EDWARD CECIL "PROF" STRUGGS "THE MAN OF DREAMS"

(Editor's Note: Final rites were read Monday afternoon, August 21, 1979, at the Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church for Edward Cecil "Prof" Struggs with the Reverend A. W. Wilson officiating. Rev. Wilson was assisted by Dr. Jim Loud, Rev. H. R. Johnson, Rev. Nathaniel Johnson, and Rev. Jack Robinson. A special resolution from Bethel was read by Mrs. A. W. Wilson, while Ms. Rose Lincoln and Ms. Bobbie Patterson sang solos. The choirs of Bethel were responsible for music of the hour.

This is a special tribute to this man for what he has done for the Lubbock Public Schools, Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church, the City of Lubbock, and thousands and thousands of young Black Americans.)

EDWARD CECIL "PROF" STRUGGS

October 3, 1900

August 18, 1979

Edward Cecil "Prof" Struggs was born in Wallis, Texas, Austin County, October 3, 1900 to devoted Christian parents, E. W. and Mattie Campbell Struggs.

At an early age, he became a member of the African Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1930, he became a member of Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church, where he remained a faithful member until his death August 18, 1979. He served 33 years as Superintendent of the Sunday School at Bethel and was still serving in the capacity of Secretary-Treasurer of the Trustee Board at his death.

His education began in Wallis Elementary School, transferring to Marlin, Texas for the final years of this phase of his education. His high school work was done at Paul Quinn College, Waco, Texas where he remained through the completion of his college degree, Bachelor of Arts. He received the Bachelor of Science Degree at Prairie View University; the Master of Arts Degree in administration and supervision from the University of Michigan. Further, graduate study included additional work at the University of Michigan, also the University of Southern California and Texas Tech University. He was awarded an Honorary Degree of Doctor of Humanities at Paul Quinn College, Waco, Texas.

E. C. Struggs realized the first step in his ambition to be a teacher in Minerva, Milam County, Texas, where he spent five years as principal and teacher. In August, 1930, he and his wife, Lillian, came to Lubbock for him to assume the principalship of Dunbar. After assessing the school situation for blacks in Lubbock, he immediately established his life's greatest ambition - the growth and recognition of Dunbar as a creditable educational institution. At the time that Struggs came to Lubbock, Dunbar had only three years of high school work offered, so one of the first steps was to see that the fourth year of high school work was offered to the six members of the 10th grade. (Grades 8th through 11th were considered high school then).

Hence during the school year 1930-31, Dunbar had no high school graduates. In 1931-32, Dunbar had its first four-year high school graduates, and from 1932 to 1965, E. C. Struggs signed every high school diploma issued.

Long before Martin Luther King began telling his dreams, older citizens will remember "Prof" Struggs as a dreamer. For in the dark days of the depression, when Dunbar had outgrown the three room

BLACK CITIZENS VOTED TO MEET WITH CITY COUNCIL

"We want a part of the action," was the comment and feeling of the more than eighty east Lubbock citizens at a community meeting last Monday evening at the Mae Simmons Community Center.

With representatives from several Black and brown organizations in the city of Lubbock, the group voted to meet with the mayor and city council on Wednesday, September 12, a day before the final passing of the upcoming budget for the city of Lubbock. "It is time for city hall to know exactly how we feel about many issues," said Eddie P. Richardson, one of the coordinators of the local meeting. "It is good to have the city staff here to let us know what is going on, but we need those persons who make and set policy in this city," he continued.

Director of City Planning told the group he sees no obstacles preventing City Council approval of a $10,000 study to determine the feasibility of an overpass or underpass at East 34th Street and Southeast Drive, formerly Railroad Avenue.

It was the second time in three months that a group of east Lubbock residents firmly endorsed the construction of such a grade separation at this intersection.

Bertram, with city manager Larry Cunningham and Rick Childers present, outlined two steps that would precede actual construction of a grade separation. One, a detailed engineering study, which would give construction costs, would need to be drawn up by engineers. Second, and should the council agree, funding would need to be committed.

"If the engineering study says yes, it's (the grade separation) feasible at a cost of X number of dollars, the council will agree to include it in the city's annual planning element, which begins September 1," said Bertram.

"We have been studied long enough," said Harold M. Chatman, president of COPE. Another citizen, James

Burrell, local business, said: "It's no way to get a good count since people don't use the intersection as a means of travel because of the trains stopping them."

"People want the truth about this situation. This is why we are here. You see, this situation came up immediately after the tornado and was on the priority list," said T. J. Patterson.

All present, including a group from the Mexican-American community, agreed that the old grade separation (as is now) needs to be straightened out.

As a result of this meeting, the group is eager to talk to the city council and let them know about some things of concern in the Black community. "We want Carolyn Jordan to know that we don't appreciate some of the things she has been saying in the local newspaper; we don't appreciate."

The entire Black community is asked to come out and participate in this upcoming meeting on Wednesday evening, September 12, at 7:30 p.m.

"Former Dunbar High School Track Star"

Lubbock Man Awarded Certificate of Appreciation by Police Department

A 24-year-old Lubbock man who chased and captured a purse-snatcher has been doubly honored for his quick and unselfish actions.

Gary High of 2123 East 30th Street, a former Dunbar High School track star and now a Waples-Platter employee, received a certificate of appreciation from the Lubbock Police Department and subsequently was awarded $100 by Lubbock Mayor Dirk West's CRIME LINE program, which pays cash rewards for crime-solving tips.

High's meritorious actions came July 17 when he heard the screams of a 35-year-old Springlake woman whose purse had been so forcefully jerked from her grasp that she was thrown to the sidewalk of the Lubbock downtown street on which she was walking. High saw the assailant, still clutching the purse, running from the scene. He was no match for High's stride.

The still-athletic High caught the man in the next block and held him in an arm-lock until police officers arrived. The woman's purse and all its contents were recovered, and the thief, identified as an 18-year-old Slaton man, was jailed on a felony charge of theft from a person.

Two weeks later High was summoned to the office of Lubbock Chief of Police J. T. Alley, where he became the first recipient of the police department certificate of appreciation presented to citizens in recognition of participation and support of the Lubbock Police Department and its efforts to prevent crime in Lubbock.

"Mr. High's actions were exemplary in that they reflect the attitude that crime in our city is not to be tolerated and that citizens can actively assist in the suppression of crime," Alley said. He added, "We wish to publicly commend Mr. High for his actions and present him with this certificate expressing our appreciation. This is the first certificate of this kind to be presented, and we certainly hope it will not be the last."

Tribute to E. C. Struggs

Editor's Note: This tribute is written especially for friends and readers of the "Lubbock Digest." This column appears as a member of daily and weekly newspapers throughout the Southwest and the Nation.

E. C. Struggs now belongs to the ages as it was said on another historic figure long ago. As Joan Ervin remarked the other day as long as there is one person alive whose life was touched by the teaching and influence of "Prof", he will never die.

There are literally thousands who knew, loved, and respected E.C. Struggs during the 35 years he served as the guided light of Dunbar High School. He taught and practiced love and understanding of all people (even in the days when there was the white world and the Black world, and - shall we say - the brown world).

The walls of separation today are crumbling, but, remain intact at many points. Yet, as one may put it, "Just look where we have come from; even we still have a long way to go," Struggs would say.

E. C. Struggs believed that one could be black, yet proud and willing to stand up and face odds if need be. He served as a sort of a bridge from one era in education, of Black youth to the one where color is no longer the obstacle it used to be.

Footprints are all around us as we pay our last respect to one who believed that God was no respecter of persons, but, had made all men to make their contributions to society (whether they be rich or poor - white, Black, or brown). His teachings will live in our hearts forever.

WHY NOT??

by Eddie P. Richardson

Unite or Perish

The 1980 elections are fast approaching and now more than anytime in contemporary history, the KKK's are marching and doing their things. Black people as well as other minorities need to stop committing crimes among themselves. We are robbing each other, raping, and mugging our own kind, committing every kind of possible crime against our selves. It's a sad sad situation!!! Our young people have to get their heads on straight or be in a situation worse than Blacks were in the 1800's and early 1900's.

Politicians are making every kind of racist and negative statement openly about Blacks and other minorities at will with an attitude of "I can get away with it." But collectively together, the minorities can, and in this writer's opinion judging from previous presence at two local neighborhood meetings, turn the tide in this kind of a thing. Even conversations with others make known that the tide is about to change and minorities are aware of how important it is to get together. Minorities are realizing how important it is to use a great deal of muscle and clout. Both can be applied to become a true part of the American system. This, at one time, was a dream, but now a reality. Another strong voice riding the waves are saying a vast minority resignation of all minorities on token committees and petty none decision making and planning boards are forthcoming soon. Also injunctions against federal dollars the minorities are not reaping from in their communities. Minorities are getting the word around loud and clear "If we can't have it, they don't need it (Federal monies). Minorities are saying loud and clear "We want to be a part of the mainstream or create some change, now!" Minorities are tired of being showcased to help obtain Federal funds. They want to help plan their destinies, and help make decisions which affect their lives. Politicians and decision makers who are insensitive to these feelings will feel something like a bolt of lightning when election comes in the 1980's. A lot of minorities are saying "We will be voting in the 1980's. It will be done collectively and together." Blacks and browns together. Nuff sed. WHY NOT??

LEGISLATIVE ALERT
FOCUS ON U.S. POLICY TOWARD AFRICA

Part III—Concern for Blacks in South Africa
In a strong letter to the President last year, the Congressional Black Caucus urged the Administration to take a strong hand in protecting the human and political rights of the black majority in South Africa. The Caucus letter noted in part:

We applaud your new initiatives towards a more positive and realistic policy with respect to Angola and other African nations with which our relations in the past have been tenuous.

However, we believe most strongly that the missing link in an affirmative U.S. approach to the aspirations and problems of Africa is our lack of will to deal effectively with the racist South African Government. While Africans and their supporters regard that Government as Public Enemy Number One, we have yet to see your Administration fully share this view and implement proposals relating thereto. It is naive to believe that conventional diplomacy will produce the desired results. Whatever cooperation that Government has manifested with respect to the conflicts in Zimbabwe and Namibia emanates from nothing other than self interest. The racist Pretoria regime is concerned neither with justice nor humanitarianism nor with a willingness to address the fundamental inequities within its own society. It is inevitable that the liberation movement will reach the Afrikaner heartland and provoke even more intensified struggles there before 1980.

The Western world has not—repeat, has not—tested the will of the racist South African Government to resist fundamental change. Economic sanctions and other diplomatic moves are the only means short of war in which external forces can engage. We think it is crucial that the United States take the leadership on this issue and take it now, for we are the only country within the Western alliance which has the strength and the moral fiber to undertake such measures. Other principals are too compromised because of their historical links, entrenched economic interests or sheer racism.

You may write to your Congressmen and Senators at: Congressional Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515 or Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510. Please congratulate them for their important work and let them know where Black America stands on crucial issues.

PUBLIC POLICY AND HUMAN GOALS

The recent legal maneuvers against the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare by the N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense Fund have brought consternation to civil rights and black educational circles. The Legal Defense Fund brought suit the past year against H.E.W. and Secretary Joseph Califano for an alleged failure by the federal government to abolish segregated higher educational facilities, specifically in the state of North Carolina.

North Carolina, for some years now, has had one of the strongest networks of black-oriented public colleges in the nation. Unlike trends in some states, North Carolina has sought generally to strengthen the traditional black-oriented units in its collegiate system, and in so doing to guarantee the largest admissions—and the largest graduations—of black students.

It has been recognized for some time, and confirmed by a number of recent studies, that black-oriented facilities have been able to meet black student academic needs far more effectively than have our white-oriented colleges. But they have also preserved the possibility of lively contact with black role models, since the black oriented institutions are staffed by able, successful and often inspiring black administrators and faculty. Black-oriented colleges thus have met black young people where they are, in a world which is half desegregated and half an island where blacks must find reality simply because the mainland or the world at large denies it.

Black educators in black-oriented institutions both public and private have been practically unanimous in the assertion that, for some time in the foreseeable future, there will be many deeply significant roles for black-oriented colleges to play. Perhaps foremost will be the role which black college play in securing equity and parity for blacks with white Americans in the attainment of collegiate training and degrees.

Carrying such narrowly legalistic logic further, the Legal Defense Fund has maintained that the practical service functions of the black oriented colleges are of no concern whatever in the public commitment to abolish discrimination, root and branch, wherever it exists. Hence, because of the efforts of the N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense Fund, the future of many black-oriented collegiate institutions has become imperilled.

The action by the Defense Fund in this way has brought forces traditionally working together for the welfare of black Americans into a head-on collision course. What does the future hold? Is there a way out of the dilemma presented by the practical needs of black Americans, the meeting of which is clearly in the public interest, on the one hand, and by the apparent requirement to end all forms of racial discrimination, on the other? We suggest that there is a way out, the spirit of which should come to guide every aspect of our making of public policy. What the black collegiate educators are addressing themselves to are the basic needs for human development, opportunity and fulfillment. These are inalienable human rights.

When we begin with the assumption that narrowly defined legalism are our goal, we arrive eventually at narrowly circumscribed public policies and public programs which serve, ultimately, to limit or circumscribe the public good. But when—in every community and in every aspect of our public, common or shared life—we place the developmental needs of people first, the results will be variegated public policy with deeply humane goals and programs, designed solely to serve the public interest.

Following this approach, when black people are asked what their public goals are, the answer would be somewhat different from those given in the past. Formerly, we would have said that what we want is certain civil rights. But with the needs of human development, opportunity and fulfillment being seen as foremost, black Americans would come to stress as goals the meeting of a wide range of flexible needs which would serve not blacks alone, but the good of the nation's public as a whole. For example, the humane public goal of human development in the area of education is served best, at least for the moment, for the majority of black Americans, by the tentative provision for black oriented colleges. Similarly, the public good might be seen as enhanced—as in some other democratic nations in the same legal tradition as our own—by some flexible and tentative supports for private or parochial education. Such schools, in some nations, serve the developmental needs of the public far more efficiently at far less cost.

Slam! Did the gate fall down on your fingers? Did they lose your winning number in the shuffle? Have they closed your fishing hole, outlawed schools, erased your credit, squeezed you into a barren plot of land???

History is said to repeat itself, but what's occurring in the lives of black people is not the repetition of history—but the continuation of blatant racism in America.

Karmically speaking, white people are making a grave mistake to believe that they have subdued us to the point of total subservience. We may look beat down, broken, scattered, confused, over-doped and in ill health. But still, waters run deep—and water once destroyed this world.

Black people do not depend upon technological weapons because they have none. What we store in our being is the righteous wrath of God. And when God speaks through us, He occasionally says: "Vengeance shall be mine!"

When school starts, insist that the teachers instructing your children take courses in black history. Do not allow teachers to discourage and squelch your children's creative ability. Heighten the level of sacrifice so that the black race lives as well as it survives and survives!

GEMINI — May 22-June 21
We can go no faster in our bodies than body strength allows. The mind can soar, but it can also be limited by a sick body. Take care of the body because it is the temple of your very own spirit. Patience!

CANCER — June 22-July 23
People on television may scheme and lie and faint or throw tantrums to get their way, but in real life this doesn't work. When you are angry, you should not repress the energy. A creative human develops civilized outlets for negative energy.

L.E.O. — July 24-August 23
If others want you to teach them a wise way of gaining fortune, instruct them. Without the Sun there would be no life on earth. Without perpetuation of knowledge that is Truth, humans cannot evolve to higher wisdoms. Help!

VIRGO — August 24-September 23
The link and the chain are around you now, but not as tight as before. Stop criticizing others and examine the contents of your own Selfhood. When you are perfect you may point your finger outward. This won't happen soon.

LIBRA — September 24-October 23
You should communicate your ideas and theories on beauty, and don't be shocked when you realize that few objects will live on earth eternally. All of us are here for a season—to experience the beauty and to be inspired to create on our own.

SCORPIO — October 24-November 22
If your intellect has reached an unseeable point, and is no longer capable of unemotional reasoning, listen to your heart. Your creative urges are seeking discipline. Restrain!

of negative passion and low energy is a necessity.
SAGITTARIUS—November 23-December 21
Are you feeling shocked or thunderstruck? Well, the wiliness of humans may never cease to amaze you. We never have to begin from the very beginning—we begin where we left off. Be the Faithful!
CAPRICORN — December 22-January 20

The blighted conditions all over the earth are the sad result of negative thinking—of humans' greed for personal power. You may look like them, but do not be like them. The weak never fight for justice.
AQUARIUS — January 21-February 19
A magnetic adaptability usually saves you from the consequences of danger, but not from the presence of danger. Your super mind is bored with human lament over the inhuman conditions. The choice is to fight or pray.

PISCES — February 20-March 20
Guard your health, and even if you become ill, resist being institutionalized. Find peace in your own Spirit, and you can heal yourself. Remain firm in the occurrence of all upheavals. Be a Bright Focus!

ATTEND THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE

structure located on 17th Street, and had spread to every church in this section. Struggs tried to keep the patrons in good faith by telling them of his dreams of the day when Dunbar High School would be housed in a modern building with all modern facilities. The relating of this dream always became most verbal during a commencement exercise or other gatherings which included the school board members and other school officials. But, in the mean time, every student who graduated from Dunbar who wished to go to college, was able to take the college entrance examination and enter the college of his choice and complete the requirements for a college degree. This included the first class of Dunbar graduates in 1932 through 1936. In 1937, Dunbar had been accepted by the Southern Association of Secondary Schools for full accreditation after the first section of the Dunbar High School on Date Avenue had been constructed. All of this dreaming and activity included the early years when he had only two to three other teachers beside himself. During this time, Struggs used his teaching ability to see that the members of his high school classes received experience and training in the subject matter that he knew they must cover in order to enter the freshman class in college. He taught math, science and other basic subjects while his wife, Lillian, taught English, music and history classes in addition to a part of the first grade and all of grade two. The enrollment steadily increased from 125 in 1939 to more than 1,000 in 1965, and three schools had emerged from the school of 1930. The faculty increased from 3 to 57. Dunbar students have always been able to compete in any situation, because Struggs sought the best possible teachers, who were not only competent to teach the subject, but also those whose training, experiences and abilities could enrich and broaden the life and experiences of the students.

When Dunbar was finally housed in its present location, he told the patrons and friends that he had lived to see his dream for Dunbar come true. For the first time, all of the patrons were able to sit

Q. Can I buy life insurance to insure me for as long as I live but without having to pay premiums that long?

A. Yes. You can purchase limited payment life insurance which will provide a lifetime of protection in return for a limited number of premium payments—10, 20, 30 years, or until you reach a certain age, usually 65. This type of policy also builds cash value.

There is another possibility for limited payments. If you have whole life insurance, in the later years you can change the policy to a smaller amount of insurance, with no further premiums to pay. The size of the new paid-up policy will also have cash value that are useful, say, in an emergency.

Dr. Payne comes to Wright State from Cleveland, where he served as an Assistant Professor at Case Western Reserve University School of Medicine and as Assistant Chief of the Pulmonary Section at the Cleveland VA Hospital.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

WHY NATIONS CRUMBLE

2 KINGS 17:5-14

5 Then the king of Assyria invaded all the land and came to Samaria, and for three years he besieged it.
6 In the ninth year of Hoshea the king of Assyria captured Samaria, and he carried the Israelites away to Assyria, and placed them in Halah, and on the Habor, the river of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes.
7 And this was so, because the people of Israel had sinned against the Lord their God, who had brought them up out of the land of Egypt from under the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and they had feared other gods.
8 and walked in the customs of the nations whom the Lord drove out before the people of Israel, and in the customs which the kings of Israel had introduced.
9 And the people of Israel did secretly against the Lord their God things that were not right. They built for themselves high places at all their towns, from watch tower to fortified city;
10 they set up for themselves pillars and Asherim on every high hill and under every green tree;
11 and there they burned

incense on all the high places, as the nations did whom the Lord carried away before them. And they did wicked things, provoking the Lord to anger, 12 and they served idols, of which the Lord had said to them, "You shall not do this."
13 Yet the Lord warned Israel and Judah by every prophet and every seer, saying, "Turn from your evil ways and keep my commandments and every statute, in accordance with all the law which I commanded your fathers, and which I sent to you by my servants the prophets."
14 But they would not listen, but were stubborn, as their fathers had been, who did not believe in the Lord their God.

WORDS OF LIFE

Biblical Inspiration For The Week

"Be perfect."—St. Matthew 5:48

1. God wants our best. This is but another way of saying that God would like to give a full 100 percent guarantee on the things of His creation. God made us for Himself, to be participants or partakers of His life and work. Without our putting forth our best, what God has made exhibits a seeming imperfection.
2. God needs our best. Think of the countless things which God is called upon to do. Prayers or petitions for His blessings ascend to the Throne of Grace in an endless, countless stream. Unless God's hands (your hands), God's mind (your mind) and heart (your heart) are operating at their peak, their very best, then God's work cannot be the best which He would have it be.
3. We can be perfect. We need but conjoin our lives with God's life continually. When we open our lives to let God's spirit, God's life and will and presence enter and take possession, then perfection is our lot. While we have free will, the proper... and only... choice for our fulfillment of Creation's purpose for us, is to find our true selves in God.

"Be ye therefore perfect, even as your heavenly Father is perfect."

Prayer Poem

In 1928 the Rev. Walter Russell Bowie set his pen to the task of expressing through a hymn both the solemnity and the glory of Christ's coming, with His unique brand of peace, into our modern world. The peace of which he writes is a peace of justice, the kind which our troubled world so sorely needs today.

Lord Christ, when first thou cam'st to men
Upon a cross they bound thee,
And mocked thy saving kingship then
By thorns with which they crowned thee.
And still our wrongs may weave thee now
New thorns to pierce that steady brow,
And robe of sorrow round thee.

O wounded hands of Jesus, build
In us thy new creation;
Our pride is dust, our vaunt is stilled,
We wait thy revelation:
O love that triumphs over ills,
We bring our hearts before thy cross
To finish thy salvation.—Amen

The Church proclaims peace to those who are far off and to those who are near. It is a cherished task in which we are privileged to share.

"Thank You"

We would like to take this time and space and thank the residents of our neighborhood for coming to our rescue while we were out of the city on vacation last week. There were kind neighbors who helped clean up the mess and water during the hot water heater that burst in our house. Because of your concern, you did much to help us. May God continue to bless each of you is our prayer.

Thank you, The Sammie L. Sanders Family

The Akron, Ohio, Reporter tells of a regional event in support of the national thrust of the Congressional Black Caucus.

Black Media member and Reporter publisher, Attorney William R. Ellis, has been a prime mover in this endeavor. This kind of spirit should be followed elsewhere "Across the Nation." The Reporter relates:

Rep. Parren J. Mitchell was the guest speaker for the first annual Awards Banquet of the 14th Congressional Black Caucus November 10th at the West Hilton Inn. Caucus members, friends, out of town guests and elected officials were part of the crowd that listened to Rep. Mitchell say, "We should be hopeless people here tonight, but we are not. We are an amazing people. 2,000 black people have been lynched by white mobs and they should have taken the hope out of us, but we are not hopeless."

According to Rep. Mitchell in every city he travels there is a black side and a white side. White people are working and black people are not. "We should be a hopeless people but we are not. We haven't got it all, but we are going to get it, even if we have to die trying."

In referring to the 95th Congress and its relation to Black America, he said it was a very bad year. The 96th Congress is going to be worse although there will be help from elected officials such as John Seiberling. He continues to take a stand for black people and poor people. He insisted that currently Congress is anti-crazy and elected officials are more intent on selling their souls and principles out to the anti-crazy for the purpose of getting elected.

He alluded to the present ongoing discrimination and racism that is affecting Black America now. White male unemployment is at 4 percent while the black male unemployment rate is at 12 percent. He calls this discrimination that is existing at the hiring gate. According to this persistent policy, American hasn't begun to correct its racism.

"Black America is faced with three major social afflictions: Massive unemployment, crime, and the alleged wrongdoing of black elected officials," according to Rep. Mitchell. Mitchell accused the white media for over reacting in the reporting of the many and varied incidents of alleged wrongdoing of our black elected officials. He also pointed out how Black America assists the media by agreeing with the media. "We got some dumb people in the black community, too." He referred to the nearest and most recent Cleveland indictments against their black councilmen. He continued to acknowledge these incidents as part of the current "anti-crazy" and "racism" in America today.

Proposition 13, anti-busing and anti-affirmative action are not the cause of the many problems in America today. He cited the 117 billion dollar deficit budget as the ongoing culprit.

He said that cutting this budget used for killing and redirecting the money toward the elimination of the social plight of Black America and the poor is needed. As long as America continues to spend billions of dollars on defense, the health education and unemployment and other deplorable social conditions of Black America and its poor will continue to flourish.

Rep. Mitchell went on to say, "We cannot expect blacks to face this perilous situation, inflation, rising prices, unemployment, by staying home hungry and freezing where others are eating and are keeping warm. Hungry people will eat and keep warm."

The non violent people died in the 60's he said. "We are dealing with a new breed of people. A people that can survive through slavery, lynchings and a depression is not a hopeless people."

The 14th District Congressional Black Caucus is a non-partisan organization consisting of Republicans, Democrats and independents working together for the survival of the black community.

Since this is black unity it has put power in the black vote. A vote which has decided major elections including those of 1978.

The Black Caucus has made those elected officials aware that as such elected official, he is accountable not only to the public, but also to the black community who gave him the edge.

Rev. Elvin Brown made a report on response to accountability.

Outstanding community service awards were presented to: Mrs. Josephine Blair, chairwoman of the Investigating Committee of the 14th Congressional Black Caucus; Mrs. Yancy Massey, 1st vice president of the 14th Congressional Black Caucus for outstanding community work; Rev. Atty. William R. Boston, Massachusetts — Blacks generally and black males in particular have healthier or happier days to which to look forward to with the development of a new high blood pressure drug which is devoid of the side effects of medicines now in use. High blood pressure is a major disease among black Americans.

Zimbabwe (or Rhodesia) — Black Bishop Abel Muzorewa, a reluctant partner in the transition government here, reacted sharply to suggestions by Mr. Ian Smith that the election of a new government may not take place by the year's end as previously promised.

Bishop Muzorewa, in what was seen by some observers as possibly the first clear sign of an eventual break-up of the present black-white interim political alliance, said angrily that violence would probably result, if Mr. Smith went back on his word regarding national elections.
