"Black Hollywood: The Way It Was" - Realization Of A Negro's Ambition. - produced in 1916 by Black-owned Lincoln Motion Picture Company, was one of the first movies to depict Blacks in positive non-stereotyped roles. Between 1910 and 1950 there were more than 150 independent film companies organized to produce Black-cast movies, 34 percent were owned and operated by afro-Americans. The rich and little legacy of Blacks in Hollywood is chronicled on Tony Brown's Journal in a four-part mini-series, "Black Hollywood: The Way It Was," during the month of May. Tony Brown's Journal, the top-ranked and longest running national Black Affairs television series, has been funded by Pepsi-Cola Company for eight consecutive years and is aired in this area on public television (PBS) on KTXB, Channel 5, May 5 at 9:30 p.m.

Daylight Saving Time Begins Sunday

Daylight-saving time begins Sunday morning. The time change, mandated by law, requires that clocks be set forward an hour at 2 a. m. local time on the last Sunday in April, and set back an hour to standard time at 2 a. m. local time on the final Sunday in October. In order to remember these times of the year, think of "spring forward, fall back" when you set your clock. No one in the United States observes this practice. Hawaii, Arizona, the eastern time zone part of Indiana, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and American Samoa are excluded from having to make the change.

Citizens Protest!

The Crowd is serious!

They mean business!

Everyone is listening to Rev. R. S. Stanley!

The crowd is motivated!

Readying for the walk to City Hall!

Listening to speeches and prayers!

Five hundred Lubbockites, from all walks of life, marched to City Hall last Thursday morning to let the City Council know they are very unhappy over the council's decision to appeal Judge Halbert O. Woodward's ruling for a six member district.

The march and prayer vigil began at the Lubbock Civic Center parking lot and ended at City Hall after three hours of prayer and speeches. Mayor Bill McAllister addressed the crowd saying that he appreciated the concern shown by the participants in the march but that the City Council would not reconsider the appeal.

Prior to the march, Rev. Art Prisinger, a member of the Concerned Citizens who organized the march, addressed the City Council. In his presentation, he said the minorities felt disenfranchised by the actions of the Council. "They feel just exactly as you would feel if you were made aware time and time again, over the years, that you could not ever serve your city as a member of the City Council, because you are the wrong race or live in the wrong place. They feel just exactly as you would feel if you watched helplessly while the City of Lubbock spent thousands of your tax dollars on expensive outside legal advice to keep the system in fact, so that no white person could ever be elected. You would feel alienated, hurt and angry. So do they," said Prisinger.

Prisinger concluded by saying, "Perhaps you, as citizens of Lubbock, feel as we do about this matter. If you understand the Judeo-Christian duty to love and seek the good of our fellow human beings -- then you will want to see this ugly carryover from a past era eliminated from our modern community. If you do feel this way, or begin to feel this way, you will join us in our efforts to obtain justice for all of our fellow citizens. Then what we teach our children in a government class can become a reality in our city. Then you will reconsider your present course of action."

An Editorial Young Blacks Need Something To Do!

No matter how older people look at it, young Blacks, too, need something to do in their spare time. After driving around the Earnest Butler Park, located at East 4th and Zenith Avenue, last Sunday afternoon, it is clear that there is no difference between the activity at this park or any other park in Lubbock, including Mackenzie State Park. They just want to have fun, and forget their troubles. All of us can relate to that!

There maybe several violations in their effort, however, to enjoy life on a Sunday afternoon. For one, drinking alcoholic beverages, i. e. their favorite beer -- they've seen advertise, and second, blocking the Zenith Avenue area for long periods of time. This, of course, includes making it impossible for nearly thirty minutes or so. These are just symptoms which, no doubt, can be solved.

True, there are those who drink beer, but this is a small percentage of those good looking Black kids who frequent this public facility. Driving everything from the latest to an older model automobile, their conduct appears to be just like any other group of young people. They are all searching for something to do.

With lack of development in East and Northeast Lubbock, this suggest that if there were ample recreational or businesses in this part of town, the problem of somewhere to go would be nothing more. There is a lot of Black energy which meets at this park regularly. Something needs to be done, in a positive manner, to salvage this vital energy in the Black community.

What is the answer, well, if we would work with these young Black talented minds, something could happen. This includes our churches and local organizations who are in dire need of talented young gifted Black people. From this large crowd, a company could be developed. Even the gentleman, we saw last Sunday picking up the empty beer cans, see an opportunity to profit from this gathering.

These young Black people need our help. We need to find something for them to do with their valuable time which they have not paid attention to in their young years. Let's not provoke them with negative criticism, but, rather, work with them for something positive. These young people need something to do with their lives.

Mass Meeting Set

Members of the Concerned Citizens of Lubbock, who have just completed a very successful march and prayer vigil, will sponsor a mass meeting Monday evening, April 25th, beginning at 7 p. m. at Mae Simmons Community Center.

This decision was made Monday evening in a council meeting at the St. Patrick Catholic Church.

According to a spokesperson, the Concerned Citizens of Lubbock wants the City Council to know that they have only begun to express their feelings.

The new members of the organization, which numbers more than two hundred, are invited to participate as well as others who are concerned about the welfare of all Lubbock citizens. "No we are not dead, we've just begun to fight," said another member.

Pastors are asked to make this announcement to their congregations on Sunday about the mass meeting.

Leland Cosponsors Economic Equity Act

Washington -- U.S. Rep. Mickey Leland (D-Houston), in a news conference in the Capitol, said that "equitable opportunity in the labor force is within reach" of American women if Congress acts to approve the Economic Equity Act (EEA).

The legislation combines a number of proposals to eliminate discrimination against women with regard to public and private pensions, tax policy, insurance, child support and alimony enforcement, and day care services. Leland is a cosponsor of the legislation.

The EEA, Leland said, "is designed to create an equitable environment in today's workplace for both men and women. Most importantly, it recognizes the oppressive conditions within which women have had to function. Further, it focuses on the fact that 12 of every three adults in poverty in this country are women, making what has been called the 'feminization of poverty' a stark reality. This condition must not be allowed to continue."

Leland noted estimates that women are the head of the household in one of every four American homes, an increase of 57 percent over recent years, while the number of men who are heads of households has decreased by 18 percent during the same period. In addition, one million women enter the work force each year and nine out of ten women will be employed outside the home at some time during their lives.

"It is not unusual for a woman's earnings to raise a family out of poverty. In 1979, nearly 15 percent of the families of married couples had incomes below the poverty level when the wife did not work. At the same time, nearly four percent of these families remained in poverty even when the woman entered the work force. Despite the fact that working women are as well educated as their male counterparts, they continue to earn 40 percent less for the same work," Leland said.

The 18th District Congressman said the lower earnings for women were due in part to occupational segregation, which confines women to the lowest paying, least mobile jobs. But he emphasized that discrimination against women in inurance coverage, pension benefits, tax treatment, child support and day care magnifies the impact of "same-work, less pay" discrimination.

Leland said that while all of the provisions of the Economic Equity Act were of equal importance in eliminating economic discrimination against women, he gave special attention to the section dealing with child support enforcement.

Leland cited studies which show that 59 percent of divorced mothers have been granted child support awards, but nearly half do not receive payments. The remainder of these mothers, he said, depend on their wages, public assistance or help from family or friends to support their children. He said he agreed with the Congressional Caucus for Women's Issues that child support enforcement, a major provision of the EEA, is critical to economic equality for women.

First introduced in 1981, the Economic Equity Act has wide bipartisan support in Congress. Some of its earlier provisions were approved in the last Congress. New sections have been added, according to the Act's supporters, to better reflect the economic necessities of women who work both in and out of the home.

TRAVEL ROYALLY

JANE PRINCE-JONES

Over the next few weeks you'll be reading specifics about travel in this column. Getting away from it all seems to be one of our priorities in today's hectic lifestyle, and in the coming weeks we'll discuss just that -- getting away from it all.

How about an exciting vacation this year? One of the most exciting vacations you can plan and then follow through it with a cruise. There a number of types of cruises with a variety of places to see and a variety of stays.

One of the most intriguing is the "Festivale" cruise offered through Carnival Cruise Lines. This particular cruise sails year round with four or five departures dates set each month. It's a 40,000 ton ship sailing from Miami to the Caribbean visiting Nassau, San Juan and St. Thomas during a week's time.

The beauty of the vacation spots is enhanced with the pocketbook beauty of the cost of a cruise. Almost every financial situation can be accommodated by a cruise. Where you stay aboard ship and the number in your party are the usual determining factors in a cruise. And the nice part about the cost is it most likely includes all meals and snacks. There a number of activities on board ... swimming, table tennis, golf driving, a cinema, nightclub, lounge, etc.

Ignorance Irradiated Through Understanding

by Leslie Isaiah Gains, Esq.

The mid-sixties was a period when racism, hatred and ignorance ran rampant throughout all segments of "America the Beautiful."

As college student working my way through school by doing janitorial work in the public schools of Montgomery County, Maryland, I personally experienced the potentially destructive power of uncontrollable ignorance.

I worked everyday, stripping and mopping floors, side by side with a young white man from Appalachian Tennessee. He had no personal experience or understanding of black people, and I had no personal experience of understanding of white Appalachians.

We worked in a tense silence which by its very nature, fueled the internal explosion that we carried within our hearts and minds. I did not like him because of all of the derogatory stereotype images I had heard about Tennesseans. He despised me because of the myths and stereotypes he had heard about blacks. We hated each other without even knowing each other.

As we worked, one tiny transistor radio played to break the monotony and boredom of the manual labor. For days we traded verbal threats and demands about which station the radio dial would be set on. He demanded blue grass music, and I demanded soul. When our verbal warfare nearly erupted into physical violence, we decided to reason together to save our jobs and maybe even our lives. He could not stand soul music and blue grass music turned me off. We decided for the sake of our sanity, to listen to soul in the morning and blue grass in the afternoon. In a few weeks, that white boy from Tennessee was singing like a true soul brother, and I knew more blue grass melodies than a Kentucky thoroughbred. Music has a way of calming the savage beast.

With a little understanding and toleration for our different life styles, we became friends, thicker than blood brothers. The pre-fabricated ignorance, warehoused in both of us was irradiated through understanding.

If we relate to all of God's children as our brothers, we will accept each other's differences and respect each other's rights as individuals. We live in America, the land of the free where you are free to be you, and I am free to be me. Let us irradiate ignorance of each other with understanding of each other.

Think about it.

Too Little Much Too Late!!!

by
Eddie P. Richardson

All of a sudden our city council members and Mayor, as well as our Dailies, are making a big push for the people, the voice of the people in their appeal which this writer totally agrees, but calling for a charter change vote 1/2 a day late and a dollar short. This has been the cry of the people for 20 years. Now, especially in the Black community through various mayors and council members, as far back as this writer can remember, Dub Rodgers and Jim Granberry both appointed charter study committees, composed of good, solid, moral, citizens that they knew was from the old school, would not go against the grain and upset the apple cart. This writer and others like him that have always been called radical by the system, has never been appointed to any such kind of committee. This writer first encounter with long time friend, former mayor Jim Granberry, was on this issue when he first ran for city council. We disagreed strongly on the issue but still became friends and this writer supported him for mayor and governor. All this is to say one thing. This is not a new issue, it should have been put to the people before it cost the taxpayers of Lubbock so much money in law suits and appeals and reappeals.

This council and mayor, as well as their predecessors, have had the duty of upholding a racist, out dated, out moded, charter that was illegal and racist as well and put together by racist and KK' members which was brought out in court. As far as the present council mayor, they failed to listen to the drum beats of the people. That is, all except one, Alan Henry who heard what the people was saying. Sorry to say the rest of the council failed to hear the people and ignored the drum beats. This was the first time our mayor, Bill McAllister, had been challenged and mostly because of his dad and because the people believed and trusted him. Where he lost his credibility was when he said it would be ridiculous to appeal based on the law and then his all the way turn around.

The mayor and council a basically decent people that made the wrong decision and have too much pride or stubbornness to back down. This council, as well as past councils could have brought this to the people before so much money was spent on court costs, appeals, and re-appeals. Their largest mistake was ignoring and taking for granted its citizens and trying to make this a minority issue rather than a city issue. Look at the present mayor and present council and past mayors and councils and any one can see how much of the city was not represented which turns out to be most of Lubbock. Check it out not just east and north Lubbock but most of Lubbock. The council people have predominately lived within a 20 square block area of each other so most of Lubbock has not been represented except for an ultra racist conservative fraction. The prayer vigil and march was more mayor and council members than you have taken for granted, a blowing off of steam and letting it out. That was not the end but the beginning of a tri-ethnic group that is going to address a lot of issues that affects the citizens of Lubbock. Some of the proposed events consist of a recall of the present council and mayor, members, except Alan Henry, a boycott of Lubbock Power and Light, and others. This is the beginning of a new day in Lubbock, a calling of the old guard and status quo and business as usual. A lot of sleeping giants have awakened a lot of good decent people in the past that would not speak out against the system have braved the storm and are committed to justice, freedom and equality without fear or favor. The people of Lubbock have come alive against injustice, racism whether direct or applied, and are united for this to become a city for the people, by the people, for all the people. The patronage, the power brokers, the ex-officials, that still want to call the shots, have been defeated.

The day of not rocking the boat, even if it is wrong, is over. The day of not speaking out against what is wrong because it is not fashionable or political reprisals, or economic restrictions are over. Lubbock citizens want to be heard and be a contributing part of our destinies.

Thumbs down to Sugar Ray Leonard. He came to town, Budweiser gave advertisement of the Blake Munson fight, we got none. Sugar has a reputation, same as Vernon Jordan had with Urban League, of going into towns and not touching base with the Black community. A lot of towns and Black Newspapers, Radio Stations, and TV Stations have complained about Sugar not checking in. It's true, we saw it. But for Bud from Jesse Jackson to Al Edwards in Houston, now we see why Black people across America says Bud is a Dud. It's very surprising our friend Jerold did not give us some of the Bud fight promotion advertisement.

As a special service to our readers we will carry a column by West Texas Legal Services to inform our readers what the law is, how it affects you, what you can and cannot do under the law.

Business in the Black

By Charles E. Belle

Some Say the Road is Clear Some Say the End is Here

In the eye of the storm only the leaves whisper the next wind. A mild winter in the midwest bible belt has blessed the shop merchants. Retail sales are up. Albeit with lower prices. New homes and new car sales seem to be on an up tick.

On July 1, a tax cut is scheduled for those fortunate to be working. And tax refund checks are starting to hit home for those who worked last year. The high price world petroleum picture is wrecked for the moment. Crude oil prices are expected to drop to around $25 per barrel, putting downward pressure on gasoline prices.

Problem arises as to the temple priest who holds the loans to weak countries based on a $36 a barrel. Bad loans could break the big banks. Bad news for the rest of the world. War or economic recovery resting on its preparation is the play of this administration.

If you thought the first wave of the economic storm, high unemployment for average white workers, no employment for Black American youth workers, wait for the tail end of this administration's term. It takes two to tangle.

Russia may not be willing or even goaded into a fight. But this administration is hell bent on finding some "evil" to fight if necessary in the world. After all, why waste $300-billion-a-year building up to the big match without a few qualifying rounds? Suffice it to say a turn around had better be around the corner, because this administration appears ready to kill for it.

Political upheavals might do more harm than good. Getting a loan repaid over someone's dead body is not only dumb but dangerous. Wars, little ones, as well as, big ones are contagious. Caution is likely to be cast to the wind within weeks of next year's November's general elections. Recovery is mandatory to protect the President.

This administration expects to take a trillion dollars in military expenditures to effect an economic recovery for U.S. corporations based on the backs of Black American youth and some white Americans to exploit to "export" market abroad. People of all colors die in war. The second part of the storm is on its way. Things cannot remain the same.

Ringling The Bell

Dear Bob -- There are many aspects of the various religions cults like the late Father Divine that I disagree with totally, but there are many points of them that I agree with wholeheartedly. The Black church could learn many things from these movements, especially how to minister to people where they are taking care of their immediate needs, the here and now of their lives. The Black church has put too much emphasis on the here-after part of religion, when Jesus in all of His teachings was concerned about both the now, and the here-after.

"The church will never know how many souls it saved from hell and eternal damnation, but it can know how many lives on this earth that it was able to turn around. The issues involved in a caring church are in our Social Creed. Our church reminds me of our nation. It too has a beautiful document for man to live by, but at a time in history of this nation, have we lived by the document. We need soup kitchens, clothing centers, food pantries, detoxification centers, crisis centers, counseling services, legal assistance, half-way houses, day care centers, employment centers, to name just a few of the needs. We have the facilities in every major city; we have the personnel; we have the resources, but we do not have the commitment. Our ordained personnel has been led to beliefs that the only ministry is one of pastoring a church. We must strive to broaden our concept of ministry and to train our people to equip them for this broad base of ministry in the church and the community. Signed L.V. Stennis, Ph.D. and author of "The Black Church -- Why Sit We Here Until We Die?"

Some Thoughts on Washington's Election in Chicago -- This correspondent spent some time on long distance telephones on Tuesday, April 12 with some of the staff of the Black Daily Chicago Defender. He recalled memories when as a college student in Nashville, Tennessee we served as a reporter for one of the nation's largest weekly newspapers in the nation. Today it is a daily and has been for a number of years. There are only about five Black Daily newspapers in the nation. There should be at least a dozen.

Those we talked to, although it was several hours before the totals were announced in the Windy City, we were informed that the ABC network had projected Washington's election even if real close. And in spite of "race" being injected into the battle of the century, Washington's election will boost hopes of blacks everywhere in the realization that one vote does count. A nationwide voter registration will be conducted immediately, according to Rev. Jesse Jackson of PUSH.

An archid to new Mexico's Governor Toney Anaya for making his trip to Chicago and making a special appeal to Hispanics to support Washington. Blacks and Browns may form a national coalition that could bring much relief from oppressions that beset them today, it was reported from Chicago. And thanks to our white supporters who came through with flying colors and make the whole thing possible. One belligerent commented: "Let us hold fast to our dream." God still lives in America.

Letter to the Editor Help Identify Dead Child

Dear Editor,

The St. Louis Metropolitan Police Department, Homicide Division, is investigating the death of a young black female, whose decapitated body was found in a vacant house in the City of St. Louis on February 28, 1983.

As of this date, this child has not been identified, and all of our efforts to identify her have been futile.

We are requesting your assistance in publishing this information in your newspaper in the hope that a reader will help us identify this child. There is the possibility that she was from out of town and somewhere a relative, a neighbor, a parent, a friend, a church member, or a school teacher has not seen this child since her death.

The description of our un-identified child is as follows:

Negro female, medium brown skin, 8 to 12 years of age, 70 to 75 pounds, 58 inches tall without head, wearing two coats of fingernail polish, maroon and red.

As you will notice, the child is extremely tall for her age and could possibly be 13 or 14 years of age. She had not yet reached puberty.

Your assistance will be deeply appreciated. If you have any questions relative to the above, please contact the St. Louis Homicide Division at 1/314/444-5371.

Enclosed you will find a brochure with information on the $10,000 reward being offered.

Sincerely,
Captain Leroy J. Adkins,
Commander, Homicide-Arson Division

TOWARD EMPOWERMENT

A Judge Speaks of Uncertain Freedom

So-called radical blacks have for years warned of what they saw as the uncertain nature of Black freedom. When the highly respected voice of Dr. W.E.B. DuBois was raised in such a warning, he was labeled as a radical or as simply having lost his accustomed sense of perspective.

Recently, the voice of a brilliant and outspoken black judge in New York City has been raised in warning that there are signs that black Americans someday, perhaps sooner rather than later, may not be free.

Judge Bruce McMarion Wright of New York City is no stranger to controversy. He kept that city's criminal court system in an uproar in the early 1970's by his ultra-conservative and literal reading of the U.S. Constitution regarding the use of bail. Judge Wright refused to set bail when there were reasonable signs that a defendant was not dangerous and that the defendant would probably return to the court for trial.

Indeed, Judge Wright in public statements accused the courts of being racist—whether consciously so or not—in putting bail requirements routinely upon the poor, most of whom by far were blacks or Hispanics. In Judge Wright's mind, this was like a nonappealable and extra-legal fine being placed upon people whose major or implicit crime... or offense... was that of belonging to an unwanted racial or ethnic minority.

This, so the Judge felt, amounted to labeling blacks as being worth less than other citizens and to symbolically incarcerating and penalizing all blacks in the form of a few representatives of the group.

In an especially blunt statement regarding the future of black people, Judge Bruce Wright stated: "I am not so sure that this country is not on a course that will one day, sooner or later, return the black man to slavery."

Judge Wright had in mind particularly the growing work of the Moral Majority in which calls are being made for a new Constitutional Convention. Once the U.S. Constitution is opened up for carte blanche revision, the Thirteenth and Fourteenth Amendments which guarantee blacks freedom would be "up for grabs." The result would depend largely on the mood of the country at that time.

Many black Americans to whom the tumultuous 1960's are familiar may recall, in this respect, the results of a U.S. Navy survey made following the major disturbances of

RUBY JAY'S CORNER

The 57th Church Anniversary program at New Hope Baptist Church closed out Sunday at 3 p.m. with Rev. L. Polk, pastor of Mt. Gilead Baptist Church, bringing the message. His choir sang.

All were glad to see Mrs. Precious Brown in service. She has been shut-in about five months.

Pastor Nash brought a burning message during morning worship service.

We are still rejoicing from the revival last week. Rev. B.R. Daniels of Ft. Worth, Texas was a master speaker.

All the shut-ins are doing nicely. Continue to pray for them. Several will attend the L.K. Williams, Minister Institute this week in Dallas, Texas.

Rev. Shelby Sedberry will speak in Plainview, Texas on Sunday at Beard Chapel Methodist Church where Rev. Sneed is pastor.

Mrs. Bernba Jones is back in Lubbock. We were glad to see her at the church anniversary on Sunday.

Don't forget to set your clock Saturday night before you go to bed. The time changes and the

The KITCHEN BEAT

Wake Up With Home-Baked Goods!

In today's black America, home cooking is no longer the responsibility of one person. Because of busy and varied schedules, usually every member of the family at some time or another has to prepare personal meals or meals for other members of the family. The Kitchen Beat is designed to meet some needs of the various cooks in the modern black family.

Spring and summer months are a busy time—the house gets a facelift, the lawn starts to grow overnight, flower and vegetable gardens are planted, little leaguers are warming up. In all this burst of activity, appetites wake up, too.

Cinnamon rolls have always been a breakfast favorite. Toasty warm with a sweet cinnamon coating, there's just nothing better in the morning. This new version, Cinnamon Bubble Loaf, has all the old-fashioned goodness plus the newest in bread-making techniques. This is a home-baked bread designed for the busy, active housewife. And snack foods are suspect across the land. Nutritionists call them "junk" food or "empty calories."

But some snacks don't fit into either category. Peanut, for instance, provides protein, riboflavin, niacin and calcium, and they combine well with many ingredients, offering texture, color and flavor as well as nutrition. The accompanying recipe for Peanut Honey Bread consists of a quick yeast dough, cut into squares and filled with a delicious cream cheese, honey, peanut butter icing.

Both recipes are prepared by the modern Rapid-Rise method—no more dissolving yeast in warm water. Simply add the undissolved yeast to some of the dry ingredients, then add warm liquid. Initial rising is done in knacks with an electric mixer which cases not only makes mixing easier, but also produces a lighter, more uniformly textured loaf. This Bubble Loaf also features the texture-boosting method which eliminates waiting and waiting while the yeast recipe dough rises. The dough is mixed, kneaded and shaped in a single operation, then refrigerated for 2 to 24 hours, until it is convenient to bake. Yeast baking has never been easier—or better—thanks to the makers of Fleischmann's Yeast and its other fine products. In a large bowl, thoroughly mix 1 cup flour, 1/2 cup sugar, salt and undissolved active dry yeast. Add softened margarine.

Gradually add very hot tap water (126°F.-130°F.) to dry ingredients and beat for 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add egg and 1/2 cup flour, or enough flour to make a thick batter. Beat on high speed for 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes. Cover with plastic wrap, then a towel; let rest for 20 minutes. Meanwhile, prepare filling. Combine cream cheese, honey, 2 Tablespoons flour and egg yolk. Beat until smooth and creamy. Fold in peanuts. Punch dough down and divide in half. On lightly floured board roll each half into a 12-inch square. Cut into 4-inch squares and place about 1 Tablespoon filling in center of each square. Bring 2 opposite corners together above filling. Pinch tips together, sealing tightly. Bring up remaining corners and seal tips. Place on greased baking sheets. Brush rolls with peanut oil and cover loosely with plastic wrap. Refrigerate 2 to 24 hours. When ready to bake, remove from refrigerator. Uncover dough carefully. Let stand uncovered for 10 minutes at room temperature.

Bake at 375°F. 15 minutes, or until done. Remove from baking sheets and place on wire racks to cool. (Makes 18 rolls.) We believe that our readers will want to support those advertisers who support the press of Black America. We are sure, therefore, that when you select the ingredients for this week's recipes, you will want to use: Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast, Fleischmann's margarine Gold Medal all-purpose enriched flour, McCormick spices, Planters Cocktail Peanuts, Planters Peanut Oil.

Spring Start At YWCA

Come to the YWCA for your "Spring Start" this year. We've got classes to shape you up, gear you up, fix you up and get you up for the coming summer.

A spring lineup of fun classes, some old and some new. Old favorites include tumbling tots, messy play, story time, and half-pint-chefs. New classes for spring are preschool tap dancing and preschool drawing.

Spring hits the elementary program this year with new classes such as carpentry, banjo for beginners, and tennis. Other classes offered include watercolor, sketching, and Saturday ballet & jazz.

Teens will have plenty to keep them busy at the YWCA this spring! We'll be offering hair braiding, wet paint, banjo, sculpting, and teen exercise classes to get in shape for summer.

Are you interested in looking good in that swim suit? Keep your body fit for the summer and for life. In our many Aerobics or Callisthenics classes. For the hardy, we offer wonderful hour-and-a-half workouts and classes stressing toning with weights. We've even expanded our men's exercise and weight training class. The Sweetshop, by popular demand. If you're after more gentle exercise, sign up for E-Z Exercise or Arthritis Exercise, or relax with Yoga. We've got it all for the childbearing years - Prenatal Exercise, Preparation for Breastfeeding, and A.B.C. class (After Baby Comes). Get into the swing of things with Golf or Tennis lessons, or run into the sunset with our Jogging Club. If you are after grace or balance - take Ballet, Eallydancing, Country-Western Dance, Jazz Exercise, or Dancercise. And, for the "freak of your life" - indulge in a wonderful hour with our expert Masseuse. Guaranteed to bring a smile to your day!

The new YWCA Academy of Gymnastics opened for business April 1. Preschoolers through high schoolers are enjoying tumbling classes and apparatus classes. The more highly skilled gymnasts compete on the competitive team, the Lubbock Gymnasts. Wayne Downing, a nationally recognized coach, is director of this exciting addition to YWCA programming.

You know you owe yourself the gift of being healthy and fit and happy - sign up at the Y.W.C.A. today for the gift of being fit for life.

In our "Spring Seminars" department, there will be exciting classes in bicycle care, watercolor and drawing, photography, and wet painting. Or take your pick of garden care, a color seminar, floral arranging and pilot's ground training. We'll even be offering two new YWCA tours to the Lubbock Lake Site and Llano Estacado Winery.

Registration was from April 4 to the 16th, for all the above classes. The Spring Session started April 18. Call 792-2723 for more details, or stop by and see us at 35th Street and Flint. You'll love us - we're great for the heart and soul!

Army College Fund

Albuquerque, NM - The Army College Fund can help parents of college-bound young people faced with rising college costs and dwindling educational assistance. Under the program, qualified high school graduates can accumulate up to $20,100 for college or vocational school in a three year enlistment.

Soldiers who save the maximum can accumulate up to $15,200 for two years of service, or $20,100 for three years.

"In many ways, our skill training is just as valuable as the money," says Karlenseng. "Skills available under the Army College Fund involve fields such as telecommunications, construction, surveying, police work and broadcasting which can be used in the civilian work force."

Lieutenant Colonel Robert C. Karlenseng, commander of Army recruiting activities in New Mexico and West Texas, reports that many young people are temporarily postponing college while they earn money in the Army to pay for it.

It works quite simply. Qualified soldiers save from $25 to $100 of their pay each month, up to $2,400 for a two-year enlistment and $2,700 for three years. The government matches that investment at a rate of 5 to 1, or more. Qualified

Most soldiers can afford to save up to $100 monthly, since starting pay is now more than $570 a month, and the Army provides room and board, clothing, health care and other benefits.

Valuable skill training and educational assistance make the Army College Fund an offer that many parents are encouraging their young people to pursue.
