Starvation Faces Millions of Chinese And Local Red Cross Is Asked for Aid

E. E. Roberts, chairman of the Hall County Red Cross chapter, states that the chapter has been called upon to contribute $20 from the treasury and as much more as can be obtained by solicitation for the relief of millions of men, women and children of China who are facing actual starvation.

According to a letter from the chairman of the National Red Cross organizations, one of the greatest periods of suffering in modern world history is beginning in devastated China, with little relief in sight.

Recent reports to Red Cross headquarters from consular officials and American business men in China estimate that 20,000,000 persons are homeless in areas accessible to foreign surveys alone, and that an equally large number will be found in interior provinces. In that same territory 1,000,000 homeless orphans, or children separated from their families, are wandering over the devastated countryside, shelterless, foodless, and exposed to chilling typhoon weather now sweeping over coastal provinces.

The situation is rendered more desperate, and the outlook gloomier, by the fact that in war-torn areas no planning for food crops or agricultural production of any sort is possible. The tools of farmer-peasants have been destroyed; indeed, many of them find it impossible to return to their land because of military occupation.

John Earl Baker, international-known relief expert and for many years director of the China Famine Relief Committee, has recently advised American officials that the number of persons in all parts of China who face starvation may reach the appalling figure of 60,000,000 before September, 1938.

"By that number," he reported, "I do not mean that they will merely be on 'starvation' rations, but that no food actually will be procurable to fend off death. And I doubt that the world has ever witnessed such an awful tragedy as this one about to be enacted in China," he concluded.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hammond left Thursday for their home in Gardengrove, Calif., after being here on account of the illness and death of Mrs. Hammond's mother, Mrs. E. Bean. They were accompanied by W. C. Crump who came last week for a visit with his mother, Mrs. Bess Crump.

"THE QUICK HEAT of the new electric ranges banished an old notion that had haunted me... the ancient idea that electric cooking is slow. These new electric ranges are incredibly fast. You can feel the surge of cooking heat the instant you flip the switch. And they...

COST SO LITTLE to operate! The Keeper of the Wampum in our family practically purrs when he gets our electric bills. I cook for a family of five... but from the cost you'd think I got meals for a midget. Automatic controls give me much more free time, and it's so...

WONDERFULLY CLEAN! I could take a pan right off the burner... and use it as a mirror to powder my nose! Blackened utensils, walls and curtains have gone out of my life forever. Kitchen work is much easier. I don't know how I stood it back in the dark ages before we decided to...

GO MODERN with electric cookery. Every woman who tries one of the new electric ranges will know why I fell in love with mine the day that it arrived!"

Concert by Two Young Musicians Here Friday Proves to be Artistic Success

On Friday evening in the auditorium of the First Baptist Church an enthusiastic audience greeted two youthful musicians and proclaimed their concert an artistic success.

Miss Mary Helen Lindsey, pianist, assisted by Miss Lowena Moore, violinist, added new laurels to their former achievements and proved anew that they are competent and thorough musicians.

The program contained numbers seldom attempted before college training, but no selection proved to be beyond the understanding and facility of the performers.

Bach's Three-part Invention No. XIII for the piano and his Air for the G String for the violin afforded an interesting contest, and each number represents a distinctive ability to one familiar with musical form.

Beethoven's Sonata Op. 14 No. 1 is most demanding. Miss Lindsey played the entire sonata of three movements with a conception and interpretation that would have gained the praise of a professional.

The correct atmosphere was created for "Valse Triste" by Sibelius which requires mental as well as technical control.

Liszt's "Liebestraum" is a universal favorite and the manner in which it was performed left nothing to be desired.

The program closed with a brilliant two piano arrangement of Rubinstein's "Staccato Caprice." Needless to say, Miss Moore's assistance added doubly to the enjoyment of the audience. Her playing and her unquestionable love for her chosen art evinces the worth and value of music in a human life. She has a large following of admirers who are even inspired by the beauty and depth of her music.

Miss Lindsey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Lindsey and the piano pupil of Mrs. Margaret Morgan. Her program on Friday evening holds the rank of "Senior Piano" although she is a High School junior.

MARY HELEN LINDSEY

Aside from her ability as a pianist, she has many other recognitions. She holds one of the highest academic averages, was voted one of the twelve "Who's Who" by the faculty, was regional winner in typing and plays the pipe organ exceptionally well. Her accomplishments are outstanding and her future could be nothing but promising.

Friday evening's program in its entirety follows:

Sonata Op. 14 No. 1	Beethoven
Allegretto	Bach
Rondo	Mary Helen
Air for the G-String	Lowena
Liebestraum	Mary Helen
Berceuse from "Jocelyn"	Lowena
Nocturne	Lowena
Three-part Invention No. 13	Orleg
Valse Triste	Sibelius
L'Abelle (The Bee)	Mary Helen
Weiner Bonbons	Strauss-Rive King
Adoration	Mary Helen
Staccato Caprice	Lowena
Piano I—Mary Helen	Rubinstein
Piano II—Mrs. Morgan

A Tribute to the Retail Merchants of this Community

Each of us has an obligation . . . a real debt to the merchants of Memphis. Year in and year out, they bear a fair share of the tax load. Some of them pioneered this town. They've molded it into what it is. On their counters and shelves, you find the quality products of the world . . . selling at fair prices.

Let us bear in mind that the dollars we spend with our local merchants stay within the community circle. "Trade at home" is no idle phrase. We urge every citizen to do his or her part in "Keeping Our Main Street Facing Forward." And, in the field of printing, keep your jobs in Memphis, too, by ordering your supplies from—

Diverting Flood Waters to Fields And Pastures Aid Crops and Grass

Millions of gallons of water which formerly flowed down the slopes of Texas Panhandle fields and into roadside ditches to increase possible flood dangers in lower areas this year are being diverted back to cultivated fields and pastures to become available for use in growing crops and grass, a survey by the Soil Conservation Service shows. Farmers cooperating with the Soil Conservation Service in the demonstration areas are using various types of diversion structures and spreader systems to catch and distribute this runoff water where it will be of benefit to their land. Typical of this phase of soil and moisture conservation in the wind erosion area of the Texas Panhandle are the practices being used on the 320-acre farm of O. Wilder, located eight miles west of Hereford. Even before the demonstration projects of the Soil Conservation Service were set up in 1935, Mr. Wilder had realized that his land was being damaged by wind and water erosion and had taken steps to check his losses. When he became one of the first cooperators of the Hereford project in the fall of 1935, Mr. Wilder already was listing his fields on the contour and had constructed two small terraces. Observing that a large amount of water was running off a 40-acre straight-row tilled field in the immediate vicinity and into a road-side ditch which carried drainage from a half-mile of highway, Wilder decided to salvage this "lost moisture" for the benefit of crops on his 24-acre field paralleling the roadway. In cooperation with the Soil Conservation Service, Wilder constructed a ditch to divert the runoff water from the roadside into his field to be spread evenly by a "syrup pan" system of terraces. The ditch was sodded with buffalo grass, and when a 3.23-inch rain fell within a brief period last spring, the diverted runoff water covered Wilder's field from terrace to terrace. As a result of this additional moisture, Wilder harvested 12 bushels to the acre while the yield on straight-row fields in the same area was less than seven bushels. The diversion ditch is carrying extra water to Wilder's field again this spring, the land now being fallowed for wheat planting. "I am greatly pleased with results from soil and moisture con-

Quail Rural High School Is Known as Texas' Largest and Best Institution

The Quail consolidated school in Collingsworth County is the largest rural high school in Texas. It was organized in 1935 and is completing its third school term. Carl Chaudoin is superintendent, and furnishes the following information to The Democrat:

All students in the school are from rural homes, and the curriculum has been fitted to the needs of those students. Not only are the teachers responsible for the class room instruction, but they are also responsible for all the things that are furnished in other localities by the school, the chamber of commerce, the civic clubs, societies, theatres, parks, truant officers, vocational guidance, and things pertaining to the general economic welfare of a district comprising 200 square miles of territory, 600 students, and 500 adults.

Realizing such need, teachers well qualified and especially prepared to cope with this problem were employed. The program is being carried out in every detail in accordance with the written plan and is gaining nation-wide recognition.

This three-year cooperative program is being carried on in vocational agriculture and vocational homemaking departments. Some of the activities include three radio broadcasts, an FFA and FHT banquet, parties, a three-act play, with a combined cast, basketball tournaments, a project show and community fair, beautification project on the school grounds, cabinets and other improvements in both the home economics, cottage and agriculture hall, local, district and state contest, adult evening schools, cooperative buying and selling of seed, feed and livestock, and soil conservation projects.

These two chapters and their sponsors are assisted by the school administration, county agents, FSA administrators, and county health departments.

Probably the most outstanding part of the program has been the adult evening schools in which 236 adult farm men and women were enrolled this year, sponsored by FFA and FHT departments. The whole group would meet for a business meeting, or farm and homemaking skills and then the men and women would separate for an hour's lesson. The men studied "Feeding Livestock and Poultry" and "Soil Conservation" while the women studied homemaking skills such as food preservation, making clothing, demonstrated cooking, and such.

Lower Deduction Rates on Excess Crop Plantings

Amendment To Farm Act Will Benefit Farmers Exceeding Allotment

Farmers who have planted in excess of their general crop acreage allotments will be benefited by a recent amendment to the new farm act which lowered the deduction rate for overplanting the general crops allotment, Geo. Slaughter, Wharton, chairman of the Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee, said after a meeting of the group at Texas A. & M. College.

The amendment, which will allow many Texas farmers who planted general crops before receiving their allotment to qualify under the 1938 Agricultural Conservation Program, reduced the deduction rate for overplanting from 8 to 5 times the payment rate.

This means, Slaughter said, that where the rate of payment for a farm was $1 an acre, and a farmer overplanted 10 acres, his payment would be reduced by 8 times $1 or $8 an acre, or $80 for the 10 acres. Under the amendment, the deduction on the same farm would be 5 times $1, or $5 an acre, a total of $50 for the 10 acres. Thus the total payment for the farm would be increased by $30.

Slaughter emphasized that the amendment applied to general soil depleting crops, such as corn, and not to cotton, which is under the quota plan. In the case of wheat, the deduction for exceeding the combined wheat and general crop acreage allotment would be made at a rate per acre equal to 5 times the wheat payment rate.

"The carry-over of the principal feed crops is such if two-thirds of the farms take part in the conservation program and do not plant in excess of their acreage allotments, and the rest plant 10 per cent more than usual, the total supply of feed next fall will be about 10 per cent above normal, assuming that average yields are obtained," Slaughter pointed out. "In view of this situation, the committee urges farmers who have not already completed plantings of grain feed crops to keep their plantings within the acreage allotments whenever this is practicable."

ICE MILEAGE ANT? Washing, Greasing, Service Phone 51,

But you want to know exactly why. You're leery of general statements that won't save you one piston ring or one quart of oil. So you want what the doctors call a specific. And that's what you get—a definite, substantial, physical protector that actually exists right in your engine as soon as you get it OIL-PLATED. Only patented Conoco Germ Processed oil from Your Mileage Merchant's station can give your engine OIL-PLATING. Other oils can't. No matter how much refining is claimed for them, they cannot surpass the correct refining of Conoco Germ Processed oil, but refining only takes things out. Going much farther, Germ Processing adds in the patented man-made substance that gives your engine OIL-PLATING. Only this addition by the Germ Process makes oil "join up" with the working parts, to keep them OIL-PLATED. All the while Germ Processed oil is used, OIL-PLATING is permanent. Like other plating, OIL-PLATING keeps wear from getting through. And like other plating, OIL-PLATING can't drain down at any time. Actually united to each surface, OIL-PLATING gives your engine lubrication that needn't wait for the oil pump... Before other oils could even begin to circulate, OIL-PLATING is ready to lubricate! Thus you know why the much-advertised harm of "dry starting" doesn't mean a thing with your engine OIL-PLATED. And you wouldn't expect any good plating to go flying off at Summer speeds, or to frizzle away in the Summer heat. Then expect the heat indicator to stay on the safe side, while the gauge-stick keeps saying, "Still full of Conoco Germ Processed oil!" That's why it's smart and thrifty today to have Your Mileage Merchant OIL PLATE YOUR ENGINE Continental Oil Co.
