"HARD WORKING TEAM IN LUBBOCK"

Rev. A.W. Wilson

If we would describe our "Blacks in the News" this week, we would say that they are a hard working team in Lubbock. We would also say that we are glad they stopped by here twenty-six years ago.

This dynamic couple is the Reverend and Mrs. A.W. Wilson, pastor and wife of the Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church. Just last week, Rev. Wilson was appointed by the Presiding Bishop of the Tenth Episcopal District of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, the Right Reverend John Hurst Adams, as pastor for another conference year.

ed by the Presiding Bishop of the Tenth Episcopal District of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, the Right Reverend John Hurst Adams, as pastor for another conference year.

Rev. Wilson has told his congregation that this will be his last year as pastor of a church that he truly loves. "After this year, my wife (Jean) and I will move across the alley from the parsonage and await for the new minister to come and take his place as minister of Bethel," said the veteran minister in the A.M.E. Church.

Mrs. Ora Jean Wilson

The Wilsons have been very active in many, many organizations and efforts since their tenure in the City of Lubbock. For one, Rev. Wilson became the first Black to run for a City Council position in the early 1960's. Many didn't believe he would run such a good race, but he did.

Mrs. Wilson, a very active wife and church member, is very busy in many church functions. Always willing to do her best, from cooking a cake of your choice to raising monies for a needy family, she loves working for her church and community.

LUBBOCK PUBLIC SCHOOLS HOLD REGISTRATION

Lubbock Public Schools will conduct registration Thursday and Friday, August 17 and 18, for junior high and senior high students who are new to the city. The new students will report to their appropriate schools.

Registration will also be held August 17 and 18 for those junior high and senior high students who have moved into new attendance areas since the pre-enrollment period last spring.

Students are asked to bring with them any available grade reports and other records they may have received at their former schools.

Most junior high and senior high school students were pre-scheduled for the classes they may have received at their former schools.

Most junior high and senior high school students were pre-scheduled for the classes that get underway on Tuesday, August 29. They do not need to report for the early registration, according to Gib Weaver, director of secondary education.

Something new will happen in the City of Lubbock on Friday, August 18. This will be "Information Day" for the Lubbock Independent School District. Information will be available at all elementary and junior high school affected by the LISD court-ordered desegregation plan from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

According to L.O.O.K. (Lubbock's Opportunity for Our Kids) will make printed materials available, including bus routes, for parents and students attending.

L.O.O.K. is a non-profit, volunteer coalition organized by the Lubbock City Council of Parents and Teachers, the League of Women Voters of Lubbock, and the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce to help our local schools by encouraging spontaneous citizen cooperation with and for law-abiding obedience to the court ordered integration plan. Many other organizations support the goals of L.O.O.K. through financial assistance and volunteers.

According to a spokesperson of the organization, support of the organization in no way indicates endorsement or opposition to the plan but helps reach objectives toward smooth transition for the sake of Lubbock's children and the social and economic well-being of the city.

On Friday, buses will make the trip to the receiving schools at approximately 10 a.m., 12 noon and 2 p.m. Students and parents will ride buses over the exact route to be used during the school year. The trip will take approximately 20 minutes. About 20 minutes will be allotted for a tour of the receiving school. Principals of affected schools will be on hand to answer questions concerning first day procedures and school supplies. Buses will then return students and parents to the home school. About an hour will be spent on the ride and the tour. Members of the PTA's will be at the schools to serve refreshments and answer questions.

According to school officials, today forty-three and half per cent of all school children in the United States go to school by buses. Less than five per cent of these ride for the purpose of desegregation. Today, buses are being utilized by public school districts to transport special and vocational education students, to reduce minority group isolation, and to transport children who live beyond walking distance of schools. Buses are also used for band trips, athletic activities, and special field trips.

In Lubbock, the school district plans to use approximately forty (40) buses with 70 passenger capacity.

Members of the L.O.O.K. steering committee coordinating the day's activities are: Dudley Strain, bus activities chair; Willie Mae Washington, information day chair; and Jane Quade and Mary Vines, PTA coordinators.

COUNCIL APPROVES CETA BUDGET FOR NEXT YEAR

A more than $1.2 million budget was approved for the CETA Program for fiscal year 1979 at a called meeting of the South Plains Manpower Consortium Planning Council Tuesday afternoon.

According to the estimated budget for Title I, which now includes sub-contracting costs for SER and Lubbock OIC, a total of $1,036,543 in federal funds will be spent for Garza, Hale and Lubbock Counties. $865,163 of this will be spent in Lubbock County between Oct. 1, 1978 and Sept. 30, 1979. An estimated budget of $25,812 was estimated for Title II (the Lubbock City program) and $255,829 for Title VI for the first quarter of the fiscal year.

CETA staff members were still preparing at deadline time on Wednesday a breakdown of Title I according to how much money will be available (estimated) for subcontracting as to the possible number of participants. The plan will be finalized by Friday, Aug. 18, to be in the mail in order to arrive at the Department of Labor in Dallas by the Aug. 21 deadline. Bill Rogers, CETA Planner, said he needed to know how much money would be available before determining the number of participants.

According to Rogers, the plan will be sent marked subject to approval by the South Plains Association of Governments. The SPAC board will view the plan at the September meeting, he said.

Planners are also waiting from word from possible sub-contractors for delivering the plans for the moneys. The request for proposal to deliver the Title I funded work experience, classroom training, and on the job training is scheduled to appear in local papers today and also appears in the Lubbock Digest. A proposal package may be picked up at an Offeror's Conference to be held Friday, Aug. 18, at 1:30 p.m. at the SPAG office, 1611 Ave. M. The request for proposal receipt deadline is 4 p.m. Sept. 7.

Rogers said the timeframe has been tight for putting the plan together because of the legislative stance of CETA. He said it wasn't until July when the Department of Labor sent word to go ahead with planning at the normal 90 percent planning level for Title I and to continue with planning for only the first quarter of Title I and VI.

Rogers said it looks like Title VI will probably be changed drastically and possibly cut.

At the Tuesday meeting, chaired by Juanita Forbes, director of CETA, in the absence of Judge Rod Shaw, the planning council approved Hale County's Title I breakdown of 35 percent for work experience, 15 percent for on the job training, and 50 percent for classroom training.

Garza County will use 10 percent of the funds for one the job training, 60 percent for work experience, and 30 percent for classroom training.

Media Reviews:

(For adults and young adults)
THE "LOSERS"

A review of Insanity Runs In My Family: Short Stories by Hal Bennett (Doubleday, Garden City, Long Island, N.Y.) 299 pages—Hard cover $8.95

Hal Bennett is a most remarkable black American. He is a truly great writer who tells tales of the black past and present with the accuracy of a sharp-shooter and with the artistic skill of a modern Michelangelo. Hal Bennett is a man to watch... and to follow, if one would understand the sociology, the psychology, the geography, the economics, the politics, the health care needs... and the highest hopes and the deepest shames of Black American life.

His fascinating and superbly eloquent short stories paint word pictures of black American life you will always treasure, even when they make you cry or cringe. Perhaps most important in this, as in other writings (which the reader should try to find), of Hal Bennett is the fine vitality which he persistently portrays in black life. Here's a book to enjoy and to hold as a prized possession.

Police Happenings

CRIMINAL MISCHIEF

A.J. MOORE, 2911 Beech Avenue, reported to Lubbock police that someone unknown shot what may have been a BB pellet and shattered a window on a car on his property.

The damage to the window was believed to be $249.

This incident happened last Saturday evening.

EX-BOYFRIEND BEATS LUBBOCK WOMAN

A twenty-two year old Lubbock woman who lives in east Lubbock reported to local police that her ex-boyfriend gave her a hard time. She told police that she had not been staying with him for the last six months. "I don't see why he took advantage of me," she told police.

At 6 a.m. one morning last week, the man came over to her residence and wanted her to go with him as he delivers the daily newspaper. He told her that he had a paper route with the "A.J."

After agreeing to go with him, she got into the car with him and he took her over to his apartment on 5th Street.

Once inside, they had an argument, according to the police report, which lasted for about two hours. "He was arguing with me over another boyfriend," she said.

After completing his words of anger, he went outside (according to the police report) and got a stick, that looked like a baseball bat, about 18 inches long.

She told police that the man began beating her with the stick. She told police that he beat her for about an hour. According to the police report, she finally talked him into letting her go.

She received bruises on her forearms, back and legs. There were no broken bones.

She told police that she might file charges against her ex-boyfriend. The lady was taken to the Health Sciences Center where she was treated.

AGGRAVATED ASSAULT

GLORIA J'JDIE, 3601 Zenith Avenue, reported to Lubbock police that a lady started a fight with her one day last week. After the fight, the lady took Judie's purse and left with it. This was done after pulling a knife on Judie.

After taking the purse, the lady did drive off in her car.

Appearing rather upset, Judie told police that she would like to file charges, but didn't really want to give a police report of the incident which happened at 3609 Vanda Avenue.

The police report indicated that Judie was apparently "scared of the lady and was afraid to file against her."

It is about time for some of these people to be filed on if they are responsible for hurting other people of the community. This column hopes this lady is filed on.

ATTEMPTED RAPE

An eighteen year old young lady told police that she will file on a man who attempted to rape her one day last week.

According to the police report, she said the man came over to her house and offered to give her a ride to the store. She told him she would appreciate the ride, and they got into the car together.

The man, however, did not go to the store. Instead he drove on the Idalou Highway. The lady asked him to take her back home, and he told her that "You are going to give me something." She told the man, "I'm not going to give you nothing."

At this time, the man drove into the Corral Drive Inn on Idalou Highway and began to rape her. The lady jumped out of the car and ran for help. She got away and found someone to call the police on the man.

She did tell the police that the man and her had an affair five months ago, but would file charges against him this week.

Only time will tell if this will become a reality.

BLACK ASSISTANT SUPER-INTENDENT NEEDED TO HELP FIND BLACK TEACHERS

We realize the Federal Court will be watching the upcoming school year in Lubbock. We realize that the Lubbock Public Schools are having a difficult time in recruiting Blacks to work in the school system here. We realize that Black principals of the system have gone out to predominantly Black institutions of higher learning to recruit Black teachers and have returned with empty nets.

This is not a good omen for the Lubbock Public Schools and something must be done about it now.

As in the past, we've suggested to the local administration that there needs to be some positive action taken on appointing an assistant Black superintendent to the Lubbock Public Schools. This kind of an image would help overcome some of the negative feedback received when Black educators and principals go with their white counterparts to recruit Black teachers for Lubbock. Sure, they don't want to come way out west. They see no images of what Black people are doing in the system with the exception of teaching and coaching.

Blacks, especially the younger Blacks, are more concerned about how they can move up the socio-economic ladder in the system or what have you. If they see a system with more than 30,000 pupils enrolled, a very positive number of Black students and no Blacks in the central office of administration adding to the implementation of the total program. Sure, they don't want to come way out west.

We'll never be able to get those capable Blacks to participate in this system until we make opportunities a reality for Blacks in the system. A great beginning can be a position for an assistant superintendent. These kinds of moves are being made all over Texas. Why not here so we can overcome this image of the lack of Black involvement of qualified Blacks who can make a great contribution to our system.

In order to overcome our problems in the area of recruiting Blacks in the teacher ranks, we've got to bring a Black assistant superintendent on board at the central office.

WELCOME BACK, REV. A.W. WILSON

Several months ago, many Lubbockites and members of the Northwest Texas Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church were saying that the Rev. A.W. Wilson will no longer pastor the Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church. He has come back for his twenty-seventh year at a church he's worked so hard for in the past.

After suffering from a broken hip and limb, the elder statesman of AME Church in Northwest Texas Conference has come back to give what he has for the last year as the pastor of this church. Bishop John Hurst Adams, presiding Bishop of Tenth Episcopal Conference, hesitated in appointing Rev. Wilson again, but decided that he should return to a church he loves.

Rev. Wilson has told the membership that this will be his last year, and will retire here in our city. His wife, Mrs. Ora Jean Wilson, and him are hard-working people who have done much for the church and their community.

We welcome this man back to pastor once again at the Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church. Regardless of what the so-called critics are saying, he's back to give what he has for a church he loves.

BLACKS AND BERMUDA

Among the growing trouble spots around the globe is an idyllically g'd coral reef several hundred miles off our shores called Bermuda.

Bermuda has had a reputation for peaceableness, gentility—and order. The peaceableness, in the minds of many, was only surface deep. The gentility, as some saw it, was both a means of control and of increasing tourist trade. The order was—and is—maintained by an inequitable system of voting which effectively disenfranchises much of Bermuda's black majority.

In 1966, when I visited Bermuda, blacks were still largely confined to several parishes or townships on the island. Votes were weighed according to the "importance" of the district in which one lived. Where the white Bermudans chiefly lived were, of course, the most "important" districts.

Bermuda, in 1966, imported white policemen and civil servants from Great Britain and other parts of the empire while black unemployment resembled our present black American youth unemployment.

There were no British—or Bermuda-sponsored opportunities for anything more than a largely "social diploma" type secondary education. The white Bermudans—who constituted the bulk of the country's middle and upper classes—secured the best local employment for their sons and daughters.

Otherwise they were sent off for further education in the British Isles or Canada.

The only rudimentary local access to higher education was through an overseas outpost of the University of Maryland's extension service. Few were encouraged to take advantage of even this opening wedge to college education. Those who attended this unit against the will of those in control claim to have had no doors opened to them locally, with their only choice being to leave the island.

Yet Bermuda has assiduously cultivated an appearance of internal good will. A young black priest was named vicar of one of less than a dozen parishes. There were—eleven years ago—distinguished black magistrate, school masters and headmistresses; and blacks took leading roles in the country's inequitably balanced parliamentary affairs.

The most pressing immediate sore at time was the failure of the British Parliament to force upon Bermuda a "one-man, one-vote" constitution. Black unrest, while kept under Bermuda's traditionally taciturn wrappings, was seething.

The British, in all of their colonial enterprises, have been especially clever. They have bought off dissidents or exported them, often with the benefit of paid-for higher education and a one-way visa.

When I visited Bermuda, in 1966, it was for a district conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, which is the largest religious body in Bermuda. I had been invited to be the keynote speaker at the concluding rally which turned out to be the largest public assembly in the history of Bermuda.

All during the week preceding the Sunday afternoon rally, the A.M.E. bishop, the late John Douglass Bright, had urged upon his pastors on the island the need to speak much more forthrightly to the social, economic and political needs of their people. The repeated and resounding answer from the local black elders was that such a course was beyond the traditions of Bermuda.

Being an Episcopalian, on Sunday morning I attended a local Anglican parish. Aside from the use of the politically oriented English Book of Common Prayer—with its thoroughgoing emphasis upon obedience to one's "betters" and servility—the white vicar's sermon was political in tone from its beginning to its end.

Thus there were two standards of life on Bermuda. My friends advise me that they still exist today, modified on the surface, but far more acutely felt. The prospects for lasting peace, after the recent rampage and rebellion, would seem to be remote, unless Bermuda undergoes some major change toward equity in all aspects of Bermudian life for its present black majority.

Regulate the Regulators— for a Change

WASHINGTON—Like the weather, you say, everyone talks about Federal regulations, but no one does anything about them.

That's not the case anymore. Those of us who believe too much government stands in the way of good government, could count few companions in the cause until recently. Now, growing numbers of Americans—particularly small businessmen and individual taxpayers—have joined our ranks.

Thanks in good measure to Proposition 13, to years of unfulfilled promises about making the bureaucracy responsive and to a mood in the country of what probably might be best described as a "return to the way things used to be," a unified chorus is letting Washington know of its frustration.

And much like biblical Jerico, the walls of big government are beginning to tumble down.

The assault has been on a number of fronts. But the most promising centers around unregulating the regulatory process itself. Congress has revived interest in the legislative veto—used sparingly in the past—and its wider use would make the independent regulatory agencies servants to the public again, not the other way around.

By way of example, consider the Federal Trade Commission: created as a watchdog for the public in the marketplace, but now powerful far beyond congressional intent in determining what the public can or cannot buy and in issuing edicts to business which snarl it in paperwork.

Its myriad rules and regulations cost the businessman unnecessary billions annually in compliance with red tape—and of course the buying public picks up the tab as the costs are passed through to consumers.

A rollback of such unrestricted authority—long overdue—has already begun. Legislation I have introduced would prevent the implementation of a rule or regulation by the five-member commission if Congress—after time to assess the need—determines the FTC has overstepped its regulatory bounds.

The legislative veto provides that no future FTC rule will escape the screening process. Congress will have up to 90 days to judge the worth of rules submitted to both Houses of Congress. During that period, a concurrent resolution passed by one or both Houses would deny the rule from working an injustice on the marketplace, the consumer or the businessman.

The public, through its elected representatives would again have a measure of control over arbitrary written and often contradictory rules emanating from Washington's unanswerable bureaucracy.

Congressional oversight of the independent regulatory agencies is not a new concept. It is supposed to be a working principle of government now. But the growth of bureaucracy has outstripped the ability of Congress to tighten its grip on runaway regulation.

Reform of the regulatory process is, of course, the long range goal. But sometimes the individual skirmishes won can decide the battle. The legislative veto over agencies such as the FTC, providing Congress with strengthened life or death power over arbitrary rules, will decide more than a few of the little wars.

THE EDUCATIONAL FOUNDATIONS
CONGRESSWOMAN
SHIRLEY CHISHOLM

Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm is a magnificent woman of many parts. But she began her public life as a freshman to the 91st Congress. She was assigned to the House Agriculture Subcommittee on Forestry and Rural Villages, which she felt had no relation to the needs and problems of her Congressional District in New York City. After placing an amendment to remove her name from this committee, she was assigned to the Veterans Affairs Committee, which had some relevancy to her constituency.

When the 92nd Congress convened, Mrs. Chisholm was assigned to the House Education and Labor Committee, which is her main field of concentration and interest. She serves on the Select Education, Post-secondary Education, and Elementary, Secondary and Vocational Education subcommittees.

On January 25, 1972, speaking at the Concord Baptist Church in Brooklyn, New York, Mrs. Chisholm declared her candidacy for the office of President of the United States. She went on to become the first woman from a major political party in the United States to ever actively run for the Presidency until the conclusion at the 1972 Democratic national convention.

The Congresswoman has written two books, Unbought and Unbossed, published in 1970 (Houghton Mifflin Company/Avon Press) and The Good Fight, published in 1973 (Harper and Row),

Black Poetry

SOLAR ENERGY

The sun came radiantly over my head,
Turning the black to red,
Filling my body with solar energy,
Burning my skin blacker than ever it was,
Ripping my soul like a melon.

Solar energy which is good,
Solar energy which is bad.

Making me darker
Yet making my soul
Invincible in my goal,
Baking and fulfilling.

I am a living sacrifice,
I am enriched in faith,
I am inspired.

I stretch my arms wide-grasping,
Yet not reaching.

Why?
Why can't I reach what I grasp for?

What?
What am I grasping for?

I am perished...
I am...

I am a living sacrifice...
—Kathy Fittz

(Here the black poet reminds us of an unforgettable and inescapable truth: we can do many things, but not change the color of our skin.)

Carolyn Niethammer is a writer and student of Native American life. She is a sensitive observer and has told with gentleness an exquisitely beautiful story of the role of our continent's least-known women who have served well in all aspects of Indian life. If anyone doubts the vivacity, stability, flexibility, endurance, charm and might of womanhood, this book will dispel every false illusion.

This book is a deeply human story of women's struggles on behalf of every human life from the cradle—and before—to the grave—and beyond.

Recommended for general readers and for high school students exploring Native American life.

She resided at 2412 Date Avenue for the past 38 years.

She leaves to mourn her death a sister, Florence Harris of Lubbock; a niece, Mrs. Francis Hood of Lubbock; a cousin, Mrs. Christine Rogers of Brookshire, Texas, and several other relatives and friends.

BETHEL A.M.E.

"I haven't had an opportunity to preach a sermon since last February, but I'm here this morning to preach," said Rev. A.W. Wilson. "I want each of you to pray for me, and pray for each other," he continued. He was appointed last week to pastor for another year. To that, he said, "I'm thankful of this opportunity, and I will do my best as I began my 27th year at Bethel," he continued.

Senior Choir Number One, under the direction of Mrs. Lillian S. Struggs and Mrs. Rose Lincoln at the organ, were responsible for the music of the hour.

Let us continue to pray for our sick and shut in members. Those on the sick list include Brother J.H. Wilson and Sister Artie Mae Washington. Both received a contribution from the Adult Sunday School's class monthly project.

The pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. A.W. Wilson, and members would like to thank everyone for cooperating in the annual conference which was held here last week. Since that conference, Sister Sarah Crawford was appointed Deaconess and a new refrigerator freezer has been purchased for the church kitchen.

There are souvenir programs still for purchasing. If you would like one, why not contact Mrs. Sarah Blocker.

The first church conference, in the new conference year, will be held Wednesday, August 30. This conference is always held the first Wednesday after the fourth Sunday after the end of the Annual Conference. All members are asked to please be present. There will be some important business discussed.

Youth Choir Number One practices at the church each Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. All young people who would like to participate in this choir are asked to be present each Tuesday.

Prayer meeting is held each Wednesday evening at 7 p.m. in the church auditorium. Let us come out and praise God together each Wednesday evening.

Lyons Chapel Baptist

A most admirable time was at the 46th Annual Session of the New Zeal Baptist Association held at our church last week. Our theme was: "Christian Stewardship in the Church", Romans 14:12.

Evangelist T.L. Rivers did an excellent job on delivering the message on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights. We found him to be a very dynamic, precise and a spiritual speaker. Moderator Perry and Vice Moderator Coleman, along with the other officers, did a superb job getting the association together for the year of 1978. On Thursday night, Moderator gave his annual address, which was titled: "Off to a New Start." It was very well delivered. Rev. Walter Griffin was given the title "Moderator Emeritus" of the New Zeal Association after having retired his position. Moderator Perry felt he was very deserving of this honorary title. Rev. Griffin worked very faithful down through the years with the association and did a splendid job.

On Friday night was Youth Night. We would like to congratulate Petra McCoo. She was the first runner up for the "Miss New Zeal Pageant. Miss United of Plainview, Get involved in your church and attend some of the church weekly activities. Come out to Prayer meeting on Wednesday evenings at 6:30 p.m.

FAITH IN TIME OF PERIL

Acts 27:21-26

21 As they had been long without food, Paul then came forward among them and said, "Men, you should have listened to me, and should not have set sail from Crete and incurred this injury and loss.

22 I now bid you take heart; for there will be no loss of life among you, but only of the ship.

23 For this very night there stood by me an angel of the God to whom I belong and whom I worship.

24 and he said, "Do not be afraid, Paul; you must stand before Caesar; and lo, God has granted you all those who sail with you."

25 So take heart, men, for I have faith in God that it will be exactly as I have been told.

26 But we shall have to run on some island."

Acts 27:39-44

39 Now when it was day, they did not recognize the land, but they noticed a bay with a beach, on which they planned if possible to bring the ship ashore.

40 So they cast off the anchors and left them in the sea, at the same time loosening the ropes that tied the rudders; then hoisting the foresail to the wind they made for the beach.

41 But striking a shoal they ran the vessel aground; the bow stuck and remained immovable, and the stern was broken up by the surf.

42 The soldiers' plan was to kill the prisoners, lest any should swim away and escape.

43 but the centurion, wishing to save Paul, kept them from carrying out their purpose. He ordered those who could swim to throw themselves overboard first and make for the land.

44 and the rest on planks or on pieces of the ship. And so it was that all escaped to land.

TRY NOT TO WORRY

Try not to worry,
Turning on your so called problems.
You have no problems,
Only the world has problems.

You have the Earth.
Don't make it your problem.
Make it your friend.

You have the Win.L.
Don't dislike it,
Make it your secret friend.

You have the Rain.
Don't say, "Stop, rain!"

Welcome it with open arms.
As long as we have these...
Try not to worry.
Turning on your so called problems,
You have no problems.
Only the world has problems.
