Parkway Neighborhood Center to Dedicate New Building Here Sunday

The Guadalupe - Parkway Neighborhood Center Board, staff, and Parkway Center Neighborhood members will have a Dedication and Open House of their new Parkway Neighborhood Center Building Sunday, October 21, 1979 from 3 to 5:30 p.m. The program will begin at 4 p.m. at 405 N. Quirt.

Parkway Neighborhood Center came into being as a result of Lubbock's 1970 Tornado.

Before May, 1970 we had the one Center, Guadalupe, located in the "Barrio" a neighborhood made up of Americans of Mexican descent.

Three hundred and twenty-five of the Guadalupe Neighborhood's 450 homes were demolished in the tornado as were most of the small stores or businesses. Many of the homeless victims moved to a community located in Northeast Lubbock.

Early in the 1960's a significant population growth took place. Approximately 1200 new homes were built in an area known as the Cherry-Point Addition or the Parkway Neighborhood. Immediately to the North and East, were a few industrial plants and businesses. Other industries were expected to develop in the Northeast Area. These hopefully would attract many skilled workers and they with their families would help develop a strong neighborhood.

Important to the life and growth of this community were the new Parkway Elementary School, Estacado High School and the Hunt Elementary School.

During the late 60's a drastic change occurred. With the numerous move of blacks, and a few browns into the neighborhood, large percentages of the white families left the community. By 1970 many of the houses were vacant.

And so at the time of the tornado, it was possible to move many of these homeless victims into the community. This created an integrated neighborhood of Black, Mexican-American and Anglo, a total 12,000 persons. It is significant that many of these families are home owners today!

With so many of the Guadalupe families now living in the Parkway area, the idea uppermost in the minds of the Guadalupe Board and Staff was to go where the people were.

But where? And How?

Through the cooperation of the Lubbock School Board, space was made available in the Parkway Elementary School. By June, 1970, the staff started what turned out to be a busy summer program, using the cafeteria and three classrooms for:

- neighborhood meetings
- classes in arts and crafts
- and both indoor and outdoor recreational activities.

The response from the many children, youth and adults indicated a need for the Center to this Program as well as the work being done at Guadalupe Center.

Between 1970-1973, Parkway Center moved to five different locations. In the Fall of 1970 when school began, the Center rented space in the Parkway Mall for a period of eight months. We then moved back to Parkway Elementary School for the Summer of 1971. With the opening of school in the Fall of 1971, a fourth move was made to a building, formerly occupied by the Covenant Presbyterian Church, at 2420 E. Erskine (now the home of the George Wood Community Center). We remained here for a period of two years. Then in August, 1973 the Center relocated in the Parkway Mall and remained in these facilities through the summer of 1979.

Since 1970 the Program has quadrupled at the Parkway Center!

This growth in membership created a need for larger facilities. With the approval of City-Council for Community Development Funds, the Parkway Neighborhood Center has recently moved into their new and larger facilities, located at 405 N. Quirt.

Parkway Center offers a multi-functional program to the neighborhood of which it is a part:

Pre-School Children

"Little People's" Play Group; "D.E.S.T."; and Peppermint Club, Ages 2-5 years.

Elementary Boys and Girls

Brownies, Girl Scouts, Cub Scouts, Webelos, Boy Scouts, 1st and 2nd Grade Boys Club, Open Game Room and Individual Tutoring, Grades 1-6.

Youth

Open Game Room, Jr. High Youth Night and Sr. High Youth Night, Grades 7-12.

Dance

Ballet, Gymnastics, Tap, Mom's Exercise, Adult Ballet, Adult Jazz.

Additional Activities

Family Nights (Game Rooms, Covered Dish Dinners and Programs).

Within the framework of the structured program of Parkway Center, there are many tools used to affect a program of individual and group growth and of wholesome community and family living:

- Home visits by the staff to the homes of the members
- Family and individual counseling
- Work with "home-bound" persons
- Make referrals and assist families that need housing, food, medical or legal help
- Serve as a field work placement agency for students of Social Welfare, Home & Family Life Departments at Texas Tech University
- Library Service — Parkway Center maintains a small library of its own. Boys and girls are encouraged to check out books similar to the process used in the public library.

The above indicates the wide variety of groups and individuals that the Center seeks to serve. Children, Youth and Adults all have a need for fun and friends, and it is this common need that brings many of the members to the Center.

Parkway Center is a United Way Agency.

Happy VI-II New Mascot for Red Raiders

Happy VI-II arrived at Texas Tech University Thursday, Oct. 11 to become the mascot for Red Raider athletic teams. The 11-year-old black gelding is from the same 6666 Ranch that was home to Happy VI.

Happy VI-II made his debut Saturday for the Texas Tech-Arkansas game, but Happy VI also bowed out at the game before returning to the 6666 for rest and recuperation. Happy VI has had pulled tendons in a front leg.

Both horses have been gifts to Texas Tech from Anne Burnett Tandy, her daughter, Mrs. B.F. Phillips and the 6666.

Happy VI had appeared in televised commercials before coming to Texas Tech. He was one of the first horses ridden for Marlboro commercials by the original Marlboro man, the late Carl "Bigum" Bradley, wagon boss for the 6666. The 1979 Red Raider, Coke Hopping, said he is pleased with Happy VI-II, but regrets Happy VI's departure.

"Not too many horses could replace Happy VI," he said. "He has as much spirit as any of the cheerleaders. But," he added, "his leg just won't stand up to the job."

Happy VI-II is by Double Devil out of Miss Joe Tom 7 by Joe Tom. He was bred for stamina and speed as a working ranch quarter horse. His registered name is Real Devil, but he was nicknamed "Stormy" at the 6666.

Burney Chapman, blacksmith and 1966 graduate of Texas Tech, brought Happy VI-II from the 6666. He said the gelding has a fine lineage and Happy VI "was one of the best horses the college has ever had."

Fans at Texas Tech's first Gator Bowl engagement Jan. 1, 1954, were the first to see the masked rider, with scarlet and black cape flowing behind him, circle the stadium on a black quarter horse. That entry launched the Tech tradition for the horse and rider to lead the Texas Tech football team onto the gridiron.

JACK ANDERSON WITH JOE SPEAR WEEKLY SPECIAL

Carter Has Calm Exterior But He Is Boiling Within

Copyright, 1979, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON—Back in 1924, a little-remembered Republican president ran and won on the slogan, "Keep Cool with Coolidge." Now more than a half-century later, a Democratic occupant of the White House is testing a similar rallying cry: "Keep Calm with Carter."

Jimmy Carter recently boasted of his ability to avoid panicking in a crisis. He then quickly wrote his potential presidential rival, Ted Kennedy, that any allusion to the senator's behavior at Chappaquiddick never entered his mind. But White House sources admit that the backhanded slap was intended to remind the voters of Kennedy's panicky actions on the night of the Chappaquiddick drowning tragedy 10 years ago.

Carter followed up his image-making ploy with a show of unflappability in dealing with the Soviet troops in Cuba, even though the issue was of his own administration's making.

Nonetheless, White House insiders know that while their boss may look cool on the outside, he is often boiling on the inside. They tell us that behind the smiling Carter facade, he's inwardly stewing over the political polls which show him almost a certain loser for a second term.

The two faces of Jimmy aren't new to his intimates. They know that personal setbacks have always gnawed at him mentally and psychologically. The Georgian is a compulsive achiever who anguishes over any failure to attain personal goals.

One instance came after his graduation from the U.S. Naval Academy. He gained the finals for selection as a Rhodes scholar but was rejected. Friends from that period recall that he was badly shaken and upset.

Even worse was the depression Carter experienced in 1966 when he lost his first race for the Georgia governorship. The president has acknowledged the defeat caused him to re-evaluate his life. Several associates remember that he was plunged into days of gloomy introspection. He pulled himself together and turned to religion only after a long talk with his evangelist-sister, Mrs. Ruth Carter Stapleton.

Carter is determined to defy the polls and seek re-election. Those who know him well predict he'll fight for every delegate vote to the Democratic convention and every ballot cast in next year's election if renominated.

Teddy's Response: Ted Kennedy is boiling, not at Carter's oblique Chappaquiddick comment, but at the economic figures his advisers are bringing him. The outlook for the economy is so dire that there's virtually no doubt in his camp that he'll challenge the president directly for the White House.

The latest report to the senator showed food prices skyrocketing at an annual rate of 21.6 percent at a time when the Carter administration is selling tons of wheat and corn to the Soviet Union. Consumers are paying the piper for finished goods at a rate that is rising at 16.8 percent.

Energy is costing 81.6 percent more annually. And it was the cost of heating oil that drew the most emphatic response from Kennedy. He pointed out that refiners are soaking the users unconscionably and their profit margin has zoomed up 231 percent since Carter took office in 1976.

People will freeze to death because of the exorbitant heating oil price squeeze this winter, Kennedy grimly told an aide.

His economists have also told him that half the current double-digit inflation rate can be attributed to lack of confidence at home and abroad in Carter's leadership. The high-interest-rate policy just imposed by the government is also expected to bring heavier unemployment throughout the nation and deepen the recession.

Every economic indicator brought to his attention makes it all but certain that Teddy will run.

Unreliable Information: There is evidence that President Carter's promise that there'll be sufficient heating oil this winter may be based on misleading information from his Energy Department. The president told his Cabinet recently "we will have the necessary fuel to see us through this winter. You need not doubt that any longer."

But some congressional experts are less optimistic. A confidential report prepared for Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont., is dubious. There's no way of knowing whether there'll be enough heating oil this winter, the report warns.

The report contended the Energy Department failed to obtain the full data to forecast the supply-and-demand situation accurately. It stops short of predicting a shortage but points out that Carter is basing his rosy premise on unreliable information.

Watch on Waste: The federal government is at long last giving a hoot about whistleblowers. When the Civil Service Commission was reorganized early this year, a special counsel's office was established to protect employees who blow the whistle on waste and theft of the taxpayers' money. Until recently, the office was understaffed but beginning this month, funds were provided to hire 140 staff members and set up five new field offices.

• There's another show-and-tell horror story out of the General Services Administration which is the purchasing agent for federal departments and bureaus. Auditors checked into equipment and supplies bought and stored by the GSA. They found the agency had accepted a dump truck without inspecting it on delivery. Testing showed that when the dump section was raised, it slid off the truck onto the ground. Inspectors also found unused paint cans only partially full, torque wrenches that didn't torque and short-count boxes of plastic bags.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby returned last week from a visit to the People's Republic of China predicting large oil trade benefits for Texas businessmen.

Hobby told reporters the Chinese are anxious to increase trade with Texas to develop petroleum equipment and technology. "There are billions of dollars" worth of oil business to be done with China, and Texas will share in it, Hobby said.

Hobby and a delegation of Texas oil drillers, contractors and equipment manufacturers toured Chinese offshore rigs and concluded that Sino oil technology was 40 years behind the U.S.

Currently, he reported, the Chinese have only about 600 drilling rigs in operation, but they would like to develop around 2,000 more rigs in the next five years.

Hobby, whose family owns The Houston Post, also visited the "People's Times," a Chinese newspaper of 6.5 million circulation printed with type set by hand. "Think of the oldest newspaper plant you've ever been in and this one looked twice as old," he said.

He also commented that coal fires in Peking contribute to massive air pollution. "If you're unhappy about our environmental standards, you should spend a few days in Peking. You'll learn to love our Air Control Board," Hobby quipped.

Kennedy Leads Texas

Later, Hobby told a United Press International conference in Houston that Massachusetts Senator Edward Kennedy would defeat President Carter if Texas held a Democratic presidential primary next year.

But former Texas Gov. John Connally, a Republican, told the same group it doesn't matter who prevails between Carter and Kennedy: Connally is going to be the next president.

Connally blasted Kennedy as being too liberal for Democrats anywhere and said he won't let voters forget Kennedy's leftist leanings.

Meanwhile, a Texas campaign management firm concluded last week that a Republican presidential primary including Connally, George Bush, Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan would attract at least 825,000 Texas voters, more than the 500,000 who voted in the 1976 Republican primary.

Bentsen Backs Carter

Despite the large following which Kennedy is said to have in Texas, Carter is not to be counted out. The President won the endorsement of a prominent Texas Senator.

Senator Lloyd Bentsen said he was "more in tune philosophically" with Carter and would support his re-election in 1980. Bentsen last week won a tough Senate Finance Committee battle to exempt state-owned oil from the windfall profits tax.

Bilingual Controversy

New Education Commissioner Alton Bowen drew both praise and fire last week with a new state policy: halt expansion of bilingual education until educators can tell if it's working.

Bowen asserts that the mainstream language English should be stressed in school and that the responsibility for teaching bilingual culture remains in the home.

He was not opposed to bilingual education, which is currently taught up to third grade, but had doubts about how far to extend it in Texas schools, he said.

"Education cannot be all things to all people," he said.

Hispanic Reaction

Not surprisingly, Ruben Bonilla, national president of the League of United Latin American Citizens, blasted Bowen for his comments. Busy last week, Bonilla also met with Texas AFL-CIO president Harry Hubbard to discuss a labor-Hispanic coalition to redistrict the state.

As Texas Hispanics begin flexing stronger political muscle, Bonilla is thought by many as the most likely candidate to lead a third political party, should Hispanics choose that option.

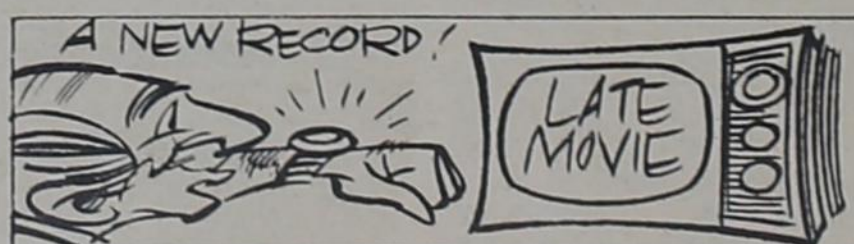

Speculation continues about the 1982 race for Speaker of the House. Among those thought to be in line for the chair are John Wilson, D-La Grange; Jerry Donaldson, D-Gatesville; Tom Uher, D-Bay City; Al Brown, D-San Antonio; Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad; John Bryant, D-Dallas; Dan Kubiak, D-Rockdale; and Ben Grant, D-Marshall.

AG Opinions

In legal opinions issued last week, Attorney General Mark White ruled the Texas Constitution does not authorize the Legislature to abolish the constitutional office of county treasurer. The opinion was requested by State Treasurer Warren G. Harding.

White also answered a request from Education Commissioner Bowen: the City of San Antonio has the same obligation to provide police protection and other city services to an area within the city acquired by a state agency from the federal government that it has to furnish such protection and services to other areas of the city.

Concerning the use of McLennan County funds to operate a zoo, White ruled a county is authorized to contribute funds for operation of a zoo located on property owned entirely by a city.

The U.S. yearly average of household TV set usage per day increased from five hours and 30 minutes in 1965 to six hours and ten minutes in 1977.

CHS to Host College and Vocational Night

The annual College and Vocational Night for Lubbock will be hosted this year by Coronado High School. The event is scheduled for October 22 and will begin at 7 p.m., with a reception in the Coronado cafeteria for administrators, counselors, and college representatives. At 7:30 p.m. there will be a brief assembly in the auditorium followed by three thirty-minute sessions during which students and parents can meet with representatives of various colleges. Representatives from approximately sixty colleges and vocational schools will be present.

The representatives will discuss such things as admission requirements, college entrance tests, cost, scholarships and financial aid, part-time jobs, class size, etc.

Tax Information For Deaf Available Now

Hearing impaired Texans seeking state sales tax information can now "let their fingers do the talking" when calling the state comptroller's office in Austin.

With the assistance of Southwestern Bell, State Comptroller Bob Bullock has expanded the department's toll-free number (1-800-252-5555), so that deaf citizens may dial and ask questions via teletype.

"People who own or have access to home teletype or porta-printer may communicate directly with the comptroller's office, daily from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday," said Jim Phillips, director of sales tax, state comptroller's office in Austin. "When our switchboard operators receive an incoming call that generates a high pitch tone, they immediately route it to one of the office teletypes."

Phillips said Southwestern Bell was instrumental in converting the office's current communications equipment to handle the teletype calls.

"We called their representatives, told them what we needed, and they went to work," Phillips said. "It's a good system and it opens a much needed link with our hearing impaired citizens."

As more and more teletype equipment becomes available, many banking institutions, utilities, governmental and state agencies will begin similar programs.

Whenever an individual expects the world to conform to his or her ideas, that individual is doomed to disappointment.

Kelly's Heroes

by Joe Kelly

The easiest thing in the world to do is to kick a dog when it's down. It doesn't take any amount of intelligence or guts. It takes a mean, vicious nature. Unfortunately, most of us have more of the latter and less of the former.

Thus, you aren't going to get me to say anything about the alleged performances of coaches and team at Texas Tech. No, sir. We aren't going even to comment on the intelligence of the fans, probably students, who placed that large banner on the East stand facing that read "Cotton Fever." No, sir.

Texas Tech's offense is like a fork that has two tines. Just as it makes eating difficult, so does it make moving the football difficult. And last Saturday Tech was operating with only one tine, James Hadnot.

Let us mercifully say that it was a dull game, made so in large part because Tech had no offense and Arkansas played just hard enough to win. You can bet that the Razorbacks will look like a far different team against Texas Saturday. No, sir, any resemblance to excitement came mainly in watching the World Series in the press box.

I don't know what's wrong, but I respectfully suggest to Rex Dockery that he get to the bottom of it, and quick, because at the rate Tech is going this year, next year looks even more dismal with Hadnot gone.

Ron Reeves is the same young man who startled the conference last year. This year he is inadequate, to put it mildly. As for running backs, Tech's roster lists even, plus five signees. And yet, out of 12 players, there is so little confidence in them that they seldom ever carry the ball.

Last Saturday, for example, Mark Olbert and Dale Brown carried the ball all of four times—in an entire game. Hadnot carried 27 times, Reeves 13 and Jim Hart twice.

Dockery, more than disconsolate, perhaps put his finger on the big difference following the game. "Arkansas' defense was quicker than our offense."

So, here we are, halfway through the season and there's not much sunshine ahead. Even Rice and TCU look like major battles for victories. R.I.P.

If you thought Tech had questionable pass defense, wait until the Owls roll into town Saturday. Randy Hertel thinks nothing of throwing the ball 40 to 50 times a game. He was, before last Saturday's game, completing 49% of his passes.

Here are some Hertel facts: he has the most completions, 24 (of 36 attempts) and the most yards in a game, 285. He's deadly and he has two great receivers in Earl Cooper and Robert Hubble.

Advice to fans: Buckle on your safety harnesses, because it might not be safe watching this game without them.

The conference continues to do well, thanks to Texas' victory over OU. The record for the year now is 15 wins, eight losses, one tie. For all games the home team has won 11, lost 5. On the road the record is 4-3.

In the league the home team usually wins, right? Ho-kay, right now the record stands 6-5—and last week every visiting team won, how about that?

You say Tech isn't passing much this season? Hey! As of 12 noon last Saturday, the only team that had passed more was Rice, which is leading the league with 151 attempts—to Tech's 84. Next in line? TCU with 76 tries.

The pre-Saturday stats show what Tech's troubles are. The Raiders were ranked sixth in total offense, sixth in rushing offense, sixth in pass offense. They also were seventh in total defense, sixth in rushing defense and sixth in pass defense. Tech is averaging 90 yards a game passing—and yielding 131 yards.

This has to be the most horrible World Series from the standpoint of playing conditions in the history of the series. The first three games had rain and cold, while the next two had cold and wind. If it was anything except the World Series, the games would have been postponed.

I agree with Jack Whintaker, who commented that TV had to take some of the blame for the games being played at night, but that greed also had to play a part. The Almighty Dollar still talks louder than anything else.

By all rights, sports seasons should be confined to their "normal" period. Sports, particularly the pro variety, have gotten away from that. They extend, as I've said before, over far too long a period.

Thus, baseball ought to start two weeks later, end a month earlier. Football ought to start no earlier than the middle of September and end the last week in November. Hockey and basketball ought to start the first week in November and end by the last of March.

You won't see it happen, so don't look for it. Squeeze one more game in, we need the money. Extend the season, we need the money. Shift the games around to satisfy TV, we need the money. And fans, sheep that they are, accept it.

Three fine people are being inducted into Tech's Hall of Honor Saturday—Junior Arterburn, G.B. Morris and Bob Fuller. All have been stalwarts in the Tech parade up the ladder.

Maybe at the half Geeber will tell about his love dance with the Baylor Bear in Waco, or how Junior made a certain Arizona coach look just a little bit ridiculous on his predictions.

No, all three deserve the honor and Tech is to be congratulated on such wise selections.

As late as a week ago, following the Tech-Aggie game, Dockery was saying that he didn't think the conference champion would be undefeated. As of this writing, it looks more and more as though Tech wouldn't be stained by a loss.

The Longhorns had a stout defense, that was known. The Horn offense was suspect, particularly at quarterback. But Donnie Little obviously has come on strong and so has the offense as a whole. OU had hopes for a national title, but Texas destroyed them with what has to be called an awesome display.

Texas probably won't have an easy time with Arkansas in Little Rock, but the Horns should win handily. After that, the only real test for Texas will be Houston, which is undefeated, but which also hasn't been impressive and had to struggle to beat the Aggies last Saturday.

This week's main outside league competition is a good intersectional clash between Baylor and Army at West Point. I'll go with the Bears. Houston ought to get by SMU in a good battle, while TCU hopes to keep rolling against Tulsa, and should.

As for Rice at Tech, five weeks ago this would have been a cinch to pick. As it is now, it's a tossup. I'll take Tech on the strength of Hadnot and a defense that can be tough inside the 20 yard line.

Office Security Tips

Keep these helpful crime prevention reminders on office security handy:

Do not leave purses on your desk in plain view.

Personal property should be marked with the "Operation Identification" property-marking program for easy identification.

Become familiar with escape routes for emergencies.

Females riding elevators should stand near the control panel. If attacked, press the alarm and as many of the control buttons as possible.

Be alert for pickpockets on crowded elevators.

If you leave your work station, lock your personal property in your desk.

Do not leave the reception area unattended.

If you must leave the office unattended, lock the door during your absence.

When working alone or after normal business hours, lock the office doors.

Report all suspicious persons and activities to the proper authorities (managers, building security, police).

Require all servicemen to show proper identification (uniforms alone should not be considered proper identification).

Visitors should be escorted to the proper office or remain with the receptionist until someone comes for them.

Do not allow company property to be removed from the office without authorization by management.

Do not allow repairs to be made on your alarm system unless authorized by management. Call the alarm company to confirm the repairs.

Company keys should be kept separate from personal keys.

Company keys should be safeguarded at all times.

Door viewers can aid in access controls.

Company property should be marked with a police number for easy identification; model and serial number, as well as thorough descriptions, should also be noted.

AHA to Spend Over $1 Million on Research Projects

AUSTIN — The American Heart Association will spend over $1 million on Texas-based cardiovascular research projects during its 1979-80 fiscal year.

The organization's national component will spend $499,971 on 25 research projects in Texas, while some 50 grants totaling $618,976 have been awarded by the AHA's Texas Affiliate.

The $1,118,967 total is the most ever appropriated by the AHA for research in Texas and represents a $90,528 increase over last year's total.

Many Careers Offered in Health Care Field

One of the fastest growing career fields in Texas today is the health care field.

The Texas Hospital Education and Research Foundation estimates that the health care field in this state currently has approximately 20,000 vacant positions. During the next 15 years there will be a need for 240,000 registered nurses, 143,000 emergency medical technicians, 160,000 health service administrators and hundreds of thousands to fill vacancies in the more than 300 careers represented in the health care area.

Lubbock and area students in the 10th-12th grades will be given an opportunity to spend a day exploring the many careers available in the health care industry during the upcoming Health Careers Fair at Health Sciences Center Hospital. The fair is scheduled from 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. Friday, Oct. 26, at the teaching hospital in Lubbock.

At the fair, students will meet with a number of health care professionals to discuss the various aspects of pursuing a health related career. Information will be provided on job availability, education requirements and salaries in the health care industry.

Students also will have an opportunity to tour the hospital to see health care professionals at work in the various departments.

To make reservations for the Health Careers Fair, phone Volunteer Services Director Jacque Hastings at 743-3346. Lunch will be provided by the HSCH Auxiliary.

Student Has Short Story Published in Reading Text

Irma Hernandez, seventh grade student at Thompson Junior High, submitted a story to Ginn & Co. Publishers when she was a fifth grader at Mahon Elementary School. After screening many submitted stories, the Ginn Publishing Co. has selected Irma's story to be included in a fifth grade basal reader, Tell Me How the Sun Rose.

The reader will be submitted next summer for consideration by the Texas State Textbook Committee. If adopted, it will be used in the public schools of Texas.

At the Thursday, October 18, LISD school board meeting, at 7:15 a.m., Irma will receive an autographed copy of the book along with a royalty check for her story. Nathan Tinkle, Ginn's West Texas representative, and Jimmy Hobbs, Ginn's director of Texas adoptions, will attend the board meeting to make the presentation. Author of the book, Dr. Ted Clymer, hopes to be present also.

Sheridan's Ride

by Jack Sheridan

The column this week fully intended to return to the standard purpose of the weekly format, the reviewing of motion pictures new and talked-about in the city.

And so (since the local theaters during school time have pretty much abandoned the weekly matinee periods and the Citibuses don't run on Sundays or evenings (more's the pity), Saturday afternoon is the only time that this reviewer can hit the cinema minipalaces.

And so, with all the fervor of the addicted movie fan that this writer has been for half a century or so, I set out via that same jicky Citibus line for the Fox Fourplex out on West 19th Street this Saturday, object: to catch the matinee showing of Blake Edwards' new one called whimsically "10", starring his wife Julie Andrews and Dudley Moore. I caught the inbound Boston South Plains Mall bus on the 16th and Avenue Q corner down from my apartment house, stood patiently until the red-white can on wheels showed up, paid my fare and got a transfer so that when I got downtown I could switch over to the Redbud Square-Mall bus which would circle past all the hospitals and Maxey Park and dump me a couple of blocks from the Fox, with scant time to walk the distance to the box office and the start of the 2:15 p.m. film run.

Well, I got downtown all right, no sweat. And I waited at Broadway and K across from the Pioneer Retirement Hotel for the connecting bus. I waited patiently. All Citibus patrons must be patient; it is a necessary obligation. I had much experience in this "waiting game" with Citibus. I have learned to be "patient" while bus drivers stop to cross the road to (a) use the nearest bathroom, (b) cross the road to buy a snack or soft drink at a grocery store, (c) watch while the driver pauses to switch stations on his too-loud, rock radio station, (d) tries to laboriously note down the readings on his coin machine and set his working house in order. Oh, yes, you wait.

So, I waited, with all the meekness that the situation demands. Citibus passengers are, if nothing else, meek. It is the first line of self-defense.

Well, I waited while all the regularly-scheduled buses made their appointed arrivals and departures from the K and Broadway corner, all but the Redbud Square job.

It was set to leave at 1:45 p.m., getting me to the theater corner about 2:10. Just enough time. At 1:50, no bus. At 1:55 p.m. no bus. Since I won't enter a theater after the movie is in progress, that, of course, blew my plans about "10." Sadly, and 40 cents poorer I might add, I started off, this time on the hoof and retraced my way from downtown to my apartment where I settled down with the current library book I had been reading. At least, I did finish the book. It wasn't all wasted.

Of course, Citibus doesn't run on Sundays, so movies are out that day, or anything else that involves distance. And don't mention cabs to a man who hasn't been paid on his job for the past nine weeks. (Government bureaucracy tangle, they say!)

So, "10" and all other movie ventures will have to wait until citibus cooperates—which, I'll concede, they usually, but not always, do.

That same transportation bugaboo also eliminated my attendance at the first concert of the season by the Texas Tech Symphony Orchestra Sunday afternoon at the University Center, the Texas Tech University Theater's opening production "Twelfth Night" and the Judson Maynard organ recital that Sunday night.

And, transportation also rules out my attendance at any of the new year's Lubbock Community Concerts programs which opened Thursday night with the appearance, I assume, of Beverly Wolff, the operatic soprano. You see, after holding their season in the spacious Civic Center Theatre (to which I can walk from my house) for the past couple of seasons, the Association has reverted to the dreadful Monterey High School Auditorium for their attractions. This barn-like, uncomfortable auditorium has all the intimacy of Jones Stadium, to which is added slippery aisles and damned trying, hard seats and poor acoustics. It is, at 50th and Indiana, absolutely unobtainable for one without a car and so, dear friends, while I have a membership, I shall have to report what's coming along the way but my lips are sealed by circumstances on what has been.

I did hike down to the Civic Centre Theatre a week back and delighted in the opening concert of the Lubbock Symphony's new season. Can it be their 34th season already? Mercy!

It was a brilliant, thoroughly enjoyable night which the big crowd hailed with enthusiasm and accorded the guest soloist, bravura pianist Paul Schenley a standing ovation plus cheers. Conductor William A. Harrod led his hardy band through such favorites as Dvorak's "Slavonic Dance No. 1," the surging "Finlandia" by Sibelius and the intriguing "Pictures at an Exhibition" by Moussorgsky, aided no little by the program note narration of Texas Tech's esteemed music pioneer, Dr. Gene L. Hemmle.

Paul Schenley, the handsome, vigorous young pianist, certainly made his splash. He sailed into the Concerto No. 2 in G minor of Saint-Saens with all the thrust of Popeye after that spinach gets down his gullet. Seriously, Schenley chose to dazzle us with pianistic pyrotechnics and he certainly did. He has immense power in his fingers and wrists and he put it all into play with a masterful demonstration of his command and his unerring technique. He wowed 'em, to put it mildly, and held his audience's attention to those flying fingers on the keyboard with all the locked fascination of the mongoose to the snake.

That Schenley can be quiet, thoughtful and delicate was brought out vividly in a lovely rendition of Beethoven's "Für Elise" but Operation Bombastic came back in a rush with his concluding encore, the lilting "La Campanella."

Harrod chose to close the program with the old warhorse, "Marche Slav" of Tchaikowski but even Peter's usual thundering crescendos seemed diffused and lacklustre after the Schenley bombardment.

It was a fine concert and attention is now centered on the November dates, the nights of Nov. 19-20, when bass baritone Donald Gramm takes the guest spot. You'd better secure your tickets early for this one, for Gramm is a mighty popular favorite in these parts.

I don't know whether or not you have had a chance to drop into "Lubbock Lights" the new art gallery shop on the corner of Avenue Q and 17th Street, 1701 Ave. Q, next door to Gristy's Cleaners. Two young ladies have established a tasteful and comprehensive art shop here open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. They have a wide range of fine paintings and art objects and they enhance their attractive setting with their own warm and vibrant personalities. The ladies are Lora Hunt Johnson and Deborah Milosevich and if that latter name twigs you, it should. Paul Milosevich is the Texas Tech instructor-artist and he is a guardian presence in this rewarding venture. Drop in on Lubbock Lights) it will please and delight you.

Notice

Notice of Finding of No Significant Effect on the Environment

To Whom it May Concern:

The City of Lubbock, P.O. Box 2000, Lubbock, Texas 79457, Tel. 762-6411 proposes to request the Department of Housing and Urban Development to release federal funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93-383) to be used for the following project:

Booster Pump Station #4 Site Change - $60,000.00.

It has been determined that the request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and, accordingly, the City of Lubbock has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL 91-190).

The reasons for the decision not to prepare a Statement are as follows: (a) overall effects of the projects are beneficial; (b) beneficial effects are long-term and the adverse effects are short term and environmentally insignificant, being related primarily to activities necessary to construct the projects; (c) since the projects will occur at the neighborhood level, the short-term adverse effects will be confined to limited numbers of people; (d) historic and environmentally critical areas will not be affected; (e) no viable alternatives to the projects, including the no-action alternative, exist.

An Environmental Review Record for the projects has been made by the City which documents the environmental review of the projects and more fully sets forth the reasons why the Statement is not required. This Record is on file at the Municipal Building, 916 Texas Avenue, and is available for public examination and copying, upon request, in Room 207 between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

All interested parties disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration by the City of the Community Development Coordinator, P.O. Box 2000, Lubbock, Texas 79457, by 5 p.m., October 23, 1979. All comments will be considered and the City will not take any administrative action on the project prior to the date in the preceding sentence.

The Black Experience AND The Church: Bishop H. Hartford Brookins, who presides over 150,000 African Methodists in 17 western and southwestern states believes that black Americans must learn to spend their money and use their vote more wisely in order to make themselves politically and economically strong. He told the black press recently that in 1978 black people spent from 3 to 4 billion dollars in liquor and 3 1/2 billion on cars.

"Black Americans are the 9th richest nation in the world. We have the buying power to influence any decision the government makes, if we use our money properly ... The black church has the responsibility to arouse blacks from a sleeping position," Brookins added.

Brookins continued: "The church is no longer concerned only with getting people ready to die and with opening the pearly gates ... We want them to live Now ... We are interested in opening the gates to the factories of Chrysler, owning shares in automobile factories and obtaining dealerships ... We want to import and export diamonds from South Africa."

Bishop Brookins described an Economic Development program which he started several years ago in his district designed to make the black church financially strong enough to make loans to congregations to build new buildings instead of having to borrow from downtown banks at exorbitant rates. A.M.E. members are encouraged to pay $36 a year into the fund which today stands at more than two hundred thousand dollars. Our goal is at least a half-million dollars, he stated. Bishop Brookins said he could not support President Carter in 1980 unless he restores the economy and can "provide jobs for black people." The black church is the strongest institution which black Americans have, the bishop concluded.

Chimes: Gary Coleman, nine year old star of the hit television comedy series "Different Strokes" has been named the honorary Gift of Life chairman of the National Kidney Foundation. Gary was a recent guest of The Tonight Show and it was reported that he has his own production company. He underwent a kidney transplant when he was five years old and will help promote the foundation's programs through TV and radio public service spots as well as personal appearances.

According to Carl Rowan, noted black columnist, American public education is in the grip of a complex crisis caused by widespread violence and vandalism; abuse of alcohol and drugs, even by fourth graders; racial and class hostility; the flight, or repulsion of good teachers; strikes by teachers who stay and a general financial crisis caused by the tax cut madness of people with no kids in school and by conservatives who "would simply like to destroy the public school system."

NEA claims that if the United States were to meet even minimum standards of public education, the nation would need 440,000 new teachers. Continues Rowan: "Support for public education has waned and many teachers and administrators are wearying of the fact that more than a quarter of a century after the U.S. Supreme Court outlawed racial discrimination in public schools, race remains one of the most divisive and corrosive factors in public education."

William H. McGuire, new president of the 2 million NEA says that arson, rape, car thefts and even murder now occur not only in the ghetto but in the richest suburbs. He insists however that despite all the problems, public schools for the most part are providing better education than the propaganda would lead most Americans to believe. He added that a generation ago only 50 percent of U.S. youngsters stayed in school until age 17. Today it is 85 percent. That is progress, McGuire believes.

Target Stores to Open in Lubbock Soon

Target Stores, a Minneapolis based upscale discount chain, is beginning construction of its first store in Lubbock, Texas. The store is scheduled to open in spring 1980.

The 8.4 acre site for the Lubbock Target Store at University and Loop 289 was purchased from West Central Investment Corporation. Negotiations for the land acquisition were handled by Wesley "Dub" Rogers of Lubbock. General contractor is Page and Wirtz, Lubbock.

"We are excited about entering the Lubbock market as part of Target's accelerated expansion plans," stated Jack Fontaine, Target senior vice president-property development.

Lubbock marks the fifth Texas city which will have Target stores, in addition to Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and Wichita Falls. Target opened three new Texas stores this year and has four more under construction in addition to the 100,000-square-foot Lubbock store, which will be the 21st Target store in Texas.

Target Stores, the largest division of the Minneapolis-based Dayton Hudson Corporation, began in 1961 with one store in suburban Minneapolis. Currently, Target operates 72 stores in 10 states and plans to have 153 stores by 1983.

The company's growth surge is due chiefly to its reputation for quality and customer service, Fontaine said. "Target's new Lubbock store will continue our tradition of offering brand-name products with an unrestricted return policy, in a modern self-service shopping environment," he said.

NEWS

For Senior Citizens

America is growing older: nearly 11 percent of the population is over 65, compared with eight percent in 1950, and the U.S. Bureau of the Census predicts more than 15 percent will be over 65 by the year 2000.

Our long-lived citizens are a diverse group with many strengths and abilities, and some special problems and needs.

Probably the most universal problem is loneliness, and for some there are additional difficulties because of limited financial means, physical ailments and other circumstances.

Fortunately, The Salvation Army can help older persons cope successfully with their problems and find a stimulating and meaningful way of life fitting individual circumstances.

The Army offers camps; counseling by trained professionals; assistance in dealing with government agencies; centers with varied programs to fit a diversity of interests; residences at moderate cost with skilled, caring staff; transportation; hot lunch programs; visits to the isolated; regular telephone calls to persons living alone; and spiritual concern.

Their efforts could bring a silver lining to one's golden age.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

RE: City of Lubbock request to UMTA to amend Approved $2,041,007 Capital Grant Application to proposed $2,839,693.

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held by the City of Lubbock in the City Council Chambers, located 916 Texas Avenue, on November 8, 1979, at 10:00 A.M. for the purpose of considering an amended project for which Federal Operating Assistance under Section 5 of the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended, is being sought generally described as the following:

A. Description of Project: Purchase of 18 buses equipped with lifts in lieu of 14 buses without lifts, 16 of which are leased from other sources. Acquisition of professional appraisal services, real estate, architectural and engineering services, miscellaneous spare bus components, two (2) new wheelchair equipped vans, three (3) new support vehicles, one (1) maintenance vehicle, radio communications equipment, and administration of project. The total project cost is currently estimated at $2,839,963. Of this amount, it is proposed that the City of Lubbock contribute land to partially cover the $198,779 local share, with $369,160 to come from the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation and $2,271,754 to come from UMTA Section 5 funds.

Pursuant to an Opinion of the Comptroller General of the United States, TMCL buses are available for incidental charter service within the designated service area. This service will not interfere with regularly scheduled mass transportation services. The City of Lubbock agrees that neither it nor any operator of mass transportation equipment on its behalf, will engage in any charter bus operations where points of origin or destination will be outside of the designated service area.

B. Relocation: No persons, families, or business will be displaced by this project.

C. Environment: The proposed project will not have a significant environmental effect upon the urban area.

D. Comprehensive Planning: The proposed project is in conformance with comprehensive land use and transportation plans for the area.

E. The City of Lubbock will participate in the vehicle pool system servicing the needs of the elderly and handicapped with half fares on all regular routes.

At the hearing, the City of Lubbock will afford an opportunity for interested persons or agencies to be heard with respect to the social, environmental, and economic aspects in planning and implementing the project. Interested persons may submit orally or in writing evidence and recommendations with respect to said project.

A copy of the Amendment to the Application for the Federal Grant for the proposed project, together with environmental analysis and the transit development plan for the area, is currently available for public inspection in the City Secretary's Office at City Hall, 916 Texas Avenue.
