Not a long while ago a bill was introduced in the state legislature which provided that all people who drive cars must have a driver's license, but the bill was killed in the lower house. If any one has ever stopped to consider this subject carefully, I believe they will come to the conclusion that a bill of this nature should be passed. Accidents often occur which are caused by some car driver not signaling to the car behind him properly. Many people who drive cars never make any signal whatsoever to the car behind them when they start to make a left hand turn, a right hand turn, or in slowing down.

The provisions of the bill were designed primarily to obtain state revenue. The people of Texas have enough taxes on their shoulders, and should not have others added to the load. Every car driver, the bill stated, must pay a fee to obtain the license. Why can't we have a law, as California has, concerning driving licenses? They have no fee, but every car driver must have a driver's license. If the driver makes a mistake in driving, or violates some traffic regulation that he has been told about a number of times, his driver's license may be revoked or he may be suspended from driving a car over a period of time. This would cause many people to drive more cautiously in Texas and many accidents which are avoidable could be remedied, if such were in effect here.

should be placed at the end of the pavement to warn the approaching car. The turn is so abrupt that a car coming at a fast rate of speed is unable to make it. Many times the driver does not notice the curve signal placed on the pavement by the highway department. If some sort of lighted device was placed about 200 feet from the curve, the drivers would be on the alert and accidents would be prevented.

career or profession although I recognize its value and believe in it thoroughly.

My caller asked me what percentage of the Rotary club would be interested in taking a course of seven lectures in public speaking. I started to tell him about one-tenth of one percent, but I modified my mental estimate by saying, "I have no idea." He asked about business men in general here in Memphis and I told him I did not think the public speaking idea would bear much fruit in Memphis this summer, as people were trying too hard along other lines.

We must have talked for thirty minutes, or longer. I wanted to tell my caller that regardless of the fact that he had organized public speaking classes at Wichita Falls, Vernon and Childress, throughout northwest Texas and elsewhere, and even though he had been in Texas for three years, and was eminently qualified to teach public speaking as public speaking was never taught before. I did not think he could get a class of 25 people here interested in a course this summer, unless he paid them to take it.

However, I didn't say anything like that. He told me he would come back and give me an opportunity to join later if he secured the class. I informed him I didn't think it would be necessary. It hasn't been. "This is all I have to do," he said. "What a break!"

Lights o' Los Angeles

By Earl C. Johnson

(Editor's Note: "Light's o' Los Angeles," news and terse comments about Los Angeles and Hollywood—pungent paragraphs from the Pacific—will appear in The Democrat at intervals. The column is written by Earl C. Johnson, former editor of The Hall County Herald, who is well known to Memphis people.)

Mayor Porter, who recently brought Los Angeles so much publicity, mostly unfavorable, when he refused to drink a toast to something or somebody at Paris recently, the other day pulled another classic "boner." The National Educational Society, composed of educators from all over the country, met in Los Angeles for their annual convention. Of course, the opening session featured an address of welcome by Mayor Porter, as is customary at such affairs. The hour for the opening arrived, but the mayor was missing. Holding the convening of the meeting for some time, those in charge hoped his honor would show up, but in vain, and the session had to be opened without the mayor's speech. The evening editions of the papers contained an apology from his honor, pleading that he had forgotten the engagement. And what a hit that made with the hundreds of teachers in the city for the big convention.

And while we're on the subject of teachers and their conventions, quite a sensation was caused during the NEA convention when a Los Angeles lady teacher in the public schools, in an address before the assembled delegates, admitted that for the past ten years she had been teaching communism, or what amounted to the "red" doctrine, to her pupils. She made no apologies about the matter, and seemed to feel that it was most commonplace.

The fellow who wants to know "what's in a name" might be interested to know that we have noted recently the signs of two dentists in Los Angeles: "Dr. Brown" and "Dr. Gamma." We're not inclined to believe everything we read, but we'd hesitate before we asked the first named doctor to operate on our molars.

Another Hollywood romance has gone on the rocks. Loretta Young is suing Grant Withers for divorce. Over the protests of her parents, they eloped seven days less than a year before the divorce action was filed, chartering an airplane to Nevada, where they were married. Now Miss Young claims Grant failed to provide her with the "common necessities of life." He probably failed to buy her more than a half a dozen fur coats and three automobiles a season.

Los Angeles police are very busy now suppressing a threatening "crime wave." Two arrests have been made for gambling within the past week, in both cases the offenders being desperate characters who were willing away the time with "henry ante." The first case resulted in the arrest of six middle-aged women who were shuffling the pasteboards in the privacy of a home. The second was the apprehension of a half dozen folks, including wives and daughters, who were indulging in a little game at a reception given by the Macabees in their lodge room. Of course, the

SWEET POTATOES RANK 7TH AMONG TEXAS FARM CROPS

Although the fact is not generally known, sweet potatoes rank seventh among Texas agricultural crops in value, according to E. T. Crozier, inspector in the state department on agriculture, in a summary of the work done by the state in developing and protecting this industry.

In 1930 there were 109,000 acres of Texas lands planted to the yam, yielding growers $7,248,000. This sum was greater than the total value of spinach and cabbage crops; the total returns on the fruit crop, including citrus, and more than the value of the combined watermelon, cantaloupe and cucumber crops.

Despite the large production of yams in Texas, the five principal cities of the state—San Antonio, Dallas, Fort Worth, El Paso and Houston—imported more than 500 carloads from other states, indicating that the Texas market alone has not been exhausted.

It was a mistake, Crozier said, for growers to increase production without increases in curing facilities, since the cured potato is far superior to the newly-dug yam in flavor, sugar content and keeping qualities.

Potential Eastern markets for the Texas potato have been hardly scratched, he said, the section east of the Mississippi and north of the Porto Rican yam grown in Texas, but to the fact that the yam is not widely advertised in only to the comparative news of the east.

Car Owners Bought More Firestone TIRES

During April, May and June . . . than in any like period in History

THERE are reasons for this—Firestone is now building the Greatest Tire Values in history, with the result that Firestone factories are operating 24 hours a day, 6 days a week, to meet public preference.

This is the year everybody is scrutinizing his purchases. This is particularly true in tire buying because of the many confusing and misleading statements made about tires.

To give car owners the facts, Firestone published comparisons showing quality, construction and prices. Then the public came in—made their own comparisons with cross-sections cut from Firestone tires—and from special brand mail order tires and others.

When they saw the facts, they bought more Firestone tires during April, May and June than in any like period in Firestone history.

Drive in today and let us show you these Firestone Extra Values and have your car equipped for Safe, Trouble-Free Summer Motoring. We can save you money and serve you better.

MEXICO DEMANDS JUSTICE

THE Mexican Government has requested its ambassador at Washington, Manuel Telles, to ask the State Department for a report on the United States Government investigation into the shooting at Ardmore, Oklahoma, June 8, of two Mexican students, one a nephew of President Ortiz Rubio. It was further announced that President Rubio has ordered his two sons, who have been students in the United States, to proceed to Canada to finish their education.

Mexico has a perfect right to inquire further into the murders of two youthful citizens of that republic. The United States would lose no time when a similar situation arises, as it does frequently. Not only that, but our Government is prone to request a cash indemnity. If Mexico follows the same tactics, the United States should be willing to pay off without further ado.

Although Deputy Sheriff W. E. Guess, of Ardmore, was acquitted in connection with the slayings, we do not feel that justice has been done. We believe the Mexican President is justified in ordering his sons to finish their education in a country other than the United States. In view of what has transpired, he has every reason for feeling that their lives are not safe while attending school in this country.

Other reports from the Southern Republic would indicate that the parents of the murdered youths will demand an indemnity from the state of Oklahoma. It is nothing but fitting that some restitution be made for what appears to be murder in cold blood. Until the rights of Mexicans are respected, along with those of other peoples, the United States will continually face similar occurrences which add nothing to our prestige nationally or internationally, but rather, bring the stigma of disrepute upon us which will become increasingly hard to dissipate.

THE STANDARD MILK ORDINANCE

THE city council failed to pass the standard milk ordinance when it was brought up at the meeting Tuesday night of last week. The ordinance is a long one and would have entailed a considerable outlay of funds to have had it published. On the other hand, it would have made a standardization of milk possible in this city, which seemingly cannot be achieved without the passage of an ordinance.

The need for the passage of this ordinance or a similar one was made apparent by representatives of the State Department of Health while visiting the city recently. If any considerable number of local citizens could have heard the report they made of local conditions as it affects milk, we believe sufficient pressure would have been brought to bear to have had the ordinance passed. Which is more important—a saving of a few dollars on the publication cost of a lengthy ordinance or the saving of lives? The people of Memphis will have to make their own decision.

THE FOURTH TAKES ITS TOLL

IT is often the case that we see the admonition given, calling for a "safe and sane" fourth. The fourth of July this year took an unusually heavy toll of lives. The Associated Press reports that 270 lives were lost during the celebration of this day which was the 155th birthday of American liberty. Instead of the casualties decreasing from year to year, it would appear from this most recent report, that they are on the increase.

What is responsible for this state of affairs? It is due largely to carelessness, or it may be summed up by saying too many people are too eager and ready to "play with fire." Fireworks are no longer responsible for the bulk of the accidents. Lakes and rivers exact the heaviest casualty list. Taking a chance seems to be uppermost in the minds of most of those who are victims at fourth of July celebrations. The holiday seems to make dare-devils of the most prosaic.

If the fourth of July toll continues to mount, we believe the only way to curb the many disasters is to stop celebrating the day. If work is allowed to go on as usual without any interruption whatsoever, people will become less intoxicated with the spirit of the day and accidents will correspondingly fall off. We have about reached the conclusion, for the good of all concerned, that the safest and sanest way of celebrating the fourth of July is to forget about it.

THE OPEN SEASON FOR AVIATORS IS ON

ANOTHER summer means another try at trans-Atlantic or trans-Pacific honors to those sturdy pilots and navigators who are continually on the lookout for new worlds to conquer. The success that has attended recent efforts to set new records finds full exemplification in the increasingly large number of aviators who are announcing plans of one kind or another to better world records or to do the unusual.

Thus far during the summer, the fatalities have been few. Aviation has again secured a grip upon the imaginations of the many, but if the long distance flights are to be continued, there will be a slip-up and then it will take several years for us to become air-minded again. Wouldn't it be a fine thing if those who wear wings would be satisfied with doing a few things well, without trying to do many things poorly?

EARLY ACTION EXPECTED

EARLY action is expected on the Federal building here. It has been expected now for the past year, but it finally develops that the Treasury Department is almost ready to receive bids on the structure and it should certainly not take the department long to complete its plans. The Democrat has forecasted action on this building for so long that we hesitate to say much concerning it and from here on out will let events take their course.

FARMERS MAY HAVE BALES WRAPPED IN COTTON

Farmers may obtain cotton wrappers for their bales this year without penalizing themselves, as a result of efforts of the Association for the increased Use of Cotton.

J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture and vice president of the national association, reports that cotton mills of the South are "lining up enthusiastically" behind the proposal that they allow seven pounds extra weight to be added to all bales wrapped in standard 100 per cent cotton bagging, the added weight to offset the difference in weight between the jute and cotton bagging. This weight difference has been the principal barrier to the substitution of cotton for jute in making bagging.

The association first presented the matter of the seven pounds allowance to Cason J. Calloway, president of the American Cotton Manufacturing Association. Mr. Calloway not only agreed to make the allowance at mills with which he was connected, but sent a letter to all cotton mills in the South, requesting that they do likewise.

McDonald was informed by Harold C. Booker, Columbia, S. C., secretary of the association, that enough mills have reported their willingness to grant this extra weight to assure success of the plan.

"It is now squarely up to the farmers to demand that their cotton be wrapped in cotton bagging," McDonald said, "and thus use up many thousand bales of cotton this fall which have been helping to depress the market. It is very conservatively estimated that 65,000,000 pounds additional cotton will be consumed if this type of bagging is generally adopted and used. Surely every one in the South can see that this will have its effect on the market."
