Youths Get Touch Of 'Life in Open'

Getting a touch of rough life in the open, members of the Intermediate B. Y. P. U. staged an outing last night at Brook-hollow Country Club. The boys and girls cooked their supper in the open, played games, went swimming and boating and camped out, having taken their bedding and tents with them. Twice they were almost forced to seek shelter because of high winds, which reached peaks at about 10 o'clock last night and 2 o'clock this morning. However, they weathered the storm, cooked their own breakfast this morning and returned to town at about 8 o'clock. The young people were chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hamilton and Rev. and Mrs. O. K. Webb.

BIG WELCOME IS PLANNED FOR WALLACE

Farm Secretary Will Speak in Amarillo Monday

Special to The Democrat
AMARILLO, Aug. 2.—Many large delegations, including prominent officials and farm leaders, will be here next Monday, August 5, to greet Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

On an inspection tour, the "New Deal" cabinet is scheduled to arrive here Monday noon. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon Secretary Wallace will address a public meeting in Municipal Auditorium.

"It will be a non-political meeting to which everyone is invited," explained Grover Hill, chairman of the general arrangements committee. "Loud speakers will be installed in the large auditorium so everybody will be able to hear."

Many Delegations
Members of the general arrangements committee have reported not only every county in the Panhandle, but also sections of New Mexico, Colorado, Kansas and Oklahoma will send delegations.

Col. Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission; H. H. Williamson, extension service director at College Station; President Walton of A. & M., Ernest Scholls, extension service director at Oklahoma A. & M., and many other leaders interested in the problems facing agriculture will be here to greet Wallace and hear his address.

Hale Group Large
Hale County plans to send one of the largest delegations, the committee has been informed, Bedecked with badges, the Hale County delegation probably will be headed by C. H. Day of Plainview, who originated the farmer's march on Washington in support of the administration's farm policies.

Mayor Ross Rogers of Amarillo yesterday sent letters to the mayors of all Panhandle towns, urging them to be present. Roy Cullum, president of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, has sent similar letters to chambers of commerce.

First to Visit
County officials, county agricultural agents and others also have been urged to attend the meeting as a tribute to Secretary Wallace.

Head of one of the most important cabinet posts, Secretary Wallace will be first of President Roosevelt's official family to visit the Southwest. Before he accepted the cabinet position, Wallace was known nationally. He is a "real dirt" farmer, a publisher of a widely-read farm magazine and an author, whose recent books have been read and quoted extensively.

McBRIDE LAUDS CCC CAMP'S BARRACKS

Ready-Cut Buildings Make Fine Houses For Boys, Says

"The finest barracks I've built yet," declared C. W. McBride, superintendent of construction at the CCC Camp, this morning as he explained some of the finer points of the buildings now being erected on the government reservation at the old fair grounds. Mr. McBride has built several camps over the state for the government. The snug, ready-cut buildings are of very sturdy construction and, except for the occasional appearance of bolts, have every appearance of permanent construction. Ceilings in the buildings are to be lined with a metal material that will reflect light and heat. Plumbing fixtures, pipe and fittings for the camp arrived late yesterday.

Work on the camp's septic tank is scheduled to begin tomorrow morning. Relief Administrator A. C. Hoffman will likely place two six-men, six-hour shifts on the excavation.

The three technical service buildings, adjoining the camp on the south, have been staked off, but actual construction will likely be delayed about 10 days, due to the fact that three bids submitted for materials were identical and have been sent from Dalhart to Washington for disposition.

In the CCC camp proper, two buildings are almost complete, walls and floors are ready on four more, and the floor has been laid on the mess hall, the largest of the 11 buildings.

Negro Fined $100 As Drive Started

Justice W. L. Wheat and the sheriff's department this morning sounded a warning against "habituals" who are continually being brought up before the court on petty offenses.

Justice Wheat fined Jesse Scott negro, $50 and costs on each of two charges of wife beating and disturbance. The fines totaled $126.30. Scott was arrested this morning by Deputy B. Wilson.

"I'm tired of people being brought before me time after time on similar charges," Justice Wheat said, "and it's going to stop, or else cost them plenty."

Scott was placed in the county jail upon failure to pay the fine.

AWNING COMPLETED

A new awning over the front of the Ritz Theatre was completed late yesterday with the placing of light globes along the outer edge. The awning is of tile and stucco, matching the style of the theatre building.

Tomorrow Final Day for Old Timers' Stories

Numerous accounts are already in, and many more are expected tomorrow, when many of the old timers will be here for the day. Those who have neglected to do so are urged to write accounts of personal experiences on regular time paper and bring them to The Democrat tomorrow.

Progress Is Made On Wildcat Test

W. T. Davis, joint operator with Johnson-Kemnitz of Oklahoma City in the drilling of Knorrp No. 1, Hall County wildcat located near Weatherly, was in Memphis yesterday and stated that good headway is being made on the location.

The well is on the southeast quarter of Section 7, Block A. A. B. & M. survey, 15 miles southwest of Memphis. Drilling contract calls for a depth of 6,000 feet, with a possibility that the test may go as deep as 7,500.

WHAT DO YOU THINK? Local Opinions on Pertinent Topics.

THE QUESTION: What Do You Think About Organizing More Boy Scout Troops in Memphis.

THE ANSWERS:
L. L. DOSS: I think it would be the finest thing in the world to organize more Boy Scout troops in Memphis. If the boys are not under directed leadership and entertainment they are might apt to find it elsewhere, usually where all the bossing comes from the biggest and loudest and toughest bully in the neighborhood.

It is a wonderful training for the average healthy, growing boy, if it is supervised by the right man. By this, I mean a man who is interested enough in the boys to give them practically all his spare time, to be a second daddy to them, to try to understand each individual boy, his physical and mental make-up, so when he comes to him with his problems, he will be better able to give advice.

One phase of organized "boy-work" must be watched very carefully. The boys are prone to regard the meeting night as a "Well, where will we hike next week? Let's have a swimming party." In other words, forgetting the basic principle of the organization.

True, this is only natural for all young boys and in itself is no sin. A group of boys sponsored for this purpose alone is much better than having them roaming the streets—picking up experiences which often times prove costly.

REV. O. K. WEBB: Being very much interested in the proper development of our youths I am, naturally, in favor of any organization which helps to guide their footsteps along the right path.

The summer months are the most difficult for the boys. They are out of school and the time does hang heavy on their hands. Under a conscientious leader this time could be used to a great advantage.

We must remember the boy of today is the leader of tomorrow and any sacrifice we can make is not too large to bring him up to be a fine, up-standing citizen.

We should give them every advantage that the Boy Scouts offer. And I do know the Boy Scouts provide an all-around training and recreation for its members.

I am looking for a good crop in this section this year, but the greatest crop of all is our boys. We can't do this without the proper cultivation.

13 TEACHERS GO TO TRAINING SCHOOL

Adult Group Attend 30-Day Session At Lubbock

Thirteen teachers of adult education classes in Memphis left yesterday for Lubbock where they will attend a 30-day training school.

The training is required for teaching this fall. Transportation and tuition were furnished the teachers by the Relief Commission and their salaries were raised from $12 a week to $15 in order to meet living expenses.

The classes probably will reopen during the first week of September.

Although 13 teachers are now employed here, it is likely that only 12 classes will be taught this fall, since one probably will be named supervisor of the classes, succeeding Cleron McMurtry, who resigned recently to accept a position at Woodbridge Lumber Company.

The adult teachers who entered the training school are O. L. Barham, Mrs. Jack Bryan, Mrs. Leroy Burns, Mrs. W. J. Bragg, Mrs. E. H. Godfrey, Mrs. A. W. Guill, R. C. Householder, Mrs. Bell Linder, Mrs. Paul Morris, Mrs. Estelle McCool, Theodore Musgrove, Mrs. Seth Stewart and J. H. Treadwell.

'First of Month' Jobs Bring Crowd

Relief offices here were crowded this morning with men and women seeking "first of the month" employment.

Relief clients are allowed to work a limited length of time each month. This time is budgeted according to the monthly allotment received in Hall County and to the number of persons comprising a family.

The relief offices usually are almost vacated during the latter part of the month because clients usually have worked their allotted time and cannot be assigned to more work until the following month.

Therefore, at the start of the month, they literally storm the place. Some have been idle from 10 days to two weeks.

Relief From Heat Seen in Midwest

Respite from pitiless heat appeared likely for the midwest today after 10 were added to the list reported dead.

Four died from heat in Chicago yesterday, two in Oklahoma, two in Ohio and one in Arkansas.

Brief, heavy rains swept most of New York. Snow fell in the mountains of western Montana. Torrents of rain water flowed through Pima and Thatcher, Ariz., resulting in a heavy loss of livestock and other property.

Will Hold Meeting At Lesley Church

Special to The Democrat
LESLEY, Aug. 2.—Alvin A. Mitchell, of Brownfield, will hold a gospel meeting at the Church of Christ here, beginning Friday night, Aug. 12 and lasting about 10 days.

Mr. Mitchell has held several meetings in Hall County, including Memphis, Plaska and Lesley in 1931 and Plaska and Lesley in 1932. They were well attended and had good results.

The Lesley church invites everyone to attend the services, which will be held each morning at 10 o'clock and each night at 8:15.

C OF C WORKS TO GET RELIEF CENTER HERE

Directors Recommend Hoffman in New Set-Up

At a called meeting of the board of directors yesterday afternoon, A. C. Hoffman, Hall County relief administrator, received the hearty endorsement of the Chamber of Commerce and was recommended, in a lengthy telegram, to Adam R. Johnson, director of state relief, at Austin.

In a new relief set-up which will be inaugurated shortly, the state will be divided into 20 districts, each composed of a number of counties. Administrators and office forces at the district headquarters will replace, to a large extent, present county organizations for the handling of relief affairs.

Fearful that the local relief office might be virtually done away with, the Chamber of Commerce took action. Plainview has been mentioned as headquarters for the district that would include Hall County, but a strenuous effort is being made to have Memphis designated as the central point of this district and a number of local business men consider it not unlikely that the arrangement could be made.

DEATH PENALTY GIVEN ACTIVITY AGAINST NAZIS

(By Associated Press)
BERLIN, Aug. 2.—Roland Freisler, state secretary for the ministry of justice, disclosed today that activity against the Nazi party and its organization will be regarded as treason against the people and punished by death under a new criminal code.

Severe punishment is also to be provided for treasonable action by foreigners, but such action could not be termed as treason against the people, he added, because foreigners are bound only by the obligation of hospitality.

LEAGUE COUNCIL CALLS OFF ITS PUBLIC SESSION

(By Associated Press)
GENEVA, Aug. 2.—Faced with the opposition of Italy and Ethiopia to suggestions for a peace formula, leaders of the League of Nations' Council abandoned the intended public session of the council today.

Premier Mussolini of Italy and delegate Teclé Hawariate of Ethiopia were understood to have expressed opposition to certain phases of the formula, including the wording and punctuation of the text.

More serious was the report that Mussolini opposed the fixing of a definite date for the council to discuss the dispute if political negotiations among England, France and Italy as provided in the formula, failed to solve the problem.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JO DARIEN, finishing her first year in college, learns her father is out of work. Jo hunts a job and secures part time work in a marine supply store. There she meets wealthy, handsome DOUGLAS MARSH who offers her the job of hostess at his inn at Crest Lake. Jo accepts. This causes a quarrel with BRET PAUL to whom she is engaged and Jo breaks the engagement.

Fragonet pays Jo marked attentions, tells her he loves her and begs her to marry him as soon as he can secure a divorce. He goes to Hollywood, promising to return soon.

Bret Paul comes to Crest Lake as the life guard.

Marsh takes Jo to dinner at a nearby tavern. He tells her Fragonet is to return soon and that part of a motion picture is to be filmed at Crest Lake.

CHAPTER XXIV

Silas Drann's company from the Atlas Pictures Corporation, one of the "big six" organizations of Hollywood, arrived at Crest Lake just two weeks after Jo and Marsh had discussed the coming of the actors and actresses over Mrs. Bowen's delectable fried chicken.

Fragonet was not with the first contingent. He had private business to attend to in Hollywood, Silas Drann explained, and there was no reason for him to appear until all the necessary preparations were made. Jo Darien could not help but wonder if Fragonet's "private business" had to do with his separation from his wife, but she was secretly glad that her meeting with the movie star was to be postponed for a while.

However, Fragonet had obviously told Drann about her, for when Douglas Marsh introduced them the huge, beetle-browed director was interested at once. "Oh, yes . . ." he said, in the faintest of foreign accents, "Jo Darien. I know . . . I know." Just what he did not say, but Jo had the uncomfortable feeling that his deep-set eyes could look quite through her.

With Drann were other principals—Lolita Montez, the leading lady, a tall brunet who was as slender as any woman Jo had ever seen. Jo had watched her on the screen and had not realized that the heartless motion picture camera adds at least 15 or 20 pounds to the performer's weight. No wonder actresses had to watch their diets! Then there was Jarvis Maurice, a new English actor who had just signed a contract with Atlas after successful stage work in London. The third of the principals was Johnny Barley, the comedian who had saved many a bad picture from utter failure. Barley was a short, sad-faced little man who, off the screen, was anything but comical.

Most of Drann's company was composed of cameramen, sound technicians, script clerks—and even carpenters. For several sets had to be built before the actual "shooting" began. The principals stayed at the inn, and the others Marsh assigned to the cottages.

Instantly the lake became a hive of activity and the sound of hammer and saw echoed and re-echoed. The guests, far from resenting the intrusion of the Hollywood workers, welcomed the diversion. They were all eager participants when Drann would allow it, and they were always willing observers.

"I really haven't any use for a hostess now," Marsh told Jo humorously. "Drann and his crew of ants are keeping everyone entertained in fine fashion!"

While Drann drove his technicians without mercy, the principals were seldom seen. Lolita Montez had gone to her room upon her arrival and had hardly been visible since. The Englishman arose before dawn each morning and tramped in the weeds alone, returning for a late dinner in his room after dark. Occasionally Jo and Tubby caught a glimpse of Johnny Barley strolling about the buildings morosely. Usually he carried with him the faint aroma of liquor.

"I'll never be able to believe that man is funny again," Tubby told Jo. But what Tubby worried about mostly was Lolita Montez' absence. "Why doesn't she show herself once in a while? Is she high-hat, or what?"

Jo laughed. "I suppose she gets tired of showing herself, Tubby. Think of being magnified and multiplied for thousands of cities all over the world. Wouldn't you like to feel you were alone once in a while?"

"Well," retorted Tubby, "I'm magnified, even if I'm not multiplied, and I don't mind being seen!"

But Tubby got her reward at last, for one night at dinner she received a compliment from Silas Drann, perhaps the greatest motion picture director in Hollywood. She and Jo had come into the dining room late, after a hard game of tennis, and were the only ones there. While they were ordering dinner Silas Drann walked in, his hair still awry from the day's work, his cravatless shirt open at the throat and his golf trousers stained with pitch.

"Ah . . ." he said, bowing low. "I should like to join you young ladies."

"We'd be delighted," Jo said, and Tubby could only stare.

She stared a good deal during the dinner, when finally, with alarming suddenness, Drann turned to her. "I have noticed you, Miss Davis, more than once. And I want to pay you a compliment."

"Y-yes?" stammered Tubby.

"Yes," repeated Drann with force. "I want to congratulate you for allowing yourself to grow as a woman should. In the motion pictures all I see are skinny women. Bah!" He flung his hand upward. "I get sick of skinny women! After all, I am a European, and I like a woman one can see and get hold of!" He looked at Tubby fiercely. "Do you understand?"

Tubby nodded nervously. "Yes, Mr. Drann . . ."

When the dinner was over, and Drann, after a cigaret, had excused himself and stomped up to his room, Tubby heaved a great sigh. At sight of Tubby's relief, and remembering her wide-eyed fearful astonishment at Drann's speech, Jo was beside herself with "Have seen yourself!" Jo cried.

"Imagine his nerve. He likes a woman he can see and get hold of! I'd like to have him try to get hold of me!" Tubby told Jo impetuously.

"Would you, really? Maybe he will," laughed Jo.

Tubby glared at her. "Do you suppose he's really like that all the time, or is he just posing? They say you have to act crazy to hold a job in Hollywood. He ought to hold his long time!"

They left the dining room and strolled out on the veranda. "There's something I've been dying to ask you," Tubby said at last. "Remember the time we were going to have a game of tennis, and Douglas Marsh called you for a conference, after he got back from that hunting trip?"

"Yes, Tubby."

"Well, that was a mighty long conference. If you'll pardon my being excessively snooty, you got back that night about 11. Of course that's all right—but you've been mighty quiet about it ever since."

Jo laughed. "Well, there wasn't much to report, except that I didn't lose my job."

"I noticed that," said Tubby meaningly. "And I've also noticed that Marsh hasn't been nearly so attentive to Babs Montgomery since that time."

"You ought to be a detective, Tubby. I'm afraid that Mr. Marsh's attitude toward Babs, if it's really changed at all, hasn't been affected by the night you mention."

Tubby nodded. "All right. But I'm not blind. He's been as cool as a cucumber about Babs, and she hasn't liked it. She's been giving Bret Paul a rush, apparently just to see if she can stir Marsh a little, but he won't stir."

"I think you've got things wrong, Tubby. Babs always liked Bret. You know that."

"Sure. But don't ever dream she'd pass up a chance to join the Montgomery money with the Marsh money. That would make quite a pile of dough, you know."

"I suppose it would," Jo said, wishing Tubby would stop her persistent probing. "What do you say we take one of the motorboats out? There's a moon, and it should be nice on the lake tonight."

"Not me. It's too darned chilly, even if it is almost August. I'm going to curl up in the lobby with a book—and maybe I'll get a glimpse of Lolita."

"Well, I think I'll walk down by the lake anyway, Tubby."

"Jo . . . you're not angry because I'm such a snooty cuss?"

Jo laughed. "Of course not, Tubby. Only, you're really wrong about Douglas Marsh."

"That's what you say. 'Bye,' Tubby turned into the inn for her possible—but not probable—glimpse of the glamorous Lolita Montez.

16,000 WILL BE ENROLLED IN STATE CCC

Eligibles Urged To Register With Administrator

Special to The Democrat
AUSTIN, July 31.—Young men throughout Texas eligible for Civilian Conservation Corps enlistment have been advised by State Enrollment Supervisor Neal E. Guy to make themselves known to their county administrators if they are interested in being among the 16,000 to be enrolled by August 31.

Guy advised county administrators of their quotas and asked that they examine their relief rolls for probable enrollees, with the possibility that quotas will be increased when administrators show enough CCC candidates to warrant.

An eligible candidate is any single man between 18 and 25 whose family is on the relief roll.

While administrators were asked to search their rolls for probable enrollees, Guy suggested that the young men themselves notify their administrator if they are eager to enroll in the CCC.

Approximately 16,000 Texans are to be enrolled by August 31 with about 10,000 expected to be sent to out-of-state camps, Guy said. Out-of-state assignments are made because Texas camps already have their quotas, while camps in some of the other states have not, he explained.

Enrollment will be made at intervals during the next month, and enrollment instructions have already been issued to the first allotment of 3224.

Forty-three new camps are being built in Texas, bringing the total in the state to 96. Approximately 30,000 Texans will be in the CCC by August 31.

Foe of Jews Gets Berlin Police Post

Auguring intensification of the anti-Jewish activities which were climaxed by recent riots, Wolf von Helldorf (above), one of the most fanatical anti-Semites in the Nazi hierarchy, was named chief of police of Berlin to succeed Magnus von Levetzow, who arrested several Nazis during the disorders.

Down to a Shadow of Himself

Viewed in the light of his former well-rounded reputation, this character portrait of Charles Laughton shows him reduced to a mere shadow of himself. Vigorous training has cut down the English actor's weight by 50 pounds to a more presentable 162 pounds. He did this in preparation for his next picture which he will make soon in England.

Show Brethren in Alaska the Way

While other Minnesotans have met discouragement in Alaska's Matanuska Valley a group of their brethren back home, as shown above, are giving the depression a good fight. Several of the two-score colonists, jobless men from Minneapolis, given U. S. aid on a 640-acre tract of marginal land near Goodland, Minn., are pictured above building one of their three comfortable pole houses. Below is part of their poultry farm where they have 5000 chickens. ## Mayor May Take Helm in Austria Belief that Kurt Von Schuschnigg will resign as chancellor of Austria, following the tragic death of his wife in an auto crash, has started discussion of several men who might succeed him. Prominent on the list is Richard Schmitt, above, Vienna's Clerical party mayor.

Talley Stars Before She's Filmed

A movie star before she ever has appeared on the screen—that's the rating Marion Talley has achieved, due to the high figures in her contract. She has passed two screen tests with such success that studio chiefs prophesy a great bit for her when the vehicle which they have been seeking for five months finally is found. More like a charming co-ed than an opera star the Kansas girl appears in this especially attractive picture, first taken in Hollywood.

THE WOMAN'S CORNER

By ALICIA HART

coiffure that can be worn any day is a joy indeed to the woman who wants to be able to arrange her own hair for any occurring day.

Elaborate gowns for afternoon and evening becoming important, it's necessary to choose the kind of hair style that is smart enough to go with the clothes and yet can be quickly to look well with an evening gown.

If you have long hair, variation in your coiffure is a fairly simple matter. You can sleek it back, wearing a tight, flat chignon at daytime, loosen it a trifle and wear the bun higher on the back of your head for afternoon and, when you're ready to go out to a formal evening affair, do it over any of the popular, rather elaborate fashions.

With Grecian Gowns

A Grecian gown and flat-heeled shoes call for a high-in-the-back coiffure with a smooth top across your forehead and, if you have nice ones, let your hair fall over your shoulders. One hairdresser divides long hair into three sections across the back and fixes each one into a soft roll. The complicating factor is pinned vertically over the crown of the head to nap the neck. The side rolls are pinned at right angles with the middle one. They extend outward the top of the ears and end in point at the nape of the neck. The top of the hair at the front is softly waved and there is one all ringlet curl in front of each incidentally, if you like ringlets here and there for evening, never for daytime, get a few all flat clips that are designed especially for home-made curls. Use them while you're taking your hair both and putting on evening keur. After you have twisted new strands around your finger, press the ringlet flat so skin or hair shows in the center of the curl. Put the clip across the forehead-shaped curl and leave it on until the hair is dry.

Curling Ends of Bob

To curl the ends of bobbed hair, use cylinder-like curlers and roll toward away from head. These ringlets can be brushed out and combed around the crown or left as they are in the curlers are removed. Don't forget that false curls in a roll of hair can be useful in arrangement of a coiffure. You get one of these in a shade that matches your hair and use it for afternoon as well as evening.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Grapes, cereal, cream, blueberry muffins, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Crab and tomato salad in lettuce cups, tossed huns, rice baravian, currant fizz.

DINNER: Hot bouillon, toasted crackers, jellied veal loaf, salad of mixed greens, assorted rolls, peach mousse, date and nut bars, milk, coffee

In the daytime, a girl with a long bob might part her hair on one side and comb it backward from her face, arranging the long ends in tight curls high on the back of her head. In the afternoon, she could pin a thick curl from ear to ear, covering the ends of the roll with ringlets or waves. For evening, she might remove the roll, brush out the curls and leave her hair long and soft on the back of her neck. Next morning, it would be a simple matter to gather the ends into daytime ringlets.

WPA Program Ready To Start in 15 Counties

Special to The Democrat
LUBBOCK, July 31.—More than 5,000 workable persons may on relief will be given jobs under the WPA program in the 15 counties comprising District 17 of the Works Progress Administration in Texas on a proportionate basis out of a fund of $50,000,000 allocated for the State of Texas by the federal government, J. O. Jones, director of district 17, announced. The money has been appropriated for worthwhile projects in this district. "It means employment, no relief," Mr. Jones said. "This is not a relief agency," Mr. Jones emphasized. "WPA has been established to replace emergency relief and provide a way to take employable people off the relief rolls and put them to use ful work, either on work projects in private industry in the shortest time possible and at the same time bring about improvements which might otherwise advance slowly." Questions concerning the procedure for obtaining WPA grants continue to pour into the headquarters here, and many applications for jobs have been received by the office. Heads of the departments have been selected and other people will be called into the service of this of-the Washington office for only the amount necessary to complete the project and pay checks will be distributed twice monthly through the Lubbock office. Pay will be upon the basis of a maximum 130 working hours a month and a yearly salary of $252 per man for common labor in Hall County. "A large number of items are eligible for WPA grants. They include farm to market road and road construction; new construction of and repairs on public buildings; housing projects (slum clearance); soil and water conservation; recreation facilities other than buildings; public owned and operated utility plant construction and repairs; rural electrification; building of transportation facilities; professional, technical and clerical projects; and a variety of miscellaneous projects. "No restrictions have been placed upon the expenditures of money received by the laborer. Persons eligible for employment on projects authorized under the Emergency Relief Administration Act of 1935, are those registered by the United States Employment Service, who have been certified by the Emergency Relief Administration as eligible for relief. Works costing less than $25,000 are included in the WPA field. No projects can be accepted which call for a loan, regardless of the amount. It is possible, however, to include sums larger than $25,000 provided the conditions of WPA grants are met by the relief subsequent to May, 1935, project in view."

Hold That Tiger, Wally!

Look! There's a man under that 600-pound tiger, and he's none other than Wallace Beery, the famous movie actor. Looks as though he's going to be gnawed to death, but don't worry—Wally got out of the struggle unharmed. You see, the animal had been well fed beforehand, so this scene for a new movie wasn't so dangerous after all.

Paris Flames With Riot Over Government Pay Cuts

Long-smoldering rage of thousands of French government employes blazed into violence when decree laws of the Laval cabinet slashed their salaries 10 per cent and led to the most serious rioting in Paris since the Stavisky uprising. Here is shown a furious clash in the streets near the Place de l'Opera, center of the city, where thousands of mobile guards and Gardes Republicains halted the demonstrators in their rush on the historic square. Horsemen charge the crowd and guards in the foreground are shown rushing away a prisoner.

I have used all of today's anagram solutions in the following sentence of not more than 30 words:

And 10 Tickets to the Ritz To See Robert Taylor in "MURDER IN THE FLEET"

RULES:

- 1. The letters in each of the accompanying ten anagrams when arranged properly will spell the names of ten words. Two of the words each week will be grocery items. You are invited to solve the anagrams, then arrange them in a sentence of not more than 30 words (you may use less if you wish), and try for one of the ten prizes. 2. To the persons who send in the best entries in accordance with these rules, The Democrat will give a free basket of groceries and ten tickets to the Ritz Theatre. The basket of groceries will be offered as first prize, two tickets to the Ritz as second prize, and one ticket each to the next eight contestants. 3. This offer is open to all except employees of The Democrat and their families. You pay nothing. 4. Awards will be made on the basis of the most nearly correct list of anagrams and the cleverest sentence. Simply rearrange the letters in each anagram to spell a word in common usage. Then check the food and grocery ads in today's Democrat and place a cross mark in the square if you find either of the two grocery items advertised. If the item is NOT advertised make NO mark. 5. All entries will be considered by a committee appointed by The Democrat. Contestants agree to accept the decisions of the committee as final. Judgment will be based upon suitability of words inserted, accuracy in checking cleverness in arranging the sentence, and neatness. No special consideration will be given elaborate entries. In case of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded to tying contestants. 6. All entries must be received at the Democrat office by four o'clock Saturday afternoon.

You need not purchase The Democrat to compete. You may use the handy blank submitted here, or you may submit your entry on a separate sheet of paper. Winners will be announced in Sunday's Democrat.

HIGH-SOUNDING

ANOTHER high-sounding title has come into being with the organization of the Southern Committee To Uphold the Constitution. It sounds awesome—as though the very foundations of American government were about to be hewn away, and that this organization alone is attempting to save the country for the people.

The object of the organization, as layed down in a so-called news dispatch received in this office, is as high-sounding as the title. It is "to resist raids upon the Constitution."

The "committee" has a long list called the "declaration of principles," which sounds fine enough, with such things as "recognizing the sovereign rights of the States and the private rights of the citizens;" holding "congress to its Constitutional responsibilities of making the laws;" opposing "usurpation of power by public officials not specifically granted them under the Constitution;" for "the levy and collection of such taxes only as are necessary to the purposes of Government, economically administered," standing for "a tered," etc.

Glance over this list of "principles" again. What do they mean? Can you find anything there that is not naturally supposed to be upheld either in Congress or in the courts? Is any danger threatening these principles? Then why all the high-sounding organization all of a sudden?

We thought the "committee" said it was going to uphold the Constitution and resist "raids upon the Constitution." Yet the organization's final principle reads thusly: "We are opposed to the substitution of any form of Government for the form provided for in the Constitution unless such change is made through amendments to the Constitution in the manner provided for in that instrument." The "committee" need not worry. No changes will be made in any other manner, and then it will be the people, not the administration, that makes them.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Munitions Probers Gird for Determined "War Insurance" Fight... Efficient Morgan Filing System Prevents "Holdout" on Secrets... Private Letters Reveal Europe's War Terror... Abyssinian Cross One of Cathedral's Treasures.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—If a certain bi-partisan group of determined senators can be counted on to go through with their private assurances, this heated session of Congress will feature an outstanding battle for "war insurance."

Members of the Senate Munitions Committee, with a unanimity seldom found in such a congressional group, are getting set to tack their neutrality bills onto the big tax measure if they can't get the program reported out by an apparently hostile Foreign Relations Committee.

Similar action is likely on their bill to tax the profits out of war, now buried with the Finance Committee.

Various other groups—conspicuously the inflationists—intend to urge pet plans as riders to the tax bill when it reaches the Senate floor. If Senator Borah had known about the Munitions Committee plan, he might have predicted adjournment in December instead of November.

The neutrality program, introduced in three resolutions by Senators Nye and Clark, would prohibit loans or credits to warring nations, restrict trips by Americans into war zones, prohibit export of munitions to belligerents, and cause all shipments of commodities to belligerents to be made at the buyers' risk.

State, War, and Navy departments—and even the White House—seen to be cold to these measures at this session. Hence their bottled-up status in committee.

All the Munitions Committee members, recalling the last war's lessons and believing that European war clouds are menacing, are willing to take the floor and holler loudly for action at this session.

Morgan System Aids Probe

The House of Morgan has one of the most efficient cross-filing and indexing systems in the world.

The Munitions Committee investigators, who have been searching the Morgan files for evidence showing how we got into the last war to protect American loans and exports to the Allies, have found occasion for great glee in that.

Original fear that important documents might have been mysteriously mislaid before or after arrival of the investigators has diminished considerably. Through a numerical and alphabetical code, it appears, practically every paper is linked up with other papers and it would be very difficult to hold anything out.

That doesn't mean that all the sensational facts being unearthed from the files will ever be publicized. The Morgan firm and the British government, whose fiscal agent it was while this country was taking the road to war, can exert powerful influence in Washington when their secrets are imperiled.

War Terror Grips Europe

Private letters received by this writer indicate the extent to which everyone over there is thinking in terms of war. One hears:

Nothing but war talk in Germany—"of the most acute and apprehensive and bell-quivering sort," with most of the German people in a "white heat of fear."

Common belief in England that Italy will have a bad time in Ethiopia, whereupon Germany will walk into Austria and all hands probably will be drawn in... England re-establishing sphere of influence in Greece since marriage of Princess Marina to the Duke of Kent and probably backing restoration of the Greek monarchy as well as increased armaments in a nation strategically important when Italy invades Abyssinia...

German ships, under naval agreement with Britain, to be largely of the shallow draft type which could operate in the Gulf of Finland and bombard Leningrad... Of a "silent airplane" finally developed by Germany to a point where it can balk aerial sound detectors. (Aviation experts here say this probably is the "steam engine plane" of which they have heard rumors, alleged to be operated by crude oil and able to stay in the air for days.)

Cross Is Abyssinian Gift

The crucifer at National Cathedral here carries, on special occasions, a gold Abyssinian cross (formed of many small crosses in lace-like design) sent to Bishop James E. Freeman of Emperor Haile Selassie after the bishop had ordered a special prayer on the day of the Christian ruler's coronation. The cross is kept in a red plush box, lined with purple.

WHO PAYS FOR ADVERTISING?

Does the advertiser pay? No.

Does the buyer pay? No.

Well, then, who does pay?

Answer: The advertiser's non-advertising competitors pay the bills.

This group is divided into four types.

The first is he who says: "I don't believe in newspaper advertising." He pays, and he pays dearly because daily would-be buyers pass his place on their way to his competitor's store to purchase advertised goods and services; his telephone orders are fewer than possible, and his mail orders fail to meet his expectations.

Yes, he helps pay for his competitor's advertising, and he pays dearly, and during his idle business hours, he wonders why business is dull.

The second type is he who says, "I believe in advertising, but I can't afford it." He holds a dime so close to his eye that he can't see the dollar farther away. He loves money and wants to make more money, but he lacks vision. Yes, he, too, pays his share of his competitor's advertising through loss of customers.

The third type is he who says, "If I advertise, I must raise the prices." This type fails to see that it is better to sell a large volume of merchandise at a fair profit than it is to sell a smaller amount at a larger profit. He overlooks the fact that daily advertising will attract to his place new customers, many of whom will become regular customers, and he makes another mistake of overlooking the fact that only through volume selling can a merchant do volume buying, which means purchasing at greatly reduced prices, enabling him to reduce the prices of advertised goods instead of increasing the prices.

The fourth type is he who thinks that he can select a better medium than that of his leading daily newspaper. This type makes an error of judgment, perhaps because he is not fully informed. He doesn't know that through no other method can a seller reach so many buyers at so small a per person cost, as every day eager eyes are looking for advertised bargains in the leading newspaper.

The buyers of advertised goods do not pay the advertising bills. Why not? Because advertised goods are actually sold cheaper than non-advertised goods.

How do we know that neither the advertiser nor the buyer of advertised goods, pays for the advertising? The answer is the enviable record of the nation's most prominent business houses, those firms that have been in business year after year, many of whom advertise daily, attracting to their places the consuming public who has learned through experience that advertised goods are not only better than non-advertised merchandise, but actually cheaper, fresher and more satisfactory in every way.

Babson Says Character Training Is Only Sound Basis for Reform

By ROGER W. BABSON
BARBON PARK, Mass., Aug. 2.—Our greatest need today is not more goods, higher wages, bigger profits, nor further legislative reforms. Rather, it is the strengthening and rebuilding of our national character. For the last 50 years we have concentrated on the development of our machines with the result that the development of our humans has been neglected. I feel very strongly that unless the education of humans catches up with the improvement of machines, we can never hope for further spiritual or material growth.

Poorer of Character?
Business is now three per cent above last July, but there are still approximately as many without jobs today as a year ago and the number on relief has actually increased. How can this be? Is it that Americans no longer want to work? Within three centuries we have converted a vast wilderness into the most prosperous nation in the world. Yet, since the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth in 1620 our standard of character has utterly failed to match the progress of our standard of living. We have lost those sterling qualities which enabled our forefathers to build America.

I have just returned from Gloucester, Mass.—my birthplace. There I had a beautiful view of the landing place where the settlers first set feet on Gloucester soil over three centuries ago. As I listen today to the town's people talk of the hundreds living "on the city" I wonder if there would be any United States of America now if our ancestors had had no more guts than many of those on relief rolls. If it were possible to graft into the millions who are accepting public aid today the same backbone of iron and will of steel of their forefathers, we would have accomplished more than all the alphabet agencies rolled into one!

"Hot-house" Reform
Naturally, readjustments and reforms in all governments are always needed. The President's goal to bring about more equal opportunities for all is basically sound and good. Such a goal is in the interest of everyone's children and grandchildren. To make complete and sweeping reforms, such as the administration is now trying to do, however, is a serious blunder. Changes should be gradual so that gains may be consolidated before new crusades are started. The recent sharp criticism of the President's program is due to his use of "hot-house" reform methods. He has tried to build too big a structure on too weak a foundation?

There are three powerful laws that not even Congress, the New Deal, nor the Supreme Court can change. These are (1) the Law of Survival of the Fittest; (2) the Law of Supply and Demand; and (3) the Law of Action and Reaction. We cannot break these laws—we can only break ourselves against them. Those New Deal experiments which violate natural laws are doomed to failure. The President can make far greater progress toward his goal by taking advantage of these great truths than by trying to circumvent them. In fact, laws cannot be made, they can only be discovered; and character can not be legislated, it can only be developed.

The solution of the world's long term problems will come only through the development of character and intelligence. More opportunities for all will be brought through self control of individuals—not through the state-control of income. As a matter of fact, we can do our national character grave injury by the copulation of public contracts, by unfair and discriminatory taxation, by unwarranted federal extravagance, and by government molly-coddling of the indolent. Reforming the bankers and industrialists is a step forward; but it will not make democracy safe unless supplemented by an effectual movement to reform also the politicians, the labor leaders, and the voters themselves.

Surely our present methods of combating war, crime, graft, class conflicts, and business dishonesty have made little progress in the past three decades. How much better the results would have been if the moneys annually spent trying to cure these national cancers had been used to build up the nation's character resistance against such plagues. How much better off we would be today if this money had been used to influence the desires of people for things more worthwhile. Raising the standard of the wants and desires of any people automatically boosts their standard of character.

Birth vs Gold Standard
Vital statistics show that democracy will ultimately collapse unless nations give genetics and eugenics primary consideration. Today parents with strong characters and alert minds have only one or two children and hence do not reproduce themselves, while parents with weak characters and unbalanced minds have from three to eight children. Just as sure as two and two makes four, this system spells inevitable disaster. Compared with this question of heredity, the New Deal's social and economic program is mere twiddle-twaddle. Our birth standard is far more important than our wage standard, our gold standard or our living standard!

The thought which I want to leave with you is that no army nor navy, no New Deal nor EPIC campaign, can save our most precious heritages—democracy and liberty. In the last analysis our national future depends upon our national character. Whatever the New Deal's "must" bills may be there is in reality but one real "must"—to develop our human resources as we have perfected our mechanical resources. Today's greatest need is to instill in our children those same qualities which made it possible for our ancestors to blaze the trail of American civilization from ocean to ocean!

Business, as registered by the Babsonhart, now stands at 21 per cent below normal, but is 3 per cent above a year ago. (Copyright 1935 Publishers Financial Bureau)

What Do You—

SAM HAMILTON: I have done quite a bit of Boy Scout work here in Memphis, and I say if they want to do anything with the boys of this age scout work is the best.

It is just as much pleasure for the supervisor as it is for the boys. He forgets all other matters for the time being when he mixes with the boys.

The reason we don't have more troops in Memphis is due to the lack of interest, the time required and the money needed. It's hard to find the man who will make these sacrifices.

If there is any weak point in our community it is the failure to supervise the young folks. I know as well as the other adults that the young boys are going to find some sort of diversion, and I am sorry to say it isn't always the best. But what can you expect when such little interest is shown in their welfare.

I can think of nothing to benefit Memphis more, now and for years of come, than to the organizing of additional Boy Scout troops.

Sunday: What do you think of city mail delivery in Memphis?

TO HOLD REVIVAL
Rev. G. H. Gattis, pastor of the Methodist Church at Lakeview, announced today the beginning of a meeting Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Everyone is cordially invited to take part in the services.

Patton's Daughter On Witness Stand

By Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Bonnie Patton, 17, daughter of Representative Patton of Texas, testified today that E. V. Sellers, NRA employe, told her he knew the box her father took from the hotel room of John W. Carpenter, Texas utilities official, contained cigars.

She quoted Sellers as telling her: "That's absurd. I guess I know that there were cigars in the box. I smoked some of them myself."

Previously Sellers had denied smoking them.

The committee also received the testimony of Morris Shook, nephew of the congressman, that the box contained cigars.
