HUEY LONG DIES FROM BULLET

Dictator of Louisiana Passes Away From Wound in Abdomen

Huey Long, stormy petrel of the United States Senate and acknowledged dictator of Louisiana, is dead.

Following a thirty-one hour battle for his life, with an operation, five blood transfusions and the administration of oxygen proving ineffectual, the battling politician and originator of the "share the wealth" campaign passed away at 4:10 this morning.

His death resulted from a gunshot wound in the abdomen given him Sunday night by Dr. C. A. Weiss, Jr., son-in-law of one of Long's political foes, who was literally torn to pieces by bullets of Huey's body-guard.

By Associated Press

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 10.—United States Senator Huey P. Long, known the world over as dictator of his native Louisiana, died early today of a wound inflicted by an assassin.

Physicians battled 31 hours to save the political chieftain's life. They performed one operation, gave five blood transfusions and administered oxygen.

Death came at 4:10 a. m. Dr. E. L. Sanderson, chief physician, said that the gunshot wound in the abdomen was the cause of death. The wound was inflicted by Dr. Carl Weiss, a kinsman of one of Long's political enemies, in the corridor of the State Capitol Sunday night.

His widow, who married Long 22 years ago, after her all-but testimony had saved him from charges in a shooting scrape, was led dry-eyed from the hospital, where she had kept a bedside vigil since Sunday night.

The Dictator's lieutenants, stunned and grief-stricken, are believed ready to attempt to carry on the powerful regime which Long had established. Long's opponents are also expected to make a strong fight to regain control.

When he became delirious early today, Long exclaimed "where are my children?" The children, Ross, Russell and Palmer Reid, rushed to his side, but the Senator failed to recognize them.

Mrs. Jack Ducournau, his niece, said that before Long lost consciousness he sent for his wife. As she came in, he said: "Here comes my sweetheart. Where are all the children? I love them all."

Governor O. K. Allen, who was tearful as he emerged from the death chamber, said that the Senator wondered "what will happen to my poor university boys?" Long had made himself the particular patron of the University of Louisiana football teams.

Earl Christenberry, Long's secretary said that the Senator's body would lie in state in the Capitol, which was erected when Long was governor. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

The fifth blood transfusion given the Senator was never finished. At 3:00, Doctor Sanderson announced that there was no longer any hope. "We have done everything in the world we can for him," he said, "but he is gone."

While Long and his physicians fought for his life, the roads around the hospital were barred by troops and police.

There is much speculation on the future of Long's political empire. This was the subject of a conference of his aides during the night, after hope had been given up. At the top, in the order of succession, is the Governor, but he never cared much for politics. All wondered whether there was anyone in the Long organization capable of filling the Senator's place.

Possible internal strife is feared, with Long gone. Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, of New Orleans, is believed to be in a strong position to rebuild the city organization which was split by the activities of Long. The future of the share the wealth units is also problematical.

Survivors of Stricken Liner Greet Loved Ones in New York

Joyfully reunited with their loved ones after days of agonizing suspense, rescued passengers from the grounded liner Dixie ran to the embraces of mothers and fathers, sons and daughters, wives and husbands when the special train bearing the survivors from Miami reached New York. This was the dramatic scene as tearful reunions were enacted and survivors brought back fresh accounts of the terror of the hurricane which lashed their vessel off the Florida coast and took more than 400 lives in the southern state.

Refuse PWA Loan For Gymnasium

Man-Year Cost Too High Reason

Hopes of a high school gymnasium for this city, to be financed by a PWA loan, were given a setback today, when information was received that the loan had not been approved.

A loan of $30,000 had been asked for, for the erection and equipment of a modern gymnasium building, for use of the Memphis school system.

The reason for the refusal was given as being the fact that the project would call for too high a man-year cost.

Ninety-five Texas applications for PWA loans were disallowed for the same reason. Among those not allowed were: Wilbarger County, $61,209.50 for a brick school building; Quail, $20,450 school auditorium and gymnasium, and several projects at Wichita Falls.

ATTEND COUNCIL

Rev. and Mrs. O. K. Webb and daughters, Elizabeth and Lenora, Mrs. Henderson Smith, Mrs. Jodie J. Wilson, Mrs. Sam Hamilton, Mrs. W. W. Williamson, Mrs. G. M. Thompson, Mrs. G. H. Hattenbach, J. F. Forkner, W. T. Hightower, R. B. McMurry, and E. E. Walker went to Turkey this morning to attend a Baptist Workers Council in session at the Baptist church in Turkey for an all-day meeting.

AUTO SAFETY SUGGESTIONS

OBSERVE SCHOOL ZONES

School Zones are for the protection of our children, and motorists failing to observe due caution while passing through them is guilty of a crime, whether an accident results or not.

Children of school age are, naturally, a harumscarum lot. They do not, in most cases, look before they leap. They often do not look for traffic before darting across the street, with the result that the motorist who is speeding through the street does not have time to stop before striking them.

No matter how you drive elsewhere in the city, we plead with you to use care in driving in the vicinity of school buildings, especially when the children are going and coming from school.

PARK PROJECT IS DISCUSSED BY COURT

Commissioners Court Considers Project For Park

The Hall County Commissioners Court met in regular session yesterday at the courthouse, with a full quorum of Commissioners present, and Judge Vallance presiding.

Aside from routine work, the only matter taken up for discussion was the matter of the county participating with the city in the matter of the proposed City-County Park project.

Of course, there may not be an opportunity of presenting this project to the WPA, unless additional projects are asked for later, but the Commissioners wanted to be prepared in case this occurred.

The park matter was discussed at some length, but no definite action was taken by the court, as it was desired to obtain more information before such action is taken. However, if there is a chance to get this project submitted, there is no doubt the county will do its part in the matter.

Jack Sitton Now On Democrat Staff

Jack Sitton is the newest member of the Democrat staff, joining the paper today as a reporter.

Jack, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Sitton, is well known to our people, being a graduate of the Memphis High School in the class of 1933. He was with the Democrat in this same capacity for about a year until a year ago, and has also had experience with the Childless Daily Index and the West Texas State Teachers College paper.

Mr. Sitton takes the place of Robert Roark, who has graduated from the Democrat staff to a position with public school faculty as instructor in Junior High and assistant football coach.

We bespeak for Jack the consideration of our folks as he makes his rounds for news to fill your paper.

URGE CITIZENS ATTEND PTA MEETING

School Authority Is On Program For Friday Eve.

Plans for the joint meeting of the local PTA organizations, in an open house session Friday evening at the High School Auditorium, are going forward, and those who attend are assured of both a pleasant and profitable meeting.

The High School, Junior High and West Ward PTA associations are sponsoring the event, for the purpose of acquainting the citizenship with the school faculty and school aims for the present term.

The program will be opened at 7:30 p. m. by a concert by the Memphis Gold Medal and the West Ward Rhythm bands.

Among other numbers on the program will be a reading by Mignon Womack, and a tap dance specialty by Bettie Frances Fultz.

The principal speaker will be R. B. Fisher, superintendent of the Pampa schools, who will take as his subject the way in which the PTA organizations and the citizenship at large can assist in the school program. Prof. Fisher is a recognized authority on school work, and has just returned from several months in Europe, where

A HIDDEN CAUSE OF ACCIDENTS

The more traffic experts study the accident toll, the more they become convinced that there is an important "hidden" cause of many automobile accidents. This lurking agent of death and injury is carbon monoxide poisoning. Carbon monoxide gas develops when any fuel—coal, wood, gasoline or illuminating gas—does not burn properly or completely. It cannot be seen, smelled or tasted. Its only warnings are headache and drowsiness. Yet it is in the air wherever there is motor traffic. The exhaust of a car, even one in good running condition, contains a concentration of fifteen per cent of it. As little as two per cent in the air will poison, and four per cent will kill.

Statistics show that carbon monoxide from auto exhaust gasses is the direct cause of at least 700 deaths annually. No one knows, nor can guess how many lives are lost indirectly through its influence. For example, there is no telling how often that common driving occurrence, "asleep at the wheel", has been induced by carbon monoxide.

All motorists are familiar with the headache and lassitude which often comes upon them while driving. These signs coupled with the odors of exhaust fumes in a moving vehicle, are final warnings that carbon monoxide is present in lethal quantities. That should be more than sufficient notice to take the necessary measures against carbon monoxide poisoning. This means a regular checking of the exhaust mechanism and the carburetor action, keeping the vehicle well ventilated while driving, eliminating all leaks or holes which allow seepage from the motor or exhaust to the body of the car.

Householders should also consider that carbon monoxide poisoning is a possibility whenever fuel is burned in the home.

The whole Panhandle region is smiling now, following the recent rains. You can't keep our country down with a little thing like a drought.

The BLUE DOOR

Rachel Mack © 1935 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY RUTH WOODSON, 19 years old, an orphan, takes a bus for the mid-west to find a job. Unable to pay her fare, she is put off the bus in a small town, just as a storm is breaking. Ruth seeks shelter in an old stone house with a blue door, and faints from hunger as PENNY, the old housekeeper, opens the door. Ruth is carried upstairs by the old woman and a young man named JOHN McNEILL. The old woman mistakes Ruth for ELAINE CHALMERS, whose grandfather built the house. Elaine, meanwhile, at Graycastle College, vows in a sorority meeting to win the love of her first sweetheart, John McNeill.

Ruth resolves to quit the old house next day, but when John McNeill invites himself to dinner she decides to put off her departure.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IX It was old Penny's "Goodnight" to her that made Ruth decide to stay longer, after all. The night was cool and Ruth had just blown out her candle and pulled a blanket up to her chin when the door of the room opened and the old woman came in. She said, "I just came to say goodnight, Miss Elaine, and to tell you something. Tomorrow's my birthday—" "Really, Penny?" "Yes, Miss Elaine. I'll be 75. That's a kind of milestone in a body's life. It'll be good to have you here with me. I wouldn't want to spend a day like that alone." Ruth stared through the darkness, and the sound of Penny's words became a wish fulfillment in her mind. She thought, "I ought to stay with her, poor thing! Of course I ought!" Then her natural honesty asserted itself and she faced her motives. "But I want to stay anyway. I'm happy here. There's comfortable shelter and good food—and there's John McNeill next door."

thick with him. He's apt to be attractive. The virile type. He always liked boys better than girls, I recall. I must cure him of that." "Oh," said Hortense, lighting a cigaret. She saw that Elaine wished to close the subject. "Isn't that a pimple on your nose, darling?" "I hardly think so," Elaine replied, stealing a worried look in the mirror. "I've just been wondering, Hortense, why you don't diet. Your figure was gorgeous last year—" With this exchange of civilities the two friends kissed and parted. A few moments later Elaine sat down at her desk and wrote the following letter which Hortense's questions had inspired.

"Dear John McNeill: Here's a letter from 'the pesky brat' (you once called me that!) who used to admire you so extravagantly—time out here while you look for my name at the end of the letter—

"The idea is this. I'm at college at Graycastle now and am planning to run off during fall vacation for a visit to mother's old home which used to be, and I hope still is, the house next door to you. I had such fun there when I was a kid that I've always wanted to go back. Just a whim, but I can't seem to get away from it. I suppose it will be a disappointing visit since we can never recapture the old childhood spirit, but at least I'm going to attempt it. It would help a lot to find one familiar face there besides Penny's. In short, when I arrive will you come through the althea hedge and greet me in the old garden? I'd adore seeing you again and talking over old times. You'll find me aged though not decrepit.

"Otherwise the same Elaine Chalmers.

"P. S. (Of course there would have to be one). Do you remember how you turned out the entire neighborhood to look for an Eagle Scout badge? I stole it for purely selfish reasons. I hid it in the library. Maybe there, E. C. (unrepentant) When she had addressed the envelope she looked through for a stamp, failed to swear softly and lightly. Presently she noticed picked up her Italian and sauntered out to class.

The letter to John McNeill to lie on her desk for a while, unnoticed. Until fate for it.

New Method Used In Dyeing of Shoes

They say there is nothing new under the sun, but Christensen's Shoe Shop appears to have something new in the dyeing of shoes. After many years of research, the dye manufacturing industry has developed and perfected a new method of shoe dyeing, that gives results which were before almost impossible of achievement. Mr. Christensen, in explaining the new method, stated: "The method used removes from the shoes every trace of the gloss coat with the aid of chemicals which do not affect the leather in the shoes. The desired color of dye is then applied, and a new gloss coat applied by spraying, thus assuring an evenly spread coat of gloss."

Each piece is carefully and skillfully washed. All linens are re-turned ironed and ready to use. Wearing apparel is air dried and starched, ready to iron. And one of the good things about this new service is that the rates are extremely reasonable. "Let your telephone be your clothesline," continued Mr. Reynolds. "Don't subject your wife to the drudgery of washing clothes at home this winter. Our laundry service will do everything far more economically, and will save your wife from strain and overwork, and preserve her youth and beauty." Few laundries in the state are better equipped to do modern, sanitary work than the Memphis Steam Laundry, and you can depend upon it that your clothes will come back to you sweet and clean. Their phone number is 43. Give them a ring, and their wagon will be at your door almost before you know it. Their work is as prompt as it is good.

Roark Is Employed as Coach For Junior Hi Football Team

Is Graduate of Colorado College Cyclone Squad In Scrimmage

Robert Roark has been elected by the Memphis Public School Board to serve as Junior High School Football Coach for the ensuing school year. Mr. Roark signed a contract for the position yesterday and will assume his duties today.

Mr. Roark, who was formerly connected with the Democrat, is well qualified to hold the position tendered him. He began his athletic training in high school in Denver, Colorado. He attended college at Colorado College in Colorado Springs and played center on the football team there for three years.

In 1933 Roark was an all-conference football center and won Honorable Mention on the All-American eleven. Besides being a star gridster, Roark was a regular on the championship high school basketball team of Denver in 1928.

The Memphis Junior Hi team, directed by the new coach, will play regulation football games with other junior high elevens of this section. There are already well over thirty aspirants for positions on the junior team, and Roark should have a team developed within a short time.

Mr. Roark moved his family here from Denver last June. Mrs. Roark was formerly Miss Jim Browder and is well known locally.

TRI-STATE FAIR PACKED WITH FEATURES

Amarillo Exposition Opens Saturday To Public

AMARILLO, Sept. 10.—Saturday of this week marks the opening of the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo.

Then follows seven days packed with excitement and entertainment, and entertainment, and entertainment, ending Saturday, September 21.

Horse races, a daily feature of the exposition, start a day earlier—Friday, September 13.

From every standpoint, fair association officials predict, this year's exposition will be the most interesting, instructive and intriguing ever held in the Southwest.

With no state fair this year at Dallas, it will be the largest. All exhibits with the possible exception of a few livestock herds from distant states, will be in place when the fair opens.

"Every effort will be made to have the exposition as complete on the opening day as on the closing day," said Wilbur C. Hawk, president, who predicts more and better entries and a larger attendance than during any of the 12 previous years.

In addition to thrilling races every day, there will be other major attractions.

Sadler's three-ring circus, featuring Jack Hoxie, screen star, who will appear in person at each performance, will be at the fair beginning Monday, September 16.

Beckmann & Gerety, owners and operators of the largest midway shows in the United States, will come direct from Detroit and probably will open a day before the fair.

There will be other amusements, too.

O. L. "Ted" Taylor, secretary-manager, declared every department of the exposition would be complete, revealing the best in agriculture, industry and art in the Southwest.

"Livestock exhibits especially will be unsurpassed anywhere," he said. "Visitors to the Tri-State Fair will see the same noted herds entered at the American Royal in Kansas City or at the International in Chicago."

Many of these herds are sent to the exposition by foremost breeders from distant states.

"Make arrangements now to attend the Tri-State Fair and spend more than one day on the exposition grounds if possible," suggests Mr. Hawk. "The Tri-State Fair is too large to be seen in one day, particularly if you want to view all of the exhibits and attend some of the many attractions."

Many visiting delegations, accompanied by bands, will come to Amarillo during exposition week.

These delegations will come by special train and motor caravans.

"Nobody left in Groom but the city marshal" is the slogan of that town for its day at the fair.

Other towns have issued official proclamations, setting aside certain days to visit the fair.

How Women Get Two-Fold Benefit By Taking Cardui

According to reports from thousands who have taken it, Cardui helps women in a two-fold manner, affording prompt relief of certain functional pains and strengthening the system by increasing the appetite and improving digestion.

"I like Cardui because it helped me," writes Mrs. Obie C. Rafferty, of Campbellville, Ky. "I suffered pain and was nervous and needed strength. I have taken Cardui and have been benefited. I can tell, when I am taking Cardui, that I have a much better appetite."

Before the next monthly upset, begin taking Cardui. Of course, if it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Rosenwasser's Improve Store

Several carpenters are at work at Rosenwasser's dry goods center, improving the front of the men's Ready-To-Wear department.

A new front is being built, which will be considerably deeper than the former front window, and Rosenwasser will be in a better position to display their men's wearing apparel. The front is not to be elaborate, it was stated, but will be neat and plain.

The entire men's department is also to be remodeled and refurnished, according to Marcus Rosenwasser, part owner and manager.

"We are preparing for what we think to be one of the biggest fall businesses in recent years," Mr. Rosenwasser said, "and we are stocking our store with more and better merchandise." New, nationally advertised men's goods are to be handled.

The carpenter work and the remodeling is expected to be finished within the next week or two.
