NOSIN.....
WITH POLLY

He that would have peace and ease, must not speak all he knows, nor judge all he sees.

—Benjamin Franklin
—nosin—
"BUT I DIDN'T KNOW IT SHOWED"

Tuesday afternoon in Dees Cafe Ross was about to settle down to drink a cup of coffee in a chair with his back to the door. On second thought he went around and seated himself facing the door. Carol Blackwell looked over and said "you must be afraid," to which Mrs. Wasson said "I afraid his creditors might slip up on him." (More truth than fiction.)

—nosin—
Carol Blackwell, said Tuesday he was EVEN WITH THE WORLD. We were just wondering whether to ask him for his autograph or just ask for the opportunity to shake hands with a guy who didn't owe a penny. When he stated, "HE WAS 50-50, HE OWED AS MANY AS HE DIDN'T OWE."

—nosin—
There isn't any thing old fashioned about some of our older set anymore. Mrs. H. N. Seymour, who is past 70, took her first plane trip from Oklahoma City to Plainview, last week and reported it to be quite exciting after she fully made up her mind to fly.

AID FOR THE "POOR SLEEPY DEFENSELESS FEMALE WHO IS KICKED OUT OF BED IN THE WEE HOURS"

Mrs. Paul Chance offers this solution for tired spouses, who have difficulty in getting their necessary MORNING BEAUTY SLEEP. Though she warns that this scheme has not been perfected, and may only work on men who don't like canned biscuits. But she says, "Just feed them canned biscuits a few mornings and they will have mercy on you and allow you to sleep later and get wide enough awake to cook some good old fashioned biscuits."

(We females sure have to arm ourselves with wisdom in order to SELL the head of the house on how much we are worth around the place.)

—nosin—
I know everyone around here are good fishermen. That I wouldn't doubt for a minute. B-U-T I wonder why they can't think up a better excuse than the weather.

Gene Brown said he and Gene Templeton went fishing at Possum Kingdom last Thursday to Sunday. I asked if they caught anything— (By the way, that's the question that is so-o-o-o HARD FOR A FISHERMAN TO HEAR.) I always have to repeat that question about as many times as a broken record repeats before someone bordering on a nervous breakdown turns it off. Then they always come with, well it was too W-I-N-D-Y, too H-O-T or too C-O-L-D. (Don't give up fellows, sometimes fish just snag on a hook, EVEN IN WINDY WEATHER.)

—nosin—
I knew there were lots of folks out of town last weekend. Gene said he saw Bill Stockard, Pody Welch Junior Littleton, Ted Haber and Bill McBride. Maybe advertising could be better sold sitting on the bank of the lake.

—nosin—
Track Coach Colie Huffman, seems real proud of his boys and is modest when told some of the boys think he is TOPS as a coach. Taking no credit for himself, he comes back with a statement that adds up to this, "where there's no cotton you sure can't pick it."

SWISS CHEESE SAUCE

Cheese adds to the flavor and texture of many tempting sauces. Although most homemakers are more familiar with white sauces that require American or cheddar cheese, there are endless possibilities for distinctive sauces which make use of the wide variety of cheeses available. This delicious sauce made with Swiss cheese is excellent for hot cooked vegetables or served on toast with crisp bacon.

- 3 tablespoons margarine
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 cup milk
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1/16 teaspoon ground cayenne pepper
- 3/4 cup finely chopped Swiss cheese
- 2 teaspoons fresh lemon juice

Melt margarine in a saucepan. Blend in flour. Stir in milk. Cook until medium thickness. Add seasonings and Swiss cheese. Mix well and cook over low heat until cheese is almost melted. Stir in lemon juice. Serve over hot cooked vegetables or on toast with crisp bacon. This makes one and three-fourths cups.

Gardening Is Fun All Your Family Will Enjoy

Children will share both the work and pleasure of the garden.

Most new homes which have been built by the million in outlying sections of American cities are occupied by city-bred families who for the first time in their lives possess land on which they can grow gardens.

Their homes are built by professionals and delivered reasonably complete, but the grounds surrounding them, for which the new owners become responsible, are usually in a sad state of dirt and disorder.

It may appall a city couple to look at this dirt and wonder how they can ever transform it into a lawn and garden.

But their discouragement will be short-lived if, on the first warm day of spring, they don working clothes, take up a rake, hoe or spade, and go out to become acquainted with their land, and make it beautiful and productive. They will realize that what they feared would be a troublesome problem could become a rewarding adventure, and lead to a way of life more deeply satisfying than they had known before.

A love for the soil, and enjoyment of gardening, is born in man. The first do-it-yourself hobby of which there is a record was gardening. The Persian emperor Cyrus laid out a park in front of his palace at Sardis and proudly told Lyander, the Spartan, that his own hands had planted many of the trees. He was one of many do-it-yourself gardeners of high rank mentioned in history.

There is a vast difference between growing a garden, and admiring those grown by others. Many garden clubs require that their members be "dirt gardeners," who plant seeds with their own hands, and bring them to maturity by their own skill. Experienced gardeners will agree that the keenest thrill from this hobby is felt when flowers bloom, or vegetables mature, on plants which grew from seeds sown by your own hands.

Whether this is a man's hobby or a woman's may sometimes be debated. The truth is that the pleasures, and work, of the garden can be shared by every member of the family.

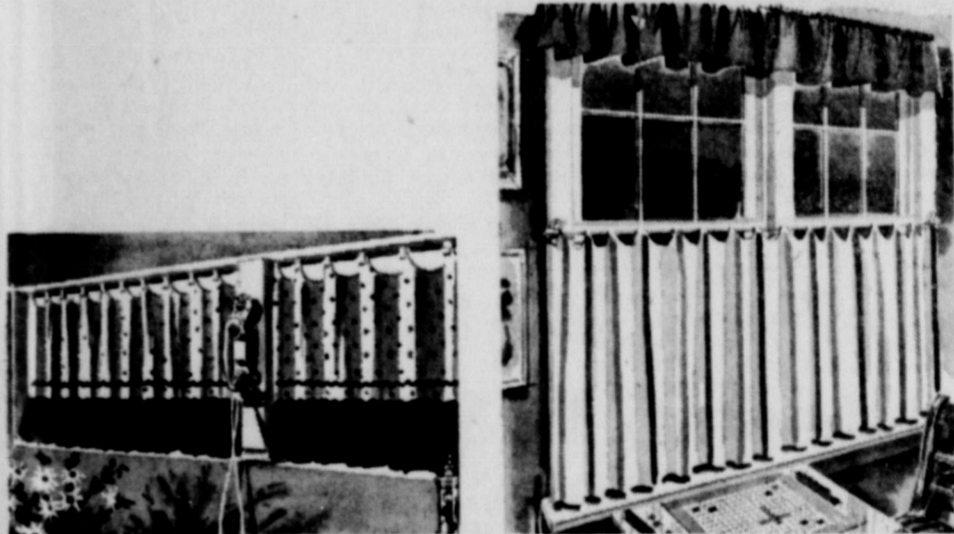

Gardening has its artistic side, in the design of the garden, and the arrangement of flowers in its beds and borders, and in bouquets. It provides healthful, not too strenuous exercise in the sunshine and fresh air, not at a distant beach, but right in your own home grounds.

On a small plot most of the vegetables needed by the average family can be grown in less hours of work than it would take to shop for them in the market. These vegetables can be of a tenderness and flavor impossible to buy, because they can be served within minutes after they have been harvested.

Children need no coaxing to eat such vegetables, which when fresh are rich in the vitamins that are often lost on the way to market.

Decorative gardening not only rewards the gardener but adds substantially to the value of the home, and to the standing of the whole community. The social contacts which develop from activity in gardening are not the least of its rewards. The rapid movement among both men and women is based upon the spreading interest in this hobby.

Of the many advantages in the new life now enjoyed by so many American families, the opportunity to practice gardening qualifies as one of the greatest.

"Dimples" is a play in which young good-looking Boyd Carver answers a $3,000 television script contest of which only females were eligible to enter, signed his script as Dimples.

Then he learns that he must appear in person. When a friend Harold Macey arrives at the Carver home, Boyd persuades him to don female attire and pretend to be Dimples. Rumors fly that he is married to Dimples. His pretty girl friend Alison Halyard almost collapses at the news.

Mr. Carver, Boyd's father is drawn into the mess when Dimples wires Mr. Carver for $1,000, signed Dimples. Mrs. Carver opens the telegram and is panic stricken.

Many comic complications that ensue form a gay and hilarious evening in the auditorium, and the fun and merriment continue until the final curtain is reached.

The Printed Word

Writing in a journal published by New York University's School of Retailing, Irving Settle reports that retailers are spending record amounts of money on newspaper advertising — but are chary of the inducements offered by television.

The main reason is that retailers believe that "newspaper advertising still produces the greatest number of customers for every dollar spent."

The printed word is still the best means of communication yet devised.

Paying For Federal Highways

The enormously costly proposed federal road program, now being discussed in Congress, has sharply focused public attention on the problem of how to pay for highways.

Robert S. Henry of the Association of American Railroads recently observed that if the cost of highway construction and maintenance is to be distributed equitably, some kind of adequate user charge should be collected from heavy vehicles. This charge would sharply reflect their greater use of the roads and the higher construction and maintenance costs they impose.

Mr. Henry added that neither the fuels tax nor the license fee is equitable. Then he said that the most equitable tax of all would be one that, in effect, "weighed" a vehicle and "measured" the distance it runs. As an example, a tax on tires would not only take into account the weight and number of tires used by a vehicle on the highways but would measure the miles run. Such a tax is also feasible in administration, Mr. Henry pointed out, since it would be collected at the relatively few points of manufacture and would be paid but once during the life of the tire.

This certainly seems reasonable, as well as eminently practical. The user charge idea is in no way punitive. It distributes the costs of road building and road maintenance, fairly in the light of the benefits the various kinds of users get and in the light of the costs that their operations entail to the road builders. It looks like the best proposal yet made.

Let's Back Up Our Brags!

It has been said that Texans brag a lot about the history of their state but do little to preserve their historical landmarks. Anyone who has visited the historical shrines in the Northern and Eastern states where practically every historical spot has been properly marked and developed must admit this fact. Texans have been too busy making history to preserve it.

But Texas has become of age. More people today are interested in preserving the historical relics of earlier days than ever before. We are at last awakening to the fact that we Texans have a history far more glorious than the average state. Our forefathers fought against terrific odds to carve out a republic of their own. When they defeated the Mexican army and gained their independence, those early Texans exerted a profound influence on the remainder of the United States by making it possible to extend the country all the way to the Pacific Ocean. The documents which they wrote, the costumes they wore, and the articles they used and handed down through their descendants prove both interesting and inspirational to present generations, when they are put on public display.

But in addition to the patriotic and educational value of museums of Texas history, they form a magnet to attract tourists to the state. Last year some ten million persons visited Texas in search of interesting places to see. That is more than the population of the entire state. The number can be increased by providing them with interesting shrines to visit. Needless to say, tourists are profitable to the entire state.

Texans now have an opportunity to develop one of their most sacred shrines into a No. 1 historical and tourist attraction. A movement is on foot to raise one million dollars by public subscription to build a memorial in keeping with the bigness of Texas at the spot where it was born. That is Old Washington-on-the-Brazos where the Texas Declaration of Independence was signed. It ranks with the Alamo and the San Jacinto Battlefield in importance in the history of the state. The other shrines have been developed; Old Washington has been neglected. Now is the time to change all that.

In co-operation with the Texas Press Association, which has endorsed this movement, this newspaper will accept contributions to the fund to build this museum of Texas history, which will honor the names of the signers of the Declaration. We shall acknowledge the contributions and send them on to the Texas Independence Day Organization, which is in charge of the project.

Let every loyal Texan join in this worthwhile cause.

"I'm sorry, officer, but you're wasting your time — she's asleep."

THE AMERICAN WAY

Immanuel KANT
18th CENTURY GERMAN PHILOSOPHER

"The existence of the Bible as a book for the people is the greatest benefit which the human race has ever experienced"

The Bible - Book for the People

AUSTIN, Tex. — Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd grabbed the spotlight with his announcement that he would not be a candidate for "any state office."

Although he had forewarned his friends of the impending decision, they were stunned at the announcement. Most expected him to run for re-election. Many had urged him to enter the race for governor.

In giving his decision, he outlined the many accomplishments of his office, including the house-cleaning in Duval County; veterans block-land exposure; the exposure of fraudulent insurance companies; and the establishment of an effective system of coordinating law enforcement activities in Texas.

Shepperd intends to remain where he is until his term ends on Dec. 31. It has been reported that he would accept a business offer in Odessa.

His decision not to run for any state office was announced in a letter to Harry Kates, publisher of his hometown newspaper, the Gladewater Mirror.

Close friends of Shepperd say that the announcement does not remove him from the list of prospective entrants in the race for U. S. Senator, if and when Price Daniel resigns from the Senate.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

An individual's right to express his opinions, within the bounds of libel, for or against any candidate for public office, or any public issue, will be tested in court by the Texas Press Association.

Under the new Texas Election Code, candidates themselves may publish any amount of advertising, limited only by their own personal finances, and contributions. But an individual is restricted to a $25 expenditure during the entire campaign.

On the average, that is approximately 30 words over the radio; a few seconds of TV time; and less than 20 inches of newspaper space. And it is below the minimum requirement for billboard advertising.

Hearings on the subject will be before the Court of Criminal Appeals.

LOWRY GETS PRISON TERM

Former Beaumont Mayor Leslie Lowry has been found guilty of perjury, in the organization of an insurance company, and sentenced to seven years in prison.

District Judge Charles O. Betts pronounced the sentence.

Lowry, now a Kansas school teacher, was accused of making false statements in an affidavit filed five years ago in connection with organization of the now defunct Texas Fire Insurance Co. of Beaumont and Ennis.

SUPREME COURT RULING

Texas officials are aroused by a U. S. Supreme Court ruling knocking the props out from under another state law.

Latest to fall are state anti-sedition laws, which the high court says are superseded by Federal law. Apparent effect was to nullify Texas' anti-communist law.

Attorney General Shepperd called the action "a stunning blow to states' rights. It rules out another field of state-federal cooperation, and is impossible to reconcile with the reserved powers of the Federal constitution."

Meanwhile Shepperd filed a brief in the U. S. Supreme Court in support of a contested Wisconsin law against disorderliness in labor disputes. Texas has a similar law.

PROPERTY RIGHTS ASKED BY WOMEN

A woman should be allowed to manage her separate property, say the Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Texas League of Women Voters, and Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

They have asked the Texas Legislative Council for such a law. They also urged repeal of the law requiring wives to make separate acknowledgement on legal documents covering property belonging to a couple.

Co. is entitled to a refund of the $1,140,906 it paid in taxes. Interest payment of $249,576 was not granted.

Since the gas gathering tax was declared unconstitutional by the U. S. Supreme Court, the state has returned more than 25 million dollars in taxes paid "under protest." Last year the Texas legislature granted permission for about 30 companies, which paid without protest, to sue for recovery.

MULESHOE

For a good, tender, flavorful steak or some fine West Texas Hickory smoked Barbeque there is no better place to go than to the Cross Roads Cafe in Muleshoe. This cafe is widely known through out West Texas and many people drive for miles to eat some of the delicious food served there.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. (Butch) Baker are the owners and operators of this business and they have made thousands of friends since opening in Muleshoe. Their cafe is located about one block off Main St., on the Clovis Road, near the junction of Highways 84, 70 and 214. The name "Cross Roads" was taken from its location.

Only expert cooks work in this establishment and they have been engaged in that work for many years. They know how to prepare food that is tender, tastes good and is easily digestible. Only Hickory logs are used in cooking barbeque and it is done a turn when finished.

The steaks served here are cut from choice beef and they are served by courteous waitresses in a friendly, clean atmosphere that is pleasing and relaxing to customers. Modern, upholstered booths that are wide and roomy are found inside. The decorations are in good taste and are pleasing to the sight.

No expense is spared to obtain and serve the finest foods. All foods are handled under strictly sanitary conditions and kept in large refrigerators. The entire building is air conditioned for the comfort of customers.

Clover Aphid Killing Alfalfa In Lamb County

By W. R. Kimbrough
 County Agent

The last two years the clover aphid has moved in from California to such an extent that it is threatening every acre of alfalfa in Lamb County. To date we have found no effective means to eradicate this aphid but we think that by two or more applications the clover aphid can be controlled.

The weather and wind, is causing very erratic control. Best control is when the temperature is about 50 degrees with a high humidity and no wind. Although this condition does not happen often in West Texas, something must be done to keep the aphid from killing the alfalfa.

The material is 1-4 lb. parathion, 2 gal. diesel oil to the acre. Unfortunately this causes some leaf shed and considerable burning of the plant. Another control is 1 gal. B. H. C. (use 2 lb. B. H. C. gal.) in water to the acre. A good deal of other material is being used but these two seem to be giving best results from reports received over the South Plains. CAUTION: Never use parathion in a ground machine as it is too dangerous. B. H. C. can be used with proper precautions taken in a ground machine.

Applications should be made anytime that you can see honeydew appearing on the alfalfa.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. O'Conner of Levelland visited in the home of Mrs. Sarah Clark last Thursday night.

More Money Needed To Finance Lamb County Cotton Allotment Suits

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce notified the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday, that the fund for financing suits to get cotton allotments refigured is $300.00 under the allotted amount of $500.00 for Lamb County. 303 Lamb County farmers have protested the nine percent cut in acreage which they received the past year. Only four suits have been in Federal Court. The cost of protests will be much more if they are to receive a favorable verdict, the suits will have to go to the Supreme Court.

Farmers, ginners and business men's attention is called to this matter immediately to raise a total of $500.00 for Lamb County.

Contributors are asked to mail checks of any amount to the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce, which will be forwarded on to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

An excess of $15,000.00 will be needed to finance these suits which will be donated by Lamb County and other surrounding counties.
