Crocketts Honored in 50th Year

More than 50 persons were on hand at Christ Temple last Saturday to honor Bro. and Sis. David Crockett Sr., for 50 years of service in Sunday School.

When the couple came to Lubbock in 1927 there was no church established in the Black community.

Therefore, they undertook the task of organizing some type of service. They held their first services four miles west of Lubbock.

From 1927 to about 1929, the Crocketts rented several buildings in which to hold services. And in 1929 Bro. Crockett purchased a lot on Ash Avenue and built a small building. However, they did not remain there long and soon moved again.

Finally, in 1943, Bro. Crockett purchased another lot on the corner of 2411 Fir Avenue.

It was there that he and his wife built the Church of God in Christ Number Two. However, we now know it as Christ Temple.

Bro. Crockett was named the first Superintendent of the Black community under the pastorship of the Rev. C.C. Carven.

Juvenile Justice: The Human Dimension

November 3 and 4 have been scheduled for a unique public seminar in juvenile justice to be held at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center. Through a grant from the Texas Committee for the Humanities and Public Policy, the Junior League of Lubbock will sponsor "Juvenile Justice: The Human Dimension." This seminar is designed for persons who make and implement public policy as well as for the general public. It is an opportunity for those who are interested in the quality of the juvenile justice system to consider the impact of the choices available to us and to reflect on the value and humanness of our decisions.

Law enforcement officers, judges and corrections directors will give their thoughts, their experiences, their insights into the systems that affect the young criminal offender.

This seminar will bring together representatives of all branches of the system and a variety of service agencies.

The Seminar will begin on Thursday evening, November 3 at 5:00 p.m., with registration at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

There is no charge for attendance at the Seminar since it is being made possible by a grant from the Texas Committee for the Humanities and Public Policy.

The only expenses incurred by the participants will be for meals: dinner on Thursday evening will be $8, and lunch on Friday will be $6.

The Thursday evening session will consist of dinner and overview presentations concerning the courts, corrections and law enforcement.

Friday's session will be a full day schedule from 9:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., highlighted by an opening address by William Lucas and a noon address by Warren Rhodes.

On Thursday evening, November 3, three prominent authorities in the field of juvenile justice will give an overview of three areas that the Seminar will focus on: law enforcement, courts, and corrections.

Robert F. Leonard will give the law enforcement overview. He is the current President of the National Association of District Attorneys as well as the prosecuting attorney for Flint, Michigan.

The courts overview will be given by the Honorable Enrique Pena, Judge of the Domestic Relations Court, the designated Juvenile Court of El Paso.

Mr. Pena is an instructor of Juvenile Law and Procedure at the University of El Paso. He is also on the Board of Trustees of the National Council of Juvenile Court Judges, as well as a member of the Advisory Council of the Texas Juvenile Corrections Masterplan.

The correction overview will be given by Allen F. Breed of Washington, D.C. Mr. Breed is a national authority in the field of juvenile and criminal justice.

He is currently a Visiting Fellow, United States Department of Justice in the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention. He was formerly the Director of the California Department of Youth Authority and Chairman of the Youth Authority Board.

"Shenandoah" Presented

The double-award winning musical "Shenandoah" will be presented by the Lubbock Christian College drama department on two consecutive weekends, November 4, 5, 11, and 12. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. each evening except on the 12th when it will be at 7:30 p.m. All performances will be in Moody Auditorium on the LCC campus.

For tickets and information call LCC, 792-3221.

Bro. David Crockett Sr., Sunday School Superintendent of Christ Temple, receives a plaque from Bishop W.D. Haynes for 50 years of service in the Sunday School.

Tommie Gant Wins Trip

Tommie Gant

Sis. Tommie Gant, a member of Hope Deliverance Temple, will spend Nov. 8-11 in Memphis, Tennessee.

Last Sunday, Sis. Gant was named the winner of an all-expense paid trip to Memphis to attend the Seventieth Annual Holy Convocation of the Church of God in Christ.

Sis. Gant, leader of tribe IV, won the trip by raising more than $1,200. She competed against six other tribal leaders for the trip.

The Convention Bureau of the City of Memphis reports that the Holy Convocation is the largest gathering to ever be recorded in the history of the city.

More than 15,000 persons are expected to attend.

Homecoming Planned At Tech

Homecoming activities at Texas Tech University begin Friday, Nov. 4 at 7 p.m.

The Student Organization for Black Unity is sponsoring a Homecoming Banquet at St. Luke Baptist Church. The banquet will get underway at 7 p.m.

Rob Evans, a Texas Tech basketball coach, will be guest speaker for the event. Admission is $1.50.

Saturday at 7:30 p.m. Alpha Kappa Alpha Fraternity will present a stomp show in the Coronado Room of the University Center. A Homecoming party will be held immediately following the stomp show.

All Tech students, exes and the public are invited to attend.

Cooperative Office Education Has Employer Appreciation Banquet

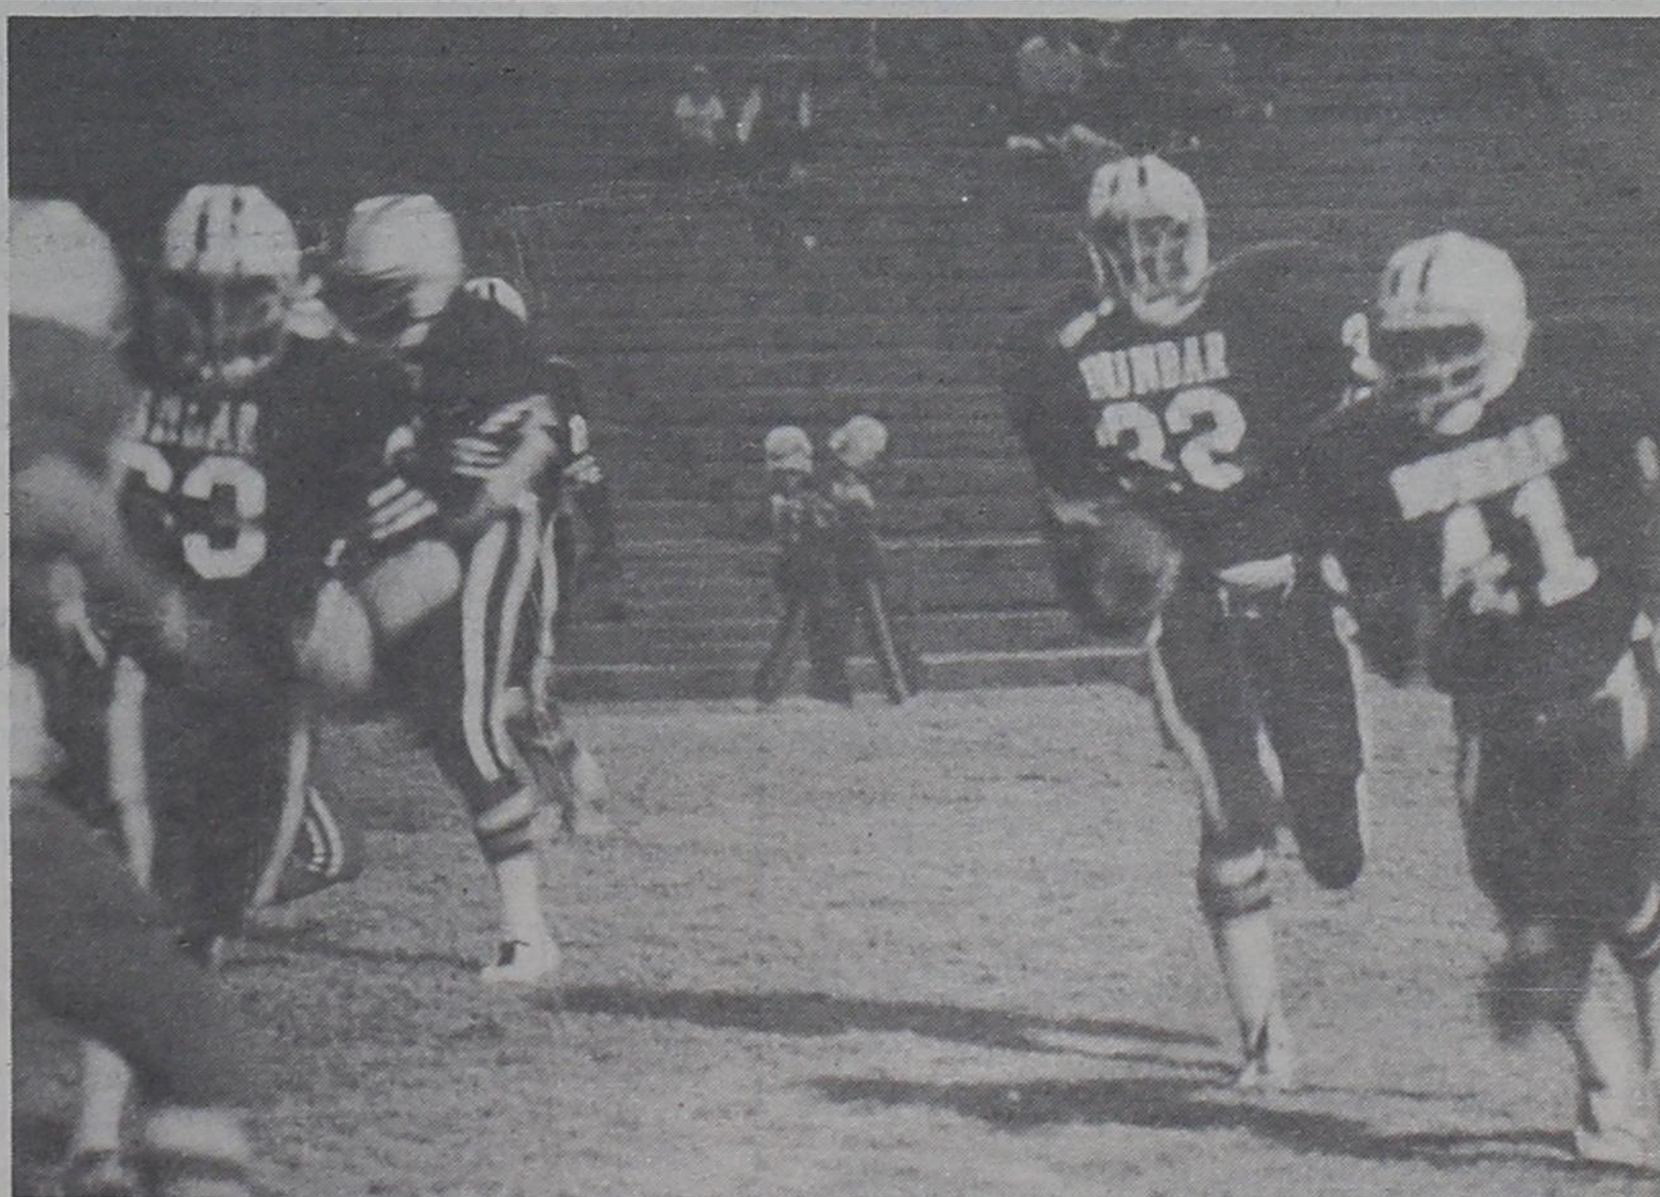

The annual Cooperative Office Education (COE) Employer Appreciation Banquet will be held at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, November 8, in the Coronado High School Cafeteria. The purpose of the banquet is to honor and to thank the employers of students who are enrolled in COE in the five Lubbock high schools.

Approximately 300 employers, students, teachers, and administrators will attend. The banquet theme and setting will be "A Bountiful Harvest—Our Employers."

Entertainment will be presented by selected students from the five COE programs. Also, a Lubbock High School quartet of choral students will perform.

The United Fund

There are many advantages in giving to the United Fund. First, the combining of many separate charity drives saves donors and solicitors much time. Second, one knows his money is carefully used, and charities screened, in giving to the United Fund.

Most important of all, money is handled by local people. Too many far-off sentimental gifts, mailed away, are not properly accounted for, nor does the donor know how much of his money goes to the organization's expenses and how much to actual charity.

Those who remember being assailed on all sides, almost every week, by this or that charity, appreciate the United Fund. Give generously to many good causes, and one combined organization, which saves your time, this season.

Coffee-How Much?

How much caffeine does one consume drinking various kinds of coffee? Is coffee harmful, and what about decaffeinated coffee?

Dr. H.L. Herschensohn, writing in Grit, offers some facts. Coffee contains caffeine, of course, and it often makes the drinker's heart beat faster. Measured in milligrams, Dr. Herschensohn says a five ounce cup of drip, vacuum boiled or perculator coffee contains from 90 to 120 milligrams of caffeine.

Instant coffee contains less—about 66 to 74 milligrams of caffeine. Ground decaffeinated coffee contains only 2 to 6 milligrams and instant decaffeinated only 1 to 3 milligrams.

Caffeine raises the sugar level of the blood, it stimulates the production of acid in the stomach (those with ulcers should not drink it) and it keeps the kidneys busy. How much one drinks, and what kind, must depend on the drinker's condition. But six or eight cups of coffee a day, especially brewed coffee, is quite a stimulant. The same number of normal cups of tea (less caffeine) might or might not be preferable.

GOP Comeback

Much is written these days about a comeback by the Republican Party. A comeback indeed seems more possible now than six months ago. But with its membership down to but one in four or five of the electorate, the Republican Party is faced with a formidable task.

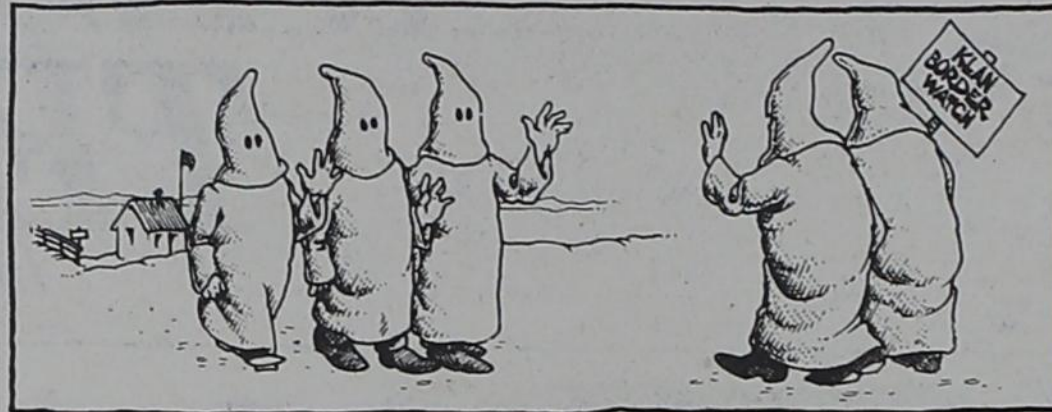

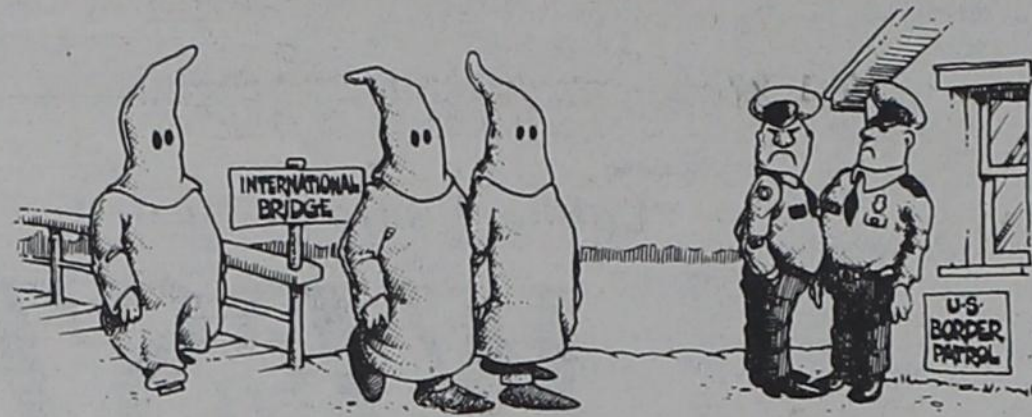

President Carter might help. Any Administration alienates some segments of the electorate. Carter has faltered on several fronts but lately he seems to be trying hard to reach meaningful agreements with Russia and make up for early lapses. It is, therefore, too early for Republicans to depend heavily upon disenchantment with this Administration.

It's true, nevertheless, that President Carter is vulnerable on several fronts. He has not reduced the bureaucracy, but enlarged it. The economy has slowed in recent months, even as new figures show that former President Ford's last year in office saw workers' income rise faster than living costs. So 1976 was actually a good year for the U.S. worker, a Ford year.

The President's farm policies have irritated western farmers. His attempt to stand up to Israel (and U.S. Jewish groups behind Israel) has alienated powerful Jewish leaders. His energy program has bogged down into confusion. His tax reform program now holds greater promise for public support.

Carter's decision to cancel the B-1 was, at the least, controversial. His welfare proposals are suspect as being highly costly, and he had pledged they would not escalate costs. His Panama Canal ratification campaign is an "iffy" popularity proposition. The Republicans do have issues.

What the G.O.P. must have, in exploiting this situation, are young, aggressive, positive-thinking leaders who offer constructive alternatives. If the party turns to the narrow, highly-conservative wing, in an idealistic kick, victory at the polls in 1980 is unlikely. But with a moderate party program, with human and social considerations taken into account, and utilizing Gerald Ford and Nelson Rockefeller, the party could stage a comeback, if for no other reason than the complexity of the times and problems confronting the nation.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

We would like to thank you so very much for allowing us this little space to thank our pastor, church members, friends and neighbors for turning out and showing such a warm attitude toward us for our labor and service. But most of all we would like to thank them for their prayers.

JACK ANDERSON'S WEEKLY SPECIAL

Bell Won't Ease Up on Helms

by Jack Anderson with Joe Spear

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
WASHINGTON — We previously reported that the Justice Department was preparing to indict former CIA chief Richard Helms. The case against him grew out of a story we broke in 1972.

We reported at that time that the CIA had worked with the International Telephone and Telegraph company to block Chilean President Salvador Allende from taking office. Both the CIA and ITT denied the story. It took a Senate investigation to get the facts out.

Now a grand jury has recommended multiple-county indictments against Helms for misinforming the Senate.

But people in high places have brought tremendous pressure on Attorney General Griffin Bell to drop the case against Helms. They fear Helms may be forced to divulge national secrets in order to defend himself.

This could cause incalculable damage. Foreign intelligence services may also stop cooperating with the CIA if a CIA director can be compelled to divulge confidences in open court.

But the attorney general believes he has figured out a way to protect the national interest. He would present any sensitive evidence to the judge in secret. The judge would hear all the arguments for and against revealing the evidence. Then the Justice Department, of course, would abide by the judge's ruling.

The conscientious Griffin Bell believes CIA officials must be subject to the law. They cannot be excused from trial, he believes, on national security grounds. This would mean that CIA agents could break the law whenever they pleased, without any worry about facing trial.

Bell will consult with President Carter, however, before making the final decision whether to bring Richard Helms to trial.

Uneasy Peace: Two weeks ago, we told the backstage story of the Senate filibuster over natural gas prices. We reported that two Democratic senators, James Abourezk of South Dakota and Howard Metzenbaum of Ohio, were quietly urged by the White House to keep talking.

Then the White House double-crossed them and helped to break the filibuster. We reported that both senators were furious. Abourezk even called President Carter a liar.

Now we have a sequel to the story. Carter invited the two ruffled lawmakers to the White House to smoke the peace pipe with him. The president apologized to the senators. He was warm and complimentary. Officially, the hatchet was buried.

But privately, Abourezk and Metzenbaum still have their hackles up. They have confided to other senators that they're still "wary" of the White House. Several senators, in turn, offered to support Abourezk if he should decide to start another filibuster.

Biggest Threat: A prestigious Washington think tank called Worldwatch has isolated what they consider the greatest threat to our national security.

The study hasn't yet been released to the public. But we can reveal that it does not list Soviet missiles and H-bombs as our greatest menace.

The biggest danger, according to the study, is the oil shortage. We are running out of oil and we're not developing alternate energy sources.

We also have more to fear from pollution, the study claims, than from Soviet planes and ships. Yet little is being done, the study warns, about these most serious threats to our national security.

Diplomatic Pipeline: The Chinese communists have quietly kept up their contacts with ex-President Richard Nixon at San Clemente. The top Chinese diplomat in this country, Ambassador Huang Chen, has told us he is in regular touch with Nixon. He said the Chinese don't forget their friends. They will always be grateful to Nixon, Huan said, for re-establishing Chinese-American relations.

The Chinese won't drop Nixon, therefore, just because he has fallen from power. Huang said he still visits the former president on the West Coast.

— The State Department was dismayed by South Africa's crackdown on black newspapers and organizations. Our inside sources say the United States will reconsider its relationship with South Africa.

Several moves are under discussion to dramatize America's displeasure. First, the State Department may discourage U.S. investment in South Africa. Then if the situation worsens, the United States might actually impose a trade boycott. The State Department may also reduce the size of the U.S. embassy in Johannesburg, or permanently withdraw the U.S. ambassador.

Headlines and Footnotes: The public will soon be paying a bit more for pesticides and pest sprays. The Environmental Protection Agency wants to equip the products with child-proof safety caps, similar to those now used on aspirin bottles. Prices will go up, as a result, about a nickel a can ... President Carter's top female aid, Midge Constanza has infuriated fellow bureaucrats with her high-handed ways. They say she has a habit of writing angry letters about women's rights and then releasing them before the recipient has a chance to answer ... Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., wouldn't accept the official word on the noise level of the supersonic Concorde airplane. He drove out to Washington's Dulles Airport to listen to the Concord for himself.

VANNELLI CONCERT RESCHEDULED—The Gino Vannelli concert, originally scheduled for Friday night in the Civic Center exhibition hall, has been postponed due to equipment delays. The concert has been rescheduled for Nov. 3 in the Lubbock Coliseum. Sources within the Vannelli organization have revealed the popular singer canceled one of his Houston appearances to keep from canceling the Lubbock date completely. Tickets will still be sold on a reserved seat basis. Those already holding tickets for the Civic Center show should go to the Coliseum box office to exchange their Civic Center tickets for comparable Coliseum tickets. Coliseum tickets have been pulled to compensate for the early buyers' getting the same choice locations. A separate booth will be set up at the Coliseum the night of the concert to handle exchanges. Ticket holders who cannot make the Nov. 3 show have until 5 p.m. Nov. 2 to return their tickets to the Coliseum box office for a full refund.

KELLY'S HEROES

By JOE KELLY

Those splashes you heard about 4:30 p.m. Saturday were the fair weather friends of Texas Tech. They were leaving a ship that had floundered badly in the biggest game of the year.

Who needs 'em? The Tech program is sound. The Raiders will come back. And one game doesn't make a season. It's highly disappointing, of course, because there will be no Cotton Bowl trip in 1978, no conference championship, little glory.

What we all had believed, but had been afraid to say too loudly, was that the Raider offense was lacking. And not all of that was due to the absence of Rodney Allison. Sure, he might well have made a difference, but not that much.

After all, last year the Raiders had Allison and lost to Houston. They had him and lost to Nebraska. No, it goes deeper than the quarterback. It goes back to execution.

Watching a pre-season workout with Ed Irons and Tim Hatch, I mentioned that the disturbing thing was that Tech didn't seem to have any continuity in its offense. As the season progressed it was more and more apparent that it was missing.

The Raiders outmuscled Baylor in their opener, but the offense didn't shine. It finally got untracked against New Mexico after a poor first half. It didn't really go against A&M.

North Carolina fell in a defensive struggle and it failed badly against Arizona when it had to settle for field goals. It slumbered against Rice, until the defense woke it up.

So, you could hardly be surprised when Texas shut the offense down thoroughly, except for a brief spurt in the second quarter. The running game did little and the passing attack was weak. The Owls said that, if Tech could come up with a passing attack, it could make the Texas game interesting.

A really good team isn't guilty of the number of mistakes the Raiders made against Texas, and those mistakes numbered many penalties that gave the Longhorns life and robbed Tech of opportunities.

Meanwhile, the Steers were almost flawless. They obviously blocked well and, while the Tech defense performed superbly again, the amount of time it spent on the field eventually took its toll. It gradually weakened.

What's in store for the Raiders? They have four games left and they must be considered critical now. TCU is coming on, while SMU obviously is putting it altogether. Houston stumbled, is coming on strong and Arkansas remains only once beaten.

The Raiders are out of the conference race, but they still have a chance to go to a bowl—if they can come up with an offense. Bowls are not interested in teams that can't score.

Maybe this is the lull before the storm. Maybe Tech will go back to fundamentals, as Arkansas did successfully one year. Frank Broyles, after a losing start, scrapped his frills and went back to basics. The Razorbacks started winning and didn't stop.

It's ironic to note that this was the first shut-out in 66 games. It's even more ironic to note that the year Arkansas ended Tech's season with a 15-0 defeat, Texas had beaten Tech earlier, 28-0, almost exactly the same score as Saturday.

So, here comes TCU for homecoming Saturday. The Horned Frogs have a weapon that Tech is learning to fear, the forward pass. It alone, if for no other reason, could give the Frogs hope for a victory over the Raiders. They've beaten Tech with it before.

Indeed, it took a last minute goalline interception last year for Tech to salvage a 14-10 victory. And this year's Froggie eleven is much improved. Southern Cal was the only team to shut out the Frogs.

As for the rest of the league, the biggest center of attention will be at Houston, where the Longhorns take on the Cougars, who might just be getting their confidence back now.

Houston waxed TCU last week to set up this battle. Meanwhile Baylor takes its hopes for an upset to Arkansas and the injured Bears could play the Porkers a tough game. Improving Rice is at SMU, where the Mustangs are flexing their muscles and sending out threatening noises.

The conference home team has a big advantage, doesn't it? That's what everyone says, but the records so far this season in the SWC don't reflect it. In fact, as of today, the visiting league team has won 12 times, the home team, only 7.

That could change in the remaining games, but it's an interesting note. It indicates that just possibly the caliber of teams is improving when the visiting teams has that big an edge.

Observation: Were you really surprised that ABC didn't carry the Tech-Texas football game Saturday? You shouldn't have been. Any net work that foists Howard Cosell on the public, when the vast majority oppose him, must not have the best judgment.

And a tip of the Levelland Stetson to Texas A&M for refusing to change the Texas game from Saturday to Thanksgiving just to please ABC. We need more of that in college athletics.

Big Spring News

The City of Big Spring has submitted an application to the Economic Development Administration for a Title IX Development Grant under the Special Economic Development and Adjustment Assistance Program. The proposed funding totals $138,915, the federal funding requested being $104,000 with the applicant supplying $34,914. This Grant would benefit approximately 40,000 people in Big Spring and Howard County. The duration of the grant would be one year, beginning one month after the grant is approved.

This grant will be used to monitor all areas of economic development with a special emphasis on attracting new industry to the area, developing ways to aid existing businesses and industries, generating a promotional presentation of data on Big Spring and Howard County to be used in attracting new industry, conducting research into what state and federal grants and programs the area is eligible for, expanding the existing economic data base so that local citizens can make more effective local decisions, and preparing special plans for various areas, such as tourism.

CHURCH NEWS

Christ Temple

Sister Mary E. Hudson of Dallas will be in revival the remainder of this week. We encourage everyone to come out and hear this dynamic teacher.

St. Matthew Baptist Church

Pastor R.S. Stanley delivered a great message on Sunday. "Faith" from Hebrews 11:24.

Immediately following services, Pastor and Mrs. Stanley left for Ft. Worth to attend a meeting of the Southern Baptist Association.

We would like to commend the mission sisters for a most inspirational program on Sunday evening. The message, "One on One", from Acts 8:35 was brought by Assistant Pastor Roy Jones.

The youth chorus provided music.

The Executive Board meeting of the Greater Central West Texas Baptist Association will be held at St. Matthews in November. Dates will be announced later.

Let us continue to pray for our sick and shut-in. Sisters Lethridge and Owens and all others we know not of.

Mount Vernon

Our 52nd church anniversary will be November 27 at 3 p.m. Our guest speaker will be Rev. William Joe Washington, District Superintendent of the North Texas Conference of Dallas.

Choir practice every Wednesday at 5:30 p.m. and prayer meeting at 6:00 p.m. every Wednesday.

New Hope

Pastor Dunn's Anniversary will begin Sunday, Nov. 6 at 2 p.m. at Mae Simmons Center with a "Feast in the Wilderness and March to the Kingdom Banquet."

Tickets to the affair are $3.00. Each member is asked to purchase and attend. No activities will be held at the church on Sunday afternoon.

Guest speakers for the event will be Rev. Parker, pastor of Carter Chapel and Ms. Doris Hood of Lyons Chapel.

The anniversary will close on Sunday, November 13 at 3 p.m.

We will fellowship with Triumph Baptist on November 11 at 8 p.m. All ushers, choirs and all members are asked to join Pastor Dunn there.

Twentieth and Birch Church of Christ

The congregation at Levelland will host the monthly fellowship of Churches of Christ in our area on Sunday, November 6.

Our Door Knocking activities continue Saturday morning at 10 a.m.

All members are asked to come out and give God one hour of your time.

Those on our sick and shut-in list are: Sister Ella Ray and Brother Milton Lee.

St. Luke

All members are reminded of our weekly auxiliaries meetings.

The church would like to congratulate Sis. Lillian Smith. Sis. Smith was honored with a 25th anniversary celebration at Methodist last week with "Lillian Smith Day."

Sis. Roberta Cook remains in West Texas Hospital. Sisters Ellen Tillman, Dolly Howard, Alberta Franklin and Roxie Reed are shut in.

Lyons Chapel Baptist Church

The missionary society held its annual program Sunday with president Dorothy Hood delivering her dynamic address, "The Tragedy of Almost." Her text was taken from the book of Acts, 25th chapter, verses 28-29. She really electrified the congregation with her talk explaining how is almost but we all have to have a hundred to reach God's kingdom. The message was very inspiring. If only everyone would abide by her message, what a wonderful world this would be.

Ms. Elnora Jones presented her with a lovely corsage, while Ms. Pearl Harris made a special presentation from the entire mission. A love offering was also taken up for Sis. Hood. We also had service at three that evening with Sis. Mary Ward and Sis. Clara Brown reading papers. The choral and young adult choir delivered the musical selections. Rev. Branch sang a lovely solo and Rev. Morris gave a short talk.

Joint evening worship services will be held Sunday Nov. 6 at 7 p.m. All members are asked to be present. The O.D. Hollins Memorial Banquet will be held Friday, Nov. 11 at the South Park Inn. See Ms. Jones or any committee member for your ticket.

The male chorus of Austin, Texas will worship with us on Sunday, Nov. 20 at 3 p.m.

Let us continue to pray for our sick and shut-in members of the church and community, and a special prayer for little Johnny Turner Jr.

Mt. Gilead Baptist Church

We enter to worship, we depart to serve. The church where everybody is somebody.

November 13th the Angelic Choir's annual concert will be presented at 7:30 p.m.

Also Nov. 13 at 3 p.m. we are to go to the church anniversary of Rev. M.S. Brown and church at Tahoka.

The Brotherhood will have their program at 7:30 p.m. on Nov. 20. Elder C.J. Johnson is scheduled to bring the message.

Let us continue to remember our sick and berieved.

Sheridan's Ride

By Jack Sheridan

The big entertainment lure of this week, the end of October and the beginning of a show-packed November, will be, of course, the public performance in the Texas Tech University Theatre at 8:15 p.m. Friday of the Ballet Hispanico of New York City.

The company, which is in residence (classes, seminars, demonstrations, lectures) on the campus from today until the close of their Friday performance, is a seven-year old organization from the Big Town which specializes in the dances drawn from the Spanish culture, the Church, and the rituals of magic and witchcraft and the native group (drawn from Spanish-speaking communities in and around New York City) has won high accolades for their work since their inception in 1970 under the artistic direction of Tina Ramirez.

Flamenco and folk traditions of Latin America are the keynotes of the group's repertory and they have already won wide acceptance, both in their stage appearances at Lincoln Center and on the mobile stages in the boroughs of Gotham.

They appear as part of the Tech University Center Cultural Events, artists and speakers series, for the 1977-78 season.

Public tickets are $6 and the event holds great promise that lovers of ballet in this area (and there are many more than you might guess) will welcome.

A rough, violent film that has been holding forth at Showplace 4, by the K-Mart, is "Rolling Thunder." This R-rated entry is again the story of the war hero who returns to his home to find more trouble on the familiar streets than he ever did in the Vietnam scene as a prisoner of war.

The film is another in the genre of those pictures wherein the hero(?) takes the law into his own hands to revenge himself on those who have hurt him. As such it is a reasonable excursion into a violent scene but it doesn't quite make the mark. Somehow, the involvement with the problem doesn't reach from the screen to the audience and therein the picture misses its mark.

The cast, no well-known names, does very well with the material at hand. William Devane is the vengeful vet, while good turns are noted in the performances of Tommy Lee Jones, Linda Haynes and Lisa Richards, the latter especially bright as the wife.

But the whole 99-minute venture is ultimately just another excursion into blood and gore and not much more to recommend it.

I said last week that I was going to reappraise the comedy, "Oh, God" which is continuing at the Fox 4 complex. I had made a passing comment in an earlier column that I was personally offended by the title, the advertising and the premise that God comes to a supermarket manager to give him mortal awareness about the state of the world and the necessity to pay attention to the living around us.

Well, I took another look. I still can't buy the basic handling; I am a man of faith, if not particularly rigidly religious, and George Burns as God simply turns me off. Carl Reiner, the comedian-director, helmed this one and he messes around with his volatile project until he scraps whatever meaningful point he might have made. Burns is all right, if a flippant Lord, and the callow John Denver (I KNOW he went to Texas Tech!) is somewhat of a bore in his first movie role. Anyone could have played it and that's the way Denver impresses. Like Rudolf Nureyev as Valentino on the screen on the other side of the Fox wall should have stayed on his toes as the ballet master he is, so Denver ought to sing out his country/western tunes and leave the acting to those who know.

I didn't like "Oh, God" the first time around, I still don't, though I found it a little more palatable the second look than the first. You'll have to take it from there. I have a hunch it'll be around the local scene long enough for you to do so.

I mentioned a week or so back that I was involved with the reorganization of a non-fiction work by Mary Lee Harter of Sherman, Texas, called "Kansas City Jazz." I have withdrawn from that project because of time commitments and the magnitude of the job, in favor of the second choice, the writing of my own autobiography, "The Life That Late I Led." This project seems to me to have the priority and so I shall concentrate on the "home front."

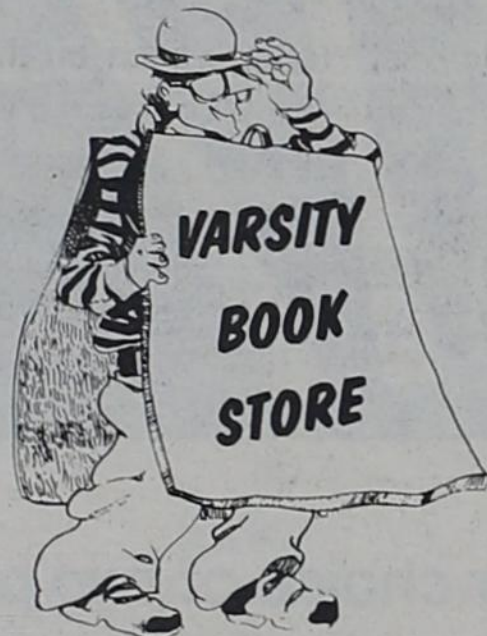

There is interesting news from the Dallas Civic Opera this week. You know that Maria Callas, the dynamic, volatile singing actress, mistress to Aristotle Onassis until he bumped her in favor of Jacqueline Kennedy, died last month in Paris of a heart attack in her early 50s.

Callas, electric and possessor of a voice that either sent one up the wall or bound an admirer into a passionate support, made her American singing debut with the Chicago Lyric Opera Company. It was headed by the late Lawrence Kelly and when he left that organization to move to Dallas and found the Dallas Civic Opera, it was Maria Callas who came to Dallas and sang a straight recital to get the DCO going. Her loyalty and support for Kelly and the Dallas company did not end there for she returned to the big stage at the Dallas Music Hall to sing three full operas, the incomparable "Medea," followed by "La Traviata" and "The Barber of Seville."

And so, with her passing, the Dallas Civic Opera is going to pay tribute to her memory by presenting an acclaimed tenor in his first American recital at 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 19, in the Music Hall in Fair Park. He is Alfredo Kraus. He has sung in the leading opera houses of Europe and in the United States in Chicago and the Metropolitan Opera and will be singing this month and next in Dallas Civic Opera's "Rigoletto" and "Manon."

In closing these remarks I want to note that Kraus' concert has been made possible by a generous donation from Elsa von Seggern. I have known Miss Von Seggern for many years and certainly the Dallas Civic Opera has no more ardent or enthusiastic supporter than this German-born, highly successful Dallas business woman. She is a pillar for DCO and she, along with Callas, is very much instrumental in the continuing success and artistic triumphs that the Dallas company has and is enjoying each November-December season. The loss of the gifted and astute Kelly was unfortunate with his untimely death, but it is Elsa von Seggern and her like, the patrons from Lubbock and the South Plains and the whole country that make DCO one of the glittering highlights in the Southwestern cultural scene.

Tribute to Haley Supports West Adams

Friends of West Adams Community Hospital in Los Angeles sponsored a fund-raising dinner for "Roots" author Alex Haley recently at the new Bonaventure Hotel.

The $100-a-plate tribute attracted nearly 900 concerned citizens with proceeds from the event to be used for remodeling a section of the hospital into a private and semi-private pavilion. West Adams Community Hospital is a non-profit facility which operates without tax support or government subsidy.

Special donations were presented to the Hospital by: Kwanza, an organization of black actresses, who donated a $10,000 Fetal Monitoring Machine; Mrs. Helen Garland, president of the auxiliary who presented a $1,000 check; and Berkeley Bio-Engineering who donated $1,500. Additionally, a piece of sculpture was presented by sculptor Fred Eversley, the first black artist to be inducted into the Smithsonian Institute.

Many presentations were made to Haley during the evening, including a plaque from the L.A. City Council. Also, Haley was honored with a plaque from the Executive Board, Staff and Friends of West Adams Community Hospital, making Haley the first recipient of the "National Award" given by this group.

Bernard Dickens, administrator of the 196-bed hospital, offered some stirring remarks when he stated that "the founders of this institution have passed the torch to a new generation, a generation unashamed of its past, a generation unafraid of the uncertainties of the future ... tonight we accept that torch."

The long line of dignitaries from the political, entertainment and athletic arenas who were in attendance included Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley, Isabel Sanford, Diahann Carroll, David Wolper and local newscaster and Master of Ceremonies Larry McCormick.

Allen Shiloh Began Writing at Age 13

Allen Shiloh is a Terminal Annex mailhandler. When he isn't working; he's busy writing.

Shiloh, a 29-year-old resident of Compton, California, has been writing since age 13 and has had published several short stories and two novels, "The Brotherhood" and "Terror," both about the Mafia.

A native of Bastrop, Louisiana, Shiloh is also an illustrator and was a photographer for the U.S. Air Force for four years.

Shiloh says the movie industry played a part in getting his works printed.

"It wasn't until 'Godfather II' was nominated for an Academy Award that NW Triumph, Inc. decided to publish my books."
