

Fiesta Folklorico to Appear

On Thursday, November 7, the University Center Program Council will bring to Lubbock the Fiesta Folklorico, the national touring ballet of Mexico. The ballet, direct from Mexico City, has performed throughout the world, and participated in the Festival of Nations held in Paris. It was acclaimed by a Paris newspaper as being without a doubt the most colorful, the most lively, and most beautiful spectacle seen at the Festival.

The company was founded by Amalia Hernandez, and she does the choreography and directing herself. She left her position in 1952 as a professor of modern dance at the Instituto Nacional de Belles Arts to compose ballets on folklore themes. Starting with only eight pupils, the company has expanded to its present 75 members. One of its most memorable programs has been a command performance for President and Mrs. Kennedy in 1962.

The music used by the Ballet Folklorico is authentic and performed without any rhythmic or melodic change from its original character. Its great variety indicates an original source on a virtually unsurpassed level of ethnic quality.

The performance will be in the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium. Advanced tickets are $2.50, at the door $3.50, and children $1.00. Tickets are on sale at the Texas Tech University Center, Sears, and the Furr's Family Center on 34th Street.

Third Nail Available In City

The Third Nail, formerly the Drug Crisis Center, a service to the Lubbock area community by interested volunteers, had provided an effective drug abuse program longer than any other organization in this area, since 1970. The Third Nail can offer the most comprehensive list of services for drug related problems, although various other problems are handled.

Anyone with a drug problem, crisis or otherwise, is also welcome to come in or call our "hotline" number and receive immediate, confidential and factual help. Since our opening, we have handled over 6,000 cases ranging from overdoses which required emergency hospital care, to relating factual drug information, to helping lonely people needing a friend.

The Third Nail is staffed by competent, caring people trained in all phases of drug abuse and telephone counseling. We are always interested in finding new volunteers to pull a shift on the phones. We have a staff of qualified professionals to assist with our complete training course which includes information on all drugs with a potential for misuse, basic assumptions of telephone counseling, communication techniques, active listening, referral procedures, emergency procedures, and growth groups for interested staffers. Anyone wishing to participate in our program can get more information by calling 747-3535 or drop by 2408 13th Street (next to University Ministries).

Council Sets Annual Meeting

The Caprock Council annual luncheon meeting will be from 11:30 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. November 11 in First Christian Church at 2323 Broadway in Lubbock. Tickets cost $2.75 and are available from your field services chairman or the council office. Deadline for purchasing tickets is November 6.

Mrs. Carolyn Jordan, Lubbock city councilwoman and president of the South Plains Association of Governments, will be the guest speaker. Senior Girl Scouts from Troop 244, Friona, will report on their Reader's Digest Foundation Grant used to begin restoration of the Union Congregational Church Building.

The business meeting will follow the luncheon. A slate of nominees for positions on the board of directors will be presented for election as follows: Mrs. Walter Riethmayer, Friona, second vice president; and A. Leroy Richardson, Lubbock, treasurer.

The slate for members at large includes Frank Kerr, Dale Johnson, and Don Jones, Lubbock; Whitelaw H. Hunt, Plainview; and Mrs. K.W. Kirkpatrick, Post.

Proposed as new members for the nominating committee are Mrs. J.W. Holt, Slaton; and Mrs. Laurin Prather, Abernathy; Mrs. Glenn Jones, Levelland.

Mrs. W.C. Griggs, president; Mrs. Walter Riethmayer, second vice president; and Miss Pat Harris, executive director, are listed on the slate for delegates to the national convention. Alternates named are Mrs. Ted Forsythe, first vice president; Frank Kerr, employed personnel chairman; and Mrs. Alarah Russell, field director.

Estacado PTA Meets

The Estacado PTA officials met November 4th in the teachers lounge. They made plans for helping needy families for Christmas.

The next meeting will be December 2nd at which time the members are asked to bring a canned item to donate to this cause.

Our theme is "We Have A Commitment". Plans were made for the future 74-75 school year. We urge all parents to participate in this effort.

There were 3 guests at the meeting and there was a discussion of the possibility of Scout Exploring including canoeing, hiking and the field of medicine.

NAACP To Hold Elections

The election of officers of the Lubbock Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) will be held Sunday, November 10, at the regular meeting at 3 p.m. at Posey Neighborhood Center. Anyone wishing to run for office should contact C.F. Cooke, Jr., 504 East 23rd Street, or phone him at 744-7325.

Through persistent and skillful planning and contacts of Loyce and Joyce Graves, the 1964 graduates of Dunbar High School held their tenth year anniversary. The class members, faculty then, assembled at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. E.C. Struggs 2002 Cedar Avenue, Sunday, October 14, and parents of Judith Ann Struggs, a member of the class.

Mr. Struggs, who was then principal and wife who was teacher in the elementary school system, are now retired and were not able to be present due to a death in the family.

There was about twenty class members present and almost all the faculty members attended, with exception of those who are deceased. To quote one of the teachers: "This is more of a faculty anniversary than student."

Loyce and Joyce found it impossible to assemble a class of seventy-four members after ten years of each going separate ways, but they tried very hard for a year or longer.

The affair was quite elaborate and was the beginning of several activities for the class members who were present. On Thursday, they were present at assembly hour at Dunbar High School. During the program, Oscar Jones and Judith Ann Struggs Berry gave brief remarks from the subject: "Pages of Dunbar's History". Thursday afternoon, they attended a pep rally at the school. On that evening, they were special boosters at the Dunbar Panther Homecoming game in which those mighty Panthers defeated Lakeview of San Angelo by a score of 7-3.

The grand finale was a catered party at the Holiday Inn which was a gala affair.

Many of the class members are employed here in the Lubbock Public Schools and hold other lucrative jobs as well as others. All are doing fine as most of the "gals" have changed their maiden names, raising families and the "guys" have added names to theirs and along with their jobs are helping to populate the earth.

Since this class left the scene, school integration has necessitated many changes for students and faculty, and "Dear Old Paul Lawrence Dunbar", is not the same. But adjustments have proved effective.

Some of the highlights of the class of 1964 were: the year book was dedicated to D.C. Fair, junior class officers were Bobby

Most handsome boy was Billy Wayne Jones; senior favorites were Frances Jones and Robert Smith; most beautiful gal, Dora J. Highest honor student was Beulah McKelvey; second highest, Grace Isaac. The honor boy was Donald Scott. Honor graduates were Grace Isaac, Judith Struggs, Mary Lawson, Beulah McKelvey, Donald Scott, Bobby Hudspeth, and Michael Menefee.

Supt. was Nat Williams and Dr. Ishmael Hill, asst. supt.; principal E.C. Struggs.

Loyce and Joyce Graves says: "Class members, hang on in there if you can. The next ten years may have more changes in store than the past decade. But remember, your chances are much better to improve yourselves, than the past ten years too. Count your blessings. See what God has done."

Frank L. Stanley A Real Leader Of Blacks

From National Black News Service

Death is the final call we answer. No one escapes it. It takes all.

The recent, untimely death of Frank L. Stanley, Sr., civil rights leader, educator, journalist, publisher, robbed the Black Press of one of its stalwarts.

He was a doer, a hero, an inspiration, a beacon who guided the paths of many young black men and women into the fields of journalism and education. He was the exemplification of dedication. A man who possessed a sharp and questioning mind. A man who died after having lived a fulfilled life.

Frank L. Stanley Sr., was no ordinary man. Few could match the genius in the civil rights field. In 1950, he drafted the legislation passed by the Kentucky General Assembly that led to the integration of the state's public universities. And a decade later, he authored the bill that created the Kentucky Commission on Human Rights.

He was a giant.

Publisher Stanley taught high school and college English. He was commissioned to three high level foreign missions by the United States Government. He was a student trained at Atlanta University, the University of Cincinnati, and Columbia University. He was awarded an Honorary Doctorate of Humanities by Allen University.

He was the founder of the Louisville Defender newspaper, one of the best black newspapers in the country, and was the founder of that city's annual Black Expo, sponsored for the past 37 years by his newspaper.

He was dedicated. Death took him. We all mourn his loss.

The Democrats: Who?

Since Senator Edward Kennedy withdrew from the presidential derby in 1976, the larger of the two major parties has been hard-put to find both a consensus within the party behind a leader and a leader with the charisma to be a likely winner.

Representing congressional Democrats, Senator Edmund Muskie spoke on national television recently in reply to President Ford's election campaigning. But Muskie fails to go over with the masses.

Senator Henry Jackson has been trying almost desperately for four years to gain the chits and support for his party's nomination but hasn't captured the public's fancy either.

Admittedly, President Ford's image and support, so high in the very beginning of his White House occupancy, is now partly tattered. He may not be as difficult to defeat in 1976 as some had assumed. Also, the image of Nelson Rockefeller is being constantly assailed by congressional Democrats snipping at him with a vast mountain of private data and records, and Rockefeller's appeal in 1976 might therefore also be down.

Allowing for that, Democrats must still come up with a ticket appealing to minorities, which comprise the backbone of the party's strength, while at the same time appealing to enough of middle America to achieve victory at the polls. If Ronald Reagan and George Wallace head a third party effort (still a long shot but one being considered seriously by some), that complicates the problems.

Democrats currently have no obvious leading candidate; the party is still split, and whether Chairman Robert Strauss, detested by many militants and leftists, can restore order and produce harmony is a good question.

As I See It

by T.J. Patterson

Those citizens and residents of Green Fair Manor Apartments who attended the meeting last week are to be commended for a job well done. Although the chairman of the board, Jim Sexton, wasn't present, let's hope something will be accomplished by those three board members present.

This writer doesn't really think the present executive director of the Lubbock Housing Authority Board really understands what is going on. I say this with sincerity as housing is a bad problem in the city of Lubbock.

It is important that something be done in the very near future if this program is to move as it should. I'm sure the Housing Urban Development (HUD) people in Washington are not happy over what is going on in the Lubbock housing situation. I received communications several months ago from Brother Crawford of the national office. In his letter, he spelled out specifically the functions of a local housing program. If you look at what is going on at Green Fair Manor, he wouldn't approve of the situation.

In Lubbock, many organizations and people have been guilty of playing the "do good" job and therefore, we've not been able to get down to the basic problems which are hampering our community. It is time for the Lubbock Housing Authority Board of directors to get down to business and clean up this messy housing situation in our community. In order to do this, we are going to have to have good management and the tenants will have to do their part.

It was good to see those tenants out doing their part last week, but their efforts will go unnoticed if the LHA board of directors refuse to act.

The young people from Estacado High School did a splendid job last Monday evening at the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium when Senator Lloyd Bentsen, Jr. delivered the message of the hour. The young people, who were members of the Estacado High School Acapella Choir and under the direction of Phil Higgenbotham, did a wonderful job singing and playing patriotic music.

Another salute should be given to Miss Wanda Woodruff, also an Estacado High School student, who sang the well known "God Bless America". She was wonderful as she did her best before the more than four hundred persons in attendance.

Young people, it's beautiful to see you participating in a program such as the one last week. Your blue and white robes looked real good, and your singing was beautiful. Just keep it up so other people will be able to hear what you have to sing.

This writer hopes the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) will look into the city council thing. For several administrations, residents of the black and brown communities in Lubbock have been told one thing, but last week the balloon busted.

If it takes some sort of court action, this writer would be more than willing to do his part to help with the local problem. Lubbock is growing too fast without something being done about the problems of its representation on the city council.

This situation should be taken to court now if the present city council is going to make the kinds of decisions they made last week. People are tired of the games that are being played in Lubbock. It's time for something to be done in this area.

I am not talking about begging for help, I'm saying let's take any means necessary to correct the present situation. It would be a turn around in the black community if people would start demanding this type of action in their community. Of course, there are black men who want to see the same things accomplished in the "Hub City."

Let it be clearly understood that the City of Lubbock belongs to every citizen in the community, regardless of the area in which he or she may live. It should be understood that people from all locations in Lubbock want representation from their area. This is a must and the citizens shouldn't stop until they get this type of city council representation. The present city council should have representation from all areas of the community.

I hope by now the NAACP has considered looking in the legal aspect of this situation. Only by going to the courts will anything be accomplished in our community. I am very well convinced of this.

Speaking of the NAACP, the election of officers for the Lubbock chapter will be underway on Sunday, November 10, at 3 p.m. at the Posey Neighborhood Center. I would encourage all citizens who would like to do something for Lubbock to get involved with this group.

C.F. Cooke, Jr. is the chairman of the nominating committee and his committee will do their best to help find officers for the local chapter.

A membership drive is also underway for the local chapter. Mrs. Maxine McCormick, membership chairwoman, would appreciate your membership.

Let's get behind this organization. The way things are looking in Lubbock today, we may need some organization to help with some legal problems. Don't you think so?

JACK ANDERSON'S WEEKLY SPECIAL

A HOUSE IN DISORDER by Jack Anderson

(From United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington—In this election week, perhaps the voters should be reminded they have a long way to go before they clean up Capitol Hill. Congress has spent millions of dollars investigating Watergate, but it still has not set its own house in order.

A spot check investigation has turned up these continuing abuses:

—The Constitution forbids acceptance of any and all foreign gifts. Nonetheless, in this session of Congress alone, we have uncovered more than 100 such illegal trips by the nation's lawmakers and their aides.

—The free mail privilege, by law, is restricted to official business only. New standards have been adopted to make congressional newsletters less of a promotion piece for the members. Yet we have found numerous newsletters which violate even these minimal restrictions.

—Federal law prohibits soliciting or accepting campaign contributions on federal property. This is one statute that most congressmen know quite well. Yet representatives of labor unions and other special interest groups regularly drop off campaign contributions on Capitol Hill. In addition, a number of lawmakers use their congressional offices to send out political contribution mailings.

One reason congressmen so freely flout campaign laws, apparently, is that the Justice Dept. has refused to enforce them.

Since the original campaign spending law was adopted in 1971, the Clerk of the House and the Secretary of the Senate have forwarded nearly 10,000 apparent violations to the Justice Dept. for investigation and possible prosecution. Some 1,800 incidents have been reported to Justice this year alone.

So far, however, the Justice Dept. has failed to act. Indeed, only a few attorneys have been assigned to handle reported violations.

Some of the complaints are purely technical in nature: a candidate filed a late report, or a contributor was not properly identified. Many other cases, however, involve serious infractions of the law, including the acceptance of illegal corporate contributions, illegal expenditure of personal funds and violations of the general spending limitations.

Henry the Plumber: During the first Nixon administration, Henry Kissinger's concern over news "leaks" helped to stimulate wiretaps on members of his own National Security Council staff. Press reports of the wiretap campaign embarrassed Kissinger so much that he threatened to resign.

But the adverse publicity apparently didn't cure him. He has not begun an intensive effort to plug the leaks at the State Dept.

Kissinger is outraged over press reports—many of them ours—about his Middle East negotiations and his celebrated "tilts" toward Turkey and white Africa. A few weeks ago, he restricted the distribution of classified cables. The European Affairs Bureau, for example, used to get 30 copies of incoming cables. They now get six.

A team of top aides toured the department and told lesser bureaucrats they would henceforth receive only those telegrams that were directly related to their particular jobs. And they were warned not to duplicate the few cables they get.

In addition, the director general of the Foreign Service lectured his underlings on the "ethics" of their calling. "Malicious" new leaks, he told them, maligned the "integrity" of the Foreign Service. Those who could not live with Kissinger's policies, he suggested, should resign or take "leave without pay."

The truth is there is little information which must be kept secret in the interest of national security. Indeed, Henry Kissinger himself is walking proof of the hypocrisy of the classification system.

He routinely holds "background" press conferences in which he divulges sensitive information. The bits and pieces he reveals, however, are carefully selected to further the aims and desires of Henry Kissinger.

Recently, CBS newsman Daniel Schorr was investigating the U.S. government's role in the 1973 coup in Chile. He obtained information critical of Kissinger and visited the State Dept. for a rebuttal. Kissinger's executive assistant, Larry Eagleburger, reached into the State Dept.'s vaults and produced three top secret documents that tended to back Kissinger's side of the story.

About a week earlier, Kissinger's press spokesman had heatedly branded news leaks a "disgrace to the Foreign Service."

Ford to Ford: President Ford is under severe pressure from his former Michigan backers to switch economic gears. He is still calling upon the American people to spend less in order to keep prices down and curb inflation. But Americans are already spending less than the auto industry would like on new cars.

New car sales are down drastically. A recent, nine day survey shows Ford and Chrysler sales off 18 per cent, General Motors down 34 per cent and American Motors down 46 per cent. Close to 65,000 workers have been laid off the Big Three production lines.

Hard times in the auto industry are also spreading swiftly to the industries that produce auto accessories and to everyone else who does business with the auto community.

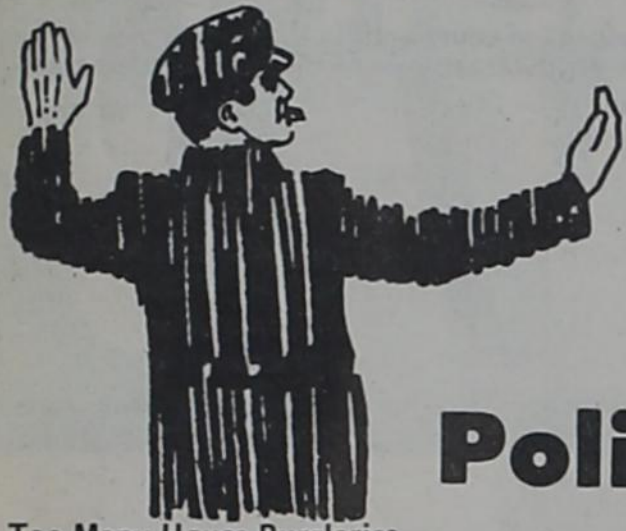

As a former congressman from Michigan, President Ford is close to the auto tycoons. They want him to urge Americans to spend more, not less. The nation's number one problem they are pleading, is not inflation but recession.

When the auto tycoons speak, Ford out of habit listens. So if the economy continues to weaken, he is likely to take their advice.

Washington Whirl: According to U.S. narcotics agents, a dope runner recently flew into Jamaica in an amphibious plane to make a pickup and paid his peasant suppliers with counterfeit money. On his next run, he came in at night and the peasants put up landing flares in a swamp full of alligators. . . Consumer advocate Ralph Nader, say our sources, will soon call for the resignation of President Ford's economic chief, William Simon.

Too Many House Burglaries

Over the past months, many brothers and sisters homes and apartments have been broken into by some others in the community. In many cases, these persons who have been guilty of such break-ins of black people's property has been done by some of our own kind. It's time for all of us to get involved and stop some of these house burglaries.

Here are a few of the house burglaries which happened in the black community this past week.

House Burglary

Booker T. Rhoe, 2924 East Bates Avenue, reported to Lubbock police that someone unknown removed a screen and pried open the window to his kitchen for entrance. The instrument used to gain entry was apparently a large screwdriver or tire tool.

Again gaining entry, persons unknown ransacked the closets and dresser drawers in the bedrooms.

Missing from the house was an undetermined amount of meat from the refrigerator.

House Burglary

Ruby Anderson, 3405 East Cornell Avenue, reported to Lubbock police that she returned to her home and found that her house had been broken into one day last week.

Entry was apparently gained through the front door although it was not forced open.

There was approximately $350 worth of clothes taken from the house.

House Burglary

Gail Jackson, 3410 East Baylor Avenue, reported to Lubbock police that persons unknown broke into her house by prying loose a bedroom window.

Once inside, the unknown persons took several items which were valued at approximately $324.89. Items taken included approximately $50 worth of meat, a television set and three 8-track tapes.

Attempted House Burglary

Robert Gibson, 2018 East 28th Street, reported to Lubbock police that his wife saw a man whom she could identify at their kitchen window. She told police that the man was trying to take the screen off when she screamed and he ran away.

Gibson did not state if he wished to file charges against the young man involved in the attempted house burglary.

Felony Theft

Ed Johnson, 2444 East 30th Street, reported to Lubbock police that he was at the Meadowbrook Golf Course when someone took approximately $400 worth of golf clubs from his car.

The clubs, which included woods and irons, were apparently taken from his car while he was at the putting area.
