MOODY TO SPEAK HERE WEDNESDAY, JUNE 16.

Dan Moody, attorney general of Texas, and candidate for governor, will speak in Memphis Wednesday, June 16 at 2:30 p. m. is the announcement received thru the press. No arrangements have been made so far by local Moody supporters in regard to the place of speaking; but will probably be arranged in time to anounce in the papers next issue.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

The Memorial Service last Sunday, under auspices of the U. D. and Legion Auxiliary, was one that will linger in the memories of those present for a long time to come. The program was carried out as announced, with the exception of the Memorial address to our departed Confederate Veterans. This was given by Rev. C. E. Jameson in fine style. Atty. Jno. M. Deaver made a splendid Memorial address to our departed World War Veterans. The music and other numbers on the program were exceptionally good.

MRS. W. H. ROBERTS

Mrs. Louisa Josephine Roberts, aged 59 years, 11 months and 16 days, died Friday, May 28, 1:30 p. m. in this city after several days illness. Practically every primitive tribe

the most free from loin coverings of all sorts. Reasons given for the wearing of loin coverings vary. Na some form, even apart from any in-the whites; tribal and ceremonial painting or tattooing is often a

Glass-Making Secret

The manufacture of flaked glass for office partitions and windows is based on the use of automatically controlled gas heating.

The process is similar to that employed by the American Indians in making flint arrowheads. The flint was shaped by heating the stone and dropping cold water on it, each drop causing a chip of stone to fly off because of the sudden contraction caused by the water.

The glass to be treated is first sandblasted. This produces a milky frosted surface. The glass is then coated with glue and subjected to a gradual drying process in a gas-fired oven. The drying causes the glue to contract and this in turn makes the glass shrink and shrivel off in flakes. The manufacture of flaked glass an old pinched-looking man in the room. A town cannot progress any faster than the people in it. They are "bound" to win or lose together. If the individuals comprising a city lack foresight and enterprise, they not only retard their own chances of success, but they hold back the town's chances as well. On the other hand, a virgorous and progressive citinship sets a rapid pace and the community keeps up with it.

This close relationship between individual and community effort should never be overlooked. If is holding it back.

We must remember that cities have characteristics the same as people and that Memphis' characteristics represent the average of those living here. Therefore it is up to all of us to keep alive the spirit of the community.

YOUTH RIDES WEST

By WILL IRWIN

Here is one of the best of the American period novels, a stirring tale of the Rockies of 1870. A thriller in style both readable and fine. Rich in characters and incidents, human and filled with romance. In this story Will Irwin has made a lasting contribution to that literature which celebrates the characteristics of the West in its strenuous young days.

Pullman Rates High

The rate on Pullman craches eem entirely out of proportion to the passenger fare on railway The same charges are nade that were in use during the war and the 50 per cent surcharge that goes to the railroad appears to be an unjustifiable burden on Dendy's School of Beauty Culture; Dendy's the traveling public. In addition to this surcharge, the roads that are making popular excursion rates when occasion justifies them are now making one rate for travelers in day coaches and another for those in Pullman cars, in addition to the regular Pullman car charge. The traveling public is complaining, and at times rather bitterly, of the Pullman surcharge n railroad fares.

Killing the Snakes

ng the lives of many people in many parts of Texas and snakebite serum is in much demand in ocalities infested by rattlesnakes. The remedy is all right, but what Texas needs is a campaign of prevention. Poisonous snakes should e exterminated. This can be brought about by the right kind should be spared where the lives of people are involved.

Burbank's Religion

It is a great pity that Luther Burbank did not live long enough o explain fully his views as to reigion, and that his public utterance shortly before his death was largely misinterpreted. In keeping with his lifelong custom making notes of everything he wrote while on his deathbed: "Do ignore what is generally called he spiritual nature of man? This s the corona, the flower of life, he fruit of which is altruism, the desire to help ourselves and others to higher and better thoughts and action, in other words, to a more perfect state of harmony with environment." Observe this statement closely and see if you can reconcile it with infidelity.

Texas now has a 12-hour mail ervice to Chicago and a 24 hour ervice to New York. Air transportation is now safer than travbecome as regular as the rail will be cheap enough to be adapted to the general use of persons reaching the North Pole Lieutenant Wright accomplished with difficulty in nine months.

MURDER!

One day a stranger chanced to stray down a path by a purling and accepted a position with the stream. The wind sighing softly Radford wholesale grocery. seemed to say "This scene is a dream, a peaceful dream." The evening skies to the earth were Roswell, N. M. and will return bending. The sun was vanishing with his son, Ben, who has been through gates of gold. Heavenly calm with earth's twilight blending, spoke peace, sweet peace to a restless soul. The birds from fields were flying home. They had found plenty to eat and to spare. They had neither store house, barn nor farm. But were fed by the Father's care.

Then the cool dark dell with music rang like an orchestra choir Louis Gober went to Hale Cen- the happy birds sang in praise to Mrs. Gober and God. Their voices in anthems rose, broken. A shadow a rush, a quick hard blow, a cry a struggle of agony, a token and the scene was hideous with horror and woe. A dove plaintively cooing for her absent mate, as she watched over her sleeping brood, was struck down by an owl. Sad her fate, leaving no sign of farewell but her blood. In the Owl's tense talon's the crushed bird gasped. But the devilish thing, unheeding distress, plunged its sharp beak into her breast.
