Roosevelt's African Hunt.

Por Submission ... 294, Against

It is announced from the White House that President Roosevelt will depart for the African jungles some time next April, just after surrendering the great office to his successor. Mr. Roosevelt will be accompanied upon his long journey only by his son Kermit and a taxidermist, the duty of the latter being to take care of and preserve all the specimens that fall by the bullets of the President.

There is no doubt but that the President will go into the wilds of the Dark Continent with all the vigor and strenuousness that he has displayed in other eudeavors, and the chances are that Stanley's trip through the black belt will be but child's play compared to what Our Man On Horseback will do. Proposed Amendments

This week we begin the publication of three constitutional sue amendments which are to be .211 submitted to the people of Texas as at the general election in No-159 vember. One provides that a majority of the property tax paying voters in any school district 366 may vote upon themselves a 333 special tax not to exceed 50c on 206 the $100; the second amendment fixes the governor's salary at $8,000 per annum, and the lieutenant-governor's at $2,500; the 219 third provides for subsequent 249 redistricting of a county into 451 commissiofier's precincts. Read them and vote as you think best 364 on these proposed amendments.

Will Teach Class in Expression

Mrs. E. Sobieski Bledsoe, Ph. B. B. O., (a pupil of Prof. Merrill, Vanderbilt, University, and Curry School of Expression, Boston,) wishes to announce she will teach a class in Expression this winter, the regular class beginning in September; however she will do special work during Aug. For terms see Mrs. Bledsoe. Later Mrs. Bledsoe will be presented to the people of Big Springs in an introductory recital. Mrs. Bledsoe comes to us highly recommended as a teacher and reader of experience.

R. D. Hardison, Principal of Goliad High School: "I regard her superior to many of our successful members of lyceum bureaus, and inferior to none."

J. F. Peeler, Principal David Crocket High School, Dallas: "Her thorough preparation for her chosen field will satisfy the most exacting."

turns printed yesterday morning Mr. Williamson. Davidson had 111,927 and Mr. Wynne 97,701, giving Davidson at that time a than he has this morning.

These figures result not only from additional returns received last night but from a careful revision of returns previously published, as well as a readdition of its figures to correst any errors, which might have crept into its first calculations. It will be seen, therefore, that the figures printed this morning are entitled to a high degree

The majority against submission has shrunk somewhat as the result of the returns received last night. Yesterday's figures showed: For submission 71,305, against 79,031, making a majority of 7,996 against submission. The figures this morning are: For submission 79,863, against 85,428, making the majority against submission 5565. This is a reduction of 2431 votes.

This reduction in the majority for submission, as well as the slight decrease in Mr. Davidson's majority, is due to the fact that a large number of blackland counties, where both Col. Wynne and submission were supposed to be in favor, made completed returns last night.

It is vote cast, if not 75 per cent of theen- conceded that Panola County is fav. tire vote cast. It becomes interesting, therefore, to speculate what secret is result of this contest will depend on in the unreported vote, especially so what Panola County has done for Dies. since the margin between submission. As yet no full returns can be got and anti-submission is so small that it from that county. is possible for it to be changed by returns yet to come in.

As throwing some light on this it may be said that the returns are complete, or very nearly so, from the following named countles; Anderson, Angelina, Austin, Bastrop, Baylor, Bee, Bexar, Brazos, Brewster, Brown, Burleson, Calhoun, Cameron, Camp, Cass, Collin, Collingsworth, Colorado, Comal, Concho, Cooke, Coryell, Crockett, Dallam, Dallas, Deaf Smith, Delta, Denton, DeWitt, Dickens, Donley, Duval, Eastland, Ector, Edwards, Eilis, Erath, Fayette, Fisher, Fort Bend. Washington, Webb, Wharton, Wichita, Wilbarger, Wilson and Wise.

From the following named counties the returns lack very much of completion, in many cases fully one-half; "I cannot imagine how it is Aransas, Archer, Armstrong, Bell, Blanco, Bosque, Brazoria, Briscoe, Burnett, Caldwell, Callahan, Cherokee, Chambers, Clay, Coke, Coleman, El Paso, Falls, Fannin, Floyd, Franklin, Karnes, Kaufman, Knox, Lamar, La- pledges as it thinks will be redeemed.

The returns have shown from the beginning that a large number of voters ignored this terests in life other than money-makquestion entirely, strange as that may seem. A rough calculation shows that the vote on the Governorship contest is about 15 per cent greater than that cast on the question of submission; therefore, even though the number of votes cast for submission might be church in Baltimore, and plans were several thousand greater than the number cast against it, it might still lack a majority within the meaning of the law. The congressional contests are all decided except that in the Second district between Mr. Cooper, the incumbent, and Mr. Dies. The count shows 9,928 for Cooper and 8,486 for Dies. This would seem to show that Mr. Cooper has been renominated, but It has become evident that the vote dispatches from Beaumont say that Cooper a lead of only 300, with Paorably disposed to Dies. Therefore the

> The account of the votes cast in the contests for Superintendent of Public of Criminal Appeals and for Governor has been dropped. As for the govern norship, it is of course, only a question of majority and will of necessity wait until completed county returns are available to make this calculation. As to the other contests it is indisputable that Robinson has been nominated for Land Commissioner, Cousing for Superintendent of Public Instruction and Davidson for Judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals. As to the race for comptroller the account has been kept until now, but it is evident that there will be no longer any necessity for doing so, as Mr. Stephens has gained a lead of over 10,000 votes over Barker,

Another thing made manifest by the returns is that the majority in favor of local option as it was placed on the ticket will be smaller than that required by the law, due to the fact that such a larger portion of the voters ignored this part of the ballot. Indeed, it is doubtful if half of them voted on Reeves, Refugio, Roberts, Runnels, it one way or the other. Therefore, it is impossible that either side of this question should have a legal majority. If, then, submission should fall of the requisite majority, the next Democratic convention will meet with its hands tied so far as the making of demands is concerned, for it will be recalled the party is forbidden to make platform demands unless those proposed demands had first been approved by a majority of the people voting in the primary. If this should turn out to be the fact, for the first time, perhaps, in twenty-five years, the Democratic platform will make no "de-Frio, Gonzales, Grimes, Hale, Hamil- mand" o nthe next Legislature and ton, Hardin, Henderson, Hood, Hop will have to restrict itself to the makkins, Hunt, Houston, Jasper, Jones, ing of recommendations and such

Along with worry goes pessimism, discouragement, downheartedness, lack ef ambition. No man, however energetic, can worry much or long without losing his energy and becoming ill. Eight new bishops were elected by the delegates to the recent general conference of the Methodist Episcopal discussed for making the Methodist bishops more like the bishops of other churches. The Methodist bishops preside over meetings of annual confer ences, ordain ministers and appoint them to their fields of labor, but they have no dioceses, and are itinerant. The sentiment in favor of establishing dioceses for the bishops is growing, but action on the change was postponed. The Protestant Episcopal bishops-there are more than a hundred of them in the United Statesare elected in a convention of lay and clerical delegates of the diocese in which they serve. Each bishop is the head of the dlocese, and has general control over the church within the territory, installs rectors and confirms all new communicants. The Roman Catholic bishops, who are appointed by the pope, usually from a list of eligible priests submitted by the diocese, hold all the church property in their name. and have a general oversight of all the ecclesiastical institutions. They have much more power than the bishops of any other church in America, although in the early days the Methodist bishops had things pretty much their own

A Chicago restaurateur has retired from business after having accumulated a million dollars in his business in 20 years. He attributes his success to his habit of giving his customers big portions for their money and never permitting them to go away hungry or dissatisfied. Herein his policy differed from that of the once famous Borron restaurant keeper, remarks the Herald of that city, who attributed his prosperity to having cut his pies into five pieces instead of four, thereby increasing his profits on his pies 20 per cent. And his blessed memory is now embalmed in a fund for a great hospital for the sick and the needy, and which bears his name.

CLEANSER AND PURIFIER

some method of purification of sinks. drains and utensils in which may lurk the germ of a dreaded disease.

Health is a question of cleanliness and prevention.

Most people are familiar with the use of disinfectants in their ordinary sense-all of which are unpleasantly associated with disagreeable odors, on which are depended to kill the contagion (which disinfectants must of necessity be of a more or less dangerous character) and must be used for this purpose and for no other, and in consequence kept from children and careless handling.

There is, however, within the reach of all our readers a simple, safe and economical article that will not only answer for every disinfecting purpose -but can also be used for a multitude of domestic cleansing and purifying purposes-Borax.

Borax is a pure, white harmless powder coming direct from Nature's laboratory; in fact Borax has often been called "Nature's Cleanser and Disinfectant."

Two tablespoonfuls of Borax in a pallful of hot water poured down the grease-choked pipes of a sink, or flushed through a disease-laden drain, cleanses and purifies it, leaving it clean and sweet.

Bed clothing and clothes used in a sick room can be made hygienically clean and snowy-white, if washed in a hot solution of Borax water.

Kitchen and eating utensils, used during illness will be kept from all possibility of contagion if Borax is used when washing them. Pure as snow and harmless as salt, and because it can be used for almost every domestic and medical purpose, Borax must be considered the one great household necessity.

Pigeon Joins Recessional. A little fellow who sings in the choir of a Long Island village church is the happy possessor of tame pigeons. One of them follows him to the pretty vine covered place of worship and during the sermon coos and flutters among the crimson ramblers at the open window. Stopping Washing on Hilly Land. Prevention is better than a cure, but there may be others, who, like myself, unknowingly broke the wild and across the ravines or natural run-ways and found out too late that they never should have been plowed. Sometimes on hilly land a wash-out may start on top of a hill where there is no natural depression but one caused by a dead furrow. These washes leave unsightly ditches and often cover large portions of the best land in the low places with sand and gravel, making them unproductive, besides cutting the fields into irregular shapes, making them hard to work. I have tried many ways of stopping a wash, sometimes with success, sometimes with failure.

If the wash is a small one two or three feet deep, it can be filled partly full of brush, then straw on top, then by plowing, throwing the dirt on the straw, then sowing rye and June grass seed, and if the rye gets a good start before another heavy rain it usually holds.

If the wash is a large one and gradually breaking off at the upper end, it is harder to handle. We have tried filling these with brush and straw, but with little success; they keep working back, breaking off as the water works under the sod.

Now we build a dam with plow and shovel across the ravine eight or ter feet above the end of the ditch, leaving a space in the middle for a flume made of lumber so tight that there will be no leakage, cementing it at the end so that no water works its way outside, and long enough to extend six or eight feet over the ditch, first set-

Another way we have tried with suc. cess is to thrash a straw pile into the head of the ditch, then make a dam around the head and down both sides, seeding with rye and blue grass, in this way dividing water and carrying it down on a well sodded run-way, and by sowing rye and grass seed on the slope of the ditch it may be held from getting any worse.

We have tried growing willow the bottom and sides of these washes with but little success.

The farmer with hilly land liable to wash should plow and cultivate as in hay and permanent pasture, and keeping more cows and more sheep will keep the land from washing and Bradley before Wisconsin Institute.)

Bean Culture

The raising of white beans is a great adustry in many sections and it is profitable, because the output is as much a staple as wheat or corn. Like these crops it is a food stuff which has keeping quality ...

The bean growing industry has gravitated to the poorer lands, so that but little of it is found in the corn belt. And yet there are places in the corn belt, and many of them, where beans might be grown to advantage. Sandy knolls or worn out fields which will only make twenty bushels of corn per acre will return a greater cash product if planted to beans.

Bean culture was once considered very laborious, but it is not necessarily so now. By the use of modern machinery it is made easy. They may be planted with a two-horse corn planter, cultivated with riding plows and weeders, pulled when ripe, thrashed and even sorted by machinery.

To make the most of the space the hills mays be only six inches apart, but the rows should be wide enough to permit horse culture. When planted in this way and carefully cultivated if the ground is free from weeds the crop may be carried through by horse power. But if the soil is foul one hand hoeing will be needed. The crop is loaded from the puller into hay racks, and hauled to the barn. Spread upon the barn floor or loft, it will be ready for thrashing after two weeks of dry weather. Before marketing sorting is absolutely necessary. The old plan was to get the family together in the evening about the kitchen table and each by handfuls picked out the bad specimens. But the modern bean sorter is a small maghine and cheap, which you may take into any room. The motion is controlled by a treadle and a slowly moving canvas carrier brings the beans to your hand as fast as you can look them over, one spry man doing the work of five by the old system.

The Cotton Boll Weevil.

Encouraging results are announce by the Bureau of Entomology from its recent careful examination to determine the present status of the boll weevil. The bureau examined some 40 localities in the states of Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas and Oklahoma, all infected by the cotton boll weevil., In each locality from two to five representative fields were selected, and in each one of these fields groups of plants were examined Estimating the number of plants to the acre, it was easy then to compute the number of weevils to the acre. This plan has been followed for several years, so that the comparisons can now be made with conditions existing in previous years. The number of weavile is shown to be much smaller at this time throughout the infected area than it was at this time last year, due primarily to the unfavorable weather last fall, especially the very early first killing frost. In Eastern Texas no weevils were found, whereas last year there were 226 per acre. In ting a long post in the ditch for the southern Texas the weevils stand 256 and of the flume to rest on, then fill now, as against 308 last year; in westin with brush for the water to dis- ern Texas, 11 against 101. GIRL SEES BROTHER BROWNED.

Twelve Miles Separated Brother and Sister at the Time.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27 .- While her twin brother, Fred, was being sucked to death in the quicksands of Long Lake, near Mitchell, Ill., yesterday, Merie Huber, 17 years old, who was twelve miles away in Granite City, at home alone, shricked and fell to the front porch in a faint. Neighbors ran to her ass; tance and revived her. "Fred is dying. I can hear him calling to me. He is drowning. Let me go to him," moaned the girl. Merie made frantic efforts to leave the house, but was held back by friends, who assured her that Fred was all right. Five minutes later a message came from Mitchell that Fred Huber had been drowned. When the news reached his sister she again fainted, and up to late last night was in a critical condition. An hour later the boy's body was taken from the lake. A rope was tied about his shoulders and he was dragged out of the sands. It required five men to extricate him. A comparison of time showed that the girl had fallen into the faint at the exact momen when Fred became entangled in the quicksands.

GREENVILLE MOB BURNS NEGRO AT THE STAKE

Ted Smith Positively Identified by the Young Lady He Assaulted.

Greenville, Texas, July 29.—Ted Smith, a negro boy 18 years old, charged with criminal assault upon Miss Viola Delancey at Clinton, Hunt county, yesterday afternoon, was captured by officers at 2 o'clock this morning.

local jail. There a mob overpowered the officers, took the prisoner and prepared to hang him.

The idea was given up, however, and the mob agreed to burn him. Fagots were piled up in the public square and the negro was placed thereon. Off was poured on and the match applied.

Smith slowly burned to death while 1,000 people witnessed the flames' execution

Sheriff D. L. Hemsell, Chief of Police W. F. Norman and other officers kept the crowd quiet until 8 o'clock this morning when they went to the jail and told the sheriff that if the officers did not take the negro to the Delancey home where the girl could identify him they would take him out and mob him

Sheriff Hemsell made the crowd promis: that if the officers should take the prisoner for identification they would allow him tot safely return to the jail. This they consented to and the officers started with the prisoner to the Delancey home followed by a large crowd.

Upon returning with the negro about 9, o'clock the officer, on reaching the jail door, were overpowered and relieved of their prisoner. The crowd took the negro to the public square. dragging him with a rope around his neck. There they placed a cord of wood around him and poured oil on the negro and the wood and set fire to the pile . As the wood burned more was bauled and piled on the blaze and it was kept going for an hour or two.

It was predicted all night that a burning or hanging could not be averted, as the people from the country poured into town when the affair was heralded over the country that the negro had been brought to the Greenviile jail. A large number of people come over from Farmersville on the train which reached here at 10 o'clock this morning, but they arrived only in time to see the charred remains burn-

When the pegro was taken to the Delancey home Miss Viola Delancey, the victim of the attack, was very positive in her identification, and said, "That is the negro who did the deed."

. The negro then screamed, "Qh, my Lordy!" He did not make a statement, bu was scareely give- time after beag taken from the officers as a rop was thrown around his neck and he was dragged too the place where the burning occurred.

During the burning a negro on the piblic square made some slight renark and the mob proceeded to givehime a terrific beating. After that negroes were very scarce on the sreets.

ROMANCE MORE IN THEIR LINE. Factory Workers' Criticism of Louisa M. Alcott's Great Story.

In a conversation about books which the author of "The Long Day" had with two of her workmates at a box factory, she spoke enthusiastically of "Little Women," and told them how the had read it four times, and that she meant to read it again some day. "Little Women" was unknown to them, but their curiosity was roused over the unheard-of thing of anybody ever wanting to read a more than once, and they pressed her to repeat the story for them. This she did with great accuracy of statement, and with genuine pleasure to herself at being given an opportunity to introduce anybody to Meg and Jo and all the rest of that delightful March family.

When she finished, Phoebe stopped work and Mrs. Smith looked up from her label-pasting, saying: "Why, that's no story at all." "Why, no," echoed Phoebe, "that's no story-that's just everyday happenings. I don't see what's the use putting things like that in books, I'll bet any money that lady what wrote it knew all them boxs and girls. They just sound like real, live people; and when you was telling about them I could see them as plain as plain could be couldn't you, Gwendolyn?" "Yep," yawned Gwendolyn, undisguisedly bored.

"But I suppose farmer folks likes them kind of stories." Phoebe generously suggested. "They ain't used to the same styles of anything that us city folks are."-Youth's Companion.

RECORDED THE TRUTH ALWAYS.

Wordsworth's Poetry Set Against His Failure as Correspondent.

Wordsworth, except by virtue of one quality, was not remarkable as a letter writer. His happiest moods were those "trances of thought and mountings of the mind" which came to him seated upon some old gray stone. The act of penmanship was always a distress to him: in his elder years he was troubled with inflammation of the eyes, and he often dictated his letters. He could chain his mind to record facts, but to do so implied a state of servitude He cared little for the letters of great writers, and expressed a wish that his own might de destroyed. He had no pleasant malice eager to escape from the tip of the pen, such as Horace Walpole had. He had no bubbling mirth which will not be repressed like that of Lamb. He could not engrave an exquisite vignette for a friend's delight and his own like Cowper. His pen was not an etcher's needle, nor a dagger to stab, nor a sword to cut, nor a hobby horse on which to canter. But to set over against all this Wordsworth could write the truth, and the truth he invariably wrote.

Police Methods in India.

A jewel was lost by a rich Komati. It was found in the possession of a Mohammedan. Two policemen of the station seized it from him and pledged it and obtained a loan from a local merchant. Then another policeman was asked to search the house of the merchant, and before the search was effected the merchant gave it to him with a present as a bribe not to haul him up before the court. Between the three policemen a sum of about 60 rupees was looted from one or the other of the dishonest and avaricious merchants. Then arose a split among these policemen and their comrades about the division of the spoils, and vote of the property tax paying they are now blinking as to what voters of such district to vote such tax. Section 1. He it Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:
That Section 3 of Article 7 of the Constitution of the State of Texas be so amended as to bereafter read as follows.

Lacking the "Ear for Music." He bears a great loss and sorrow who has "no ear for music." Into one great garden of delights he may not: go. There needs no flaming sword to bar the way, since for him there is no gate called Beautiful which he should seek to enter. Blunted and stolid he stumbles through life for whom its harp-strings vainly quiver. Yet, on the other hand, what does he not gain? He loses the concord of sweet sounds, but be is spared the discord of harsh noises. For the surges of bewildering harmony and the depths of dissonant disgust, he stands on the levels of perpetual peace.-Gail Hamilton.

WAY TO IRON SHIRT

HINTS FOR WIFE WHO DOES HUS BAND'S LINEN.

Proper Precautions at the Beginning Will Save Time and the Garment Will Also Last a Great Deal Longer.

In order that a shirt may be succonsfully ironed it is necessary starch and fold it properly.

As to the starch used there are two kinds, the raw and the boiled. The latter, as a rule, gives the more satis-faction, though not a few laundresses prefer the raw starch method for colars, cuffs and shirt bosoms,

The amateur, however, will do well to experiment first with the boiled

To make it mix together take two tablespoonfuls of dry starch and about half a tencupful of cold water until it is of the consistency of cream. Then add a little more than one-half pint of boiling water if the starch is needed for shirt bosoms or collars. More water is required if such articles as skirts or petticoats are to be starched.

Starch must be quite hot for collars and shirts, warm for the average white garments and almost cold for

In order to prevent sticking to the trons, a little borax, a small bit of tal-low candle or a tiny lump of lard may added when mixing

In starching a shirt have it quite fry then turn on the right side and her the parts to be stiffened in the nd and dip in cold water, then put to the hot starch, rubbing it well the shirt. Then clap the stifed portions between the hands.

Remove with a rag any superfluous its of starch and fold, taking care to mee all the starched parts together, therwise the sleeves or body of the hirt may become too stiff.

The shirt is laid front uppermost, cuffs are straightened and laid on bosom part, then the collar is folddownward also on the front and fronts are doubled one over the other. Fold the shirt again in front, turn up from the bottom for a few ches and roll tightly, beginning at

Leave for a couple of hours, and see that the irons are very t and quite clean. Then lay the shirt on the table or bosom board and go over all the starched parts with a white rag wrung out of cold

Next apply the hot iron, going backward and forward until the material s quite dry and shows a gloss.

There are polishing irons with equare heel and straight edges that come for this purpose, although when experience is gained it is possible to ish a chirt with a gloss by using only the ordinary froms.

SAVAGE FLING AT AUDIENCE.

Inebriated Orator Resented Disapprovat of His Condition.

"Like many a statesman of past," said Senator Beveridge, "he drank too much. And one Fourth of July morning, on a platform hung with flags and flowers before the courthouse of a country town, facing an audience of farmers and their familles that had come from miles around, the statesman arose to deliver the Independence day oration in a slightly intoxicated state.

"He was not incapable of an oration, but his unsteady gait, his flushed face and disordered attire spoke ill of him, and the audience hissed.

"He held up his band. They were silent. Then he laughed scornfully "Ladies and gentlemen, when statesman of my prominence consents to appear in such a little, one-horse town as this, he must be either drunk or crasy. I prefer to be considered an inebriate."—Washington Star.

Melba in Paris.

Mme. Melba has seldom received such a remarkable ovation as that which greeted her appearance at the recent opera gala performance in Paris. It cannet, however, compare in delirious enthusiasm with one she received some years ago in St. Petersburg. On one memorable night, after the close of the opera, she was called before the curtain again and again for more than an hour, until she was so exhausted that she could scarcely hould be laid on a table wrong side stand. Her enthusiastic admirers tel, where they serenaded her, although it was a bitterly cold night, until three o'clock in the morning, On the following day when she reached the station to depart the platform was crowded with hundreds of adoring music lovers. As the train was leaving they took the pencil with which she had written her autograph for all who could get near her, bit it into small pieces and passed them around

PLUG CHEWING TOBACCO

STAR has for years been the world's leading brand of plug chewing tobacco. Statistics show that about one-fifth of all the chewers of plug tobacco chew STAR.

There's a reason for this enormous and constantly increasing number of STAR cheyers, and it's just this- o

Star Plug has always been manufactured with one sole object in viewto give chewers the best chew of tobacco it is possible to produce, yet to sell this STAR chew at a moderate price.

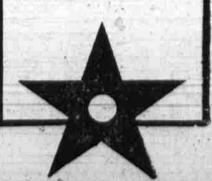

More chewers are. learning every day that STAR, considered from the standpoint of true merit, has no competitor, and is the one best chew.

For a long time there. was a prejudice (which probably still exists) among certain chewers against the use of what is generally termed "Navy Tobacco," because of the impression that all tobacco of that character is too sweet.

It is true that some brandsof tobacco, similar in appearance to STAR, are too sweet to please chewers accustomed to the use of tobacco manufactured in thin plugs, but we know that STAR is right in every way.

You use tobacco for the pleasure it gives -Increase your pleasure by chewing STAR!
