SENTENCE 3 IN NON-JURY TRIALS

Court Adjourned For Week; Murder Case Set for Monday

Completing work for the week, three criminal cases were tried in District Court yesterday, and the court adjourned until Monday morning, when the criminal docket will again be taken up.

Cases disposed of yesterday were:

State of Texas vs. Bryan Hancock, charged with drunk driving. Defendant pleaded guilty and waived trial by jury. Sentenced to ten days in jail and a fine of $25. Gave notice of appeal and made bond.

State of Texas vs. Luther Stanley, charged with drunk driving. Plead guilty and waived trial by jury. Sentenced to 20 days in jail and fine of $25, with restriction that he should not drive a car for sixty days. Gave notice of appeal and made bond.

State of Texas vs. Thurman Baker, charged with burglary. Plead guilty and waived trial by jury. Sentenced to 3 years in the penitentiary and his sentence suspended.

The case of the State of Texas vs. Henry Jordan, colored, charged with the murder of a negro man and woman in Morningside Heights, this city, is scheduled to be taken up by the court as the first case Monday morning.

In the event Court Stenographer Easterling is unable to be in court Monday, arrangements have been made to have a substitute on hand to take down the court's proceedings, so there will be no additional delay in disposing of the docket.

Jurors summoned for duty next week are as follows:

C. M. Grisham, Alfred Hutcherson, Claude Harrison and Wilbur Jones, Memphis.

FARM MEETINGS OVER COUNTY NEXT WEEK

Delegation From Hall County Takes Part In Discussion

General discussion of present farming problems, an outline for plans next year and a general discussion on present law suits against the processing tax are to be taken up at community meetings this week and next over the county, according to information received from the county agent's office.

County Agent James A. Jackson and the various community committee chairmen will conduct the programs over Hall County and lead the discussions. The meetings are said to be some of the most important that are to be held this year, and all Hall County cotton producers and others interested in this year's program are urged to attend their respective community meetings. Members of the Hall County Cotton Control Association are also urged to attend.

Places of gatherings and dates are as follows: Tuesday—Brice at 1:30, Leslie at 3 o'clock and Lakeview at 8 o'clock. Wednesday—Plaska at 1:30 and Eli at 3:00. Thursday—Newlin at 10:30, Estelline at 1:30 and Baylor at 3:00. Friday—Turkey at 2:00. Saturday—Memphis at 2:00. Tuesday, Oct. 1—Parnell at 1:30 and Weatherly at 3:00.

Memphis Girl Painfully Injured Near Amarillo Yesterday in Car Accident

Car Overtakes on Highway to Canyon

Miss Betty Dale West, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam West of this city, is in St. Anthony's Hospital at Amarillo, suffering from painful but not serious injuries received in a car wreck near Amarillo yesterday about noon.

Miss West and several friends were enroute to Amarillo from Canyon, where she had been to visit friends, when the accident occurred.

A low tire is believed responsible for the accident. Traveling at a fair rate of speed, the car suddenly went out of control, left the pavement and turned over several times.

Passing motorists took Miss West and her friends to Amarillo, where she was rushed to St. Anthony's Hospital for medical attention. Hospital attendants reported that she suffered a badly wrenched back and cuts and bruises, quite painful but not serious.

Miss West will be able to return home perhaps today or tomorrow, hospital attendants said. Other occupants in the car escaped with minor injuries.

The first information about the wreck was received in this city about noon yesterday, when the Amarillo radio station broadcast an appeal to locate Mr. and Mrs. West, who were in Amarillo when the accident occurred. They were finally located and rushed to their daughter's side at the hospital.

A phone message to the Amarillo News at 6:00 o'clock by the Democrat failed to secure any details, but a telegraph message from the Amarillo paper arrived later with the information.

Britain Masses Mighty Armada in Mediterranean

Tremendous power of the fleets which Britain is massing in the Mediterranean sea at Gibraltar, Malta, and Suez is graphically shown in this picture, of warships at anchor in Gibraltar harbor during previous maneuvers held by the combined Atlantic and Mediterranean fleets. Ready also for one of the greatest sea battles in history if war comes, the Italian navy is massed on both sides of the peninsula between the Adriatic and Tyrrhean seas. From home waters all the way to the waters of far-off China, British warships were ordered under forced draft to the zone of danger as the war threat grew more menacing.

Hall County's Delegation to Amarillo Makes Big Showing

Band Broadcasts Radio Program

A delegation of over 500 Hall Countians, including hundreds of school children, and headed by the Memphis Gold Medal Band, took Amarillo and the Tri-State Fair by storm yesterday, focusing the attention of thousands of fair visitors on the Queen City of the Upper Red River Valley—Memphis.

Traveling in fifteen yellow school buses, the local caravan left this city and Turkey this morning at 7:00 o'clock. The delegation from the southwest part of the county assembled at Turkey and went by way of Tulsa, meeting the balance of the party at Amarillo, where all arrived about 10:00 o'clock.

On reaching Amarillo, a line of march was formed and the caravan paraded down Polk Street in the business district, before going to the fair grounds.

Preceded by motorcycle policemen with sirens clearing the way, the three block long parade opened the eyes of the Amarillo citizens who were in the downtown district.

Following the parade, the band and delegation went to the fair grounds, where they spent most of the day advertising Hall County and its communities.

While the children were inspecting the many exhibits at the fair and most of their elders watched the races, the band played a number of concerts in the fair grounds.

Expressions heard on every side were to the effect that the Gold Medal Band and the Hall County delegation were putting on the best show of the week.

The band broadcast a thirty minute program of music from the Amarillo radio station, from 11:30 to 12:00. During the program, County Superintendent Vera Gilbreath, City School Superintendent Davis and Band Director Mitchell (Continued on page 8)

BOOK BUSINESS LECTURES IN MEMPHIS

Two Day Session Will Be Held Early In December

The Memphis Junior Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a two-day course of lectures in better merchandising here on December 4 and 5, according to F. V. Clark, secretary.

This series of lectures is supplied to the South and the Southwest by the Dallas Chamber of Commerce and is known as the Southwestern Merchants Institute.

The institute is a short course in business administration, designed especially for merchants of the Southwest. These lectures are to be made available free to merchants of Memphis and the Memphis Area by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Instructors will attempt to apply principles of economics to the practical job of selling merchandise. This work has met with ready response in many of both large and small cities of the Southwest, it is said.

Merchants and salespeople in the neighboring towns will be invited to attend the two-days institute. Among the subjects that are to be discussed will be "The Merchandising Outlook," "Advertising for 1936 Volume," "Salesmanship, the Keystone in the Arch of Business," "Turnover, the Pulse of Profit," "The Model Store," and "Budgetary Control."

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is happy to announce this free service to merchants of this area, and they will make every effort to have as large an audience as possible present for the sessions," Mr. Clark said.

Hail, Cyclone

All Memphis is proud of the way the Cyclone won Friday night from their heavier opponents, the Paducah Dragons, and predict a good season for the local high school football team.

But bear in mind that there are other games on the schedule, and some of them will be plenty tough. One victory, especially a non-conference game, doesn't make a season.

ATTEND FIELD DAY MEETING AT SPUR

Processing Tax to be Discussed at Meetings

County Agent James A. Jackson, George Hull, his technical force of Soil Conservation Service workers, several Memphis people and about 25 Hall County farmers attended the All-West Texas field day at the Spur Experiment Station Friday.

Approximately 40 counties were represented at the meeting Friday to take part in the discussions on pertinent farming problems, it was said.

Discussion and demonstrations in filling silos were led by a specialist from the Extension Service Staff, College Station. Farm machinery distributors were on hand with exhibits.

A series of new studies in cattle feeding experiments was given by a scientist from College Station. A review of an exhaustive series of experiments pertaining to drought evasion and other soil and water conservation problems were taken up.

DIST. OFFICERS LOOK OVER CAMP

Buildings for Soil Erosion Service Going Up

An inspection of the local CCC Camp and its personnel was made Friday and Saturday by Major J. F. Rhoen, district commanding officer, and Capt. W. W. Spurlock, sub-district commander, both of Lubbock.

They found the local camp in splendid shape, they reported, and were well pleased with their inspection. They complimented both the local officers and enlisted men on the local setup.

Work on the buildings for the soil erosion service, on the CCC Camp grounds is going forward rapidly.

The office building, the first to be erected, will be completed in a couple of days.

These buildings, unlike the others on the grounds, are of permanent construction and not fabricated at the mill.

Local carpenters are being employed in the erection of these buildings and the lumber is being supplied by the local yard of the Wm. Cameron Co.

The soil erosion staff is now busy signing up farmers for erosion work, so that, as soon as the buildings are completed, actual work in the fields may be begun.

HEDLEY PEOPLE ARE HURT IN CAR WRECK

Car Strikes Concrete Culvert on Road North of City

Two women and one man from Hedley received treatment here last night for painful cuts and bruises as the result of an automobile wreck that happened one mile north of Memphis last night at 7:30 o'clock.

The injured are Mrs. Paul Kincheve, Mrs. Cora Banister and Claude O'Hair, 20, all of Hedley.

The accident occurred when A. M. "Short" Saunders, who resides 12 miles north of Hedley, became blinded because of a dusty road and ran into a concrete culvert just off the pavement on Highway No. 5. The car, a 1930 model Chevrolet sedan, straddled one side of the culvert, knocked off both front wheels, and turned over in a ditch.

The car was righted and brought into town by a Kuhn wrecker. Other than the front tires and wheels being ruined, the car was slightly damaged.

Both women were carried to the Clark hospital where they received medical treatment. Both women received lacerations about the head and were severely bruised. Young O'Hair received a badly bruised hip.

Others in the car who were not injured were Mr. and Mrs. A. M. "Short" Saunders and son, Hubert, 3, Paul Kincheve and Mrs. Banister's small child.

Would Prevent G. O. P. Collection

By Associated Press
ENDICOTT, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Postmaster General Farley today demanded that Congress and state legislatures take immediate steps to "prevent secret collection and use of a vast Republican fund to influence elections."

George Getz, treasurer of the Republican Party, said that "any such collection is news to me."

HOW Could Memphis Progress
Without a
Chamber of Commerce

How would a large corporation function without a board of directors? How could a church properly attend to its affairs without its board of deacons, stewards or elders? How could a school's course be guided without trustees?

The individual faith, the individual optimism, or even the individual efforts of Memphians is not alone sufficient. The combined, the united, the co-ordinated efforts of everyone in the community are essential if we are to forge ahead and enjoy the development that is rightfully ours.

Your chamber of commerce is your city's board of directors—the guiding hand that points the way; the one organization equipped to listen to the opinions and ideas of all and to put into operation the best of those ideas.

"One swallow doesn't make the summer"—and one man can't build Memphis single-handed. But with unity of effort nothing is impossible. Pool YOUR mental, physical and financial resources with those of your business associates in the Memphis Chamber of Commerce. The investment will pay you a regular, never-ending dividend.

This is the third of a series of four advertisements, paid for by firms whose advertisements surround this message, designed to acquaint the people of Memphis with the value of the Chamber of Commerce.

We want to grow with Memphis and we want to know that we have had some small part in making its growth possible.

President's Mother Is 81

A proud and gracious mother who has had the rare experience of watching her son become President—Mrs. James Roosevelt—celebrated her 81st birthday anniversary yesterday. Healthy and happy, she takes an active interest in the world around her. This crayon portrait is from a recent photograph.

Mrs. J. H. Dennis Celebrates Her 81st Birthday at Country Home of Her Son

At an informal buffet luncheon friends and relatives met Sunday, Sept. 15, at the country home of J. T. Dennis at Plaska to celebrate the eighty-first birthday of his mother, Mrs. J. H. Dennis.

The guests arrived about 11 o'clock, a short time before the honoree returned from church. To her surprise a host of friends and relatives shouted greetings of happy birthday to her as she entered the Dennis home. After a short time of conversation the honoree was escorted into a bedroom where many lovely gifts were unwrapped and admired.

The guests then assembled in the dining room around the long table set with the delicious foods prepared by the lady guests. The table was a picture of beauty, being centered with a three-tiered angel food cake decorated in pink and green and the large birthday cake, bearing 81 pink candles. With bowed heads the guests listened attentively while Roy Alvin Massey, three-year-old great-grandson of Mrs. Dennis, offered thanks. The candles were then lit and blown out by the great-grandson and Mrs. Dennis.

The luncheon was served buffet style by Mrs. J. T. Dennis, assisted by Mrs. T. J. Hampton, Mrs. J. U. Dennis and Mrs. Pearl Massey. The afternoon was spent in pleasant conversation on the log porch of the old home.

Mrs. Dennis was born in Alabama in 1854 and was married to J. H. Dennis near Ozark, Ark., in 1873. To this union ten children were born, nine of whom are still living. Mr. and Mrs. Dennis came to Hall county in 1907 and lived near Memphis until the death of Mr. Dennis in 1925. Since that time Mrs. Dennis has made her home with her children. She is very active, being able to take care of most of her personal duties.

Five of the nine children were present at the luncheon. They are J. T. Dennis, Plaska; Mrs. T. J. Hampton, J. U. Dennis, Mrs. Pearl Massey and John Denins, all of Memphis. She has 23 grandchildren, 27 great-grandchildren and 3 great-grandchildren. Those attending the luncheon were Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Connor and son Eddie Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Roe Bird and Mr. Plummer of Floydada; Mrs. A. T. Young and daughters of McLean; Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. John Dennis, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hampton, Mrs. T. A. Prater, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Hampton, Mr. and Mrs. H. U. Dennis, Mrs. Pearl Massey, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Massey and children, Roy Alvin and Margaret Ann, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Maddox, Mrs. J. C. McClure and son J. C. Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hawkins, Mrs. Elmer Prater and daughter, Billy Jo, all of Memphis; Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Rea and daughter, Myrtle, Mr. and Mrs. Blufford Burnett and son Bobby Don, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Dennis and sons, Billy Wendell and Lowell and Mr. ad Mrs. J. T. Dennis of Plaska.

Birthday Party Tuesday for Son

Mrs. Fritz Shankle entertained with a birthday party Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. D. Shankle, 720 South Sixth Street, in observance of the seventh birthday anniversary of her son, Joe.

Various games were played under the direction of Mrs. Shankle. Following the games a picnic lunch was served, consisting of sandwiches, ice cream, cake and punch. Favors were given each guest.

After the lunch was served motion pictures were shown the children in the living room, with Mrs. Shankle operating the machine. Guests present were Don Q. Tarver, Ladde Sloan, Bobbie Bal- lew, J. L. Barnes, Dean Morgen- son, Franklin Bumgarner, Willie Partin, Billy Kinslow, Chauncey Thompson, Jr., Ted Gerlach, Johnie and Joe Shankle.

The honored guest received many lovely gifts.

Culture Club At Mrs. Madden's

Mrs. R. L. Madden, 621 South Seventh Street was hostess to the Woman's Culture Club Wednesday afternoon.

Proceeding the program Mrs. A. W. Howard, president, presided over a business session.

Parliamentary Law and Ethical Training was the subject for discussion. "Twenty Mispronounced Words" was conducted by Mrs. D. J. Morgansen. "How do the Laws of our State protect Women?" (a) Their Property Rights; (b) Their Children; (c) Their Marriage and Divorce" was very ably discussed by Miss Edna Bryan. A playlet, "Befriending Mary," was directed by Mrs. Madden, who is chairman of Ethical Training of the Seventh District Federation of Women's Clubs. Those taking part in the play pre- tending to Ethical Training were Mrs. D. A. Grundy, Mrs. George Sexauer, Mrs. J. C. Wells, Mrs. J. H. Norman, Miss Chrystal Howard, Miss Georgine Sexauer, Betty Frances Fultz and Lovic Thompson Jr.

During the social hour the hostess served iced watermelon to Mrs. J. T. Bishop, Miss Edna Bryan, Mrs. L. S. Clard, Mrs. Roy R. Fultz, Mrs. W. C. Hamilton, Miss Imogene King, Mrs. Dean J. Morgansen, Mrs. J. H. Norman, Mrs. T. B. Rogers, Mrs. G. W. Sexauer, Mrs. C. Z. Stidham, Mrs. J. C. Wells, Mrs. J. A. Whaley, Mrs. Lovis Thompson, Mrs. H. J. Reese, Miss Georgine Sexauer, Miss Chrystal Howard and Betty Frances Fultz.

Junior P.T.A. Holds Meeting

"With every thought we are building or destroying," stated Mrs. Ed Lofland in speaking on "Power of Thought" as a devotion- al before the Junior High P. T. A. Thursday afternoon. "In order to accomplish the greatest good for the children we must think only the good, true, and beautiful," continued Mrs. Lof- land, Supt. W. C. Davis, speaking on "The Power of Suggestion in Handling Discipline of Children." Miss Mary Foreman, speaking on "Music in the Schools," and Mr. Linn were others who appeared on the program.

During the business session the minutes of the executive commit- tee meeting were read and ap- proved. Mrs. Elmer Prater reported $10.95 in the treasury. A bill for $1.95 for the social commit- tee was allowed. The program committee chairman, Mrs. H. H. Lindsey, reported the printed pro- grams for the year would soon be available. Mrs. Henderson Smith, finance committee chairman, re- ported a committee ready to meet the needs of the association and school. The membership commit- tee chairman, Mrs. J. L. Barnes, reported on the drive to enroll the parents as members of the P. T. A. Mrs. C. S. Compton, room mother chairman, reported the follow- ing as room mothers for the year: Section 51, Mrs. Elmer Prater; Section 52, Mrs. Sam Harle; Sec- tion 53, Mrs. Hubbard Bass; Sec- tion 61, Mrs. H. B. Gilmore. Sec- tion 62, Mrs. E. G. Christensen; Section 63, Mrs. W. E. Land; Section 71, Mrs. Chas. Drake; Section 72, Mrs. E. H. Whitting- ton.

Mrs. Raymond Ballew was ap- pointed chairman of a radio com- mittee, and Mrs. Chas Drake was appointed magazine committee chairman. The association voted to buy a gelatin roll for the ditto machine used at the Junior High building, L. C. Linn was appointed representative to meet with the city council in a public safety campaign.

During the social hour the social committee, Mrs. W. J. Bragy, chairman, served the group with a package of popcorn, each con- taining a theme for the P. T. A. work of the year.

B. T. U. Class Surprises Teacher

Mrs. Jim Fullingim and the B.T.U. class of the First Baptist Church, with Mrs. E. H. Whittington and Mrs. W. C. Smith as sponsors, gave a surprise party for their teacher, Mr. Fullingim at the home of the former Monday evening.

Various old time games were played throughout the evening.

During the social hour the spon- sors served refreshments to Mr. and Mrs. Fullingim, Betty Jean and Billy Ray Fullingim, J. J. Si- mons, Genevieve Prater, Plima Hill, Martha Jean Parks, Naomi Smith, Floyd Whittington, Lewis Rice, Frances Jane Gillenwater, Robert Stroud, Katherine Patton, Wilma Lee Watson, Willie Ben Wilson and Mary Helen Lindsey.

1913 Study Club Met Wednesday

The 1913 Study Club met Wed- nesday afternoon, Sept. 18, with Mrs. M. J. Draper as hostess.

Mrs. Margaret Morgan presided over the business session.

The club began its new year with enthusiasm and is undertak- ing several projects for the year. One of these is the sponsoring of the Singing Chorus Plan in the grade schools with the Centen- nial especially in mind.

The study for the afternoon was the Pulitzer Prize drama for 1935, "The Old Maid." The lead- er, Mrs. R. C. Walker gave a most interesting discussion of the auth- ors Edith Wharton and Zoe Al- kins, and also the comparison with Pulitzer Prize dramas of previous years. Mrs. T. M. Harrison read the drama in a very graphic and ap- pealing way.

The hostess served a delicious two course plate to the following members and guests: Mrs. Byron Baldwin, Mrs. M. McNeely, Mrs. T. J. Dunbar, Mrs. R. C. Walker, Miss Shirley Greene, Mrs. Margar- et Morgan, Mrs. J. P. Watson, Mrs. G. D. Beard, Mrs. Jessie Jones, Mrs. Ewell Noel, Mrs. T. M. Harrison, Mrs. R. S. Greene, Mrs. D. L. C. Kinard, Mrs. H. J. Gore, and Mrs. Malone Hagan of Athens Ala., and Miss Martha Draper.

Choir Stages Farewell Party

Members of the First Presby- terian Church entertained Wed- nesday evening at the home of Mrs. Maynard Drake, honoring Mrs. James E. Bass, who left Thursday to make her home in Dallas.

Pleasant conversation and the singing of a number of songs fur- nished entertainment during the evening.

Iced watermelon was served to Miss Pauline Ross, Miss Alice Ruth McClaren, Mrs. S. S. Mont- gomery, Dr. and Mrs. M. McNeely, Mrs. Elizabeth Johnston, Mrs. Forrest Power, Mrs. C. D. Denny, Ewell Noel and Buster Helm.

Mrs. Bass was presented with a lovely gift as a token of appre- ciation for her loyalty as a choir member.

Rebekahs Observe 85th Anniversary

Members of the Rebekah Lodge met Tuesday evening at the I. O. O. F. Hall in a special meeting to observe the eighty-fifth anni- versary of Rebekah Odd Fellowship.

This was a joint meeting of Rebekah's and Odd Fellow's and the evening was spent socially. A radio was installed and those present had the pleasure of listening to the program from The Sover- eign Grand Lodge Session in At- lantic City, United States Senator, M. M. Logan, Past Grand, and other prominent members gave interesting talks, interspersed with appropriate Odd Fellow's music.

Members who could not attend a meeting of some lodge could lis- ten to the broadcast over the sta- tions of the Columbia Broad- cast- ing system.

At a recent meeting of the Re- bekah lodge Mrs. M. G. Spry, with city secretary of the local lodge, pre- sented Mrs. Chas. Oren, Mrs. M. Hampton, Mrs. G. H. Hatte, Mrs. M. P. Turner, Mrs. P. O. further charge, well and Mrs. Robert Oie planned at the with Rebekah Veterans.

Minnesota Gophers Facing Serious Gaps Left by Graduations of 1934

Squad Must Be Rebuilt For 1936

By United Press
MINNEAPOLIS. — Although weakened by the absence of key lettermen, the 1934 Minnesota Big Ten and national amateur football champions count 68 candidates ready for the 1935 season.

Captain Glen Seidel, veteran quarterback, again will direct the team. Vernal LeVair, Minneapolis; Sam Hunt, Red Lake Falls, and Jack Rooney, Hot Springs, D., threaten to give Seidel something in the way of competition and will serve as alternates.

Sidel Under Handicap
Seidel is suffering from a skin infection, but will be available before the season opens.

Other jobs at end posts require attention, and guards are scarce. Vern Oech, Beach, N. D., and Dick Deller, St. Paul, and Les Wilkinson, Minneapolis, back and will give material those posts. Ray Antil and Berryman are returning lettermen.

He is not eligible Julius Al-Cumberland, Wis., will be right halfback. The tackles are fortified with returning play-Will Freimuth, B. Smith, R. and Edwin Widseth.

Center Well Fortified
Ale Rennhorn will be given a try for the pivot spot on the line with an abundance of material available for this post.

Several members of the team weighed in at making practice. The average weight of the 1934 team was 120 pounds.

Several members of the starting eleven suffered slight bruises in the game with the Paducah Dragons Thursday night, partly because the starters played the entire game without a substitution being made, and partly because the Paducah players out-weighted the locals by almost 10 pounds to the man. None of the Cyclone warriors was hurt to any extent.

West Stars In Abilene Contest

West, big 190-pound end Memphis, started in the first of the season this year at Tech when the Tech Raiders the Simmons Cowboys in no Friday night and emerged the big end of a 9-6 score. West stood out on both the defense and offense in the game, his moment coming in the fourth quarter when he crashed through Simmons line and threw an interception behind his own goal for a safety and two points.

RETURN TO MEMPHIS

Mr. and Mrs. Rabb Harrison returned from Borger tomorrow to make Memphis their home. Mr. Harrison has been in Borger for more than a year as a foreman of the Harrison Hardwood Co. He will assist at the operation of the G. Co. this season.

LARGER CROWDS FOR GAMES SEEN

Southwest Football to Have Larger Crowds This Season

By United Press
AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 21.—Discovery of bigtime football in their own backyard is expected to lure Southwest fans into stadia with unprecedented enthusiasm this fall.

New-found prominence in inter-sectional play plus prospects of a wide-open race for the conference championship brought heavy pre-season ticket orders. Texas' reputation for first quality high school teams promises to be duplicated by powerful, daring college elevens.

Success in inter-sectional play last year caused much of the interest in home football. Several Southwest players were chosen on all-American teams. Rice Institute beat Purdue. Texas downed Notre Dame; and Southern Methodist overwhelmed Fordham. These victories substantiated belief of Southwestern fans that their teams were underrated by national critics.

Half a dozen Southwest conference players received all-American recognition. At least three of these return for another season. They are Bill Wallace, Rice back; Darrell Lester, Texas Christian University center; and Robert Wilson, speedy S. M. U. halfback.

Rice, the conference champion, is conceded to have an excellent chance to become the first "repeater" in history. Rice's 1934 team returns almost intact, bolstered by fine sophomores and a few college transfer prospects.

The second-place University of Texas eleven will make its first serious championship bid under Coach Jack Chevigny.

ESTELLINE WIN OVER FLOMOT DECISIVE

Bear Cubs Take Their Opponents by Score Of 13 to 0

Special to The Democrat
The Estelline Bear Cubs invaded the FLOMOT territory Friday afternoon to take the opening game of the season with a score of 13 to 0.

The Bear Cub line looked exceptionally good on defense. Leon Townsend, Jack Edmondson and Captain Gordon Spout blocked three punts and three passes, with Wright, Clifton, Freeland and Landers coming in for their part of the defense work also.

The Estelline team failed to score in the first period, but opened the second with a 30 yard dash by Quarterback Adams, bringing the ball up to the 20 yard line. Vernon Leatherwood carried it over on the next play, to make the count 6 to 0.

Estelline scored again in the 4th period, when Leatherwood scored from the 40 yard line. Jack Edmondson scored the extra point to bring the count up to 13 to 0.

Davis and Adams made several nice runs, to bring the ball down to the 12 yard line again, but failed to score.

Kirkswill was the outstanding blocker for Estelline.

Tanner and Amonett were the outstanding stars for Flomot.

Estelline should look quite a bit stronger next Friday against Quitaque, with fighting Earl Simms back in the game from an injured back since the first week of practice.

The pep squad accompanied the team to Flomot.

Cyclone In Good Spirits After Win

Squad Received No Serious Hurts

Limbering up sore muscles and working out "charley-horses" sustained in Thursday night's grid battle with Paducah constituted the program for the Cyclone grid-ironers Friday afternoon as they went about getting in shape for the first conference game of the season Friday at Wheeler.

Several members of the starting eleven suffered slight bruises in the game with the Paducah Dragons Thursday night, partly because the starters played the entire game without a substitution being made, and partly because the Paducah players out-weighted the locals by almost 10 pounds to the man. None of the Cyclone warriors was hurt to any extent.

LOCAL HUNTERS GREET DOVE SEASON

License Not Needed For Hunting In County

Sportsmen of this section were taking advantage yesterday of the opening of the dove season throughout most of Texas. Despite the fact that yesterday was Saturday and the main business day of the week in Memphis, several local sports enthusiasts were out in fields and meadows and on country lanes trying to get their bag limit of the palatable doves.

Open season on doves in this county will run until October 31, when the Federal government clamps down on hunters of both the mourning and white wing species.

The bag limit on mourning doves is 15 per day and not more than 45 a week. Bag limit on white wing doves is 15 a day and not more than 30 a week, or more than 50 of all species of quail and doves at one time. Mourning doves may not be taken by bait.

A person need not have a hunting license to hunt doves in the county of which he is a resident, according to Floyd Springer, county clerk.

At The Theatres

PALACE

First National's great show of Uncle Sam's secret agents, "G Men," opened at the Palace last night with a midnight prelude, and will occupy the screen today and tomorrow. One of the most thrilling epics of the screen yet produced, "G Men" takes you behind the scenes in the thrilling campaign which the United States government has been waging the past year on crime and criminals. With James Cagney in the leading role, supported by Ann Dvorak, Margaret Lindsey and Robert Armstrong, he turns in a performance in this production which rivals any of those he has made famous in the past. Sensational gun battles with gangdom, thrilling man-hunts in city and country, danger and death, all combine to keep the theatre-goer on the edge of his seat all during the performance. Recreations of famous clashes between the law and the gang of the past few months are woven into the picture, to give you a real insight into the splendid work being done by Uncle Sam's agents in fighting crime all over the nation. If you like excitement, don't miss "G Men."

Big Shakeup In Centennial Heads

By Associated Press DALLAS, Sept. 21.—Fred F. Florence, president of the Texas Centennial Central Exposition, announced today that Walter D. Cline, managing director of the central exposition had resigned effective October first. The announcement revealed a general shake-up which elevated Otto Herold, now assistant director, to acting managing director. From Washington, Cline told the Dallas Times-Herald, in a telephone conversation, that he was being "forced out." He said: "They offered to let me head the government contract and promotion division at a salary of $15,000 a year, less than I can afford to work for." Cline had been drawing $25,000 a year as managing director. Florence said that a committee composed of R. L. Thornton, Arthur L. Kramer and Harry O. Insted would govern the exposition. The committee will handle all financing and building operations while Herold will head promotion all work and contacts with city state and federal governments. Herold will continue to draw $10,000 a year. Florence said no further change in personnel were planned at the present time. Mrs. A. Womack received word from her sister-in-law, Mrs. B. Roberts to the effect that M. Roberts, who underwent an operation in the Wichita Falls Clinic Hospital, is getting along fine.

The BLUE DOOR

By Rachel Mack © 1935 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

RUTH WOODSON, a pretty, high-spirited girl of 19, in search of work, is put off a bus in the little town of Worthville when she runs out of money. A storm is breaking and Ruth seeks refuge in an old stone mansion with a blue door. She faints and is carried upstairs by the queer old housekeeper, BERTHA GIBBS, also known as "PENNY," and by JOHN McNEILL, from next door. Penny believes Ruth to be ELAINE CHALMERS, whose grandfather built the house. Ruth lets the mistake stand. Elaine, meanwhile, at Graycastle College, vows in a sorority meeting to win the love of John McNeill, her first sweetheart. She plans to go to Worthville.

Ruth, in love with John, resolves to stay on a while at the old house, pretending to be Elaine.

John McNeill has fallen in love with Ruth and worries about her being alone in the old house with Bertha Gibbs.

Story Sun Sept 22 add syno O Elaine goes to New York and her mother, GWEN DEAL, tells her that her uncle, DUNCAN HUNTER, has escaped from an insane asylum and is thought to be in New York. This news is kept from HIGATE DEAL, Gwen's husband, since he hates Duncan and was the one who caused him to be confined. Elaine is in love with a senior at Annapolis, DENNIS DAVIS, but encourages the attention of TEDDY VAN HARRINGTON.

CHAPTER XX

Mrs. McNeill, arriving home a few days earlier than she had expected, took a taxi from the depot to her home on Garfield rather than call John at the factory and put him to the trouble of meeting her. She was that sort of person—brisk, self-reliant and not given to demanding attention.

When she reached home she was given a welcome by Susie, the colored cook who had served her for almost 30 years. Susie and her husband, Ebe, the yard man, lived at the rear of the place in the cupolaed building that had been stable and servants' house when built. The lower floor had long since been converted into a garage, but the quarters of Susie and Ebe remained as unchanged as themselves. Though the years had slowed down the efficiency of both servants, their pride in their work and their devotion to the McNeills was a by-word.

Mrs. McNeill exclaimed, "How nice everything looks, Susie! I don't believe I've been missed at all. How's Mr. John?"

"If it's his appetite you're askin' about," answered Susie, "it ain't never been better. But he's doin' a powerful lot of galavantin'. He ain't home any longer than it takes to eat his meals and spruce up."

She said, "I always thought John would be socially inclined if he once got started. Where has he been going, Susie?"

"Now you're askin' me sumthin'!" replied Susie. She rolled her eyes importantly, enjoying the remarkableness of the news she goin' over to the old Hunter house."

Mrs. McNeill stared in amazement, her well-bred mouth actually gasping. "What do you mean by that, Susie? What on earth does he do there?"

"He hangs aroun' a young lady," Susie informed her. "When he ain't visitin' with her, he's carryin' her for a ride in his car. Looks like Mr. John done gone daffy."

"Who is the girl?" Mrs. McNeill asked. "You don't mean the Chalmers child do you, Susie?"

"Yes, m," said Susie, nodding. "Dat's who 'tis all right. He call her Elaine when he yell at her one mornin' from the yard. Ebe and me recollects her from a chile, but we ain't had a good look at her since she's been heah. Seems like she done come all by herself to take a rest. Mr. John tole me not to talk about it to anybody, and I ain't."

Mrs. McNeill was calculating. "Elaine must be about 20 years old now. Do you mean the girl hasn't seen anyone but John, Susie?"

"Seems like she ain't," replied Susie. "Maybe she's done caught the solitary bug from crazy Bertha Gibbs."

Mrs. McNeill laughed, then grew sober. "She's got no business being alone in that house with Bertha. I've an idea she came without her mother's consent. I must look into it, Susie."

As she put away her clothes and freshened herself for dinner, Ellen McNeill's mind dwelt on Susie's news. She could hardly wait for John to come home, so she might question him. As far as she could tell, the house next door looked just as usual. It was hard to believe that a vivid young thing from the fashionable world had incarcerated herself there.

John arrived just in time for dinner; almost before the soup was finished his mother was asking him questions about Elaine. His reticence surprised her. Could Susie be right about his being "daffy" over the girl? She said, "John, I must see her! She's got no business in the world being in that house. Whatever induced her to come? Just a whim?"

"It seems so," answered John. "She needed a rest."

Mrs. McNeill said, "I'm afraid I wouldn't recognize her now. I recall her as a handsome, imperious child. How is Bertha reacting to it all, John?"

"More reasonably than you'd expect," John replied. "But I feel darn'd uneasy about it, just the same. I've just been thinking, Mother, couldn't we ask her over here to finish out her visit?"

"Of course we could son," she told him. "I've been planning the same thing myself. Go over after dinner and bring her to me. I think I can convince her that she ought to come to us."

Ruth was not prepared for John's request that she run over to see his mother with him. It threw her into a panic. She exclaimed, "Why, John! I didn't know your mother was at home."

"She came back today," John told her. "She's all worked up over your being here. She's anxious to talk to you. Now come on, honey, and don't argue. You don't want to hurt Mother's feelings, do you?"

He did not let her wait to "trim" as he called it, but seized her hand and drew her, running.

Mrs. McNeill met them in the ring, after him across the lawn, hall and kissed Ruth matter-of-factly as she greeted her. She said, "You're a dear child to come. John says you haven't been seeing people, but I felt you wouldn't mind seeing me." She was leading Ruth into the big living room and seating her on a divan as she talked. The girl's panic was vanishing. She had been accepted as Elaine, even in the clear lamplight. Perhaps there was nothing to fear, after all. She looked shyly at John and his beaming smile reassured her.

He said, "Mother's got a plan. A swell one—"

"What is it?" Ruth asked, her voice a little fluttery.

"It's this," said Mrs. McNeill.

"You're to go back and pack your clothes and come to us at once. You're not to stay another night in that desolate old barn. It's not practical. It's not even safe."

Ruth answered, surprised and touched. "Oh, but I couldn't do that. I couldn't." She did not say why she couldn't, but she said it firmly, as if she meant it. She only knew that she must not let them persuade her.

Mrs. McNeill asked pointedly, "Does your mother know you are here, Elaine?"

"No," answered Ruth, flushing hotly. So it was going to be a sort of inquisition after all.

"And do you think she'd approve of your being here alone?" continued Mrs. McNeill firmly.

"No, I suppose she wouldn't."

"Well then!" said Mrs. McNeill, as if that settled it. "Do you want John to tell old Bertha Gibbs you're coming, or would you rather do it yourself?"

Ruth replied, lifting her chin stubbornly. "If it's Bertha you're thinking about, Mrs. McNeill, she's as harmless as a child. John's warned me about her several times" (with a quick smile at him) "but I've always contended she's all right. She's just eccentric and childish."

Mrs. McNeill said reasonably, "We are in a position to know more about Bertha Gibbs than you do, Elaine. She's quite definitely off. Not violent, I grant you, but off. She's nursed grudges against certain people for years. Your stepfather among them. Your mother, too, possibly. No doubt you know why. She worshipped your Uncle Duncan."

"Yes," murmured Ruth, though what Mrs. McNeill had just said made no sense to her. She was thinking, "I can't come over here and stay. I won't. There's a limit to my outrageous nerve." With all her strength she would resist them. She allowed her determination to show in her face as she looked at Mrs. McNeill. She said, exactly as the imperious Elaine

Chalmers would have said, "You're kind to ask me, but I'm quite all right. It's an adventure, miss."

"Well," remarked Mrs. McNeill, smiling, "that's that."

Mrs. McNeill's little gesture of not resentment, "There a while, dear, and remember you as a girl yet I don't remember. At least you've not to be, and my hair, mother's hair turned though not so much, quoting Penny always."

Mrs. McNeill was good to see one of her own kind here for generations. (Continued on page 7)

THE BAND

PERHAPS no other organization or activity in the entire history of the city has brought Memphis more publicity and favorable comment than has its bands.

It seems that Memphis has always had a band, and always a good band.

Especially during the past twenty years has the city been known far and wide as the home of the best band in the Southwest.

And yesterday, the Memphis Gold Medal Band again brought Memphis to the attention of the world, when it invaded Amarillo at the head of a delegation of 500 people, for a trip to the Tri-State Fair in that city.

Always outstanding in any gathering of musical organizations, the band carried Amarillo by storm yesterday, and on every hand were heard expressions of approval of their music.

Thousands of people from all over the Southwest heard the band yesterday, and those same thousands went home singing their praises.

No matter what it costs Memphis to support the Gold Medal Band, it is money well spent, and the same amount placed in any other manner could not bring to the city one-half the publicity that this organization does.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

LEGISLATION

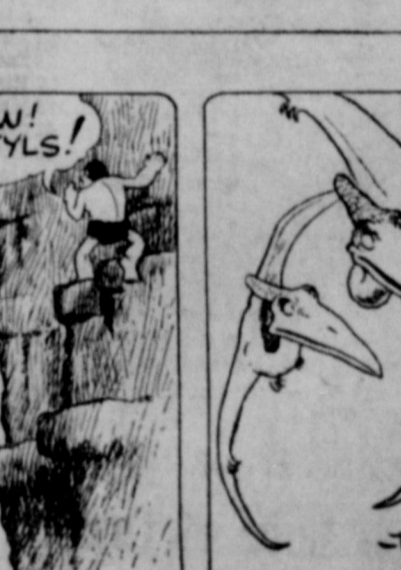

THE special session of the legislature bids fair to develop into one of the greatest wrangles in recent legislative history.

With the wet bloc on one hand and the dry bloc on the other, with the tax exponents and the old age pension enthusiasts in between, each with his own special axe to grind, if the governor gets anything worth while out of the session he is to be commended.

The liquor control crowd, both wet and dry, want their legislation to have the right-of-way. tax bloc and the pension bloc contend that their propositions are equally important, and should not be sidetracked for the other.

The legislator who said the other day that session would be out by Christmas may not have been far wrong after all.

COTTON THE WORLD OVER

By J. S. MOGFORD, Associate Professor, A. & M. College of Texas

Mr. Mogford, Associate Professor of Agronomy at the A. & M. College of Texas has had the privilege of observing every step of the cotton industry, both at home and abroad. He was reared on a cotton farm, studied various phases of this crop while in college, spent some time as a research worker, commercial cotton breeder, inspector for the State Seed and Plant Board, and in connection with his teaching duties has for the past four years conducted the A. & M. College of Texas students cotton study tour party to England, Germany, France, Spain, Japan, Manchuria, Portugal, Italy, Egypt, and other countries in the interest of this crop. His recent visits into the markets, mills, and research laboratories of these countries has given him a lot of information on what is going on in this industry. This series of articles on his recent visit to Portugal, Spain, Egypt and Italy will give his readers some very interesting information on the cotton industry of these countries.

COTTON TRADE OF PORTUGAL

Old in the cotton trade, but full of new life may be said to be the status of the cotton industry in Portugal at present. Not having a climate suitable for growing cotton, during Portugal's explorers sought and attempted to bring in cotton from Brazil forty years or more before the United States brought her first English colonist. Rich in this history, members of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas Cotton Study Tour party learned on their visit to Portugal. This party, led by Prof. J. S. Mogford, Department of Agronomy, and accompanied by the 1935 contest winners, Frank Bednarck, Schulenberg, Louis M. Thompson, Throckmorton, and William A. Moseley, Jr., Quannah, Texas, enjoyed seeing 4,000 bales loaded on an American ship in the Port of Houston, rode across with it, and saw a consignment of it hoisted out of the hold and loaded into barges at Lisbon. There was quite a difference in the efficiency of the loading at Houston and the unloading at Lisbon in both machinery and labor. Of the shipment abroad 450 bales were unloaded at Lisbon, the remainder going to Oporto and ports of Northern Spain. Oporto is in the center of the mill district and is the main receiving port of Portugal.

The unloading of American cotton in a Portuguese port is an interesting sight. Early in the morning there arrived barges full of cotton; a somewhat motley army of men of all ages, variable in color and size, barefooted and otherwise. At first there is much jabbering about job assignments and the getting of equipment. When this is finished it is time for veno (wine), bread, olives and fish. One should not get the impression there are not lots of progressive people in Portugal, for there are, but the stevedore belongs to another class and never worries about a ship unloading itself. He is very interested in consuming his four liters of veno per day, (about one gallon); he believes in quenching his thirst at regular intervals during the day. By the time evening arrives the number of bales he has in a swing is of little worry to him.

Bad harbors and poor facilities for handling freight makes shipping rates high to Portuguese ports. It cost the American merchant 50 points per hundred or $2.50 per bale to ship cotton from Houston to Lisbon or Oporto. However, these things are not at a standstill; some progress is being made to improve facilities for handling freight; when this is completed rates should be less. The average American farmer does not consider where his cotton goes, but for years Portugal has been taking most of her supply from the United States, Texas as cotton receiving special favor. Between August 1, 1934, and May 27, 1935, Portugal took 34,500 bales of our cotton against 46,900 for the same dates last year. This decrease of 12,000 bales in the use of American cotton has been taken care of by increased purchases of Brazilian cotton, which amounted to 24,164 bales during the first eleven months of 1934. When at her peak for the use of American cotton Portugal used 68,000 bales. Normally she uses from 70,000 to 80,000 of all growth to feed her 452,000 spindles. Most of the mills are small, use water power and purchase from only a few up to several hundred bales at a time. Growth is generally slow in an industry of this kind in an old country, but last year 9,000 new spindles were added. In the past the United States has supplied more than 50 per cent of the cotton consumed by the mills; Brazil supplied from 15 per cent to 30 per cent; Egypt 4 per cent to 5 per cent; the balance coming from sundry sources.

The friendly relationship which exists between Portugal and Spain appears to be strongly cemented, but the Cotton Study Tour party learned that the way of doing things is quite different in the two countries.

BLIND ANIMALS WANTED BY STATION

Investigating Cause of Blindness in Animals

By Associated Press

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 21.—Wanted: Blind animals of recent birth—calves, colts, pigs, cats or dogs—by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. This announcement by officials of the Station, does not herald the collection of a menagerie of sightless animals for exhibition or museum. It seeks, instead, to make available various blind creatures for observation and study in connection with experiments by Station experts tending to show at least one cause of blindness in the lower animals and possibly human beings.

Lengthy experiments carried on by Fred Hale, chief of the swine husbandry division of the station, have rather convincingly demonstrated that the cause is improper feeding of the dam during pregnancy, or maternal vitamin A deficiency in the ration prior to and while carrying the young. Having demonstrated this experiment with swine begun early in 1932, the Station experts now are checking up with such experiments of blindness in other animals, reports of which have been received from various sections of the state. Many of these reports of young animals born blind have come from that section of the state where forage conditions were materially affected by recent drought.

Regardless of what section of the state they may be in, the director of the Experiment Station at College Station has asked that owners of young animals known to be blind get in touch with the Station regarding the availability of such animals for study. The experiments with swine conducted by Mr. Hale included observation of twelve litters of pigs farrowed over a period of more than three years. These litters were born of members of an Experiment Station herd from which no other blind pigs had come since it was established twenty years ago, discounting the possibility of hereditary blindness.

The experiments provided for feeding the mother vitamin-A-free ration before gestation and for that period of gestation during which science shows the eye develops in the pig embryo. In all instances where the ration was deficient in vitamin A the pigs born were blind, some without eyeballs, some with eyes but without sight. The same dams when fed rations containing vitamin A farrowed pigs with normal eyesight. As a double check, blind dams and sires from the litters were bred and, having been fed rations containing vitamin A, produced normal pigs.

So much interest was created in scientific circles over the results obtained that Mr. Hale was invited to address the Association for Research in Ophthalmology at its session at Atlantic City last June, his subject being "The relation of Vitamin A to anophthalmos (born without eyes) in pigs."

Many inquiries regarding the experiments have been received from leading medical men of the country. Scientists reasoned that vitamin A deficiency in rations for pigs having caused blindness, similar deficiency in food for humans in instances might cause the same defect in human young. It is in order to continue with other animals the experiments that have been carried out with swine that the Station has asked that it be advised of young blind animals that may be available for observation.

LEAVES FOR HOME

Mrs. C. E. (Fritz) Shankle left Friday afternoon for her home in Tucson, Ariz., after a week visit in the J. D. Shankle home, 720 South Sixth Street. Bill Gerlach, Miss Thelma and Joe Shankle took her to Amarillo. Mrs. Shankle came by plane to El Paso.

MOVES TO AMARILLO

Mrs. George Sager left yesterday for Amarillo, where she will join Mr. Sager to make their home for an indefinite time. Mr. Sager recently went to Amarillo as foreman of the soil erosion service.

Source of Farmers Purchasing Power

Probably few people realize that the cash return to the farmer from the sale of chickens and eggs is larger than the cash value of either corn or wheat. The same statement can be made concerning the cash income from fruit crops as a whole. Likewise, the fact that the cash revenue from truck crops exceeds the combined cash income from hay, oats, barley, rye, and buckwheat is probably news to many of us. Possibly many people do not realize that milk is the largest single source of farm income in this country.

	Cash Income	Gross Benefit Payments	Total
Milk	$1,114,016,000	$	$1,114,016,000
Cotton & Cotton Seed	722,842,000	115,824,000	838,666,000
Cattle & Calves	701,589,000		701,589,000
Hogs	493,925,000	203,694,000	697,619,000
Chickens & Eggs	466,539,000		466,539,000
All Fruits	402,596,000		402,596,000
Wheat	289,169,000	101,508,000	390,677,000
Tobacco	240,937,000	36,276,000	277,213,000
Truck Crops	249,045,000		249,045,000
Corn	110,888,000	111,837,000	222,725,000

In the above ranking, the cash return the farmer obtains from actual commercial sale of the product is considered. If "farm value" were compared, there would be some change in ranking. The larger part of the corn raised in this country, for instance, is not sold as corn but in the form of pork.

An analysis of the source of farm income by states reveal that milk, the most important farm "crop," is the largest source of cash income in 17 states. Milk is second in nine states; holds third place in twelve; fourth in eight; and is a poor fifth in Montana and Wyoming. Milk production, and truck crops are about the only farm commodities which bring in substantial revenue in practically every locality. Because these products are generally produced locally, their importance as sources of revenue to the farmer is generally determined by the density of the urban population.

Cotton follows milk in importance in state ranking, holding first place in ten states. Cattle leads in six states, and wheat in five. Hogs, tobacco, and oranges are first in four, three, and two states respectively. Chickens and eggs have a lone first place in Delaware. The farmers' gross cash income has increased from $4,377,207,000 in 1932 to $6,266,769,000 in 1934. Even more important, however, is so far as the farmers' ability to purchase goods is concerned, is the fact that the farm income remaining, after deducting direct costs of production, increased from $1,473,000,000 to $3,257,000,000 in the same year... over 100 per cent.

ANTELOPE FLAT

Mrs. Roy Heckman and daughter, Dorothy Jo, of Silverton spent several days last week with relatives here. Several people of this community attended the baseball tournament at Leslie last week-end. Among those in Memphis last Saturday were Elmer Sanders and sons, Milton and Virgel, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bullock and son Jimmy, Mrs. Justice Ridge, Mrs. M. L. Durham and daughter, Misses Emma and Gussie Bullock, Henry Edens, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Barclay, Dan Dean and son, Dan Nelse and W. N. Bullock.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bullock and son Gail, of Heckman spent Saturday night and Sunday in the W. N. Bullock home.

Loyce Gibson visited in the W. N. Bullock home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Durham and family of Roswell, N. M., have moved to this community.

Pat Salmon and Walter Bell of Brice visited Mr. and Mrs. Dan Dean Sunday.

Loyce Gibson of Brice visited relatives here Sunday.

"Yes, thank you," Ruth replied. She was thinking, "What a sweet woman! She's fine and good and proud and sensible. She believes I'm Elaine Chalmers with millions and millions, but she treats me the way she'd treat any other girl whose mother she used to know. She's sincere and sure of herself. John gets those traits from her. He gets his good looks from her too—"

Mrs. McNeill was thinking, "She's surprisingly simple and unaffected. And so pretty! No wonder John's infatuated. I can see he is. He doesn't take his eyes off her... he really mustn't fall in love with her. She wouldn't have him, or if she did it wouldn't work. Wealth's a barrier to the normal life. It never brings happiness—"

Yet, through and around these thoughts, they wove a web of polite conversation there in the gracious big parlor, a tufted sofa, flowers nodded from sedate old vases and polished floors reflecting the lamplight.

All the while Ruth was thinking, "Elaine and John should marry, after all. It wouldn't matter about all her money. John's background is as good as hers... it would join the two houses together again. I believe it's intended. When she comes, all that will begin to happen—"

And then she thought of a hall-bedroom somewhere, with a gas plate in it for cooking. If she were lucky, she would be living in such a place while John and Elaine were becoming acquainted.

THIS chart shows how the Agricultural Adjustment Administration wheat program has safeguarded wheat farmers' income. For 1932 when there was no program, cash income to farmers from wheat was $196,000,000. For 1934 higher prices and adjustment payments brought a cash income of $391,000,000. The wheat program seeks: (1) to produce wheat for available markets; (2) to increase farm purchasing power; (3) to produce adequate supplies at all times for domestic use; (4) to encourage sound farming through diversion of land to soil-improving and erosion-preventing crops; and (5) to make voluntary cooperation more profitable to farmers than non-cooperation.

Leaf Worm Bad In Lubbock County

LUBBOCK, Sept. 21.—Disquieting information of the widespread peril to cotton by the leaf worm since the recent heavy rains over the South Plains has reached here. Reports have been received that the worm pest is advancing in the northern parts of Lubbock county, and that Woodrow, Slide and other communities in the south and southwestern parts of the county have been invaded.

Terry county, which has a heavy growth of cotton, also has been attacked and farmers are reported to have bought a carload of poison and begun extermination.

The worms are said to have reached Lynn County, where a larger acreage of well-grown staple is maturing in the northern and western portions.

Sorghum crops on the South Plains have had sufficient moisture to fill out heads of late grain for a predicted record yield. Much early maize and kaffir have already been harvested.

Pasturage in the area is reported responding to the moisture. As there are fewer cattle to be fed than for many years, it is believed fall pastures will be the best in a decade.

Elephants Among Most Intelligent

"What do you think of the intelligence of Elephants Capt. Kolar?" is one of the first questions I am asked, and here's my answer:

The Elephant is first in animal brains, first in their schooling, and leading the class all the way in intelligence. When my father, who trained elephants with many of the European circuses, started me on my career as an elephant tender, his advice to me was: "Learn the ways of the elephant," and teach them what you want to with kindness and patience.

And today I remember advice that has given me the pleasure of training the smartest Baby Elephant in the world, which is Baby Bolo, outstanding member of Schell Bros. 2 Herds of Gigantic pachyderms. Bolo, still a baby as far as years are reckoned, has learned to walk a wire, play musical instruments, read, write, add, subtract, multiply and in fact, knows as much as a child of 12 to 14 years of age. Teaching him required six hours daily or constant attention for he, like all youngsters, cared more for play than for schooling and in training this wonderful prodigy of the jungle, requiring four solid years, aggregating well over 6000 hours, I feel that I am well repaid, because Bolo has learned and today all honors that can be recorded an elephant are his. That is, he knows it all.

Captain Kolar's troupe of trained elephants will be one of the attractions at the Schell Circus, which plays this city next Wednesday, September 25th. The price of admission for the appearance will be 40 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

Political Row In Louisiana

By Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 21.—Selection of candidates for the Democratic primary in January was planned today, in an effort to close the breach in the Louisiana political organization left by the death of Huey Long.

Verbal tilts between supporters and opponents of Lieutenant Governor James Noe, who offended some party leaders by his early announcement as a candidate for Governor, raged behind bolted doors until early morning, in a meeting of the party chieftains last night.

Sales Tax Is Disapproved

By Associated Press

AUSTIN, Sept. 21.—The house sub-committee drafting the old-age pension bill, today disapproved the sales tax.

On motion of Representative Hofheinz, of Houston, they instructed that the final draft of the bill should not include either the sales tax or the per capita tax.

Other important provisions of the bill which were approved included a three-member administrative board, to be appointed by the governor, and a maximum of 200 county supervisors the first year and 100 thereafter.

Payment would be from the general fund, the first payments to be not before January first of next year.

A tax on domino halls was ordered attached as a rider to the permit amendment, with more important tax measures on the floor.

The sub-committee planned to report to the state affairs committee Tuesday.

Representative Bob Alexander, of Childress, is one of the most ardent sales tax proponents, and boosted the proposal to the house revenue and taxation committee.

LATE WAR NEWS FROM EUROPE

By Associated Press

Italy today rejected the League of Nations committee's suggestion for a settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian controversy, but League officials said the action did not preclude a later acceptance of different proposals.

European officials today predicted hostilities would begin in East Africa during the first fortnight of October, unless Italy reverses its policy.

The Italian press today charged that Great Britain had already "adopted sanctions against Italy," and added that a fight between Italy and Britain was quite possible.

The French cabinet, informed of Italy's decision, called off its afternoon session. At the morning meeting, they voted $430,000 to be devoted almost exclusively to reinforcing the army.

Italy's rejection of the Geneva peace plan, a government spokesman, said tonight at Rome, left the door open for further discussion and created a definite note of optimism that differences with Great Britain may be straightened out. The Italian cabinet met today and rejected the peace plan, but did it in such a way to invite another offer from Geneva.

Good Attendance Medical Meeting

Doctors and their wives were in attendance from Hall, Donley, Childress and Collingsworth counties here Friday night at 7 o'clock for the regular monthly meeting of the 4-County Medical Society.

The doctors and their wives, 27 in all, met in the banquet room of the Memphis Hotel. After dinner was served, the women held an auxiliary meeting, and the medical men held their regular business session.

Doctors T. P. Churchill and H. H. Latson, both of Amarillo, were guest speakers on the program and gave lengthy discourses on scientific subjects.

Injured Men Are Reported Better

Two Hall County men are improving from injuries sustained Thursday night about 10:30 o'clock two miles south of Childress on the Childress-Paducah highway, according to information from the Clark hospital here and from Carl Wolf.

Coy Jarvis, Lakeview, was carried to Dallas Friday with a broken back in a King ambulance, and according to Wolf, driver of the ambulance, Jarvis was resting easy yesterday.

F. R. Hamilton, Memphis, who is suffering from a crushed vertebrae, "spent a fretful day" yesterday, according to a nurse in the Clark hospital.

Dog! The Roosevelt Family Has a Picnic

The featured items of the menu offered at the annual picnic for White House reporters and President Roosevelt to his home at Hyde Park, N. Y., to cover his vacation activities. Roosevelt serves him a hot dog and son John offers a piece of pie.

Too Old to Fight? Not in Ethiopia

While Mussolini girds the pick of Italian youth for battle, young and old men rally to Ethiopia's defense. Note the graybeard (second from right) and pack of uniforms.

Stepmother Held in Girl's Death

Mrs. Ada Schueler, 25, pictured as she arrived for the coroner's inquest at Bridgeport, Conn., into the death of her stepdaughter, nine-year-old Marilyn Schueler, is reported to have confessed beating the girl to death in their home at Stamford. Hatred for the girl's mother is the motive cited for the killing.

The Vacant Chair

The chair in Huey Long's office in the Senate Office Building at Washington, D. C., that the dynamic Louisianan never can occupy again is a symbol of shattered hopes of his secretarial force as well as deep personal loss. Left to right are secretaries Don DeVol, Helen Lyne and Lois Gladding.

Wants to Wed Rothstein's Inez

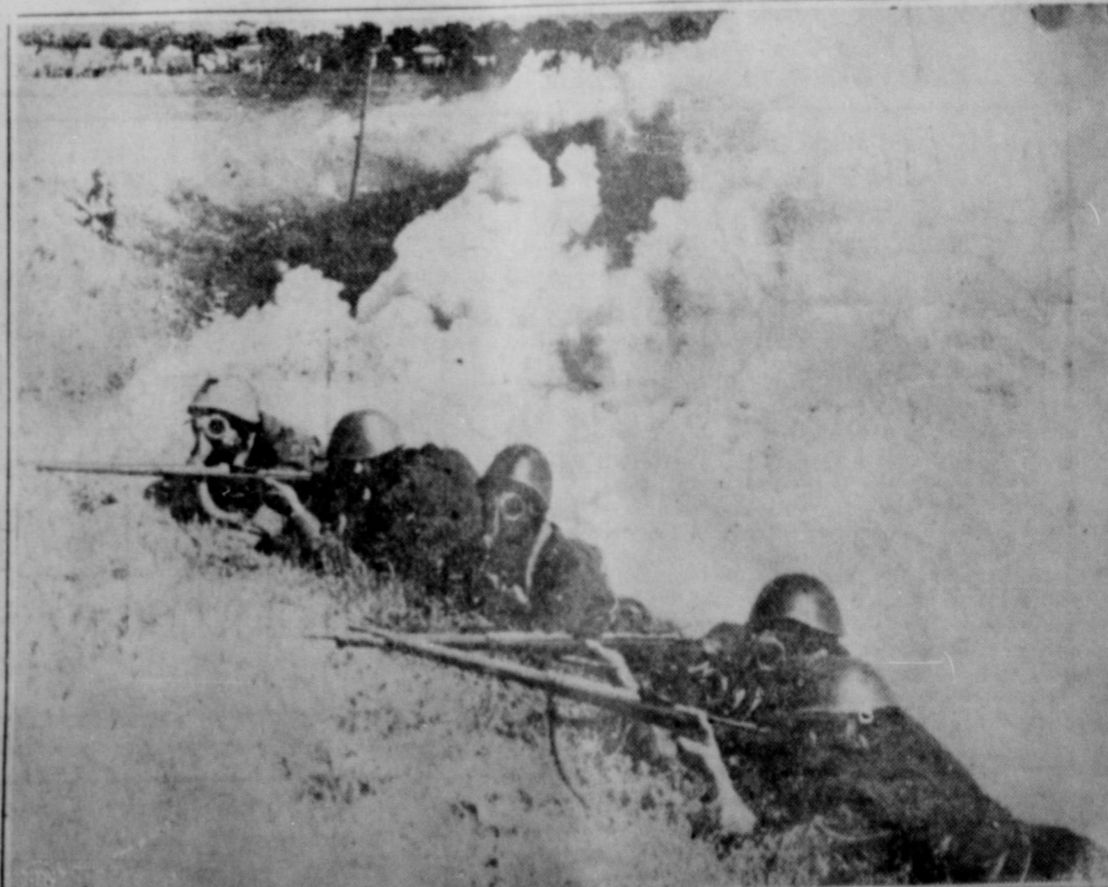

Hoping to win over his banker-father, to approval of the alliance, Thomas C. Neal, Jr., 24, of Chicago, blithely planned to marry Inez Norton, 22, sweetheart of the late gambler, Arnold Rothstein. He is shown beaming her attentively in a New York night club.

Poland's First Trans-Atlantic Liner Ready to Sail

Symbol of Poland's development from an inland country to an important factor in the world's maritime commerce, the motorship Pilsudski, first trans-Atlantic liner built by Poland since the nation's rebirth, was scheduled to sail from Gdynia, on the Baltic Sea, to New York September 15 on its maiden voyage. Constructed in Italy and paid for entirely in Polish coal, the Pilsudski is shown ready to weigh anchor.

Rome's Legions Ready to Fight in Face of Gas

For both offense and defense, the Italian troops go to Africa well prepared. Mussolini's infantrymen wore their gas masks as they took part the other day in realistic war games in the foothills of the Alps.
