CONGRATULATIONS TO SENIORS

Editorial

Tonight, Seniors — all seventy-eight of you — are witnessing an experience you have never had before. This will be the last time each of you will ever be presented as the same group.

Each of you will enter into roles of your own choice. Some will choose to further your education, some will enter the armed forces, some will enter trade schools, some will prefer to just

He attended Texas Southern University in Houston for four years, graduating with a Bachelor of Science degree in Pharmacy in May, 1959. He is a member of the Lubbock County Pharmaceutical Association and the 20th and Birch Street Church of Christ.

He and his wife, Jo Ree, reside at 3408 E. 17th street with their two boys, Jimmy Bernard, 17 months, and John Aaron, 3 months. Jo Ree also is a graduate of Texas Southern University with a major in education. She is a former school teacher.

work, and others will be some of you whom will marry.

No matter what role you prefer, it will be challenging. You will find the world engulfed with many problems.

Presently each of you have just begun to play the game of life. If you look at your field of play, you will find it resembling a baseball diamond, and you are the significant player. For twelve long years you have been batting to reach first base. Perhaps at times you found yourself fouling your lessons, and some of you nearly struck out, but you had the determination to hold on and the reward was you hit a Texas leaguer.

Now that you have struggled to first base, will you continue to move forward boldly in order to qualify for a score, or will you be picked off first base by some of life's obstacles?

In this comple society you will eventually discover that a qualified base runner must be able to overcome many obstacles in pursuing the next base of knowledge.

Remember you are now at first base, and by continuing your education there will be no trouble in attaining the next base.

The future of the world, nation, state, county, and city is depending upon you to cross home plate. You are tomorrow's leaders — let's not give up!!

As one of our great presidents said, "Prepare yourself, and some day your chance will come." By living up to these great words you will be confident of the fact that you will play the game of life well, and you will cross home plate.

A Letter of Thanks

I would like to have this letter published so our readers can have a chance to see it.

It came from a white lady in Morton, Texas. Mrs. Charles ones, and her son, who were in their car at Avenue J and Broadway in Lubbock about three weeks ago and her car went dead and she couldn't start it. I got in the car and got it started, drove it around to Dunlap's for her where she was to pick up some packages. Said she and her husband owned a drug store in Morfton, Teas. She was thanking me when I got out of the car when I got back from Austin I had this letter of thanks and just wanted to pass it on to our many readers: I plan to keep it.
