Baptist Convention Held at Civic Center Last Week

by Bob Tieuell

The 85th Annual Session of the Missionary Baptist General Convention of Texas opened Monday night, Oct. 16 with Rev. O.W. Gentry and the Caprock Association as host. Headquarters for the week long session was the beautiful new Civic Auditorium in Lubbock, Texas. The sessions closed Friday, Oct. 20.

In meeting and greeting hundreds of old friends and new ones, this correspondent remarked to a friend of ours who is a long time Baptist pastor in West Texas: "God must have loved the Baptists for He made so many of them."

Dr. M.L. Price, the pastor of the Greater Zion Missionary Baptist Church in Houston is the President of the Convention and presided, assisted by the two vice-presidents: Rev. R.L. Rowe, pastor of the Munger Avenue Baptist Church of Dallas and Rev. S.M. Wright, popular and long time pastor of Peoples Missionary Baptist Church of Dallas also.

Some 6000 Baptists and their friends assembled and according to press reports it was indeed "the largest gathering of Black Baptists in Texas." The convention is affiliated with the National Baptist Convention of America with Dr. J.C. Sams of Florida, president.

The Convention has as its educational objectives: Bishop College of Dallas; Guadalupe College of San Antonio, Texas and Union Bible College of Houston, Texas. One of the highlights of the Convention was the Bishop College Banquet held in the Hilton Inn on Oct. 17th at which time Dr. M.K. Curry, president of Bishop College, spoke on the role of the black college in today's world. He was enthusiastically received.

The Estacado Matadors will take on the Borger Bulldogs at 7:30 p.m. at the Lowery Field. Highlight of the half time activities will be the crowning of the Homecoming Queen. Who will become Homecoming Queen of 1978? Will it be Deborah Davis, Felisa Johnson, Vera Mann, or Linder Mosley?

Following the game, at 10:00 p.m., the Homecoming Dance will be held in the EHS Cafeteria. All students and former students of Estacado are invited to attend. Admission will be 50 cents.

Tech Homecoming Activities Planned

Autumn leaves, brisk winds and icy frost are inevitable signs of fall. For Texas Tech University fall also heralds Homecoming Weekend.

The theme, "Reflections of Yesterday, Visions of Tomorrow," will prevail at Texas Tech beginning Nov. 2 and ending Nov. 4.

To kindle spirit in the study body Saddle Tramps will sponsor a bonfire and pep rally on Nov. 2 at Memorial Circle on campus. The cheerleaders and Texas Tech band will lead the students.

On Nov. 2 the Student Foundation will continue spirit bolstering with an all-university mixer highlighted by modeling of ski wear from Lubbock firms by Texas Tech students. The mixer will be from 3-6 p.m. at Cold Water Country. Also, to be held will be a drawing for a prize of a gala weekend in Red River, N.M.

Alumni will join in the activities with a dance at the Hilton Inn on the night of Nov. 3. There also will be receptions for graduates, with special recognition of the classes of 1953 and 1958.

Preceding the 2 p.m. kick-off of the Texas Tech-Baylor football game on Nov. 4, at 10 a.m. homecoming parade will travel from Ave. H west on Broadway to the campus.

League Analyzes Proposed "Tax Relief" Amendment

On November 7, the proposed "tax relief" amendment to the Texas Constitution will be brought before the voters. According to the Texas Research League, the amendment has three purposes: (1) to provide tax relief to certain categories of property owners; (2) to permit legislative resolution of the rural-urban conflict over public school finance; and (3) to facilitate property tax reform by the Legislature.

The League, a non-profit, privately supported organization based in Austin specializes in studies of the operations, programs and problems of Texas Government. The report is informative, but takes no position for or against the proposed amendment.

The report states: "All homeowners, especially those who are elderly or disabled, some automobile owners and some agricultural land owners may expect to see their property taxes reduced if the amendment passes. For persons living in jurisdictions that make no effort to assess individually owned automobiles, the amendment may forestall the collection of vehicle taxes in the future. For farmers and ranchers who now pay relatively low taxes, the amendment probably would slow down future increases. For owners of intangible personal property (stocks and bonds for example), the amendment would permit the Legislature to remove the threat of local efforts to collect taxes on such property in the future."

The cost of the various tax relief measures is difficult to estimate, but the exemption of intangibles and household goods would have little effect because they are rarely taxed now. If the Legislature allowed the exemption of automobiles, school districts could lose up to $25 million a year, and 24 major cities that collect the tax would lose about $10 million.

The mandatory exemption from school taxes of the first $5,000 of the market value of residential homesteads could cost $104 million annually. The additional $10,000 exemption for the elderly (optional with the Legislature) could reduce school tax receipts by $6-$10 million on top of the $23 million already granted on a local option basis. The optional exemption for the disabled would cut school revenues another $4 million. The Legislature might (but would not be required to) make up the losses from state funds.

Use of productivity values in the assessment of agricultural land is more difficult to estimate because refined data is not yet available and because the Legislature might add restrictions later. However, preliminary estimates indicate that productivity assessments in rural areas where much of the land has little value except for agricultural purposes would cost 589 school districts a total of $48 million in lost revenue. On the other hand, 353 districts would gain a total of $15 million if they applied the productivity values.

In metropolitan areas, use of productivity values would result in substantial losses, and losses in suburban districts would also be significant. Noting that "productivity" or "income" valuation is an accepted appraising technique for income-producing property, the League's report declares that the task of preventing the amendment from becoming a major boon for land speculators "can be addressed by the Legislature if the amendment passes." Productivity valuation requirements would apply to all local taxing jurisdictions.

In school finance, the amount of State aid each district receives is related to the State's estimate of the district's local tax base. The more taxable property a district has, the less State aid it gets. Next year, the estimated value of intangible property will be included in the estimates, even though such property is almost impossible to find and tax. Urban districts, in particular, stand to lose large amounts of State aid if the estimate of intangible values is used in the State aid formula under the new provision.

On the other hand, agricultural land is now valued for state aid purposes on the basis of its productivity, even though much of this land is taxable according to market value under the present constitution. It is possible that state or federal courts (where several suits are pending) might

Are Soviet Tactics Used By U.S. Civil Service?

Copyright, 1978, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON—According to Washington folklore, presidents are but small dogs wagged by a giant bureaucratic tail. But to the surprise of the political pros, President Carter won his first battle with the bureaucracy. He pushed through unwanted civil service reforms.

This should help him get a handle on the bureaucracy. But our sources believe he would have done better by cleaning out the Civil Service Commission. He has a secret report in his files which tells of civil service violations. The report includes names and details.

The most disturbing practice we have discovered in the federal system was borrowed from the Soviets. We have investigated reports that government officials have tried to ruin the careers of stubborn subordinates by ordering them to take psychiatric fitness-for-duty examinations.

The subordinates can be required to submit to psychological examinations. If they agree, the tests may be stacked against them. If they refuse, they can be fired for insubordination.

We have written about this nasty practice in the past. Now a House subcommittee, led by Rep. Gladys Spellman, D-Md., has documented the story.

The report has not been released, but we have had access to it. So far as we know, this will be the first official acknowledgement that the U.S. government has used the Soviet tactic of branding dissidents as mental cases.

The Spellman report alleges that involuntary psychiatric examinations have been misused to punish unpopular employees. This has happened, according to the report, on a significant number of occasions.

In 80 percent of these cases, the immediate supervisor decided which employees needed psychiatric examinations, even though the supervisors had no medical expertise.

The report also states that the employees have no right to examine the results of their own psychiatric examinations. The only defense they have is to submit written reports on their own behalf.

Finally, the report concludes that the psychiatrists are asked to do something they are not trained to do. They must determine whether an employee is capable of doing his job. Yet the psychiatrists know little about the job and have been trained only to diagnose illnesses. The employee, meanwhile, must prove his innocence or competence.

KELLY'S HEROES

by Joe Kelly

Would you look, please, at who's joined TCU, Baylor and Tech in just playing out the season—Rice and Texas A&M. Rice wasn't expected to remain in contention long, but the Aggies went from feast to famine in two short weeks.

That has to be the biggest shocker of the season. The Aggies once again had everything going for them. They had depth in material and Blue Chip quality, too.

A great many of the so-called experts said that the Aggies couldn't lose, that this was their year. They had experience to go with size and speed. The Aggies were, in a word, awesome.

They said that the Aggies remembered those other years, when they were picked, but didn't win. They said that the Aggies were going to get revenge. Even A&M players were quoted as saying that their goal was the conference title and they'd remember.

The Aggies started out strong. They blew past Kansas, Boston College, Memphis State and Tech. They rolled up points, played tough defense and appeared unbeatable. They were ranked in the nation's Top Ten.

Then came Houston to smash the dream and Baylor, which hadn't won a game all year, shattered it beyond repair. The Aggies must join the Horned Frogs, Bears, Owls and Raiders in waiting, now, until next year.

It doesn't take much to erase dreams in the SWC, a bitter league, where internecine warfare is at its fiercest. You don't have a minute to cherish victories, because defeat looms so close if you let up for a minute.

Arkansas is in that condition, too. The Razorbacks rolled into Austin confident. They were ranked No. 3. They had, and have, probably the finest four backs in the country. They had racked OU in the Sugar Bowl and coasted in their first four games.

Now the Hogs are gripping the wall with their fingernails, on the verge of elimination. And who do they face? Well, for starters, they take on Houston at Houston Saturday. They also have Baylor and SMU on the road, A&M at Little Rock.

SMU was riding high, also, when boom! Houston put a hole in their halo. Now the Ponies are grasping, with "only" Texas this week, followed by A&M and Arkansas.

Our sources claim that the forced fitness-for-duty examinations cause more psychological damage than they prevent.

Watch on Waste: The armed forces and public works agencies recently scraped the bottom of the barrel when they ran short of funds while President Carter battled with Congress until the last minute over how much they would get.

We received a number of protests from military employees who could not collect their salaries. Others had to pay their own travel expenses and wit to be reimbursed.

But at the Army Corps of Engineers, the top brass were as loose with the taxpayers' money as ever. Several of them spent a week at a Savannah, Ga. resort.

It was billed as a conference, and there were some productive work sessions. But they brought along their wives. And they stayed at the luxurious Savannah Inn, which offered golf, tennis and swimming between sessions.

They also used nearby riding stables and fishing boats. The festivities included a T-shirt night and a country-western buffet, complete with live music.

The brass hats had to pay $28 a day out of their own pockets to cover their wives' expenses. But the women were flown to Savannah from all corners of the country, free of charge. In one instance, the Army had to send an extra plane to carry all the wives.

The taxpayers, of course, picked up the $45,000 bill. Yet the Pentagon was supposed to be low on funds. The White House had just ordered a 20 percent cut in administrative travel, and the orders specifically urged the elimination of staff retreats.

A corps spokesman insisted it was not improper to bring the wives on government planes. In the future, he said, the corps would comply with the president's order to reduce travel.

It's just hard to break old habits.

Watch on Waste, Part II: Government scholarships are supposed to be awarded to those who cannot afford an education. But on American Samoa, scholarships are granted to critics of the government to shut them up.

The money for the scholarships, of course, is put up by the American taxpayers.

The daughter of Samoa's House Speaker, for example, received a scholarship after a promised government job fell through. Presumably, this soothed the feelings of both the daughter and the Speaker.

A lawyer involved in litigation against the island's attorney general received another scholarship. A third grant went to the man who was supposed to become president of the Samoan Community College but was rejected by the Samoan governor. The scholarship was a consolation prize, which kept him mollified.

The three scholarships cost the taxpayers a total of $150,000.

It's obvious that Texas and Houston have the inside track and their meeting in Austin Nov. 11 promises to be a titanic struggle—if both remain unbeaten. Texas hosts SMU this week, while Houston entertains Arkansas. TCU is at Houston the next week when Texas is idle.

SMU and Arkansas aren't out of it yet, but neither team can afford the luxury of another league loss.

So, with the season half over, it comes down to a four-team race at best, maybe just a two team battle. But don't bet that a favorite doesn't drop one it's supposed to win.

Texas Tech threw a scare into its supporters last week for the second game in a row. The Raiders built a big lead and then almost blew it, first against New Mexico, then against Rice.

As Coach Rex Dockery said, it seemed as though the Raiders lack the killer instinct. When you get a team down, you'd better jump on it, because funny things can happen. The Lobos came back to make it uncomfortable and so did the Owls.

The Raiders have come up with a strong ground game the last two weeks and it should help the passing. The running game now must be respected, despite the caliber of opposition, and that ought to help the aerial attack.

Now, if the Raiders could somehow come up with a respectable pass defense, we'd all have a lot more confidence. So far pass defense is something that coaches demonstrate with Xs and Os, but which haven't been put into execution on the field.

This is the first weekend of all conference games on the schedule and it's nail-biting time. The top games are Arkansas at Houston and SMU at Texas. I'd have to go with Houston and Texas—and I'll probably be sorry.

Baylor is at TCU and Rice is at A&M. There's no sweat on the Bears and Aggies in those games.

Tech gets the week off, giving players time to heal and coaches time to work on pass defense.

"Tax Relief" . . .

step in to enforce the existing constitutional provisions. Passage of the proposed amendment would permit the Legislature to resolve these problems by bringing the constitutional tax base into conformity with actual practice—and perhaps avoid another major battle on school aid formulas at the next session.

Property tax reform efforts have been hampered by fears of higher taxes through revaluation, fears that tax burdens would be shifted among various classes of property (residential, commercial, industrial and mineral, for example), and fear that a state agency set up to supervise and improve local assessment practices might supercede local authorities in direct administration of the property tax. The proposed "tax relief" amendment seeks to address all of these fears—or permit the Legislature to address them.

Ringling the Bell . . .

The Dilemma of Black Politics: The historical regularity with which black politicians find themselves indicted or under investigation must be considered, by and large, a national crisis, believes Dr. Benjamin Hooks, national executive director of the NAACP. A comprehensive study done by the Sacramento-based Committee on the Status of Minority Elected Officials has, not surprisingly, concluded that there is a deliberate campaign of harassment that is being conducted.

The effect of this harassment says the study, is to jeopardize objectives in this area. The extent of this threat is even more apparent when we recognize that the number of black elected officials comprise less than one percent of the nation's total.

Hooks adds however that "every black citizen knows that the mere presence of one of their members in political office is no guarantee that these persons will represent their interests. As the committee explains, "there is a distinct difference between Black Politics and Blacks in Politics. One seeks fundamental change while the other merely fills an office.

Black Colleges: President Carter has left no doubt about his personal commitment to black colleges, according to Dr. Charles A. Lyons of the National Association for Equal Opportunity in Higher Education. Under his leadership, we now expect to see a strong commitment to black colleges reflected in the formulation of policy, in creation of new programs, and in the evaluation of old programs as they relate to historically-black schools. Black colleges and universities enroll approximately one-quarter of all blacks attending college, but they award almost half of the undergraduate degrees earned by blacks nationally.

Although the black oriented National Medical Association and the predominantly white American Medical Association disagree on nationalized health care goals, Dr. Jesse B. Barber, Howard University neurosurgeon and president of the NMA has pointed out that in order to attain the "optimal ratio" of one physician for ever 650 people as proposed by AMA, the black community needs an additional 29,000 physicians immediately. Dr. Barber explained that the threat of affirmative action programs, as a result of the Bakke decision, as well as the rising cost of tuition at all medical schools is likely to cause further decrease in the number of minority applicants and admissions to medical schools.

Dear Bob: The Missionary Baptist General Convention like other conventions here in Texas and elsewhere, have tried for years to operate colleges or schools of higher learning, but was forced by stiff educational standards and soaring exorbitant, inflationary costs, to abandon its efforts. The abandonment was forced on by sightless, selfish, non-cooperative support from many, many pastors of the convention churches. The same lack of support places the convention in a bad light even in its efforts to provide remedial schools such as Guadalupe College and Union Seminary.

Today the convention is about two years behind in its commitment program to Bishop College and this too is traceable to non-support ... Blacks should rise up in New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana as well as over the nation and combine their efforts to keep Bishop and our other black colleges alive and credited. God is blessing Baptists as never before just as He is doing others. Let us be up and about with our Father's business. Yours truly, M.L. Price."

Our Austin bellringer sources report that the fuel adjustment charge that Texans have watched double and quadruple until it nears the cost of electricity itself, may be on the way out. The TPUC has recommended that charges be based on efficiency rather than requiring customers to pay fuel costs. Also the agency recommended measures to relieve the burden of spiraling electric bills on low-income subscribers. Until later, Peace.

Hill backs tax relief on ballot November 7

"We've got a great opportunity Nov. 7 to take a significant first step toward tax relief in Texas. I'm urging everyone to vote for the proposed constitutional amendment to give tax relief to our farmers and ranchers, homeowners, and elderly. After this amendment is adopted, I'll be ready to take the lead in the 1979 legislature to follow through on this first step."

Harris Receives Good Guy Award

Pittsburgh Steelers running back Franco Harris, who teaches handicapped children how to compete at track events, and has raised tens of thousands of dollars for charity, is the 1978 football season's first Gordon's Gin Good Guy Award winner.

The 28-year-old Pittsburgh Steeler-named 1976 Man of the Year by the Western Pennsylvania Multiple Sclerosis Society—has also helped the City of Hope, Salvation Army, Cystic Fibrosis, Children's Hospital and educational television.

The 6'2", 225-pound National Football League superstar, easily recognized on the football field by his powerful, brooding bearded face and very intense eyes, has the rare combination of power, speed and exceptional cutting ability. He is also a humanitarian who cares about others.

Harris was awarded the Good Guy Award October 23 at Three Rivers Stadium in Pittsburgh.

Sandy Haig, vice president of the sponsoring company, says, "We are honoring Franco Harris because of his willingness to help others less fortunate in the community. He has helped create optimism for those who had nearly given up because they thought no one really cared." Gordon will also present a cash donation to Harris' favorite charity.

Gordon goes on to say, "His willingness to participate as well as use his name has enabled many worthwhile organizations to open doors that were previously closed, thus helping to create more successful fund-raising drives."

At this writing, Franco Harris is the eighth leading rusher in NFL history with 6,528 yards. He has 28 100-yard games in his career which ranks him third behind Jim Brown and O.J. Simpson.

Nature is a great teacher, if you care to take lessons.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The City of Lubbock, P.O. Box 2000, Lubbock, Texas 79457, Phone 762-6411, proposes to request the Department of Housing and Urban Development to release federal funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93-383) to be used for the following projects:

1. Housing Rehabilitation Project: Meadowbrook Villa and Stubbs School Areas, $156,600.00.
2. Canyon Lakes Project: Rock water inlets at Lakes 2 and 6, $45,000.
3. Renovation of Mae Simmons Senior Citizen Center, $20,000.00

It has been determined that the request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and, accordingly, the City of Lubbock has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL 91-190). The City of Lubbock is not required to submit a request for release of funds for the Housing Rehabilitation program as the new locations do not significantly change the scope or effect of the program.

The reasons for the decision not to prepare a Statement are as follows: (a) overall effects of the projects are beneficial; (b) beneficial effects are long-term and the adverse effects are short term and environmentally insignificant, being related primarily to activities necessary to construct the projects; (c) since the projects will occur at the neighborhood level, the short-term adverse effects will be confined to limited numbers of people; (d) historic and environmentally critical areas will not be affected; (e) no viable alternatives to the projects, including the no-action alternative, exist. An Environmental Review Record for the projects has been made by the City which documents the environmental review of the projects and more fully sets forth the reasons why the Statement is not required. This Record is on file at the Municipal Building, 916 Texas Avenue, and is available for public examination and copying, upon request, in Room 207 between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

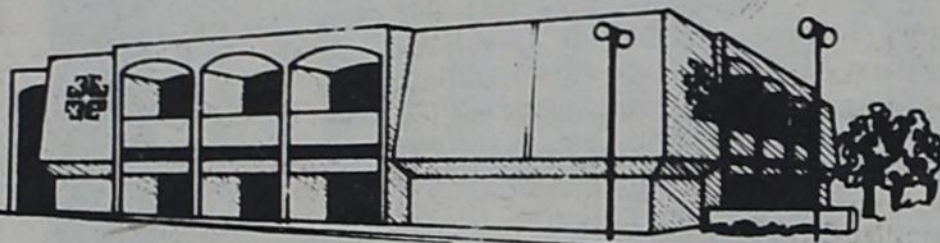

No further environmental review of the project is proposed to be conducted prior to the request for release of federal funds.

All interested parties disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration by the City to the Community Development Coordinator, P.O. Box 2000, Lubbock, Texas 79457, by 5:00 p.m. November 8, 1978. All comments will be considered and the City will not request the release of federal funds or take any administrative action on the project prior to the date in the preceding sentence.
