CLONE STADIUM DEDICATION TO BE HELD FRIDAY EVENING

ONE TEAM FOR TILT AY NIGHT

Players Are Due

The outstanding Cyclone team will not be in the Friday night's game due to injuries, according to Coach Frank Hubbell. Pounds, co-captain of the team, who sustained an ankle in last Friday's game, will not be in to play any more this season. Hubbell stated, and Cyclone linesman, in the Friday night game will be an infection in his leg from a grass burr.

Coach Hubbell states the team is in good physical condition following a week of intensive training, will be in condition to meet the Eroncos when the new stadium is dedicated here Friday evening. During the week Hubbell and his assistant, D. Dees, have been the team along defensive information supplied by the team in action. Pro- further rain falls be- (Continued on page 6)

Contract Is Made For Engineer Work On County REA

Co-operative Officials Go To Hereford Tuesday To Study Deaf Smith Project

The Hall County Electric Co-operative, sponsors of a Rural Electrification Administration project in this county, have entered into a contract with the Amarillo office of Cornell & Co., electric contractors and auditors for the preliminary engineering and survey of the proposed project in this county. Carl C. Cox, engineer, and N. H. Brown, auditor, representatives of the company, have been assigned to the job and have begun their work in this locality.

John O. Fitzjarrald, Memphis lawyer, has been selected as the attorney for the co-operative to represent the new company in legal matters.

Tuesday of this week the co-operative's officials, including Doyle Hall, president; T. E. Lenoir, secretary; Jake Lamb, vice president; all of Plaska; Mr. Fitzjarrald, Mr. Cox and Mr. Brown went to Hereford to inspect the Deaf Smith County REA project that has recently been constructed. In reporting on their visit to Deaf Smith County, these officials find that the farmers served by the Rural Electrification lines are well pleased with the project and state that the convenience of electricity on farms greatly adds to the comforts of the home and lightens the work of operating the farm.

This week the office of the Hall County agent, R. E. L. Plattilo, cooperating with the Rural Electrification movement prepared 400 applications which were distributed to the directors of the company. These directors will begin work at once in securing subscribers to the movement. The membership fee in the cooperative is $5 which represents the only cost that will be assessed on the farmer with the exception of the payment of the service when the lines are constructed and the power is supplied.

It is the plan of the co-operative to secure 400 to 450 subscribers and construct 150 miles of electric lines, in Hall County

Court Closes Term Here Last Saturday

District Court adjourned here Saturday following a five-week fall term with Judge A. S. Moss presiding. A jury was empaneled for the final week of the court and contested civil cases requiring the services of a jury were tried during the last week of the session.

Pleas of guilty were entered in two of the criminal cases scheduled for trial at the term of court and two other criminal cases were held over to the next term of court which will open in February.

Judge W. R. Ewing of Pampa exchanged benches with Judge Moss for one week of the five-week session because of cases coming before the court in which Judge Moss was disqualified. Aside from Judge Moss, other officials presiding at the term of court just closed were John Deaver, district attorney; Mrs. Isabella Cybert, district clerk; and H. B. Hill, court reporter.

CLEAN UP WEEK PROCLAIMED

October 17 to 22 has been designated by the City Council of Memphis as official clean up week. The city truck will start hauling off unburnable garbage Monday, October 24, and the following suggestions are made in order that a thorough clean-up campaign may be waged:

Burn all trash and rubbish that is burnable; place all unburnable rubbish in sacks, barrels, boxes, cartons or containers of some kind and place in the alleys convenient to load; do not pile the trash in the alleys so that it will be necessary to rake up to load; have it ready for the truck by Monday morning, October 24. The truck will positively not make but one trip through an alley.

Please co-operate in making Memphis a clean town.

DEDICATION PERSONALITIES—The Memphis Sideliners Club, of which Jack Boone is president is sponsoring the dedication in cooperation with school officials. Music for the occasion will be furnished by the Memphis High School Band under the direction of G. W. Johnson. Principal speaker for the occasion will be John M. Deaver, district attorney.

John M. Deaver, district attorney, has been selected as the principal speaker for the occasion and just before the game will address the several thousand people who are expected to attend the dedication ceremony and football game. The new stadium, which has been built through the facilities of the Works Progress Administration was begun last spring. During the summer months the work was delayed due to the lack of project funds. However, a short time ago sufficient funds were placed at the hands of the WPA officials and the Memphis Independent School District's board of directors to complete the work. The new stadium, which has a seating capacity of several thousand, is built of concrete and is considered to be one of the finest high school athletic stadiums in the Panhandle.

SURVEY ON DAM IS COMPLETED HERE THIS WEEK

Reports Are Filed With Little Rock Engineering Office

The preliminary survey for the Upper Red River Flood Control and Irrigation Dam project was completed this week and the surveying crew stationed here by the Engineering Corp of the United States Army will be transferred either Friday or Saturday of this week. According to C. L. Newsome, engineer in charge of the survey in this area, the crew will probably be transferred to either Vernon or Crowell where a similar survey will be carried on.

Mr. Newsome stated that the crew had made a reasonably successful survey in this locality and that the weather conditions prevailing during the seven weeks they were stationed here were ideal for the type of work that was being done. He stated that the area surveyed was unusually rough and offered unusual experiences to the members of the surveying parties.

Reports of the progress of the survey and the crew's findings were reported daily, weekly and semi-monthly to the Little Rock office of the Army Engineering Corp. Mr. Newsome stated that no reports were returned to the local office in regard to the dam possibilities and that several authorities would have to pass on the survey before the Chief Army Engineer could present the proposition to the United States Congress for the construction of the dam.

Traffic Congestion Caused by Double Parking, Says Chief

Chief of Police Ed McCreary announces that traffic congestion in the Memphis square and in the Memphis business district during rush hours on Saturday is due largely to double parking. Mr. McCreary points out that a city ordinance rules against double parking and that offenders are subject to penalty.

Mr. McCreary urges that motorists refrain from double parking in the downtown area during the rush hours to prevent unnecessary traffic congestion.

Inch and Half Rain Is Noted Sunday

Sunday night's rainfall was recorded at 1.52 inches on the instruments of J. J. McMickin, Memphis' official weather observer. This was the first rainfall in several weeks and the first time that the figure was more than one inch since the rainfall July 29.

Temperatures have been lower according to Mr. McMickin, who recorded as low as 48 degrees F. the morning of October 3. The minimum daily temperature has been ranging between 48 and 58 degrees F. since the first of the month. Middle of the day temperatures have remained near the 90 mark throughout the first half of October.

Although the rain came too late to be of material benefit to cotton, which is well into the harvest, crop observers note that it stimulated the growth of winter wheat and in some localities in Hall County was of benefit to late feed-stuffs.

Cotton Makes Good Staple and Grade

Charlie Robertson, who is farming about six miles northwest of Lakeview, has been getting fine results from his Delta, or D. P. & L. cotton this fall.

Twelve bales of snapped cotton were ginned the first of this week and made a lint turnout of 30 per cent and an average staple of 1-1/2 inches. The Delta seed were planted the first week in June, "and it is as good a variety of cotton I have ever raised in Hall County," Mr. Robertson stated. He said his entire cotton crop will yield from one-third to one-half bale, which he considers good considering the drouthy year.

JOHN DEAVER TO BE PRINCIPAL SPEAKER IN DEDICATION PROGRAM

Rebecca Ray Weaver Selected As 1938 Football Queen; Will Be Crowned In Coronation Service at Dedication

The new Cyclone Stadium will be dedicated with a colorful ceremony Friday night immediately before the football game between the Memphis Cyclone and the Clarendon Bronchos according to plans made this week by school officials co-operating with the Sideliners Club and the Chamber of Commerce.

Tickets have been distributed free this week to every school child in Hall County by the Sideliners and more than three thousand school children are expected to attend the game and coronation ceremony.

John Deaver, district attorney, has been selected as the principal speaker for the occasion and just before the game will address the several thousand people who are expected to attend the dedication ceremony and football game. The new stadium, which has been built through the facilities of the Works Progress Administration was begun last spring. During the summer months the work was delayed due to the lack of project funds. However, a short time ago sufficient funds were placed at the hands of the WPA officials and the Memphis Independent School District's board of directors to complete the work. Sale of Reserved Tickets at Store

Reserved seat tickets for the remainder of the home games of the Memphis Cyclone football team will be on sale at the Durham-Jones Drug store, according to Jack Boone, president of the Sideliners Club. The club sponsored the sale of the tickets and in view of the fact that many people desiring tickets were not contacted, they will be placed on sale in the city prior to the Friday game with Clarendon.

A diagram of the reserved seat section of the new Cyclone stadium will be on display at the drug store and those purchasing tickets may pick out the seat or seats they desire for the remaining games of the season to be played in Memphis.

Friday night the Cyclone will play Clarendon in the new stadium, October 24 the Cyclone will meet Shamrock here, and the November 11 game will be played with the Amarillo Yanning team. October 28 is an open date and November 4 the Cyclone plays Wellington at Wellington.

BRICE FARMERS HEAR SHELTERBELT PLAN DISCUSSED AT MEET MONDAY

The proposed shelter-belt project in Hall County that is now being organized by the United States Forest Service in cooperation with the Memphis Chamber of Commerce met with the approval of the farmers residing in the Brice community Monday night when a general mass meeting was held to discuss the proposals.

Edgar H. Kemp, Childress, Forest Service representative in this area, spoke to the farmers at the meeting and outlined the plan. He was assisted in leading the discussion by Jack Bert, Forest Service technician and engineer, and by Carroll Smyers, secretary-manager of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce.

According to Mr. Smyers the Brice farmers were appreciative of the idea of shelter-belt and that the movement met with its best response in Hall County at Monday night's meeting. Following the meeting application blanks were given to the farmers present and more than thirty signed applications denoting their interest in the project.

W. H. Youngblood, Brice community farmer, was named as local chairman of the movement. He will carry on the work of the shelter-belt project in the Brice locality. In company with the forest service officials, Mr. Smyers made a trip to Turkey Tuesday of this week and inspected shelter belt projects that have been growing for the past two or three years. Mr. Smyers reports that after interviewing several farmers in that locality who have enjoyed the benefits of the belts for a period of time, he finds that the results are excellent. Turkey was among the first communities in the United States to adopt the shelter-belt method of prevention of wind erosion and protection from dust. According to authorities Turkey is the most intensive shelter belt vicinity in the United States. Community meetings for the purpose of encouraging the use of shelter belts are being held in all parts of Hall County at which time Mr. Kemp, Mr. Bert, and Mr. Smyers are explaining the procedure through which the farmer must go to secure such erosion protection on his property. Mr. Bert, the engineer and technician for the project, is now living in Childress but will move to Memphis with his family in the near future.

Plans Are Made For Conference Meeting Here Soon

Noted Methodist Speakers To Appear on Four-Day Program November 16-20

In preparation for the North-west Texas Conference of the Methodist Church which will be held here November 16-20, repair work at the local church was finished this week. Workmen have been busy repairing the windows in the church, installing new rest rooms, painting and doing general repair work about the building.

According to the Rev. Orion W. Carter, local pastor, the program for the four day conference is nearing completion. Sessions will be held four times each day during the conference. According to the Rev. Mr. Carter, more than a thousand visitors, delegates, ministers and laymen are expected to attend the meetings here. Pastors and members of the conference number 385, many of whom will be accompanied by their families and friends, which will bring the total number to visit Memphis for all four days of the conference to at least 450. More than 500 visitors from churches in this area are expected to come (Continued on page 6)

Former Citizen of Hall County Dies At Wichita Falls

Funeral Rites Conducted Monday for J. H. Stephens Of Swearingin Community

J. H. Stephens, 59, of the Swearingin community, died in a Wichita Falls hospital Sunday night at 9:15 o'clock following an illness of several months duration. Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon by Rev. R. G. Brister, pastor of the Lakeview Baptist Church at the graveside in the Lakeview cemetery, followed by burial there.

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon by Rev. R. G. Brister, pastor of the Lakeview Baptist Church at the graveside in the Lakeview cemetery, followed by burial there.

Mr. Stephens lived at Lakeview a number of years before moving to Collingsworth County nine years ago. He was a good neighbor and had a host of friends in the communities in which he lived. Besides his widow he is survived by five sons, John, Emmett, Wilson, Clarence and O. D. Stephens; two daughters, Donnie Mae and Fannie Joe Stephens; and twelve sisters and brothers. Three of his sisters and four brothers were in attendance at the funeral services. The deceased lived in McClelland County before moving to Hall County.

5,430 Bales Cotton Ginned to October 1

Prior to October 1 there were 5,430 bales of cotton ginned in Hall County from the 1938 crop, as compared with 4,608 bales for the 1937 crop, according to census figures released by C. Lee Rushing, special agent for the Bureau of the Census.

The fine rain of Sunday night delayed picking for a while and will probably delay rapid opening of cotton, but it is believed the bulk of the crop will be gathered by November 1.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you may get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained. Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

Memphian's Mother Dies in Fort Worth

Mrs. J. A. Thompson, age 93, mother of W. A. Thompson of this city died early Saturday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Gilbert Douglass in Fort Worth.

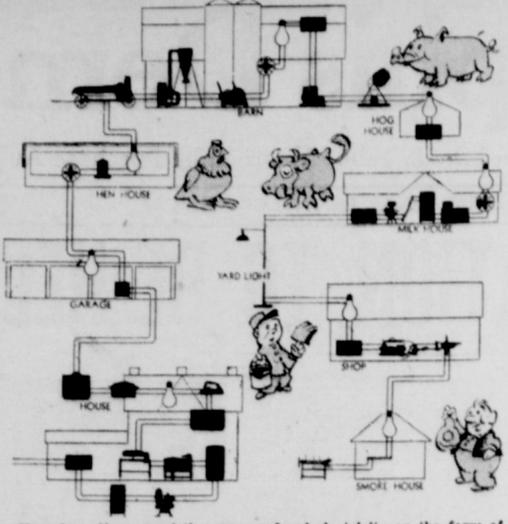

Funeral services for the deceased were conducted Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the Guardian Funeral Chapel in Fort Worth, by Rev. Chun, pastor of the Central First Methodist Church. Burial was in a Fort Worth cemetery.

A native of Tennessee, Mrs. Thompson moved to Texas with her family more than thirty years ago and has made her home in Fort Worth since.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Thompson and son Larry went to Fort Worth Sunday to attend the funeral services.

Mrs. Claud Johnson left Saturday for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Howell, in Stephenville and a sister in Texas City.

Rural Power Laboratory Seen as Boon to Farmers

Here is a diagram of the uses made of electricity on the farm of Nelson Peet near Rochester, N. Y. Electrical companies and the New York State College of Agriculture co-operated in selecting and equipping the dairy farm.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Nelson R. Peet is the 10th generation of his family to till the soil of New England. He lives 18 miles north of here on a 200-acre farm; 100 acres are under cultivation, 50 acres are in pasture, 18 in woodland and 32 are in an apple orchard.

Until a short time ago he used electricity to light his house and outbuildings, to operate the radio and an electric iron. Then he was selected by representatives of New York State College of Agriculture and a number of electrical companies as a typical farmer. That meant his farm was to be used as a laboratory in the use of more electricity on the farm.

Companies engaged in the production of electricity and the manufacturers of farm equipment united with the college authorities to set up a long-time survey. Electricians, laborers and mechanics began arriving at the Peet farm within a short time and were soon at work putting in a mile of new wiring, a 15-kilovolt ampere distribution transformer, motors, electric heaters, pumps, farm and home appliances from the kitchen to the hay mow.

Peet has 15 pure-bred Holstein cows. An electric milker milks three cows at once and Peet is already convinced that he can handle a herd twice the size of his present one with the addition of the new machinery.

Water for washing the milking utensils is heated with electricity. Bacteria that may get into the milk are killed with two ultraviolet ray lamps attached to an aerator through which the milk is poured.

Flies, mosquitoes and other insects are killed by special lethal lamps about the barn and home area of the farm. Small motors perform many of the tasks ordinarily connected with running the average farm.

No small part of the revolutionary changes have been made in the kitchen of the home. Modern laundry and dish-washing equipment has been installed in the roomy kitchen. Fresh water is pumped direct from the well to the faucets in the kitchen and bathrooms. Water pumped from the well is used as a cooling element in the aerator and milk cooling tank.

Companies backing the experiment say that Peet is typical of the 1,250,000 farmers in the country and that their experience in meeting his problems with him will be of the greatest value for farmers throughout the country who are in the area where electricity is available.

Baptist Laymen Hold Conference

The Panhandle Associational Laymen's Conference was held at the First Baptist Church in Memphis Tuesday night, with a large crowd in attendance and an inspirational program presented as follows:

Song service, led by A. B. Wills; devotional conducted by W. B. Stargel of El; Men on the Job was discussed by Joe Johnston of Lelia Lake, Men and the Christian Life by Judge Lowe of Clarendon, and Opportunities for Men in the Church by R. W. Alewine of Hedley. A business and social meeting followed.

Contour Furrows on Range Land Aids in Preventing Soil Erosion on Finch Ranch

A. ANISMAN IS OPERATOR OF THE POPULAR

Original W. S. Cross Store Started Back In 1918 in Memphis

The Popular Dry Goods this week begins a fall sale of their merchandise and call the attention of their customers and the public to this merchandising event with an advertisement in the columns of The Democrat. Heine Weston of Berger came to Memphis this week to assist the Popular's corp of clerks in putting on the sale.

This dry goods establishment has been owned and managed in its present location, corner Sixth and Noel streets, since September, 1933, by Abe Anisman.

The store was previously owned by S. T. Harrison and P. O. Young who took over the Cross Dry Goods Company in 1930. W. S. Cross started the store in 1918. Mr. Harrison and Mr. Young started the Popular Dry Goods with their purchase in 1930.

A host of well known brands of merchandise are offered by the Popular including Manhattan shirts, Portage shoes, Cooper underwear, Lee hats, Griffon clothes, Kayser underwear, Fownes gloves, Belber luggage, Cataline swim suits, NoMend hosiery, Dorothy Perkins cosmetics, McCall patterns and Scranton lace products. The store specializes in childrens clothing and carries an extra large stock of piece goods.

Jack Randal of Lubbock was in Memphis Monday on business and visited with his sister, Mrs. J. H. Read.

Mrs. L. E. Haskett and Miss Gertrude Haskett of Childress were visitors in Memphis Tuesday.

Dr. and Mrs. Carl Read of Bridgeport spent last week-end here as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Read at 922 West Robertson.

Dr. Odom appeared on the program at the Tuesday session, and Dr. W. Wilson served as secretary of the surgical section during the convention.

Miss Lovena Moore appeared on the program at the luncheon and style show Tuesday which was sponsored by the Hattie Hunt auxiliary. She played "Adoration," and Dredla's "Serenade" as violin solos and was accompanied by Mrs. J. A. Hilburn of Childress.

Within three growing seasons, one of which was unfavorable, grass spreading from native sod has almost covered a large dam constructed on the F. A. Finch ranch, eight miles west of Memphis early in 1936, the Soil Conservation Service reports.

Finch, who owns 13 sections of range land, was facing a serious erosion problem in 1935 when the Soil Conservation Service CCC demonstration camp was established at Memphis. Water, rushing down the steep slopes which had become denuded of much of the vegetation during the continued drought, was causing sheet erosion and gullying. Spots of the range also were becoming susceptible to wind erosion.

Working in cooperation with the Soil Conservation Service in an effort to solve his erosion problem, Finch contour furrowed some of his range land to hold the water where it fell so that it might seep into the soil to improve grass growth.

Then, early in 1936, he constructed a dam to catch the excess rainfall that ran down the slopes, thereby checked the cutting of gullies by the runoff water and at the same time created a pond for the use of his livestock.

Finch fenced the dam to prevent the structure being damaged by the trampling of livestock, and then sodded the barren dyke to provide protection against both water and wind erosion which might destroy its usefulness.

The dam was spot sodded with native buffalo and blue grama grasses in the spring of 1936, the clumps of grass being placed a foot and a half apart. Sweet clover was planted on the structure to add nitrogen to the soil and to aid in grass growth.

Although the 1936 growing season was unusually dry, 95 per cent of the sod survived and made a fair growth, Superintendent Everett McBride of the Memphis Soil Conservation Service camp reports.

This year, during a heavy rain on June 14, water was discharged through the diversion channel which is 500 yards long with outlets at 50-foot intervals. This distribution of water has resulted in a considerable increase in grass growth on the contour furrowed area below. The earthen fill of the dam, which is protected by a fence, now is practically covered with grass.

Finch has increased his pasture grasses by the use of contour furrows, and the dam provides a pond of water for use by his livestock. At the same time, gullying and sheet erosion have been checked by the soil conservation structures.

Attend Panhandle Medical Society

Dr. and Mrs. M. McNeely were in attendance at the barbecue given at the Fair Park Tuesday evening.

Dr. Odom appeared on the program at the Tuesday session, and Dr. W. Wilson served as secretary of the surgical section during the convention.

Miss Lovena Moore appeared on the program at the luncheon and style show Tuesday which was sponsored by the Hattie Hunt auxiliary. She played "Adoration," and Dredla's "Serenade" as violin solos and was accompanied by Mrs. J. A. Hilburn of Childress.

T. C. U.'s All-American Material

These three Horned Frog seniors brought all-conference and All-American honors to Texas Christian last season, and are expected to be brought up in front in the fight for national recognition in the 1938 campaign. Capt. I. B. Hale, left tackle, is a powerhouse himself, at 240 pounds. David O'Brien, quarter, weighs but 150, but is stuffed with scrap iron. Ki Aldrich, center, is as good as they come and has been a stand-out pivot man ever since his sophomore year.

CORONADO AND MEN CAME TO PANHANDLE

Northwest Texas Is Searched in Quest Of Seven Cities

(Editor's Note—J. C. Estlack, editor of the Donkey County Leader wrote and published the following article in the Leader one year ago, and secured the information contained therein from such historians as Castenada, Bolton, Hill, Pichardo and others. It is reprinted in The Democrat because of the important history that it gives concerning this section of country.)

Trailing down the picturesque Palo Duro Canyon a mere 396 years ago was a band of Spanish conquistadores bent on plunder and robbery. Their leader was Coronado.

Crossing the Plains from west to east, a vast treeless plain was found, known today as the Llano Estacado. This plain is about 150 miles wide, and extends from the Canadian river south to the breaks of the Colorado, a distance of about 250 miles.

Coronado had about 300 horses, a small number of footmen and a few hundred Indians accumulated on the way. Landing at Compostela, on the southern coast of Old Mexico, the course of travel lay northward for more than a thousand miles into what is now Arizona.

Having become disgusted with the stories of the "Seven Cities of Cibola" as located in northeastern Arizona, the army traveled eastward through New Mexico and into Texas as we know it today. The Juanos tribe of Indians then occupying the plains explained a "deep ravine" existed to the east where water flowed. The famished Spaniards took Juanos scouts and made a straight line to the deep ravine now known as Palo Duro Canyon.

That they arrived in Palo Duro is proven by artifacts found in the canyon the past few years, and by the writings of Castenada, Jaramilla, Savello, Suesco and Coronado himself, historians of the party.

In July of 1536 Coronado was governor of Sinaloa, a province of New Spain, as Old Mexico was then known. On this date four men long given up for dead wandered into Coronado headquarters—San Miguel de Culiacan. The men were Cabeza de Vaca with three companions of the ill-fated Narvaez expedition that started to Florida in 1528, and were shipwrecked on the Texas coast. Cabeza de Vaca, Dorantes, Castillo and a negro slave were all that survived the years of wandering among cannibal tribes, but the stories told Coronado fired him with a determination to find something of which the men told him to the north.

It was a great day for exaggeration. A failure was pictured as a thrilling adventure with savages, and covered with the glories of battle. Their stories about the Zuni and Pueblo villages of Arizona and New Mexico, though they had not seen them, caused Coronado to hasten on his way half prepared.

Vaca also had heard of the rich "Apalachean" cities of the east coast (Georgia), and that encouraged De Soto to explore. As a press agent, Cabeza de Vaca rated first class in his day. He at least spread the news around. Gold was afterward found in Georgia, a small quantity to this day being mined. The story was not groundless by any means. It also that tribal communications were in first-class working order—across a continent. De Soto died on the way west with his army and was buried in the Mississippi river at night. The Spanish cruelty towards the natives had caused them to go on the warpath.

Spanish Looted Cities Many of the men in Coronado's army had shared in the loot of the Inca robbery of Peru, and the Incas in Mexico City. They were eager to help Coronado rob the cities of Cibola, about which they had heard through an Indian boy, Tao, son of an Indian trader captured ten years before. De Vaca's story of the "Corn" city of many houses of three stories meant heaps of gold in the imagination of the cruel, murderous Spanish explorers who, in fact, simply went on marauding expeditions.

Coronado Gets Started Esteban (Steven) the first negro to see America so far as history is concerned, and who was with the De Vaca expedition, acted as guide for a few friars who went on an exploring expedition ahead of Coronado to test the merits of the stories told. As a glutton for misery, Esteban took the prize. The route traveled was from Culiacan northward over 500 miles of rough country to Chilticalli, now known as the ruins of Casa Grande, Arizona.

Evidently believing him to be the most worthless of the party, the friars sent Esteban, the negro, on an exploring tour to the northeast into the Zuni country of northeast Arizona, where the Zuni continues to reside. Later the Indians reported that they killed on account of his dark skin and kinky hair. The friars suddenly remembered unfinished business back home, and fled in haste to Culiacan. After reporting the communal dwellings of Casa Grande, then in its prime, Coronado was ready to set out to see it at first hand.

His first trip was to Mexico City to consult Viceroy Mendoza. It required but a short time to convince Mendoza that it was a paying project and preparations were made to begin a journey that finally brought them to the Panhandle of Texas.

Gathering an army at Compostela, Mendoza accompanied them outside the city gates and priests showered blessings upon the expedition. Arms, horses, trinkets of all kinds and armor for the soldiers were provided to insure the success of the marauders.

The first important stop was made at the Zuni village of New Mexico. The Indians found them unwelcome visitors because of their arrogant cruelty, and steered them to a gold bearing river to the east—Rio Grande del Norte. Tiguex (now Bernalillo) was visited. A native village now known as "Old Pecos" near Las Vegas was destroyed by the Spanish.

Because of the trouble they were causing, the ignorant (?) Indians again steered the Spanish east out of their country by tales of Cibola far to the east. This city story is believed by historians to have been connected with the Caddoan grass huts of east central Texas.

While practicing cruelty upon the natives, the Spanish had not altogether escaped the ravages of battle. A brush with the Apaches cut down the food supply being driven along by the Spaniards. The equipment was sadly lacking.

In fitting out an expedition, the Spanish drove along with them a number of hogs, sheep and cattle as a reserve food supply. The Apaches sought to destroy this food supply. This is probably the reason they strenuously objected to the white man killing buffalo on their range three hundred or more years later. They knew the value of food on the hoof.

In order to impress the natives, the Spanish possessed guns, lance, bright armor, coats of mail of bright splendor, swords, iron helmets, gaudy feathers. One historian locates Coronado's party in Palo Duro Canyon during the winter of 1540-41. Spanish relics found in recent years would indicate a long camp there.

The route lay down the canyon following what is now Prairie Dog Town fork of Red river to about the 99th meridian. (All Spanish explorers carried several compasses.) Thence south to the Wichita Indian villages on the Colorado river. Hearing more stories of gold, the army headed north to the Arkansas river in Kansas, near where Dodge City is located. A southwest course was taken from there through New Mexico to the Zuni villages again.

Mr. and Mrs. Casey Jones have new daughter. A daughter, Mary Jane, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Casey Jones Monday, October 10, at the home of Mrs. Jones' parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Piland, 714 West Noel. The baby weighed 7 pounds and 12 ounces and is the first grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Piland. Both mother and baby are doing nicely.

ATTEND FUNERAL IN CLARENDON Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Ballywin went to Clarendon Tuesday afternoon to attend the services for Mrs. E. F. Bryan, who died Wednesday in Amarillo and the body was taken to Clarendon for burial.

dedication of the stadium will begin Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock with a street parade made up of school children, school organizations including the pep squad and the Memphis high school band, and commercial displays. The parade will begin at the high school and proceed down Main street to the business district and around the square. School children are planning on many novel features in the parade including class representations, displays of school work, bicycle division, pet parade and many other unusual features. Miss Rebecca Ray Weaver, high school junior and daughter of Mrs. Allie D. Weaver of this city, has been selected as the 1938 Football Queen by the Memphis Cyclone team and will be crowned as such with a fitting ceremony at the Friday night dedication. Miss Weaver is drum-major for the High School Pep Squad and takes a leading part in school activities. The formal dedication program will begin at 7:45 o'clock at the Cyclone Stadium. Music will be furnished by both the Clarendon High School Band under the direction of Ray Robbins and the Memphis High School Band, under the direction of G. W. Johnson. The Clarendon and Estelline pep squads will assist the local high school pep squad with songs and yells.

It is the plan of the committee in charge of the dedication ceremony to have the entire school group to assemble at the foot of the stadium with Miss Weaver in the center. The captain of the Memphis team will preside at the coronation ceremony and crown her as queen of the 1938 football team. A picture of the scene will be taken and incorporated in the high school annual.

Due to the heavy traffic and large crowd that is expected in Memphis for that day, highway patrolmen have been asked to come from Childress and Amarillo to assist the local officers in directing traffic.

Miss, army engineer, has been located in Memphis to make a study of the land conditions in the proposed dam area and to investigate the irrigation possibilities. According to authorities, the dam is considered primarily as a flood control measure to prevent damage from high water like this portion of the state suffered in the spring of this year. However, it is pointed out, with as much water impounded as would be by the proposed dam, a sufficient supply would be on hand at all times to carry on intensive irrigation in the vicinity of the dam, and with proper canals and irrigation ditches, a larger area, including much of Hall County, could be served in this manner. Mr. Owens has been stationed in Memphis only a few days and his study of the situation has not gone far enough to warrant a definite statement in this connection at this time.

The survey reports will be included in a general report of the flood control and irrigation needs on the entire Red River watershed, which will be released next spring. A provision has been made, however, that the upper Red River report, although to be included in the general report, will be made at an earlier date.

to Memphis for a part, if not all, of the services to be held during the four days of the conference. Housing for this great number of people has presented a big problem to the host church. It is the plan of the committee in charge of the arrangements for the conference to house approximately 100 in the hotels of the city while the rest will be given lodging in private homes. The conference defrays a part of the expenses of the delegates to the meeting in Memphis and according to figures revealed here this week $1,100 has been appropriated for meals for the visiting church officials and representatives. During the four day conference about $75,000 will be handled by the church authorities here.

The meetings will be presided over by Bishop Ivan Lee Holt of Dallas and the principal speaker for the occasion will be Dr. Charles E. Schofield of the Cliff School of Theology in Denver. Dr. Schofield will speak each evening at 7:30 and each afternoon of the conference he will conduct a forum. Wednesday evening, the opening night of the conference, Dr. Schofield will speak on "Our Methodist Heritage," Thursday evening on "Radical Religion," and Friday evening on "The Gospel." During the afternoon forums Dr. Schofield will speak on "Vital Preaching," and "Rediscovering the Evangelistic Passion."

Other noted out-of-town ministers and laymen who will attend the conference and speak during the four-day event are T. W. Brabham, president of McMurry College, Abilene; Dr. C. C. Selctman, president of SMU, Dallas; Dr. Finis Crutchfield, Vernon; Rev. W. E. Peterson of Lubbock, and the Rev. R. N. Huckabee of Haskell and others prominent in West Texas Methodist circles. The presiding elders and the bishop, who compose the conference committee, will be in session during the greater part of the conference in the directors room of the First National Bank and will place the various ministers in churches throughout the conference. The results of these conference committee meetings will be made public at the Sunday afternoon session of the conference just prior to the adjournment.

collections. Police and fire protection must be carried on, the sanitary functions of the city must be continued for the protection of the health of the citizens, the streets require maintenance and the interest and sinking funds must be kept in proper condition, not to mention other and numerous functions expected and required. The suspension of all fire protection within the city would cost the property owners additional insurance premiums equal to the operating expenses of the city.

The action of the council in releasing the cost, penalty and interest for the period stated very materially lessens the amount required to get the taxes paid. The councilmen express the hope that the loyal support of all delinquent taxpayers will be had so that the operations of the city can be continued without it being necessary for any drastic action.

tween now and Friday night, the field will be in excellent shape for playing, Coach Hubbell stated. Although this year's team is comparatively light, it stands better than average chances against heavier teams since considerable effort has been directed toward perfecting an aerial attack, Coach Hubbell stated. During the season the modified punt and back single and double wing-back formations have been adopted as the style for the team.

Work at ... Ended

The work of re-roofing two Memphis school buildings was completed last week, and it is expected that the contract will be let about November 8 for the erection of the school gymnasium and auditorium, according to H. E. Dupuy, PWA engineer, who is here looking after the projects.

Engineer Worked Here 30 Years Ago

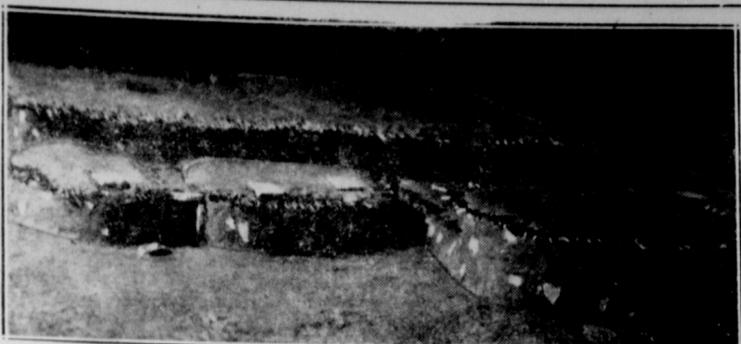

Mr. Dupuy was a bridge construction foreman for the Fort Worth & Denver railroad thirty years ago, and remembers much about Memphis and Hall County of those early times.

Local Men View 1939 Chevrolet

T. M. Potts and Hugh Crawford of the Potts Chevrolet Co. of this city returned Tuesday from Oklahoma City where they attended the pre-showing convention held for Chevrolet dealers and salesmen at that section.

At the meeting R. W. Hill, regional manager of the Chevrolet motor division, discussed the plans and policies for the coming year and after viewing the new 1939 Chevrolet which was on display Potts and Crawford state that they are more optimistic about future business than they were before the meeting.

Mr. Potts stated that there are many advanced improvements in the 1939 Chevrolet especially in appearance, economy and performance, and that he is anxiously awaiting October 22 when he will be in position to start making actual deliveries to the buying public.

Childress Firm To Advertise Locally

Wade A. Hilliard of Childress, manager of the Hilliard Furniture Company of that city, was in Memphis Tuesday of this week on business. While here he entered into a contract with The Democrat to advertise his merchandise through the columns of this newspaper. The first of a series of advertisements appear in this issue.

CANYON, Oct. 12.—The average Panhandle family in 1300 A. D. may have had smoke in its eyes, but it probably was quite proud of the architecture typical of that period—a kind of low, flat communal structure built of adobe and stone.

A restoration of the Panhandle culture ruins on Antelope creek in southwest Hutchinson County, 12 feet 6 inches long and built to scale, has been completed in the laboratory of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society Museum on the West Texas State College campus. It is the work of G. F. Sundstrom of San Antonio, who has given most of his life to such restorations. He is now with the museum here.

The model shows 27 ruins, all restored with the exception of cross sections which reveal the interior arrangements. It is based on excavations made by WPA crews, who found well preserved rooms about 20 feet square, facing east on a flat hill overlooking Antelope creek. There were scattering houses down the hill but the model shows only the grouping at the top, where about one hundred persons lived.

The skillfully made miniature shows thatched roofs with the roof poles projecting from the covering of brush and adobe. A smoke hole, well smoked, is in the center of each roof. Entrances in that day were low—only 2 1/2 to 3 feet high, and usually placed between low storage rooms built in front of the living rooms. The entrances were closed, in cold weather, by rock slabs or hide curtains.

The room floors show fire pits. In the actual ruins, seven burials were noted beneath the floors. Burials under the living rooms were common before the coming of Coronado.

Outside but nearby are shown refuse heaps and storage cists, the latter lined with rock. The Indians who occupied the buildings were not unlike those living today, it is shown by the skeletons which were unearthed. They hunted the buffalo and other animals and also raised some corn and perhaps squash or other vegetables.

The restoration was made under the direction of C. Stuart Johnston, professor of geology and anthropology. A smaller model of the ruins has been constructed for the State Fair at Dallas. Valuable assistance in the projects has been given by Floyd V. Studer, Amarillo insurance man, who for many years has been locating and studying evidences of pre-historic life on the plains.

Rural Schools To Reopen October 24

Plans are being made for the ten Hall County rural schools that were closed for the cotton harvest to reopen October 24, according to Miss Vera Tops Gireath, county school superintendent. These schools have been closed for the past few weeks so the scholastics could assist with the cotton picking.

Three rural schools did not close but continued to operate during the harvest season. They were Friendship, Newlin and Salisbury. These schools managed to keep their attendance above the required percentage to receive state aid.

Mrs. Lee Elliott and Mrs. Tom Draper were visitors in Amarillo Monday.

CLEAN UP WEEK DESIGNATED

AT THE REQUEST of a number of citizens of Memphis the City Council has set the week of October 17-22 as clean up week in the city, and the trucks will start hauling off all unburnable garbage Monday morning, October 24.

It was pointed out that the Methodist Conference will be held in Memphis about the middle of November, and those who take pride in having a clean looking town are very anxious that the clean up be thorough. The cooperation of the entire citizenship is requested in the matter.

According to the notice issued by the City Council, all burnable rubbish should be burned since it will not be hauled off, and all cans, bottles, unburnable rubbish and the like must be placed in the alleys in sacks, barrels, cartons or containers of some kind so they will be convenient to load. The truck will pass your way only once. No route will be re-worked. Rubbish must not be scattered in the alley, since the truck haulers have instructions not to rake or clean up off the ground.

Let's all follow these instructions and give Memphis a real clean up during next week. Have everything ready for the trucks by Monday, October 24.

DOUBLE PARKING

WITH THE PRESS of fall business bringing thousands of visitors to Memphis each week to purchase their supplies, traffic conditions on Memphis' square often become congested. This condition, city officers report, prevails every day but particularly on Saturday afternoon and night when the thousands of shoppers come to the city traffic becomes a serious problem. This congestion is due largely to double parking, investigations reveal, and in most instances the offenders are Memphians—not the visitors.

A city ordinance provides a penalty for double parking in the business district, but also embraces a provision that shoppers wishing to make a brief visit to a store may double park if someone is left with the car who can drive it out of the way if a car parked at the curb has to be moved. Visitors to Memphis from the surrounding country and from nearby towns come to the city early enough to secure curb or center-of-the-street parking spaces, but it is usually the Saturday night "let's go to town and see the crowd"
 Memphians who are the double-parking offenders.

A serious result that could come from the laxity in observing the city's double-parking ordinance is the loss of the route of Highway 370 through Memphis.
 State highway officials have issued warning to city officials that unless the highway is kept clear through the city, especially on Noel street where it crosses the square, a new route will be designated to miss the business district and possibly the city entirely.

As a courtesy to the visitors who come to Memphis to shop and in fairness to the businessmen who serve them, and to keep Memphis on a designated highway route, observance of the double-parking ordinance and its provisions is urged.

Billboard advertising is dangerous. The primary purpose of a billboard is to attract the attention of motorists to the message of the advertiser. In doing so, it distracts their attention from the operation of the automobile resulting in more accidents than the billboard companies care to admit. Newspaper advertising is much safer, since the easy chair beside the fire place is not apt to climb a telephone pole at sixty miles an hour when John Q. Public turns his attention to an ad.

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME

Using Up the Feed Crop

By T. C. RICHARDSON, Secretary
 Breeder-Feeder Association

Someone has described a well-managed industry as a sort of perpetual motion, in which the processes of production are continuous throughout the year. The factory which runs only a few months and stops its machinery, closes its doors, and lays off its labor for weeks or months at a time has to make higher profits for its operating time or go out of business. The farm which loafa between crop seasons is in the same boat of inefficiency.
 With the exception of the sub-tropic portions of the Southwest, where marketable crops may be harvested the year round, there is only one way of providing profitable use for the available farm labor and keeping the farm factory running twelve months in the year; and that is by keeping livestock and poultry in connection with crop production. Livestock and poultry grow while the farmer sleeps, and use much that would be lost without them, while crops await the season. The only perpetual motion farm therefore is a balanced farm, where plants and animals work together in their natural relation, each supporting the other.

Suggestions About Preparing Lunches

Mothers who find it a difficult problem preparing school lunches will appreciate the following suggestions from Farm Security Administration homemakers. If possible, there should be at least one hot dish or drink. This gives variety and tastiness and serves the important purpose of putting milk into the noon meal.
 Sandwiches, if they are properly filled, are good in the lunch; also fruits, tomatoes, or uncooked vegetables such as carrots. A simple dessert is always welcome.
 On days when meat loaf, bean loaf, or other cooked meats are served to the family these foods may be sliced cold and used as sandwich fillings. Left-over baked or boiled meats can be ground or chopped fine for sandwich spreads or combined with white sauce for fillings.

Bread for sandwiches can be spread with either butter or salad dressing. If sandwiches are cut into sections, they are easier to eat and more appetizing. Wrap each sandwich in waxed paper and pack conveniently on top in the lunch box.
 Here are suggestions for tasty, nourishing sandwiches which are easy to prepare and economical.
 Chopped hard cooked egg, pickle, celery or carrot with salad dressing.
 Scrambled eggs with green pepper or chopped broiled bacon on buttered bread or bun.
 Meat or sardines in thick white sauce or buttered bread.
 One-half cup ground cooked liver and 1-4 cup chopped celery or pickle moistened with cooked salad dressing. (Remember that each person should have a serving of liver each week to prevent anemia.)
 Salmon, tuna or sardines or left-over cooked fish flaked and mixed with chopped celery or cabbage and salad dressing on white or whole wheat bread. (Sea-foods are our safeguards against goiter because of their iodine content.)
 Milk drinks, hot when possible, are refreshing and help to maintain the amount of milk in the diet which is needed each day by children and grownups, too. Drinks can be carried in a vacuum bottle and a screw-top jar.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH Religious America through sixty years by Dr. H. C. Weber through the pages of the "Christian Herald" is most interesting at this time.

Dr. Weber said: "Since 1878 the membership in organized religion has increased approximately 282 per cent, while the population at that same time has increased 169 per cent.

The increase in membership in organized religious bodies since the last tables were published in the Christian Herald a year ago, appears to have been 754,138 persons thirteen years of age and over three quarters of a million people have been added to the membership of religious bodies, conservatively figured, during the last ecclesiastical year.

Let us pray and hope that in another year many more souls shall be won for Christ. Christ is the supreme hope for America and the world. Let us go forward in our minds. We look forward to the day with fond anticipation. A most cordial welcome to visitors and all.

E. C. Cargill, Pastor.

"He who treats himself as a fool for a doctor" is an old adage that is often quoted in medical and pharmaceutical circles. Next week has been designated as National Pharmacy Week, and druggists all over the nation, including the local druggists are making special observance of the occasion. In face of this fact, the local druggists whose advertisements appear in this issue of The Democrat, take occasion to call the attention of their customers to this time worn and truthful adage.

In interviewing Memphis druggists this week The Democrat has discovered that they have many duties and responsibilities that are little known to their customers. It is the duty of the druggist to inspect the prescription for possible over-dosages, and to prevent the combination of harmless drugs that often result in poisons. These duties, coupled with others in which failure in compliance places liability on the druggist, partially point to the responsibility with which he is charged when compounding a prescription. Often times the druggist holds equal responsibility with the doctor, since the skillful practice of his apothecary science is as important in the cure and treatment of disease as the doctor's instructions.

The druggist must be skilled and carefully trained, accurate in the practice of his business, and ever watchful of the compounds he dispenses. Another fact that was revealed in this week's interviews is that aside from the mechanical accuracy of his profession the druggist is confronted with another facet in the wide-flung profession of alleviating human suffering and curing human ailments. In more cases than he will mention the druggist is confronted with the problems of mercy and charity. Sickness comes to many homes poorly prepared for it. In the case of medicines, the druggist will bear the expense, dispensing drugs to the poor and destitute, compounding them from the best that his stocks afford with his greatest care and accuracy. Once the bottle is labeled and handed to his customer, the druggist promptly dismisses the account from his mind, often not even entering it on his books, since being humanitarian, he realizes that the poor needs medical aid. He gives his best effort, his best stock, and his time and money free to charity.

Your druggist is due every consideration. An expression of confidence and appreciation during National Pharmacy Week will be appreciated by him. Turn to the druggists' ads in this edition of The Democrat and note the ones that are making observance of this occasion.

Gypsy Party Given by Sodolitan Class At Wilson Home Proves Gala Affair

Prominent Club Woman to Speak in Memphis Tuesday

Mrs. Kenneth C. Frazier of Dallas, prominent Texas Club Woman, will be the guest of the Memphis Delphian Club here at the regular meeting Tuesday, October 18, and speak at the auditorium of the First Christian Church on the subject of International Women. The Delphian Club has extended an invitation to the other clubs of Memphis to attend this lecture which will be held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mrs. Frazier, who is chairman of the committee on International Goodwill for the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, was born and reared in France and has been in the United States only a short while. Recently she was named as national president of the Tax Consumers Association, a body whose purpose is to encourage the reduction of general taxation.

Following Mrs. Frazier's talk at the Christian Church Tuesday afternoon, the Delphian Club will entertain with a buffet supper in her honor.

Mrs. Frazier will arrive in Memphis Monday morning and will be a guest of Mrs. Donald W. May during her two-day stay in Memphis. Monday afternoon representative club women from nearby towns including Lakeview, Newlin, Esteline, Turkey, Hedley, Clarendon and Childress will gather in Mrs. May's home at 913 West Cleveland street, to hear Mrs. Frazier discuss matters pertinent to the Tax Consumers' League and to appoint chairwomen of the communities represented. Mrs. May has been named as Memphis chairman by Mrs. Frazier.

Mrs. Frazier presents an interesting character, having lived in practically all of the civilized nations of the world, has traveled extensively and speaks seven languages fluently. During the past four years she has been prominent in federated club circles, having been on the executive board of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

U. D. C. Chapter Has Meeting With Mrs. Sam West

The U. D. C. Chapter met in the home of Mrs. Sam West Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock for a regular meeting, with Mrs. E. Whaley and Mrs. Glynn Thompson joint hostesses.

The program was on the Reunion of the Blue and Grey. After the pledge to the flag the assembly sang "The Star Spangled Banner." Roll call was on incidents of the Reunion.

Mrs. C. W. Broome gave an interesting discussion of "The Most Famous Battlefield in America," Mrs. Emma Baskerville read "The Blue and the Grey," and Mrs. D. J. Morgenson gave President Roosevelt's Dedication. "Dixie" was sung to conclude the program.

During the social hour the hostesses served a salad course to Mrs. C. W. Broome, Mrs. Joe DeBerry, Mrs. Emma Baskerville, Mrs. T. R. Easterling, Mrs. Roy Fultz, Mrs. R. C. Garrett, Mrs. D. J. Morgenson, Mrs. J. H. Norman, Mrs. W. W. Saxton, Mrs. G. M. Springer, Mrs. J. W. Slover, Mrs. C. Z. Stidham, Mrs. W. L. Wheat, Mrs. Frank Wright, Mrs. J. A. Whaley and Mrs. C. E. Anthony.

Mrs. Claud Johnson Blue Bonnet Needle Club Hostess

Mrs. Claud Johnson was hostess to the Blue Bonnet Needle Club at her home on North Tenth street Friday afternoon of last week. A profusion of fall flowers decorated the rooms.

Mrs. D. J. Morgenson presided over the business session and during the time a new member, Mrs. Otho Fitzjarrald, was added to the club roster. Mrs. Lloyd Phillips was elected club reporter for the remainder of this club year.

Following an afternoon of visiting and needle work, a dainty refreshment plate was served to Mrs. Otho Fitzjarrald, Mrs. H. H. Lindsay, Mrs. C. C. Meacham, Mrs. D. J. Morgenson, Mrs. Roy Coleman, Mrs. Otis Jones, Mrs. Sam Cowan, Mrs. O. R. Goodall, Mrs. William Hood, Mrs. L. L. Doss, Mrs. H. B. Gilmore, Mrs. George Cullin, and Mrs. Lloyd Phillips, members, and Mrs. Sam Pannilton, Mrs. E. McBride, Mrs. C. Z. Stidham, Mrs. Alvin Massey, Mrs. C. A. Robinson, and Miss Katherine Howell, guests.

Mrs. and Mrs. Land Hosts to Thursday Night Bridge Club

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Land, 1314 West Brice street were hosts for the Thursday Night Bridge Club on October 6.

In the games of bridge Mrs. Zeb Moore had high score for the women and Louie Merrell had high for the men.

After the games refreshments were served to four tables of players: Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Louie Merrell, Mr. and Mrs. George Greenhaw, Mr. and Mrs. Z. A. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Morgenson, Mrs. E. E. Cudd, Frank Garrett, and Mrs. Oren Jones.

The home of Mrs. W. Wilson was the scene of a gala occasion Tuesday evening when the contest winning groups of the Sodolitan Sunday School Class of the Baptist Church entertained the losing groups.

A spirit of festivity seemed to prevail as the members came dressed in Gypsy regalia. The guests were met at the door by rough looking Gypsies with knives and pistols, blindfolded and directed before the Gypsy king, Miss Willie Cole, where they were initiated into the order of the Gypsies.

At 7:30 o'clock a Gypsy supper was served. Each Gypsy having the privilege of serving herself to goulash from the old black pot that hung over the smoldering fire.

As Gypsies have light fingers, each guest was permitted to steal from others, and the King awarded a prize at the close of the evening to Mrs. Emma Baskerville for displaying the most stolen articles. Featuring the Gypsy tradition of story telling, fortune telling, and the practicing of magic tricks, the evening passed quickly. After several interesting "Yarns" were told Mrs. D. L. C. Kinard sang, "My Little Gypsy Sweetheart." Mrs. Mason played a number of lively airs on the accordion, accompanied by the tambourines of the Gypsies. Rev. Mason was the outstanding magician of the evening. The Gypsy queen, Mrs. W. C. Davis, revealed many things as she read the fortunes over candle light.

As Gypsies are such barterers each guest brought a package to trade. They were all sizes and shapes, concealed in various ways. The surprises caused much merriment in the opening of the packages. During the bartering Mrs. W. Wilson, president of the class, came into the possession of an old bag. On opening she found it to contain a lovely bed spread, a gift of the class, expressing their love and appreciation of her faithful service.

Before departing all joined hands and sang the class song, "Bless Be the Tie That Binds."

Those present were Mrs. H. W. Stringer, Mrs. C. C. Dodson, Mrs. W. J. Bragg, Mrs. D. L. C. Kinard, Mrs. W. C. Davis, Mrs. A. W. Howard, Mrs. C. H. Bownds, Mrs. Joe Webster, Mrs. Otis Jones, Mrs. E. LOAN FUND ESTABLISHED CANYON BY DELPHIAN CLUB

A new loan fund, one of the largest of the kind ever provided for students of West Texas State College, has been established by the Delphian Club of Memphis, a women's study group. It totals $1,700, according to the publicity department of W. T. S. C. at Canyon.

While the loan fund has been set up primarily to assist worthy students of Hall County, it will be open to other worthy young men and women as well. It will be administered by the Gregg-Cousins loan fund committee, headed by Prof. S. H. Condon. There will be an annual audit and reports to the Delphian Club. Directors of the Gregg-Cousins fund also administer the Fronabarger fund, and the two have been responsible for assisting 143 students to go to college. Many others will be aided by the new sum.

West Texas State College was selected to receive the loan fund when it was decided that this college could best serve more worthy students from Hall and other counties than any other. The Delphian Club, long active in civic movements and many others, began accumulating its loan fund as early as 1919, and made some loans from it from time to time. Mrs. R. A. Cole is the current president of the group, which is one of the best known study clubs in the Panhandle.

Correspondence between the club and Dr. J. A. Hill began some time ago, and Prof. Condon met with the group to complete the contract and explain how the fund would be administered. The loan basis was chosen instead of that of offering scholarships, because the revolving fund would help more students.

"The Delphian Club has placed in the hands of West Texas State College an invaluable aid in opening the doors of education and opportunity to the young men and women of Hall County," said Prof. Condon in accepting for his committee the responsibility of administering the fund. This fund will enable forty or fifty young men and women to come to or remain in college who otherwise would be barred by financial limitations. The college is delighted by this statesmanlike act and pledges itself to the most careful selection of candidates for loans. No finer thing could have been done by a study club."

Dr. Hill, in Austin on a business trip, could not be reached for a statement, but his interest in the loan fund plan was keen.

WH! CLEAN REST ROOMS ARE IMPORTANT

HOW GOOD IS YOUR GASOLINE?

Watch out, young fellow, you're leading with your chin! That question gives us an opening to fire away with a fistful of facts.

While motorists appreciate Phillips clean rest rooms, they really cheer for the quality and economy of Phillips 66 Poly Gas. In fact, their repeated and ever-growing purchases have skyrocketed our sales figures in a way never before seen in the industry. 1500 per cent increase in the last ten years.

Phillips 66 Poly Gas is more accurately custom-tailored to your month-by-month changes in climate than any other gasoline. And scientific surveys show that it contains nearly four times as much natural high test gasoline as the average motor fuel.

Yes sir! Your gasoline money buys more volatility in Phillips 66 Poly Gas. And experts declare that volatility is the most important quality in gasoline:

Says a well-known scientist: "The more volatile fuel can be used with a leaner carburetor setting, and hence with less fuel consumption."

Says a professor of chemical engineering: "Increased volatility... is very effective in shortening the warm-up period, providing more uniform distribution of fuel in the different cylinders... reducing choking... and producing snappier acceleration and throttle response."

Says an editorial in an oil magazine: "Outstanding in the characteristics of improved motor fuel... for superior performance... is volatility."

Remember, the extra volatility in Phillips 66 Poly Gas costs nothing extra, because Phillips is the world's largest producer of natural high test gasoline.
