District Judge Pat Boone Jr. has set the date of August 26 for trial of the Earth-Springlake hospital election contest. A hearing was held Thursday morning in which Judge Boone ordered the impounding of the ballot and stub boxes used in the May 27 vote, which created the new district. Boxes will be held by the court clerk pending further orders.

Pleas by 22 voters in the contested election for an injunction against the hospital board of directors were overruled by Boone. He also refused a request that the county tax assessor-collector be ordered to make a list of qualified voters in the May election.

The pleas, which were heard on Thursday, August 3, were outlined in a petition filed in the district court on June 30, claiming "such grave irregularities" in conducting and calling the vote that true results could not be determined. Following special exceptions to the petition by council for the county, voters announced plans to re-plead their case by amended petition. The judge postponed final decision on the county's exceptions pending new pleadings.

Scribblings From Wandering Thoughts

by Jill McCord

My memories of Europe do not come to me in a vast snow storm, but in small flakes caught here and there in the wind. Each member of the tour group, mostly Baylor students or former Baylor students, helps bring events to life. Managing all the many moods and activities of this group were Dr. and Mrs. Lynn, Dr. Lynn is a European history professor at Baylor. He was also "papa" who insisted through all sorts of trials we were the "creme de la creme".

I may as well take this excursion chronologically to keep my wandering memories in some semblance of order. England, rolling and green, with her tiny cottages surrounded by huge mixed flower bouquets, enchanted us at once. Learning London's subway system, getting lost around Carnaby Street, feeling a part of Picadilly Circus with its flashing neon signs declaring the shows, and freezing amidst the crowd to see the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace, kept us busy in London. Westminster Abbey and the tombs of renowned kings, statesmen, and poets brought history to reality, as did Big Ben and the houses of Parliament Windsor Castle, where the Queen spends most of her time is out of King Arthur. That reminds me--we supposedly saw

King Arthur's round table near Winchester Cathedral. In Bath, named because of the old Roman baths found there, we attended an opera presented during the Bath Festival. Stratford-upon-Avon was still strictly Elizabethan. By the Royal Shakespeare theatre a parklike and the Avon cardles swans. "As You Like It" was performed excellently here. Antique shopping in Warwick brings bittersweet memories of what was bought and what was left behind. A drive from Warwick is Coventry and its most impressive cathedral, Coventry Cathedral was bombed during World War II, leaving only the shell and spire. The altar now holds a charred cross, made from burned beams, and the inscription "Father forgive". Adjoining the shell is an ultra modern Coventry Cathedral. In its building and decorations are used the materials of modern man--copper, glass, and aluminum. The cross of nails from the old Cathedral is resting within the High Altar Cross. My mind next takes me to the warmth of the Oxford Student Union where we had lunch on a very cold day.

England is behind and Holland reached by way of overnight cross channel steamer. Amsterdam was much too charming for such a short visit as we made. Her windmills, canals, homes, and people seemed to show a robust and growing land. Her language assured us we were no longer in England; we were now on the continent.

In Amsterdam Herr Muller joined us--he was to be our bus driver (and friend) until Geneva. We entered Germany and the Ruhr Valley on Monday. Smog filled, it is apparent this is the rich industrial area. Farther south is Bonn, the capital of West Germany. It is a surprisingly small town for a country's capital, but to the Germans it is still a temporary capital, Berlin being the real one. Continuing south and east, we joined a Rhine steamer for a two hour journey down the Rhine. The tiny villages nestled in the hills and the vineyards planted up to the top of the steep hills delighted us. After that ride we were just ready to be charmed by our cozy old hotel on a misty evening in Heidelberg. Heidelberg is set in the hills by the Neckar River and is a university town. Still in Southern Germany was Munich. Munich was big, bustling, and bouncy. From her palace of the former Bavarian kings to Schwabinger, the student section, Munich kept us busy. The sidewalk cafes, discoques, and art students selling their wares by lantern kept Schwabinger on the go at night.

Leaving Germany we first viewed the Alps, still in their baby phase. Throughout Germany and Austria, where we next entered, we observed the farming life of the people. Wherever a man was at work in the fields there was a woman and usually children. They might be stirring hay or hanging it on a line to dry. Salzburg, "Sound of Music Country", provided a restful place. Our guest house was on a hill overlooking Salzburg, the meals were out under the trees, and we had space to roam and relax. It was Austria, of all places, where we went swimming.

The change from Austria to Italy is quite striking, especially in the living conditions. The villages are much like those of old Mexico. The farms are small, the tools wooden, the oxen pull the wagon. The cities of Italy can not be compared as each is distinctly itself. Venice--a city to sit and remember. The white city on blue water, the Bridge of Sighs, the pigeons in St. Mark's Square, and all the treasures there are to buy, that is Venice. Before going to Rome we spent a night in a country, San Marino. This miniature mountaintop republic contains only a few square miles and is surrounded on all sides by Italy. It has for its main industry tourism.

As we entered Rome we discovered all was not well. The main train station was ablaze and was on fire for fourteen hours. Rome was hot, and the ice cream vendors were always a welcome sight. The Roman ruins, fountains, and monuments were all very impressive. The vatican inspired awe, and we saw the Pope Sunday morning. The catacombs and the Appian way took us back to olden days.

Florence is a very uplifting city. Her art galleries, in which the art of the ages stand, expresses the unity of man through ages by means of beauty. Michelangelo's works were pieces for thought. Besides her galleries, Florence had many other attractions--the straw market, flea market, and the Ponte Vecchio, the only shop covered bridge left across the Arno from the war. A side trip to Pisa gave us a chance to see the famous leaning tower, in the sun it looks like a giant wedding cake about to topple. As my mind wanders back to Florence, I see the destructive power of nature. The flood of last year cut into the culture of the world and the lives of the people.

Again a change of countries and a contrast. Switzerland and beauty must be synonyms. Geneva was lovely, clean city on lake Geneva, but I must go on to Zermatt. Barely accessible by car, blanketed in the Alps, clinging to the foot of the Matterhorn, Zermatt is the perfect resort town. Made up entirely of Swiss Chalet Hotels, skiers, and sun bathers, Zermatt had an air I found nowhere else. The hikes, the cable car rides, and the kegeling (nine pin bowling) are only a small part of Zermatt. Nature reached out with her softest embrace and held fast. Her people were pink cheeked and her fondue delicious. Leaving Zermatt by a small train, more views of green grass, blue sky, and white waterfalls told us farewell.

Excitement was our group's when we arrived from an overnight train ride to Paris. We had been warned not to expect too much, and so we did not. We should have, because Paris captured our hearts. Staying only three blocks off the Champs Elysee, the busy life of Paris enveloped us. Riding the subway or walking, we investigated Paris thoroughly on our own. Together the group visited Versailles, which seemed very special to me as I thought of the number of times my roommate and I had sat and discussed

Louis IV for history. July 14 arrived, Bastille Day! This is to the French as July 4 is to us. A military parade with tanks and planes streaking red, white, and blue overhead began the day. The Champs Elysee was draped with flags as was the Arch de Triomphe. It was lined with people down to the Concord square, where the guillotine used to be. The afternoon we spent shopping for prints at open stalls along the Seine on the left bank of Notre Dame, strolling in the Latin Quarter, and walking up all those steps to the Church of Sacre Coer. When night came, we watched a tremendous fireworks display over the Seine and wandered around St. Germain. After the 14th we were tired, but not about to give up, as the 15th was our last day in Paris. Besides trying to stuff our suitcases with all our "loot", we visited the Louvre. That night our whole group ended a grand summer together at the Lido.

Former Earthite Comes Home

Lt. Col. Kenneth F. Hite recently arrived back in the states from a combat mission in and around North Vietnam.

The Colonel was stationed in Bangkok. He was to have been gone twelve months and make one hundred missions in that time. Instead the Colonel was gone 5 1/2 months and made his one hundred combat missions plus "thirteen for extra measure". He was also in command of three hundred other men and officers during that period of time.

The Colonel made ninety-six combat missions during the Korean War. Col. Hite also distinguished himself by meritorious service as Course Director and Instructor in the Department of Military Studies, of the Commandant of Cadets, United States Air Force Academy, Colorado, from April 1, 1957, to August 1, 1960.

Throughout this period, Col. Hite performed in an outstanding manner and displayed the highest degree of professional competence. His organizational ability coupled with a broad knowledge of the entire spectrum of Air Force operations, enabled him to develop and direct courses entitled "Training Operations", "Airpower in Modern War", "Armed Forces", and "Applied Aerospace Power".

In the presentation of military studies programs for which he was responsible, Col. Hite invariably brought forth new methods of presentations, new ideas, and instructional techniques, which greatly enhanced the quality and value of instruction to cadets.

His operational background, personal experiences, high standard of personal and moral conduct, in alliance with his devotion and energy, were responsible to a large degree for the establishment and presentation of a sound professional curriculum in the study of aerospace power.

Col. Hite's contribution in the early days of activation has led to the successful establishment of the Air Force Academy and reflects great credit upon himself and the United States Air Force.

The Colonel was stationed in Okinawa four years, Hawaii, two years, Korea, one year.

Colonel Hite graduated from Springlake-Earth High School, attended Tech, Lubbock, and graduated from West Point N. Y. Military Academy.

The Colonel has the Commendation Medal and also the distinguished Flying Cross.

He and his family will be stationed in Europe for the next three years. They have been visiting recently in the home of Lena Hite. The Colonel has a brother, Lt. Col. Robert L. Hite, one of the famous Doolittle fliers, and also a sister, Hazel Hite Ricketts, wife of Captain C.J. Ricketts, U.S. Navy.

Annual Boys Ranch Rodeo Set For September 3-4

The 348 boys at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch are expecting a new attendance record to be set at their 23rd annual rodeo this year, and additional seats have been installed to accommodate the crowds over the Labor Day weekend.

Last year, nearly 9,000 attended the two-day event, and an additional 500 seats have been erected at the north end of the rodeo arena. Dates for the rodeo are Sunday, September 3, Monday, September 4, at 2:30 p.m.

All of the 348 boys will have a part in the rodeo with nearly 100 riding for awards and honors. Ranchers who do not ride will be serving as ushers, helping in the parking area, working at concession stands, or helping around the chutes.

Giant-size barbecue beef sandwiches will be prepared and served by Ranchers who are learning meatcutting and cooking as their future vocations for spectators and visitors who arrive early to picnic.

The climax of the rodeo, the largest Labor Day event in the Texas Panhandle, will be the naming of the Junior and Senior All-Round Cowboys, two of the highest honors that can be earned by the boys. Professional rodeo stock will be used in the bull riding and bare-back bronc events, and a special stick-horse race will be featured for the four to six-year-olds.

Farm Equipment Display Major Attraction At Field Day

The farm equipment display and demonstration will again be a major attraction at the 11th Annual Field Day of the High Plains Research Foundation on Thursday, September 14, 1967. This feature of the Annual Field Day has grown in popularity each year. At the 1966 Field Day, sixty-two major firms had their latest in farm equipment on display. The exhibitors were occupied all afternoon showing, describing and operating their products for the thousands of farmers and other visitors.

The displays include nearly every kind of equipment used in successful operations of farms and ranches. Some of the displays included irrigation equipment, tractors, combines, land leveling, planting, cultivation, spraying, flame farming, herbicides, insecticides and fertilizer equipment manufactured and sold by various companies and individuals.

A group of members of the Board of Trustees will be hosts for the display and exhibition. Members of the host committee will be on duty one hour each during the afternoon to direct visitors to the type of equipment they would like to see demonstrated. Cold drinks will be available as usual furnished through the courtesy of Gifford Hill Western. Their traditional location will be at the spot where visitors unload at the end of the field tours.

Installment Credit Use Soars Upward

College Station--Who uses installment credit? A popular reply is "Who doesn't?" But Wanda Meyer, Extension home management specialist with Texas A&M University, reports figures indicating that some people are using it more than others.

Installment credit increased $8 billion in 1965, according to the Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan. Mrs. Meyer explains that the major reason for this increase is a change in behavior on the part of people who can best afford to pay their debts.

Early in 1965, only 32 percent of families with $15,000 or more annual income owed installment debt, and only 11 percent owed in excess of $2,000. Early this year, 47 percent of this income group owed installment debt, and 19 percent owed in excess of $2,000. Of those receiving $3,000 income or less, proportion owing installment debt dropped from 28 percent in early 1965 to 23 percent in early 1966.

Use of installment credit is most frequent among young families and is infrequent among older units. A significant finding in 1966 was that only 58 percent of the families whose head was 18 to 24 years old owed installment debt, in contrast to 69 percent of those families in 1965. This drop in credit usage can be attributed mainly to the increase in the proportion of this group who were under 21 in 1966 and, therefore, not generally eligible for credit.

Among other findings of the Michigan survey of consumer finances was that the median amount of consumer installment debt rose from $780 in early 1965 to $850 in early 1966. They also learned that the ratio of aggregate debt repayments to disposable personal income moved up only slightly from 1964 to 1965.

Mr. and Mrs. E.E. Leonard of Ft. Worth and grandson, Sandy Leonard of New Orleans, visited recently with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ardis Barton.

Mrs. Wayne McCutchan and boys from Grenada, California, visited last week in the Wendell Clayton home.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mr. Ross L. Middleton, Publisher The Earth News-Sun Earth, Texas

Dear Ross:

With the Labor Day weekend not too far away, our 348 boys are getting excited and working hard to get ready for their 23rd annual rodeo that will be held this year on September 3 and 4. You have always been so nice to help them with this rodeo before, and we hope you can use the enclosed story in your fine paper.

The boys have erected some additional bleachers that will accommodate about 500 people, so the seating capacity has been expanded. They will also be serving those big bar-be-que beef sandwiches again this year, so no one should go away hungry. It seems like all of them want to ride the broncs and bulls but around 100 will actually be contestants.

Without Mr. and Mrs. Farley with us this year, the rodeo will not be the same, but the boys are determined to make this one the biggest and best they have ever put on because they know that is what Mr. and Mrs. Farley would want them to do.

You have always been so nice to help the boys with their rodeo, and we expect to have a lot of folks from your area with us at the time. We hope it will be possible for you and your family to be with us this year, and again, thank you for any help you might give our boys. With all good wishes to you I am

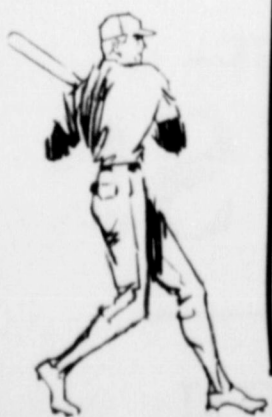

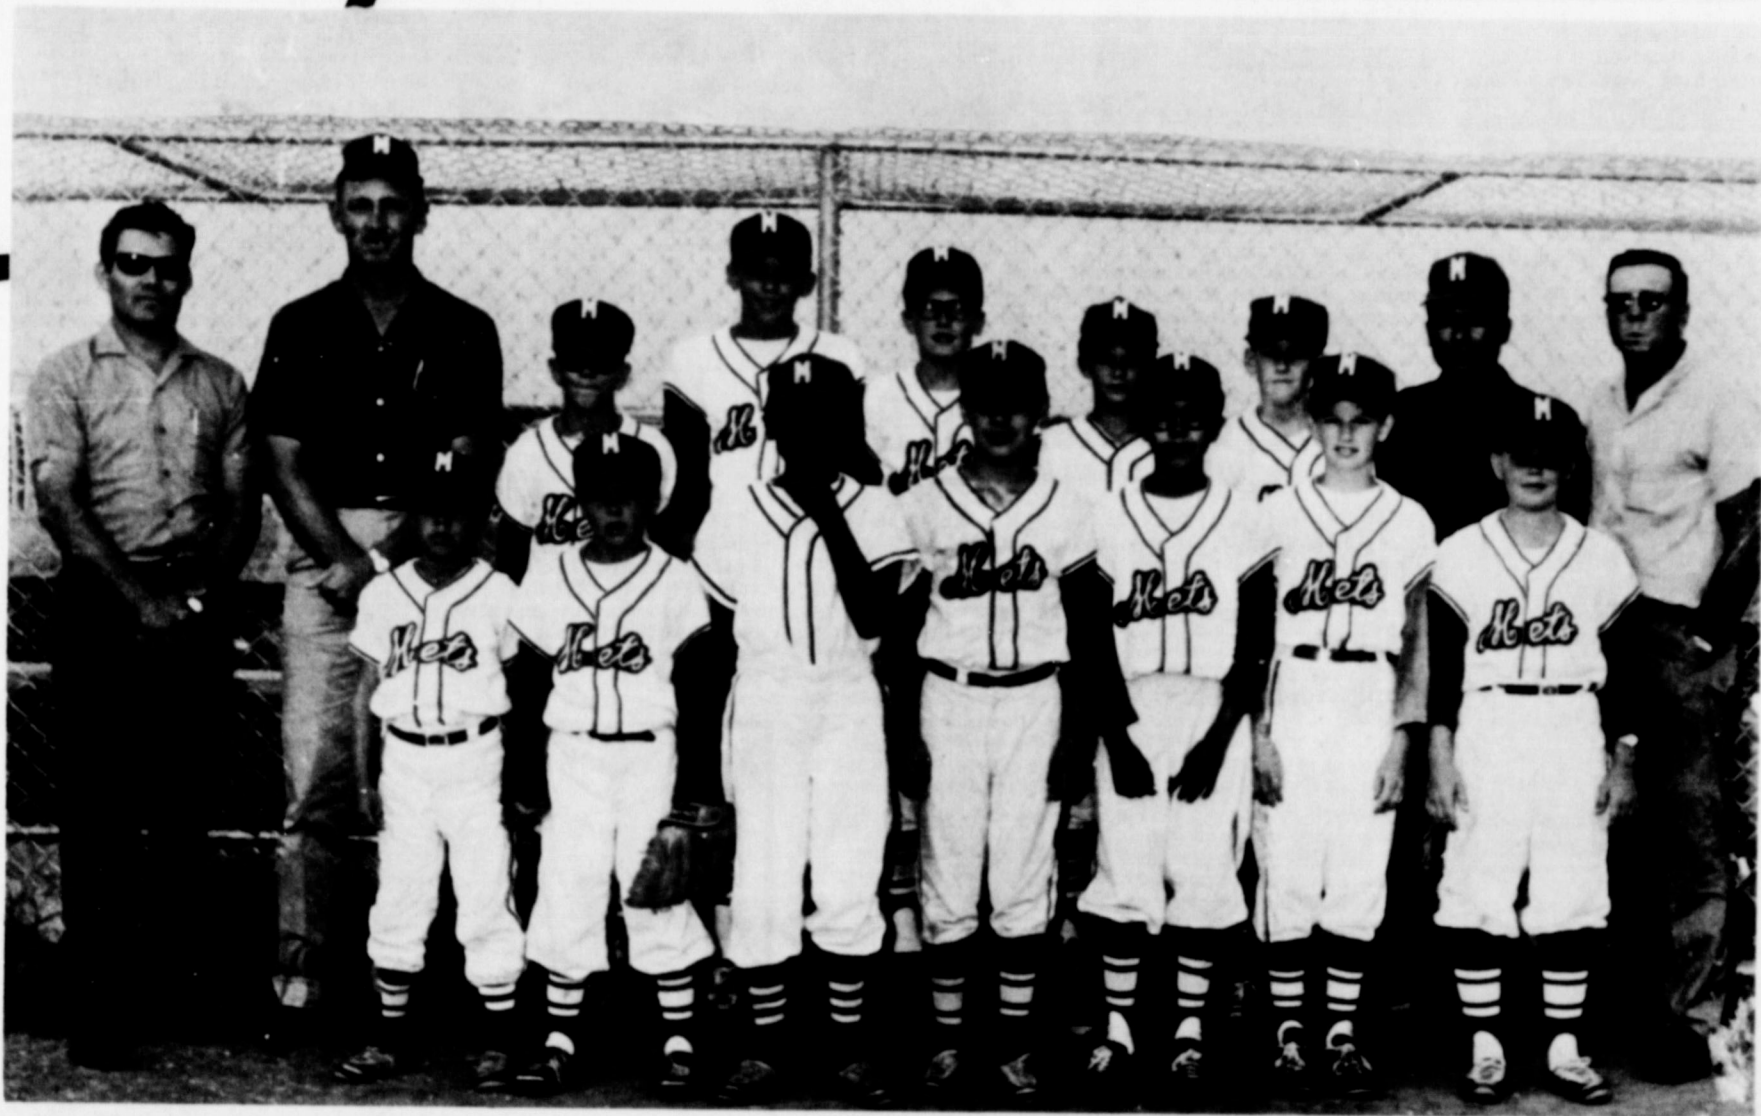

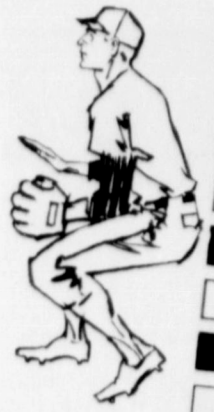

Sincerely yours,
Cal Farley's Boys Ranch

He will now undergo about three weeks of individual combat training and then, after leave at home, will report to his first Marine Corps assignment.

The intensified Marine recruit training emphasizes rigid physical conditioning and survival techniques, both at sea and ashore, to develop self-confidence and endurance. Marksmanship with the M-14 rifle and 45-caliber pistol are equally stressed, and close order drill instills the traditions of Marine Corps teamwork.

A thorough study of basic military subjects; hygiene; first aid and sanitation; and the customs, courtesies, history and mission of the Marine Corps serve to polish the new Marine's recruit education and prepare him to join Marine combat forces.

Vietnam--U.S. Air Force First Lieutenant Arthur C. Splawn, son of Mr. and Mrs. H.K. Splawn of Muleshoe, has received the Air Medal at Cam Ranh Bay AB, Vietnam, for air action in Southeast Asia.

The lieutenant is assigned at Cam Ranh Bay as a member of the Pacific Air Forces which provides air power to maintain the U.S. defense posture in the Pacific and conducts air operations in Southeast Asia.

He was commissioned in 1965 upon completion of Officer Training School at Lackland AFB, Texas.

As a part of the Marine Corps air-ground team, his battalion provides pre-operation reconnaissance information of enemy unit location, strength, and armament.

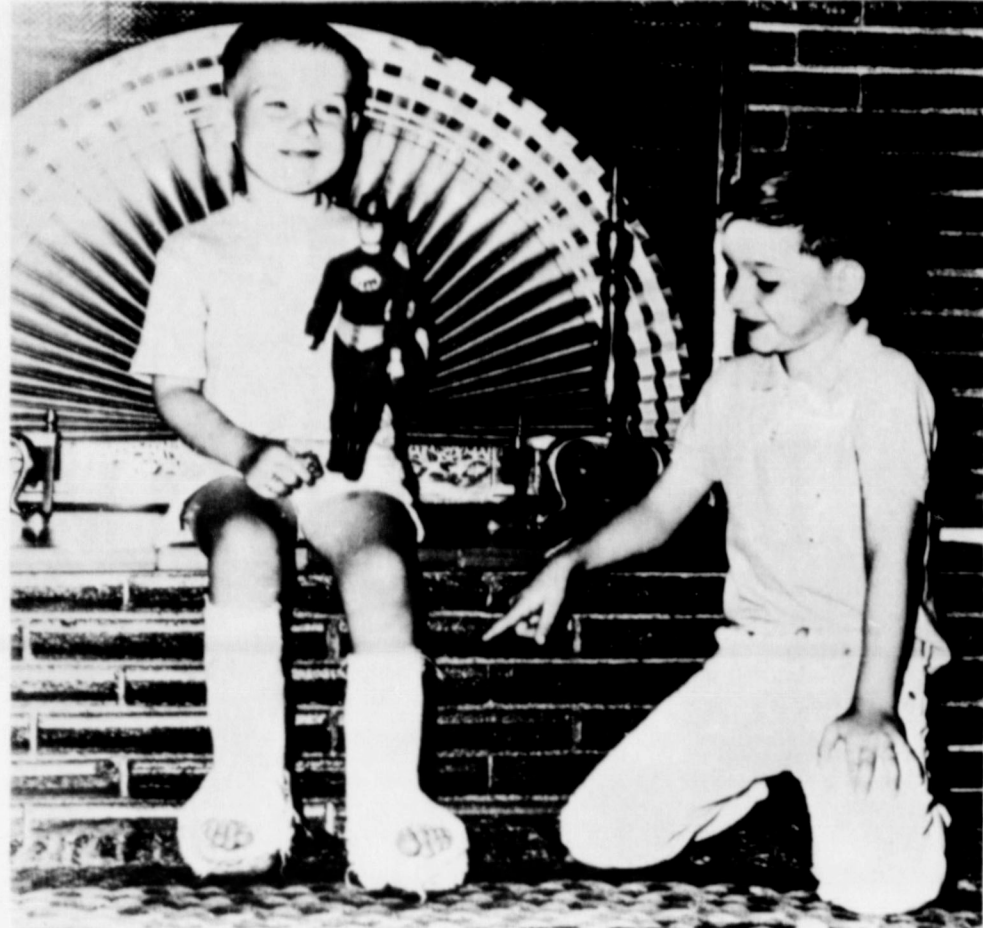

The unit is also engaged in a vast civic action program. The civic action program is designed to assist the Vietnamese people in completing self-help projects, and makes use of equipment and materials made available through the Marine Corps Reserve Civic Action Fund. During their four months at OCS, the candidates spent a total of 520 hours on military, tactical, organizational, and technological subjects. In addition to the classroom time, two hours a day were devoted either to close order drill, swimming lessons, physical training or similar activities.

Candidates received actual sea-going experience aboard a squadron of Yard Patrol Craft, which are attached to the school and operate daily on Narragansett Bay near Newport.

USS Springfield (CLG-7) (PHTNC)--Seaman Apprentice Kenneth E. Jones, USNR, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Jones of Springlake, Texas, is participating in sea trials aboard the light guided missile cruiser USS Springfield following a six-month overhaul in Boston, Mass. Operating from her new home-

Wayland Registration To Be September 4

Dr. Roy C. McClung, president of Wayland Baptist College in Plainview, Texas, announced that registration for the fall term will begin on September 4th, and the term itself will start on September 7th. There are a limited number of openings still available.

In making this announcement, Dr. McClung pointed out three vital factors which make Wayland Baptist College appealing to students.

"The private nature of Wayland Baptist College emphasizes the free enterprise segment of higher education. The place of the private school is well established, and the need for a good balance in the United States between public and private education has been recognized by Congress as well as business and industry. Strong private institutions are a further guarantee to the development of independent, free enterprise initiative on the part of budding young leaders.

Dr. McClung added: "Wayland Baptist College is small enough to provide education tailored to each individual's needs through personal counseling and individual attention. Expert teachers, including PhD's, deal with both freshman and sophomores as well as advanced groups. Because of its smallness, Wayland can provide a flexibility in its educational program not possible at larger institutions.

"An evidence of this flexibility is the innovation in the 1967-68 academic year. The fall semester at Wayland which begins on September 7th will close on December 22nd. The second semester will begin on February 1st and close May 24th. During the month of January, an interim term is being used for the first time to give an opportunity for students to receive three hours credit in three weeks in a very personalized classroom experience. Each professor will teach one course and each pupil will take one course, allowing classes to move where the action is during this three weeks period. During this interim term, new and challenging methods of instruction will be utilized."

port, Norfolk, Va., Springfield will conduct the sea trials to insure maximum operating efficiency and proficiency of her crew.

Prior to the overhaul, the 610-foot drifter completed a 40-month deployment to the Mediterranean as flagship for Commander Sixth Fleet.

Mrs. Bonnie Prather returned Sunday from a week's visit in Mineral Wells with Mr. and Mrs. Gene Stephens and children and Beverly Prather.

Critical Period For Corn Crop Irrigation

by Buddy C. Logsdon
County Agent

Soil moisture should be adequate at the tasseling to silking stage to insure maximum corn yields, says Buddy Logsdon, Lamb County Agricultural Agent. Actually, sufficient moisture should be available seven to ten days prior to tasseling and should be kept at or above 50 percent field capacity through the period of ear formation.

Furthermore, soil moisture is necessary throughout the growing season to prevent wilting, adds Logsdon. Corn requires approximately 24 inches of total moisture during this time and uses less than one-tenth of an inch of water per day until the plant is eight to twelve inches high. From there, the wa-

Lazbuddie News...

By Mrs. C. A. Watson

Birthday greetings this week go to: Mike Ward, Myrtle Gilmore, Margretta Bustamante, John Gammon, Rosa Flores, Mrs. Boyd, Mike Bean, Judy Watson, Lonnie Keith, Preston Cargile, and Gary Foster.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Cargile carried their daughters, Cassandra and Karen, to Cone Sunday afternoon, where they will attend the singing school held at the Primitive Baptist Foundation at Cone. Mr. and Mrs. Cargile, Wade and Elaine plan to attend the school some during this week's sessions.

All Lazbuddie school students will register August 28 with buses running. Lunch will not be served that day but will be served the 29th in cafeteria. School officially opens with classes beginning the 29th.

The school trustee board members will meet Monday evening August 14. At that time the two or three new teachers will be hired, and the faculty is expected to be completed for the new term. A complete program for the new school year will be completed and available for Lazbuddie news after the board meets.

Under optimum conditions, explains Logsdon, silk emerges at the proper time for pollination. However, water stress during this period delays silking and, in severe stress, a large portion of the pollen may be shed before the silks emerge. This results in poorly filled or partially barren ears. Thus, moisture is critical at this period.

Research has shown that near maximum yields and maximum water use efficiency can usually be obtained with three well-timed irrigations. The first summer irrigation should be applied during the rapid growth

August 14.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Barnes and children, the Gene Riddles, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Ketchum, and other school personnel are presently on vacation enjoying the remaining few days left before school begins.

Mrs. Alta Tyler spent the weekend in Muleshoe with her sister, Mrs. J. P. Miller. Rev. and Mrs. Beach and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Treider carried a group of young folks from the First Baptist Church to Lubbock Thursday to see the religious show, "Sand Pebbles". The young adult couples of the First Baptist Church enjoyed a picnic at the Clovis Park Friday night of last week. Twenty were present for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Neeley of Okmulgee, Oklahoma, left Tuesday for home after several days' visit here with the Raymond Treider, Jr. family.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Martin and daughter, Terry, attended church in Portales Sunday. They were accompanied by his father, Elder Kenneth Martin, who did the preaching at the Primitive Baptist Church there.

stage about a week or ten days prior to tasseling, says Logsdon. The second irrigation should follow near peak tasseling with the third being applied during silking.

If only two irrigations are planned, they should come prior to or in early tasseling and during silking. Severe depletion of soil moisture after silking and before maturity may reduce grain yields, points out the agent. However, after the hard dough stage, lack of moisture has little or no effect on yields.

Similar irrigation practices should be conducted with corn used for silage production, adds Logsdon. However, some tests indicate that slightly earlier irrigation may be desirable for silage since this will insure more early, rapid growth.
