TEXAS TIMES

Dedicated to Informing the Citizens of West Texas

John and Nellie Connally in their Houston home. Connally is a candidate for the Republican nomination for President.

Host Committee Named For Connally Visit

A blue-ribbon committee of 38 area residents has been named to sponsor former Texas Governor John B. Connally's campaign visit to Lubbock, February 22, to begin his quest for the Republican nomination for President.

The Lubbock Host Committee includes Raymond S. Tapp as chairman and Marion T. Key as vice-chairman.

The Lubbock committee, as well as all others across the state, is typical of the broad based support Connally is receiving since announcing his presidential plans on January 24. The host committees on all 24 Texas stops include more than 1,500 prominent Republicans, Democrats and independents.

The tour will leave Amarillo for Lubbock on Thursday, February

22. Connally and wife Nellie will be guests at an informal reception to be held at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center Terrace Suite at 5:30 p.m., before leaving for Abilene and the tour's third day of activity.

Tickets for the reception are priced at $10 and may be obtained by sending a check to the Connally for President Reception, P.O. Box 2429, Lubbock, Texas, 79408, or by calling 745-2507. Please make checks payable to Connally for President Committee. Tickets will also be available at the door.

The tour will cover all parts of the state and will close with a birthday reception for Governor Connally in Houston on February 27.

Free Legal Services To Low Income Persons

West Texas Legal Services provides free legal assistance to low income persons who live in Hale, Hockley, Lamb, and Lubbock Counties.

The types of legal problems West Texas Legal Services provide include: Social Security, Supplemental Security Income, Welfare problems, Consumer problems, Landlord-Tenant problems, Drafting or Probating Wills, some matters affecting marriage relationship, and other civil matters normally handled by a law office.

West Texas Legal Services does not provide legal assistance in areas such as criminal matters, traffic tickets, damages suits, or any case in which an attorney would normally receive a percentage fee.

Anyone meeting income guidelines living in Lubbock County may see an attorney in Lubbock from Mondays through Fridays, if an appointment is made, by coming to the office at 1220 Broadway, Suite 1601, Lubbock, Texas.

To make an appointment call 763-4557 on any weekday between 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.

Donations Aid Garden Therapy

Green Thumb Junior Garden Club members planted a Roney lucust tree donated by the William Jordon family. Members of Petal Pushers Garden Club assisted. All Ballenger School students and teachers and aides attended the ceremony.

Mrs. Med Hunt read an appropriate poem.

Rooted plants have been given by two fine ladies, Mrs. Corinne Manning, 86 and Mrs. Emma Hatchel, 85. Paul Hodges provided individual photos of Junior G.C. members.

Black Ministers of Lubbock

by Lerisa R. Payne

Rev. Lawrence F. Bowie Pastor, Church of the Living God

Lubbock is as new to Rev. Lawrence F. Bowie as Rev. Bowie is to Lubbock. Rev. Bowie and his wife have resided in Lubbock exactly one year and one month. He is the pastor of the Church of the Living God. Rev. Bowie in agreement with his wife says, "Lubbock is totally different from Oklahoma."

Before coming to Lubbock, Rev. Bowie was pastoring in Tulsa, Oklahoma, his home town. In fact he has pastored in the state of Oklahoma. Rev. Bowie and his brother followed in their father's footsteps. Their father was a minister. Their father was a big influence to his sons. His love and devotion has carried Rev. Bowie to the ministry for 28 years.

Rev. Bowie was a member of a singing group before coming to the ministry. Yes, Rev. Bowie was quite a singer in his day. He still does some singing in the church. His singing career did not last long because he received the calling from the Lord. Once he received the calling his voice was never quite the same. Rev. Bowie says jokingly, "If the Lord hadn't called me to the ministry, the devil would have had a fine candidate."

Not all pastors who are ordained become ministers the same way. In the Church of the Living God, the minister must receive the "divine calling." Once he has received the calling, he must notify the pastor of his church of his calling. The soon-to-be pastor performs a few church services to become a minister under the law. After he receives his license, he must pass an examination of doctrinal points of the church to become an ordained minister. The examination consists of the constitution and the by-laws of the church.

Rev. Bowie, like other ministers, wants people to get involved in the church. He expresses, "I would like to see more people coming to church. There are so many young people out on the streets doing nothing when they can be doing something in the church."

We are all here for a purpose, why not serve that purpose in the church."

Rev. Nathaniel Johnson, Pastor Mt. Vernon United Methodist Church

Rev. Nathaniel Johnson, the pastor of Mt. Vernon United Methodist is a man of many attributes. Not only is he educated as a minister, he is also educated as a teacher.

Rev. Johnson is a graduate of Lufkin High School. At Lufkin High School he was the Valedictorian of his class. He carried his knowledge onto Bishop College where he graduated. He went on to teach theology, Bible, and math at Conroe College. He also has a SMU theology certificate.

Rev. Johnson has been at Mt. Vernon for 5 years. He has been in the ministry for 37 years. He has pastored at St. James Myrtle in El Paso; Mackey Chapel in Odessa; Ft. Worth Greater St. James; and Burnett in Kerrville, Texas.

Rev. Lawrence F. Bowie

During World War II, Rev. Johnson recalls how he found out about the former late President Franklin D. Roosevelt's death. A young Japanese boy tried to tell him about Roosevelt. During the war Rev. Johnson was also the Assistant Chaplain. He was on a ship that was about to be bombed because of their whereabouts. The only way to disguise themselves was to throw oranges at the lights to not be seen. According to Mrs. Johnson the most exciting thing that ever happened to Rev. Johnson was when he married her.

Rev. Johnson is outgoing socially. He is one of the pastors in the Inter-Ethic Church; he is a member of the Human Relations, American Woodman, and the Inter-Denominational Ministerial Alliance.

Rev. Johnson is concerned about the church. He says, "The church leads the way to the better understanding of God. For God is our Father and we are His children."

Rep. Salinas Named Committee Coordinator for Urban Caucus

Representative Froy Salinas has been designated Urban Caucus Committee Coordinator for the Natural Resources Committee for the current legislative session. The Urban Caucus is a group of moderate and conservative legislators who are meeting regularly this session to provide a forum for the discussion of issues of concern to urban areas.

As Committee Coordinator for the Natural Resources Committee, Rep. Salinas will be responsible for monitoring all legislation heard by that committee which could have a significant impact on urban and suburban areas. The responsibilities of Committee Coordinators include:

1. Reporting at Caucus meetings on any legislation being considered by their respective committees which would have an impact on urban areas.

2. From time to time, making a formal report of the work of their committee in order to advise caucus members of the progress of legislation and the prospects for eventual policy decisions to be made by their committees.

3. Recommending that the caucus endorse certain positions regarding issues being considered by their respective committees.

The 11-member Natural Resources Committee has jurisdiction over all matters pertaining to the conservation of the natural resources of Texas; the control and development of land and water and land and water resources, including the taking, storing, control, and use of all water in the state; irrigation, irrigation companies, and irrigation districts, and their incorporation, management, and powers; the development and preservation of forests, and the regulation of the lumber industry; the creation, modification, and regulation of water supply districts, water control and improvement districts, and conservation and reclamation districts; and, the Texas Department of Water Resources.

The Urban Caucus will continue to meet regularly throughout the legislative session in order to work to influence the shaping of urban legislative policy. The caucus has met with Governor Clements, Lt. Gov. Hobby, and Speaker Clayton and will continue to meet with leading state officials. Future caucus meetings will also include issue-oriented workshops and the adoption of issue positions.

ERA Program Set

"ERA: What Would it Mean?" will be presented at Lubbock City-County Library on Monday, Feb. 26 and Tuesday, Feb. 27. The sessions will begin at 7:30

Whatever Did Dan Schorr Do To Make Old Blue Eyes Frown?

Copyright, 1979, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON—Frank Sinatra has had some famous fueds with the press. He has fumed over stories that have been printed about him.

Three years ago, Old Blue Eyes tried to turn the tables and embarrass a noted newsmen. The incident has gone unreported until now.

It happened in early 1976. Former CBS corespondent Dan Schorr had Congress in an uproar. He was summoned before the House Ethics Committee to explain the leak of a classified report on intelligence activities.

Sinatra watched the controversy from afar. He wanted to make certain Schorr got a thorough investigation. So the singing star sent a private message to House Ethics chairman, Rep. John Flynt, D-Ga., urging him not to whitewash the charges against Schorr.

The message was transmitted in the form of a letter from the singer's lawyer, Milton Rudin. "I have been asked by our client, Frank Sinatra, to write and to urge you and the other members of your committee (to conduct) a full and complete investigation with full and complete disclosure to the public ...

"Any attempts to 'whitewash' the charges or to minimize the importance of the investigation would have an adverse effect on the public's confidence in the United States government."

The letter added that Sinatra didn't necessarily believe Schorr was guilty of any wrongdoing. "We simply request," the lawyer wrote, "that the fact that the press is involved ... should not lessen the thoroughness of the inquiry."

As it turned out, the committee refused to take action against Schorr. We couldn't reach Sinatra or Rudin for an explanation. Schorr said he couldn't recall ever meeting Sinatra and couldn't imagine why Old Blue Eyes would try to hurt him.

Maybe Sinatra doesn't like newsmen.

Soda Pop Politics: President Carter has made no secret of the fact that Coca-Cola is his favorite beverage. The firm is based in Atlanta, and as governor of Georgia, Carter often traveled in Coke's corporate jet.

Coke executives helped raise money for Carter's presidential campaign. And his personal adviser and attorney, Charles Kirbo, also represents Coca-Cola.

It's considered good politics, therefore, to be kind to Coca-Cola. The Soviets granted Coke the concession for the 1980 Olympics. The Chinese are admitting Cokes to the mainland after a 32-year drought. Portugal ended a 50-year ban against Coca-Cola. And the Mexican government wanted to appoint Coke's man in Mexico, Ted Circuit, as ambassador to Washington. He turned it down.

Now federal investigators have learned that Coca-Cola has made its corporate jet available to foreign rulers. The feds are nervous about investigating the president's favorite company; but we can disclose what they have found out.

It seems Coca-Cola flew the president of Romania to Mexico; and the corporate jet was also made available to Mexico's President Lopez Portillo for campaign trips. This is not something White House spokesmen want to talk about, however, in the wake of Carter's state visit to Mexico.

We have learned from our own investigation that the Coca-Cola jet was not loaned to foreign leaders. They were merely invited to use it when it was going their way.

A Coca-Cola spokesman had no comment.

Watch on Waste: Every September, as the fiscal year comes to an end, government bureaucrats scurry around trying to spend extra funds rather than return them to the Treasury. The Navy, for example, awarded a contract to replant some trees in Florida to one company even though three other firms offered to do the job for $30,000 less. The low bidders were disqualified because of a minor technicality which was really the Navy's fault. But because re-opening the bidding would have pushed the project into a new fiscal year, the Navy brass decided to spend the extra $30,000 to replant the trees.

—House members have authorized themselves the luxury of distributing nearly a million calendars to favored constituents. The calendars feature full-color photographs depicting Washington historical scenes. Cost to the taxpayers: more than $400,000.

—The federal government isn't supposed to give Christmas bonuses. But the director of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board doled out some $20,000 worth of prizes to 14 top-level officials. All of them got their cash just in time for Christmas.

Lucrative Business: Some U.S. Cabinet officials have chauffeurs who make as much money as top-level bureaucrats. Their secret: They earn tens of thousands of dollars in overtime pay.

Most government drivers are on call nights and weekends. They never know when the bigwigs they work for might want to be taxied to an important meeting—or an appointment with their barbers.

Attorney General Griffin Bell, for example, has two chauffeurs on the payroll. They make a combined salary of over $47,000. Health, Education, and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano's driver made $37,400 last year—including an incredible $23,000 in overtime.

running. "We must face up to the problem," Wallace said before attending the council meeting. "The thrust of the nation's energy policy needs to be changed."

Ironically, in the first interesting action on the House floor, the leaders of what Speaker Bill Clayton calls the "loyal" opposition managed to slash in half an emergency appropriations bill for the RRC and specified that the moeny be spent only to implement the federal National Gas Policy Act of 1978. Typically, Clayton said he didn't think passage of the original appropriations was a test of his authority.

Word Game

The magic word for Gov. Bill Clements is not "Bracero." The governor said he would stop using the term when referring to his proposals for dealing with Mexican nationals employed illegally in the U.S. "The word is obnoxious to some," Clements admitted, so "Bracero" is out.

"Excessive" is in. Clements used that term again this week when answering questions about the 160,000-member Texas Public Employees Association's demand for a 10.2 percent pay increase. Last week, the governor branded the Legislative Budget Board's proposed 22 percent jump in state spending as "excessive."

"Unimaginative" was Clements' favorite term when discussing a Department of Public Safety plan to combat illegal drugs. The ever-active governor has taken to re-writing what the DPS handed him.

Wiretaps are already part of the DPS strategy, and Clements backs such an idea, but if he doesn't watch it, the governor may come up with a dry hole. Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby says a law legalizing wiretaps in narcotics cases will most likely get unplugged in the Senate.

With that in mind, Clements announced the creation of a citizens committee to help him in his crusade against drug trafficking. H. Ross Perot, head of one of the world's largest computer firms, was named to chair the 10-member panel. Perot is from Clements' old stomping grounds—Dallas. The remaining members of the committee, dubbed "Texans War Against Drugs," will be named later.

Courts Speak

The Texas Supreme Court this week upheld a state ruling that limits the practice of acupuncture to licensed physicians.

And the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals upheld the 1976 robbery conviction of former professional football player Warren Wells.

Short Snorts

Speaking figuratively, of course, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said the "bloodiest" struggle of the 66th session might well come over attempts to raise the home mortgage ceiling. But not a drop was spilled this week as House and Senate committees failed to act on legislation that would raise the home loan interest rate from 10 to 12 percent.

House Speaker Bill Clayton and Hobby back a presidential primary in March with normal state primaries in July, shortening the campaign season. The State Democratic Executive Committee doesn't like it. Democratic National Chairman John C. White doesn't like it. GOP State Chairman Ray Barnhart doesn't like it. And one other Texas Republican isn't so hot about the idea—Bill Clements. The governor has warned he will veto a primary law that shortens the time between primaries and the general elections. Some odd alliances may be forming. So stay tuned.

AUSTIN—Gov. Bill Clements, two of three Texas Railroad Commissioners and the Texas Energy Advisory Council all sounded separate alarms this week but over the same awaiting crisis—a shortage of fuel to run the nation on.

In Washington, Clements declared: "We do indeed have an energy crisis," and went on to bombard President Carter for having failed so far in securing an oil and gas deal with Mexico.

On the home front, Railroad Commissioner Jim Nugent made the first chilling revelation that gas rationing loomed ahead. His remarks came during a speech in Dallas. Fellow Commissioner Mack Wallace was quick to agree. "We are talking about rationing our gasoline supplies in peace time," said Wallace.

John Poerner, the chairman of the three-member RRC, was the lone voice of optimism. He disagreed with his colleagues but did admit it was "possible" that sometime during the coming summer the U.S. might face a slowdown in gasoline production because of the cutback in crude oil from Iran. The mideast country supplies 10 percent of the world's oil and five percent of that is gobbled up by the U.S.

Poerner said he was not "alarmed" even though the nation's reserves had fallen to a 70-day supply. "When we reach a 60-day reserve," Nugent remarked, "Schlesinger (energy Secretary James Schlesinger) will be extremely nervous." At the time of the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo that created shortages and long lines at some gas stations across the country, the normal U.S. reserve was 54 days.

"I think we are in the most precarious international situation since World War II," announced Wallace, a frequent critic of the national energy policy forged by the Carter administration. A strategy Wallace feels emphasizes "cosmetic" solutions to expected shortages. "I don't see the administration encouraging production," Wallace remarked.

In an emergency meeting of the Texas Energy Advisory Council called to consider the repercussions of cutbacks in Iranian oil, a resolution offered by Wallace called on the nation to begin a no-holes-barred effort to produce the energy needed to keep the nation

by Joe Kelly

Does anything look familiar to you Texas Tech basketball fans? It doesn't? It should. The schedule makers apparently are not in favor of the Red Raiders having a good closing schedule.

For the second year in succession, the Raiders' final four games were against Houston, Texas A&M, Arkansas and Texas. By coincidence, they are four of the toughest teams in the league. But then, that's the way you separate the men from the boys.

Tech's loss to Houston can't be attributed to anything that Tech didn't do. Instead, the Cougars did everything right. They simply blew Tech off the floor. Every combination Gerald Myers tried failed to produce.

Against Texas, that was a different story. The difference there were two things—rebounds and turnovers. The Raiders failed miserably in rebounding and their turnovers were horrendous. Despite that, Tech did come from 14 points behind, tied the score and had a good chance to win.

Sudden thought—Did you ever think that the weather prognosticators, with all their memberships in all their wonderful organizations, might do better if they just opened the window and looked out?

The saddest news that I've read in a long time was the death of Winston "Cowboy" Kyle, a man I counted as a good friend. Cowboy was a person that you could only love in every sense of the word.

Last summer he and I walked out of church following the service for Lloyd Lanott, another good friend. We walked to the corner together, talking, and stood there for a long time. We talked about many things, among them how fleeting life is and how friends mean so much. It was the last time that we talked that long and in such depth. I shall miss this wonderful person.

Much the same was true when Abe Martin, former TCU football coach, died. I had visited, all too briefly, with Abe at the Hall of Fame luncheon at the Cotton Bowl. Abe was a favorite friend, too. To know him was to love him.

Abe was more than a fine coach. He was genuinely interested in people. Small wonder that the Horned Frogs had such success over the years that he was associated with them. He had keen insight, a warm heart and a fine sense of humor. In all too short a span his days flowed with the sands of time.

How familiar it is when a team wins or loses. If it's a loss, the cry comes up that "we were too rested," or "we were tired." Then there is "we didn't have enough time to prepare," or "we had too long a layoff." Then there is the standard "they played their best game of the year against us" or "we played the poorest game of the year."

You can always fall back on experience, too, like "It was going to be tough because they have so many seniors and it was their last game" or "we're a young team and couldn't cope with their experience."

Football recruiting still is in motion and Tech apparently came out of the wars with a good crop. I say "apparently" because the national letter signing isn't until today and many things can happen.

The Raiders seem to have signed some of the players needed to fill weak spots, particularly at running back, where they were weak—and made even weaker by the departure of Phil Weatherall. They also needed at least one good backup quarterback, linebackers and linemen.

Based on initial reports, Tech had a good recruiting season.

Basketball officiating is the most thankless job in sports. There is no way that the officials can do a job that is satisfactory for all concerned. All they can do is their best, and let the chips fall where they may.

Three officials haven't in my opinion, done anything more than clutter up a floor that already is too crowded. As they said on TV during the Duke-Louisville game Sunday, one official is top drawer, the second is fair and the third is inexperienced and trying to make a reputation.

Games might even be better if there were no officials!

One of the worst situations in basketball is the travelling violation. Let a player shuffle his feet and the chances are he'll be called for travelling. But let a player drive for the basket and he can take three or four strides, never putting the ball on the floor, and that's legal.

Another controversy is over blocking or charging. A defensive player, seeing the offensive player on a clear course to the goal, moves over. If he has two feet planted and the offensive player runs into him, the offensive player draws a foul. It's one of the rules that badly needs nationwide correction.

I don't know if Leete Jackson thinks the way I do, but I suspect that he does. Inflation has affected every business and the Red Raider Club is business, big or small.

Therefore, every member ought to look at his dues this year in the terms that inflation has affected the RRC by 20% and increase accordingly. After all, if each member doesn't increase, the RRC club is going to be 20% less effective in its efforts.

The above may seem like crass commercialism and it probably is, except for one thing. It's a fact of life. But it really is quite simple; If you don't increase, Tech can't do the same job, let alone expand.

We want Tech to do well in all sports, particularly football, right? Okay, support Tech so that it can. If you don't, don't complain. Try running your business, or your home, on the same economic income, as, let's say, 1970. You'd be: 1. Out of business; or 2. Bankrupt, maybe on welfare.

The basketball season is almost over, although the pros will run for weeks to come, as will hockey, although no one shows hockey locally. So, what are armchair sports fans going to do on Saturdays and Sundays?

For one thing, the spring training baseball season is already here. Although the local paper hasn't seen fit to run anything on it, teams have gone to Florida and Arizona to start preparations. By the time the NCAA playoffs are over, they'll be ready for exhibitions.

So, cheer up. The tube isn't going to go dark.

Willie Mays recently was elected to baseball's Hall of Fame, and who could argue with that selection. Willie was truly one of baseball's greatest performers.

But I shed a tear for people like Enos "Country" Slaughter, who was overlooked, among with many other all-time greats. The system is wrong. They make stars wait five years as a minimum. Every year after that there is less chance for election, because there is turnovers in the voters, and older players are forgotten and overlooked.

You need go no farther than Lubbock, where Sam West languishes. One of the all-time greats asks no favors, wants no honors, outwardly. But he belongs. He has, of course, as much chance to be elected as I have of being president. The difference is that I don't want to be president.

Hearing Scheduled

The Office of Personnel Management (OPM) will hold a public hearing February 26 on proposed regulations for Federal agency recruiting programs aimed at eliminating underrepresentation of minorities and women in civil service employment.

The hearing will begin at 2 p.m. in Room 5H09, 1900 E. St., NW, Washington, D.C. 20415. Anyone wishing to present testimony should contact Tom Dausch at that address or by phone (202) 632-9470 to be assigned a specific time on the agenda.

The special recruiting programs covered in these proposed regulations are called for in the Civil Service Reform Act of 1978. They include internal as well as external recruitment.

The proposed rules follow program guidelines established by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

Since the law requires the regulations to be in effect no later than April 12, 1979, only 40 days have been provided for public comment. The proposals appeared in the Federal Register on February 9.

Lunch Bunch

Robin Tinley will give a personal interpretation of Mexico, "Mexico Sings" Tuesday, Feb. 27, 12:15 p.m. at the Lubbock City-County Library, 1306 9th Street.

Ms. Tinley has lived ten years in Mazatlan and Guadalajara. She will show slides and Mexican Handicrafts to illustrate her talk.

The free program is part of the regular Tuesday "Lunch Bunch" series at the Mahon Library. Coffee is served, and brown baggers are welcome.

Ringling the Bell . . .

with Bob Tieucl

The Black Church in West Texas: & S.E. New Mexico: Compared to many other sections of Texas and portions of Southeast New Mexico, the Black population is relatively small. And so is the membership of the average black church. Yet the general welfare of its membership is borne by these churches and the pastor, who often receives his calling from among the membership. There are a relative very few who have Seminary training and some of the most successful are those who perhaps have the equivalent of a high school education. Many of these pastors will tell you that they are graduates of the "school of the Holy Spirit".

Except for several of the largest towns and cities, the NAACP, the foremost civil rights organization has not organization, yet the black church is often in the forefront in seeking a "better life" for its people who often have to contend for first class citizenship as our brown and red brothers.

Let us take the case of the Rev. Frank Wells, pastor of Ebenezer Baptist Church of Hobbs, New Mexico for the past 40 years and is 72 years old. For nearly six years Wells has led a continuing fight for lower utility rates in the Hobbs area. He is chairman of The Concerned Citizens group and at present is an "intervenor" in district and federal courts in New Mexico and states that "we will go all the way to the Supreme Court if necessary".

Just the past week, an organized peaceful protest march was held with hundreds of blacks, browns and others participating. The march was formed at Hobbs City Hall and then to Hobbs Gas Co. and the New Mexico Electric Co. in downtown. It has been a long time since this correspondent has seen such a demonstration in these parts with some bellers pointing out that should the Concerned Citizens group win some of the long standing battles, it might inspire others to "go and do likewise." Revolts seem to be shaping out all over the country and it seems now "is the time for consumers to be heard from too." And who knows, perhaps that time has come. At least, that is the thinking of a black preacher, who has been called the Martin Luther King of the West.

Manuscript sources are the main topics discussed in New England Genealogy: A Research Guide With Special Emphasis on Massachusetts and Connecticut by Claude W. Barlow. Softbound, 28 pps., not indexed, $3. Order from the Western Reserve Historical Society, 10825 East Blvd, Cleveland, Ohio, 44106. Data given on each state includes the history of its creation and early organization, a few published works, types of local records available, and library and archives materials. Further details may contain such useful items as location of the records, inclusive dates of the sources, whether or not indexed, availability on microfilm, and research problems. The appendix shows changes in state boundaries as they affect the location of records. Genealogists with Yankee ancestry should find this small book very helpful.

The 1880 and 1890 Census, Canadian District, Cherokee Nation, Indian Territory transcribed by Sharron Standifer Ashton is Special Publication No. 5 of the Oklahoma Genealogical Society. Softbound, 90 pp., illustrated, surnames arranged alphabetically, $8.50. Order from the Society, P.O. Box 314, Oklahoma City, Okla. 73101. The Introduction by Jack D. Baker briefly outlines the history of Cherokee migrations to Oklahoma.

The 1880 census gives the person's name (usually arranged by family group), nativity, age, and sex. Since the 1890 census contains 105 columns (concerning such items as ability to read and write, improvements, livestock, agricultural implements, schools, and churches), this work serves as an index to the schedule. Information listed is the person's name (by family group), whether native or adopted, race or prior nationality, age, sex, occupation, and marital status. Entries totalling more than 3800 names include native Cherokees, adopted citizens of other tribes, and blacks and whites who had intermarried with Indians. These schedules are the most informative censuses taken of the Cherokee Nation. The original records are located in the Federal Records Center in Fort Worth, Texas; copies are available in the Indian Archives Division of the Oklahoma Historical Society in Oklahoma City.

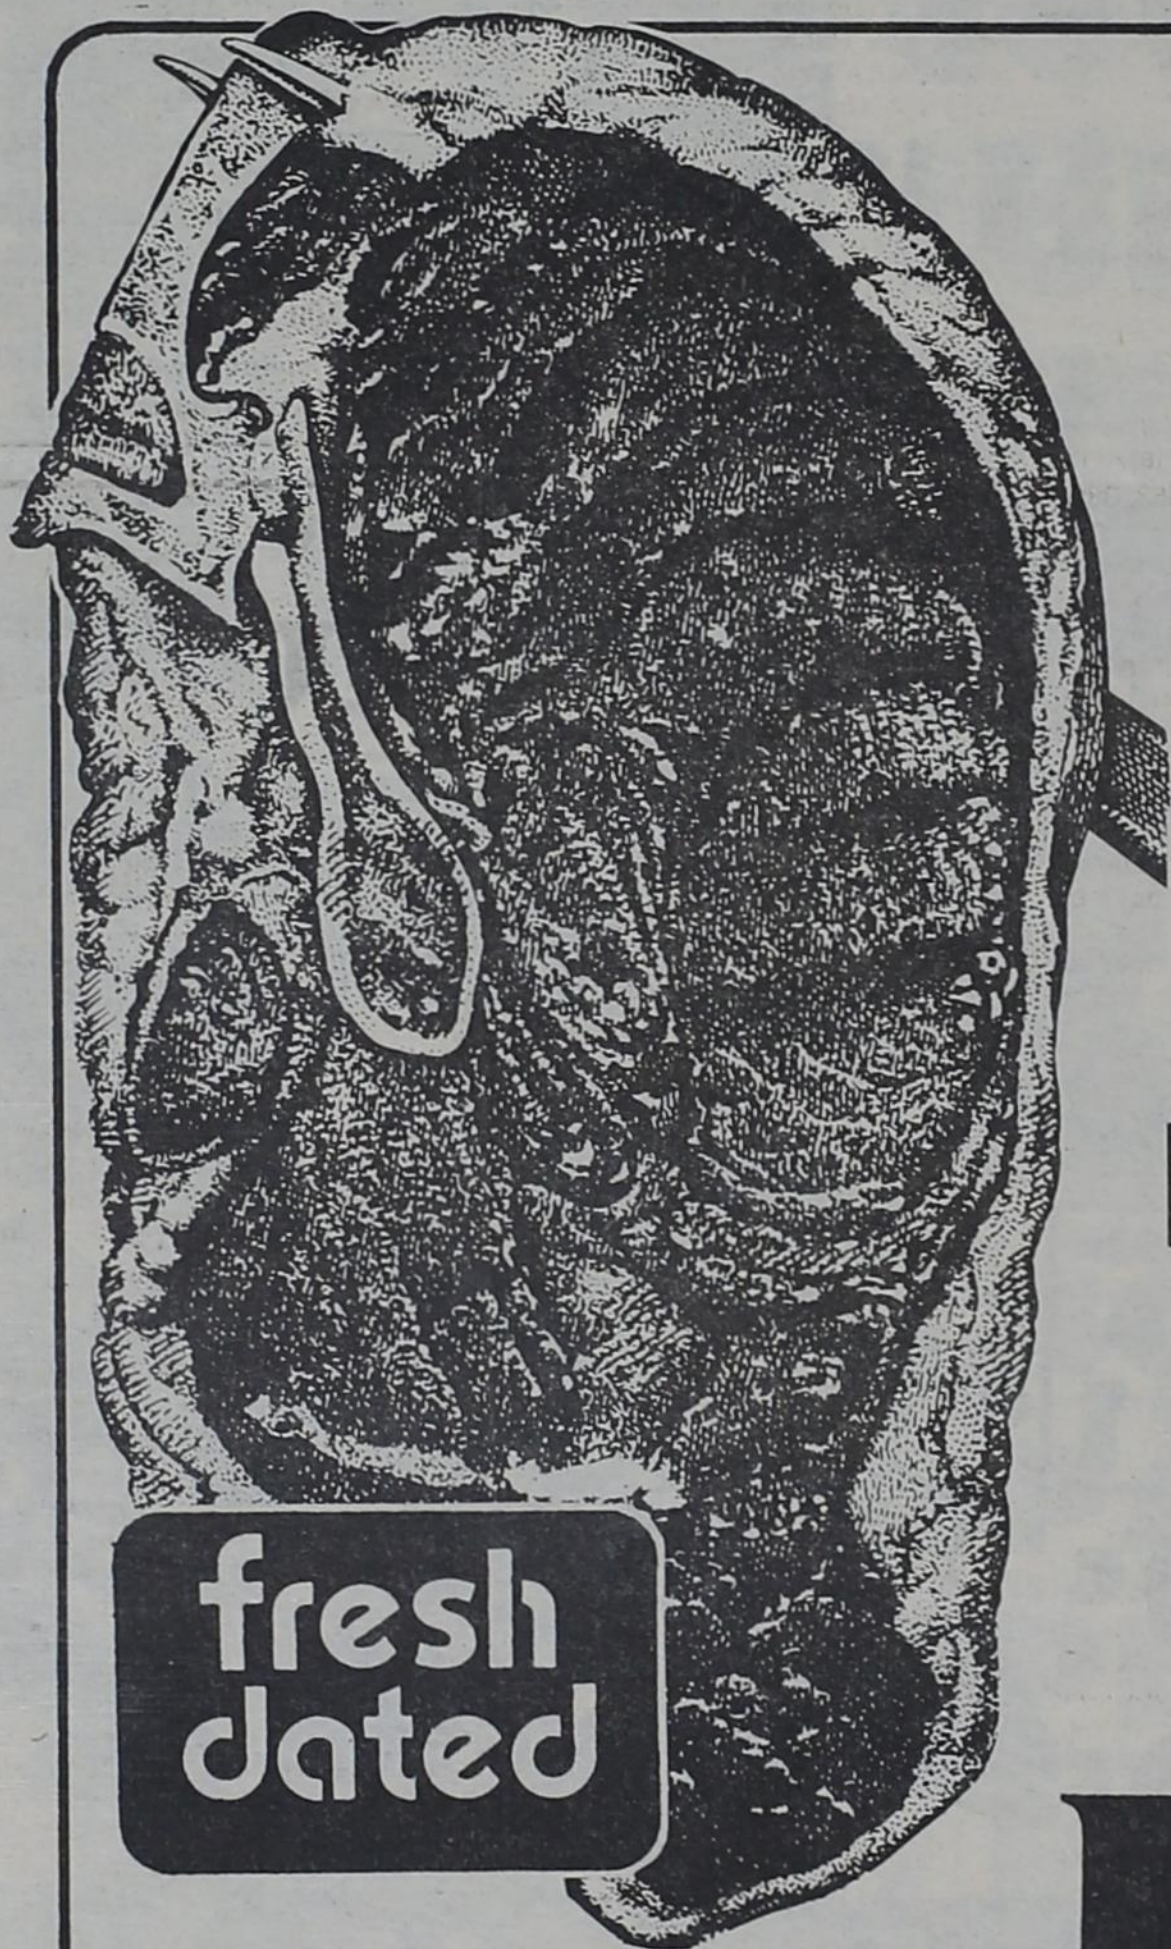

Thanks to Christine Knox Wood of Lubbock for submitting the following material taken from the Southern Sentinel, published weekly in Ripley, Tippah County, Miss. Entitled "Ripley Negro Has Many Descendants," the article appeared on p. 1 of the April 2nd, 1936 issue:

Bose EDGERTON has a family record "that is likely unsurpassed in the United States of America.

Bose who has been a familiar figure in and around Ripley for many years, returned recently to his native heath from a bit of wandering to and fro on the earth. Finding himself once more in the town of his nativity, he became reminiscent the other day and reminded us that he lacks one year having passed three-quarters of a century as a sojourner on this mundane sphere. Eighteen of his children are still living, fourteen have passed on. The oldest child is 59, the youngest 25. One hundred seventy-four grandchildren, and great-grandchildren have been added to the family.

Bose has been married three times. He is a brother of Sam EDGERTON, who died here several years ago."

ORDINANCE NO. 7804

An ordinance defining and prescribing the rates applicable to the sale of natural gas and natural gas service by Pioneer Natural Gas Company to certain of its customers who use natural gas within the city limits of Lubbock, Texas; providing for monthly adjustments, to the nearest .01c, in such rates, in accordance with increases or decreases in the average monthly cost to Pioneer of gas purchased for its West Texas transmission system; placing certain limits on the maximum amount of said monthly adjustments; defining cost of gas; establishing an effective date; and containing a savings and severability clause.

WHEREAS, heretofore, on August 10, 1978, Pioneer Natural Gas Company, a division of Pioneer Corporation, submitted a Statement of Intent to the governing body of the City of Lubbock, Texas, proposing a schedule of rates to cover the sale of natural gas and natural gas service by Pioneer Natural Gas Company to certain of its customers who use natural gas within the City Limits of Lubbock, Texas; and

WHEREAS, said application has been considered by the governing body of the City of Lubbock, Texas, and it is the opinion of the governing body that the proposed schedule of rates, as amended, for the sale of natural gas and natural gas service by Pioneer Natural Gas Company is just and reasonable, and should be approved; NOW, THEREFORE: Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Lubbock:

SECTION 1. THAT Pioneer Natural Gas Company, its successors and assigns, may make charges under its General Service, Small Industrial, and Large Gas Air Conditioning And/O Electric Generating Gas Rates for the sale of natural gas and natural gas service to its customers who use natural gas within the City of Lubbock, Texas, as follows:

GENERAL SERVICE

Monthly Rate: First 1 Mcf or less per month, Net $4,000, Gross $4,444; Next 3 Mcf per month, Net $2,4094 per Mcf, Gross $2,6771 per Mcf; Next 6 Mcf per month, Net $2,2481 per Mcf, Gross $2,4979 per Mcf. All over 10 Mcf per month, Net $2,1487 per Mcf, Gross $2,3874 per Mcf.

SMALL INDUSTRIAL RATE

Monthly Rate: First 50 Mcf per month, Net $2,07774 per Mcf, Gross $2,3082 per Mcf; Next 50 Mcf per month, Net $1,9638 per Mcf, $2,1820 per Mcf Gross. All over 100 Mcf per month, Net $1,8605 per Mcf, Gross $2,0672 per Mcf.

Minimum Monthly Bill: $25.00 Net
LARGE GAS AIR CONDITIONING AND/OR ELECTRIC GENERATING GAS RATE*

Monthly Rate: All gas used per month, Net $1,8021 per Mcf, Gross $2,0023 per Mcf. Minimum Monthly Bill: $100.00 net.

*Does not apply to Municipally owned power plants.

SECTION 2. THAT the rates set forth in Section One hereof to be charged by Pioneer Natural Gas Company for the sale of natural gas and natural gas service in the City of Lubbock, Texas, shall be adjusted in the following manner:

Each month Pioneer Natural Gas Company shall notify the City of the average cost of gas per Mcf at 13.6 psia for its West Texas Transmission System during the previous month. Said notice shall be filed with the City Secretary, with additional copies of such notice to be sent to such City officials as may be requested. The cost of gas shown in such notice shall be broken down into the four classifications hereinafter described. Unless the City notifies Pioneer Natural Gas Company within 10 days of receipt of said notice that it does not accept such notice of cost as being correct (and the City reserves complete discretion to accept or reject such notice of cost for any reason), the rates per Mcf to be charged by Pioneer Natural Gas Company for all bills rendered on or after the first day of the month following expiration of the said 10-day period shall be adjusted up or down to the nearest .01c by which the average monthly cost of gas to Pioneer Natural Gas Company for its West Texas Transmission System is more than or less than 141.41c per Mcf at 13.6 psia (152.33c per Mcf at 14.65 psia), subject to the following provisions:

For the purpose of determining the cost of gas and the cost of gas adjustments applicable above, the term "average cost of gas" is the total of the following amounts divided by the volume of gas:
1. Amounts paid for the volumes purchased at wellheads, at field lines, at gasoline plant outlets and at transmission lines under the provisions of the applicable contracts involved including recoupment or amortization of prepayments. It also includes volumes in excess of receipts under gas exchange agreements and storage gas withdrawals in excess of injections during the period at the applicable costs.

2. Interest charged at the prime rate in effect on the first day of each month or the actual rate, whichever is less, upon funds advanced for gas development or dedicated volumes based upon the outstanding portion of such advancements.

3. Amounts paid for delivery of gas into Pioneer's West Texas System in situations where the supplier cannot make delivery into Pioneer's lines thus reflecting the cost of gas at the initial point of delivery into Pioneer's West Texas System.

4. Amortization over a 5-year period of funds advanced for gas supply development which is nonproductive.

The portion of any adjustment increase authorized by this Section, which is attributable to items number 2 and number 4 described above, shall never exceed a combined total of 1-1/2 c per Mcf per month.

B.

By March 1 of each year Pioneer Natural Gas Company shall furnish the City with the detail of gas purchased for its West Texas Transmission System during the previous calendar year as filed with the Railroad Commission of Texas. The City may, as it deems desirable, examine the books and records of Pioneer Natural Gas Company and make audits to determine the accuracy of the cost of gas purchased by Pioneer Natural Gas Company for its West Texas Transmission System.

SECTION 3. THAT the rates and adjustments thereto prescribed herein are effective for gas delivered on or after the 15th day of February, 1979, and Pioneer Natural Gas Company shall file with the City, on or before said date: (1) a written acceptance of said rates and adjustments in lieu of those accompanying its August 10, 1978, State of Intent; and (2) schedules or tariffs setting forth such rates and adjustments.

SECTION 4. THAT if any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase of this Ordinance is, for any reason, held to be unconstitutional or invalid, such holding shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this ordinance. The governing body of the City of Lubbock, Texas, hereby declares that it would have passed this ordinance and each section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase hereof irrespective of the fact that any one or more sections, subsections, sentences, clauses, or phrases by declared unconstitutional or invalid.

SECTION 5. THAT the "cost of gas adjustment" authorized by this Ordinance shall in nowise be construed as an abrogation or waiver (by contract or otherwise) of the rate making powers and prerogatives of the City of Lubbock, Texas, granted by charter, statutes, or franchise provisions.

SECTION 6. THAT the City Rate Analyst review the method of allocation on the part of the total revenue deficit which is to be paid by the City of Lubbock to determine if such allocation is fair and equitable.

SECTION 7. THAT if the City Rate Analyst finds that the method of allocation in question is not fair and equitable, he is to file his funding with the City Council which will thereupon take appropriate action authorized by law which action may include a new rate hearing to consider an accounting and refund order.

AND IT IS SO ORDERED

Passed by the City Council on first reading this 2nd day of February, 1979.

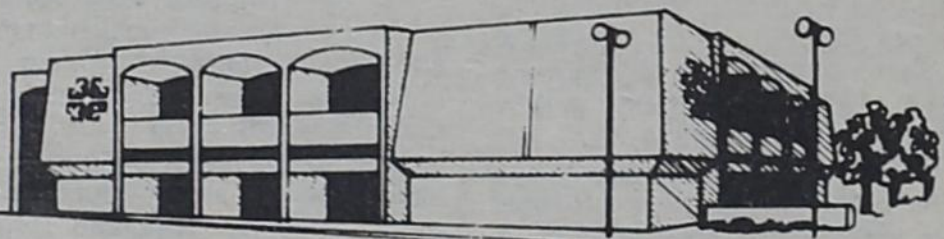

Passed by the City Council on second reading this 8th day of February, 1979.
