Suit By Panthers Permitted

Washington — (NBNS) — The Black Panther Party can sue prosecutors and police in Chicago for their actions before and after a fatal raid on Panther headquarters in 1969, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled last week.

Party leaders Fred Hampton and Mark Clark were killed in the raid.

Black-Arab Link Proposed by Carmichael

Beirut — (NBNS) — Black activist Stokely Carmichael wants to strengthen the ties between the Black Panthers in the U.S. and the Arab people in the struggle against world imperialism and Zionism.

Carmichael is visiting Baghdad at the invitation of the ruling Arab Socialist Baath party's national command "to inspect the progressive change in Iraq."

Black Youth Backed For School Board Seat

Washington — (NBNS) — A 16 year old black student has been nominated to be the student member of the Fairfax County School Board. Fairfax County is a suburb of the nation's capital with less than 2 percent of its total population black.

Winning the nomination on the seventh ballot at a convention of the student representatives from each high school, the Robert E. Lee High School pupil is not expected to have any competition for the $3,000-a-year post on the board.

He would serve a two-year term on the board if approved by the school board members.

Food Price Effect Surveyed

Washington — (NBNS) — Creation of a national consumer panel to find out how many people are eating less nutritious food because of higher food prices has been recommended by a Senate committee.

The Senate Committee on Nutrition has also called for prompt measures to help moderate-income families and consideration of further steps to help the poor and the elderly.

Africa Balloon's Designation

Washington — (NBNS) — The first trans-Atlantic balloon crossing in history appears to be heading toward Africa, not Europe as originally scheduled. Sailing at better than 100 mph, the balloon piloted by Thomas Gatch may be landing in Mauritania on the northwest coast of Africa.

The 190-pound balloon is made of fiberglass reinforced plastic and polyester resin.

Over one hundred educators and residents of Lubbock participated in a "Get Acquainted Tea" last Sunday afternoon when the members of Eta Delta Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority honored one of their sorors, Mrs. Willie Myrtle Booker Washington, as the "Outstanding Professional Achievement".

The honoree, Mrs. Washington, is the newly appointed director of the Lubbock City-County Welfare Department and a hardworking member of the local chapter.

"I thank all of you who have helped me over the years and for your continued support in years to come," says Mrs. Washington with tears in her eyes.

She was presented to those in attendance by Mrs. Joan Y. Ervin, local school board representative.

The occasion was in observance of the 64th birthday of the national sorority as it was observing its Founders Day.

Several games were played by the invited guest as they congregated in the lovely decorated hall of Mae Simmons Community Center. One of the games which showed a great deal of enthusiasm was "name the personality." In this game, twenty-three Lubbockites names were needed to fill the blanks which described the personality.

KKK Greets New King Portrait

Atlanta — (NBNS) — Fifteen men wearing the long white robes and peaked caps of the Ku Klux Klan greeted the hundreds of persons who came to the Georgia State Capitol for the unveiling of the portrait of the later Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Dr. King's portrait became the first of a black to hang in the state's official gallery in the Capitol Rotunda. The painting was done by Atlanta artist George Mandus, who donated it to the state.

Dr. King's widow, Coretta, said the ceremony reminded her of the one when her slain husband received the coveted Nobel Peace Prize. The Atlanta ceremony "in some ways (was) more meaningful because it is here," she told the crowd.

"It seems to me that this is a milestone, perhaps one link in that long chain of freedom that the people of this world are dreaming of," she continued.

She also commended Gov. Jimmy Carter for his "extraordinary strength and courage", who headed the effort to put Dr. King's portrait in the rotunda. Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox openly opposed the honor, claiming there were other black Georgians more deserving of the honor.

Carter said the unveiling was symbolic "of a change that has already taken place in the minds and hearts of the people I represent."

participation of everyone in attendance and hope we will have other activities as this in the near future," said Soror Joan Crawford, baseliues.

Normal School Hours Will Resume Soon

Texas Tech University will resume normal hours on Tuesday, April 2, and the students' spring vacation will be extended one day to offset the problem of closed service stations.

Classes will resume at 7:30 a.m. on Tuesday, April 2, after spring vacation. All activities will revert to times as printed in the official schedules.

The spring academic vacation will be extended an additional day through Monday, April 1, on recommendation of the Council of Deans. The Sunday closing of service stations occasioned this change which will enable students who live away from the campus to travel with better assurance of service on Monday.

Following the spring vacation, the university's time schedule will revert to normal. Classes

Drafting Training Now Available

Victor Smith, a representative of the Texas State Technical Institute office of Amarillo, contacted the West Texas Times Monday afternoon to inform our readers that he will be in Lubbock on Friday, March 1, to look at the possibility of organizing a draftsman class at Draughton's Business College.

Mr. Smith will be at the Lubbock Opportunities Industrialization Center (LOIC) from 6 to 7 p.m. Friday. "I hope there are people in Lubbock and surrounding area towns who are concerned about this type of training," he told a Times reporter.

The classes will be free and there must be at least twelve people enrolled in the class. For further information, please contact Mr. Smith, after 3 p.m., at his office in Amarillo, by calling free (806) 372-1111.

Blue and Gold Banquet Was "Quite A Fete"

Over 100 Cub Scouts of Pack 139 of Bethel A.M.E. Church and their parents and friends attended a lovely "Blue and Gold Banquet" last Thursday evening at Bethel A.M.E. Church's Fellowship Hall.

A special tribute was paid to Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Joiner for a job well done for the fellows of Pack 139.

Duane Parker served as master of ceremonies while Doug Palmer, district worker, gave the history of the Boy Scouts of America and led the group in songs and games.

T.J. Patterson, editor of the West Texas Times, was guest speaker. He talked on three important words: Courteous, Kindness, and Love.

Mr. Joiner, who was unable to be at the first annual banquet for the Cub Scouts of Bethel, was cited for a splendid job done by the Mackenzie District. Mrs. Joiner gave brief remarks concerning the lovely banquet for the pack.

Rev. A.W. Wilson, pastor, gave the invocation and benediction.

Lubbock Public Schools Will Join in Statewide "Texas Public Schools Week"

Lubbock Public Schools join others in the state in observance of Texas Public Schools Week, March 4-8. This year's annual recognition of education marks the 120th year of the public school system in Texas.

All classrooms from kindergarten through the adult programs will be open for visitation, according to Superintendent Ed Irons. Parents are especially invited to visit with the teachers and to ask any questions they may have concerning public education, he added. Irons commented that there were many new approaches to instruction in the schools and that the special week was an excellent time to see the classes in operation.

Many schools will mark the observance with open houses, special exhibits, and programs for parents. In some schools, teachers and students plan

The committee for Black Week, which will be held on the campus of Texas Tech University April 2 through 6, has begun work on their fourth annual "Black Week". One of the primary goals this year is to get more involvement in all of the activities that are planned. Some of the activities tentatively scheduled are speaker Bobby Seal, a theatre group from the University of Texas at Austin, the Afro-American Players, an Afro Ball, and a fashion revue.

One way for the community to get involved is through the Fashion Revue. Designers, seamstresses, models, hair stylists, and many others are needed both young and old, male and female. There will be representatives going to different high schools and churches. Everyone is encouraged to participate in this year's events. This is a great opportunity for the Black students of Texas Tech to get involved and meet the Black people of Lubbock. Won't you help us to help you.

For more information, call Anita Brown at 742-7954 or Sharon Buford at 742-7325. We would like to hear from you.

activities to which parents will be individually invited. Some schools are issuing special invitations to grandparents to visit during the annual observance. Hundreds of items of student art work from the elementary schools will be on display in the South Plains Mall during the week.

Texas Public Schools Week was observed in 1950. It is sponsored locally by the Masonic lodges, the City Council of Parents and Teachers, and the Lubbock Classroom Teachers Association.

Information brochures about Lubbock Public Schools have been prepared and will be distributed at civic club meetings next week by members of the City Council PTA. In addition, the pamphlets will be available from the individual schools and at a special display in the South Plains Mall.

Doctors Warn of Pitfalls in Sickle Cell Disease Screening in AMA Journal

Some screening programs for sickle cell disease are causing anxiety in the black community because of the lack of appropriate medical advice, according to an editorial in the Jan. 7 1974, issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The editorial, by Drs. Dale B. Kellon and Ernest Beutler of the City of Hope National Medical Center in Duarte, Calif., reported on a survey of physician attitudes about sickle cell disease and sickle cell trait. (Sickle cell disease is a genetically determined condition in which red blood cells fail to develop properly, resulting in anemia, and in pain when the "sickle" shaped cells become impacted in small vessels. It affects blacks primarily and few patients live past 40. A person with the trait does not have disease himself, but his children might have it.)

The investigators sent questionnaires to 633 physicians. Only 160 were returned answered, while 104 came back unanswered, with lack of knowledge or experience with the disease given as an explanation.

Most physicians who recognize clinical features of sickle cell disease, the editorial said. But 13% of answering doctors

As I See It

Let's Quit Complaining And Begging

It is indeed necessary that members of the black community quit their complaining and begging for things in Lubbock and West Texas. The only way to overcome these negative situations is get up off our sit-downs and do something for ourselves. There's so much we can do if we only put our minds to it and quit letting people think for us.

Over the past years, we have fallen in a position to where we have had to complain and beg for situations which those in power could care less about our outcome.

After attending the beautiful tea last Sunday afternoon by members of the Eta Delta Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, this newspaper has come to the conclusion that there are many capable black people in Lubbock and West Texas who don't need to complain and beg about anything. There's so much talent in our area that we all can be proud of what exists in our area.

We would like to commend the local chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority for having the fortitude to bring these experts together under the same roof and be able to communicate in a positive vein. It is quite pleasing to see this type of a thing.

We would also like to commend you for honoring a young lady, Mrs. Willie Myrtle Booker Washington, who we feel is quite deserving. She deserves all the praise you gave her and more. A young lady, to us, who has exemplified all the talents of a strong woman who can and will help the total city of Lubbock and West Texas.

The times in which we live, many things happen which really makes us not see the forest for the trees. We are so hung up in our own situations that we really fall for many shortcomings which have hurt us in the past. We are not able to see all the beauty and positive things which exists. We close ourselves to the rest of the world and not grow as we should.

We need more people in our community who can look ahead and see other things instead of failures. We need people who are willing to look ahead and see things that we don't need to beg for. We don't need to ask the city council or any other political sub-division in Lubbock or West Texas to give us anything. We need people to get up and start working and not just complain and beg.

We've got to get away from the idea of asking someone to put us on a board or give us some jobs. We need people with a strong fortitude to work for something which will help us. Don't get us wrong, everything which has happened over the years is good, but we still need to move forward and do some things which we all can be proud.

It was quite refreshing to see some of the proposed mottos sent in to the "East Lubbock Business Association" by young people at Alderson and E.C. Struggs Jr. High School, Dunbar and Estacado High School. We hope other students will participate as well as students from Mary and Mac Private School.

We have got to stop being complainers and beggars and start doing something for the benefit of the total Lubbock and West Texas community. There is too much going on for us to sit back and refuse to do our part for the betterment of all.

Let's all do our part, please. Let's do our part as a Lubbockite and West Texan because we want to help our cause. We don't have room for those who complain and beg.

As I See It, we shouldn't call each other brother or come skinning and grinning and steal one another's goods! A slap of the hand and a hello sister or brother is supposed to mean we have something in common. It's rather bad when those same brothers and sisters jump through another black's house and take all of his brother's and sister's valuables, the brother and slap of the hand don't mean anything.

It's rather deplorable when we have to inform our community that brothers are ripping off brothers, but it's necessary, on the other hand, when a black man has been able to obtain something of value and another brother steals it.

Each week, as I visit the Lubbock Police Department and read the police blotter, I see many cases where we are ripping each other off. In many cases, our brothers are working and trying to make ends meet, while others take advantage of us not being at the pad and take what may. It was Brother Stokley Carmichael who said: "there's something positive and negative in everything." I know it is difficult to find something positive in one black stealing from another at this day and time, but I do think it says something about what we blacks must do to survive from each other.

There's no doubt about it, the majority of blacks in Lubbock are not stealing from each other, but the few who are ripping us off are a few too many. There are many of us who are aware of those who are breaking in the homes of east Lubbock, but refuse to get involved. I was never told nor taught by my mother to tell on someone, but the members of east Lubbock must become concerned enough to stop the thieves who are taking the few things one is able to acquire.

Brothers and sisters alike must begin to check out the different brothers who always seem to be riding and looking around the streets of our neighborhood. It seems to me the people who are always on the street have the best opportunity to case a pad. When you see strange people, regardless of who they are, jiving and riding in the community, ask them if they are lost. They could be. But it sounds strange for a brother or sister to be lost in the black community, because up until a few years ago, blacks couldn't live outside east Lubbock. Therefore, anyone who is not new in the city is looking for something else when he or she is skinning and grinning and low-riding the streets of the east Lubbock area. I don't know anyone in the black community who can afford to lose anything or for that matter, at this time in history, I don't know anyone who can afford to take a loss.

Don't call me a brother or come skinning and grinning and steal the goods of another brother and sister!!

It is beautiful to see the people in Austin, Texas do something which will benefit the eastern part of that city. The Union National Bank, which will be in the black community in the capitol city, will be a tremendous asset to the citizens there. We would like to applaud those who made this possible and wish everyone the best of luck.

Union National Bank and its three black directors, Dr. John T. King, Dr. James Means, and Dr. Joseph Quander, M.D., and other black proponents or sponsors should be complimented for the hard work they contributed to obtain a bank charter over the objections of the bank "on both sides of IH 35".

We hope brothers and sisters of Lubbock and West Texas will pay close attention to this economic development at Austin. After all, Austin is not that far away. If there are dedicated citizens in Austin doing things together, surely we can do some of the same things.

I was looking around the other day and with all the new acquired cars and other stuffs in East Lubbock, it would appear as though some sort of a financial institution would go over real big. How about that East Lubbock Business Association?

MIDEAST CAMPAIGN CASH

by Jack Anderson

(Copyright, 1974, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)
Riyadh—I have followed the Watergate trails all the way to the Middle East. Witnesses have told the Senate Watergate investigators that millions were funneled into President Nixon's campaign from such Middle Eastern potentates as the Shah of Iran and the Saudi Arabian royal family.

The name of Adnam Khashoggi has been mentioned in the secret testimony. He is a mysterious man-about-the-world, who has excellent contacts in the ruling Saudi circles.

I tracked him down to his home in Riyadh, the remote capital of Saudi Arabia. He also has an office in Riyadh under the name of the Triat International Marketing Co.

But Adnam Khashoggi is never in one place for long. I reached his brother, who said Adnam was in Khartoum. No one seemed to know where he would be heading from there.

According to the secret testimony, Adnam Khashoggi delivered the Saudi money to the Nixon campaign. So far, however, I have been unable to catch up with Khashoggi. And the Senate investigators haven't gotten as close as I have.

It is not Khashoggi, but Saudi Arabia's King Faisal who can do the most to help Nixon now. Faisal, the absolute ruler of the world's largest oil reserves, will make the final decision whether to relieve America's oil shortage.

He is intensely anti-Communist. Therefore, he lined up solidly behind the United States and against the Soviet Union during the cold war.

But he is also intensely anti-Zionist. He finally shut off oil exports to the United States in retaliation for U.S. arms shipments to Israel during the October war.

No one can be certain what goes on in the mind of the brooding, hawk-like Faisal. Those who are close to him say he has a strong sense of honor and of loyalty to his friends.

They say he still regards the United States as a friend, despite its aid to Israel. He cut off the oil, partly to strengthen his voice in the Arab world, partly to remind the Americans not to take him for granted.

But quietly, he is using his new prestige in the Arab world to argue for moderation. He is also trying to persuade other Arab oil producers to hold down prices.

In the end, say those who know Faisal, he will still be in America's corner.

Other powers are also lusting for Faisal's oil.

The outer office of the Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani reveals, in a glimpse, the world's changing power patterns. Yamani is Saudi Arabia's oil minister. Saudi Arabia's sea of petroleum under its hot sands makes Yamani one of the world's most powerful men.

In his outer office, a gruff American oil baron almost groveled before Yamani's appointments secretary. A rich Lebanese businessman, whose aides scurried to make him comfortable, did the scurrying when Yamani's deputy entered the room. Three Japanese, who had just arrived from Tokyo, bowed lower than usual when they approached the appointments secretary.

shortage. It was better for Saudi Arabia, he said, to hold down production.

But to ease the crisis, he said, Saudi wells will soon be producing nine million barrels a day. It will take a few years and millions of dollars in development, he said, to reach the 20-million-barrel output he has promised. Meanwhile, he believes continued exploration will double Saudi Arabia's already vast oil reserves.

The money pouring into Riyadh could create other problems.

There is ominous talk in Saudi Arabia of using some of the nation's oil billions to purchase nuclear weapons. Responsible Saudi leaders told me they may have to acquire a nuclear arsenal for the Arab world to counter the Israeli nuclear threat.

They are convinced that the Israelis are building nuclear warheads. As the Saudis see it, if peace should fail, another Arab-Israeli war is inevitable. Next time, the Saudis believe, the Arab armies will do better. The Israelis, as a last resort, might use their nuclear weapons.

It is this possibility which has the Arabs worried. Today, the Saudis have the money and their oil gives them the clout to arm the Arab side with nuclear weapons.

No overtures have yet been made, according to my Saudi sources, to obtain nuclear arms. But the idea has been seriously discussed in the Arab capitals.

The approach is more likely to be made to the French, or perhaps the British, than to the Russians. The Saudis believe the French would sell nuclear weaponry, if necessary, to keep their oil pipelines filled.

Clearly, another blow-up on the Middle East could be catastrophic.

Nashville, Arkansas News: "What happened to the pride and honor of yesterday is a question asked by our grandparents, but left unanswered by this generation. We are undergoing changes every day as if a constant metamorphosis has taken over the world. People...take the shapes of shooting stars that burn brightly and then fade out. Stooping to the level of decency of today is a common cause among many unknowing individuals. They don't see what fault there is in what they are doing and are herded like sheep into every new phase of the game that comes along. People need to have an open mind about new ideas, but they must look to themselves, not to others, on which way they want to go."

marion, Wisc., Advertiser: "We wonder if the young drivers will know what to do with themselves this winter? There are too many youths who have never had a shortage of anything, except maybe trips to the woodshed...and we figure if they can take a cold floor in the morning, and will drink hot water in the milk for breakfast to get warm, will not watch TV to save on electricity, will get fighting mad if the government tries to take away or register their guns, and will get into politics and business to help get rid of our shortages, the country should be fairly secure. They demonstrated in war for us to get out, so we wonder if they will panic and demonstrate because of this energy shortage? Will they blame the government and parents? Or will they learn from all this and use their education and put it to work? It should be an interesting winter!"

Give till it helps.

Police Beat

Armed Robbery

A Lubbock man tried to help two brothers when they put the squeeze on him. Woodroe Walton, 2801 Weber Drive, Apt. A, reported to Lubbock police that two men came to his apartment and asked to use the telephone. He agreed to do so when all the problems happened.

He said the pair came through the door and one of them hit him. He was hit several times and knocked on the floor. He told police that he did struggle with one of the men. One did, however, have a pistol.

Walton told police that the men took $28.00 and three credit cards from his billfold. All this happened at approximately 11 p.m. one evening last week.

Vandalism

Wesley Ayers, 1018 East 29th Street, Apt. G, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that someone unknown broke the left passenger window of his vehicle while it was parked in the 2400 block of Main Street.

It is believed that this incident happened at approximately a few minutes before midnight.

Aggravated Assault

A Lubbock couple, husband and wife, apparently called Lubbock police in regard to a family disturbance which occurred in their home one evening last week.

The wife, who said she didn't know if she'll file charges this week, told police that her husband and her had been arguing and she received a cut on her right hand.

The husband, also talking to police, reported that there was an argument and the wife found a pistol and shot him in the right forearm.

Destruction of Private Property

Peter Snyder, 1016 East 29th Street, who is the owner of the Coronado Apartments, reported to Lubbock police that someone unknown took advantage of an apartment in the complex one day last week. According to Snyder, persons unknown apparently took a knife and marked up the walls in several bedrooms and hallway.

After a careful investigation, it is believed that there is approximately $300 worth of damage to the apartment.

Burglary

Cody Batchelor, 4806 16th Street, reported to Lubbock police that persons unknown broke into the Lubbock Opportunities Industrialization Center (LOIC) at 2200 East Broadway one night last week.

Entry was apparently gained by prying open a rear overhead door. Once inside, persons unknown took an 8-track stereo phonograph and two large speakers.

The items taken were valued at approximately $300.

House Burglary

Pat Collard, 1012 East 29th Street, Apt. A, reported to Lubbock police that she returned home one day last week to find that persons unknown had entered into the apartment and completely ransacked.

Taken from the apartment were a piggy bank and a cookie jar which had approximately $70.63 worth of money inside. The pictures on the wall, all over the house, were taken off. Persons apparently responsible for the house burglary did leave the screen off the window.

around the hub city

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Tucker of Mexia, Texas, have recently sold their home in Los Angeles, California, and were here briefly last as guests of Mrs. Tucker's sister and husband, Rev. and Mrs. T.B. Reece. Charles Sedberry, Jr. returned with them last Saturday to Mexia.

Mrs. Bessie Mason is again a patient at Methodist Hospital.

The sick and shut-in list, at home and in the hospital, include the following: Mrs. Estelle Pierce is recuperating slowly at Parkway Convalescent Home. She has been quite ill.

Mrs. Juanita Simmons is still a patient at Methodist Hospital in Room 620, and is doing fairly well at this report. She is also quite ill.

Mrs. Delia Tennyson is on the eighth floor of Methodist Hospital and seemingly has suffered several slight strokes. Her sons, their wives, and other relatives are keeping vigil around the clock.

Mrs. Vivian Williams is still on the seriously ill list at St. Mary's Hospital. Among some of the other patients at the rest home are Mr. Columbus Etherly, Mr.

Ben Shields, Mr. Milus, Mrs. Bessie Boyd and many more.

Mrs. Maunita Terrell is still slowly improving at home. She received out-of-town telephone calls from the following relatives and friends over the week-end: Mrs. Ruthie Oliver, a sister at Morgan, Texas; Mrs. Bertha Hunter, a niece at Meridian, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wright of Denver; and Mrs. Susie Mae Mitchell of Fort Worth, Texas. All were concerned about her sister, Mrs. Juanita Simmons. Her nephew and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Simmons of Chicago, Illinois called.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ellis and their three children of Pueblo, Colorado visited relatives here last week-end while enroute to Navasota, Texas, their former home to visit his mother and other members of his family. They also planned to visit at Houston, Atlanta, Ga. and finally Florida where Frank will begin a new job. They were house guests of his aunt, Mrs. Mae Emma McGowen and family. When Frank and his brother, who is now deceased, were young boys they would come to Lubbock and baby sit for their cousin, Mrs. Lula Mae Gentry. He is shorter now than the one they baby sat for, David Jr.

Olympia Melton Receives "Good Citizens Award"

Olympia Melton, 17 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Melton of 2402 East 29th Street, was one of the recipients of a "Good Citizens Award" last week. Mrs. Myron Kattner, chairman of the Nancy Anderson chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution's awards committee, made the presentation.

Olympia is a member of the Paul Lawrence Dunbar High School graduating class in May, 1974. She plans to attend Prairie View A&M College and major in music this fall.

She has two brothers, Charles Lewis who is now a junior at PV and studying to become a doctor; and Frank Lee who will some day place his shingle out as Attorney Frank Melton.

Their parents and friends are quite elated over the efforts of all three.

"believed that sickle cell trait could be responsible for sickness with no other obvious explanation," the editorial said. "Clearly, serious harm could result from this attitude if important underlying diseases were allowed to go unrecognized as a result of this erroneous conclusion. (The trait) is essentially a benign condition and must not be used without adequate investigation to explain the illnesses of those with this trait.

"The fact that genetic counseling is the principal reason for identifying those with the trait was recognized by 82% of responding physicians," the doctors said. Of those who chose to handle genetic counseling themselves, however, 50% appeared to be "unaware of important interaction between the sickle cell gene and some other red blood cell abnormalities," such as Cooley's anemia. "This is a very important consideration," the report said. It concluded:

"Screening programs are no more valuable than the information available to those with positive tests. If persons with sickle cell trait are made to feel anxious about their own health, or that of their children, more harm than good may result from screening programs. This is particularly true of those outside the childbearing age, since genetic counseling is not immediately applicable to them. Many screening programs are resulting in such anxiety in the black community because of the lack of appropriate medical advice."

Real Estate Course Offered

The Regional Occupational Center will offer Park II and Part III of an approved short course in Fundamentals of Real Estate for persons who wish to meet the educational requirements for the Real Estate Broker's license. The course will meet 7:00 to 10:00 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings and will begin March 5, 1974. Classes will meet in the First Federal Savings and Loan Association Building at 3845 50th Street in Lubbock. The course will last eleven (11) weeks and will end on May 15, 1974.

Cost of the course will be $40.00 per person per part or $75.00 for persons who enroll in both parts, providing at least fifteen (15) persons enroll. A textbook will be used and persons taking the course will be expected to purchase a text in addition to the enrollment fee.

Although the course is primarily designed to meet the 60 clock hour educational requirement of the Texas Real Estate Commission for persons who wish to obtain the Real Estate Broker's License, the course is open to anyone who wishes to enroll. Application materials are available at the Regional Occupational Center office at 2404 Avenue Q in Lubbock and will be provided upon request. For further information regarding the course, call Dr. Charles Sylvester, Dean of the Regional Occupational Center, at 747-0576 in Lubbock.

New Career for Amarillo Man Begins

Amarillo's first black fireman, Michael Taylor, 25, is 6 feet 8 inches tall and weighs 240 pounds. Mr. Taylor is the husband of Pris Elayne Alexander, formerly of Lubbock. She is a telephone operator at the phone company in Amarillo.

Former Employees Can Charge Race Bias in Firings, Supreme Court Says

Washington — (NBNS) — Employees can now sue their former employers for firing them for racial reasons, although a labor arbitrator has already rejected the claim, the nation's High Court decided.

In a suit filed by a black factory worker in Denver, Harrell Alexander Jr., the court unanimously ruled that workers could take their racial bias charges to court after an arbitrator had rejected them.

Delivered by Justice Lewis Powell, the decision means that the protections of the 1964 Civil Rights Act are independent of rights under collective bargaining contracts.

Although the suit was dismissed by lower courts, the landmark decision held that many employees whose claims have been rejected in union grievance procedures could go to court or appeal to the U.S. equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

Conceding that the arbitrator's opinion may be used as evidence in the worker's lawsuit, Powell said the federal courts should have the last word.

He discounted arguments by employers that it was unfair to give workers a second chance when the company stands to lose the discrimination claim in arbitration and has no recourse to the courts. Powell said the Congress clearly intended that under Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

But he said the employer does not have two chances "for the simple reason...that an employer cannot be the victim of discriminatory employment practices."

Federal law, unlike labor-management grievance procedure, is aimed directly at protecting the worker, Powell said.

Eighth Grade Valentine Sweetheart

Valerie Cornish was named Valentine Sweetheart of the eighth grade at Thompson Junior High School, February 14, 1974, in an all school assembly.

Valerie has won this honor two consecutive years. She was Valentine Sweetheart at Thompson Junior High School in the seventh grade.

The Thompson Student Council sponsored the contest. The voting was done by secret ballot.

Valerie is fourteen years of age. She is the daughter of Mrs. Arnetta Cornish of 701 Hub Homes, Lubbock. Valerie is a member of the Student Council, eighth grade volleyball team, eighth grade basketball team, secretary of the ESSA Student Advisory Committee and a member of Trinity Church.

Valerie was presented a heart-shaped box of candy in honor of the occasion.

Black Theologian To Appear Here

James H. Cone, Black Theologian and faculty member of the Union Theological Seminary in New York, will appear at the Baptist Student Center in Lubbock at 5 p.m. Thursday, February 28 at a dinner.

Oscar Gentry is speaker for the 5 p.m. event. At 7:30 that same evening, Cone will be speaking in Room 202 of the Business Administration Building on the Texas Tech campus.

U.S. Savings Bond Offered for Motto

A $25 United States Savings bond will go to the student with the best motto for the East Lubbock Businessmen's Association.

The Businessmen's Association is a newly formed organization to promote economic growth, development, and civic responsibility in East Lubbock by developing new business in the area. According to the President, T.J. Patterson, the organization hopes to form a Junior Businessmen's Association.

The contest is open to all junior and senior high school students and the students of Mary and Mac Private School, in East Lubbock. Deadline for the contest is midnight March 1st. Entries should be sent to Motto Contest, P.O. Box 1975, Lubbock, Texas 79408.

Meet The Candidate Coffee Set Saturday

A "Meet the Candidate Coffee" will be held Saturday morning, March 2, from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. at Mae Simmons Community Center. This affair is being sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Chatman.

It is election time again in our city. Citizens of East Lubbock should know the candidates for all offices and what she or he stands for. Let us all avail ourselves at every opportunity; question these men and women; then go to the polls and vote intelligently for the candidate of your choice.

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

As I told Gerald Myers Saturday night, soon after the Red Raiders looked like themselves again, "fine thing, I go away for two weeks with Tech in good shape and what do you do? You blow it!"

Gerald grinned in reply and said, "Yeah, that's the trouble. You went away." Neither statement had any more truth in it than some of the Watergate testimony, but it was good for the Raiders to get back on the winning track. It was almost essential that they blast Rice.

Now, the Raiders go into the final two games in pretty good shape and with a little more optimistic outlook. You can call it confidence, if you like, it all adds up to the same thing.

The changes are good, following Texas' upset of A&M on its home court, that when Tech and the Smoos play here Saturday, it will be the Raiders playing for a title tie. What a reversal. After TCU upset Texas, Tech held a two game lead with five games left, three at home, and looked like the biggest cinch since Nixon beat McGovern.

I was in Houston when Tech played A&M, heard the major portion of the first half via delayed broadcast. And I thought Tech had a good chance to win. We started to listen at my daughter's home when TV announced the double overtime loss.

That wasn't the end of the world, but it wasn't long in coming, Tuesday night, to be exact. I couldn't get the game on the radio at Fredericksburg, so had to wait until the 10 o'clock news. It made me sick.

Then I remembered back to what I had written even before the league race started: the hardest thing for any team to do is to win back-to-back titles.

By all rights, winning or losing Saturday should be academic. As it is, both SMU and Tech will be hoping for a miracle, that Arkansas or Baylor will upset the Horns. SMU hopes so and that it can beat Tech for a title tie. Tech hopes so in order to beat Smoo and win the crown outright.

"It's going right down to the wire," Gerald declared after the Rice game. "I was pleased over the way our defense played. We needed that kind of game right now. And the offense did well."

The defense did play well, which was fortunate early in the game, because the Raiders were tight.

"Yeah, the pressure's on them," Polk Robison said. But when they came out of it, they smashed the Owls. With Tech leading 13-12, the Raiders outscored Rice, 19-4 up to the half and 25-10 in the first 8:36 of the last half.

William Johnson, with Rick Bullock double-teamed and sagged on, has come to the fore. In the last seven games, he has been the high point man four times.

Grady Newton has come through, too. If the Raiders can avoid fouls and still be aggressive, while playing tight defense, they can still win and either take the title outright, or force a play-off.

As Polk said, the pressure's on and Saturday will be for all the marbles in all probability.

And now there's not a team that hasn't lost once at home, with Texas the giant killer. The Hook-em folks have beaten Tech, SMU and A&M on the road. In fact, the Horns have the best league road record (5-1), but slipped to Tech and SMU at home. Tech, A&M and SMU are all 5-1 at home.

But the key to the race is the second half. SMU is 5-0; Tech and A&M are all 3-2. That's allowed the Ponies to come on fast with a drive that might earn them a title tie.

Last week I called on a man by the name of Wallace Ottmers. As soon as I saw the name, I recalled a Frank Ottmers, who played end for Texas Tech back in the late 40s. Could they be kin?

"Kin? He's my brother!" Wallace said with a grin. The records shows that Frank played at Tech in 1945, came back and finished his eligibility in 1947 and 48. He was a fluid end, with good moves, good hands and an engaging personality. The big, likeable guy with a good sense of humor was one of my favorites.

Wallace, a Gulf distributor in Fredericksburg, and I had a good talk about Frank, who is in the oil business in Dallas. I asked if he, Wallace, had been a football player, too?

"No", he replied, "I played in the band."

"Where, at Tech?" I persisted.

"No, at Hardin-Simmons. I was in that great organization at the same time Frank was playing for Tech."

And for those who don't have memories any better than mine, in those days Tech and H-SU were bitter rivals, almost always meeting in the year's last game for the Border Conference title.

Friends, do you remember what rain is? Last week in Fredericksburg a thunderstorm came through about 11:30 p.m. It had been so long since I had seen rain that I went to the door in my PJs.

Rain is wet-feeling. It is an almost clear substance that you can feel when you put it on your hand, or rub between your fingers. It darkens everything it touches. I washes your car. It glides silently down the gutters. It has a refreshing smell. Maybe, just maybe, one of these days we'll see some in Lubbock.

Fishing fever is reaching Fredericksburg, as it is most South Central Texas. After all, magnolias, jonquils and other trees and flowers are in bloom, it's in the 70s and 80s, trees are leafing out and the bass and crappie are starting to move.

I told Wallace I was thinking of throwing a rod and reel in the back of my car and he said: "You do that and we'll go out. The fishing is great around here."

All over Fredericksburg there are deer horns. Fred Kraus, the Pearl and Coca Cola distributor, had elk, reindeer, deer, moose and antelope heads on the wall of his place, as well as a javelina head.

Many stores have deer heads and one service station has an antler tree. Hunting is maybe the second way of life, although it gets good competition from fishing. It's a proud community. People are proud of their German heritage, but also proud to be Americans.

Fredericksburg, in fact, was the only city I went through on Friday,

IT'S AMAZING!

Washington's birthday, that flew American flags. Not only that, but the flags lined both sides of long Main Street long before dawn, to say nothing of side streets. Yes, and they had flown on Monday, too.

It's one of the few cities where "danke, schoen", "bitte", "wie geht's?", "was sagen sie?" mingle with "howdy, come again, thanks and you bet!" And it's all natural and easy.

Stock a rifle or rod in your car and visit this unusual city. You'll enjoy it! You can bet I'm going back.

An aloe plant can live for two or three years without water or earth!

ringing the bell

with Bob Tieuel

James Morris in his new book and one that is likely to stir up some controversy in some areas: The Preachers, has selected in general some of the independent preachers, the "ones who have had the greatest social, political and religious impact on grass-roots America. Some have become multimillionaires as a result of their business acumen and still others because they have developed such original and colorful ministries as 'seeing through a plastic eye or causing worn-out law mowers to operate by baptizing them with 'holy oil.'" "Hopefully, concludes Morris, The Preachers will stimulate others to study a movement that for too long has been ignored or dismissed, one that now threatens to become part of the new religious and political 'mainstream' of America."

The Christian Crusade was founded by Billy James Hargis in 1948, as a non-profit, tax-exempt organization, with headquarters in Tulsa, Oklahoma. Hargis has said that he is following the will of God in fighting Communism and religious apostasy. His message has been distributed by letter, pamphlet, weekly and monthly newsletters, magazine and newspaper, radio and television. According to Morris, the founder and director of this vast enterprise can claim very little formal schooling and has never based his leadership on academic qualifications. He was born August 3, 1925 in Texarkana, Texas, the only child of a very poor family. He was first ordained in the Christian church where he pastored for several years before going Independent. Christian Crusade's budget for 1962, was said to be $1,250,000. Hargis was reported to be broadcasting some 400 programs each week over 200 radio stations in 46 states and was viewed on more than a dozen TV outlets servicing 20 states. The survey concluded, "His is big business."

Time magazine in August 1963 estimated Hargis weight at 275 lbs. and Morris adds: "He is a heavy man but not objectionably obese...conservatively dressed...and attire in good taste". In February 1972, he broadcast his first nationwide television program, adding some $100,000 monthly to his operating costs of Christian Crusade. His home in Tulsa has been valued at $500,000 with two basements, a sundeck and 90 telephone outlets.

 People—Places—Things In The News: In response to a question from Mrs. Clara Luper, 1972 candidate for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination and editor of Oklahoma City's Black Voices magazine. Gov. Ronald Reagan recently conceded in a press conference at a Republican party fund-raising effort in the Oklahoma City area, that he is considered anti-black and said he can't understand why. He said he had increased not only the percentage of minority workers in state jobs in California but upgraded the type of job to which minority members have been named. He added: "I have appointed more blacks to such positions (supervisory and other higher-ranking jobs) than all the governors in previous California history put together."

Nationally-known humorist-lecturer-civil rights activist, speaking recently at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin to an assembled crowd of about five hundred students and Permian Basin residents said "white kids today are like a breath of fresh air but that many of your parents are traditionally hung up on color and segregationist ideas". Gregory, whose book "Nigger" (in the Whitehouse) sold millions of copies several years ago, recalled that President Nixon had promised to take the crime out of the streets. "You should have asked him where he would put crime", he added.

An old friend and bellringer, Mrs. B. who is a secretary of an Independent Oil Producer in the tall city, writes: "The Independent is a risk-taker, since only one 'wildcat' well in nine that are drilled finds anything. He does not own refineries or gasoline service stations and runs his own business, and it is the lack of economic incentive to find, develop and produce. Let's encourage America's independents to go back to work."

News reports state that Odessans will be paying about 50 cents more on their monthly gas bills, as the cost of fuel fluctuates, while in Hobbs, New Mexico thousands of gas users in Hobbs, New Mexico are protesting to state authorities and the governor of New Mexico, rise in rates that they claim is "a fifty to 125 percent increase in rates". The protest is being led by Rev. Rank Wells, a black Baptist pastor and supporter by a number of others.

Until later...Peace.

The Angelic Choir will be presented in a musical. Harris; Sunday, March 10, Rev. Floyd Perry Jr.

Mid week prayer services are held each Wednesday evening at 7 p.m. All members are urged to attend. Whisper a prayer for the sick and shut-in and visit and send cards of cheer. Rev. A.L. Dunn, Mrs. Vivian Williams, Mrs.
