OUR PART AS A 'PART'

THE WHOLE is the sum of all its parts, and it doesn't take a flock of geometrists to realize that that statement is correct.

The statement applies not only to geometry, but it also has a very important meaning in national solidarity which is the subject of much conversation at the present time.

It's simple, some people say, to have national solidarity. All we have to do is to think alike, act alike, talk alike—and get behind the government on every movement.

Yes, it would be simple if that were all there is to it. But somehow or another, we can't seem to get together on a number of things. Some of us think differently from others, some of us act differently from others, and some of us talk differently from others—all on matters pertaining to the government.

The leaders of this government realize the difference in opinion which is prevalent on many matters. They realize that if one city is for one thing, its neighboring rival city will be for another.

All of these things have led the government to look not to national solidarity as much as to community and individual solidarity. If two individuals agree, if two communities agree, then those communities can work together and get others on their side.

And if several communities get together on something beneficial for the government, these communities can organize the state into one coordinated group. The state can go on and make friends with another state, and this state with another, and before long, the entire nation will be of one opinion—the right opinion for the life of our democratic government.

Thus the "parts" go to make up the "whole." Getting these parts to fit together and correctly make up the whole is a huge problem, but it is necessary for national solidarity.

We in Hall County have our part to play in the solidarity program. We must do our part as our "part" of the "whole." Nothing but friendly rivalry can exist. We must forget our childish ideas about another community or another town. Or we may end up without a town of our own.

WORLEY'S PLEDGE

CONGRESSMAN EUGENE WORLEY is to be commended on his vote against the repeal of the neutrality bill for he believed it a violation of his pledge not to ballot as he did, but we feel that his vote was cast on the wrong side.

Worley gave as his reason for voting against the bill his belief that repeal of the bill will lead this nation into war. He pledged that he would not aid in getting the United States into the war, and for this reason was against the repeal. We feel that he deserves some commendation by sticking by his pledge.

On the other hand, however, we do not agree with Worley that the repeal of the bill will be a step towards the United States active participation in the present war. The bill allows U. S. ships to enter belligerent ports and war zones, and Worley believes that if our ships do enter these zones then we are much more likely to get into the war.

Our belief, however, is that we are going to get into the war no matter how many of our ships sail the seas—unless the war ends within only a few months.

Our belief is that if our ships are allowed to convoy goods of war to the Allies, then we have a much better chance of staying out of the war. We may get a few more ships sunk, it's true, but the Axis nations are sinking our ships anyhow—convoys or no convoys.

If we can take more goods of war to the Allies, then they should—mind you, we said "should"—be able to fight a better battle against the Axis nations. And if we convoy the goods, then more of them will get through for use by the Allies.

Yes, it seems to us that Worley was right in sticking by his pledge if it is his sincere belief that repeal of the bill is a forward step into the war. But that's not the way we have analyzed the result of the repeal of the bill.

We thank Thee, O Father, for all that is bright—
The gleam of the day and the stars of the night,
The flowers of our youth and the fruits of our prime,
And the blessings that march down the pathway of time.

We thank Thee, O Father, for all that is drear—
The sob of the tempest, the flow of the tear;

For never in blindness, and never in vain,
Thy mercy permitted a sorrow or pain.

We thank Thee, O Father of all, for the power
Of aiding each other in life's darkest hour;
The generous heart and the bountiful hand
And all the soul-help that sad souls under-stand.

We thank Thee, O Father, for days yet to be;
For hopes that our future will call us to Thee.
Let all our eternity form, through Thy love,
One Thanksgiving Day in the mansions above.

Press Paragraphs

CULLED FROM THE DEMOCRAT'S EXCHANGES

The Old Head

The Menard News: People once admired the boy who stood on the burning deck. They thought dumb obedience a greater virtue than using your head.

Reasoning

Deskins Wells in the Wellington Leader: Once I was talking with an old cowhand. He was talking about the natural balance that nature demands, but he did not put it in those words. He said: "If you poison the prairie dogs, the mesquite trees will move in and ruin the grass. If you kill all the coyotes, the rabbits will eat the grass and the crops and cattle will starve. If you kill all the rabbits, the coyotes will eat up the chickens and turkeys." There was more, but this is enough to give you his idea.

Doctors

The Munday Times: The work private medicine has done in the past has given us the present, longer, fuller, happier lives. The work medicine is doing today will give our descendants of the future even finer, healthier lives. The doctor labors for us all.

Teeth

The Panhandle Herald: Hereford and Deaf Smith County people are receiving so much publicity about their good teeth that the citizens probably will greet visitors with smiles, open wide mouths, and say: "So, no cavities, no missing teeth, no false teeth."

The Cow—A Lovely Person

The following was written by a 10-year-old boy in London and is reprinted here from the Scurry County Times:

The cow is a mammal. It has six sides, right and left and upper and below. At the back it has a tail on which hangs a brush. With this he sends flies away so they don't fall into the milk. The head is for the purpose of growing horns and so his mouth can be somewhere. The horns are to butt with and the mouth to moo with. Under the cow hangs milk. It is arranged for milking.

When people milk, milk comes and there never is an end to the supply. How the cow does it I have not yet realized but it makes more and more. The cow has a fine sense of smell and one can smell it far away. This is the reason for the fresh air in the country.

A man cow is called an ox. The cow does not eat much but what it eats it eats twice so that it gets enough. When it is hungry it moos and when it says nothing at all it is because its insides are full up with grass.

Pome

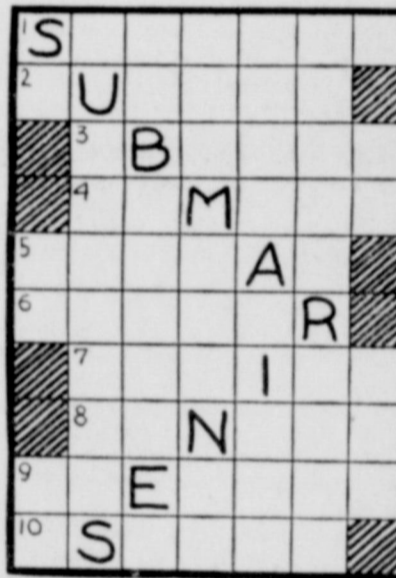

The Liberty Vindicator: Blessings on thee, little dame, Bareback girl with knees the same, With thy rolled-down silken hose And thy short, transparent clothes With thy red lips, reddened more, Smeared with lipstick from the store; With thy make-up on thy face, And thy bobbed hair's jaunty grace; From my heart I give thee joy, Glad that I was born a boy.

Appreciated
Jimmie Gillentine in the Hereford Brand: A lot of folks have

The Thunder Man looked very cross. The Totties then were at a loss. "What was the reason, girls and boys," He asked, "For making all that noise?"

"Well," Scouty said, "We're tiny tots. We travel 'round and we see lots. Wee Rattle said that we could meet You and we thought 'twould be a treat."

"And so you youngsters woke me, hey? Well, I'll forgive you all today," Replied the towering Thunder Man.

"I'll show you all I can."

He led them back to the sky. And then exclaimed, "Some folks call that a 'Thunder Man' fine, boys. Pounding harder, though more noise."

"The noise from the sky. Come on, lads, who will try?" Two of the Totties would! We'll try to do just as

Defense Shop Can Repair Machinery

In cooperation with the national defense program the farmers of the nation are urged to repair all farm equipment and machinery immediately before the supply of iron is completely exhausted, Gene Barnett, local agriculture teacher, was notified this week by state
 FFA officials.

A survey should be made at once of the farm machinery repair needs, and should be classified in order of the immediate use.

It was explained that repairs should be taken care of now so that the regular production of farm products will not be hindered by the shortage of iron in the near future.

Since donations of other scrap metals have been made, it is expected that a similar drive may be made on scrap iron.

The national defense shop at Memphis High School wants to encourage farmers to bring their machinery and equipment to the shop to be repaired by the trainees, Barnett said.

This is an emergency in our national defense program and we have been instructed to make the national defense shop available for repair of equipment to the farmers, the local teacher explained.
