

More Areas to Watch Telethon

Ertha Kitt warms up the crowd with a hot number on the annual Jerry Lewis Labor Day telethon. This year's show will be seen on TV station KLBK, Channel 13, starting at 10:30 p.m. (CDST) Sunday, September 2, and runs for 20 star studded hours.

TV viewers in Honolulu, Puerto Rico, Alaska, and Guam will see the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon this year for the first time, it was announced today by David Seim, president of the Lubbock Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America.

Seim said that the network being put together by Hughs Television to carry the 20-hour show will include over 150 stations, a record number combining to support a single fund-raising effort. The Jerry Lewis Telethon, the first major program of the new TV season, will be seen in Lubbock and the Lubbock area over KLBK-TV, channel 13. The show begins at 10:30 p.m. CDST Sunday, September 2 and continues non-stop until 5:30 p.m. CDST Monday, September 3.

The new Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon will originate in Las Vegas this year, with pick-ups from New York, Nashville and Los Angeles. Joel Rogosin, noted Hollywood producer, who is organizing the TV spectacular, is helping Jerry line up the nation's top talent, including Carol Burnett, Johnny Cash, Wayne Newton, Buddy Hackett, Peter Falk, Joan Crawford, Roy Clark and Sammy Davis, Jr., as well as other stage, screen and concert stars.

The network shows and local cutaways will also feature appearances by sports headliners, governors, mayors, congressmen, business and labor executives and scientific leaders. Among notables scheduled to appear on the telethon are Doctor Michael E. DeBakey, world-famous heart surgeon; George Meany, president, AFL-CIO; and spokesmen for the Kimberly-Clark Corporation; McDonald's Restaurants; United Airlines; Arthur Murray and the Roller Skating Rink Operators Association.

Money raised by Jerry's efforts helps to support MDA's worldwide research programs and network of free clinics throughout the U.S., in Puerto Rico and Guam.

Public Hearing Set in Washington September 17 To Study Low Rent Housing Projects—Procedures

A public hearing on the model lease and grievance procedure for low-rent public housing projects will be held Monday, September 17, 1973, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development announced today.

H.R. Crawford, Assistant Secretary for Housing Management, will conduct the hearing in the Department of Commerce Auditorium, 14th Street entrance, Washington, D.C., beginning at 9:00 a.m. The hearing is part of the review and evaluation HUD is making of policy issued to all local housing authorities (LHA's) in early 1971.

The model lease and grievance procedure is applicable to the more than 2400 LHAs throughout the country which house almost 1,250,000 families.

The hearing is to focus on:
• the effect of the implementation of HUD policies by LHAs on project management and operations; and,
• the changes necessary, if any, to achieve the policy objectives of promoting better tenant-management relations and protecting the interests of the LHAs, tenants, and HUD.

Individuals and organizations wishing to make oral presentations, or any other communications, regarding the September 17 hearing must file notice of such intentions with HUD by September 11th.

HUD's first notice of the review and evaluation of the model lease and grievance procedure, published in the Federal Register last June 19, resulted in 94 written responses. These responses, from individuals, organizations, and LHAs of all sizes, are mixed. Following the hearing, a further notice of proposed rule-making will be published in the Federal Register for written comment prior to final adoption by HUD.

SCLC Censures Kennedy For July 4th Appearance

Indianapolis — (NBNS)—Calling it "the height of political opportunism," the Southern Christian Leadership Conference has censured Senator Edward Kennedy for his appearance on July 4 with Alabama Gov. George Wallace at a festival there.

The group's sharply worded resolution pointed out that Kennedy's appearance came at a rally when Wallace received the Audie Murphy Patriotism Award. The appearance, the SCLC said, also "came at a time when the crisis in our nation demands electoral leadership uncompromising with racism, police statism and mob rule."

But SCLC President Ralph Abernathy attempted to tone down the harshness of the Kennedy censure by the delegates. Following the action Abernathy was asked how strongly he supported the reprimand.

"We all make mistakes, errors, blunders," he said. "It is my hope that Sen. Kennedy will repent because I have great love and admiration for this man."

He also said the appearance at the Decatur rally had done "some harm" in the black community "but I think he can repair it."

Kennedy noted in his speech that he and the governor "had different opinions on some important issues" and that he opposed those "who have failed to ensure black Americans equal access to education and jobs."

Abernathy also commented that this year's convention was highly successful (in securing) "aid for the millions of Americans who need aid from poverty and prejudice."

MY FRIEND THE PRESIDENT—Eight year old Jessica Solomon went to the White House to see her friend, President Nixon, on the first anniversary of hurricane Agens, along with her congressman Herman Schneebeli of Harrisburg, Pa. Jessica walked out of a crowd of spectators and took the president's hand as he toured the disaster area in Pennsylvania last year.

Omaha Schools Sued By Justice Department
Washington—(NBNS)—The Omaha, Nebraska school system is the object of a suit filed by the Justice Department on charges of maintaining racially segregated schools in violation of the law.

The government is asking the court to order the school board to implement a plan that would eliminate de jure segregation in the city's schools, and also to order that the new Martin Luther King middle school open as an integrated school.

Justice Department attorneys have been negotiating with the school board since June 13 in an effort to reach an agreement.

Massachusetts Exempted from Computer
Boston — (NBNS) — Massachusetts will receive $9 million in federal funds to conduct drug treatment programs after a dispute with the federal government over whether or not information which would identify those receiving treatment had to be submitted to the U.S.

EDITORIALS

Let's Support The Jerry Lewis Labor Day "Thing"

We would like to encourage all of our readers to support the new Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon which gets underway, live from Las Vegas, New York, Hollywood, and Nashville, Tenn. Sunday, September 2, at 10:30 p.m. through Monday, September 3 (Labor Day), at 5:30 p.m. This program will be seen over KLBK-TV, Channel 13. It is to benefit Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America.

It is necessary for those watching this TV marathon that the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America (MDAA) is striving to defeat these diseases. The Muscular Dystrophies is no single disease, but is a whole group of muscle-destroying dystrophies which vary in hereditary pattern, age of onset, initial muscles attacked, and rate of progression.

Myositis, another wide range of disorders, are characterized by inflammation of skeletal muscle. An additional group of diseases, Muscular Atrophies, involves the degeneration of the motor nerve cells in the spinal cord. Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis (ALS) is another one of the muscular atrophies which has caused the deaths of baseball great Lou Gehrig and former United States Vice President Henry, and currently afflicts former heavyweight boxing champion Ezzard Charles.

MDAA is working to combat neuromuscular disease through basic and applied medical/scientific investigation, programs of patient services and clinical care, and widespread professional and public education. Thanks to the Jerry Lewis Telethon, and other national and local fund-raising activities involving hundreds of thousands of volunteers, MDAA has increased its revenues by over 25 percent during the last two years to achieve:

- A worldwide research program
- A nationwide program of patient and community services
- A network of free clinics
- A summer camping program for patients of all ages
- Professional education programs, and
- Public health education programs

Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America is a leading national health agency. It is a dedicated partnership between scientists and concerned citizens as you who have joined together in the past in an all-out effort to conquer neuromuscular diseases which are estimated to affect more than 1,000,000 American men, women, and children. For the past 22 years, National Chairman Jerry Lewis has done a splendid job in seeing that this program becomes a success for those persons who are suffering from this dreadful disease.

MDAA is now the fastest-growing of the 12 largest national voluntary health agencies, and ranks third (behind only the American Cancer Society and the American Heart Association) in dollars expended for research.

As in the past, let us call in and contribute our part to this worthwhile effort on the part of Jerry Lewis and other stars who are giving their talents to make this another successful year. Let us all stay up with Jerry and watch the stars come out. It's worth every second of programming.

To Parents of Students in Ella Iles Schools

Dear Parents:

Let me take this opportunity to express appreciation for the fine support from you last year. Our experience helped in our planning for the coming year, and we approach it with great enthusiasm.

Educators and parents across the country are trying new approaches in education aimed at being more helpful to the total growth of children. They want the classroom to be a place where children are happy with school and are actively involved in their learning experiences. We here at Iles want the same thing. We also realize there

JACK ANDERSON'S WEEKLY SPECIAL

PUBLICITY STUNT by Jack Anderson

(Copyright, 1973, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington—The mysterious kidnapping of South Korean opposition leader Kim Dae Jung has been dominating the headlines in Asia. His supporters charge that he was kidnapped by the South Korean Central Intelligence Agency. They claim the kidnapping crossed international boundaries, required the efforts of at least 35 men and the expenditure of $500,000.

Now, my name has been caught up in the story. Tokyo newspapers report that Kim was in touch with me in Washington and that I joined him in condemning South Korea's President Park. It is true that Kim came to see me and that he accused President Park of political oppression. All I did was listen to him; I did not join him in his accusation.

Kim made one statement that surprised me. When I asked about his plans, he told me that he intended to return to Seoul. This struck me as strange, since he had also been telling me how his life had been threatened by President Park.

Now Kim has turned up in Seoul as he said he would do. But his supporters claim that he was abducted against his will and that he is not permitted to leave the country.

I have been on the overseas telephone to Tokyo in an attempt to clear up the mystery. My Japanese associate, the respected newspaper commentator Omari, has spent several days investigating the kidnapping. He has reported back to me that his findings aren't conclusive. But some sources suspect the kidnapping was purely a publicity stunt.

The Junketeers: For years, we have reported on the far-flung junkets that members of Congress have been taking at the taxpayers' expense. We have been particularly critical of trips by senators and representatives who have retired, resigned or been defeated.

Now, as in other congressional recess periods, a horde of legislative junketeers are swarming over Europe and Asia. Some are studying important problems. Others are sightseeing at the taxpayers' expense. Almost all are puffed and pampered.

There is, however, a brighter side to the travel ritual. First of all, more and more congressmen are returning with important reports that can affect national policy.

Secondly, for the first time in several years, the cost to the taxpayers decreased last year by 14 per cent. The are many approaches to education with no one approach being perfect, but we pledge to provide a sound educational program as we try new ideas and judge their merits.

As an example, the Lubbock Public Schools have adopted a new reading series for the fourth, fifth and sixth grades. Through this new series and departmentalization, we hope to provide the best learning atmosphere for your children. Each intermediate teacher will specialize in one subject. In this way each teacher will be able to better provide for each child.

The faculty at Iles extends to you a special invitation to visit the school. New paint and freshly waxed floors have provided us with a new look. We think you will be pleased with what you see.

When you come by to visit, please sign the guest register located in the main entrance hallway.

Remember, this is your school. Plan to visit with us in the very near future.

As I See It

by T.J. Patterson

For several months, some brothers and sisters in the black community have come to this writer on the many problems they have had with the owner of Don's Drive-In Grocery and Market at 914 East 34th Street. I have heard all kinds of stories of how this owner treats his customers. There's no doubt about it, it's his store and apparently he could care less about anyone who comes into the store.

In the past, I have gone into the store and did notice a negative attitude toward those persons purchasing goods from the neighborhood store in East Lubbock. The time I was in the store, the owner was disturbed because a black man was buying some goods and the owner thought he wanted only change for a $10 bill.

There's only one thing to do when people fail to treat you like human beings and that is not to patronize the store. No matter how poor an individual may be, he still should be given respect from his fellowman if he is conducting himself in a manner which is conducive to the situation.

What I've heard and seen from the operation of Don's Drive-In Grocery and Market, I'd say leave the man alone and don't continue to purchase his groceries if he continues to have this type of attitude toward his customers, regardless of what race of people they are. For that matter, whites, browns and blacks have supported this establishment in the past.

cost of congressional junkets in 1972 was slightly under $1 million. This is still double what was spent in the late 1960s. But it does, at least, represent a step in the right direction.

And third, a bill is pending in Congress to prohibit free trips for lame duck members.

We have been complaining for 25 years about the millions of dollars that are squandered overseas by congressmen who preach government economy at home. Perhaps it hasn't all been in vain.

Agnew Won't Quit: Sources close to the Baltimore grand jury tell us that U.S. Attorney George Beall had enough evidence to indict before he went ahead with his formal grand jury investigation of Vice President Spiro Agnew. This means Agnew is almost sure to be indicted.

The prospect has President Nixon fuming. He feels, according to some of his confidants, that the Agnew mess is making it more difficult for him to convince the public of his innocence in the Watergate scandal.

The last thing he wants, on top of his Watergate woes, is to have his Vice President resign in case he is indicted.

The President, however, has no power to fire the Vice President. This can be accomplished only by the long and painful ritual of impeachment and trial by Congress.

Agnew and his aides are resisting the pressure to resign. If he is indicted as expected, he has decided to remain in office and wrap his defense in the majesty of the vice presidency.

He is reported by associates to feel he will be in a stronger position going before the bar of justice as Vice President, not as an ex-office holder.

Grain rain: Those "amber waves of grain" heralded in the patriotic song "America" are the key to the food crisis. We face a situation unique in our history: The most bountiful nation on earth may find itself with a good shortage.

The price of grain has gone out of sight, pushing up the prices of meat, dairy and bakery products. Eventually, though, the inflated grain price may have far more serious effects. It could cause a serious shortage of meat.

It is now more profitable to sell grain on the world market than feed it to livestock. This already has reduced the number of animals brought to slaughter.

Unless something is done to control the price of grain, the experts say, this country could be desperately short of beef and pork by next year.

Ironically, our crops this year unquestionably are the largest ever harvested in history. Prices, therefore, should be low. But poor crops worldwide have increased the demand for American grain. Agriculture Department sources tell me that about half of our entire wheat crop this fall is already committed for overseas sale.

Nevertheless, the Nixon Administration is resisting all pleas to slap controls on grain exports. They claim the grain trade helps strengthen the dollar. But as usual, it's the American people who pay—in the form of higher prices.

The only thing I can say is if the man gives you a hard time and you don't like the way he treats you, then let his groceries go. There are too many other businesses in Lubbock who would love to have your business, and would treat you like a human being. Get up off your knees and start being somebody. I hope those persons who reside in the Coronado Apartments area will pay close attention to this problem at this neighborhood grocery store.

Just remember that none of you owe this man anything. So if you don't like the way he treats you, then stay out of his store. A Lubbock minister came to me Saturday and also mentioned this problem, and he said the same thing I'm trying to drive home to you this week. "Stay out of the man's store if he mistreats you." He needs your business to stay in business.

I had an opportunity last Saturday, along with Eddie P. Richardson to visit many of our brothers and sisters in Lorenzo, Ralls and Floydada. Many of you remember us from several years ago when we were there selling subscriptions for the West Texas Times. We are more than happy to have some of you to become subscribers again.

What I did notice was the many problems which exist in the West Texas Community. There are problems which should be brought to the attention of those persons in various political sub-divisions who could help find sole solutions for the various problems we saw last Saturday while we (Eddie and I) walked in 99 degree heat and sand.

There are many health problems which should be brought to the attention of some government agency. Perhaps the next time we travel in those communities, we will take pictures of some of the conditions we saw.

I would like to inform the readers of this newspaper that there are some real friendly brothers and sisters in these communities who are our friends. This is good for we have a job to do for all people in West Texas.

This weekend, we will travel to Plainview and Hale Center to find out what is going on in the black communities. As I See It, Mexican-Americans and blacks seem to live closer together in areas as those traveled last weekend. This seems to be a trend.

After visiting all areas, in a fifty-mile radius, this newspaper will give a birdseye picture on what is happening in West Texas in the black community. In that feature, our many readers will know what is happening and what is causing it to happen.

If any of you have relatives, friends or acquaintances in the Plainview and Hale Center communities, tell them that "As I See It" will be there Saturday (September 1) and we would like for them to become subscribers of this newspaper.

One-Third of Black Population in United States Suffer from High Blood Pressure

New York—Treating high blood pressure and bringing it down to within normal limits "is the greatest challenge in preventive medicine today," Michael Williams, M.D., of the Harlem Hospital Medical Center, said here at the annual meeting of the National Medical Association.

An estimated one-third of the black population of the United States is "either hypertensive or potentially hypertensive," Dr. Williams said. Twenty per cent of the general population is estimated to have high blood pressure.

Dr. Williams, an associate physician at the hospital center and a member of its hypertensive unit, addressed the NMA meeting on "Hypertension in the Ghetto."

At the Harlem Hospital hypertensive unit, 405 patients were treated for high blood pressure during 1972, he reported. The total number of visits was 2,492. Compliance with the doctor's instructions on treatment was "excellent," he said, and high blood pressure was brought under control in more than 90 per cent of the cases.

The people knew we were interested in them, and they complied," Dr. Williams said.

In contrast, 4,220 people were screened at "scatter sites," 32 to 35 per cent of those screened were recognized as hypertensives, but only eight per cent complied with instructions for long-term therapy, he said.

Tuskegee Syphilis Study Discussed

New York—The Tuskegee syphilis study shows that "it is possible to do certain things to the detriment of members of a group considered inferior without them being aware of it," Vernal G. Cave, M.D., chairman of the board of the National Medical Association, said here yesterday.

"In such situations, there is no one to play an advocacy role and protect these individuals," Dr. Cave said.

Conducted by the U.S. Public Health Service, the Tuskegee syphilis study extended from the early Thirties to last year. The course of the disease was studied among several hundred black men in and around Tuskegee, Ala. The patients were left untreated, even after the discovery of penicillin.

The Black Experience: Living Profiles—Dr. John Hope Franklin is one of four distinguished Americans selected by the presidentially appointed Board of Foreign Scholarships to travel abroad as a Lincoln Lecturer during the 1972-73 academic year. During his speaking tour in New Zealand, Australia, the Republic of China, the Philippines and Japan this summer, he traced the recent history of the black revolution in America and discussed modern trends in historiography.

The 12 member Board of Foreign Scholarship was established by the 1946 Fulbright Act and continued by the 1961 Fulbright-Hays Act. The board, composed of eminent private citizens, selects students, teachers and professors for academic exchange activities here and abroad, and supervises world wide academic exchanges conducted by the Department of State's Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs.

This Bureau helps to improve international understanding through educations and cultural exchange programs, which link the American people and their institutions with the people and institutions of other countries.

Dr. Franklin was born in the all-black town of Rentiesville, Oklahoma and attended public schools in Tulsa. A graduate (magna cum laude) of Fisk University, he received his M.A. and PhD in history from Harvard University. He taught at Fisk, St. Augustine's College, North Carolina University at Durham, Howard University and Brooklyn College prior to his 1964 appointment to the faculty of the University of Chicago. In 1967 he was named chairman of the Department of History.

The author of many scholarly and popular histories about American blacks, Dr. Franklin has also written student texts on the subject. One of his recent publications is An Illustrated History of Black American published by Time-Life, Inc.

He is a former chairman of the American Council of Learned Societies, and the former chairman of the Salzburg Seminar in American Studies. He is presently chairman of the Board of Trustees of Fisk University and a member of the American Historical Association. Dr. Franklin is a past president of the Southern Historical Association and a recipient of numerous awards and honors.

by Joe Kelly

By the ease with which the United States basketball team whipped Russia in the World University Games in Moscow, it appears that maybe, just maybe, we played the wrong game against Russia in the Olympics.

Hank Iba, veteran Oklahoma State coach, directed our Olympic efforts, which failed, 51-50. At least, that was the final score, although anyone watching the finish on TV knows that Russia got all the benefit of atrocious officiating.

Iba is famed for his "slowdown" style of play. It was one of the reasons why Madison Square Garden officials didn't want his college team in tournaments there. It was too slow. They wanted action.

Not that Iba wasn't a sound coach, nor a shrewd one. He was and his record attests to that fact. He was one of the greats. As head Olympic coach, he knew better than anyone else what material he had and what it could do. He made the decision to use the controlled game.

But in light of the World Games, this probably played right into the Russian's hands. The Russians are well schooled in fundamentals. They move the ball well, find the open man, hit the backboards well. In short, the Russians have come a long way in basketball.

What the Russians lack, though, is the innate basketball sense and skill of U.S. players on the fast break, the so-called run and shoot game. Here's where we have it all over them.

I, for one, feel encouraged about the future of the United States in international competition. True, this U.S. team had all the incentive needed to play well. The point is, when they played their type of game, they simply dominated the Russians.

In time, others may catch up, but it will take a long time. We've played hockey in this country for years and years, but we haven't caught up with the Canadians. We have the same edge in basketball.

Okay, so we did well in basketball and had another outstanding swimming festival, even without Mark Spitz. In track and field, however, we were less than elegant. We weren't even average.

If the truth was known, we stank up the Moscow stadium. It was about as poor a showing as you imagine. Unfortunately, it followed right on the heels of a dismal showing in the Olympics, only this was even worse. What's happening to the U.S. in track and field?

The answer could be, as one or two suggested, that we didn't take the Games seriously. It could be, as other said, that our best didn't go to Europe. It could be, even, that other nations now have surpassed us in track.

If it's a matter of indifference, let's not compete. If our best didn't go, let's not send second rate people for world competition. If other nations are stronger, let's go to work to build our program back to where it was. We never should be second class in sports.

Suddenly tight races in the American and National Leagues have begun to disintegrate. The Baltimore Orioles, Oakland Athletics and Los Angeles Dodgers have taken charge.

Only the eastern division of the National League is in doubt. The St. Louis Cardinals, who got off to an horrendous start, were flying high. Now they are locked in a battle with the Pittsburgh Pirates and it's touch or go.

As of this writing, unless something drastic happens in the next six weeks, it will be the Orioles and A's in the playoffs and the Dodgers. The only race left may be in doubt a long time.

The football people would like to believe that baseball is dying. Maybe it is, drowning in over-expansion. But you can't tell it by the crowds. And TV still has two games a week, which it wouldn't air unless (1) they got sponsors; and (2) there was interest.

Tis said it's the Year of the Horn,
That of Orange you should have been born;
Tech's loaded with hope
To fill full of soft soap
This dream that could be just Bull Corn!

Clouds Help Fishing

Don't hesitate to go fishing on cloudy days. That's the best time!

It's difficult to get big-eyed black bass to hit topwater lures when the sun is shining bright, and especially in open water.

Apparently the reason bass hit best in the shade is the fact that you're more likely to find them there. Bass have no eyelids to shade their eyes from the sun, so they hide out in the shade of trees, overhanging ledges, etc.

On cloudy days they not only come out of cover, but those that dive deep to get away from the penetrating rays of the sun come to the top for a look around.

Tow Boats and Tow Lines

Nearly every boatsman has, at one time or another during his experience on the water, towed in a crippled craft or been aboard one being towed.

Natural inclination, especially if the towed boat is a runabout or smaller, is to tie to the towing craft with a simple line. This means that more likely than not the crippled one will turn one way, then the other, and follow a crooked course.

One way to help prevent the yaw is to rig a bridle from the quarter cleats of the lead boat, then tie the towline from the center of the bridle to the bow of the towed vessel.

Further steadiness can be achieved if someone remains aboard the towed boat and helps to keep control by steering the vessel along the proper course.

A nylon towrope is preferred to manila since it will stretch and absorb some of the sudden tugs.

If there are big waves and swells it helps to adjust the line so that both boats are in the trough and on the crest at the same time. This avoids the sharp strains that could snap the line.

Wrap towels around the tow line wherever the line might touch the tow boat—to protect the finish.

Lubbock Independent School District's Newest School Dedication Set Today

Lubbock's newest school facility will be dedicated for service to the community at 10:30 a.m. Thursday. Supt. Ed Irons has extended an invitation to the public to attend the program at the George Mahon Elementary School.

An open house will follow dedication of the half-million dollar facility. Patrons will see such features as a large open-space instructional area surrounding a library media center; special rooms for art, music, and science; and a room which will serve as a cafeteria, auditorium, gymnasium, and community meeting place.

The new building features extensive use of carpeting. Bright colors accent the various learning centers. The air conditioned facility is located at 2110 Cornell St. It replaces the portable buildings used by the former North Avenue U Elementary School for 22 years. The new building was completed in May and was named after the U.S. Congressman during the summer.

At the Thursday dedicatory program, the Rev. Curtis T. Halfmann, pastor of Our Lady of Grace Catholic Church, will give the invocation. The students and guests will join in the singing of the National Anthem and giving the pledge of allegiance to the American flag. The older students will give special music. School Board President Bill Tucker will give the dedicatory address and Congressman George Mahon will give the response. Mrs. Rufus Carillo, president of the Mahon P.T.A., will accept the building on behalf of the community. The prayer of benediction will be given by the Rev. Adam Cutierrez, pastor of the First Mexican Baptist Church.

Head Lice— A Problem

It is unquestionable that a growing number of Lubbock children have to be sent home from school each year because of head lice. The Lubbock Independent Schools, the Lubbock City-County Health Department and other agencies and organizations have encountered several misunderstandings concerning the head louse and its habits. In an attempt to make the subject more clear, the Texas State Department of Health has provided a list of questions often asked about head lice.

1. What are Lice? Lice are small grayish-white insects, 1/16 to 1/8 inches in length.

2. Is there more than one kind of louse? There are three types of human lice: the head louse, the body louse, the crab louse. In Lubbock the head louse appears to be or more concern and most prevalent. The head louse lives on the head and rarely leaves the body for any reason.

3. How long do lice live? Lice seldom live longer than 24 hours when removed from the human body, especially head lice.

4. What is a nit? A nit is a louse egg.

5. How many eggs does a female louse lay? The female head louse may lay from 50 to 150 eggs in its lifetime.

6. How are the nits of head lice attached to the hair? Head lice nits are held in place on the hair with a waterproof cement-like substance. They hatch in a week.

7. What do lice eat? Human lice live entirely off of human blood. They suck blood for long periods of time. They do not have to feed each day but rarely survive longer than 10 days without food.

8. Can a louse hop or jump? No, they are wingless and though they have powerful legs, they are adapted more for clinging.

9. How does a person get head lice? Head lice are usually transmitted through close personal contact or through the use of common combs, brushes, hats, headbands, caps, wigs, curlers, etc.

10. Can lice transmit diseases? Louse-borne diseases are rarely encountered in the Americas and have not been encountered in the United States for many years. For this reason, lice are primarily important as pest insects.

11. What should a person do if he suspects he has lice? He should

Mrs. Lillian Anderson Honored as Teacher

Mrs. Lillian Anderson, a teacher at McWhorter Elementary School, has been notified of her selection as an "Outstanding Elementary Teacher in America for 1973."

Mrs. Anderson teaches academic adjustment classes at McWhorter. She joined that faculty in the fall of 1971. She has also taught at Wheatley, Bozeman, and Hunt Ele. Schools since she joined the school system in 1959. Beginning in 1962, she has held, on her request, teaching posts in the area of special education. Mrs. Anderson began her full-time teaching career in Plainview in 1958. She served as a substitute teacher before then.

Mrs. Anderson is one of a number of teachers selected across the nation for the outstanding teacher honor. The award cited her contributions to the advancement of elementary education, the academic adjustment classes, and for her community service.

The entire Anderson family is involved in schools. Mrs. Anderson's husband Roy, is counselor at Hutchinson Jr. High School. The couple's three children are all enrolled in schools. Brent, 18, is a recent graduate of Dunbar High school and will attend Texas Tech University this fall. Keith, 16, is a sophomore at Dunbar. Angela, 10, is a fifth grade student at Wheatley Ele. School. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are serving this year as co-presidents of the Wheatley Ele. School P.T.A.

Mrs. Anderson is active in national, state, and local teacher groups. She is currently serving as faculty representative for her school to the Lubbock Classroom Teachers Association. She is also a member of the League of Women Voters and the American Association of University Women. She also serves on the executive board of the Mental Health Society. She worships at St. Luke Baptist Church and has taught a Sunday School class for retarded children.

Her latest honor was presented by the Outstanding Teacher Association of Washington, D.C.

careful laundering of bedding and clothing. The entire family should be inspected and undergo simultaneous treatment if necessary.

12. Are medications available which kill both the lice and eggs? Nonprescription medication usually kill only the adult stages; however several products are available by prescription which kill both lice and nits.

13. Should a home be sprayed, dusted or treated with insecticides when an inhabitant has lice? No. Lice do not hide in wall crevices and floor cracks like other household pests. Such premise treatment would, therefore, be wasted.

14. Will commercial hair oil keep louse eggs from sticking to the hair? No.

15. Do vinegar rinses help control lice? No.

Fashion

Dresses are "in" this year for the college girl. She still has her jeans, with a variety of tops, but they are not worn as much as in the past. A long dress for formals and short ones for daytime are parts of her wardrobe this season.

Pleated skirts with soft shirts and cardigan type sweaters are a popular combination for fall.

Sammy Davis, Jr., a regular on the annual Muscular Dystrophy Telethon, will perform on the New Jerry Lewis Labor Day show this year, broadcast over TV Station KLBK, Channel 13, September 2-3.

Free Lunches Will Be Available to Lubbock School Children During 1973-74 School Year

Lubbock Public Schools have announced free lunch guidelines for families unable to purchase meals for their children during the 1973-74 school year.

A letter explaining the free lunch policy and an application form were sent home by each student on August 20, according to Bill Parker, director of pupil personnel services for the schools.

The family size and income will determine eligibility, Parker said. Families falling within the guidelines scales or those suffering from unusual circumstances are urged to make application for the free lunches for their children, he added.

Applications for the program may be submitted any time during the year, and extra copies are available at the principals' offices. Parker said that the form is simple to complete and requests information needed to determine economic need based on income and the number of persons in the family as well as any unusual circumstances or hardships which affect the family's ability to pay for school lunches. The information provided on the application form is confidential, according to Parker, and will be used only to determine eligibility.

Under the provisions of the policy the principal of each school will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the principal, he may appeal the decision to Parker at his office, 1628 19th St.

The free lunch policy provides that there will be no identification or discrimination against any student unable to pay for lunches. Citizens may review a complete copy of the policy which is on file in the office of the Director of Cafeterias, 1628 19th St., and in each school.

The following eligibility scale has been announced:

- Family of 1, income to $2,740.
- Family of 2, income to $3,600.
- Family of 3, income to $4,460.
- Family of 4, income to $5,310.

Other circumstances that contribute to such situations are "great poverty and educational deprivation," he said. "Hence, good health for all means that we have to correct all of the social ills which have an impact on health, including education and housing, among others."

The Tuskegee project was "launched with altruistic motives to identify and treat a health problem in a mass program," he pointed out. "But, instead of using it to advance health, someone took advantage of it to have a little plaything in the form of a so-called study."

- Family of 5, income to $6,100.
 - Family of 6, income to $6,890.
 - Family of 7, income to $7,600.
 - Family of 8, income to $8,310.
 - Family of 9, income to $8,960.
 - Family of 10, income to $9,600.
 - Family of 11, income to $10,240.
 - Family of 12, income to $10,880.

New Legislation Extends FHA

With the signing by President Nixon of the legislation restoring FHA's authority which lapsed on June 30, the Federal Housing Administration once again may insure mortgage loans on single and multi-family dwellings.

The FHA maximum interest rate will be 7 3/4 percent, a rise from 7 percent stated by HUD Secretary James T. Lynn on July 5, when he announced his intention to increase the rate once FHA's authority was restored by Congress.

The FHA authority is also renewed for insurance of loans under Title I of the Housing Act (home improvements and mobile homes).

Because there are variations both in the types of housing programs involved and in the processing stages which applications for mortgage insurance may have reached prior to the expiration of the FHA authority, homebuyers, borrowers, lenders, and developers are advised to consult with their respective HUD field offices to determine what rules are to be applied to them.

The new legislation extends FHA's authority until October 1, 1973.

HEW's Social and Rehabilitation Service Proposes New Rules

HEW's Social and Rehabilitation Service Monday proposed a regulation that would deny Federal Medicaid funds to medical facilities that previously took part in Medicare and failed to refund overpayments or submit cost reports.

The proposed regulation, published today in the Federal Register, would implement legislation passed last year.

SRS would give states advance notice of its intention to withhold Federal Medicaid funds for payments to facilities at fault and would set the conditions for resumption of these payments.

"Facilities that were overpaid or failed to submit cost reports may avoid loss of Medicaid payments by promptly reaching agreement with Medicare," said James S. Dwight, Jr., SRS Administrator.

Comments on the proposed regulations may be submitted to the Administrator, Social and Rehabilitation Service, 330 C Street, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20201, within the next 30 days and may be inspected at that address in Room 5224 8:30 a.m., to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday.

ACTION needs Black America.

Remember the book, "Coming of Age in Mississippi"? Written by a young Black woman, Ann Moody?

A lot of people read that book, because it was the straight story on what it was like in the civil rights confrontations of the 60's. Ann Moody threw everything she had into it.

She went through all the hassles and abuse you can go through in working for change.

But her biggest frustrations came from the people she was trying to help.

She wanted people to vote, to exercise their rights, to get together and change things.

But these were people who were used to what they had, who never thought much about change.

It was tough. Every time she thought things were moving forward, they'd slide backward.

But two things happened to Ann. First of all, she and the other young brothers and sisters did change things.

Not a whole lot. But today a lot of Black Americans are ahead of where they were when Ann and the others went to work.

The second thing that happened was that Ann changed herself.

She matured as a person, as a human being. She saw the world differently. She grew. She got things together.

In a way, that's what ACTION is all about. And a lot of other groups that are working with people to change things.

There are plenty of brothers and sisters in ACTION.

Some are in VISTA, working with people in the cities and in rural areas.

Some are in the Peace Corps, working with people in Africa and Asia and Latin America.

It's kind of like the experience that Ann Moody had.

The ACTION brothers and sisters have a lot of hassles, a lot of frustrations.

But they change things, move things ahead a little bit.

And they change themselves, too. They grow as people, see new things, get it together.

And after a year or two in ACTION, the experience and the responsibility can lead you into a career.

America needed Ann Moody.

And America needs you... in ACTION.

"Some People Don't Really Care"—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Terry, are the owners of a duplex at 2412 Fir Avenue. Last week was a bad week for the Terrys. A young couple who lived at 2412-B Fir left their area in a mess.

The above picture, which shows writing on the refrigerator, gives an example of how the couple left the duplex. The writing says, "To the Terrys who is too old to fart because you have a broke old hard (heart). Your sucker. Hope you can use it."

The message was summed up with "Now you can call my mother." Is this the way we as blacks should treat one another? Surely there are people who care.

Rep. McAlister Named To Legislative Board

State Rep. R.B. (Mac) McAlister of Lubbock has been appointed to the Legislative Reference Library Board by House Speaker Price Daniel, Jr. The Board is composed of two House members, two Senate members, the Speaker of the House and the Lieutenant Governor.

In making the appointment Daniel said, "I know that Rep. McAlister and the other members of the Legislative Reference Library Board will work together in maintaining one of the finest and best equipped legislative libraries in the nation."

"The Legislative Reference Library provides invaluable services in terms of research, information and other legislative materials to the members of the Legislature, other government officials, State agencies and to the general public," he continued. Daniel concluded, "It is my hope, too, that with the able assistance of the new Library Board and a fine staff, we can establish an excellent library of constitutional revision materials, which is second to none and which will serve as a valuable resource for the 1974 Texas Constitutional Convention."
