Expect Thousands To See Burlington 'Zephyr' Here

Thousand of people from over the entire Memphis Area are expected to be here late Saturday afternoon when the Burlington "Zephyr" makes its memorial visit.

The "West Wind", fastest locomotive in the world as well as the latest development in railroad engineering, has created great interest wherever it has been, and it is an outstanding opportunity for the people of this area to view the stream-lined, stainless steel train.

Here are some facts about the "Zephyr" that will prove of interest to anyone who plans to see the train:

It is America's first Diesel-powered, streamline train. Weighs approximately 100 tons, only a little more than a single standard sleeper or diner.

It is air-conditioned throughout, with temperature thermostatically controlled. Windows sealed and equipped with non-shatter glass.

DAMAGE SUIT IS LATE GETTING TO JURY

Judge's Charges Are
Delayed in $28,000
Case Today

Unavoidable delays in the preparation of the judge's charges to the jury prevented a damage suit in the case of J. J. Kimbrow against the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway company from going to the jury yesterday afternoon, as was originally planned. Changes in the charge to the jury were being made this morning by District Judge A. J. Fires, and after the charge is read, attorneys will give their arguments. Because of the delay, court officials did not expect the case to go to the jury before mid-afternoon today.

The suit filed by the 19-year-old Hall county youth asks for a total of $28,000 damages against the railway company for injuries received by the youth on December 23, 1933. The boy's left foot (Continued on Page 5)

CONSIDERS 4TH EXTRA SESSION

Ferguson Announces Governor
To Decide Definitely in
'Two or Three Days'

AUSTIN, Oct. 3.—James E. Ferguson, speaking for Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson last night, said a decision would be reached "within the next two or three days" on the question of convening the Texas legislature into a fourth special session.

If another session is ordered, it will be convened early next week, he added.

Absence of affirmative statements by legislators of their willingness to reconvene for a constructive session has delayed the governor's decision, Ferguson said. Today, he commented, the governor received "a considerable number of communications from all over the state urging a special session."

Ship Stranded on Rocks; All Safe

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Oct. 3.—The coastwise freight and passenger ship of the McCormick line, Point San Pedro, struck a harbor breakwater near the lighthouse today during a heavy fog and was high on the rocks.

The vessel, inbound from San Diego, messaged she is in no immediate danger and that all aboard are safe. The ship carries 3,000 tons. (Continued on page 5)

CARDS TAKE FIRST GAME

By Associated Press

DETROIT, Oct. 3.—Lashing out with the same viciousness that carried them to the championship of the National League over the New York Giants, the St. Louis Cardinals captured the first game of the World Series over the Detroit Tigers here today, 8 to 3.

The mighty Dizzy Dean hurled eight-hit baseball to hold the American League champions in check, backed by almost impregnable support from the Cardinal fielders.

The National leaguers pounced upon three Detroit pitchers, driving Crowder and Marberry from the mound and finishing against Hogsett. They collected 13 safe hits, including a home run by Medwick in the sixth.

St. Louis opened with a two-run attack in the second inning and were never headed, adding four runs in the sixth to top their performance, until Hogsett stopped them and held them scoreless the rest of the way.

The line score:
ST. LOUIS (NL) 020 014 000—8 13 2
DETROIT (AL) 001 001 010—3 8 5

REDUCE RATES ON FEED AND LIVESTOCK

21 States in Drouth
Area To Receive Benefits

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The Interstate Commerce commission today authorized railroads serving 21 western and southwestern states, including Texas, to reduce rates on feed and livestock in the drouth areas.

The authorization covers counties in the various states which are subject to reduced rates in effect prior to September 1. The rates expired at that time and railroads refused to renew them.

At conferences, however, between the Department of Agriculture officials, Commissioner Clyde Aitchison and railroad officials, an agreement was reached that the rates on feed be reduced until April 13, 1935, and upon livestock until December 31, 1935.

The rates on hay, alfalfa, millet, soya bean hay, and cow pea hay are to be reduced 66 2-3 percent of the hay rate. For other types of feed, the rate will be 50 percent of the hay rate.

The reduced rates are not retroactive.

Rates on livestock to feeding points will be 85 percent of the full livestock rate on any kind of (Continued on page 5)

CONTINUE SEARCH FOR HIT-AND-RUN DRIVER

LAMAR, Colo., Oct. 3.—Police authorities here today are still looking for a hit-and-run driver, believed to have killed L. A. Cottingham, 54 years old, of Memphis, Texas, Saturday morning. The mangled body, found in a roadside ditch, had the right leg broken in three places, the right side smashed, and the left cheek bruised and crushed.

Police on reconstructing the accident, said that he had apparently either been crowded off the highway or gone to sleep and given his truck off the road and was walking on the road when struck.

May Organize Classes For Adult Education

Organization of free adult education classes in Hall county will be considered and temporary plans made tomorrow afternoon when a meeting of everyone interested in taking the courses is called by Mrs. Roy Guthrie, county superintendent. The meeting has been called for two o'clock in the district court room.

The classes are to be provided under the federal government's relief educational plan, offering five courses, four of which are available in Hall county. W. C. Darnell, of Abilene, district supervisor of adult education, was in Memphis yesterday and explained the plan to Mrs. Guthrie.

According to information given by Mr. Darnell, the classes will be open to every adult in the county over 16 years of age, who is not enrolled at any other school. The purpose is to teach the subjects desired by the students, at the (Continued on page 5)

CITY ORDINANCE IS AIMED AT THIEVERY

Regulates Purchases
By Second Hand,
Junk Dealers

Efforts to curb petty thievery in Memphis were made by members of the City Council in regular session last night, with the passage of an ordinance requiring stricter regulation of purchases made by junk dealers and dealers in second-hand goods.

The ordinance provides "police regulation in order that unauthorized and unlawful traffic in junk be controlled and curtailed." According to the ordinance, junk dealers and dealers in second hand goods must keep records of purchases for regular inspection by officers. No purchases are to be made from any minor without the written consent of the parent or guardian, the ordinance provides. Violators of any section of the ordinance are subject to a fine of "not less than $25 nor more than $100."

According to members of the council, much petty thievery by adults as well as children has existed for the past few months. It is believed that many vacant homes have been looted and stolen (Continued on page 5)

LEGION INSTALLS LEADER NOV. 14TH

L. L. Doss To Become
Commander of Charles R.
Simmons Post

L. L. Doss is to be installed as Commander of the Charles R. Simmons Post No. 175 American Legion of Memphis tomorrow night at the regular meeting of the Post at the Legion Hall. Doss is being installed as leader of the post following the resignation of E. H. Whittington, commander-elect, D. J. Morgensen, past commander will be in charge of the meeting.

Other Post officials to be installed tomorrow night are J. M. Tucker, first vice commander, Roy Guthrie, adjutant, C. C. Dodson, service officer, Joe Reheis, treasurer, Russell Clark, historian and D. J. Morgensen, sergeant-at-arms. Two members of the executive committee are also to be installed. They are Joe Ballard and D. C. Messick.

Another feature of Thursday night's meeting is to be an address by the National Commander over a national radio hoop-up. Commander Edward A. Hayes is scheduled to speak at 8:45 next evening. He will make a reply to a recent attack on the National Legion by a well-known magazine editor.

Murder Charge Is Filed on Husband In Woman's Death

BIG SPRING, Oct. 3.—A charge of murder was filed here late yesterday against W. R. Hildreth in connection with the stabbing of his wife, Mrs. Docia Hildreth, at the family home Monday. Hildreth also was stabbed but physicians said he would recover.

A daughter of the couple saw her father leave the home after her mother's screams attracted her attention and found Mrs. Hildreth dying from wounds inflicted with an ice pick. Hildreth was found in a garage a short time later.

New Deal and NRA Are Not New Ideas; Australia Has Had Them for 25 Years

A. W. Revelman, a native of Sydney, Australia, arrived in Memphis Sunday to be employed in the shoe department at Replins. Mr. Revelman was formerly in charge of Horne Brothers shoe store in London, and prior to his work in London, was employed with the Rue De Bataille in Paris. He expressed satisfaction with Memphis and the Memphis section, and stated that he planned to make this his home.

Mr. Revelman spent all of his life in Australia until some eight years ago. His travels during the past few years have taken him to the far corners of the world, including several months stay in India, South America, England, France, Canada and the United States. He came to Texas from

New York city where he has been employed. He first came to America in 1927, when he spent some time in Canada before coming to the United States.

The New Deal and the NRA are not new ideas, Mr. Revelman said. For more than 25 years the Australian government has been regulating working hours and minimum salaries, he said, with the utmost of satisfaction. Australia, he said, is a continent almost as large as the United States, with only six million inhabitants, five million of whom reside in the four principle cities. The people are all white, of Scotch, Irish and English descent, and the country and climate is very similar to the United States, he said.

Mr. Revelman is single and at present is in his home at the Kennedy in Memphis.

CAMPUS CHAFF

BY THE EDITOR

We realize now that the football season for the Memphis Cyclone team has fully begun and is well under way. Although we hated to lose the Childress game, it pleased us very much to see the splendid fighting spirit of the squad and the support which Memphis citizens and local school students furnished last Friday night.

We also have learned that we have a wonderful pep squad this year. We have not only an unusually large pep squad but a willing group of energetic girls, ready to cooperate with their leaders and school officials and to furnish the greatest amount of sideline support which a Cyclone team has been able to receive in a number of years. It is doubtful that there is a better pep squad to be found in this section of Texas. The girls have new uniforms which add to their appearance at games and rallies.

Bobby Clark recently stated that cave men were just her type. During the past week Miss Clark has spent a fair portion of her evenings in the presence of R. E. Martin.

It is with regret that we make known the fact that Jim Bob (Ninnie) Brewer has found a weakness for women. He seems to think that Mary Cosby (Freshman, or Sophomore, it doesn't matter) is one of the fairest of the fair. Mary says that words cannot express her heart's feeling for hand-boys of his type. (He's just another cornet player.)

Speaking of these thataway cases, they tell us that a great number of the senior girls (16 or 17 anyway) are waiting for Harold Foxhall to grow up. Senior boys beware, for Harold has assured us that growth is his only hindrance since he and his junior beauty, have had a slight misunderstanding. (Slight?)

Things that we all know: That several of the junior and senior girls think it entirely essential and necessary that they have a Clarendon boy friend. That Memphis fans are going to see the Cyclone squad trim Estelline on Friday night of this week. That school spirit in Memphis is becoming greater every day.

Seniors Are Given Private Study Hall

Due to the fact that everyone has an appointment with the study hall from 11:30 to 12:00 a. m., it is extremely crowded with no room for the seniors.

It is necessary, of course, that they allow the more important classes, the freshmen, sophomores, and juniors to make use of the study hall. The seniors are forced to meet in an ordinary classroom where they cannot make use of a library.

They consider it, however, a great privilege to meet by themselves and they envied by all other students.

SENIORS LED BY THOMAS KUNKLER

Harold Foxhall To Lead Juniors; Others Named

Memphis High school classes held their first meetings of the year on Wednesday of last week for the purpose of electing officers. The officers elected will serve during the school year and will take up their responsibilities this week. In order to be qualified for a class office, the student must make at least a "B" average in his grades.

Students of the senior class elected for their officers the following: Thomas Kunkler, president; Tomie Frank Jones, vice-president; Bill Alexander, secretary and treasurer. The class also chose red and white for class colors, and the red rose for the class flower. A committee was appointed to bring mottos before the class to be voted upon. The committee is composed of the following: Winifred Prater, chairman; Jack Norman and Lu Sanders.

The junior class elected the following officers: Harold Foxhall, president; Winifred Swift, vice-president; and Dot Dunbar, secretary-treasurer. A meeting will be called in the near future to decide colors, flower, etc., and several committees will be appointed at the same time.

The following were elected as class officers for the sophomore class: Omega Ballew, president; Dorothy Sue Fultz, vice-president; Hattie Dem Ward, secretary-treasurer.

In the freshman class the following students will serve as officers: Berl Springer, president, Kermit Monzingo, vice-president, and Martha Jean Parks, secretary-treasurer.

Home Ec. Classes Are Increased by Added Enrollment

The Home Economics department of the Memphis High school has had a large increase in its enrollment this year. For the school year of 1933-34 there were enrolled in the clothing and foods classes 56 students. This year there are 90 enrolled. This has taxed the first year classes to their capacity and several students have been crowded into each class provided. The second year classes are also full and the third year classes are larger than usual.

Mysterious 'M' Club Renews Secret Activities

The "M" Club has the reputation of being the school's most secret organization. Its members may be identified anywhere by the black and gold emblems which they wear on their coat lapels.

To belong to the club is one of the greatest honors of the school. The club is composed of only football lettermen and boys which are making the best prospects for this season's letters.

At present there are 10 lettermen belonging to the club and three prospective lettermen. The prospects who were initiated into the club last week—Winifred Swift, Norman Deason, and Chester Grimes. It is thought that Dennis Walker may become a member in the near future.

Although the club is entirely secret in its actions, it is understood that some of the initiations were rather severe. The new members, being three of the best and great sports, took their medicine and boast that it is the greatest organization in the world.

Just a Fine o' Type S. E. T.

Having been requested by a well known artist of the Memphis High school to write this column on the supreme art, I will attempt to accomplish the difficult task of carrying on the artist's wishes by using as a topic—LOVE.

No doubt the artists' definition has at last been procured which meets all requirements. It is: Love is an illusion like boiled okra; it slips away so fast you can't catch on to it.

Keeping this explanation in mind, let's consider the different kinds of love. There's the king of love that we have for our cats and dogs and little brothers and sisters. There's the fond devotion that we have toward our old maid school teachers and our favorite little gold fish, Josephine. There's the love that we have for our enemies (you know we're supposed to) when we hear the stadium resound with the cheering for our victory. There's the loyal love that we feel toward our school, our clubs, and our dear old "Hamlet."

But the kind of love that all are familiar with is the kind that started with puppy love back in the grades, growing more complicated until it has become somewhat of an epidemic by the time the High school age was reached. This epidemic seemed to represent quite a problem for parents and teachers who have no doubt forgotten or have retained vague memories of a past when they were not immune to the same disease.

Sees Advantage in Moving Low Grades To Junior School

Due to the change in the local school system the Junior High school now teaches the fifth, sixth, and seventh grades only.

G. W. SMITH IS ELECTED BAND PRESIDENT

Name Harold Foxhall Vice-President of Organization

On Monday, September 24, the Memphis Black and Gold band elected the following officers for the coming year: G. W. Smith, president, Harold Foxhall, vice-president, Thomas Kunkler, secretary-treasurer, Ed Smith business manager, and Berl Springer, librarian of music. Paul Dodson was appointed assistant librarian.

The band resumed practice in the latter part of August and is progressing rapidly, despite the handicap made by the loss of graduating band members last spring. The boys have been working on school songs and football pep music, and they intend to play at all the games this year.

During the school year, there will be one night rehearsal on Monday of each week and there will be three morning rehearsals on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday of each week.

PEP SQUAD IN RALLY PARADE

Demonstrate on Down-Town Streets Before Memphis-Childress Game

The entire pep squad turned out for a very enthusiastic pep rally on Thursday night of last week. The girls met at the High School building at 7 o'clock wearing their new uniforms and looking very neat.

Leaving the school building, they marched in single file down Main street, and were joined by a pep squad at the band house.

The boys led, followed by the girls, and marched around the square to the south side of the courthouse. On the steps the girls sang peppy school songs and the boys and girls gave yells in unison.

After a short snappy talk made by the leader, Tomie Frank Jones, the girls went through several of the business houses giving continuous yells and songs, accompanied by the band. The pep squad covered the entire business district in true "Cyclone spirit."

After the rally the pep squad and band attended a picture show at Texas Theatre where they were the guests of R. E. Martin, proprietor.

The girls certainly gave a splendid exhibition of a fine Memphis school spirit and showed that they were doing their best to help the Memphis Cyclone squad take off grid honors this year.

Principal L. C. Linn stated that the change was satisfactory and that there was a remarkable advantage in the transferring the eighth grade to the high school. He stated that it threw the children with students more their own age.

In moving the eighth grade to high school the Junior High school is left with grades in which all the elementary subjects may be taught. That is, writing, reading, spelling, and arithmetic, will be taught every student in the fifth, sixth, and seventh grades.

SCHOOLS SHOW INCREASES IN ENROLLMENT

Senior, Junior Highs Climb; Grade Loss Cuts West Ward

Figures supplied by Superintendent H. A. Jackson and Principal L. C. Linn of the Junior High school and Mrs. H. B. Estes of the West Ward school, report substantial increases in enrollments over those of last year.

Enrollments for the three schools for this year as compared with last year follow: Senior high this year, 267, and last year

Increase in Hours At School Started

Contrary to the general rules of shorter work hours the Memphis schools now begin at 8:30 every morning. However, since this rule 230; Junior High this year, 234, and last year, 225; West Ward this year, 383, and last year, 406. The decrease in the enrollment of the West Ward school was caused by the change in the school system which moved the fifth grade from West Ward to Junior High.

According to H. J. Gore, principal of the High school, several students withdrew from the records this week but it is thought that the future decrease will be slight.

 The mother wished to be convinced and therefore was. But she didn't, she said, want to see Boots make any mistake. . . .
 Christmas Eve came at last and a very madness of buying descended upon the shop. At half-past 8 Frances, in a lull, commanded Boots to go home. Edward's car waited half-way up the block. Boots was stupid with fatigue and hunger as she bundled herself into her shabby coat and stumbled out.
 "Bye, darling. Merry Christmas!" Frances waved her hand tomorrow she would sleep late in the apartment, would go to the Oranges later for family dinner and presents.
 Edward's man was at the wheel and in an instant he was on the pavement, throwing the door open, tucking Boots in under the kitten-soft fur rug. Edward had been compelled to go to a duty dinner tonight, something to do with his Uncle Martin, the dean of all the family connections. Boots was grateful for the long drive home in silence. Once she leaned forward to speak to the chauffeur, a smiling Irishman who had been with the Van Scivers for years.

 "You have children, Mac?"
 She could see his grin in the mirror. "I have that—four of them. Yellin' their heads off when I left the flat at noontime."
 "Four!" Sue marveled at that. "Children must be great fun."
 "Oh, they are, miss! It's the boy that's a caution. He wants a fire engine and him only 3. The missus got him one but I doubt if it's as big as he wants. . . ."
 She sat back, watching the crowds. In upper Madison avenue people streamed in and out of all the mean little shops. The red-fronted dime store was one blaze of light. Tinsel, curled red paper and imitation Christmas trees graced the drug store on the corner. Weary women, with children at their skirts, waited for the green light at crossings, their fingers straining at thinly wrapped metal toys and flimsy boxes of ornaments. In many a curtained window lighted trees showed and candles were lighted on sills.
 "My mother always lighted one of them in the window Christmas night," McShane contributed in the silence, jerking his head at one of these. "The missus is too nervous about fire. She don't have one. I kinda miss it."
 Presently they left the trolly tracks behind and the big bridges, with unlighted barges floating lonesomely on the river, and glided out into the broad highway threading through the Westchester towns. They passed a community tree glittering with lights—red and blue and yellow—with well-dressed, fur-coated people singing carols in its shadow. They passed lighted churches and more shops and then they were in Larchneck.
 "Mery Christmas, Mac!" cried Boots as he deposited her bundles at the very door.
 "The same to you, Miss, and many of them!" His smiling glance told her that he knew about her and Edward. This time next year she would be a Van Sciver. That was what his look said.

Denis rose from the chair in which he had been lounging. Boots was conscious of her tug-of-war pallor and weariness and the shabiness of her old blue felt hat.
 "Just dropped in to say Merry Christmas," said the deep voice. The old glory, the old celestial music began to resound in Boots' heart. She thought she had rooted him out of her very being but she had been mistaken.

Estelline Determined To Ruin Dedication of New Park

CUBS PREPARE TO TURN BACK CYCLONE

To Try For Victory In First Conference Battle

If we are to pay any attention to "grapevine" reports that run riot during the football season, from the most important of Class C games to the leading university battles, Estelline is coming to Memphis Friday night with full intentions of upsetting the Cyclone's hopes of upsetting the Cyclone's hopes this year.

Thirty-two "pretty good" boys are drilling daily on the Cub field at Estelline. A number of them witnessed the Cyclone's 32-0 defeat at Childress last week, and they believe that they will be able to turn back the local threat.

Would Be Severe Jolt

A victory by Estelline Friday night would set the Cyclone back with a severe jolt, faced with a tough row ahead to win sectional honors.

Estelline will come here en masse to witness the battle that dedicates the new Fair Park stadium.

At Fair Park field, however, the Cyclone is planning a somewhat different reception of the visitors. They went through another long session of blocking and tackling yesterday.

Greatly Improved

The one thing upon which they base a claim that Estelline will not be able to "get to first base" is that they will present an entirely different type of game against the visitors this week. They will offer a squad of boys who know how to block and tackle, who are used to getting hard, tough contact with ball toters and on offense, with would be tacklers.

Assisted by this improvement, all Cyclone plays are apt to work far better against coming opposition than they did against the Class A eleven last week. Ball toters are going to be given an open field more often, what with the proper (or at least nearer proper) blocking in front of them, and Co-Captain Norman will be given more time to get off his passes; and fewer opposing backs will get loose for long runs, what with tacklers determined that ball carriers are going to "stay hit" once they get their hands on them.

Game Offers Thrills

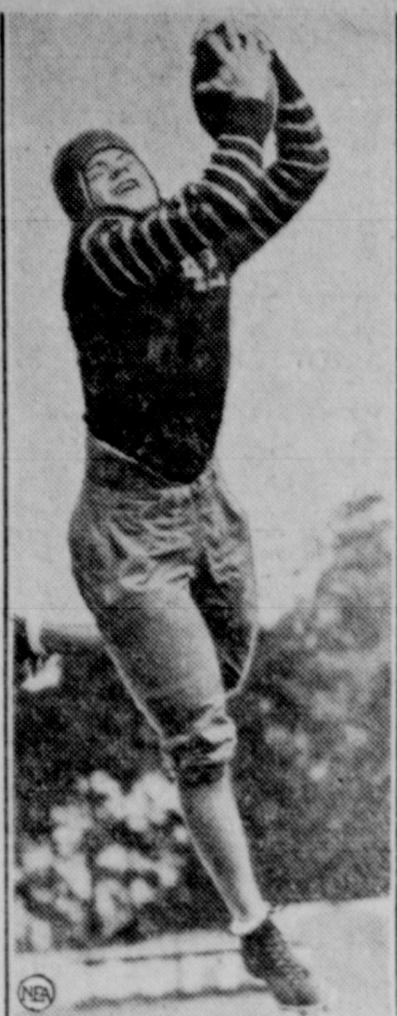

In other words, the Cyclone, this week and throughout the remainder of the season, according to present indications by the drills underway and the spirit displayed by the players, is not going to be greatly hampered by inefficient blocking or half-hearted tackling.

This, in the opinion of the writer, has been all that the Cyclone lacked of being a true championship contender, and Estelline, or any other Class B. ball club, is going to find the team hard to stop. Its attack is too versatile; its players too well adept at playing football.

One draws the conclusion from all that is being said or written about the club that Friday's game is going to offer plenty in the way of gridiron thrills, with the game between two heated rivals, inaugurating another conference season, with both intent upon victory.

V. O. Williams of Chillicothe was a Memphis business visitor yesterday.

HARRY GRAYSON

DETROIT, Oct. 1.—Having after all these years found a home grown heavyweight who threatens to remain vertical without props, British sports writers again are dancing wildly in their columns.

Milton Bronner, manager of the European bureau of NEA Service, writes that Jack Petersen, a 22-year-old Welsh-born descendant of Scandinavian stock, is the current cause of the adjectival ecstasy.

These raptures of delight on the part of sports writers really are nothing new. It wasn't so far back that American sock scribes saw in Joe Blotzes new Dempseys overnight.

Still one would have believed that the Englishmen would have gotten next to themselves after petitioning the high constable, Scotland Yard, and Parliament to suppress Primo Carnera before the Sequal Steer killed somebody during his inaugural campaign of tearing up ring posts over there five years ago.

Maybe it's because old-timers have been looking at British heavyweights in the resin for so long that they have developed downrightness.

Petersen became stupendous copy on the other side in successfully defending the championship of Great Britain and the Empire by stopping Larry Gains in 13 rounds, although the venerable Toronto negro has been cuffed about with great regularity of late.

Following Petersen's "smashing" victory, the British Board of Boxing Control, no less, ordered that Old Man George Cook, the stumbling Australian be given first chance at the stupendous, terrific, magnificent, superb man from the land of the Leek.

And Bill Brown said Max Baer wasn't in condition.

"Gains made a monkey out of Petersen for seven rounds," advises Bronner. "The negro made the youngster look as if he were standing still. But the veteran was helpless when he tried in a second-rate fight. Petersen has never fought anybody but second-raters."

"But jazzed up by Petersen's victory and a story that Jack Dempsey wanted to manage him, promising to make him the world champion in two years, the sports writers went into hysteria. Not only they, but many special writers also."

"There was, for instance, Louis Golding, a young English novelist of very great ability. Golding said Petersen's victory was 'magnificent' and he 'exulted' in it. He said that in 'all sobriety' he believed the best man in the world beat Gains."

Don't Be a Roughneck!

"The referee cautioned Petersen several times against using a back-hand blow. All of which inspired Golding to prose poetry. Listen to this:

"It seems part and parcel of his method and it is a pity. One notices it as one would notice a discord under Heifetz's bow, or Massine fumbling during his superb dance in the Three-Cornered Hat. Petersen is an artist to be mentioned in the same breath as these and he must respect standards as exalted."

Home Run Jim Collins, and Ducky Medwick.

The Cardinals hit for a team average of .287, which was 11 points better than the Giants.

The St. Louis aggregation had a superb outfield in Medwick, Jack Rothrock, Ernie Orsatti, and Fulish; a high rolling infield in Collins, Frisch, Leo Duracher, and Martin; a smart catcher in Delancy, and were exceptionally well fortified in reservists, with the able stick wielder, Pat Crawford, and another two or three lying around handy.

The Cardinals' record would be remarkable even had they not experienced a full share of injuries and slumps and been torn by dissension.

President Breadon and Manager Frisch had to settle one of the mighty few walkouts in baseball with the Deans. Later the eccentric Dizzy carried the family's case to Judge Landis.

But the Cardinals stayed in there and bore down through it all to write the most glorious chapter of 1934 baseball as the National League clubs neared the wire. Generally speaking, the public wanted to see them win.

BATTER UP!

Sutherland Picks Minnesota, Tennessee, Columbia, California, Vanderbilt

By JOCK SUTHERLAND (Head Coach, University of Pittsburgh)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 2.—Well, here we are in old October, with the big football show in full tempo on the sixth.

A dozen or more really important games are scheduled, and one of these is certain to be the inter-sectional engagement between Minnesota and Nebraska at Minneapolis. I'd give a great deal to see it.

I pick the Gophers to win by two touchdowns, fully realizing how hazardous it is to select any outfit over the always strong Cornhuskers. But this looks like Bernie Bierman's year, with Pug Lund still around, surrounded by veterans, and the squad finely fixed in the kicking department. This boy Lund is a locomotive with the leather under his arm.

Bierman's band was unbeaten work in an American ring (Now, Milton!), the Petersen-Gains scrap seemed as deadly slow as cricket does when compared with baseball," continued Bronner. "It was a real slow motion fight. Every time Petersen got settled to deliver a punch, he broadcast the news to everybody in the arena."

"Only one Britisher, 'Old Guard,' in the Daily Express, poured a dose of cool common sense upon the enthusiasts. He did not mention Baer, but went on to say:

"Petersen is not yet good enough to tackle American fighters of the caliber of Art Lasky, Steve Hamas, or King Levinsky. I have not paid three visits to America for nothing. American heavyweight form is on a higher plane than here. Don' McCorkindale and Pettifer discovered this."

I am surprised to hear that "Old Guard" even mentioned McCorkindale, for the South African was the only British subject in years who failed to carry out the fine old tradition of English heavyweights and fold up like a picnic chair.

ARMY LACKS LINEMEN TO MATCH FINE BACKS

By NEA Service WEST POINT, Oct. 3.—Army has the football material to put together two exceptionally good backfields. But there has been such a dearth of experienced linemen and ends at the academy that Lieut. Gar Davidson has been hard put to it to develop a forward wall at all comparable to the backs.

Big Ten in Action Big Ten teams swing into action. I favor Northwestern over Iowa by a touchdown, and Ohio State over Indiana by the same margin.

Illinois probably is three touchdowns stronger than Washington University at St. Louis, and Wisconsin that much superior to Marquette. Michigan State give Michigan quite but the Wolverines trail by at least 10.

West Virginia is start this fall, as pleased if Pittsburg anything more the tie.

Jack Chevigny is ening bunch of to engage his old school. There is considerable this game inasmuch as the first appearance Layden as coach of (Copyright, 1934, Inc.)

Yale Coach Makes Bow Ducky Pond makes his bow as a major coach at Yale in a battle with Lou Little's Columbia Rose Bowl heroes. I pick the Lion by a touchdown.

A second big show on the Pacific Coast will see another up-and-coming Saint Mary's team scrap it out with California at Berkeley. Navy Bill Ingram has the material at the Blue and Gold institution, and I have an idea it will prove a touchdown better than the Galloping Gaels.

Washington State has once or twice in the past proved a stumbling block to Southern California, but I look to see the Trojans reel the Cougars by three touchdowns in Los Angeles.

Vanderbilt goes to Atlanta to meet Georgia Tech, and I like the Commodore's chances by a touchdown. I am of the opinion that Louisiana State will win from Southern Methodist by the same margin, and that Purdue will not have too much trouble with Rice. I expect Texas Christian to top Arkansas at Ft. Worth by a touchdown, and Tulane to beat Alabama Poly in New Orleans.

Washington and Lee should reel Maryland at Lexington, and I suspect that Navy is better than Virginia, which the Middlea whipped, 13-7, last season. Tennessee ought to get off on the right foot in its appointment with North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

I predict that Western Maryland will register an upset and beat Villanova.

CARDS PUBLIC CHOICE IN SERIES--GRAYSON

BY HARRY GRAYSON (Sports Editor NEA Service)

Jerome Herman and Paul Dean.

Deans' Big Day

St. Louis' bid reached its peak in Brooklyn on Sept. 21, when, after Dizzy Dean shut out the Dodgers with three singles, Paul recorded the first no-hit, no-run game in the majors since Southpaw Bob Burke, of Washington, treated the Boston Red Sox that way in 1931.

The Deans constituted a two-man pitching staff until the last few weeks, making good their boast that they would account for 45 games, the elder of the Arkansas baseball flingers taking his place with the greats with 28 victories, and Nutsy accounting for 18.

With Wild Bill Hallahan experiencing a poor season, Willie Walker out with an injury, and Tex Carleton starting slowly, the Deans packed the Cardinal pitching burden week in and week out. It was not until Walker commenced lending the Deans a hand toward the far end of the hunt, and Carleton and Mooney regained their arm, that the persistent Cardinals really got hot.

Allowing for the phenomenal Schoolboy Rowe, the dramatic Mickey Cochrane, and other Tiger luminaries, and with all due consideration for the Giants, the Cardinals were the most attractive of the three world series candidates from the spectators' point of view.

The People's Choice

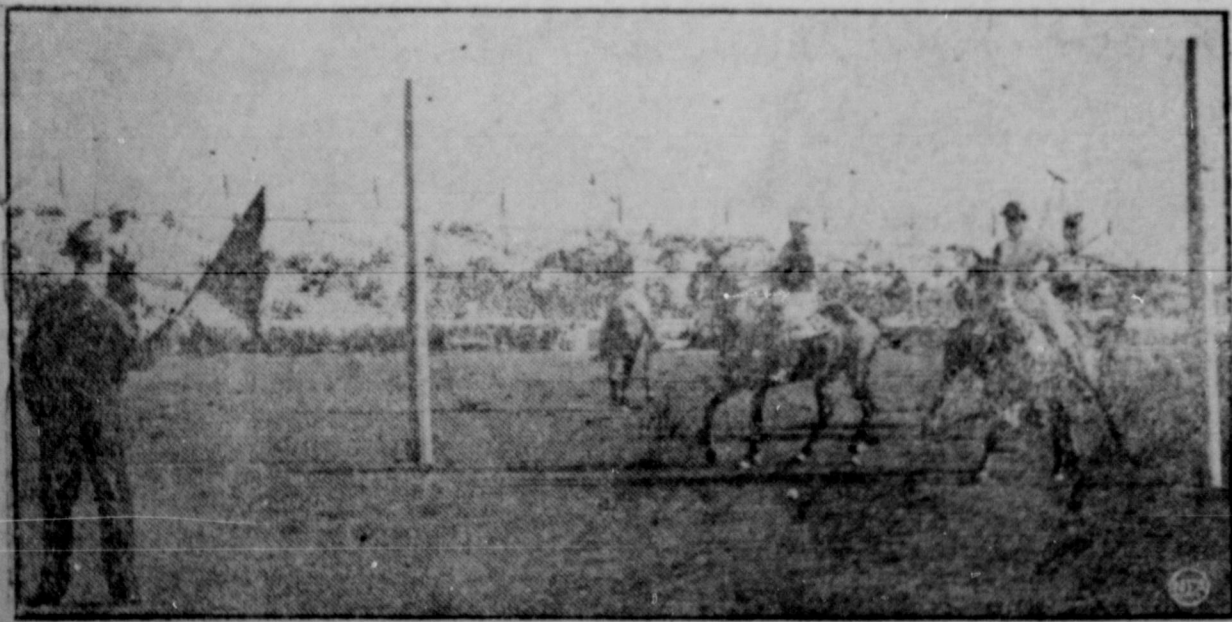

In addition to the Deans, with the St. Louis club that sought its fifth flag in nine years, was Pepper Martin, now at third base and still at his best under severe pressure; Frankie Frisch, who finally got his club going after smoothing out difficulties with the Deans;

Dizzy Dean

It was the most remarkable brother combination in the annals of baseball that kept the St. Louis club within hailing distance, and which applied the pressure in the climatic sprint down the stretch—

This view of rugged grandeur in Zion National Park in southern Utah will grace a new stamp to be issued by the Postoffice Department. So magnificent is its beauty that a playwright, famed for his descriptive phrases, said no English words could describe Zion Canyon. Called 'Little Zion' by Brigham Young colonists, it was a haven for early settlers because the Indians believed the canyon to be 'The Valley of the Spirits,' and dared not venture near.

The cattlemen's delegation was told during the day by Chester Davis, AAA administrator, that enough money might be "dug" up to increase purchases by around 200,000 head in addition to a quota extension or more than 500,000 head recently ordered.

Purchases on the new buying program were to have begun this morning, but a veterinarian has not arrived and purchases cannot begin until he is present, it was said.

More than 200 subjects are available under the plan outlined. Eight or more students must be enrolled in each class, classes to meet 15 hours per week.

Subjects likely to be taught in Hall county are general education and nursery, according to Mrs. Guthrie. General education will include the study of government, English, woodwork, home budgeting, home economics, history, or any others of the 200 subject desired. Teachers for each class are to be employed by the government. The nursery school is to employ a nurse, teacher and cook. Children from families on relief rolls or other needy families are to be cared for in the nursery school, if it is selected as one of the subjects chosen by the county, Mrs. Guthrie said.

Full details on the educational plan are to be discussed at the meeting tomorrow afternoon, and everyone interested in night schools, vocational schools or other types of adult education are urged by Mrs. Guthrie to be present.

Repair Flood Gate On Brownwood Dam

By Associated Press

BROWNWOOD, Oct. 2.—The massive flood gate which jammed at Brownwood dam recently and caused the huge reservoir to drain into the Colorado river, is being repaired.

The mishap occurred while several thousand acre feet of water sold to rice growers of Wharton and Matagorda counties, badly in need of water because of the drought, was being released from the dam. It was a unique experiment in the range irrigation and would have been completely successful had not the gate jammed.

DO NOT IMPORT COTTON PICKERS

ACCORDING to reports received by different sources here, a number of farmers in Hall county are importing cotton pickers to help gather their small crops. If this is true, if it is being done with any consistency, a very bad precedent is being set, and one that may prove costly to the people of the entire county before the winter is over.

It is unnecessary, and unwise, to import cotton pickers at this time. There are residents of Hall county who do not have employment, even as cotton pickers, and they are depending on the local employment board to find work for them. This the board is attempting to do by sending them to the cotton fields.

The relief board here is not going to care for transients this winter. It will have a bigger job than it can handle looking after citizens of the county who unfortunately must turn to this source for food, clothing and shelter this winter.

Transients are likely to prove a burdening problem this winter if they gather here in any number. If cotton pickers are imported, it is more than possible that they will become stranded here because they may not find sufficient work to furnish them with enough money to move on after the picking season is over.

Such people will be placed as a burden directly upon the people of the county, and therefore upon those farmers who brought them here in the first place. Therefore, the practice that is reported to be taking place in several places in the county is working directly against the men who are going to the expense of bringing in pickers. And those pickers who are able to leave after the season closes will take what money they have earned away with them, when it could be kept in the county by being paid to local residents.

Farmers who are seeking cotton pickers should apply to the relief office of Judge A. C. Hoffman here. The office is looking for places to place workers, and to turn to it for employees will work as a benefit to the county as a whole in more ways than one.

HORROR OF DISASTER LOST IN DISTANCE

NO more impressive examples of the relative effect of distance upon the human emotions can be had, than those afforded by three recent disasters which cost a total of nearly 3000 lives.

To Americans, the one that struck home with most telling effect was the burning of the Morro Castle just off the New Jersey coast. Fire at sea is perhaps the most horrible form of death human beings are called on to face, and here was a case where 137 men and women were burned or drowned as the final episode of a gay holiday cruise and within only a few hours of home.

The event struck horror into the hearts of all of us. It was so close and its victims were so familiar to us.

Yet within the same month two much more heart-rending tragedies have occurred, and it is doubtful whether either got more than casual recognition in our homes.

In one case, a mighty typhoon swept out of the Pacific and over Osaka, Japan, and hurled nearly 2000 men, women and children to their deaths. It tore up buildings and homes, and left more than 5000 homeless and destitute.

In the other case, an explosion sealed the opening to a coal mine near Wrexham, Wales, and doomed 260 miners to a death by fire and asphyxiation.

Here were accidents far more disastrous than the Morro Castle fire, but because of their distances from us they seemed so unreal and intangible. It is hard for us to realize the gravity and dread consequences of these distant disasters. Men, women and children deprived of their homes; families torn apart; wives, sons and daughters left mourning and alone; thousands without further means of support.

At the same time the Lindbergh case breaks again, a suspect is arrested and the whole story of the fatal kidnaping of more than two years ago is revived. So gripping was that tragedy and so beloved its principle characters that it has become the chief topic of discussion in most homes of the country.

But while we are so engrossed in our own affairs, we seem to lose regard for those of distant peoples, and the farther these peoples are from us, the less do they affect us.

HEALTH

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Your body requires water, mineral salts, protein, fat, carbohydrates and vitamins in certain quantities. When these are taken into the body they furnish materials for growth and repair, and also the energy for running the human machine in its daily work.

The average man doing light work burns up 2700 calories a day; when he's at rest, about 1200 calories a day. When he is doing medium work he burns up about 4000 calories; when doing hard work, from 4000 to 6000 calories a day.

Women and children need fewer calories than do men. A woman needs about 2500 calories a day and a child of 10 about the same, a child 5 years old about 1500, and a one-year-old child about 600.

It is the difference in the size of the body and the amount of activity in which the person indulges that makes the difference in the caloric requirements.

Proteins vary, being divided roughly as animal and vegetable proteins. Animal protein, such as meat, eggs, fish and cheese, is usually called first class protein, because it is of the greatest importance in maintaining growth and repair of the body.

Vegetable protein is of less biological value unless proteins are properly selected, the bones and teeth will not develop suitably.

Fats give a high yield of energy and are the chief sources of vitamins A and D. Butter and cream are of the most palatable forms of fat. They are at the same time ones best used by the body, since they melt at the temperature of the body and are easily assimilated.

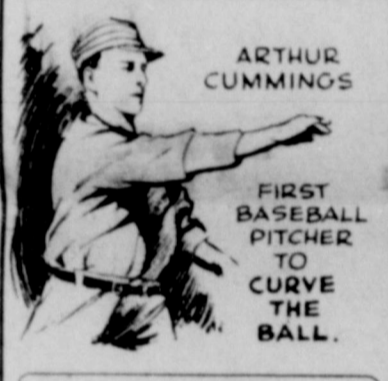

It is important to regulate the amount of fat. If the amount taken is in excess of the carbohydrates for balancing the diet, there is a liability of acidosis.

The carbohydrates are sugars which yield energy and tend to spare the proteins from use as energy producers. On the other hand, the desire for sugars tends to promote overweight and, in children, takes away the desire for other foods.

Of the salts most needed by the body, iron, calcium, and phosphorus should be most carefully watched for proper growth of the bones and for proper development of the blood.

Iron is found in lean red meat, especially in liver, in yolks of eggs, in carrots and in most of the green vegetables, and in fruits. Calcium is found abundantly in milk and, in fair amounts in fruits and vegetables. Phosphorus is found in eggs, milk, whole wheat, oatmeal and many nuts.

Thus, a person who eats a variety of foods, in sufficient quantities, will get the things he needs for his growth and health.

Doctors are learning more and more that a proper diet is essential to health. For children it means the difference between strong bodies and weak ones.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY WILLIS THORNTON
The Democrat's Washington Correspondent

When the President returned to 1600 Pennsylvania avenue from his Hyde Park sojourn, he found it in even worse confusion than when he left, and learned further that the remodeling will not be finished until after Dec. 1.

Three weeks of rainy and miserable weather have set back the work, together with the other delays which seem to dog all construction jobs.

Meanwhile, his house looks a good deal like your house or mine when there's an overhauling going on. That is, terrible.

No entertaining can be done at the White House until the construction work is finished, for the president's office is now temporarily in the Blue Room, right in the center of the house.

The equally famous Green and Red rooms are being used by the secretarial staff. And the entire wing where the executive offices usually function is a welter of concrete, and beams, dust and wheelbarrows.

Workmen sprawl beneath the majestic elm trees in the yard at noontime, eating their lunches from buckets. The regular White House servants, ousted from their usual positions at the front door by the police, secret service, and clerical help of the office force hover unhappily in the corridors.

And President Roosevelt, who was to have been in his new office in a few weeks, will now be lucky to get it for a Christmas present.

Wallace Goes Mixing

Secretary Wallace, one of the busiest of the New Dealers, has been trying very hard to get acquainted with his Department of Agriculture personnel. He tried inviting subordinates into his office, and dropping in on them.

Both interfered with his seclude. So now, he invites them, section by section, to have lunch with him in the department cafeteria.

He gets an informal fill-in on their problems that way.

Brothers in Crime—War

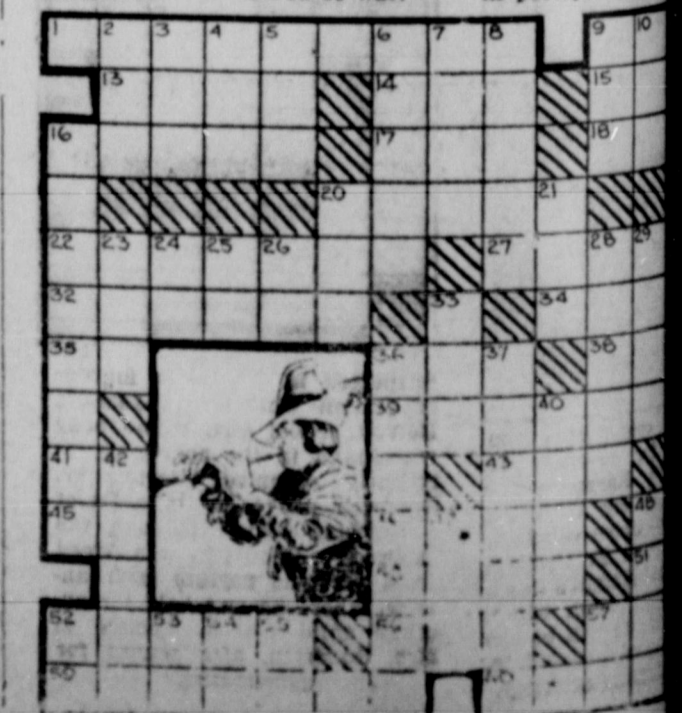

J. Edgar Hoover, who as director of the Department of Justice's Bureau of Investigation, had a hand in unraveling the Lindbergh kidnaping case, and Dickerson N. Hoover, probing the Morro Castle disaster as head of the Steamboat Inspection Service, are brothers.

Both are graduates of the local George Washington University, which claims to have more graduates in the government service than any other.

WELL, CHEER UP, BOARDY. AT LEAST WE HAVE SUMPIN' TO EAT.

TURNIPS! BAH! I DETEST TURNIPS.

TRY AN APPLE THEN.

THEY'RE WORMY. THEY AIN'T FIT FOR A HOG TO EAT.

WELL, YOU CAN TAKE 'EM OR LEAVE 'EM, BIG BOY.

IT'S EITHER RAW TURNIPS 'N' WORMY APPLES, OR NOTHIN'!

OH, I'LL EAT 'EM. I'LL EAT ANYTHING, BUT I DON'T HAVE TO LIKE 'EM.

I'LL EVEN WEAR THESE CLOTHES, AND SLEEP IN A BARREL. BUT IF YOU DIZZY GALOOTS THINK YOU'RE SHOWING ME A GOOD TIME, IF YOU THINK YOU'RE WINNING THAT $10,000, YOU'RE CRAZY.

REVIEWS OF CURRENT MOTION PICTURES

PALACE
If you can imagine Zasu Pitts as the leading lady of a musical play, with Nat Pendleton as her gangster-manager, supported by "Smiling-Ned" Sparks, you will get just a meager idea of the real comedy that pleased theatre-goers yesterday at the Palace Theatre. The comedy-drama "Sing and Like It" is showing at the Palace for the last times today.

The story is truly a comedy-drama. It has the ridiculous type of drama that is comedy in itself, to say nothing of Zasu and her expressive hands and operatic voice, Ned Sparks and his frozen-face comedy cracks, and Nat Pendleton and his temperamental expressions. It's really a good picture and one worthy of the patronage it has received everywhere it has shown.

The story is built around a hard-boiled gang chief who hears Zasu sing a "mother song" that melts his heart. He uses gangster methods to make her the leading lady of a big time musical play, and the same methods to make the people like it. But even the gangster has his hands more than full when he tries to cope with two jealous women, his star and his moll. It creates an amusing situation, with plenty of comedy to back it up.

RITZ
"Hat, Coat and Glove", an extraordinary title for a motion picture, one thinks when the name of the production current at the Ritz Theatre is first mentioned, but after seeing the picture, the reason for the title comes to light clearly.

A hat, a coat, and a glove is the evidence in a murder trial that is completely surrounded by complicated circumstances. The manner in which the defence attorney, Robert Mitchell, played by Ricardo Cortez, handles the trial and frees his client, Jerry Hutchins, in real life John Beal, is extremely interesting.

However, this is not a mystery story. The audience is given all the twisted details, in which, to make the matter worse, both the defence attorney and the accused man are in love with the same woman, Barbara Robbins, as Dorothea Mitchell, who, incidentally, is the wife of the defence attorney.

Although the cast is not well known and does not show especial talent—Barbara Robbins is attractive—the picture is extremely interesting, if one cares for the intrigue of court proceedings.

For children, no; for young people, perhaps.

Letters From The People

In remembrance of Memphis' smallest baby—

PEGGY KAY GARRETT
A tiny gift from God
One day was sent to earth
To bless a happy couple's life
With it's eventful birth.

But the gift (a bundle of preciousness)
Was too small to be left here,
So God, with great graciousness,
Relieved the parents of fear.

So gracious with His taking
That he left two hearts with tears,
That they might remember
His gift throughout the years.

By Mrs. Max L. Tunnell.
Mrs. Tunnell was Miss Ella May Baker before er marriage to Mr. Tunnell this past June.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Wilkinson took her aunt, Mr. O. A. Lock, to Wellington Sunday where she was met by her son, Oscar, en route to her home in Mangum. Mrs. Lock had been a guest of her sister, Mrs. Jessie Jones, here for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Replin of Littlefield spent Sunday and Monday here with their daughters and looking after business interest.
