness and death of our dear loved one. Words are inadequate to express our sincere gratitude and appreciations. During the confusions, the food donors record has been misplaced for which we are sorry. But we remember your faces and your shoulders to cry on. I am especially grateful to Mr. T.J. Patterson for the nice tribute he gave to me and my deceased sister. Maybe we did not deserve it, but nice things said about you makes you feel good. Sometimes when troubles and sorrows come to us, we should be grateful for them, for you know who are your real friends; and we should find strength and courage to say "Lord, your will be done, not mine."
We shall always pray for and love you.
Sincerely,
The Family of

New State Rules Assure Minority Groups Voices Will be Heard this Year

New rules of the Texas Democratic Party assure minority groups that their voices will be heard at the precinct conventions May 4, Commissioner of Agriculture John C. White said this week.

White also is chairman of the Texas Affirmative Action Committee. His committee seeks to inspire more involvement from minority groups, women, youth and senior citizens in the selection of delegates.

"Our new party rules provide that any group, with at least 20 percent of those in attendance, can, by written petition, caucus separately and elect their share of the delegates," White said. "This is a guarantee that every group will be represented, that every voice will be heard," he added. "But you have to show up, in person, at your precinct convention for your vote to count," White pointed out.

Most precinct conventions are held at the polling place, starting at 7:15 p.m.

From the precinct level, delegates journey to 254 county conventions on May 11. The county conventions will select a total of 5,463 delegates to the state convention in Austin, September 17.

published report. He indicated his first choice for the post was Judge Joseph Howard of the city Supreme Bench.

But he said unless "a strong black candidate" filed for mayor, he would "almost be forced to go after" the post. Mitchell is expected to run for a third term in Congress this fall.

areas of business will be just as beneficial."

Martin spoke on areas such as tax, white-collar crime, how to set up a business structure and other pertinent matters.

The next seminar will be held in May and the topic, according to Chatman, will be based around accounting. The 413th Civil Affairs, under the coordination of Capt. Sam Boys, is sponsoring the seminars.

"We would encourage all business men and women of East Lubbock to attend these seminars," says Chatman. "They are of great importance to all of us," he continued.

The state convention, in addition to writing a platform and electing party leaders, will choose delegates to a national conference in Kansas City December 6-8 to write a charter for the Democratic Party.

"You start writing a new charter for the Democratic Party when you attend your precinct convention," White pointed out.

"And you take the first step toward nominating the next Democratic presidential candidate," White added.

White noted that minority groups in the past had been under represented in the selection of delegates.

"The door is open now, wide open, and the welcome sign is out at our precinct conventions," White said. "Everybody is invited to get some of the action," he added.

Most reformers are satisfied with themselves.

Too many eye witnesses usually confuse the story.
