Southwest Digest Endorses:

"President Barack Obama, Lorenzo "Bubba" Sedeno & Maria Garcia"

Over the past thirty-five years, the Southwest Digest has been about reporting on the political aspect for the entire Lubbock community. As one of the founders and co-publisher of this newspaper, Eddie P. Richardson, would say with enthusiasm say: "We must let our readers know, without fear or favor, who we will stand tall for and endorse.

With that posture, the Southwest Digest take great pride, to endorse: President Barack Obama, for a second term as President of the United States of America; Lorenzo "Bubba" Sedeno for Lubbock County Commissioner Court, Precinct 3; and Maria Garcia, Constable Precinct 3.

President Barack Obama is God sent, and let's not forget that he was. He stands for all of God's People!

Regardless of what the other party is saying, President Obama has done some outstanding things to move these United States of America in a positive posture. He ended the war in Iraq; set a deadline to end the war in Afghanistan; and worked in the right perspective to bring us out of a major depression. When he was elected in 2008, we were in a major dilemma, but with the help of God, we have prevailed. He's made outstanding difference in bringing America where it needs to be at this time.

For Lubbock County Com-

President Barack Obama

missioner, Precinct 3, our choice is none other than Lorenzo "Bubba" Sedeno. He's a young man with a lot of energy and is willing to stand tall for all citizens in Precinct 3 as well as Lubbock County.

Sedeno has a very impressive record at the local and state level of Texas. He began his professional career 27 years ago as District Manager and Legislative Assistant to former Senator John T. Montford for 13 years. He also served for 14 years as the Manager of Texas Tech University's Historically Underutilized Business program (HUB's).

Among his honors bestowed upon him are: 2005: Statewide HUB Coordinator of the Year; 2006: Top Dollar Agency for spending with Black owned Businesses; 2008: State Advocate of the Year; and 2008: Top 20 Hispanics of 2008.

Lorenzo "Bubba" Sedeno

Because of her years of experience, we endorse Maria Garcia for her dedication to the Constable position.

Let us be strong and to listen to the noise of Sedeno's opponent, who served as the Democrat Lubbock County Commissioner, Precinct 3, from 2005 to 2008, and changed party to run on the Republican ticket. At one time, he was a dedicated Democrat, but he has since flip flopped. Please listen above the noise, and pray for him and maybe he'll find his way!

So will you join us on Tuesday, November 6, 2012, and vote for President Barack Obama, Lorenzo "Bubba" Sedeno; and Maria Garcia!

Remember early voting continues through tomorrow, Friday, November 2, 2012. Will you help us? Hope so! Thank God!!!

"Educating About Donors"

Give Someone Hope this National Donor Sabbath

National Donor Sabbath, observed November 9-11 this year, is an annual faith-based celebration of the lifesaving gift of organ, eye and tissue donation. Because faith plays a significant role in the decision to register as a donor, every year during this special time, donation and transplant organizations work closely with communities of faith to bring the message of donation to congregations. All major religions support organ, eye and tissue donation, as a final act of kindness and generosity. Regardless of their specific religion, the public is encouraged to register as donors by visiting www.donatelifetexas.org

"While religions differ, one of the common points about donation is positive, inspiring messaging. Messaging that provides hope from one family to another," said Schawnte' Williams-Taylor, managing director for LifeGift, the organization which recovers organs and tissues for people needing transplants in 109 counties across Southeast, North and West Texas. Across the country, more than 115,000 men, women and children are waiting for lifesaving transplants and nearly 13,000 of them are from Texas. Of those 13,000, nearly 3,000 are African-Americans due in part to the high prevalence of diabetes, heart disease and hypertension. Every day, 18 people die in this country because of the lack of available organs for transplant.

As a community, we have the power to donate life! Today it may not be you; but tomorrow it could be you or someone you love. Although it is possible for someone needing an organ to match a donor from another racial or ethnic group, transplant success rates increase when organs are matched between members of the same ethnic background. Consequently, a lack of organs donated by multicultural populations can contribute to longer waiting periods for transplantation.

Vandals Destroy Democrat Signs

By Kenney Kenter - Lubbock Democrat Chairman

Theft and vandalism of Democratic signs in Lubbock, TX is out of control this election season. We are used to a certain amount of it, but after hundreds of yard signs stolen and ten of our large 4x4 or 4x8 signs stolen, shot, or vandalized -- including two defaced with the N-words and squirted with mustard -- we are taking a stand and saying "no more."

What follows is raw, unedited video from the memory card inside the camera that was used to catch sign vandals at 26th and University Ave in the act Wednesday 10/24/2012 at approximately 2:00am. We were unable to release this video earlier because the police collected Thursday.

Lubbock Area Clients Council Held Workshop: "Community Partnership, Working Together"

By George A. Elliott
Legal Aid of NorthWest Texas

On Saturday, October 20, 2012, the Lubbock Area Clients' Council, in conjunction with Legal Aid of NorthWest Texas (LANWT), held a community education workshop, "Community Partnership, Working Together," designed to address the needs and concerns of low-income Texans. The workshop brought together Lubbock-area citizens and legal professionals to participate in an open dialogue about issues including access to justice, federal tax filing requirements, and citizens' rights to utility services. The Saturday workshop drew more than 25 attendees.

Jonathan Vickery, associate director of the Texas Access to Justice Foundation, Austin, spoke about access to justice initiatives. He also discussed the implications of the increasing demand for legal aid services at a time when funding for these programs is both decreasing and in jeopardy of further reduction.

Randy Chapman, executive director of the Texas Legal Services Center (TLSC), Austin, informed attendees about the variety of economic programs available to low-income Texans, including help with obtaining low-cost utility services. Three students from the Texas Tech University School of Law Tax Clinic discussed the importance of filing income taxes and shared information on the resources available to help people with tax questions.

Bruce Bower, deputy director, TLSC, spoke about the rise in non-traditional families, the important of "Kincare Authorization Agreements," and how the Texas Kincare Project works to provide caregivers with the legal tools and advice to help them navigate the healthcare, human services, and school systems for minor children in their care. Joel Howard, an assistant city attorney, Lubbock, explained the procedures involved for dealing with municipal court citations and residential code violations.

Douglas L. Stevick, director of litigation and interim deputy director, LANWT, and George

Vandals Destroy Democrats Signs

it as evidence (and rightfully so) at the scene of the crime. The memory card was retrieved from the LPD property room on Thursday.

There is a chunk of video missing immediately after the camera is hit. We're not sure why it is missing, but our best guess is that the impact of the punch on the camera stopped the recording temporarily. Our volunteer was still on the 911 call during this time; the audio from that call could be used to fill in the gap to provide a complete sequence of events.

Our volunteer operating the camera was staking out the location of three large signs (his initiative, but I fully support it) for two reasons: to find out who was destroying and stealing our signs, and to disprove the lie, told by the Chair of the Lubbock County Republican Party, that we were destroying our own signs.

At this time (Friday 10/26/2012) the Lubbock Police Department investigation into the incident is ongoing, case number 12-38175. The Lubbock County Democratic Party appreciates the fast response of the officers on Wednesday and the professional manner in which they are conducting their investigation.

Racism Is Alive and Well In Lubbock, Texas

Closet racism in America since the election of President Obama has opened its doors and is presently spreading like a wild fire across an open prairie in America. One would think that these supposedly God fearing Americans would not feel this way since they claim to fear God the Father and are saved by their Jesus and sanctified with their brand of the Holy Ghost!

An article by Cesar Chelala (a co-winner of an Overseas Press Club of America award and contributing editor to The Globalist) noted for people throughout the world, the election of Barack Obama to the U.S. presidency seemed to signal in a new era, that of the end of racism. Indeed, Obama's election was a momentous occasion and, one would have hoped, a milestone on the road to reconciliation. However, some recent, very ominous events cast a worrisome veil over the democratic process in the United States.

There are many reasons that can explain Obama's election as President: his penetrating intelligence, a wonderfully orchestrated campaign, and a life devoted to public service in which each action was like a brilliant chess move by a master of the game. But there were other factors of equal significance.

Before Obama's election, not only was the country involved in wars in Iraq and Afghanistan, in what increasingly looks like a quagmire, particularly in the latter country. The economy was in a desperate state, and unemployment and health costs were rising. There was a feeling of widespread malaise in the country believed by many to be the result of an incompetent president manipulated by darker forces, an opinion widely shared throughout the world.

After the initial high of Obama's election, there is now a changed atmosphere in the country. Violence is an inescapable companion to racism. And violence, or violent outbursts racially motivated, are certainly on the increase in the U.S. Threats against President Obama have increased by 400% since President George W. Bush left office, the highest numbers on record.

What makes that situation particularly worrisome is that they come not only from fringe elements in society. Thinly disguised, they also originate from certain political leaders who seem intent on creating an atmosphere of violence and disrespect around the President and the presidency.

How else can one interpret this statement by House Minority Leader John Boehner? "There is a political rebellion going on in America, and what we have seen was just a glimpse of it" he stated after last November's elections. One doesn't need to be a psychologist or a linguist to understand that such statements stroke the fires of rebellion, and are all the more dangerous when coming from a leader holding one of the most powerful offices in Washington.

As if this weren't enough, Boehner added, "Clearly it's been a difficult year. For us it's been like standing in front of machine gun-liberal ideas every single week, one after another. I think it really has the American concerned. They are scared to death, actually!"

Outreach Prayer Breakfast

Thoughts for you to think about, like the TenVirgins. If you think you have enough oil in your vessel. Just let the cry be made at midnight, and then you will know. Not by how you dress. Your ability to do great things. You can cook good pound cakes.

The cry was made and they had all these works behind them. So Saints, be sure it's your heart that counts. Five of them found out they were foolish. Dead works, No Oil!

If you think you are under pressure now, you die without God dear Brothers and Sisters!

There's eternal pressure you will never escape!

Christ never called us to a bed of roses, but the cross picks up your cross and follow Him daily.

Five fold Ministry of the Devil:

1. Disease
2. Deceived
3. Divide
4. Distrust
5. Discourage

The Devil's Ministry is expanding daily, so is God's!

II Chronicles 7:14 -- You can really pray until you humble yourself. You can say a lot of words. That sounds good, but they don't reach Heaven! That's why he hasn't healed the land. Read this Scripture, Saints!

Also, Mark 11:22-26. Believe the scripture and let's Move Some Mountains out of our lives.

Thanks for reading our article each publication day.

The Bread of Life

John 6

An entire year elapsed between the healing of the lame man (John 5) and the feeding of the 5,000 (John 6). This would be two years after the first cleansing of the temple and one year before the crucifixion. John explains that his Gospel contains only a limited number of the many miracles and teachings of the Lord (John 20:30, 31; 21:25).

Some observed that the feeding of the 5,000 was a "turning-point in Jesus' ministry. Its importance is emphasized by the fact that all four Gospel accounts record it. This is true of surprisingly few incidents."

Thousands were coming to Christ daily for healing and teaching. At the end of the day, the crowd remained, but there was no place nearby where they could get food. With only five small barley loaves and two fish, Jesus fed more than 5,000 men—besides all of the women and children who were there!

First Musical of the Year

Jerusalem Temple is inviting the public to attend their First Gospel Musical of the Year - 2012, Friday, November 2, 2012; Saturday, November 3, 2012; and Sunday afternoon, November 4, 2012.

Services will begin at 8:00

LIBERATING WORDS: Why the Christian Life Seems So Hard to Live!

With all due respect to all of you who have been told you must do this or that, and are daily trying, and daily failing, that is utterly impossible! The only person who is qualified to do that is Christ himself! That is why you asked Him to come into your life, remember? Until you have resolved in your heart that you have died, then the Christ in you will remain powerless to live His "Life", which is the Christ Life!

Until next time,

anything can tell you that cut the Medicare cost

There is but a few more days before the national election for the President of the United States of America. Every person of voting age, who feels compelled to vote, will be out in numbers to do so. Many people have already taken advantage of the early voting times in their states and cities. Some of us whom have already decided who to vote for are just waiting for the designated day to do so. Personally, I just do not feel comfortable with early voting.

forest until they cannot see the trees.' As conservative as the U. S. Supreme Court is, it upheld one of Obama's landmark pieces of legislature which will improve the quality of life for many Americans.

There are those who are awaiting the outcome of the third presidential debate in order to make or change their decisions. There are those individuals who are keeping up with the polls to help them to make a decision about which candidate to vote for. Some polls may be valid and some may not be valid.

We need to take a hard, hard look at what will happen if Mitt Romney becomes President and immediately set out to reverse every positive thing that Obama has done. We will be back to 'SQUARE BUSH.' Outsourcing will have a new name: 'Baining.' Romney's business acuity deals with loopholes for the rich which eliminates a middle class. In addition, he has not told the truth about his business activities; refuses to come full circle with his taxes and constantly changing what he has said about his stance on too many issues. It gives the impression that he does not know what he is talking about. He is not consistent. A government led by him will not be constant, except for turmoil. I am for Obama and your choice is yours, whoever that might be. I suggest forgetting the polls as some of them are political, attempting to sway you in the direction they project. Forget the polls and vote your conscience, but by all means, get 'in cinque' and VOTE!

There are several polls which one can encounter each day. Personally, I do not believe any of them and they will not have any impact on which candidate I choose to vote for. Many newspapers are currently endorsing Mitt Romney because they feel that he can move things faster than Barack Obama because he has business experience. So! Barack Obama has presidential experience!

Politicians may sway you to validate Mitt Romney but any good scholar of History will point out to you the accomplishments of the Obama Administration which has overall been one to help the plight of all Americans needing help. Some citizens may not want to look into this because they are still hung up on the color or racial thing. They are so busy 'looking at the

The Rise of the Mass Affluents – US!

by Rebecca Rousell

I found information in Nielsen's newest report, Affluence in America: A Financial View of the Mass Affluent, so interesting that I thought you might too. Mass Affluents are defined as households with Income Producing Assets (IPAs) of $250,000 to $1 million (not including real estate), reporting actual average annual income of $105,000. Mass Affluents are 11.1% of the population or 13,000,000 households. And we, as Blacks, are represented in these numbers. According to Nielsen's in-depth report, African-American Consumers: Still Vital, Still Growing, developed through our collaboration with the National Newspaper Publishers Association (NNPA), 10% of African-American households earn $100,000 or more.

Mass Affluents are not celebrities or jet-setters from Lifestyles of the Rich and Famous, that early 90s forerunner to many of today's over-the-top reality shows based on the most obscene excesses money can buy. According to the Affluence report, Mass Affluents work for the money – heading everyday to white collar jobs in management, business or finance; or own their own business(es).

It's really fun to see how Mass-Affluent households are broken down into distinct segments, based loosely on differences in age, income and family makeup by Nielsen PSYCLE, a household segmentation system. I'll bet we'll see ourselves or someone we know. First, there are the Globetrotters. These are empty-nesters over 65, who have or had six-figure incomes, have paid their dues, are comfortable financially and are spending their free time traveling. Business Class is defined as 50-something childless or empty-nest couples who are kind of "chi-chi-la-la," as Oprah used to say. You know, the country club lifestyle with an extravagant spending style, scoring high for business and pleasure travel and high-end catalog shopping. Power Couples are described as well-educated, mostly 45 to 54-year-olds with six-figure incomes, no children, designer homes, diversified investment portfolios and love shopping at stores like Nordstrom and Lord & Taylor. Civic Spirits are over 65-year-old retired couples who are anything but retired. These are the activists in our communities – the people who write the letters to the editor and their political representatives. They are also the more cautious investors, ranking high for buying long-term care insurance and residential insurance for their condos. And, the kids are gone. The Family Fortunes are described as college-educated 45 to 64-year-old suburbanites with more children than any other segment, high incomes, expensive homes, multiple investments and an energetic lifestyle who enjoy "pricy" sports like skiing and tennis. Capital Accumulators are 45 to 64-year-old empty nest suburbanites who pay a great amount of attention to their real estate investments, IRAs and 401(k) retirement accounts. These smart cookies have parlayed upper middle-class income into serious income-producing assets and tend to lead very active lifestyles. Lastly, we have the Savvy Savers. These are well-vested retirees who have raised their children and enjoy low-key lifestyles – like watching sports like golf on TV and are active in their social clubs. Even though they have invested cautiously and carefully with sizable nest eggs, Savvy Savers take full advantage of senior discounts, coupons and value-oriented travel options.

Once upon a time, those considered well-off typically congregated in monied pockets in big cities or in posh, sunny golf communities. As that demographic has expanded and diversified, Mass Affluents are increasingly found in the suburbs and exurbs of the nation's big cities all over the country. However, data shows that Mass Affluents are more than twice as likely to live near the San Francisco area, followed by: Washington, D.C., Hartford and New Haven, Conn., Boston, New York, Honolulu, Baltimore, Monterey-Salinas, Calif., San Diego and Santa Barbara, Calif. Consistent with Nielsen's report on African-American consumers, the top five Designated Market Areas (DMA) for African-Americans with $100K-

Give Someone Hope

Once a taboo subject, donation steadily has become more accepted in general society. Regardless of this acceptance, there are still some strongly-held myths out there that we must continue to shatter:

MYTH: Only the rich or those with celebrity status receive organ transplants.

TRUTH: When you are on the waiting list for an organ, what really counts is the severity of your illness, the time spent waiting, blood type and other important medical information – not your financial or celebrity status.

MYTH: Donation will mutilate the body.

TRUTH: An open casket funeral is possible for organ, eye and tissue donors. Through the entire donation process the body is treated with care, respect and dignity.

MYTH: My religion does not support donation.

FACT: All major religions in the United States support organ, eye and tissue donation and see it as the final act of love and generosity toward others.

MYTH: If I'm in an accident, the doctors and nurses won't work as hard to save my life if I'm a registered donor.

TRUTH: If you are sick or injured and admitted to the hospital, the number one priority is to save your life. Organ, eye and tissue donation can only be considered after you are deceased.

MYTH: My family will incur a cost if I'm a donor.

TRUTH: There is no cost to the donor or their family for organ or tissue donation.

The Donate Life Texas Registry – the official database of all Texans who have exercised their decision to become registered donors – continues to pick up momentum thanks in part to our friends at the Department of Public Safety (DPS) as well as key legislators at the state capi-

SAO PAULO - A 41-year-old car washer shocked his family when he interrupted a funeral being held for him at his mother's home in the town of Alagoinhas in northeastern Brazil, police said Tuesday.

Police inspector Roberto Lima said by telephone that on Sunday Jose Marcos Araujo identified a body at the city morgue as being that of his brother, Gilberto.

Lima said that Jose Marcos took the body to his mother's home where a wake was held.

"The confusion started when news started circulating that a car washer had been shot dead," Jose Marcos' wife, Ana Paula, told the UOL Internet news portal. "Police called my husband and told him that his brother had been killed and his body was at the morgue."

Lima said the confusion was "understandable."

"The two men closely resembled each other and both worked as car washers," Lima said adding that the man whose body was in the morgue was named Genivaldo Santos Gama. He said further information on Gama was not immediately available.

A few hours before the Monday burial "a friend of Gilberto's saw him walking down the street and told him that his family was mourning him," he said.

"So he went to his mother's home to let everyone know he was very much alive."

When Araujo showed up at his wake "some people fainted and others were so scared they ran away. It was a big shock," family friend Maria Menezes told the G1 online news site.

Gilberto's mother Marina Santana told reporters "I am overjoyed. What mother wouldn't be after being told that her son is dead and then sees him alive."

tol. To date, we are close to reaching 3 million registered organ, tissue and eye donors, which marks incredible progress. The more registered donors we have, the greater possibility of finding matches for people who are in need of transplants. But Texas still continues to lag behind other states that are much smaller in population and we must continue to break down the barriers and educate people about the importance of donation.

Registering to be an organ and tissue donor is fast, free and has the potential to save and enhance the lives of many. This is a decision that cannot be overturned by your family – it is first-persons.

Happy Birthday Isaac McBride!
October 19, 1956 - June 22, 2012

Although it has been only four months ago
Nothing has really changed
Thoughts and memories of what we had
The love I feel, and the laughter in my heart still remain the same.

What we had was rare indeed
Our love was special and so clear
With every beat that my heart take
Oh, how I wish you were still here!

It's your birthday, and I wanted to take the time
To choose the right things to say
That what we had, the laughter, fun, and love
Will never change, and you will remain in my heart each and every day!
