LASER LIGHT—A unique laser device which for the first time allows us to see exactly what we hear was demonstrated by a General Motors representative in the "Previews of Progress" science show. Above left, a laser projection system which translates the sounds we hear into visual patterns of light through the use of a laser beam. On the right is an example of the patterns created. The laser is one of nine demonstrations in the GM stage show, now appearing in this area. The 40-minute, non-technical presentation highlights the many career opportunities available in science and engineering to over 1.5 million students and adults a year.

Local Students to View "Previews of Progress"

Local students will get a peek at the future when General Motors "Previews of Progress" research-in-action science show appears at area schools April 16-20.

The non-commercial show, according to General Motors President Elliott M. Estes, "seeks to inspire more student interest in science, engineering, and related technical and vocational careers to provide the trained talent America needs to keep pace with the promise of the future."

"Previews of Progress" demonstrations depict work being done today in America's research laboratories and point out the contributions of research to modern living. A two-person team narrates the live show in non-technical language.

Over 40 million students and adults in the United States have seen Previews since 1946. Millions more have seen the GM show in Canada and 25 foreign countries, including special presentations made overseas at the request of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Featured in the show are two energy conversion demonstrations which show how gas turbine engines and solar cells can be used as alternate power sources. Solar cells change sunlight into usable energy. Students also will be shown recent developments aimed at solving air and water pollution problems.

Another demonstration uses a laser beam to translate the sounds we hear into visual patterns of light.

In all, students will see nine examples of research-in-action.

Previews has received wide acclaim from educators and civic organizations for its efforts in encouraging more student interest in technical career opportunities.

"Previews of Progress" will show in area schools at the following times:

Tuesday, April 17 at Coronado Senior High School, 10:00 a.m.; Thompson Junior High School at 2:00 p.m.

Wednesday, April 18, at Estacado Senior High School at 10:00 a.m.; Alderson Junior High School at 1:45 and 2:45 p.m.

Thursday, April 19, at Lubbock Senior High School at 8:30 a.m.; Evans Junior High School at 1:30 and 2:10 p.m.

Friday, April 20 at Dunbar-Struggs High School at 10:00 a.m.; and at Hutchinson Junior High School at 2:00 p.m.

Labor Investigator Says She is in "Good Position to Help People"

When the Texas Department of Labor and Standards receives a complaint concerning the "six-day demand law", who will most likely get the call to investigate? In the West Texas Lubbock Office it will be Zenobia Davis.

Who is Zenobia Davis? She is the former Zenobia Hall who is a Texas Tech graduate and a former Dunbar High student. She has been a labor investigator since 1977 and says about her work that "she is basically in a good position to help people".

As a labor investigator she is responsible for among other things: 1) the semi-monthly pay day laws; 2) "six-day demand law"; 3) and a myriad of child-labor related laws.

The semi-monthly pay day law deals with a state law that requires private sector employers to pay their employees at least twice a month. The "six-day demand law" simply states that an employer is required to pay an employee within six days of that person's having made demand for payment.

About the child labor laws she says, "these laws are there to insure that all children and juveniles have a safe place to work." The intention of this law is simply to make it mandatory for all persons under 18 to obtain a permit before being granted work. The permit is obtained through the county judge where the person resides.

Another labor law that she is responsible for enforcing deals with a statement of earnings that all employers are required to provide. This statement is given to an individual every pay day.

"Generally," she says, "there are no major problems in enforcing these laws. One of the most common problems that we have with enforcement of these laws is that people with a complaint are unable to tell us who they're working for, the name of the company, supervisor, or whether the company is local or out of state. Under these circumstances it is difficult to assist anyone," she further explained. Another aspect of the problem is that people sometimes go months without complaining. "Community awareness is definitely needed," she states.

Typically, she says, employers are not hesitant about cooperating. It is simply a matter of writing them a letter and requesting to see their employee records.

When asked what she would do if an employer did not want to cooperate, she replied that her office has subpoena powers through the district attorney's office or through the Texas attorney general's office and that once that gets explained there is no problem with cooperation.

When asked again if there were any problems with her being female or minority, she explained that most people cannot see beyond her representing the Texas Department of Labor and Standards after it gets explained.

HRC Warns Against Possible Housing Siding "Ripoff" Here

The Human Relations Office would like to advise individuals in North and East-Lubbock to exercise caution in purchasing home insulation siding from door to door salesmen.

There is a report of a company that offers deals that are very appealing because of a no down payment, easy payment plan. The reported problem with this plan that is offered by this company is that the final price of the siding often costs nearly as much as the value of the home.

It is also reported that the fine print in the contract has a provision that compromises ownership of the property where if payment is not made, the property can be repossessed.

Before making a purchase that "sounds too good to be true", persons are advised to contact Luciano Perez at the Human Relations Office 762-6411 ext. 2282 for further information.

March HRC Meeting

The March meeting of the Human Relations Commission a report of the city's Affirmative Action Plan was read.

It cited that the City of Lubbock has embarked on an ambitious plan to recruit more minorities and that the city government appears better statistically as a whole than the rest of the city. However, it was noted that the city government and the city as a whole are still lacking in

Students Named to Who's Who in Music

The 78-79 edition of Who's Who in Music will carry the names of two students from Dunbar-Struggs High School in Lubbock, who have been selected as being among the country's most outstanding high school music students.

Michael Cantwell, Band Director, head of the school's nominating committee and the editors of the annual directory have included the names of these students based on their music ability, academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and future potential.

Students named this year from Dunbar-Struggs High School are Thomas Braxton of 1823 Manhattan Drive, and Toni Johnson of 1022 East 29th, Apt. B.

THE TALKING COMPUTER—This voice synthesizer, or talking computer, is an electronic device which produces simulated human speech through selective programming of phonetic sounds. In a unique demonstration by General Motors "Previews of Progress" lecturers, this exciting alternative to visually-oriented data processing is shown to have virtually unlimited future applications. The talking computer is one of nine dramatic experimental science demonstrations in the Previews show now appearing in this area. The 40-minute admission-free presentation by two lecturers highlights the many career opportunities available as a result of research in science and engineering.

Some Clues for New Ethics Chairman Re; South African-U.S. Reps Scandal

Copyright, 1979, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON—South Africa has been rocked by a scandal that could cause shock waves reaching all the way to Washington. The South African government reportedly established a multimillion-dollar slush fund to buy influence around the world.

It has been charged that some of the money was funneled through front groups to members of the U.S. Congress. The House Ethics Committee promised a full investigation. But the chairman, Charles Bennett, D-Fla., has announced that the committee hasn't uncovered any names yet.

Bennett is a new chairman and probably hasn't had much time to rummage through the files. We want to help him out by providing some names.

He should first look under the "Fs". There Bennett will find the name of his predecessor, former Georgia Democrat John Flynt, who headed the Ethics Committee last year. The files show the South African Foundation once sponsored a trip by Flynt and his wife to South Africa. The foundation paid all of Mrs. Flynt's expenses; their total contribution came to about $3,100. Diplomatic sources told us the foundation was a front for the South African government.

Next, Chairman Bennett should skip down to the "Ps". He will find the name of former Texas Democrat William Poage, in the secret files. He was chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, and he received thousands of dollars' worth of free travel from the South Africa Sugar Association. This group gave Poage eight round-trip plane fares, for example, between Washington and Dallas during his 1972 re-election campaign.

Meanwhile, Poage used his influence as agriculture chairman to get a windfall sugar quota—worth millions of dollars—for the South Africans.

Then, Rep. Bennett could look under the "Ws". There he will find the name of Rep. William Wampler, R-Va. He is the No. 1 Republican on the House Agriculture Committee. In August 1973, he received a 10-day, expense-free trip to South Africa. Again, the money was put up secretly by the South African Sugar Association.

Our diplomatic sources also told us that South African money was used to help defeat Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, last year. He happened to be one of the Senate's most vocal critics of South Africa.

Capital Comics: Washington's big-name politicians are now giving their material a Hollywood touch. Not only are they sharpening their performances for the TV cameras, but they are also using Hollywood script writers to help with their speeches.

Hollywood gag writers are in heavy demand by the top presidential contenders. President Carter recently demonstrated what can happen when a politician tries to write his own humor. His ill-fated "Montezuma's Revenge" joke in Mexico caused acute embarrassment from Mexico City to Washington. No one laughed.

It has now leaked out that Carter wrote the line himself. Hereafter, his humor will be screened more carefully; image-maker Gerald Rafshoon will decide which jokes the president will tell.

Vice President Walter Mondale sought the help of Mort Lachman, the executive director of the hit comedy series, "All in the Family." Lachman rounded up a few of Hollywood's best comedy writers, who conferred privately with Mondale about supplying him with one-liners.

Former President Gerald Ford hired humorist Bob Orben as a speech writer. Overnight, the quick-witted Orben improved Ford's image as a speaker.

Of course, some politicians are comics without intending to be. Others have a sense of humor. Senate Republican leader Howard Baker of Tennessee, for example, ad libs most of his own jokes. And Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., is quick with off-the-cuff remarks.

The sharpest wit on Capitol Hill is probably Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan. Yet even he sometimes has help from a gag writer. He uses Richard Smith, an alumnus of Harvard's Hasty Pudding Club.

Garbage Power: As much as one-fourth of the steam power needed to heat downtown Harrisburg, Pa., is provided by the burning of the area's garbage. With the help of some federal funds, a pipeline was installed which links the municipal incinerator to the local power plant. Steam is transferred through the pipeline and used to turn the plant's generators. The pipeline has been operating successfully for two months, and now other city governments are considering harnessing garbage power to cut back on oil consumption.

Endangered Elephants: Inconsistency on the part of the federal government may be contributing to the extinction of the African elephant. Last June, the Interior Department placed the elephant on the endangered species list. But at the same time, the government allows nations who trade in endangered species to export ivory and other elephant products into the United States. Indeed, the United States is currently one of the largest importers of ivory in the world.

Faulty Evidence? Hundreds of Americans may have been jailed on drug charges based on faulty evidence. A laboratory in Ohio has revealed that possibly two out of three people sent to the can for drug possession were convicted on the basis of lab tests that were wrong. What's more, a federal report has backed up the researcher's claims.

Headlines and Footnotes: The Postal Service has ordered all its vehicles sprayed with a polymertype coating called "Repel." It's supposed to eliminate waxing and repainting, but it washes away when splashed with gasoline ... A "citizens watchdog committee" has been created by Congress to oversee the reduction of paperwork. It has been authorized a staff of two, but no budget.

Eckhardt pointed out that U.S. oil producers plan to drill 49,379 wells this year. That's the highest number of planned drillings since 1959. But on the other side of those numbers, is the simple fact that for more than 100 years the U.S. was the world's largest producer of oil. No longer.

Today, the United States is by far the world's biggest consumer of oil. And as a nation we have slipped to third behind Russia and Saudi Arabia in the production of crude oil. While our appetite for oil has gone up, our ability to find it and get it out of the ground has gone down.

Meanwhile, predictions are that gasoline will soon climb to $1 a gallon. The rising price of fuel already is one of the biggest contributing factors to a 10-12 percent annual inflation rate. But even more importantly, the primary reason for our worldwide economic power—cheap fuel—may be long gone. For years, Europeans and the rest of the world have paid heavily for gasoline and other crude oil products.

Spot shortages of gasoline already exist in the U.S. One spokesman for a farm supply cooperative in the Texas Panhandle claims some tractors are standing idle because of no diesel fuel.

Sunday closings at gas stations are for the most part the rule now not the exception. And those who remember the oil crunch of 1973, say what may be around the corner is something we didn't see during the Arab oil embargo—gas rationing.

"We are in the most precarious international situation since World War II," said Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace almost two months ago. His statement seems even more correct now.

Prices Soar

Unfortunately, energy isn't the only subject that leads almost inevitably to bad news. The U.S. Labor Department announced this week that consumer prices jumped 15.4 percent in February. Telling consumers what they probably already know, the Labor Department said the price of food went up, the cost of paying off a home loan went up, and, as might be expected, the price of gasoline jumped too.

Higher home loan interest rates contributed heavily to the February jump in prices. Mortgage interest costs rose 3.1 percent last month due almost primarily to the fact that New York and California lifted state usury law ceilings.

Bills still pending in the Texas Legislature would raise the ceiling in this state, but, so far, legislators have been waiting to see what interest rates will do on their own before taking any action. Some surveys indicate that for the average house buyer, mortgage money in the state is drying up.

Texas is now one of only 12 states with a 10 percent or lower usury limit.

Short Snorts

Some heavyweights—Sen. Grant Jones of Abilene, Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and even Gov. Bill Clements—have been kicking around the idea of a one-year state budget because of the unpredictability of state revenues.

But Speaker of the House Bill Clayton says the Legislature has had experience with one-year spending drafts and everytime they have ended up "costing more money."

Sen. Babe Schwartz of Galveston said this week that next to the 55 mph speed limit, playing bingo is "the most singularly violated law in the country." Moved by that claim, senators approved a constitutional amendment legalizing bingo under certain circumstances. The amendment now heads for the House where there will surely be some tough sledding ahead.

Homeowners will be paying less for property insurance beginning July 1 thanks to a move by the State Board of Insurance that reduced rates by 4.1 percent statewide. Texans will cough up $38 million less for property coverage in the next 12 months.

Finally, the Texas State Teachers Association approved by a vote of 884-549 a resolution backing the concept of collective bargaining and ordered efforts in that direction.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Top oil industry executives came to the State Capitol this week to deliver what amounted to somber predictions about this country's ability in the future to get reasonably priced fuel needed to power the nation's economy.

Oil company executives spoke at the Texas Railroad Commission's annual state-of-the-industry report. And, from the outset, it must be said that the "state" of the industry appears good. Government figures show that oil company profits jumped almost 30 percent in the first quarter of this year.

Overall, corporate profits increased more than 26 percent in the same period.

And, the 1978 federal de-control act is expected to mean $1 to $3 billion in additional revenues this year for oil and gas companies.

But it wasn't skyrocketing profits that oil executives came to talk about this week. It's the forecasted shortages of what they sell that has them worried.

Executive vice president James E. Barnes of Conoco Oil Co. said a serious gasoline shortage may grip the nation in two months unless the tap in Iran is turned back on and oil begins to flow to the U.S. again.

Barnes and John K. McKinley, president of Texaco, Inc., sounded what has become the oil industry's catch-all phrase to end all problems: "more decontrol."

Barnes, McKinley and colleagues claimed Texas alone has 100 billion barrels of known reserves not being sucked out of the ground with present technology because there is no profit in such undertakings and present regulations are prohibitive.

But U.S. Congressman Bob Eckhardt of Texas said in a press conference in Washington this week that more decontrol would not produce a surge in exploration.

Career Seminar Scheduled for High Schools

"Opportunities Unlimited" is the title of the first HECE (Home Economics Cooperative Education) Career Seminar to be held in Lubbock schools. All five of the high schools will be participating in the seminar, which will be held at Dunbar-Struggs High School, Wednesday morning, April 4, 1979. All students currently enrolled in HECE, as well as those who are signed up for next year, will be involved. The group of approximately 200 students will be welcomed by Mr. Ed Irons, superintendent; Mr. Roy Roberts, principal of Dunbar-Struggs; and Mr. Tom Brown, assistant principal on the Struggs campus. Mrs. Priscilla Sims, HECE advisory council chairperson, will explain the purpose of the seminar; and Miss Londa Boone, city-wide FHA/HERO council president, will open the session and introduce the guest speakers.

After the brief welcoming session the large group will be divided into five smaller groups. These groups will attend panel discussions, slide presentations, and talks given by local business and professional people in each of the five major occupational areas of HECE (foods, clothing, child care, home furnishings, and environmental services). The seminar will end in time for students to return to their home schools or to their cooperative education jobs.

Work Centers to Provide SW Bell Customers Better Service Here

Southwestern Bell's Lubbock customers will begin receiving more efficient cable and repair service following the completion of two work centers costing $600,000 in the Lubbock area.

According to Bob Dunbar, division manager, work is expected to be completed by May 15, on one of the work centers located on 8302 Avenue P.

"The Avenue P work center will house the construction work force which will serve the Lubbock area. Essentially, the construction work force is responsible for laying and maintaining cables which connect customer's lines with the central office downtown," Dunbar said.

"We are also planning construction on a work center which will be located on Frankford Avenue. This work center will house equipment and vehicles for installation and repair," Dunbar said. "The Frankford work center is scheduled for completion in April, 1980.

"The addition of these work centers will relieve crowded conditions in our present work centers and provide additional space closer to Lubbock population growth areas," Dunbar said. "The result will be faster, more efficient service for our customers."

Stop Smoking Clinic Planned

Do yourself, and the people close to you, a favor ... stop smoking! The 5 Day Stop Smoking Plan can help. Co-sponsored by the Seventh Day Adventists and the Lung Association, the clinic will be held April 23-27, 1979, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the American Lung Association, 1961 Texas Avenue. Registration fee is $15.00; pre-register by calling 795-0738, 795-5104 or 763-0951.

Clinic speakers include Nathan M. Merkel, director of the Temperance department of the Seventh Day Adventist Church for West Texas and New Mexico, of Amarillo; David Berry, P.T., Cardiopulmonary Administrator at University Hospital; L.J. O'Brien, M.D., and Clara McPherson, Food and Nutrition Department, TTU.

A tasting party will be held on Thursday at 6 p.m., fee is $1.00 and is open to everyone. Recipes for the food served will be distributed.

The 5 Day Plan is a balanced combination of psychological and physiological approach to strengthen a positive will power and motive to change the pattern of living.

"Our bodies are wonderfully made," said Thomas A. Edison, "The doctor of the future will give no medicine, but will interest his patients in the care of the human frame and in the cause and prevention of disease." From Galileo: "You cannot teach a man anything, you can only help him discover it within himself." And Oliver Wendell Holmes said, "Man's mind stretched to a new idea never goes back to its original dimension." Mark Twain said: "Man is in adulthood before he is aware of the facts that he can change his habit patterns." Twain also said, "Habit is habit, it is not to be thrown out the window by any man. It must be coasted down stairs and out the door."

The 5 Day Plan can help you. The benefits you receive will far out-weigh your efforts. Why not give it a try?

Ringling the Bell . . .

with Bob Tieuel

The Brown Experience: Since the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights attacks the unfair depiction of blacks, hispanics, Asian and Pacific people, Indians and even Aleuts (but not Arabs) and since it is correctly verboten to stereotype Jews and other minorities (once a target), the public, aided by TV and the media, finds the Arabs an easy goat, even villains, believes columnist N. Thimmesch.

Many bellringers remember the Anti-Defamation League that fought the unfair and often vicious depiction of Jews as folks with strikingly semitic features, as greedy businessmen, or cowards or shysters. Certainly the ADL deserves an orchid for its success in stopping most of this slander.

Apparently today, it's the Arabs where there is fear and slander. They are depicted with "buying up the country" when the fact is that Arabs have bought proportionately little in the United States, outside of Treasury bills which amounts to buying inflation and a piece of our national debt, according to Nick. According to a recent study by Newsweeks, the Dutch, British, West Germans and Japanese are the big investors in the U.S.

There are some cases of course of Arabs flaunting their oil wealth, the great majority of the 100 million Arabs in the world are a poor but emerging people, nonetheless they are bound to play an increasing important role in our world to come. If you will search history, you will find many cultural highpoints in the Arab world. They have made their contributions to western culture—in astronomy, mathematics, literature, physics, medicine, philosophy, and history.

The world we live in is threatened with inflation that will wreck havoc at many points, competition from other nations is a reality and seemingly there is no end to hike in higher fuel prices, with OPEC nations being inflicted with the same disease "inflation". Everybody is constantly looking for a pay hike and it looks as there is no end to the evils of higher and higher prices. Thus the Arabs can become vulnerable to our frustration and wrath, just as Jews, blacks and others have in days gone by and even today.

Like Nick says, we suppose it always has been and always will be, that "cussed mankind needs somebody to kick around". And the beat goes on and on.

Recent Great Quotes: "Blacks who achieved greatness despite all obstacles have a secure place in history. Writers and actors who produce fictionalized versions of history will not be remembered long ... Roots I and Roots II are powerful propaganda and great money makers, but they don't give the true story. Whites are not all that bad; neither are blacks all that good." S.G. Condos.

In Retrospect: The late Ms. Annie L. Fegans of Pecos, Texas was a longtime bellringer. We shall miss her as well as her many friends from over West Texas and New Mexico. Her biographical sketch read in part: "Ann" (as she was known by friends) was a faithful member of Friendship C.M.E. Church for many years serving as pianist of the senior choir, chairperson of the building fund and very active in local and district as well as annual conference missionary work. As the resolution from the church read by Ms. Sadler: "I needed the quiet so he drew me aside into the shadows where we could confide." end of quote.

To Dr. R.H. Reid, Jr. Editor of the A.M.E. Christian Recorder: (oldest black periodical in the United States) We have asked that the Boley, Oklahoma Chamber of Commerce mail to your office, an active paid up membership for one year with our compliments. I regret that owing to present serious illness in our family in recent months and the press of our mission work in West Texas and public relations duties, we have not been able to work on the "Committee of 100" to establish a National Afro-American Park in Boley, as we would like. The Chamber in Boley is very active and they are open for ideas and plans that will keep the town that Booker T. Washington once described as "the grand experiment" in Black self-government. After nearly 80 years, the experiment is still going strong—Bob.

According to black columnist Carl Rowan in the Dallas A.M. News: "Unemployment in black America is now 243 percent of white joblessness. And that is nothing short of a social disaster ... Jobless, hopeless people produce children whom they cannot educate properly and these children grow up to become jobless and hopeless ... Is there any wonder that blacks make up 47 percent of the state prison population, 41 percent of inmates in local jails, 40 percent of the federal prison population?"

Until later, be a good neighbor. They come in all colors.

Black Soldiers of the American Revolutionary War: Volume Two by Mrs. Frank Ross Stewart is now available. Softbound ($15) or hardbound ($20), 62 pp., indexed. Order from Mrs. Stewart, P.O. Box 295, Centre, Ala. 35960.

Information on these servicemen was gleaned from the pension claims made by the soldiers or their widows. These pension applications include some which were rejected because they lacked proof of service. No slaves or widows of slaves were pensioned.

Details on each individual vary from one application to another. Interesting data which may be found are names of the battles in which the man participated, any physical disability, name of wife (including her maiden name), where and when they married (sometimes including the name of the church where the ceremony took place, name of officiating minister, and affidavits of witnesses to the marriage), their children's names and dates of birth, and date of the serviceman's death.

Among the 34 pensions abstracted in this work are those of William JACKSON and wife Nicey (HILL) JACKSON of Bedford County, Va.; Pomp LIBERTY of Connecticut; Thomas LIVELY of Virginia; Prince MCLELLAN of Gorham, Maine; Richard RHODES of Kent County, R.I.; Reuben ROBERTS of Rhode Island; Jack ROWLAND of Connecticut; Edward SANDS of New Hampshire; Lewis SHEPHERD of Massachusetts; James WEEKS of New York and New Jersey; Benjamin SIMMONS of Connecticut; and Henry WILLIAMS of Baltimore, Md. Copies of these pension files are available from the Military Service Records (NNCC), National Archives (GSA), Washington, D.C. 20408.

Genealogists and historians alike will be glad to learn that the Rosenberg Library in Galveston, Texas, has recently microfilmed a collection of twentieth century black newspapers published in that city.

The following court case was taken from the Minutes of the Court of Common Pleas and Quarter Sessions, Guilford County, N.C., August Term, 1808, p. 439: "On petition of Wm BROWN a free man of colour praying for the emancipation of his wife Comfort BROWN and his four children—Wesley BROWN, Ely BROWN, Noah BROWN, and Nancy BROWN for Meritorous Service & performance it is ordered by the Court that the Petitioner Wm BROWN have permission to Emancipate & Let for his wife Said wife Comfort BROWN and his four children Wesley, Eley, Noah, and Nancy BROWN upon giving bond & security that they shall not become a burthan (sic) to the County & Bond being given & filed according act of an Assembly it is ordered that the persons above mentioned Comfort BROWN & her four children: Wesley BROWN, Eelee BROWN, Noah BROWN & Nancy BROWN be & they are hereby ordered to be emancipated & let free & are intitled to & right to Entitle to all the rights & privileges & Communities of persons of Colour far in a State of Freedom."

No Such Thing As A Bad Egg

Look on the sunny side despite inflationary food costs. Believe it or not, one of nature's best foods — the egg — is almost as low in price today as it was in 1951. According to the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture Crop Reporting Board, the national average retail cost of a dozen eggs (through June, 1978) has risen less than 10 cents over the last 27 years — amazing compared to most other commodities.

As a public service, the people at Hunt-Wesson Foods, in cooperation with the USDA, offer the following suggestions concerning egg usage and selection.

Aside from being relatively inexpensive food (eggs consistently appear on the monthly Hunt-Wesson Better Food Buys lists available at supermarkets nationwide), they are considered a true nutritional bargain. The only protein considered better than the egg is milk, while the only protein sources cheaper are peanut butter and beans. Eggs supply 13 minerals, every vitamin except C, and at approximately only 80 calories each.

And talk about versatility — scrambled, fried, baked, poached, cooked in the shell, or as a souffle, omelet, or quiche they make a great dish.

Eggs are also essential ingredients in many recipes — for binding, thickening, or coating.

Egg selection is relatively easy if one is aware of government grading. Always look for the USDA grade and size. Grade tells you quality while size indicates egg weight.

There are three consumer grades for eggs: U.S. Grade AA, A, and B. The grade is determined by the interior quality of the egg and the appearance and condition of the egg shell. U.S. Grade AA eggs have whites that are thick, yolks that are firm and practically free from defects. U.S. Grade A eggs are the quality most often sold in your supermarket. They have whites that are reasonably thick, yolks that are firm, high, and practically free from defects.

U.S. Grade B eggs are, however, seldom found in retail stores. The white of these eggs may be thinner and the yolks may be enlarged and flatter than eggs of the higher quality.

While egg size tells you the minimum required weight per dozen, it does not indicate the actual size per egg. The three sizes most often sold in the supermarket have a minimum weight per dozen of 27 oz., 24 oz., and 21 oz.

Remember that size and quality are not related — in any way. Large eggs may be high or low quality; high quality eggs may be any size. Also, contrary to popular opinion, shell color does not affect egg quality or nutritive value. Shell color is determined by the breed of the laying hen.

In addition, a government pamphlet concerning egg selection is available by writing: Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington D.C., 20402. Specify "Agricultural Marketing Service Home and Garden Bulletin No. 144." Price is 25 cents.

GOLD

facts and fancies

During the late Roman Empire, the engagement ring became the first gold article ever worn by the Roman maiden. It was believed gold symbolized everlasting love that would never tarnish, just as gold never loses its shine or beauty.

One or two gold wedding rings—usually in 14- or 18-karat gold—are exchanged during 98 percent of the more than two million weddings in the U.S. each year, most of which take place during the favored months of June, August and May.

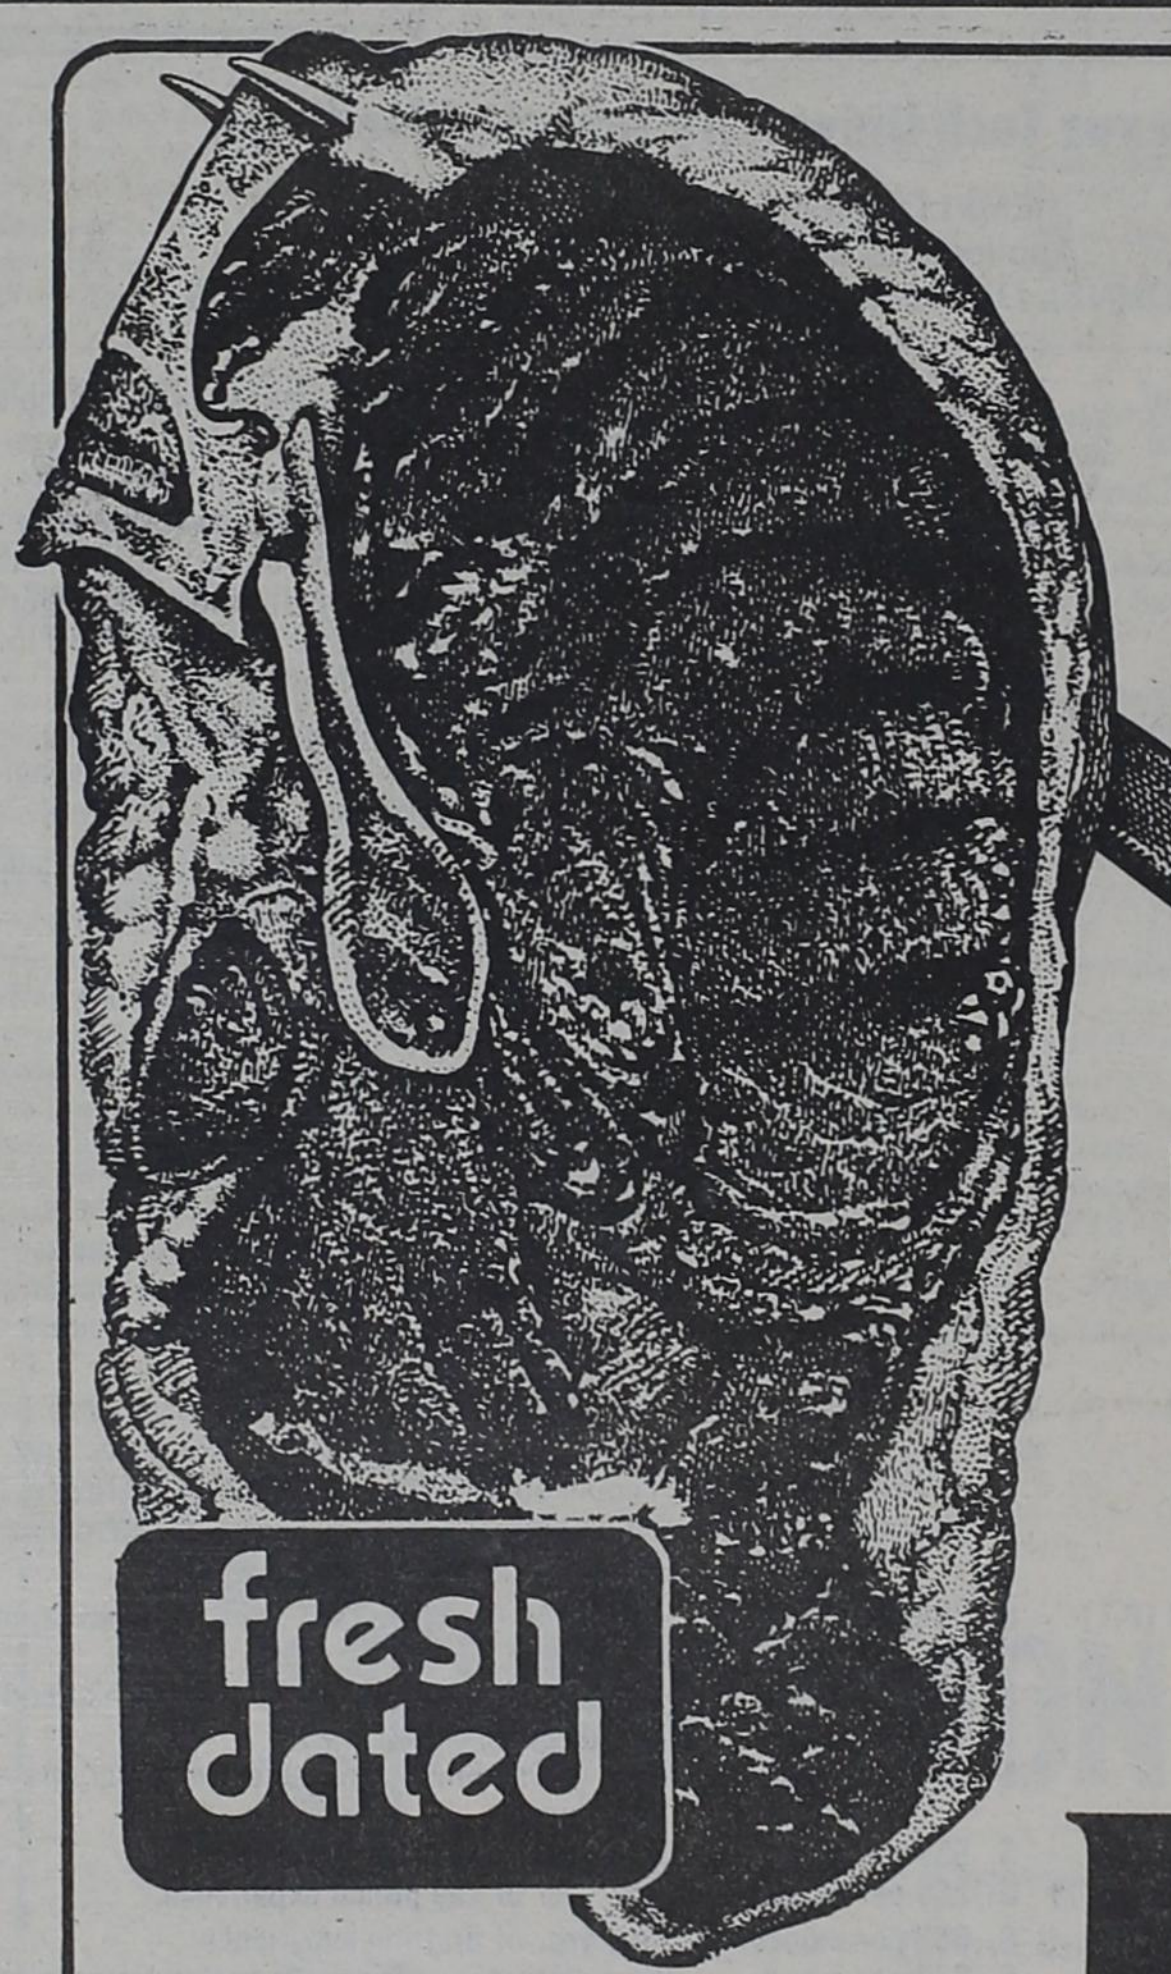

The custom of giving gold rings as favors at 16th century weddings led one gentleman to distribute rings valued at over £4,000 at the marriage of one of his servants! When Queen Victoria wed in 1840, she ordered that rings bearing the royal profile in gold and the legend Victoria Regina be given to guests.
