A Tribute

The Civil Rights Roots Of Hubert H. Humphrey

On a hot, sweltering day in July 1948, where hundreds of Democrats had gathered in Philadelphia to nominate incumbent Harry S. Truman for President, the only real excitement at that convention was over the civil rights plank.

Resistance to a strong civil rights plank was based on the fear of Democratic party leaders that a Republican president would be elected if the fragile Democratic party split between the north and south.

At the time, Hubert H. Humphrey, at 37, was new on the national political scene. The aggressive, smooth-talking Mayor of Minneapolis chaired the delegation from Minnesota and was also the state's Democratic candidate for the Senate in the fall election.

After two days of intense and heated debate among the 119 members of the convention platform committee, the civil rights plank, called meaningless by some liberals, was defeated by a large vote.

Hubert Humphrey had to make a critical decision—whether to carry the civil rights issue to the floor of the convention on the third day. A fierce debate on the question raged throughout the night.

Party leaders argued strenuously against a floor fight, insisting that young Humphrey had already gone far enough with so divisive an issue. They also maintained that a floor fight would be disrupted and offend the South. There was a common consensus among the debating groups that there was no way for Humphrey and his small group of "radicals" to win. The odds were too great.

Humphrey's father, who was chairman of the Democratic delegation from South Dakota, told his son frankly: "Son, this (civil rights issue) may tear the party apart, but if you feel strongly, then you've got to go with it. You can't run away from your conscience, son. You've got to go with it."

It was around 5 a.m. when Humphrey and his cohorts, including Joe Rauh, Andy Biemiller and several other leaders of the newly organized ADA (Americans for Democratic Action) finally arrived at a strategy and plan. A minority civil rights plank would be presented to the convention and Humphrey would give the speech.

The following afternoon a scared Hubert Humphrey stood before the Democratic convention. His budding political career was at stake. So was the future of his party. A sleepless Humphrey scanned the audience and spoke from his heart.

In closing, he said: "...There are those who say 'The issue of civil rights is an infringement on States' Rights.' The time has arrived for the Democratic party to get out of the States' Rights and walk forthrightly into the bright sunshine of human rights ..."

The emotional impact of his speech hit the convention like a bolt of thunder, setting off a spontaneous demonstration led by delegates from Illinois, California and Minnesota.

The convention voted 652½ to 582½ for the minority plank. In protest, Senator Strom Thurmond led a walkout of Dixiecrats.

The rest is history.

Cable Extension

Southwestern Bell will begin construction February 1 on a $150,000 cable extension project to expand and improve telephone service in east Lubbock. "Construction at this time will enable us to meet the telephone service needs of east Lubbock residents now and in the future," said Bob Dunbar, division manager.

The extension will run along Quirt Avenue between Broadway and 20th Street. The project will affect residents between Locust and Vanda Avenue, specifically.

"Cables in this area are currently operating at 90 per cent or more capacity," Dunbar said. "By relieving the cables, we will be able to provide more efficient service for customers in the east area."

An open trench will be dug along Quirt Avenue. It should not obstruct traffic in any way. The project should be completed in latter June.

"Carousel" to Premiere Here

The Lubbock premiere of "Carousel", by Rodgers and Hammerstein, will be presented by the Music Department of First United Methodist Church on February 10th and 11th, at 8:15 p.m., in Lubbock Memorial Civic Center Theatre.

Featuring a cast of 50, accompanied by two pianists and a percussionist, "Carousel," one of Broadway's most popular musical comedies, will be directed and choreographed by Jo Ann Naylor of New York City.

Tickets are available through First United Methodist Church office from 11 a.m.-1 p.m., Monday through Friday. All seats are reserved and are priced $5.00 in the orchestra section, and $4.00 in the upper section.

"Carousel," written by Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II, marked their second collaboration. Their first was "Oklahoma" in 1943, and "Carousel" followed in the late 40's. "Carousel" originally starred John Raitt and was choreographed by Agnes Demille. In the late 50's it was made into a movie starring Gordon MacRae and Shirley Jones.

The musical is set in a New England town at the turn of the century, and concerns the marriage of an unlikely pair: Billy Bigelow, young barker for a carnival, and Julie Jordan, who works as a weaver in a local fabric mill. When Billy discovers that he is to become a father, he tries to get money by assisting in a robbery, and is killed. Once in heaven, Billy is permitted one day to go back to earth. He spends his day helping his daughter (now 15 years old) and telling Julie that he really did love her.

The musical is remembered for its enduring songs: "If I Loved You", "June is Busting Out All Over", and "You'll Never Walk Alone".

Seeks Support

"We the members of the Ella Iles P.T.A. are asking the support of our ex-students, teachers and friends in our effort to achieve our goal. We are trying to raise enough money to purchase new drapes for our auditorium and audio visual equipment for our classrooms to aide those students who have learning difficulties."

Over the next few weeks, many will receive letters with this plea for aide in its content. Please comply with it, if you can. "We are mindful of the promise that the Lord loves a cheerful giver."

So those who can please share your blessings with us.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I am writing you to thank you very much for running the write up of my son, Billy, in your newspaper. It was a very good job and thanks for putting it on the front page. It was a very true write-up since it came from the company that Billy is working for. They are taking over some 40 more hospitals over 8 states and they are to move Billy up in rank and he will be making more money. Billy is the only respiratory repair man with this company. He has become so good at his job that most of the time they send him to another town hospital to fix their respiratory care machines. It only takes him about 10 to 20 minutes and sometimes he drives 150 miles. But. But it costs his company a lot of money when he has to tear down one of

But, it saves his company a lot of money when he has to tear down one of the big respiratory machines and fix it. It would cost his company $250 to $300 if they had to call in someone else to fix the machines. Billy wanted the write up put in your newspaper so more blacks could read about it and he hopes that some of the blacks that really want to work will try to get into the respiratory care field. The only blacks in this field from Lubbock are Billy and his brother Clarence. Clarence is the head over 4 to 5 hospitals in the Plainview area and he is doing a great job. They both can use more help from blacks and all colors with 40 more hospitals coming. They have got to have more help.

Billy and Clarence are to be in the upcoming issue of the black magazine Ebony. I will send you a little write up to let the people that want to buy a magazine can read about the Pittman brothers and what they are doing to help save people's lives in the West Texas area. This is to be a very big write-up from the company that they work for, with 8x10 pictures of the boys. I am about sure that Clarence and Billy will be the first here in Lubbock to ever have a write up put in the Ebony magazine. I will let you know when it is to come out so that you can run it in your paper, and the people can buy one of these magazines to read about someone here in Lubbock that is doing some things for the people of this area.

I will say thanks again for a very nice job on the write-up.

Yours Truly,
Lawrence C. Pittman

Mr. White,

The Estacado High School basketball cheerleaders and their sponsors would like to thank you for your assistance last Friday evening when our athletic van developed motor trouble while en route to Sweetwater. Following our blowout, we became very weary after discovering our van's engine would not start. Thank you for offering your assistance at a time when we certainly needed it.

It is reassuring to know that citizens will offer a helping hand to those who are truly in need. Without your assistance, our cheerleaders would have been very late to the basketball game. Who know, you might have helped us win!

Thanks again, from the students and staff of Estacado High School.

Sincerely,

WEEKLY SPECIAL

Bell and Eastland: A U.S. Atty. General Deal?

Copyright, 1978, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
WASHINGTON—Jimmy Carter made a solemn campaign promise on June 16, 1976. "All prosecutors," he said, "should be appointed strictly on the basis of merit—without any consideration of political aspects or influence."

This would be a major reform. It would remove politics from criminal prosecution and reduce the chance of the political fix.

In the past, it has been the prerogative of senators to select the U.S. attorneys. In each state, the senators from the president's own political party recommend the U.S. attorney. Traditionally, the president has accepted their recommendations.

This has sometimes resulted in the appointment of political hacks instead of competent attorneys. Jimmy Carter promised to change that.

Carter meant well, but he didn't reckon with Mississippi Sen. James Eastland. As judiciary chairman, Eastland has jurisdiction over the Justice Department. He doesn't hesitate to use his power to stall appointments.

Before the Carter administration took power, Griffin Bell sat down with Sen. Eastland in Atlanta. Bell was Carter's choice to become attorney general and needed Eastland's blessing to get confirmed.

We've now learned that Bell and Eastland made a secret deal. Eastland agreed that court of appeals judges could be appointed on merit. But Bell agreed that the selection of U.S. attorneys would remain under the Senate patronage system.

Not long afterward, Bell appeared before the Senate for confirmation. He didn't mention the secret agreement during the hearings. On the contrary, he said: "If I am to be the attorney general, we want to professionalize the Department of Justice. We want to depoliticize it to the extent possible. Otherwise, I would not care to be the attorney general."

Bell was confirmed and immediately began replacing U.S. attorneys. Some who were fired were capable and qualified. The reason for their replacement was pure partisan politics.

We asked the Justice Department for comment. A spokesman acknowledged that Bell made an oral agreement with Eastland in December 1976. The spokesman said Bell would like to change the system, but political reality has prevented it.

Political reality is named James Eastland.
Special Delivery: As most Americans have discovered, mail deliveries have been slowing down while postal rates have been going up. The higher postage becomes, it seems, the worse the service gets.

Your letters not only go through rain, sleet and snow to reach your mailbox. They also have to overcome bureaucratic red tape and new-fangled machinery that tears them up. On top of all this, we've just learned, the mails are also hampered by rats.

Eyewitnesses report that rats infest some post offices and chew into the food packages. These sources also claim that post office employees simply conceal the holes and teeth marks with tape or wrapping paper. Then the rat-chewed packages are delivered to the unsuspecting recipients.

But so far as we know, no one has yet received a rat in the mail.

Cubans in Africa: President Carter has been watching the Cuban military build-up in Africa with growing alarm. We've seen the confidential minutes in which he discussed how to prevent the Cubans from taking over more territory.

The president believes the Cubans in Africa are under Soviet control. Intelligence reports claim the Cuban soldiers are armed, paid and transported by the Soviets.

Presumably, the Kremlin's aim is to expand Soviet influence in Africa. But it would be too provocative to send Soviet troops to the dark continent. Any military moves by a superpower would cause worldwide alarm. So the Soviets have sent Cubans instead. Already, Cuban troops have shown up in several African hotspots.

In the confidential minutes, Carter notes apprehensively that the Cuban build-up is "almost continent-wide." He regards the Cubans merely as mercenaries for the Soviets.

The president, therefore, is studying possible countermeasures—short of involving the United States in another Vietnam-style conflict. Most likely, the United States will supply weapons and training, at least indirectly, for any rival force that will try to stop the Cubans.

The next showdown can be expected in Somalia in the spring. The Soviets have been ferrying Cuban troops and weapons into neighboring Ethiopia. U.S. strategists are convinced that the Cubans will lead an invasion of Somalia. A victory would give them a base that could be used to cut off the oil tanker routes through the Red Sea.

Intelligence sources tell us that both Saudi Arabia and Iran will support the Somalis. The United States has already turned down a Somali plea for arms, but supports Saudi Arabia and Iran.

The Soviet Union will back the Cuban-Ethiopian assault. In effect, it will be a pocket war—by proxy—between pro-Soviet and pro-American forces.

Ringling the Bell . . .

with Bob Tieuel

Boley, Oklahoma—Here in the largest all-black town in America black leaders and churchmen remembered Hubert Humphrey as their friend and as one who fought for the dignity of all men. They also hoped that his passing would encourage the passing of the Humphrey-Hawkins bill that would create thousands of new jobs that would alleviate mass unemployment among their ranks.

Meeting at Avery Chapel A.M.E. Church in Oklahoma City the past week, more than 100 black church leaders, professors and community officials called for emphasis on job placement, noting that unemployment leads to a high crime rate among the minority group. While Oklahoma's unemployment rate is one of the lowest in the nation (below the 4 percent mark), nine percent of Oklahoma's black men are unemployed, according to Lonnie Johnson, conference coordinator. He added that the rate among the state's black teenagers is near 34 per cent, the same as the national average. Most of the state's 171,000 blacks live in Tulsa and Oklahoma City but many of these blacks entering an urban environment are often "ill equipped to secure jobs" Johnson told this correspondent.

Black people are feeling less alienated from whites than they did during the early 1970's, a University of Michigan survey in Detroit shows. A smaller percentage say "they do not trust any whites and even less endorse violence to obtain equal rights. 49% believed whites are indifferent", the report showed.

Recent great quotes: "I think Nigeria is going to have the most exciting city in the world and that the whole world will come to see it. There is going to be a whole mix of things—conventional, experimental and organic things." End of quote from Abraam Krushkhov, director of planning for Van Nuys based ArchiSystems. The Summa Corp division is heading a three firm group developing the multibillion dollar metropolis intended to be the world's finest environmental city. He added that the project will aid city planners all over the world.

Dear Bob: I wholeheartedly support the National Education Association in its filing an amicus curiae brief in support of a special admissions program for minority students in the current Bakke case. I am a Mexican-American and I have been teaching in a bilingual kindergarten for four years. Had it not been for "a special admissions program," my acceptance into a four year college may never have occurred. Signed JAR.

We hope this column makes the deadline this week as we trudge across the snow laden highways of Oklahoma and Texas after a visit to Prague General Hospital in Prague, Oklahoma where Mom had another short stay. She is apparently losing much of her appetite and seems weaker but all we can do is hope and pray that she will find added strength to keep going a while longer. As soon as the roads clear a bit we will wind our way back to West Texas and New Mexico to prepare for our 10th Black Leadership Conference in February. Be a good neighbor. They come in all colors. And Peace.

Boy Scouts to Mark 68th Anniversary

Bob Dunbar, President said this year's emphasis is on leadership recognition and recruiting, and Cub Scout packs, Scout troops, and Explorer posts and ships throughout the council are planning special events to honor their volunteer leaders.

On Wednesday, February 8, members of the three Scouting programs will join others across the country in ceremonies of rededication to Scouting's principles.

Dr. Banowsky to Speak At Banquet

Dr. William Banowsky, President of Pepperdine University and former minister of the Broadway Church of Christ, will be featured speaker at the annual banquet of the South Plains Council of the Boy Scouts of America, Monday, February 6, 7 p.m., at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center, according to Dr. James Granberry, Banquet Chairman. Bob Dunbar, Division Manager of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, and President of the Council will serve as Master-of-Ceremonies.

Banowsky left Lubbock to join the faculty of Pepperdine in 1968, when it was a single-campus college. He assumed the position of President in 1971. The University now has 8,000 students on four campuses at Malibu, Los Angeles, Orange County and Heidelberg, Germany. Banowsky is credited with establishing the 650-acre Malibu campus. He led in selecting the site, planning the campus, designing the curriculum and raising more than $50,000,000 to construct the first buildings.

He received a B.A. from David Lipscomb College in Tennessee, a M.A. from the University of New Mexico, and a Ph.D. in communications from the University of Southern California. Foreign speaking tours have taken him to the Orient, Western Europe, the Middle East, South America and Russia. In 1972, the U.S. Information Agency named him to lead a special inspection tour of its activities in the Congo. In 1978, he was invited by the Israeli government to visit institutions of higher learning in that country. He is a director of the Independent Colleges of Southern California, National Conference of Christians and Jews, Community Television of Southern California, Litton Industries, Coca Cola Company of Los Angeles, Vetco Offshore Industries, Merchants and Manufacturer's Association, and Los Amigos Del Pueblo, an organization designed to preserve the Spanish areas of Los Angeles.

Writer and Publisher of three books, It's a Playboy World, The Mirror of a Movement, and The Now Generation, Dr. Banowsky also writes a regular column in the Los Angeles Herald Examiner. He often hosts talk shows on KNBC-TV.

He served his Lubbock ministry from 1963 to 1968 and is remembered for the 1966 debate with Playboy Magazine representative, Anson Mount. He will be pulpit guest for services at the Broadway Church of Christ on Sunday, February 5.

Black genealogists with Virginia ancestors will be interested in the valuable information found in Registrations of Free Negroes Commencing September Court, 1822, Book No. 2 and Register of Free Blacks, 1835, Book 3 edited by Donald Sweig. Softbound, 292 pps., indexed. Order from the County of Fairfax, Office of Comprehensive Planning, 4100 Chain Bridge Road, Fairfax, Va. 22030, $5. Each registration gives the name, age, physical description, and method of achieving freedom for each registrant. The name of the mother or emancipator is usually included. Sometimes both the maiden and married name of a woman is given, thus extending the reconstruction of families.

The "Introduction" gives the background regarding these registers. In 1793, the Virginia legislature required the registration of free blacks and mulattoes as proof of their status. Reregistration was required annually in the cities and every three years in the counties (a condition which Fairfax County ignored). Many of the blacks registered in Fairfax County were never slaves, since they were born to free black or white mothers. The majority of the slaves received their freedom by their owner's last will.

The general editorial style reproduces the original registers as closely as possible. Statistical data taken from the information in the registers is also included.

KELLY'S HEROES

by Joe Kelly

Shelby Metcalf is a troubled man, and rightfully so. The Texas A&M coach has a world of material at hand, maybe the best in the conference next to Arkansas. So far it hasn't produced.

Indeed, the Aggies have managed only a victory over SMU at home in five conference outings. They lost to Houston in College Station and have three other losses on the road. And this from a squad that was expected to be a conference contender.

The Aggies, with a good recruiting campaign, a nucleus of strength returning and the addition of Karl Godine and Jarvis Williams were expected to battle fiercely for the top spot.

Godine and Williams, of course, had been stripped from the Aggies in the 1976-1977 campaign. When they return, the experts said, the Aggies will sweep through the league. Not only were they two outstanding, the revenge motive would fire up the Aggies.

Shelby is astute. I asked him if the return of Godine and Williams had created any problems. He looked at me squarely and replied:

"I don't think that was a question. I think it was a statement followed by a question mark. I don't believe I want to make any comment on that."

He had, of course, made the comment. And yes, the return has created problems.

Still, more importantly, what disturbed the Aggie coach the most was the fact that his team wasn't hustling.

"We don't talk about winning or losing," Shelby said. "We talk about playing with intensity. If we play as hard as we can, winning will take care of itself."

"I've never had a team that didn't hustle, that didn't play with intensity," he declared. "I'm though with sleepless nights, with worry. I'm going to take action."

I asked Shelby if he thought that the dry spell for 7 minutes, 17 seconds in the first half, a period when A&M managed only five free throws and no field goals, had been the difference in the outcome.

"No, I thought that the first four minutes in the second half were the difference. We only scored two points in that period."

Shelby went on to say that he told his team that the game wasn't lost, that it could still win if it played with intensity.

"I started five veterans the second half and they didn't get the job done. We have too many good players, young players, who want to play and they'll get their chance now. I'm not going to stay with what we've been doing."

Shelby went on to praise Gerald Myers for the program he runs. "He has a system and he stays with it," Shelby said. "He recruits the type of player who fits in with his system. It's really a waste of money to scout Tech. You know what they're going to do. A scouting report is good only for information on individual players."

"I have a lot of admiration for Gerald and his program," Shelby continued. "He's consistent. Tech plays patient ball and they're not going to beat themselves. If they get a lead, they're tough to beat."

The conference schedule isn't halfway to completion yet, but already it has become a four team race—Texas, Arkansas, Houston and Tech. And Houston is on thin ice with two losses.

Two losses could win the title. Texas must still go to Arkansas, A&M and Tech, to say nothing of SMU and Baylor. Arkansas lost to Texas on the road, must still face the major contenders and others on the road. Houston has losses to Texas and Arkansas on the road, along with wins over A&M on the road, Baylor at home.

The Raiders are in good shape with only the lone loss to Texas. But they face a tough test in games against Houston (tonight), Arkansas, SMU and A&M on the road.

Mike Russell is a tower of strength, with Mike Edwards consistently strong and Kent Williams adding a lot to the attack. Geoff Huston has regained his form and looks better than ever, while Joe Baxter is relatively consistent and adds some needed height.

Officiating always comes in for comment each year and, at the half Saturday, a Tech fan stopped by and remarked to me that "he's got to be the worst official I ever saw."

"No," I answered, "he's just incapable of being completely impartial." "Thanks, Joe." I looked over my shoulder and there was Cliff Speegle, conference commissioner.

I don't know if Cliff had a conference with the officials at the half, but the second half was a different story.

This weekend, call both families for practically the price of one.

It's true! This weekend—and every weekend between 11 p.m. Friday and 5 p.m. Sunday—you can place two Long Distance calls for practically the price of one weekday evening call, when you dial the 1+ way.

For example, a 10-minute call to someone a thousand miles away weekday evenings (5 p.m. to 11 p.m., Sunday-Friday) would cost you $2.44, plus tax. Which, you'll admit, isn't bad.

But for practically the same price, you could make two eight-minute calls over the same distance... any weekend.

It's almost like getting one call free!

So this weekend, enjoy a couple of Long Distance calls. And make three families happy!

Long Distance.
What else is so nice for the price?

 Jacob learned this truth. (Genesis 23:15) God told him, "Behold I am with thee and I will keep thee in all places, whither thou goest. For I will not leave thee." No matter where Jacob turned, there was God.

So if you feel distant from God today, guess who moved!
 Spend the minute enjoying His presence and talking to him.

-Rev. A.L. Patrick
