One Hundred Forty Women Attend Review-Tea Here

Mrs. Bob Holland, prominent Childress club woman, reviewed the recent highly publicized novel, "All This and Heaven Too" by Rachel Fields, before an audience of 140 women at a book review-tea sponsored by the Mizpah Guild of the Presbyterian Church Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. H. Morris.

Mrs. E. C. Cargill and the hostess, Mrs. Morris, attended the receiving line. Mrs. Allen Grundy and Mrs. Charlie Kinsley presided at the tea table, and Mesdames Carl Periman, Murray Dodson, C. A. Robinson, and Donald May assisted in serving.

The serving table was centered with a silver bowl of Jonquills flanked by yellow tapers in silver holders. Others in the reception party were Mesdames Conley Ward, Durwood McCool, Ira Foster, Elizabeth Johnston, John Deaver, Mac Wilson, and E. Bryan, and Miss Mary Noel.

The book review, concerning the dramatic story of a governess who became involved in one of the most publicized murder scandals in French history and then ended an eventful life as the wife of a New England minister, was effectively presented by Mrs. Holland, and was enthusiastically received by the large audience.

The speaker has presented this review on several occasions, both in Childress and in other cities. She has appeared before women's organizations in Vernon and McLean in recent presentations.

A number of out-of-town guests attended the affair here Tuesday afternoon. Among them were Mrs. Frank Craven, Mrs. Martin Crews, Mrs. Charles Barnes, and Mrs. Ruth Record of Childress; Miss Pruitt of Esteline; Mrs. J. L. McMurry, Mrs. Ed Dishman, Mrs. R. E. Morris, and Mrs. L. E. Thompson of Clarendon; and Mrs. Hobart Moffitt, Mrs. R. L. Dishman, Mrs. Ross Adamson, and Mrs. Ed Kinslow of Hedley.

A small charge of twenty-five cents was assessed for tickets and reservations, the funds being used to benefit the Mizpah Guild.

Sodolitan Class Is Entertained at E. T. Prater Home

4-County Bankers Association Meets Here Thursday

Bank Officials, Employees Hold Regular Spring Session in Memphis

Members of the Four-County Bankers Association are meeting in Memphis this afternoon (Thursday) for their regular spring business session and banquet.

The association, which includes Hall, Collingsworth, Childress, and Donley county bankers, scheduled a business session for Thursday afternoon, with a banquet for members and their wives at the Memphis Hotel Thursday night.

J. W. Noel of Hedley is president of the association, and L. H. Rigby of Childress is secretary. About 75 bank employees and officials from the four counties were expected to meet here.

Blaze Starts In Clothes Closet

A fire early Thursday morning at the home of Mrs. R. L. Robertson at 602 North 9th street was halted quickly by the local fire department, and little damage was reported.

The blaze, which was discovered in a clothes closet at the Robertson home shortly after 7 o'clock, destroyed and damaged clothing but, with the exception of slight damages to the walls and paper in the immediate area, did not damage the rest of the house.

Origin of the fire was undetermined.

Mrs. Robertson said later in the morning that damages to clothing and other material had totaled approximately $250. The loss was covered by insurance, however.

MOVES TO NEW LOCATION

The O. K. Rubber Welding Co. has moved from quarters near the depot to the corner of 8th and Noel streets, in the building formerly occupied as a filling station.

Bishop Pope Dies At Quannah Sunday

Bishop Pope, 74, pioneer Hardeman county stockman and rancher, died at Quannah early Sunday following an illness of several weeks. Funeral services were held Monday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. R. E. Sullivan, in that city, with Rev. Frank York of the First Methodist Church conducting the services.

Mr. Pope was the father of Leo Pope, now of Quannah, formerly a local dry goods merchant, and Mrs. Kennon Hillyer of Houston, who was a teacher in the Memphis High School for several years prior to the time of her moving to Houston in 1936.

classification of dairy products, which includes butter, cream, milk, and all types of cheese. The same standards are observed in judging products as in judging the cattle.

An all-day program is being planned for the event, Hooser said, with a barbecue or lunch on the grounds. Committees for arrangements, including dairy cattle judging, grounds, dinner committee, cattle, and dairy products have not yet been named.

In addition to the Dairy Show here in August, the 4-H Club boys of the county will join FFA members in staging a boys' Fat Stock Show early in April. Dates for the show are still tentative, however, and the judges have not been named.

drawn since she had been in Memphis. Local officers, who had been watching the place in an attempt to substantiate the rumors, assert that that statement is true.

The couple, officers believe, crossed state lines on several occasions in violation of Federal statutes. Whether the offense can be classed as "white" slavery, however, may prove an interesting point for the federal prosecutors.

How to Bake Prize Cherry Pie

SURROUNDED by cherry pies, smiling 16-year-old Ruby Hudson of Smithton, Mo., holds her own specialty, proclaimed champion of them all in the national cherry pie baking contest at Chicago. Ruby's formula:

- The Crust
- 1 1/2 cups flour
 - 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon sugar
 - 1/2 cup lard
 - 1/4 cup ice water
- The Filling
- 2 cups sour cherries
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 1/4 cup cherry juice
 - 3 tablespoons tapioca

She sifts dry pastry ingredients together, adds lard, mixes with knives until cut into small particles, then adds water. She adds mixture of juice and tapioca to sweetened cherries. Pastry is rolled out and put in pan, after which cherries are added. Lower crust edges are dampened with water, then slitted top crust is laid over filling. With pastry brush, Ruby spreads thin layer of mixed cream and sugar over top to assure even browning. Oven heat is kept at 450 degrees for 15 minutes, reduced to 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Now the prize pie is ready and —mmmm!

Quarantine—

all premises within the county, effective Feb. 20, prohibiting the movement of any hogs into the county from any other state or county except those consigned to recognized slaughtering establishments having municipal or federal meat inspection for immediate slaughter and except those brought into the area in compliance with the Texas Interstate Regulations.

The regulations provide that hogs for purposes other than immediate slaughter must be accompanied by a health certificate showing them to have been properly immunized and to have been dipped in or sprayed with a disinfectant approved by the Bureau of Animal Husbandry.

Hogs are forbidden to enter Texas within 30 days after vaccination by the simultaneous method, and must reach their destination before 30 days from the date of treatment if the Dorset-McBride-Niels serum method is used. The hogs must be shipped in clean and disinfected cars, and not handled through public stockyards and whutes.

The proclamation prohibited movement of hogs through public sales, or within the county except to recognized public stockyards unless accompanied by a written permit from the Livestock Commission.

The quarantine became effective February 20, and will continue until released by the commission.

new quarter-mile track at Cyclone Stadium, and local directors hope to have a fine cinder path prepared in time for running of the Relays.

The Cyclone track and field team started work-outs this week in preparation for an assault on the Relays team titles. The Relays are scheduled just ahead of the annual Interscholastic League meets, and have, in the past, proved a thorough testing ground for the state championship events at Austin later in the spring.

Fight Night—

In the "heavier" weights, Bill Reynolds, 116, and Bill Kerbow, 114, fought three fast rounds to a draw in an excellent boxing exhibition. Kerbow displayed one of the fastest left hands in the ring Tuesday night, and both boys mixed it throughout the fight with fast footwork and clean hitting.

Billie Ballew, 103 pounder, the "Tony Galento" of Memphis boxers, put up a game fight against his lighter but taller opponent, 95-pound Weldon Grimes, but lost the decision in spite of a third-round knockdown. Young Ballew, whose rushing tactics were the delight of the fans, connected with a left which carried with it the impetus of a headlong dive across the ring in the 3rd round and placed his opponent momentarily on the floor, but Grimes, recovering quickly, came back to take the decision.

The fights were staged by Clinton Voyles, Junior high school principal, assisted by Jack Jarrell. Promoter Voyles, who staged the show as an exhibition of the Junior High playground program, was well-pleased. A. B. "Red" Murphy, high school coach, was referee; Carroll Smyers, announcer; and Wilson Dees, time-keeper.

Rounds were limited to 45 seconds, each bout going three rounds to a decision.

The only knock-out of the evening was a technical K. O. scored by J. E. Shockley over Cassie Oliver in the second round of their fight. Shockley, 135 pounder, swung a hard and fast left hand with deadly effectiveness, and Referee Murphy halted the battle in the second. Oliver, weighing 139, was unable to cope with Shockley's speed and power.

In other bouts on the card, Charles Upton, 71 pounds, defeated Frank Houston, 81; Lloyd Byars, 75, defeated Bobby Stephenson, 67; Frank Smith, 86, defeated Bobbie Jefferies, 83; Si Rice, 91, and Ralph Thomas, 79, fought to a draw; Kenneth Askew and William Clark, 98 pounders, battled three rounds to a draw; Clifford Gilchrist, 86, decisioned Rowe Orand, 82; Dan Shaffer, 85, lost a decision to Joseph Stephenson, 90; Don Isabell, 84, defeated Douglas Barber, 79; Gayle Pysatt, 81, took a decision from G. W. Frazier, 85; Al Shipman, 89, and Alonzo Robinson, 99, fought to a draw; Harry Askew, 83, decisioned W. B. Hamilton, 83; Burl Martin, 137, lost a decision to Odis Gilchrist, 131; Eugene ... 85, defeated Alfred ... and Troy Romines, 134, in a close match from B. P. ... the final.

Romines and Denson ... card with a furious slug ... narrowly missed ... knockout. Both boys ... a wide-open swinging ... gave the fans a thrill.

Real Cowboys And Indians Inhabit Canyon Museum

Replicas of real Indians and real cowboys are going to inhabit the museum of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society at Canyon.

Chief Sky Eagle, realistically done in plaster of paris and war paint, stands near the huge mounted buffalo.

And soon a model of Fred Scott, former JA Ranch cowboy, will stand beside an array of old saddles, in full regalia of the range. Casts of Scott were made recently by Harley Goettsche of Higgins, a junior in West Texas State College who is highly skilled in the making of lifelike models. Scott's right hand will rest upon a Goodnight saddle and in his left hand will be a lariat.

Scott is regarded as a typical cowboy, as indeed he was for 13 years. He quit the JA outfit in 1895, and in 1900 moved to Canyon to school his children. Now 75 years old and the operator of a filling station, he is in good health and is very active. Goettsche has commended his patience and his interest in the project.

Community Public Service Employees Receive Awards

Perfect Safety Record Set by Company Men In District for 1938

Employees of the Community Public Service Company at Memphis and Estelline received awards from the company recently for maintaining a perfect safety record in the district during the past year, according to Roy R. Fultz, local manager.

Men employed by the company received monogrammed belt buckles and tie-and-collar clasps. The women were given monogrammed compacts. The awards were made as a result of a record of no accidents, either in driving or in maintenance work, on the part of all employees in the district.

A. Doolen, service man for the local office, was safety director for the district last year. Among the employees receiving awards were Fultz, Dooley, T. J. Martin, pumping supervisor, and Maurine Reheis, cashier, all of Memphis, and Alton Carr, company manager at Estelline. Carr has been named district safety manager for 1939.

Last year, Fultz said, only the manager and safety director received awards, each getting an expense paid trip to the Fat Stock Show at Fort Worth, but this year the policy was altered to include all employees in the district making the record.

Prize Is Offered Democrat Readers

Have you ever heard of a "Betty Lou" spoon? Whether you have or not—we believe every one of our readers will like one. They are very unusual and attractive. The handle is a beautiful image of the famous little star of the "Quaker Party" radio show. They are genuine Carlton silverplate, made by one of America's largest manufacturers of silverware, and full teaspoon size.

Because we believe every one of our readers would like one of these unusual spoons, we are cooperating with one of our national advertisers to bring all readers of The Democrat an opportunity to get one of these free. All you have to do is cut out the coupon on page 5 of this section and bring it to the office of this paper with one trade-mark from a large size package of Quaker Oats, (or two trade-marks from regular size packages). You will immediately receive your "Betty Lou" spoon.

You see this special coupon saves you ten cents plus postage and waiting. Nothing to mail and nothing to pay for. So hurry. You'll love one of these handsome spoons once you see it. Use it to adorn your table or for a fine gift any child will love.

Remember this offer is limited to our readers. So cut out your coupon now and bring it in with a trade-mark from a Quaker Oats package, the large size, just as soon as you can and get your "Betty Lou" spoon free.

Secrecy, Tradition Mark Election of New Pontiff

Cardinals meet in Sistine Chapel of Vatican, above, to elect new Pope. When Pontiff is named, only canopy over chair of Pope-elect remains raised, as shown, to constitute provisional throne.

WITH the election of a successor to the late Pope Pius XI, the world will see a renewal of one of history's strangest elections, colored with religious tradition.

Cardinals from all sections of the globe are assembling at Vatican City to choose the new Pontiff. Catholic rule states that the conclave of the College of Cardinals must meet between the 15th and 18th day following the Pope's death.

A full college consists of 70 cardinals, but death has reduced the present membership to 42. These are the electorate. Each is given cell-like quarters in the Vatican, simply furnished. Numbers for the suites are drawn by lot.

Windows are walled to prevent cardinals from signaling to the outside. Strictest secrecy must prevail. Until the election has been completed, all entrances and exits to the Vatican are barricaded. The cardinals and their attendants may not go without the walls; no outsider may come in.

Temporary kitchens are set up within the Vatican and meals are passed into the cardinals' rooms through a wicket. Each cardinal is allowed to have two secretaries who serve as his agents in official negotiations.

The voting room is the elaborate Sistine Chapel where the cardinals meet twice a day—morning and evening. Each cardinal writes his choice in the center of the ballot, then deposits it in a chalice on the altar. Three "scrutators" do the counting.

A two-thirds majority is necessary for election and throngs outside have learned to await a smoke signal from the chimney of the stove in which the ballots are burned. If a vote fails to elect, the ballots are burned with wet straw, making black smoke; but if the vote is a success, the ballots only are burned, giving off white smoke.

When one of the cardinals has received a sufficient majority, he must first personally accept the office. Canopies are removed from all of the cardinals' thrones except that of the Pope-elect.

The Pontiff is next taken to another room, where he is vested in the robes of his office. First homage to him is paid by his former fellow-cardinals.

In St. Peter's Square, in front of the papal residence, thousands gather to be present at the first appearance of their new religious ruler. A second-story balcony is draped with an official emblem—and on this projection, the crowd concentrates.

Following the ceremony at which the Pope receives his new robes, bars of the Vatican are let down, doors are thrown open. The new Pope then steps onto the balcony to receive the acclaim of the crowd.

Not until this moment will the successor to Pope Pius XI be known to the public.

Biggest Livestock Show Will Open

The largest beef cattle show ever held in the Southwest will open in Fort Worth March 10 when the gates swing wide on the forty-third annual Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, March 10-19.

Entries in the various livestock classes have been summarized by D. G. Talbot, general livestock superintendent, showing that 1,249 beef cattle have been entered this year as compared with 1,058 at the 1938 show.

A total of 4,500 animals will be entered in the various departments of the exposition, coming from ranking show herds of livestock in 16 states.

1939 Frigidaire Premier Showing Is Announced

West Texas Utilities Company Displays New Models March 9-10

A premier showing of the 1939 model Frigidaires will be held at the West Texas Utilities Company show rooms Thursday, March 9, and Friday March 10, E. M. Wilson, local manager announced this week.

Display rooms have been arranged to take care of a large number of visitors, Wilson said, and the general public is invited to attend.

The new "Cold-Wall" model, designed to save women the necessity of covering up dishes of food, will be a feature of the show.

Many refinements have been added to the new models, Wilson said, all tending to increase the efficiency and economy. Special attention will be directed to the "cold-wall" model, however. "We feel that this will be the most important showing since electric refrigerators were first placed on the market," the local dealer stated.

GRID PERSONALITIES

Big, good-natured Floyd Melton is always wearing a broad grin. This 210 pounds of real man is noticeable anywhere. Floyd is a combination tackle and center. Although he was a little green last year in this game of football, he was a valuable man and with the added year of experience, he should be hard to handle. Fast, active, smart and aggressive; a combination that spells "real athlete." Watch him go next fall. "Get double tough, Floyd."

FHT News Letter Is Completed

The first edition of the Future Homemakers News Letter for this semester has been completed. This paper is sponsored by Miss Rachel Deahl, Home Economics teacher.

Each class in home economics has a reporter who turns in news about the class projects and individual progress of out-standing work. Helpful hints on personal care of the skin, make-up, hair, nails, and clothes are given. Poems and jokes are added for color and spice.

The editor is Mary Isabelle Hanvey, and the reporters are: Wanda Becham, Katie Posey, Janet Hood, Juanelle Siddle, No-rean Vick, Zoleta Jones, Jo Deering, and Geraldine Boles. These girls are doing a fine piece of work.

School Editorial

Dear Patrons,
Reading, beginning in the first grade, is continued throughout junior high and high school. In West Ward we have splendid teachers trained especially to teach our boys and girls to read and to give them a desire to become good readers, by understanding what they read. These children go to Junior High and are encouraged to continue the excellent beginning they made in the first three grades. History, geography, and health are introduced to the pupils and they master these courses by being able to read and understand a printed page.

Literature is the form of reading taught in high school. The students have been trained to read and enjoy the best literature. We teach reading and literature to aid the student in finding a use for his leisure time. His vocabulary is enlarged and he begins to think for himself, frequently agreeing or disagreeing with the writers. He visits strange places through reading and explores new avenues of thought. The student's cultural background is enlarged and broadened.

Reading and literature are almost limitless in expansion. The learning of history, geography, health, science, and stated problems in mathematics is often based upon the ability of the child as a reader. Art, through collecting pictures for illustrations, drawing, and printing, aids in the beauty of a note book or scrap book. Oral English, in telling the words and thoughts of another is vitally important to a student.

Interest is created in reading and literature by drawing pictures, by making scenes to illustrate stories and poems, by using maps to trace journeys, and find interesting places mentioned in the reading, by moving pictures and by dramatizing stories and plays.

Outside materials used are newspapers, books, magazines and picture shows, and radio. You as parents, aid in the study of reading and literature by the whole hearted interest and encouragement you offer.
Yours truly,
W. C. Davis.

Memphis Girls Win Seven Straight In Volleyball Here

Defeat Clarendon Teams In Series at Local Gym Last Friday Night

Memphis girls' volleyball teams, both first and second string squads playing, defeated Clarendon girls in seven straight matches at the local gymnasium Friday night.

The first team won four matches, the second stringers taking three in a row to complete the rout.

Memphis starters were Athalee Hutcherson, Avaline McQueen, Odena Yarbrough, Vonda Blume, Annie Margaret Mitchell, Eunice Goffinett, Margaret Webster, and Ida V. Mixon.

On the second team were Thelma McQueen, Velma McQueen, Norine Mixon, Jo Adudel, and Mary Wanda Hawkins.

The local squads are coached by Robert Devin. Coach A. B. Murphy and Alvis Yarbrough were the officials.

Hi-Y Club Meets Tuesday Night

The Hi-Y club, sponsored by Mr. Devin, met at the high school building Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock. M. C. Ball, Lloyd Benton, and Cordell Bales gave the devotional.

The main speaker of the evening was R. H. Williams, educational advisor from the local CCC camp. The Gilliam brothers furnished the music which was enjoyed and appreciated by fifteen members and two visitors.

FFA Judging Team Enters Contest

The Memphis FFA dairy cattle judging team competed in a contest held at Texas Tech Saturday, February 25. The team is composed of Leon Grisham, Garland Solomon, and Merle Padgett.

There were 47 teams competing in the contest. The teams will be ranked the latter part of this week.

OVER-TAXING THE FARM

WHILE EVERYONE, the farmer included, would give enthusiastic approval to an equalization of the tax burden on property, too little attention is given to that same problem as applied to the burden placed on farm lands by the farmer himself.

Too much of the state's valuable farm land is being over-taxed, not by stringent revenue laws, but by the soil-depleting burden of producing, year after year, a single crop which saps the soil of its resources until it can no longer produce.

Diversified taxation, in an effort to equalize the burden, has been applied in government for many years. Government economists have long recognized that any single tax, while it might produce sufficient revenue in the beginning, would soon sap the industry on which it is placed of all its resources and ability to pay, and in doing so defeat its own end.

Much the same line of reasoning may be applied to modern farming. Land which has been devoted almost entirely to raising cotton, as Hall County has been, or to any other single crop, must eventually be drained of its resources for producing that crop, and naturally of its resources for producing revenue.

The farm program for the past few years has been directed largely to a demonstration of the value of diversified farming, and the results are beginning to become apparent here in a small measure as local farmers turn their attention to other aspects of farm production than raising cotton. The salvation of this country as an agricultural "land of plenty" may well lie in that trend.

The current interest in dairy and poultry shows is a hopeful sign. In a country which is well suited to dairying, with land which can produce ample feed for dairy herds, dairying may well become, not merely a profitable side-line, but a profitable companion industry to cotton production.

A current report from the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research throws an interesting sidelight on the subject with the statement that while cotton producing areas have been low in income, those districts in which livestock and dairy products constitute the major resources are relatively higher.

A happy solution for this area may lie in a combination of the two. The fertile farming lands of this section should not be limited to a single source of revenue when greater production is afforded through the addition of another. The union of two great industries might succeed where cotton production alone has failed.

A great nation was founded, and has flourished, on the principle that "in Union there is strength."

SUPPORTING SCOUTING

ORGANIZATION of Boy Scout troops in Memphis is one movement which should receive the active interest and support of every adult citizen. A rapid increase in interest on the part of the boys of the community has already been exhibited, and the three troops now being organized are getting an enthusiastic response from this quarter.

Scouting can be of great benefit to Memphis, but the Boy Scout movement, if it is to live and flourish, must receive the encouragement of the community and its citizens.

The boys who are driving the opening wedge in the organization of scouting here have already demonstrated by their interest that they want to be good citizens. But in addition to citizenship and loyalty, the scout is also taught to be thrifty and self-reliant. Each member of each local troop will be required to earn the money necessary for his fees and uniform.

No one is asked to donate money to the Boy Scouts of Memphis. That is not only contrary to the principles of scouting but contrary to the principles of good citizenship which these boys are learning to apply. But everyone can aid the Boy Scout movement and encourage its members by giving these lads an opportunity to earn the money which their membership will require.

Help the Scouts to help themselves.

The current international argument regarding the wartime flying strength of the world's leading nations has a lot of statesmen up in the air with nothing to ride in. Wide variance in statistics seem to point to the conclusion that most of the nations have more plans than planes.

Just in Case

Home-Spun Farm Security

By T. C. RICHARDSON, Secretary
 Breeder-Feeder Association

The pot of gold at the foot of the rainbow still eludes the eager fingers of the hopeful who have been waiting for some magic of government to boost them into prosperity. There are not going to be enough homes for the homeless, enough farms for the landless, enough pensions for the aged, to be handed down by some legislative legerdemain of dividing up the wealth already in existence. Government can help and is helping but there will never be "farm security" for those who lean too heavily on outside props and fail to make the most of their own resources at home.

Good home living grows where it is planted and tended, not in legislative halls at the state or national capitol. The grass that grows along the branch and in the fence corners will feed a cow or a flock of sheep. The grass that springs up in the cotton patch will keep a flock of geese happy and save hoeing, to say nothing of turning into feathers and luscious meat. The insects that infest the crops and the waste around the barnyard will go a long way to keep a flock of hens. A flock of turkeys will pick boll weevil and leaf worms off considerable cotton.

Terraced fields will give greater yields, and properly spaced furrows in the pastures multiply the grass. A mower to keep weeds down does the same. Lambs in the corn field after it is laid by keep grass and weeds down and pay for the privilege. A ditch which can be dug in a day with-out a dollar of cash outlay will store enough ensilage to feed the family milk cows and their calves through a long hard winter or a summer drought, and when feed is thus stored it can't blow away, burn up, dry up, or decay.

Our frontier ancestors made the most of what they had, and left us a tradition of self-reliance and independence of which we may well be proud. All around us today are unused opportunities for self-help (only a few of which have been mentioned), uncultivated resources for added income, unplowed fields of opportunity from which a rich harvest of human satisfactions awaits those who exercise the vision, the resourcefulness, and the energy which enabled the pioneers to conquer the continent.

It is quite true that the present generations of farmers haven't the freedom of action, the virgin soils, the unspoiled forests, the luxuriant grass and plentiful game and fish of the pioneers, but we have proportionally more implements with which to work and greater knowledge of how to use the resources left to us than had those rugged old individuals who did the job with an axe and a rifle.

The same courage and initiative coupled with the improved crops and livestock, and better information on how to make the best of them, enable the present generation to produce more per acre and get greater returns per hour of labor than the best of our fathers could have done.

The only way a nation can have more is to produce more, whether it be peanuts or flying machines. New wealth is created only by applying thought and work to the materials which are at hand. Real farm security is a grass-roots job first of all, and

Christianity as a World Religion

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 5
 Text: Acts 19:36-48

EVEN among those who profess in theory to believe in Christianity as a world religion, and in Jesus as a Saviour of all, there are many who in actual practice seem to think of Christianity as a religion chiefly for white Americans or Anglo-Saxons.

Yet in the early history of the church itself, this issue was one of the first to be met and to be settled, so far as the records and the attitude of those most truly Christian were concerned Paul had to meet it in opposition to Jewish converts, who thought of this new religion as for themselves and not for the Gentiles.

Paul was outspoken in his championship of world-wide Christianity. He asserted most definitely that in Jesus Christ there was neither Jew nor Gentile, barbarian nor Scythian, bond nor free; but Christ was all, and in all.

BUT even before Paul had to meet this issue as the first great, world-wide Christian missionary, Peter had had to face it in a more limited way. Peter was less prepared to meet it than Paul, because Peter had had no such revolutionary religious experience in his life as had come to Paul. Peter had come into Christian discipleship with little to affect or break his Jewish associations, and he carried over into his Christian discipleship much of his Jewish outlook. It required a vision from the housetop, reminding him that what God had cleansed a man must not call unclean, to make him see that God's grace was for all men, regardless of race or color. Even with that behind him, he lapsed back into his former prejudice. Yet Peter had overcome prejudice within the narrow own Jewish relationship was lodging in the home of Simon, the tanner. Paul, in his "Jewish Life in the Time of Christ" us that tanning was one of the trades held in very low esteem among the Jews because of the filth and smells associated with the trade. Peter was not or he would hardly have been stopping at the tanner's. But religious prejudices are hardest to overcome, harder than social prejudices and Peter still had a very distinct distinction in his mind between Jews and Gentiles.

IT was under these circumstances that Cornelius, a man centurian who had been under the ministry of the apostle and who was sent to Jerusalem by a vision, asked Peter to come and instruct him in the truth. Just what reply might have been made if it had been for the vision on which we do not know.

But Peter's vision was the result of the request that he come out of the vision of God. He perceived clearly that no respecter of persons, every nation he that feared Him, and worketh righteousness is acceptable to Him.

The rest of the lesson Peter's intercourse with Cornelius, but here is the great standing truth for us in the son . . . God is no respecter of persons.

Would God that men understand it and practice all their ways and relations of life!

The help of laws is only secondary. The old saying "God helps those who help themselves" is a mighty good text.

Let's grow up, and quit chasing rainbows. Political panaceas and high-flown economic theories handed down from those who think the farmer is incapable of thinking for himself won't do the job—for the farmer who does not efficiently and direct his own mental physical abilities will be given by someone else; and the will collect for his services.

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME

HENRY, IT'S A SHAME THE WAY YOU HAVE LET YOUR FIGURE GO SINCE WE WERE MARRIED!!!

Jots 'n' Jest

RIGHT after the wedding a Kansas bridegroom came down with scarlet fever and took his wife into three weeks' quarantine. Well, it's one way to get privacy.

Almost any day Britain's Neville Chamberlain will be looking at a picture of himself and saying: "So that's where I left my umbrella."

Funny how boys who won't run to school, even if they're late, will chase up and down the school basketball floor for a solid hour with their tongues hanging out.

Those Texas quadruplets are going to cause more than one problem for Father W. E. Badgett. He'll have to hire a vaudeville balancer to walk the floor with them.

You Can See How the Government Operates at Either World's Fair

WASHINGTON.—If you are planning to visit either the San Francisco or New York World Fair this year, you can save yourself a trip to Washington to find out how government works.

Each government department is represented at these fairs, not as an individual unit but in cooperation with other departments in topical exhibits. Participation by the Department of Agriculture is a good example of how these exhibits are organized.

Topical exhibits at the New York fair are conservation, trade, finance and credit, transportation and commerce, social welfare, education, arts and recreation, food, internal protection, foreign relations and territories, and national defense.

Topical exhibits at the San Francisco fair are economic affairs, social affairs, recreation, housing, science, Indians, national defense, and conservation.

THE Department of Agriculture is naturally the most important contributor to the food exhibit in New York. The diorama on food is in two parts—production and distribution.

The production half shows the interdependence of city and country, with a model of Manhattan Island encircled by about 5,000,000 acres of farm land built to scale. This represents the measure of productive soil necessary to feed 2,000,000 people.

The distribution half of the exhibit shows the variety of foods available in 1789 as contrasted with the selection modern distribution facilities have made possible. Processing and transportation of food in 1789 as compared with modern methods is another part of the same exhibit.

The origin of food staples in remote corners of the world is illustrated in diorama, and the Department of Agriculture comes into this picture because of its so-called "plant hunters" who have been responsible for the introduction or discovery of many of the seeds. Another feature is the relation of income and diet.

As evidence of the wide field covered by the Department of Agriculture in its functions, it has contributed to all exhibits at the New York fair with the exception of internal protection, foreign relations and national defense.

IN the conservation exhibit, the Commodity Exchange has a part and the department's committee on commercial policy is represented because it helps develop trade agreements.

In the finance and credit exhibit, farm security has its spot. In the transportation and commerce corner, credit will be given public roads and the weather bureau.

In the social welfare exhibit, the Food and Drug Administration and the Bureau of Home Economics are highlighted. Agriculture's extension service with its program for adult education and its 4H clubs for adolescents make the department eligible for the exhibit on education, arts, and recreation.

Similarly the Department of Agriculture has a part in all but two of the topical exhibits in San Francisco. So if you go to the World's Fair—either one—you will see your government made graphically simple.

Search for Museum Relics To Extend Into Hall County

P-PHS Museum at Canyon Will Comb Panhandle Through $26,000 Grant

Collection of historical records for the museum of the Panhandle Plains Historical Society, located on the campus of West Texas State College in Canyon, was started this week through a WPA project sponsored by the college, and will gradually be extended to 26 Panhandle counties.

The search began this week in Potter County, workers combing public and private records, and visiting homes in the quest for relics and heirlooms of historical value.

The photos show other field boundaries, accurate acreage with very little effort, contours, gullies, and hill formations clearly. Use of these contribute to better planning, AAA authorities.

In a state-wide aerial mapping program, the AAA has photographed approximately seven-tenths of the farm and ranch area of the state.

Now, for the benefit of Texas farmers who want a handy reference map of their farm layout, AAA is making available photographic enlargements of individual farms showing everything from the bucket by the well to the cows in the feed patch.

The entire Hall County area has been photographed from the air, County Agent W. B. Hooser announced this week, and the local county agent's office is using these enlarged photographic maps to check compliance with the 1939 program.

Thirty uniforms were issued Friday, February 24, by Coach "Red" Murphy in preparing for the Cyclone 1939 spring training, which began Monday, February 27, for a duration of six weeks. Among those reporting were 13 returning lettermen and the rest squaddens who are determined to make them fight for their positions. Much enthusiasm was shown by the boys who are anxious to get started.

A new system is to be installed by a new coach and much hard work is to be the order of the training period. The boys are determined to have a hard fighting winning team next fall.
