

PASTIME CLOTHES INFORMAL BUT HIGHLY DECORATIVE

MANY dresses in the spring display are frankly designed for a double purpose. If they are made of certain fabrics, that are readily adapted to sports clothes, they are displayed in either the sports or tailored classes. The spirited tailored suit serves for sports wear and the somewhat subdued sports dress does duty as a tailor.

bright colors, fastened by means of fancy stitching about the edges. The design leads one to think it was done by a futurist artist who dreamed of representing a flower garden. The result is a pleasing dress that may be developed in colors to suit the individual and is certain to carry an air of distinction.

There is no doubt that clothes are growing more joyous, especially when designers have in mind youthful wearers. In their description the words "sports," "pastime" and "outdooring" appear with increasing frequency and a flavor of these ideas is permeating the things worn in the everyday work-a-day world.

They had visited country places and they had visited sea-shore places. They had visited some wonderful mountains and they had visited some lovely valleys.

They had seen the work Sir Freese-the-Ponds had done and also the work of Mr. Freezing-is-Fun. They had seen all kinds of wonderful winter scenes in all kinds of places.

"But," said old Man Winter, "I have yet one place to take you to before your trip is over."

"We have certainly had a wonderful trip," the Fairy Queen said, "and we will never forget it. We are quite delighted to visit one more place."

So Old Man Winter took the Fairy Queen and the other fairies to a place where there were as wonderful and marvelous waterfalls to be seen as anywhere imaginable.

There the Fairy Queen and the fairies went about with Old Man Winter, and so that they wouldn't be seen, they wore robes of spray.

There were ice mountains which had been made out of spray, and between these mountains great waterfalls rushed down without stopping.

All about were huge icicles, and at night a crescent moon came out and the stars, too, and the water dashed and foamed, and the lights from the sky danced merrily as if to say how pleased they were to look down on so much beauty.

There were rainbows in front of the great waterfalls in the daytime, for the sun shone right through the spray which came from the falls, and the ice and the snow and the icicles and the branches of ice on the trees, all sparkled as though they were made of dazzling, wonderful jewels.

There were several great waterfalls and then there were rushing, hurrying rapids, rushing as though they had to get somewhere on time, and as though they would be late if they didn't hurry like anything!

But sometimes they found the time to twist about and have a game of so. Some of these rapids dashed on down over rocks, but some of them were frozen over and the ice and the dashing water talked together of the beauty of the winter.

There were falls which were opposite from several other falls, and these were in the shape of a horseshoe. All about them were icicles and they dashed down between great huge masses of beautiful ice.

The telegraph poles and the trees all about were covered with ice, and such beautiful shapes as they were. The trees were like fairyland, Old Man Winter told the Queen of the Fairies, which made her very much pleased.

All about were rainbows and marvelous colors and dazzling snow and ice and rushing green and blue water which changed its dress on a gray day to a wild gray green color while on the bright days were a beautiful shade of blue green.

The Fairy Queen and the other fairies stood up on an ice mountain which looked up at the greatest of all the waterfalls, and the Fairy Queen said:

"Old Man Winter, I have seen the buds come out in the spring, and I have seen the flowers appear. I've seen the soft green moss and the new ferns and the lovely green grass. I've seen the splendor of mid-summer, and I've seen the glory of autumn."

"But never have I seen anything more wonderful than the work Winter has done here, whether on the fine days when the beauty almost dazzles me, or on the stormy days when the beauty is so wild and wonderful."

"I've never seen anything to equal this."

And Old Man Winter smiled and his smile was like a breath of fresh cold air.

"I'm glad you like some of the work we do. We get a good deal of abuse, but we do try to give a great deal of beauty to the world. We're glad that you think we have it!"

WINTER BEAUTY

"I know that the spring is very beautiful. I know that the Summer is very lovely. I know that the autumn is very gorgeous. And I think, Old Man Winter ended, "that there is a great deal of beauty about the winter."

"I agree with you," said the Fairy Queen, who had promised Old Man Winter that she and some of the fairies would take a winter trip with him.

They had visited country places and they had visited sea-shore places. They had visited some wonderful mountains and they had visited some lovely valleys.

They had seen the work Sir Freese-the-Ponds had done and also the work of Mr. Freezing-is-Fun. They had seen all kinds of wonderful winter scenes in all kinds of places.

Girdle Reminder of Ancient Times. Girdles of metal, adorned with brilliant ornaments, now quite commonly used largely for purposes of ornamentation in women's dress, is a reminder, or the revival of a custom of ancient times, when they were worn by both men and women to confine to the person their long flowing garments. They were not always of metal, but often of linen or leather. The girdle also served as the support of weapons, utensils, bags or pockets, etc. In the Middle Ages books were sometimes bound with a strip of flexible stuff hanging from one end of the volume, which could be drawn through the girdle and secured.

Among some people, even in this day, the girdle is put to practical use. Being large and loose, the scabbard of a sword or long dagger is passed through the girdle instead of being hung from it, a hook or projecting button serving to hold it in place.

THE WAVES

To the waves said old Mother Ocean, "My children, why are you so rough?" "Oh, yes," said Mother Ocean, "we're really gentle."

"These actions are brought out a bluff?" "Well," Mother Ocean said, "you bluff very well at times."

"We do," roared the waves; "we do." And their roaring laughter could be heard all about.

"You see," they said, "it is such fun to play and we have such jolly races with the wind and with the Foam Brothers and with the Tide Twins."

"We have so many other playmates, too. There are the Mist Grandchildren and the Army of Raindrops and old man Wind and the Storm family."

"We adore the Storm family. They're always so ready to play the games which would tire out others."

"They don't get easily tired. The Storm family is a strong family. They've made themselves strong through so much exercising, though they have always been naturally strong too."

"Then there are so many others. Oh, we have so many friends, Mother Ocean."

"Yes," said Mother Ocean, "my children are well liked. I cannot but say that."

"Everyone cares for you—or at least there are enough to care for you so you'll always have playmates."

"Sometimes I think your playmates are pretty rough, but then you always calm down again and know how to be quiet and well-mannered and restful."

"So I don't think your wild games do you any harm."

"We don't think so, either," Mother Ocean.

"Think of the times we're so still and when we just ripple and roll back and forth with smiles on our watery lips, but with no great roaring laughter coming from our throats."

"Think of the times when we love to hear the Moon tell us beautiful stories and when we like to smile at the stars and send them up our kisses by Mr. Wind and the Sky Messengers."

"Think of the times when we like to hear your stories and when we like to stay so quiet and dream away many a sunny day."

"Oh, yes," said Mother Ocean, "there are different kinds of things which you like besides playing. You like stories and sleep and rest and you like, too, to swing in your water hammocks, quite gently, back and forth."

"I'm not in the least worried about the games you play and the rough way you act at times, for after all, the rough Waves are very beautiful, and people love to see a rough ocean once in a while."

"When you are rough you are really lovely, my children, and that can be said of very few people."

"Oh, yes. If creatures can be lovely when they are rough it is all right to be rough, but so few can. That is where the Waves are so smart, so smart."

"And, too, it makes you strong to play with the Storm family. I must always have strong children."

"One cannot think of a weak, sick ocean and feeble waves."

"Of course, when you're resting it is one thing, but when you are playing with the Storm family you want to be able to play well, too."

"I wouldn't want to hear people say that the poor waves couldn't play with the Storm family any more because they were too weak and wretched."

"I wouldn't want that said at all, so when I tell you that I wish to ask you why you are so rough, I do not ask it because I mind it, but because I love your beautiful strength, my Wave children."

"Yes, I admire your wonderful, glorious, perfect strength, and your great, great beauty."

"We are so glad, Mother Ocean. And now you will see our strength this very day, for the Storm family is giving a party and every Wave is invited."

"Good," said Mother Ocean, "I shall roar with delight and laughter too."

"Have a fine time, my children, have a fine time."

Chinese Wear Stoves.

Chinese women wear practically the same clothes in winter as in summer. In the most severe weather, however, they wear heating baskets under their cloaks.

These baskets are plain wicker ones, such as we use for trask. Inside the baskets charcoal warmers are placed. They will radiate heat for hours.

The charcoal is mixed with chemicals that generate oxygen, and thus the charcoal will burn constantly, even though it is sealed in the containers.

COUNTY GRAND JURY SAYS WORK THROTTLED

...for a session of the grand jury is not going to be with, nor will it turn over the...

Text of Report. Grand jury's report, which was by every member, follows: your grand jury, beg leave to...

Grand Jury Throttled. "This grand jury has investigated these matters without any prejudice against any individual or set of individuals. We have tried to go into this matter carefully and conscientiously with a view of settling the guilt upon parties who are actually guilty, but the grand jury has been throttled in its investigations in various and sundry ways.

As to Their Objects. "These people tell us that one of their objects is to aid the officers and duly constituted authorities in enforcing the law, yet our experience has been to the reverse. There are good men and good citizens who belong to this organization, we do not believe can be seriously questioned; but do they control it, and will they continue to control it should it continue to exist?"

Dangerous Doctrines. "We invite your special attention to the contents of document No. 1 of the present Ku Klux organization, which we believe contains some of the most dangerous doctrines advocated by the present organization. Some of it, of course, we endorse and every good citizen will indorse, but some of it we can not but do ought to condemn. It is dangerous in the extreme and violates that most sacred principle of free government. We do not believe that any officer of the law whose duty it is to execute the law fairly and impartially alike to every citizen, be he ever so humble, can be true to his oath of office and at the same time be true to the oath of the present Ku Klux Klan organization and its teaching, as is set out in document No. 1.

No List of Witnesses. "In closing our labors we desire to say that this grand jury has been placed to considerable disadvantage in investigating crime because the officers making the arrests did not take a list of witnesses and interview said witnesses at the time of the commis-son of the offense and give the grand jury the benefit of same. "If the officers, both county and city, in the future, will get a complete list of all witnesses to the commission offenses against the laws of the State and be able to give succeeding grand juries the benefit of it much time will be saved and more satisfactory results obtained. "This grand jury desires to express to you our confidence, both as citizens and as grand jurors, in the able and conscientious manner in which you as Judge of the Criminal District Court have attempted to enforce all the criminal laws coming under your jurisdiction. "If the entire judiciary of the State were made up of Judges who were as fearless, conscientious and fair in the discharge of their duties, there would be no crime wave in this State. "We desire furthermore to say that there has not been the slightest suggestion from you as to how we shall proceed and what we shall investigate except that contained in the general charge of the court. We believe that the able stand which you have taken will ultimately bring about order and a thorough respect for the law under which we live."

Notice. The report is being circulated that we fix the charges for handling cotton at the cotton yard. In justice to the weigher and ourselves we wish to say that we have no part in fixing such charges. They are fixed by the public weigher who is elected by the people. FARMERS UNION SUPPLY CO.

USE BRICK. Pave with Vitrified brick, the lowest in cost per year of service. Write to Thurber Brick Co., Ft. Worth, Texas.

Housecleaning Coming. "We learn, from what we think a reliable source, that the Federal Government will soon have a general housecleaning among its servants, that those in the Federal servitude who belong to this organization will have to disassociate themselves from the organization or quit the Federal service. We believe this is sound and recommend it to the people of Travis County and the city of Austin for their careful consideration. United, our people can be a great force in the State of Texas, but divided we surely must fall."

The grand jury presented the following special report showing the occupation and religious affiliation of each member: "The personnel of this grand jury has been attacked so frequently that we deem it necessary that the uninformed be given the real facts as to the religious inclinations of this grand jury. It has been charged in Ku Klux papers and by representatives of the Ku Klux organization that you have hand-picked this grand jury and that the entire grand jury is made up of members of the Knights of Columbus, etc., all being Catholic, and so intensely so that the Ku Klux organization could not get justice while the present grand jury was in session. A poll of this grand jury shows the following facts: "D. A. Gregg, foreman, not a member of any church, but raised a Baptist and a Protestant in belief. "Morris Mirschfeld, Jew, a banker by profession, and a member of the Jewish congregation of Austin. "J. R. Donnelly, wholesale dealer in plumbing supplies and contractor, not a member of any church. "John McNamara, manufacturer and wholesaler, a Catholic. "W. E. Ferguson, farmer, not a member of any church, but a Protestant in belief. "C. E. Johnson, farmer and a Protestant and a Baptist. "E. J. Palm, wholesale and retail jeweler, and Episcopalian. "William Pfenning Jr., farmer and belong to the Lutheran Church. "Glenn Munson, farmer and a Methodist. "Will Nehring, farmer, and a member of the Lutheran Church. "Monroe Thorpe, farmer and Protestant, a Baptist in belief. "Ed Robinson, wholesale grain dealer and Episcopalian. "This grand jury has not permitted its religious inclinations or belief to influence it in the least, neither have we permitted prejudice to govern us in ferretting out crimes that were brought to our attention. We have been guided solely by one object and that was to carefully and conscientiously discharge our duty as we understood it under the law.

Whitecapping Charges. This grand jury has also investigated as far as it could the 'white-capping charges wherein a certain white man was tarred and feathered and whipped and two negroes were given like treatment. Also this grand jury has had brought to its attention some twenty or twenty-five letters that were written by the Ku Klux organization to various and sundry citizens of this town, admonishing them to mend their ways and threatening them with violence if they did not do so, and in some instances notifying the parties that they must leave town, etc.

Turmoil and Strife. "More than 5,000 boys and girls are sent here from every county in Texas and from nearly every town in the State to be educated; the seat of Government is here, with all its ramifications; many of the eleemosynary institutions are here with their representatives. "The people of the State do not want to send their children, their boys and girls and young men, to a town that is torn asunder by factional strife that is liable to involve some of them in one side or the other, and if the organization continues its activities we can not see anything in store for this splendid community except turmoil and strife, dividing the town into factions, injuring it commercially, social and political standpoint, and we sincerely hope that those who have the interests of the town and community at heart will immediately take steps to end this factional strife. "We find in our investigations that representatives of the State Government have become involved in this organization. This, we think, is unfair to the great mass of citizenship of the State. This grand jury does not want to go on record as saying that a man loses his individuality and his right to think for himself when he becomes a part and parcel of the State Government, but we do say that where a man is a representative of all the people he has no right to attach himself to any organization that has for its object the enforcement of law other than through the duly constituted authorities.

Secret Report Filed. We find that it is necessary that grand jury file a secret report the reason that certain secrets the grand jury can not be disclosed at this time by reason of the fact that we are unable to complete cases which have come under our jurisdiction. We are filing this report as unfinished work so the next grand jury may take up the work where we have left off and finish the same. We are also filing with this court secret report of the last grand jury containing matters that they were unable to complete and which grand jury has likewise been unable to complete up to the time of its adjournment. This grand jury had brought to attention a murder committed at near or near the entrance of what is commonly reported to be the Ku Klux Klan hall on San Jacinto street. Grand jury has examined a great number of witnesses, but has not been able to return bills of indictment against all parties who we think were connected with the killing for the reason that we have not gotten all the money. Hence we are passing the entire case to the next grand jury in order that they may take up the case where we have left off and finish the same.

Believes Others Concerned. When we began our investigation we found some seventeen or eighteen prominent citizens of this town connected with this crime, along with others. The grand jury has been unable to believe that many of those connected with this crime, had any connection with it whatever, or had any knowledge of it prior to the commission of the offense or subsequent to that would make them in any way guilty of this crime; but we have been able to get sufficient evidence to bring even all of those who we believe are connected with this offense into court for trial. That there are others connected with this offense than those against whom complaints have been filed is the belief of this grand jury. Whether they have any connection with it by and through the Ku Klux organization we are unable to determine. The chief witness for the State connects some of the parties connected with the crime avails himself of his so-called constitutional privileges and refuses to state whether he is a member of the Ku Klux organization or not. His testimony before the grand jury has been contradicted by quite a number of witnesses. Hence the State is unable to get a direct confession from any party or parties with this offense other than admissions supposed to have been made by some of those connected with the offense. We are passing this case to the next grand jury and desire to offer the following suggestion: That this case be taken up first when the next grand jury convenes before the adjournment of the present grand jury in order that it may be completed before the next term of court.

We are glad to have Carl back again; he is fine young man and well liked by everyone. J. L. Darby is improving his farm home near town, and when completed this will be a very beautiful home. Work has started on the new garage where the old Huddleston garage was. The new managers have taken charge and will be ready for business at once. MOORE, Pastor.

First Baptist Church.

A great revival at the Baptist Church. Are you attending this meeting, if not, why not? You are not only invited to come, but that you come and bring some one with you. This is one of the greatest meetings ever held in Memphis, Christ and the way of Salvation is being made plain. Rev. Chas. T. Whaley, Pastor, is doing the preaching, assisted by Mr. W. W. Grafton of the Southwestern Theological Seminary. Both of these men are God's called, and if you miss hearing them you will not only miss a chance of hearing the Gospel preached and sung, but you will miss a great spiritual blessing. You can not help from getting good out of these services if you will come. If there is any one whom you are interested in and would like to see them saved you are urged to get in touch with some of the workers of this meeting and they will only be too glad to make a personal effort to see them and talk with them. We have several prayer-meetings going on daily and they report wonderful results. We have been wonderfully blessed in these few days that the meeting has been going on. Up to Wednesday night there has been eleven professions, and a number of others have expressed their desire to unite themselves with Christ and the great kingdom work. Let every one pray for this meeting, and work for the great cause in which God is the predominating factor. The song services start at 7:45 promptly by W. W. Grafton, a most loveable young man with a spirit-filled life who's singing will bring to you a great blessing. Come and come praying. CHAS. T. WHALEY, Pastor.

First Presbyterian Church.

On account of the pastor's absence from the prayer meeting service last week, his assistant conducted the meeting. With the help of others, a profitable time was had. Weather conditions do not interfere with some church people. They are too intent on worship and service. Sometimes God seems most potently present when only the self-sacrificers are gathered. Thomas who missed the meeting never regained what he missed. Next Sunday's schedule: 9:45, a. m., Sunday school. Every one is urged to be present. The lesson will be exceedingly interesting. 11:00, a. m., sermon by the pastor. Theme: "John the In-Man." Overflow service. On account of the revival meeting at the Baptist church, the overflow service will be held in the Christian church, and the pastor of the Methodist church, Dr. Moore, will preach the sermon. The Junior and Intermediate C. E. Societies will meet at 6:00, p. m. Prayer meeting next Wednesday, 7:45, p. m. Keep in mind the revival services which are to begin in this church soon. Preparatory services will begin with the last Sunday in May. These will be conducted by the pastor and his elders. Evangelist Law and his singer will arrive on June 3. EUGENE B. KUNTZ, D. D., Pastor.

The magnitude of the insurance business in the United States is almost beyond comprehension. An authority says there are 2,368 companies including mutual associations, and 583 fraternal doing business of which there are 823 life, 1,481 fire, 338 casualty, and more than 1,700 farm county farm fire organizations. Although there are more than 6,000 different organizations furnishing insurance. Licensed agents make an army of 604,591 individuals, not including solicitors of large agencies who are not listed. Canada has settled 27,000 Canadian ex-soldiers on farm land and has lent $85,000,000 to these men. The full purchase price of the land and up to 3,000 for buildings, equipment and stock has been advanced to each. Only seven per cent of the men thus aided have abandoned their property and last year's crops from soldier lands were valued at 105,000,000. Forty-five per cent of the population in the United States inhabit 11 per cent of the area of the United States. Nitric acid can be made by the oxidation of ammonia with the aid of ozonized air.

DAVIDSON GIVES KU KLUX VIEWS

Candidate Cites Old East Texas Case and States Reasons For Position.

Marshall, Texas, April 28.—In reply to an inquiry from a committee composed of A. B. Martin, W. A. Nash and J. W. Jordan of Plainview relative to his position on the Ku Klux Klan, T. W. Davidson of this city, candidate for Lieutenant Governor, has written the committee as follows:

"Gentlemen: I have your communication of some days since, in which you ask me to state my position on the Ku Klux Klan. In reply, let me say that I am unalterably opposed to the Klan, or any other organization attempting to take the administration of the law into its own hands, and if it persists in whipping and tar and feather parties, it will either destroy itself or overthrow the law of the land."

"In my announcement for the office of Lieutenant Governor, I thought I left no opportunity for any man to misunderstand my position. I announced unqualifiedly in favor of law enforcement through the courtroom, and according to the Constitution and written statutes as the only means of safeguarding our free American institutions."

"Any attempt, however sincere and honorable in its purposes, to administer punishment and enforce the law except through the machinery of the courtroom will bring destruction upon its adherents, and grief to our State."

Reasons Cited.
"It deprives a man of a right to be heard in his own defense."
"It deprives him on rumor and hearsay, and denies him a trial by jury."
"Greater than all this is the final and ultimate danger of substituting and ultimately annulling the written law of the land, and bringing about anarchy and feuds upon feuds, which means utter destruction to the peace and tranquility of organized society. Every good man who has aligned himself with the Klan should urge upon it an immediate abandonment of any attempt at law enforcement except through the courts as created by the Constitution and provided for by written law."

"The idea of enforcing the law by short cuts through vigilante committees, organized mobs and regulators is not a new one. It existed in the mountains of North Carolina before the Revolutionary War. It again sprang up on the frontiers of the country in Western Missouri and Arkansas, and in East Texas in the early '40s. It is the usual outgrowth of the delay of the law, and the impatience of the laity with orderly procedure, and a failure to understand that such delays are in many instances occasioned by those constitutional guarantees that have protected the citizens against tyranny and arbitrary action by those in authority."

Old East Texas Case.
"In the early '40s there was organized in East Texas a band of citizens known as the Regulators ostensibly to stop thievery in slaves, land certificates and other forms of property. This organization drew into its folds many of the best citizens of the country, even the ministry to a very large degree, but they undertook to enforce the law outside of the courtroom."

"The case of Charles W. Jackson was transferred from Shelby County to the District Court of Harrison County. An armed mob assembled, who proved friends of the prisoner. The Judge on the bench adjourned court and left town, and was shortly afterwards shot. The alleged murderer organized the crowd into a mass meeting, took charge of the court and issued order for the arrest of the Chief Justice of the adjoining court of Panola, and had him deported to the State of Louisiana."

gram can long survive without throwing the country into chaos, or overthrowing the Government. The Ku Klux Klan must either abandon its attempt to enforce the law outside of the courtroom or else find itself arrayed against every man and every court in the State of Texas who tries to maintain the law of the land."

Respectfully yours,
"T. W. DAVIDSON."

SAYS WILSON, HOUSTON AND BARUCH FORCED DOWN COTTON PRICES

and he offered to post a certified check for $1,000 against a similar check to be put up by The News, the money to be given to the local public library if he could not establish to the satisfaction of a committee of any three persons named by The News that those men did conspire together in the spring of 1919, and did bring about a sudden drop in the price of cotton.

"To be perfectly frank with you," he declared, "I have documentary proof, and it would be like taking The News to a slaughter house, and yet they have steadily denied my statements."

Mr. Senter said he has despaired of ever awaking the voting consciences of men, and that henceforth he will spend his time exhorting women to save the government from bad hands.

"If they won't act, then God help the country," he declared.

Previously he had paid a tribute to the discernment of women and of their faithfulness to conscience.

"It looks like the men are incapable for voting," he said; "and that the time will come when only women suffrage should prevail. Women do not cling to the traditions of the past long. Women always are ready to bow to the truth and follow their conscience wherever it leads. That's why women are going to be a potent factor in this coming campaign."

"Any woman who knows what Wilson did to the South," he said, "is a traitor to all of the instincts of womanhood unless she spends the rest of her life fighting the institution Wilson heads. I aim to do it as long as I live."

FORD DISCOVERS NEW PROCESS TO MAKE FERTILIZER

Washington, May 1.—A secret process for making cheaper fertilizers has been discovered and is intended for commercial use at the Government's nitrate plant at Muscle Shoals, Ala. W. B. Mayo, chief engineer for Henry Ford, told the Senate Agricultural Committee, when it began examination today of the Ford Modified proposal for the purchase and lease of the Muscle Shoals properties.

"We believe we can make fertilizers at one-half their present cost of production," Mayo testified, adding that it was Ford's purpose to produce the cheapest soil food possible and exhaust every available source for means to attain that objective.

Hibbits and students, Thelma, Vivian O'Rear, R. D. Sasser, Harry Blair left Wednesday for Austin to take part in the scholastic League Meet held at this Friday and Saturday. Wish them all success in their conference.

Another flag pole was erected Wednesday on the campus. The flag is in memory of the Senior class of '22.

"A Club."

"A Club" had their usual banquets Wednesday and was very much enjoyed by those present.

Honor Roll.

Honor Roll students who were checked last week:

Chapel Notes

Wednesday morning we enjoyed an excellent talk from Reverend W. T. Whaley, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Thursday Supt. Hibbits made a lesson out of the chapel service.

Friday morning Supt. Hibbits read an account of the Home Economics trip to Houston to the State Clothing Contest. She told off on all the girls but failed to tell about herself, almost mashing the gentleman's hat off, on the Pullman.

Tuesday Supt. Hibbits made a short talk.

Wednesday we appreciated having Miss Ruth Baldwin sing two excellent selections accompanied by Miss Margaret Garrot at the piano.

Senior Notes

C. C. C. met with Sallie and Zettie Dennis last Tuesday. Roll call was answered with a quotation on dress. Special discussions were prepared by Miss Bradley, Jo Noll and Autie Anthony. Katherine Reid entertained and refreshments this evening. Refreshments and piano selections. After games and refreshments the club adjourned to meet with Miss Mildred Harrell next.

The characters for the Senior play to be given commencement week, have been selected for the different parts and the Seniors are hard at work on their parts. Mr. Hibbits and Mrs. Wells have the play in charge and it gives promise of being a great success.

The honor graduates has now been assigned their respective places. The averages were the lowest in the history of this school, probably largely due to the fact that all four years grades were counted. The honor graduates are as follows:

- Clara Pysatt first, average 88, which makes her Valldictorian.
- Mildred Harrell second, average 87 1-6, giving her class Salutatory.
- Raymond Thomason third, average 86 5-6, giving him class prophesy.
- Autie Anthony fourth, average 86 2-3, giving her class will.
- Kennon Hillyer on account of his ability was chosen by the Senior class as class poet.

Athletics.

The return game of Quana High which was to be played here Saturday, was postponed as Quana could not get here on account of the condition of the roads. This game will be played at a later date. After finding out that Quana was not coming an effort was made to match another game and finally we succeeded in doing so with Eli. Eli furnished a snappy game making it interesting throughout. Despite the fact that our boys were playing against student teachers and outsiders, they were victorious in the final score of one to nothing. Less errors were made on both sides than in any game in which we have played this season. The locals will go to Hedley Friday and to Clarendon Saturday to play return games. We hope them the best of luck.

Misses Moses, Kennedy, Gillis Harrell and Ownby have returned from Houston where they have been attending the State Clothing Contest. These representatives report that the contest was the largest and best of its kind ever held in the State. Sixty-five high schools with over three hundred representatives were in attendance competing for the State awards. A general exhibit of class work was displayed by each school and awards given. Awards were also given to garments featured by the girls.

Memphis High School girls won the second award on their general exhibit and also won two other feature awards on garments made by Mildred Harrell and Della Guber. The school winning first place on the general exhibit did not win any of the feature awards. This would have given Memphis first place if a general average of awards had been given.

Of all the State awards the Panhandle High Schools won exactly one-third of them.

The representatives were entertained in the homes of the Houston High School girls; were given drives over the city, a boat trip to the San Jacinto battle grounds by the Chamber of Commerce and spent one afternoon at the beach in Galveston. The contest is to be held in Fort Worth next year and we hope to make the trip and win the very highest honors.

The Native, Ayrith

By CALVIN HENDRICKS

"I do not think much of your choice, Blanche."
 "Do you mean of home or of husband, Marcey?"
 "Both. Walter is certainly as much in love with you as when he married you, but I would resent a husband bringing me to this unendurable desolate spot—no society, no comfort, no future, nothing but wallowing natives and a hot, blistering sun."
 "Yet we hope for a future, sister dear," said Blanche in her cheery, optimistic way.

Very humble, indeed, was the present position of young Walter Burton. He had been an under clerk in the employ of the government. A congressman took a liking to him and had secured for him his present position as consul at Belton, an obscure city in India. Just married, he and his wife had been there now for about half a year. Mrs. Marcia Burnham, the widowed sister of Blanche, was visiting them.

"I pity you, Blanche," she now said, glancing sourly at the flat, uninteresting expanse of low habitations and treeless plains before her. "I have certainly outdistanced you, older though I am. Next month, as you know, I am to marry Count Tolfert. They say he is very rich."
 "For mercy's sake here!" shouted Marcia, sharply, staring down the road. "There is that philanthropic husband of yours with a new pensioner in tow, I fancy."

"Walter, how can you interest yourself in these ignorant, worthless people?" chided Marcia. "Your clothing is covered with dust from contact with that fellow."
 "A poor fellow, indeed," replied Walter, pityingly. "You will not wonder at his condition when I tell you that I found him lying by the wayside, creeping on hands and knees, bound for Calcutta."

"Why did he do it?" inquired the widow, with indifferent curiosity.
 "As a penalty. He was starving and stole a measure of meal. The law put him at a year of hard labor. The priest of his sect fined him twenty taels, or the horrible ordeal he was undergoing."
 "And you paid his fine, I infer?" spoke Marcia, contemptuously.
 "I could not resist doing it," replied Walter.

The widow left them a few days later to meet her affianced husband at Naples. The native, Ayrith, whom Walter had taken under his protecting wing, became domesticated as a grateful, loyal servant.

Walter was a good deal surprised to find how useful Ayrith became to him as the weeks passed on. Most of the consular functions consisted in passing upon export duties and the standing of business houses in the district. It was remarkable how well Ayrith was posted on these details. One day he came to Walter, evidently full of some subject that interested him greatly, for a half suppressed excitement was visible in his manner.
 "Sahib," he said, "I learn."
 "Learn what, Ayrith?" inquired Walter in his kindly way.

"The guilds—those who export the wicker, the bamboo, the beads, the tinseles. They laughed at your country—the great land I love because you are one of there. They boast to pay but little duties, because they say 'material raw' and 'goods fancy' when it is really 'fabrics.'"
 "That night the consul went over his tariff files. He made an important discovery.

Walter fully reported his discovery and opinions to the authorities at Washington. Just two months later he came into the house with a fluttering strip of paper in his hand.
 "Look, Blanche," he said buoyantly.
 "Our ship has come in!"
 "Your discoveries will lead to a change of classification," the official letter read, "that will increase import duties over $2,000,000 a year. You are transferred as consul general to Singapore at four thousand dollars per annum."

It was under widely changed residential conditions that Mrs. Burnham dropped in upon them unexpectedly a few weeks later. The Burtons occupied a beautiful bungalow, set in the midst of a lovely garden.
 "How superb!" pronounced the capricious Marcia. "I would be content to live in this earthly Paradise forever."
 "You will be surely welcomed as a permanent guest," declared Walter, chivalrously. "But how about the count?"

"A count of no account," reported Marcia with a wry face. "Luckily I found it out in time. And your servants—how different to those at that half-civilized settlement. The man who carried in my traps was quite dignified."
 "You do not recognize him?" inquired Blanche with a quizzical smile.
 "Why, no," replied her sister with a puzzled air.
 "He is Ayrith."
 "You mean the man whom you resented from that horrible pensioner at the old post?"

"The same. Through him, my dear Marcia," declared the young consul, "all our good fortune seems to have started with a bound. A little seed of kindness—"
 "And lo! the beautiful full-blown flower!" cried the happy Blanche, her outspread arms expressing the luxury of the joy, the comfort, the rare love with which heaven had blessed her.

GOVERNOR ANSWERS SECOND SUMMONS OF GRAND JURY

Is Questioned About Asher Pardon. Asher Guilty But Pardoned Because An Officer.

Amarillo, May 1.—Governor Neff at 6 o'clock this afternoon went before the Potter County grand jury. He was asked by the grand jurors why he had granted a pardon to John Asher who was sent to the penitentiary for killing a man near Claude, in Donley County. The pardon was granted last Fall, according to Governor Neff. He informed the grand jurors that it was none of their business why he had granted the pardon.

"I told them I would grant a pardon to whom I pleased and when I pleased, providing the reason was sufficient to suit myself," said Neff. "However, I told them I would tell why I had granted the Asher pardon, but not because I had to. I told the grand jury that I pardoned him not because he was innocent; but because he was an officer and had gotten mixed with the man he had killed, through no fault of his own. Neff was served with a grand jury subpoena Sunday and asked to appear before the probers Monday morning at 9 o'clock, but went to Canyon instead. As he was leaving Canyon another officer from Amarillo arrived there and served the second summons on him. Neff then stopped at the courthouse as soon as he got back to Amarillo. Neff said he did not know why the Potter County grand jury was investigating the granting of a pardon to the man from Claude.

Society Woman Caught Stealing In A Dep't Store

What constitutes one of the finest pieces of scandal for gossips was revealed yesterday when Bertha Dunlap, wife of Craig Dunlap, brilliant young attorney, was caught stealing in a local department store.

With haughty glances and fiery scorn she heatedly denied taking the articles of which she was accused. She was saved the disgrace of being locked up on the prompt appearance of her husband, who gave bail for her release. She left the store vowing vengeance on those who had caused her the "annoyance" as she stated. It seems as though Mrs. Dunlap was detected in the act of secreting a valuable hand bag, in her own bag, by a girl at the wrapping desk at the local store. The case comes up for trial on Monday and Tuesday at the Majestic Theatre, where "What No Man Knows" will be the feature attraction starring Clara Kimball Young, and great cast.

The Democrat has over fifty names in its political columns, which is at least a dozen more than appears in the announcement column of any other paper in this section. We consider this a good advertisement for the paper as an advertising medium and call attention to the matter for that reason. The candidate is usually a pretty canny individual and is likely to spend his money where he thinks it will do him the most good.

France loaned the Russian monarchist government money to be used to fight the revolutionists. Now she insists that the revolutionists, who were successful and now control Russia, repay the money loaned to be used against them. The Russians offer to pay the debts contracted by the former government for use against the Germans, and for other purposes, but refuse to pay that used against them. France may succeed in bringing about another war but she will hardly collect this debt.

A candidate for the United States Senate speaks here tonight, Mr. Mayfield. On Monday night Mr. Ousley, a candidate for the same office, will speak here and on Tuesday night Mr. Thomas, also in the same race will speak. We hope that each will have a good audience and a respectful hearing and that the other candidates who may come will be shown the same courtesy. This office is the highest within the gift of the people of any state. A senator is elected for a longer term than any other official and it is important that the voters choose intelligently. Hear them.

Two grand juries, whose reports are published in this issue, agree in their conclusions regarding the ku klux, whose activities they have tried to investigate. One, at Houston, makes the following statement:

"The average kluxer has come before this grand jury manifesting intense anxiety and nervousness, and apparently wholly lacking in both the courage and truthfulness necessary to admit his connection with the klan."

The other jury, at Austin, after saying that its efforts to investigate a murder have been hampered and throttled and after comparing the present ku klux klan with the original, from which it takes its name, says: "It is dangerous in the extreme and violates that most sacred principle of free government. We do not believe that any officer of the law whose duty it is to execute the law fairly and impartially alike to every citizen, be he ever so humble, can be true to his oath of office and at the same time be true to the oath of the present Ku Klux Klan organization and its teaching."

These conclusions, which are similar to those of every other grand jury where an honest effort has been made to investigate this organization, by representative, and probably unprejudiced, men, who have the power to administer oaths and require answers, are strong indictments. These, with the knowledge of illegal acts which are known to have been committed by the klan in many localities, and in this community, should convince any thinking man who has the good of his country at heart, that there can be both an "invisible empire," and a government of freedom and democracy at the same time and place.

Governor Neff, if he is correctly quoted, certainly made a surprising statement when he came from the grand jury room Monday. He is reported to have said:

"I told them I would grant a pardon to whom I pleased and when I pleased, providing the reason was sufficient to suit myself," said Neff. "However, I told them I would tell why I had granted the Asher pardon, but not because I had to. I told the grand jury that I pardoned him not because he was innocent, but because he was an officer and had gotten mixed with the man he had killed, through no fault of his own."

In the first place one of the pledges any witness before a grand jury is supposed to take is not to disclose anything that takes place in the grand jury room. But the really surprising part is the statement of his reasons for pardoning Asher, the ex-ranger. It would seem, to the layman, that, if there should be any difference, an officer who commits a crime should have less sympathy than another who is not under the officer's added obligation to uphold the law. It has been stated as a fact that the district judge, the district attorney, the jurors and many prominent citizens of Clarendon, where Asher was tried, strenuously protested to the Governor against his action in granting this pardon. That the granting of a pardon to a convicted criminal, whose guilt is not questioned, is "none of the business" of the citizens of the community where the crime is committed is a Neff doctrine that few others will accept. That the board of pardons, dismissed by Neff, would never have recommended this pardon is almost certain.

GOVERNOR IGNORES SUMMONS OF POTTER COUNTY GRAND JURY

Governor Neff failed to appear before the grand jury of Potter County Monday morning, in answer to a subpoena served Sunday.

The Subpoena for the Governor was issued Saturday, but was not served until Sunday morning. He made two speeches in Amarillo Sunday and left early Monday morning for Canyon to visit the West Texas State Normal.

The nature of the matter upon which the grand jury desires to interrogate the Governor is not known.

No expression was obtained from the Governor concerning the summons.

The Census Bureau reports the value of all American farm products raised in 1919 was $21,425,623,614. The income of all Americans combined in the same year was $65,900,000,000, or over three times the farmers' income. The farmer, for actually producing everything that feeds and clothes us, got only a third of the pie! Out of each $3 farmer gets $1, a city man, $2.—Cappers Weekly.

"Balaam, the prophet, was the first advertiser mentioned in 'sacred history. He was a professional sooth-slayer of remarkable ability. The good Dr. Abbott says 'prophecy was to him a mere business,' and 'he loved the wages of unrighteousness.'" He said, it is recorded in Numbers, 'Come, I will advertise thee what this people shall do to thy people in the latter days.'"

"The second and only other time the word advertise is used in the Bible was when Boaz, the second husband of Ruth, said, 'and I thought to advertise thee, saying, Buy it'—in reference to a parcel of land. To advertise means 'to call attention to,' and is now used almost altogether in a business sense—that is, in buying and selling. Almost all advertising is for profit, and the newspapers are full of it in their news as well as business columns.—Chicago Journal of Commerce.

The so-called "materialism" of the age is caused mostly by a lack of materials, not by a deluge of them. When people are sure of enough of what they need, they cease to think about it; it is the uncertainty that chains their minds to the one point of anxiety. The cure for "materialism" is more materials—enough for everybody and to spare. When matter is the servant there is no danger; and matter becomes master only when we cannot control enough of it to meet our needs. The man who has nothing is more of a "materialist" than the man who has enough; the latter's mind is emancipated by a sufficient supply. Much loose thought upon this question can be checked by plain everyday common sense.—Henry Ford.

The famous Commoner, if elected to that body, would help to purify the Senate. Not in mind, God knows, low as the Senate level is. The intellect that is now removing Charles Darwin from human progress may grapple next with Newton or Copernicus. It is the audacity of complete innocence.

At a dinner of four, Mr. Balfour asked Theodore Roosevelt his opinion of Mr. Bryan. The Colonel showed his teeth, spaced his words, and raised his fist. "Bryan," he snapped, "has a brain of three guinea-pig power. And when I say three—" here he brought his fist down on the table—"I exaggerate!"

But intellect is not the whole of life. Character is much. Instinct is much. A body with such cynicism as the Senate exhibited when it seated Newberry needs some of Bryan's simple goodness.—Heart's Magazine.
