Estacado Attends Speech Meet

Sixteen members of the Estacado Speech Team traveled to the Odessa Invitational Forensic meet this past weekend, bringing home high honors for Estacado.

Competing in debate, extemporaneous speaking, poetry, prose and humorous interpretation, the members were awarded ten first place and eight second place ratings in preliminary rounds. David Larry and Steve Worthey advanced undefeated to the semi-final rounds of debate. Tommy Jeffery was awarded a medal and trophy for first place in poetry interpretation. Willie Queenan was awarded medals for second place in prose reading and in humorous interpretation and was qualified for the Texas Forensic League State Meet, to be held in Austin later in the year. Sydney Perry won a medal in final competition for third place in poetry interpretation.

In overall points, Estacado won fourth place out of a field of twenty-four area schools. Estacado's speech instructor is Elizabeth Browning.

Scholarship Applications Being Taken

High school seniors interested in Army ROTC Scholarships should begin preparing applications now, according to Lt. Col. George T. Kimbro, professor of military science at Texas Tech University.

"About 700 full-tuition four-year scholarships will be awarded to students who enter college in the fall of 1978," Kimbro said.

The scholarships pay all tuition costs for four years, books, laboratory fees, plus an additional monthly allowance of $100 for up to 10 months of each school year, Kimbro said.

Kimbro said that with rising college costs, Army ROTC Scholarship could easily be worth more than $12,000 over the four-year period.

"That's a big financial burden for parents to have to assume and for most families this scholarship can be a big help," he said.

Students who apply for and receive an Army ROTC Scholarship must agree to serve at least four years of active duty as an Army officer upon graduation.

To be eligible for a scholarship, a student must be a United States citizen, be at least 17 years old by Oct. 1, 1978, and under 25 on June 30, 1982. He or she must also be able to pass a physical examination. Applicants should plan on entering college next fall and be able to finish by June 30, 1982.

Kimbro stressed that students should begin preparing applications soon.

The deadline for returning completed applications to the Army is Dec. 15, and applicants must take either Scholastic Aptitude Test or the American College Test no later than November to be considered.

Students interested in an Army ROTC Scholarship should see their counselor or write Army ROTC Scholarship, Fort Monroe, Va., 23651.

Those interested may also contact the Texas Tech Department of Military Science at (806) 742-2141 or 742-2142.

Presidential Popularity

by Richard L. Worsnop

There comes a time in every President's term of office when he must wonder if he is doing anything right. This appears to be such a time for President Carter. Political commentators complain that he is trying to do too much too soon. Members of Congress grumble about botched communications between Capitol Hill and the White House. The Jewish community condemns the administration's Middle East policy. And so it goes, day after day.

Public opinion polls are no source of encouragement, either. The most recent Gallup, Harris and NBC News polls all reported that the proportion of Americans who approve of the President's performance has slipped in recent months. According to the Gallup organization, 59 percent of the country now favors Carter's handling of his job, as against a high of 75 percent in March. The Gallup results also indicated that the proportion of people expressing "strong approval" of Carter fell from 42 to 24 percent between March and October.

If the current trend of public opinion continues into winter, Carter will become the fourth of the past seven Presidents to have lost popularity during their first year in office. Barring catastrophe, however, he will not fare as badly as Harry S. Truman, whose popularity rating plummeted from 87 to 43 percent in his first 12 months as President.

Nor is it likely that Carter or any of his successors will ever match the sustained popularity of Franklin D. Roosevelt. FDR's highest approval rating was 84 percent and his lowest, 54 percent. In his 12 years as President, Roosevelt's average rating was 68 percent.

Carter's recent troubles have been attributed in part to widespread confusion about his short-term intentions and long-range goals. In a critique of the President's economic policies, Business Week asserted that Carter "still acts like a man running for the presidency a full year after he was elected to the White House," adding: "The result is a constant shifting of position and emphasis that is tolerable in a candidate, but not in a President, and that has put the U.S. economy on the verge of serious trouble."

But some historians would argue that a President's freedom of action is quite limited and that his performance should be evaluated accordingly. In the words of Bert Cochran, a biographer of Truman, "The modern presidency is not primarily a machine for self-expression ... (A President) is part of an intricate governmental and extra-governmental machinery so that what he is and is not able to do is more dependent on circumstances, contingencies, and interactions than on personal exercises of wills and assertions."

Then, too, presidential performance is the subject of new scrutiny, "for the ... frustration and apathy aroused by Watergate have done much to dash and distort popular expectations of the presidency," wrote political scientist Thomas E. Cronin. The public seems more impatient for results than formerly, and less inclined to give the President the benefit of a doubt.

Still, some unexpected incident could send Carter's popularity soaring again. For instance, Gerald R. Ford's approval rating rose from 40 to 51 percent after the Mayaguez incident. This was one of the sharpest single increases on record, and all because of a naval rescue operation that will rate no more than a footnote in the history books.

Thanksgiving, 1977

Our American Thanksgiving dates officially from 1863 when the nation was locked in a sectional struggle. At that time Mrs. Sarah J. Hale, who had been proposing a national day of thanksgiving for decades in Boston and Philadelphia as a magazine editor, wrote to President Abraham Lincoln—who in October of 1863 issued the first Thanksgiving Proclamation.

There had been earlier thanksgiving days; some date the American observance to the days of the early settlers of the nation—who gave thanks for their food supply and the opportunity America offered. The first probably occurred in the Plymouth Colony in 1621.

There have also been observances in other lands but few countries had adopted annual thanksgiving days prior to the American observance.

Citizens Abroad Get
Little State Dept. Aid

By Jack Anderson
with Joe Spear

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON—We have reported in the past that the State Department has done a poor job of protecting Americans abroad. Hundreds of U.S. citizens are now serving time in pig-sty prisons from Bangkok to Bogota. They have appealed to the U.S. embassies for help. But all too often, our diplomats are too busy attending cocktail parties to worry about Americans in trouble.

We have obtained some State Department documents, intended for official eyes only, about a case in Jamaica. The documents tell about the misadventures of Michael Davidoff, a travel agency owner, from Potomac, Md.

Last month, he flew to Jamaica to scout the vacation spots. He paid a fee with a U.S. $100 bill. The Jamaicans accused him of passing counterfeit money because the bill did not contain the words "In God We Trust." The Jamaicans were wrong: the motto did not appear on $100 bills until 1969.

But before Davidoff knew what had happened, he found himself in a filthy, insect-infested country jail. He was permitted to call the U.S. embassy, where he spoke with a consular officer named Doris Wilmeth.

She told Davidoff that the Jamaican police were trained by the United States. So she accepted their word that the bill was counterfeit. But she promised to call him back. Davidoff never received the return call.

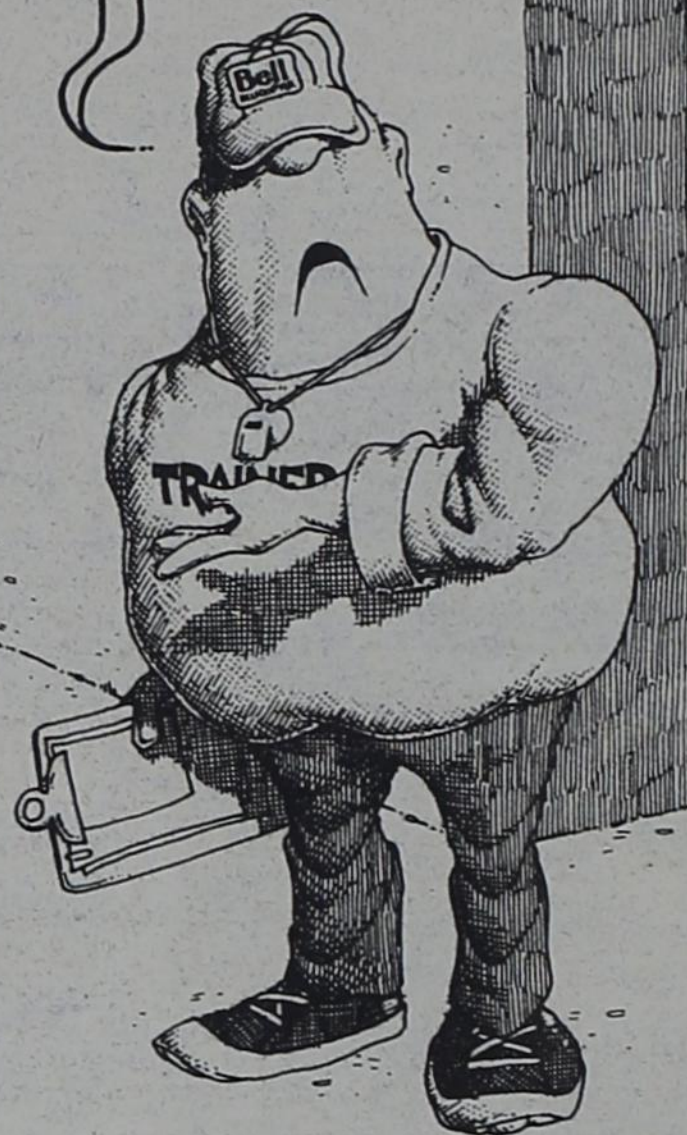

Davidoff's wife made repeated appeals for help to the American embassy - all in vain. For three days Davidoff was stuck in the unsanitary prison. He was offered swill, which he refused to eat.

Finally, his wife retained a Jamaican lawyer who advised Davidoff that the fastest way out of jail was to plead guilty. He paid a $500 fine and left Jamaica.

The State Department has since filed a note of protest with the Jamaican government. The affair, said the note, was a "miscarriage of justice." Davidoff's name should be cleared, the note added, and his fine and expenses returned.

The Jamaicans replied that miscarriage of justice had not occurred because Davidoff had pleaded guilty. A spokesman for the Jamaican embassy assured us, however, that the case is under review. If they establish that Davidoff's currency was not counterfeit, said the spokesman, they would "expunge the conviction," return his fine and reimburse his expenses.

LISTEN, IF THEY WANT T' LEARN
"HOW TO BOMB AND STRAFE ENTIRE VILLAGES INTO OBLIVION," WE'LL TEACH 'EM! WE DON'T ASK ABOUT A CUSTOMER'S POLITICS!

Meanwhile, the State Department's internal investigation indicates that the embassy in Jamaica is trying to lay all the blame on the consular officer. Actually, it was the higher embassy officials who refused to be bothered.

According to an official State Department handbook, "consular officers are obligated to serve their clients with dedicated professional enthusiasm." That's what the handbook says. All too often, it isn't what the consular officers do.

Dear Amy: Every day, the White House is hit by a blizzard of mail. Most of the letters, of course, are addressed to President Carter. But his daughter Amy receives a large share.

Ten-year-old Amy, with her pigtails and glasses, looks like everyone's kid sister. She has received over 42,000 letters since she moved into the White House. And they keep pouring in at the rate of three or four hundred a week.

Amy's admirers often send her small presents. One fan sent her a French book from Paris.

Of course, Amy doesn't have time to answer all her mail. She's too busy with homework. But she usually picks out four or five letters to answer personally each month.

The rest are processed by secretaries. Most are answered on picture postcards, which cost the White House 48 cents apiece. The postcards come in two varieties—one of Amy with her dog, the other of Amy and her cat.

The cat, incidentally, is Amy's favorite.

Future Leaders: Both the United States and the Soviet Union are secretly grooming black leaders to take over the last of Africa's white minority governments. This is part of an intense backstage struggle to influence the black leaders who eventually will control Rhodesia and south Africa.

Already, the Soviets are secretly training radical leaders to fight in the jungle. Most are refugees who have fled from South Africa. The Americans are also working behind the scenes with potential future leaders.

Headlines and Footnotes: The names of thousands of Americans have been given to junk mailers by none other than Uncle Sam. Applications for CB licenses, for example, are considered public documents, so the junk mailers simply copy them. . . There's a move afoot in Congress to make cigarette smuggling a federal offense. If the proposal passes, cigarettes would be taxed by the federal government instead of the states. . . Congress is quietly considering a proposal to discipline errant federal judges.

If it passes, a fury of federal judges would hear complaints against their peers. . . A special "bird squad" has been created to deal with some raucous starlings and blackbirds roosting in trees around the White House. Agents from the Department of the Interior are using a phonograph and a record of bird squawks in an effort to convince the birds to find another home.

Community Services Receives Grant

Governor Dolph Briscoe has announced approval of a $104,400 Community Services Administration grant to the City of Lubbock's Community Services Department in Lubbock.

The grant includes $17,890 for administration, and $86,510 for General Community Programming.

The grant is effective retroactively from Oct. 1, 1977, through Sept. 30, 1978, and is funded under Title II of the Head Start, Economic Opportunity, and Community Partnership Act of 1974.

Administration funds are being used to continue the ongoing management of the agency, to secure increased participation of the poor in planning for programs to alleviate their problems; to increase coordination with other community programs; and to increase the mobilization of resources to address poverty problems of the area.

General Community Programming funds are being used to continue the neighborhood center services which include outreach, employment and housing counseling, health care, budget counseling and other services; to provide transportation to a limited number of elderly and handicapped; and to increase the organization of neighborhood groups.

Grant processing and program liaison are through the Economic Opportunity Division of the Texas Department of Community Affairs.

Mount Vernon United Methodist Church Celebrates 52nd Anniversary

Mount Vernon United Methodist Church celebrates its 52nd Anniversary under the able leadership by Rev. Nathaniel Johnson.

The church was founded in 1925 in the C.M.E. Church then located on the corner of 17th Street and Avenue C. The Rev. C.V. Cavitt and ten members were present for the organization.

Later worship services were held in the school building where Prof. W.M. Wilson was principal. The group remained there for more than a year, and then moved into a Baptist Church for services. The congregation began to increase. Rev. Cavitt left and the church was without pastoral supervision.

In 1928, Rev. McCaully of the Presbyterian Church consented to supervise the flock under the direction of the Dist. Supt. Rev. S.E. Blacknell.

The first church lots were located on the corner of 21st and Birch Avenue. Later a frame building was constructed at a cost of $2,500, under the pastorate of Rev. S.N. Harvey. Rev. S.D. Mosley served as District Superintendent and the church was named for him, Mosley Chapel.

Rev. Harvey succeeded Rev. Hamilton after which the Annual Conference appointed Rev. J.W. U. Hutchinson to Lubbock. Rev. Hutchinson purchased the second piece of property on Cedar Avenue and 23rd Street. He built a small frame building and named the church the John Wesley Methodist Church. Rev. Hutchinson moved and then Rev. Fortson came to the church for one year. Mrs. Juanita Long, a local preacher, continued to work for the good of the church.

Rev. B.F. Lee built the third church in 1940 and the church was named Mount Vernon.

In 1958, Rev. Willis J. King appointed the Rev. M. T. Reed to Mount Vernon. It was under his leadership that the present church was built.

In April of 1965 on Wednesday before Easter, the Mount Vernon Church burned. For some time, we were without a place to worship.

The church has been a part of three Districts: The Dallas District, the San Antonio District and the Western District. The church has been under the supervision of six bishops, ten district superintendents, and 20 ministers.

All ministers served the church well and made contribution for the ongoing congregation. The first parsonage was purchased under Rev. T.R. Albert and Rev. C.D. Owens. The second, larger parsonage under Rev. C.D. Owens was built.

Preachers that have served are as follows:

Rev. Blacknell, Mrs. Blackmon, Mr. McCauley, Rev. Hamilton, Rev. Mackey, Rev. Fortson, Mrs. Juanita Long, and Rev. G.V. Cavitt.

The pastors assigned by the West Texas Conference are as follows:

Rev. Z.N. Beal, 1933-1934; Rev. I.C. Greer, 1934-35; Rev. J.W. Hutchinson, 1935-37; Rev. B.F. Lee, 1938-43; Rev. M.C. Stone, 1943-45; Rev. T.R. Albert, 1946-48; Rev. C.D. Owens, 1948-54; Rev. J.C. Loud, 1954-58; Rev. M.T. Reed, 1958-73.

In the early 70's, the Mount Vernon Church became the Mount Vernon United Methodist Church. Rev. Ralph G. Nathan, 1973-74; Rev. Joe H. Carter, 1974-75; and Rev. Nathaniel Johnson, present pastor.

A small group of praying people need not wait for an invitation from the pastor or for the rest of the congregation. They can band themselves together in prayer, and if they persist long enough and earnestly enough, they will set a church on fire. It is hard work, but the reward is wonderful.

Rootsearching

by Marleta Childs, C.G.

Our thanks to Mrs. Vina Lee Williams of Lubbock for sharing these family stories about her grandfather, Calvin Quigley, Lubbock's first permanent black settler.

Calvin Quigley, son of Henry Williams, was born in Austin, Texas in 1866. His father and grandparents had moved there from Logansburger, La. He had two brothers and sisters: Will, Seaburn, Moffy, and Mary. They remained in the southern part of Texas, near Cameron, Rockdale, Taylor, and LaGrange.

Quigley met and married Edna Williams in Austin. They became the parents of eight children including Annie, Willie, Ellie, James, Stella (who married James Johnson—they were Mrs. William's parents), and Fairbanks Quigley. They, too, settled in the southern and eastern part of Texas, around Austin, Terrell, Forney, and Dallas.

After leaving Austin, Quigley lived in Cleburne (Johnson County), Texas for a number of years. From 1912 to 1913, he resided in Fort Worth. Mr. A.M. Howard then asked Quigley to work as a cook in his Lubbock hotel. After working in Lubbock for a time, Quigley went back to Fort Worth. In 1914, however, he returned to Lubbock with W.L. Ellwood and became a permanent resident of the growing town.

Ellwood built Quigley a two-room house on the southwest corner of what is now 19th Street and University Avenue, and Quigley's family soon joined him there. At that time, this was well outside the town of Lubbock. The family remained there until 1916 when Quigley bought five acres of land located where the Tech Stadium now stands. Quigley also leased land from a Mr. Wynn for raising cattle and horses. In addition, Quigley raised hogs, chickens, ducks, and turkeys, which he sold to the townspeople, along with butter and eggs. Sometime during World War I, he became the first person to put a stalk of cotton in the ground in this area. His wife ran a laundry service, begun in 1916.

In 1924, Quigley moved to town, where he started working as a janitor for the Presbyterian Church. After twelve years, he began working in the hospital for Dr. Joel P. Oliver, the first Negro doctor in Lubbock. About the same time, Quigley moved to 1820 Avenue B, a common plank house of six rooms. (He lived there until his death in 1956). Later, Quigley worked for Rix Funeral Directors. He then retired briefly. But when Reese Air Force Base was first opened, he worked there as a bartender. After ten months, however, it was decided that he was getting too old for a job and had to retire.

The Quigleys were the only blacks in Lubbock until the arrival of Silas Johnson and his family. They were soon followed by the Johnny Green, Guy Cefes, and Mack Jameson families. As cotton became important in the area in the 1920's, many blacks began arriving. Although the Ku Klux Klan was active during this time, no one became discouraged enough to leave. Thus, the Lubbock black community continued to grow and has become a vital part of the city.

COMPETITION DOES MAKE THE DIFFERENCE

Did You Know . . .

- (1) That because LP&L, your electric company, exists in a competitive situation, you pay no connection fee or deposit when you "hook up" for electric service.
- (2) In most non-competitive markets, the deposit required for electric service ranges from $15 to $25.

In cities & towns where electric service is provided by a monopoly — you are required to make a "hook up" deposit. Yes, competition does make a difference.

KELLY'S HEROES

by Joe Kelly

Happy Thanksgiving!
It will be especially happy if Texas Tech beats old nemesis Arkansas. It would really climax a season that has seen the Raiders overcome more than their fair share of injuries.

Indeed, when the exploits of 1977 are written, they ought to be wrapped in gauze and then taped, because those have been the symbols of this season's team. And a concrete print of Rodney Allison's left leg ought to be put in the cornerstone of the new complex to be built in the north end zone.

Anyway, right now turkey is not as much on the minds of Tech as are the Razorbacks. Arkansas brings a good, solid team here, about the equal of Texas, actually.

Texas shut out Tech, but the score was no indication of the game. Allison tried, but he couldn't make a comeback against the Longhorns and the defense eventually tired. Still, Texas had its hands full and a healthy Allison could have made a big difference.

Assuming that Allison is healthy for Arkansas, the Razorbacks shouldn't be any prohibitive favorites. Oh, they will be favored, of course, based on comparative scores and their tight battle with Texas. But they may not have seen a defense yet equal to Tech.

Texas, even with Earl Campbell healthy, didn't blow the Raider defense apart. Indeed, the Raider defense did a strong job of stopping the Horns, who effectively scored through the air.

After the Rice game, Coach Steve Sloan observed that "I don't know how soon we'll be able to beat Texas, A&M and Arkansas in one year, as we did in 1976."

He was referring to the resurgence of both the Longhorns and Porkers, who came off identical 5-5-1 records in 1976. And for folks like the Horns and Porkers, that's a losing season. So far the campaign bears out Sloan. Both Texas and A&M have beaten the Raiders and here comes Arkansas.

Over the years the Raiders really haven't presented much of a challenge to Arkansas, which has a 16-4 edge. Only in the last four games has Tech been more equal, with a 2-2 split. This won't be the rubber game, but much lies on the outcome.

Lou Holtz has done a good job in turning the Porkers around, and he's been blessed with Ben Cowens as the answer to Campbell, and Ron Calcagni, a much better than average quarterback. It shapes up as an outstanding final game of the regular season.

Except for the A&M-Houston TV game, which will be more of an anti-climax than anything else, the slate is just about wiped clean in the Southwest Conference.

The big one will be Saturday, when Texas goes to College Station. If the Aggies think the home field will be an advantage, they haven't checked the SWC records. And their loss to Arkansas ought to have told them something—even if they couldn't call time.

Houston battles Rice in a fight for the city crown and the Cougars ought to romp in that one against an improving Owl eleven. The Coogs had a week off to get ready for the fray, a week that they probably used more to devote to beating A&M.

In the battle of the also-rans, Baylor winds up its season right where it started—in Waco. This time the results ought to be more enjoyable than the opener when Tech beat the Bears. RCU is the opposition.

When the Hall of Fame had a scout here what seems like weeks ago, he appeared to be more interested in handing out publicity about the bowl game and observing the Tech band. He may well have been well versed in football, but his interest was the band.

At the half he remarked that he had told a musician friend he was coming to Lubbock to see Tech and this friend told him he was in for a treat, that he was going to see one of the nation's finest collegiate bands.

He was entranced before the game. At the half he watched intently as the Goin' Band snaked in and out in its usual gyrations and then remarked:

"Boy! Wouldn't they be a great attraction for any bowl!"

There was no comment about the football team and there really wasn't much that he could say. The Raiders hadn't looked good the first half, as was so often true this season. It's another story now.

Hardly will the football cheers have died on the soft South Plains air than Coach Gerald Myers and Company unveil the 1977-78 basketball Raiders. And it's liable to be some show.

Tech finished third in the conference last year, behind Arkansas and Houston. There really wasn't that much difference in the three teams and the Raiders will be trying to return to the top spot. They apparently have a wealth of material with which to fight.

Coach Sloan's observation about Sterling City, home of sophomore linebacker Jeff Copeland: "They really had a problem with lights for night games, but they solved it. They drove their cars up to the edge of the field and left their lights on!"

Coronado Drama Department Has Major Production

Rehearsals are underway for Coronado High School drama department's major production "You Can't Take It With You" to be performed December 1, 2 and 3 at 7:30 p.m. in the CHS auditorium.

Directed by Mr. Joe Reynolds, this Kaufman and Hart comedy revolves around the zany life of the Vanderhof household.

Members of the cast include Ann Alford, Joan-Carol Baron, Melissa Brannon, David Carlock, Jim Davis, Karol Kreneck, Kevin Kreneck, Polly Maynard, Steven Skibell, Tim Hayes, Kelly Locker, Mark Hobgood, Scott Johnson, Noel Wiggins, Kelly Kirelis, Kim Harper, Jesse Harrison, Mary Mooney, and Sharin Salzer.

The play deals with materialism and idealism and the conflicts that arise at their confrontation. "You Can't Take It With You" opened at the Booth Theater in New York in 1936, and will be staged in the round. Tickets are $1.00 for students and $1.50 for adults.

Lunch Bunch to Hear "Tails of Africa"

Avalene Barron will be the next Lunch Bunch speaker with a program entitled "Tails of Africa," on Tuesday, November 29. Mrs. Barron took the animal pictures on a visit to the countries of Tanzania, Kenya and Uganda in 1970 and 1972.

Lunch Bunch meets each Tuesday from 12:15-12:45 in the Mahon Community Room of the Lubbock City-County Library. Coffee is furnished by the library, and the public is invited to bring a sack lunch and enjoy the free program.

Psychologists say a sign of maturity is the ability to accept unfortunate occurrences and to be able to seek and accept help in dealing with them.

For a different problem, lice, which is also more common than many people realize, a good place to seek help is the pharmacist: an expert with all the facts on remedies such as A-200 Pyrinate, and on disinfecting hair, clothing and furniture.

"Sleeping at a Dangerous Time," was the title of the message delivered by Rev. Larry Josey on Sunday morning. His scripture was taken from St. Matthew 26th chapter, 36 verse.

We had 11 persons to come to unite with our family in God. Some were candidates for baptism, and the others came by Christian experience. We truly feel that God has indeed blessed us by sending these brothers and sisters to us. I'm sure each and everyone will make them feel welcome.

December 18, 1977 has been set for our pastor and wife Appreciation Day. We are asking all members to give your support. Let's make this a big event.

Joint evening worship services will be held Sunday, Dec. 4th at 7:00 p.m. at Bethel A.M.E. Church; let us all make plans to go.

On Dec. 3rd at 7:30 p.m., Saturday night, Jubilee will be held at the church, featuring choirs from over the city. Come one, come all, and help make this a festive occasion.

All NAACP members are encouraged to renew your current membership. This organization will only be as strong as you make it. Get involved in your community. Join the NAACP today.

Let us remember to pray for our sick and shut in members of the church and community.

Mrs. Ray Williams

Congratulations

Congratulations!! Mr. and Mrs. Ray Williams on the birth of your second son, Marey Larey Williams, born Sunday, November 13, 1977. Mrs. Ray (Shirley) shown here was honored with a baby shower Saturday, October 29 in her home at 1814 East Second Street. Hostess for the shower were Ms. Glenda Sims, Mrs. Ray's sister, and Mrs. Bobby Reddic. Ms. Williams is a member of New Hope Baptist Church and president of the Angelic Choir.

Quick Quiz!

How's your head for colds? Take this quiz and see how much you know about what gives one out of two Americans misery every year.

1. There are three waves of cold infection each year. True or false?
2. Americans spend more than $750 million a year for cough and cold preparations. True or false?
3. It takes between 18 and 48 hours for most colds to get started. True or false?

ANSWERS: 1. True. The waves occur after the opening of schools in September, in mid-winter, and in spring. 2. True. Approximately 24 percent of Americans use cough tablets—and almost half of these people turn to Halls Cough Tablets for relief of minor throat irritation and coughs due to colds and allergies. 3. True. During this short incubation period the first sign of a cold is usually a dry, scratchy or tingling sensation in the throat or nose.

The cash register was invented in 1879 by James J. Ritty.

Any achievement worthwhile is the result of steady and usually slow progress.

Sheridan's Ride

by Jack Sheridan

One of the principal horrors of writing for the public print is that you will goof! That means that you will cite something that years ago lodged in your memory as fact and was erroneous and only recognizable when it appears, too late to correct, in cold type.

I cite the recent boo-boo by Avalanche-Journal columnist Jay Harris who got Morocco and Algiers all tangled up and, in correcting himself, compounded the felony by a further fall out of memory.

So, while I have made my share, (Harris, we all do—we're too lazy and negligent to check), I am also delighted to uncover the sliding mind elsewhere.

Two examples this past week in the performing arts have brought forth grunts of satisfaction from me silently, but also proves that we are not yet the Metro city that the Chamber of Commerce would have us believe.

Monday night's (Nov. 14) Lubbock Symphony Concert was a whirlwind triumph. The orchestra has never been better in its more than 30 years existence and all credit due to the founder-conductor William A. Harrod and his personnel.

They did their orchestral numbers with flair and elegance and they certainly outshine themselves in a delicate, beautiful reading of "The Afternoon of a Faun" by Debussy. Point One: "Faun" was spelled in the Metro City as "Fawn" on the program. But here the exquisite work of Margaret Redcay as the flautist and Orlan Thomas on the oboe made it an ethereal moment. So, it may be "Fawn" (a little deer) or "Faun" (a satyr elsewhere), who cares? It was delightful.

The orchestra under the tall and increasingly handsome Harrod (how do Audrey and Bill Harrod get better looking all the time when the rest of us are going downhill?). Well, the orchestra was just great! They did the Saint-Saens Bacchanale from "Samson and Delilah" with all the fervent profane sexuality, and they did a lyrical "Moldau", the country sketches of his native land by Smetana.

Then came the "Fawn" and after that, before intermission was "1812" Overture Solennelle (do want to know what that word means!) Well, you know "1812". We didn't have cannons a la Arthur Fiedler to finish the thing off, but we had everything else. And, praise heaven, we had Ron Dyer, that good-looking, drum-beating man, on the percussion. He now stands on an upraised dias and nobody in the whole audience can take his eyes away from this fantastic performer. He's something to see, and hear, believe me. He's fantastic.

And so the evening moved into the second half of the program. This was devoted entirely to the Lubbock debut at the piano of the recent (within weeks) bow of the young Soviet musician Alexander Toradze. He is 25 years of age and virtually an unknown in this country. He speaks little English but, then, music is the language that bridges the worlds.

Toradze chose the Prokofiev Concerto No. 3 for his prime spot. This is a work that, debatably of merit, is nonetheless a bravura piece, with flaming arpeggios and cadenzas to make a Cliburn druel, but our young Russian as more than a master to the occasion. His hands flew, so fast that they blurred in my vision from the fifth row, and, when he finished the third movement in a burst of skyrockets, he brought the full house to their feet simultaneously. I don't mean the kind of ovation sparked by a lone idiot clapping but a genuine feeling that something has been heard, experienced and shared. He was truly wonderful.

You know, his attitude at the piano was interesting. He's a "fly gallery observer" for his inspiration." You know what I mean? Well, Alexander Toradze has moments, of course, when the orchestra is building the bridges in his piano participation, and so Alexander gazes upwards into the recesses of the Civic Center backstage, wherein, I assume, he draws his inspiration.

Just a joke, on the local level. Believe me, there is no joke about Alexander Toradze. We shall be hearing of his climb to international acclaim and the Lubbock Symphony Orchestra and its supporters will be able to say, and rightfully so, "I was there."

The other "cultural event" that I managed to sandwich in with my drill press operations during the week was the Lubbock Theatre Centre production of "Life with Father."

This was strictly a family affair, open to the young and old alike. It is pre-permissive era fare and if one was amused by father's resistance to baptism, to his somewhat trying four sons, a somewhat crafty but sappy mother, and some stylized progression of maids, then it came off very well.

The cast, headed by David Yirak as Father (toned down in that small house), Pamela Brown as a delightful Vinne, the four kids, (not as red-haired as in the original conception) and the assorted players.

It was a calm, humorous, gentle excursion into a past era no longer known.

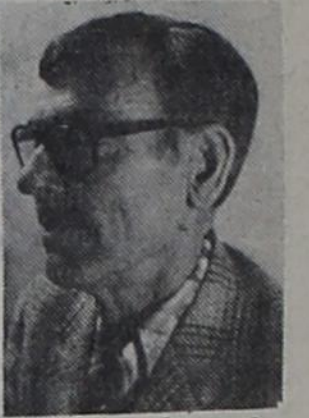

Mrs. Elms' direction was sharp and knowing, the setting was somewhat shabby for a one-set play and the whole production was an adequate entry into the long list of adventuresome projects that have graced the Playhouse at 25th and Ave. P.

Well, to conclude this item. I started out Saturday afternoon for the Fox Theater complex to see the new Al Pacino movie, "Bobby Deerfield."

So, I got on the Melonie Park bus (down 19th St.) to downtown where I would catch the Slide Road-Mall bus to get off at Memphis and hike the rest of the way to the theater.

Not so! The bus driver, (he was in sight as Ave. J and Broadway starting point) until 10 minutes after his time. I was at Broadway and Ave. M waiting for him, and the timing went off; I missed the start of the film (something I cannot abide) and so we'll have to talk about that one later on.

They publish all this blah about selling T-Shirts with Citibus and all on them to stimulate business for the facility and they forget that clean windows, prompt adherence to schedules, the prohibition of drivers to stop bus runs to go into grocery stores along the way to get Cokes and what not, to tune the bus radios loud into raucous rock 'n' roll music, to the patrons' discomfort, is what its all about. I like 'em; I deplore the cursory approach to what is sniggeringly called "the Metro approach." There's an answer for that and it requires a shovel.

Bill Cosby's Piece of the Action

New York, N.Y.—“Who is Bill Cosby ... a comedian who teaches us about life, or a teacher who makes us laugh at it?” In the December issue of ESSENCE magazine, writer Alan Ebert reconciles Cosby the scholar with Cosby the comedian.

The emotionally guarded Mr. Cosby has become a legend in his own lifetime. And like his “brothers” Sidney Poitier and Harry Belafonte, he has wrapped himself in secrecy from the press. Mr. Ebert writes “To understand this man, one must not only listen to what he says, but to what he does not say. Control is the name of his game.”

Talking about his starring role in the “I Spy” series, Cosby says, “Because I was the first Black to have his own series, the network and the advertisers were nervous about how I should act on camera and off. I was not supposed to be anything other than what they wanted a Black man to be at that time ... I had to dress and talk like ‘them,’ or I was considered uneducated. But if I dressed or spoke too well, as in better than, then I was threatening and that was no good.”

The success of “Spy” made Cosby a star. And the star lived like one. Cosby doesn't deny he “went Hollywood.” “Why not?” he says. “When you first enter this business, you want to be famous, want to be rich. You enjoy that first success when people are grabbing at you. They make a god out of you and that's heady stuff. Well, if you don't straighten out your head, things get difficult to handle and you can get pretty messed up.”

Cosby the survivor rebelled. He split with his manager of many years; took control of his own business holdings and moved back East with his family.

His business currently finds him acting, for very large sums of money as the TV and print spokesman for Ford, Del Monte and General Foods. He meets corporations and their executives on their own ground. “In this country,” claims Mr. Cosby, “business is conducted in white English. You don't ‘get down’ when talking with the chairman of the board ... you don't punctuate every sentence that makes sense with a ‘right on’ — not unless you want to be right out ... on your ass.”

His current “heaven on earth” includes a 135-year-old farmhouse outside of Amherst, Mass., where he resides with his wife Camille and his children Erinn, Erika, Ennis, Ensa and Even. This past July, Bill Cosby became Dr. William Henry Cosby, the result of seven years of study in the field of education at the University of Massachusetts. Cosby says about his new life, “Now I've got a whole bunch of stuff going on in my life. ‘A Piece of the Action’ is out there ... My life is very good. I made it all work for me and I am proud.”

To the ancient Iroquois Indians, corn was “queen”—being the most important of three life-sustaining sisters; corn, beans and squash.

Ringling the Bell ...

with Bob Tieuel

The Black Experience in the Southwest: President M.K. Curry, Jr. of Bishop College has announced the award of a substantial grant to the College's Southwest Research Center and Museum for the study of African-American Life and Culture by the National Endowment for the Humanities. The purpose of the first grant (others expected to follow) is to provide the Research Center with assistance in launching a bibliographic survey of historical research materials documenting the history and current status of Blacks in the southwestern United States.

Under the direction of Dr. Harry Robinson, Jr., librarian of the College, the survey staff will identify, locate, and describe significant material in the area. These materials will include manuscripts and collections of personal papers, organizational records, scrapbooks; clipping files, rare and out-of-print books, periodicals and newspapers, as well as recordings, photographs and other memorabilia which may have been collected and preserved by organizations and individuals over the years.

Data describing the materials will be compiled by the survey staff and incorporated into a master data base at the Southwest Research Center. The Center will then serve as a clearinghouse for students, scholars and other researchers seeking information on the existence and availability of resource material in the region. The survey is targeted to include all of the states of Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, and Arizona.

Unlike in the East or the deep South, in the Southwest there are no major research centers, museums, oral history efforts, or well-established programs concerned primarily with documenting the Afro-American experience.

In order to carry out its objective, the Research Center has named contact persons in each of the pilot project target areas, who will assist the staff in locating resources and gathering information for the data base.

Anyone who would be interested in participating in the survey or who might have information which might be useful for the staff should contact: Dr. Harry Robinson Jr., Librarian, Bishop College, Dallas, Texas 75241.

Recent Notable Quotes: “Oklahoma would not have had a football team worthy of the name had they not recruited black boys by the droves from off the farms and small towns down in Texas to play football at OU. The screaming rabble who make the weekly pilgrimage to Own field to cheer on the Big Red surely know that there are a lot of white boys still down on the farm or playing ball for some Junior College whose grades were superior to the black boys. So were they discriminated against simply because they couldn't run the hundred yard dash in 5.4? And what does running the hundred yard dash have to do with test scores? There are a host of other factors which help determine who gets into college and not the least of these is money, political connection, social status, and geography.” End of quote from black-oriented Oklahoma Eagle.

Black leaders from every part of the Permian Basin (West Texas and S.E. new Mexico) will meet on Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 11 and 12, 1978, to discuss and seek answers to the problems which perplex and affect the lives of black people everywhere. The theme: “Reshaping Public Policy for the Survival of Our Communities” will be considered from the angles of education, employment, legislation, crime, the courts, housing and community development.

This tenth annual conference and Black History Tea will be held in Hobbs, New Mexico, according to executive director of the observation and will probably draw together more black leaders from the region than any of former years, according to pre-registration forms. It is being sponsored as usual by the Permian Basin Black History Committee and in cooperation with the Lane Chapel C.M.E. Church of Hobbs that will host the two day session.

The Conference-Tea will consist of a series of speakers and workshops dealing in issues that affect the black community directly and in general, the whole community.

Stated Director Tieuel, this conference-tea was first formed in 1967 in Odessa, Texas and has been held there and in Midland and in Hobbs for the past three years. “We are an umbrella organization, not looking for an utopian unity, but uniting with our common interest in mind,” the director added. Rev. H.R. Johnson, pastor of Lane Chapel Church will serve as co-host, it was reported.

The soda fountain was invented by an American, John Matthews, in 1832.
