Betty Crocker KITCHEN CLINIC

prepared for The Democrat by Betty Crocker Home Service Department

"CLEAN THE PLATES and STARVE THE GARBAGE CAN"

Lean and hungry garbage cans are the style these days. In fact, a fat, overstuffed garbage can may well bring down on one's head the scorn and suspicion of the neighborhood. Such and such a family aren't patriotic. They waste food. Food that is so essential to the winning of the war. Food which is so limited that when it is wasted in one home, another home may have to go without.

So let's see what we can do to prevent edible food from finding its way to the garbage can.

The Problem of Those Who Never Eat Quite All The Food On Their Plates

First of all, we can make our families feel that a well-cleaned plate is a virtue, and a plate with scraps of food left on it is in the same category as dirty hands at the table—unpolished shoes and uncombed hair. Then there's another way to deal with finicky eaters who habitually leave a little food untraced on their plates. Give each member of the family very small portions. Better make it so small that they'll ask for more than so large that they will not eat it all. Be careful not to load the plates with foods which the family eat with very little enthusiasm. If you know some member of the family doesn't particularly like a certain food—spinach or carrots—give him a very small portion.

Make The Most Of Each Food

Then there are potato peelings, outer leaves of cauliflower, beet tops, radish tops and celery tops. They used to be Mr. Garbage Can's rightful fare. But we're going to deny him even these now. Cauliflower leaves and beet greens are good eating—what's more they are full of important vitamins and minerals. Cook them like spinach. You'll find they make a very acceptable "mess of greens." Celery tops and radish tops go well in salads. Some of the most important minerals of the potato are next to the skin. So bake potatoes or boil them in their jackets. Water in which vegetables are cooked contain minerals and vitamins we cannot afford to lose. So save the water and use it for part of the liquid in white sauces, or in soups.

Save Fruit Juices Too

Save the juices from canned fruits. A friend of mine served a delicious raspberry sherbet the other day made from the juice of some black raspberries she'd canned last summer. Because this fruit juice was sweet, she used a very little sugar in her sherbet. Fruit gelatin desserts, tapiocas, and fruit drinks are other pleasant ways in which to use these juices and syrups.

Crusts of Bread

Left-over odds and ends of bread, stale cake or cookies go into bread puddings. The bread crumbs can also be used in stuffings, meat loaves and croquettes. Left-over cooked vegetables can go into meat pies and stews.

Save Left-over Fats

Save left-over dabs of butter for cooking—never, never scrape a bit of butter into the garbage can! Collect every scrap of fat from roasts, steaks, chops and any drippings. "Try out" pieces of fat by cutting them into small pieces, then melting them over very low heat or the top of a double boiler. Over-heating the fat darkens the color and spoils the flavor. Strain through a cheesecloth.

HOW TO USE LEFT-OVER FAT IN BAKING

First "clarify it". That is heat with a raw potato in it, using 4 slices of potato to 1 quart of fat. Heat gradually to 325° F. When the fat bubbles and potato slices brown, strain through 2 or 3 thicknesses of cheesecloth into a tall jar or pail. Store such fats in light-proof, tightly covered containers in the refrigerator.

When Substituting Left-Over Fats For Butter

For 1 cup butter or substitute shortenings, such as margarine, etc., use 3/4 cup lard and a little salt, or 4/5 cup clarified bacon fat, or 3/4 cup clarified chicken fat, or 1/2 cup suet and a little salt, or 3/4 cup vegetable oil (latter should not be substituted in recipes which call for hard shortenings to be creamed with sugar). In substituting bacon fat, chicken fat and suet, increase liquid in recipe 1/4 cup for each cup butter or substitute shortening called for in recipe. Lard, bacon fat, and suet should be used only in cakes, cookies, quick breads, etc., having a pronounced flavor (such as chocolate cakes, gingerbreads, spice cakes, molasses cookies, etc.).

Women Work— CIVILIAN DEFENSE AUXILIARY NOTES

Women are the nicest people Mr. Tommie Potts, chairman of the Red Cross War Fund Campaign told your reporter to contact the various ladies who were to have charge of the drive in the residential section of Memphis and it seemed like a big job. But it wasn't. We telephoned six women and each one said immediate action should be taken. Memphis is divided into five sections. All east of the railroad will be taken care of by Mrs. E. T. Prater and Mrs. John Dennis, and they volunteered to work morningside addition, feeling that many there would like to help since they too have sons in the service.

West Memphis is divided by Main Street and 10th Street and the following ladies are chairmen of their districts: Mrs. M. O. Goodpasture, northwest section; Mrs. Bill Coursey, northeast section; Mrs. O. V. Alexander, southeast section; Mrs. Dick Watson, southwest section. Each of these ladies have appointed several helpers and they will call on you sometime before March 31st. We are not afraid of how you will greet them.

Two men from Turkey, who have sons in the Pacific, were talking the other day. One said he would answer Red Cross call with $25. The other said: "We cannot give too much. The Red Cross is the only means of communication we have with the boys who are prisoners and to hear from even one Hall County boy who is missing is worth more than $5,100 Hall County is asked to give in March." Had you thought of it like that? Those men knew what they were talking about.

But that isn't all your Red Cross dollars will do. Think of the comforts they will bring to our soldiers, of the food and clothing they will take to those who are destitute, the necessities of life they will take to war starved people who are bearing the brunt of this conflict.

Do you remember that the Red Cross spent more than $8,000 in Hall County not too long ago?

Hall County girls are making good in the WAAC. Every girl writes home that she is proud to be wearing the uniform of her country. Several have already been promoted and are being trained for special duty. We are going to hear more about Miss Jacqueline McMurry soon and something to be very proud of. In the meantime your reporter will be very glad to give you information about the WAAC and the WAVE.

All Out for Victory— Mrs. J. R. Kemp and son Jimmie of Lubbock visited from Wednesday until Saturday here with her sisters, Mrs. Bill Lyon and family, and Miss Maxine Wingrove.

Mrs. Una Lord of Silvertown visited here last week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Lord.

County Men in the Armed Forces

Harrell, M. M. 2-c U. S. Navy, wrote the letter to J. Claude He is stationed somewhere in the South Pacific the Seabees.

Mr. Wells: I received your letter of January 10 and was really glad to hear from you and to know that you are interested in my work.

I am sorry that I do not have any interesting experiences to relate at this time, but maybe next time.

Where did you get that "roving correspondent" business? I wish I could roam a little more, I am about tired of this place.

A wonderful invention the thing called a washing machine. We now have one that is at our disposal. One way of making life easier for the sailor, no bend, no scrub and no sweat and bother, just turn a handle and sit down, smoke a cigarette, chew the fat, and presto, your wash is done.

Yes, we also have another moving picture machine so they can show a picture straight through without stopping to change reels.

The chow is getting better by the day and it looks to me like life is coming into the boys around here. We also have a good shower with plenty of good warm water. Open 24 hours a day.

The mail is also getting here now within 14 to 20 days. In fact, things are getting so good that I am afraid we will move and have to start all over again.

I don't know whether you have heard about the so called "Scuttle Bucket" we have in the Navy. If you haven't, then I will enlighten you.

"Scuttle-bucket" is the word given to loose talk or rumors, it travels faster than a forest fire in a high wind. Just start it off and then run around to the other side of the camp and it will be there.

Some guys told me that his friends told him that he had a friend who has a friend, on the Admiral's staff, and he said that the admiral said that the 7th Batt. was going to do so and so. That, my friend, goes on for days and days.

So you hear one thing one day and another tomorrow and some days it just doesn't pay to get out of bed. (Pardon me, I mean out of the sack).

That is all for now so goodbye now.

Your roving correspondent,
"Curt."

Coxswain Lester H. Campbell, news editor of The Democrat in peace times, but instructor of recruits in the Navy at Farragut, Idaho, writes an interesting running account of life in the Navy.

You'll have to pardon my not writing more often, but I hate to write letters, especially if there's no typewriter around. And I'll tell you now that a typewriter is one thing the Navy has that a Coxswain doesn't need to know anything about.

I've just finished reading the February 18 Democrat, which frantically I'm getting as regular as cussin's art, and I note a number of letters from men and women in the service, but I've sort of become so used to this business I can think of little of interest to write.

My "handing about" from San Diego to Bremerton to Farragut has let me in for none of the hardships of sea duty. It seems strange that I should be in the Navy a year and never have been out to sea. At least I've seen it! That's something. It also seems strange that I, who one year ago, left Memphis knowing absolutely nothing of the Navy or seamanship should now be teaching recruits various phases of seamanship. I don't mean to brag, but I've become quite adept in the art of tying knots, and quite fluent in the art of lecturing on deck seamanship, ground tackle, duties of lookouts, and duties of seaman watches. I know, and hear more every day, good—and bad—sea stories and jokes, and can at times make the men recruit sit up and take notice at the "bull" I sling. I never, however, make the mistake of leading them to believe I've been to sea—my they might really stick me with a boomer of a question if I misled them in that manner. There are eleven other guys in the group I was in at Bremerton now here at Farragut and I guess we're about the best-informed dry-land sailor in the Navy. So we're doing our best to pass this knowledge along to the recruits in the best way we can until our call for actual combat, with something tougher than words, comes along.

A training station, as this at Farragut, is one of the best places in the world to hear funny and peculiar things. For example one poor recruit worried because he wasn't such a good swimmer asked a chief Petty Officer what he should do if he wasn't able to swim far enough to hang onto a life raft. "Well," drawled the chief disgustedly, "Lad, just hold your nose until you hit bottom—then run like hell."

Then every day in my classes I run onto some shy and scared young boy of 17 who's worried about one thing or another. A new recruit can ask more questions in a minute than Herschel could set on his lintype in a year's time. They are afraid, most of them anyway, to ask any officers, so they really pour them to us.

This station would be a very nice place—if we could get to town somewhat easier, and if there were anything to do when we get there. Transportation facilities to "Coeur D'Alene, 25 miles away, are very poor. Then imagine turning 3 or 4 thousand crew sailors loose at once in a town of normally 9,000. Or can you imagine it? And a lot of new recruits, on their first liberty in a uniform, are always what I would call gentlemen.

That's all.

Lester H. Campbell.

Gas Company to Distribute Free Garden Outline

In support of the national Victory Garden drive, United Gas Corporation has prepared an information outline on proper gardening methods for this area, and made it available at the nearest gas company office to anyone who will stop in and ask for it.

"The American people have been advised by our government to make a serious effort to grow their own vegetables this year," the announcement said. "With point rationing and increasing shortages of food ahead, it is strongly urged that everyone who has a plot of ground consider turning it into a Victory Garden now without further delay. This is the time of year to start. Those who are inexperienced at vegetable gardening will find this pamphlet doubly valuable."

Gas company representatives stated that the information in this outline has been furnished by J. F. Rosborough, Texas A. & M. College extension service horticulturist, who is a recognized authority on vegetable gardening.

The outline, entitled "Victory Garden Information," covers the following subjects: "Growing Something to Eat," "How to Grow It," "What to Grow," including suggested varieties, amount of seed per row and time to plant, and "Vegetable Pointers."

Some of the interesting points brought out on how to make a garden include proper spacing of rows, planting depth, insect elimination, thinning out young plants, and tips on fertilizing and working the soil.

Your engine's cylinders can't stop empty. They'll either load up with fresh raw gas when you shut 'er off, or get caught with stale burned gas they can't belch out.

In those useless leftovers are corrosive acids, trapped in the engine you can't replace—along with moist "sweat" as the interior cools. Any chemistry freshman knows these causes of biting corrosion, always present—long before wartime. But when your car was in frequent use, at speeds that thoroughly warmed the engine, it helped to offset the worst acid effects. How different today, when mileage, speed, and average engine heat are all down—giving acid its chance to run riot!

You can't open the engine and keep sponging out any acids or other moisture, while your car stands little used nowadays. But without extra fuss or extravagance you can change to Conoco Nth motor oil and get your engine internally OIL-PLATED.

You're familiar with anti-corrosive plating...like chromium-plating. Just as closely, this protective OIL-PLATING will be kept surfaced to delicate parts by advanced synthetic means—as described in the celebrated patent on Conoco Nth. Though your gasoline-rationed car makes few runs, you can combat corrosion between times. For you can keep your engine OIL-PLATED by changing to Conoco Nth this Spring at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Continental Oil Company

Engagement of Miss Charline Gerlach And Ensign Billie Polk Hall Announced

Messages inscribed on fascimiles of the wings worn by Navy fliers, announced the engagement of Miss Charline Gerlach and Ensign Billie Polk Hall, to be married at an informal dinner Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

The dinner was at the home of the bride elect given by her mother, Mrs. Alvis Gerlach, assisted by Mrs. E. H. Stanford.

The announcements, 'Charline and Billie' were written in black ink on the small gold colored wings. These messages were used as place cards on the dinner table.

The plates were served on a lace covered table centered with a large white satin covered anchor which arose from a cluster of white sweet peas and blue iris chosen to place emphasis upon the two colors chosen by the bride elect for her wedding.

Miss Gerlach is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvis Gerlach. She was yell leader of Memphis High School pep squad during her senior year. She was a member of the A-Capella Choir four years. During her sophomore year she was chosen Sophomore Queen and her senior year was chosen Football Queen.

Ensign Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Hall, graduated with the class of 1938 of Memphis High School and was a four-year letterman on the football squad. He attended California Junior College at San Bernardino, Calif. and West Texas State College Canyon, playing on the football team at both places.

Hall entered the Naval Air Corps in June, taking his first training at Grand Prairie and was sent from there to U. S. Naval Base at Corpus Christi where he was recently commissioned as an Ensign. He is now receiving Air Operational Training at the U. S. Naval Air Station at Miami, Fla.

The date of the couple's wedding is dependent upon the date on which he will finish the latter course.

Those attending were Mesdames Noel Clifton, Gene Lindsey, Elmer Fisher, Dick Shelton, Lyman Davenport Jr., and Misses Naomi Smith, Darleyn Reed, Colleen Abernathy, Betty Johnson, Mary Helen Lindsey, Mary Jones, and Gerlach.

Miss Ruth Ayers visited last week-end in Big Spring.

Sentinels of Health

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.
