DEATH TAKES A HEAVY TOLL. PROMINENT PEOPLE PASS AWAY—THIS WEEK

W. M. Scott, Mrs. E. F. King, Ben Bradford, Grandpa Noll, Mrs. A. L. King, and Ledford Infant.

The sad duty of recording an unusually heavy death list comes this week. Six deaths are recorded since our last issue. Four of these are long-time citizens and the announcement of their passing will bring sorrow to many of our readers.

W. M. Scott, 75 died here last Thursday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. W. McCool. Mr. Scott was a Panhandle pioneer and resided many years in the Quail community. He was well-known to most of the older citizens of this section.

Mrs. Laura H. King, 67, widow of the late B. F. King, died at her home here Monday. This family has long been prominent in Hall county, being among the early settlers in Memphis. There are but few persons in the county who do not know this family and all will regret to learn of the passing of this good woman.

Ben Bradford, 45, died at a Dallas sanitarium on Tuesday morning. Mr. Bradford has been in bad health for a long time and his death was not unexpected. He was among the earliest settlers in Memphis and he, and his father, J. A. Bradford, were among the first merchants here. He leaves a wife and his father and mother whose grief is shared by a host of friends who know and loved him.

Grandpa Noll, 95, died Wednesday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Williams, near Eli. Mr. Noll had resided in this county many years and was known to a large circle of friends throughout the county. He had been in delicate health for several years but was thought to be improving until immediately before his death.

Mrs. A. L. King, who lived just north of Memphis, died Wednesday from blood-poisoning. Mrs. King was hardly seventeen years of age and had been married about a year. She was the adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins and was reared here.

The three-weeks-old infant of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ledford died last night in the eastern section of town.

DENIES UNIVERSITY SHIELDS BOOTLEGGERS STUDENTS

Austin, March 8.—Denying that the University of Texas stood between alleged student violators of the State prohibition laws and the officers of the law, Dr. Robert E. Vinson, president of the University, declared last night that bootlegging conditions in Travis County were bad, but they were no worse than in any other place. His remarks were made in an address to a mass meeting of Travis County citizens, called to discuss enforcement of the prohibition laws in the county.

Chamber of Commerce Indorse Sale of Light Plant and Request Vote Confirming Sale Contract

The Chamber of Commerce in special call meeting wish to indorse the action of the City Council in placing before the voters of Memphis the election called for March 20, to decide on the sale of the light plant. At a special meeting about one year ago the Chamber of Commerce and citizens of Memphis urged the City Council to buy the light plant, at the time when it appeared it was the only means of keeping the city out of darkness, with the understanding that at the earliest possible opportunity which the city might have to dispose of light-plant at cost the City Council would favor the sale of said light plant.

Now as the time has arrived that the city has an opportunity to sell at a price which will show a small profit and according to law, as interpreted by the city attorney and other lawyers, it is illegal for the city to use any city funds whatever, to erect, maintain or operate an ice-plant, we, the Chamber of Commerce and business men of Memphis heartily indorse the sale agreement contracted for by the City Council and solicit the vote of all voters in Memphis at the polls March 20.

W. A. McINTOSH, President Chamber of Commerce.
GEO. A. SAGER, Secretary Chamber of Commerce.

Clean-Up Day Deferred Until More Suitable Weather. City Gives $100 In Prizes

Good progress is reported on individual work throughout the city; many persons have completed a thorough clean-up of their premises, and all, with but very few exceptions have begun the work and that a general spirit of co-operation prevails.

The public schools and the women's clubs are arranging for the most thorough work in cleaning the streets, alleys and vacant lots. The city has appropriated $100.00 to be given in prizes to the school workers and the work will be pushed to completion as soon as the weather permits.

Those having the clean-up campaign in charge are delighted with the spirit of willingness everywhere found among the citizens of Memphis and are sure that the campaign will prove most successful, and that this will be one of the cleanest cities in the Panhandle when the work is finally completed.

No time has been set for the close of the campaign as weather conditions must be considered; but the work will be pushed until thoroughly done, regardless of the time taken.

URGES ACCEPTANCE OF FORD'S OFFER FOR MUSCLE SHOALS

Chicago, Ill., March 5.—Acceptance by the Government of Henry Ford's offer for the Muscle Shoals project in Alabama was urged in a resolution adopted by the Chicago Federation of Labor.

PASSAGE OF ANTI-EVOLUTION BILL IS IMPROBABLE

Frankfort, Ky., March 2.—The Associated Press learned authoritatively today that the evolution bill will not be reported out of the House rules committee. This will kill the measure which would prohibit the teaching in tax supported schools of the state, of anything that would "undermine the faith" of students. Protests against the bill have been received from educators all over the United States.

CITY AND KU KLUX OFFER REWARD FOR ASSULTERS OF DALLAS MERCHANT

The city accepted the offer of the Klan to pay $500 for the arrest and conviction of the persons attacking Rothblum.

Bryant for Representative.

In this issue appears the announcement of Judge S. A. Bryant for representative of this district in the Legislature. Judge Bryant asks for re-election upon his record of the past two terms. He has worked industriously for such legislation as he deemed to be in the interest of the public and especially for certain matters of particular interest to the farmers. Among these is the submission of an amendment to the constitution that will make it possible to have an adequate ware-house system for farm products in this state. We believe that Judge Bryant has made an honest effort to serve his constituents in the past and that he can probably serve them better in the next Legislature than anyone else. His candidacy is subject to the Democratic primary.

The new navy plane "G B" will have a cruising radius of 3,000 miles.

CHANGE IN MONEY SYSTEM NECESSARY FOR FARMER RELIEF

Dallas News Correspondent Says Fair Prices to Producers Can Not Come Until System Changed.

In the Paris News recently appeared an able article on the justice and necessity of fair profit on the commodities raised by the farmer. The author argued that "packing interests, railroad companies, navigation companies and banks," all charge, by Government authority, a fair recompense for their products and service, and hence by the same authority the farmer should be secured in his profits. He argued further that if the Government has a right to say a man shall work eight hours a day, or that railroads shall have so much for freight and passenger service, or that banks shall have the right to charge a certain rate of interest, why, under the great rule of equity and fair dealing, can it not say to the farmers and stock raisers that they shall have so much for their grain, their cotton and their stock?

He pleads further that the farmer and stockman toil sixteen or eighteen hours a day, together with their wives and children, and they do not know whether they will get 4c or 30c for cotton, 60c to $2 for grain, 5c or 25c for meat, and that "this condition has existed since the Liberty Bell rang its first tidings of good news."

Further on he says instead of arranging it so the farmer can borrow more money the thing he needs he can pay his debts and have no more money for what he raises, so necessity for borrowing.

These positions are all well taken. No one can logically deny them. I take no issue with them, but simply wish to go a little further and discuss why the farmer has had few laws passed in his favor and why much difficulty will be encountered in attempting to pass and enforce any law that proposes a just price to the laborer or producer. The uncertain and unprotected income of the farmer is known of all men. Why for 300 years, has this defect in our laws openly confronted us and yet nothing has been done to change it?

Surely there must be some powerful hidden underlying cause that holds the foundation class of our Government exposed to the bleak winds of uncertainty. Why are our statesmen and lawmakers very active in favor of various commercial incomes and very passive when asked to favor the agricultural masses? Are our citizens and their legislators ignorant of remedies for farm betterment, or are they unduly wrought upon by some deep undelying extraneous force that deters them in their action? Did God in his wisdom intend that privations should be the reward of those who work and that comforts should accrue to those who shirk? Surely not. It must be a vicious cause, a moral perversion, that would keep the toiler from a just reward while the idling speculator reaps ponderous incomes.

Oh, for a moral awakening that will open the eyes of good men so they can look in upon this widespread iniquity? Whatever the cause, justice calls loudly for its removal. No doubt the combined hosts of righteousness will be required to dislodge those forces.

But when we talk about a fair price to producers we are talking about getting money, and for the whole United States it would mean immense amounts of money. When we get money we must get it according to the rules of the game, and the game is usually played from Wall street under rules of their own making.

Many people often own large properties, while but few people absolutely own money. Big citizens may own a million in property, but we are told there are times when neither Scott nor House could cash a check or a note at his bank. Why? Money goes on a strike. Money held back for hidden purposes. Conditions not right. Somebody at the head of the game has made a ruling and the man with property and all the rest of us must wait until it suits the great man.

Memphis School News

Matters of Public Interest and News Items Pertaining to the Public Schools of Memphis.

In accordance with the Governor's Proclamation, making this health week, we are having several talks in chapel along this line in an effort to better the health conditions of our town and community.

The general theme spoken on at chapel last week was "Courtesy." Mr. Vaughn and Mr. Hibbits both made splendid talks on the above subject.

In the girls debate elimination contests have been taking place the past week. From the eighth grade, Ila Bass and Stella Woods met Thelma Walker and Della Guber from the ninth grade. The two best speakers of the four were selected, Ila Bass and Thelma Walker met Ruth Swift and Ruth Keeling from the tenth grade. Thelma Walker and Ruth Keeling were chosen to meet the eleventh grade speakers, Versa Odum and Vivian O'Rear to decide the representatives of M. H. S. In the boy's debate the same process was followed. From the eighth grade Charlie Dameron and Henry Goodpasture met John Forkner and Clifford Lemons from the ninth grade. The winners, Henry Goodpasture and John Forkner are to meet Irvin Johnson and R. D. Sasser from the tenth grade, the winners then to meet Raymond Thomason and Joe Williams from the eleventh grade.

Chapel Notes.

Wednesday morning we enjoyed a piano solo by Miss Frieda O'Dell and a talk by Supt. Hibbits.

Thursday morning we were given a treat and surprise by Miss Dodd's room when they came to chapel and sang two songs which we immensely enjoyed.

Friday morning we appreciated having Mr. Hilton of Oklahoma City, with Miss Sammie Noel accompanying him, sing two excellent selections. Reverend A. D. Rogers, Reverend Chas. T. Whaley and Mrs. Dunbar, who were judges for the first interclass debate, met with us also.

Monday morning Reverend A. D. Rogers, Mrs. A. L. Moore and Mr. W. B. Quigley met with us. They were judges for the second interclass debates.

Tuesday morning the chapel service was honored by the presence of our Hall county representative, Judge S. A. Bryant who made an excellent talk on "Success," illustrating it by two famous men, one (at one time) governor of Kentucky and a Texas U. S. representative.

Athletics.

The local girls basket ball team met the Estelline team on the latter's court Saturday afternoon at 2:30 in a very spirited game. Memphis took the defence from the very start which she continued to hold during the entire game in spite of Estelline's best efforts at defense. There was no lack of interest at any time during the game. Our girls pass work was far superior to any ever shown in this season. "Slim" Temple starred for the locals by making 39 in a very spirited game. Memphis took the offensive from the very start 22 of the total 30 points. Every- one on the team did splendid work. The following were the local line up: R. Forward, Temple; L. Forward,

A surprising number came out for the first track practice last week. We find that we have better material than we had hoped for. The boys seem unweary of this strenuous practice, for every afternoon finds them on the track.

Base ball practice and tryouts are being held every afternoon by Coach Nobles and those coming out for base ball, at the city park. No attempt at organization has been made yet, and will not be until a through tryout has been made. The coach speaks favorably of the development of a good team this year.

Through the efforts of Supt. Hibbits and G. A. Sager of the chamber of commerce, five loving cups and a sum of money have been donated as prizes for the winners in the county interscholastic League meet to be held in Memphis, March 31st and April 1st. These prizes will cause the contestants to put forth greater efforts and will make the meet a greater success. We are very grateful to the business men of Memphis for the interest they are taking in making this the biggest meet in the history of the county.

We are glad to see Mary Noel, who was absent last week on account of sickness, back with us again.

In the faculty meeting last Friday afternoon, it was decided to have the spelling tryout for the Memphis schools, Saturday morning, March 18, at 9 o'clock, and the declamation contest Monday night, March 20.

Miss Hicks and Miss Clarke made a flying trip to Clarendon Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Hibbits intends to spend about fifteen minutes twice a week on penmanship. This will be a great help to many of the High School students.

The C. G. C. Club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Thomas with Hester West. The French people—their characters and customs was the subject for the afternoon, and was ably discussed by Miss Bradley and Zettie Dennis. Autie Anthony and Katherine Read sang a duet. After refreshments had been served, business matters were attended to. A new program committee was elected with Abbie Mae Crozier as chairman and Sallie Dennis and Vivian O'Rear to assist her.

We regret to state that Ruby Johnson is out of school this week on account of illness.

The senior debaters have not as yet had the opportunity to show their ability in debating, but will Thursday and Friday in the final tryout. It is to be a hard fight between the debaters for first places, as many show much ability.

Honor Roll.

We are glad to see the Honor Roll increasing interest and work continues to grow.

The Tire with the Wider and Thicker Tread

How Often You Hear This

How often you hear motorists say: "There's a tire that's practically gone—it's tread is worn thin!"

Now suppose that this tread had been built wider and thicker to start with. It would have had more rubber in it and would still be good for a lot of miles.

The extra mileage you are getting from Gates Super-Tread Tires is due entirely to the wider and thicker tread.

According to Authorities No Farm Flock Should Be Less Than 125 Birds.

By Victor Schoffelmayer, Field Editor of the Semi-Weekly Farm News. Three hundred million hens in the United States last year produced 60,000,000 dozen eggs, valued at $50,000,000 and ranked next to value of the nation's crop.

There are 13,669,645 hens in Texas according to the latest figures obtainable from the Census Bureau. Out of 417,770 farms in Texas, 2,363 have a flock of hens. That is some 60,000 farms without a flock of the poultry products of Texas last year totaled $43,000,000. California leads with $50,000,000.

The Texas poultry farm has 6,000 hens. It is owned by Mose Bowie.

There are 700 exclusive poultry farms in Texas.

Texas averages only thirty-three hens to the farm. Some states average anywhere from 100 to 200 to a farm.

Every farm flock in Texas were raised in poultry products would cost less than $87,000,000, or a total of $130,000,000.

It is possible to add this wealth to the income of the farmers of Texas if they would give more attention to poultry raising and not leave it to their wives.

Ready for its first meal of Johnny-cake or Hard-Boiled Egg.

mash may be placed in a hopper, where it will not be wasted, and left before the chicks at all times.

As soon as the chickens are old enough and will eat whole wheat, cracked corn, or other grains, the small-sized chick feed may be discontinued and the larger-sized grains fed instead. In addition to the grain feed, they must be supplied with grit, oyster shell, and charcoal at all times, and the better way is to place these in a hopper, hanging it in a convenient place where the chicks can help themselves. If chicks are kept in confinement, they must be furnished a liberal supply of tender, green feed, like lawn clippings, lettuce leaves, and such other things as may be available.

Whenever possible, however, chicks should be given grass range, when they will supply their own green feed, catch bugs, worms, etc. Chicks that are allowed to run on a grass range are usually strong and thrifty and will grow much more rapidly than those that are kept in confinement. In addition to other feeds, the chickens' growth may be hastened considerably by giving them sour milk to drink. Chickens are very fond of milk in any form and will eat and drink a liberal supply of it. It may be fed either sweet or sour, but the latter is more desirable. Sour milk will help to keep chickens healthy, and is one of the best things that can be fed to promote rapid growth and development. When milk is fed the amount of meat scrap in the mash may be reduced one-half or left out entirely.

POULTRY NOTES.

Don't expect 200-egg pullets from 100-egg hens. Remember that "like begets like."

Keep lime always in reach, plenty of gravel or grit and a good dry dust bath for the fowls.

Excessive fatness leads to a suspension of egg production and predisposes to certain kinds of disease.

Nothing will more quickly make scrubs out of good stock than scrub treatment.

Perches should be built low and arranged so they can easily be taken out and cleaned.

Uniformity in the size of eggs can best be obtained by keeping one standard breed of hens.

If ducks are overfed, they sometimes become so fat that their legs are incapable of supporting their bodies.

Every poultryman should lay in a supply of alfalfa and clover for his fowls during the winter. Green feed is as essential as grain.

If every farm flock could be rid of the drones and worthless members that lay few eggs, there would at once be an amazing increase in profits.

One of the greatest drawbacks to successful poultry-keeping is the attempt of many folks to crowd 50 fowls where there is only room for 25.

One of the greatest mistakes in feeding poultry is that of giving an exclusive grain ration. Meat, greens, vegetables, etc., should all have a place.

Poultry raising is similar to farming in that it is not so much the number of acres owned, but the number properly handled that gives the profits. Small, well cared for flocks of fowls always bring the best returns.

An overcrowded pen of ducklings induces feather-pulling.

At eleven weeks of age ducklings usually start their molt.

It is just as necessary to avoid overcrowding among ducks as it is with hens.

A duck retains her productiveness twice as long as a hen. At six years of age she is as vigorous and productive as a hen three years old.

The most intense local campaign in the history of Turkey closed here Saturday, when the anti-educational element went down in defeat before the overwhelming landslide for better schools.

The election was for the issuance of $20,000.00 bonds for the erection of a building and providing a maintenance for a better school.

Excitement ran high during the day and several automobiles were pressed into service by the opposing forces to secure more votes for their respective sides of the issue. Farmers came in to register their convictions for better schools, mothers came, some who were too sick to get out otherwise, to vote for a better future for their children. They all thought the election would be close, but when the ballot was declared it was found that only a few, a mere handful, had opposed the school bonds to the last.

It marks the dawn of a new and better era for Turkey. After the bonds are approved, sold and building erected Turkey will have been launched into an era which will be a credit not only to this community but the county at large, and to which the rising generation will point with pride as an institution established by their parents to prepare them for a better destiny in life.

Then too, Turkey has a better inducement to offer to new-comers. The school will form a nucleus around which Turkey will build a better citizenship. And the writer desires now to extend to any and all who want to live in a good community, with a good school, an invitation to come to Turkey, and be one of us.

You may rest assured that the people of Turkey are highly resolved to let nothing stand in their way for civic, or community improvements.

SWEET POTATO DISEASES AND CURATIVE STEPS

By E. A. Miller, Sweet Potato Specialist, A. & M. Extension Service.

There are some diseases of sweet potatoes which are doing considerable damage to the potatoes in the field and while in the storage houses. The worst of these is the black rot which is being scattered over the State by infected slips and unless potatoes are carefully selected and treated, it will become worse from year to year.

For this reason all growers of slips whether for home use or for commercial purposes, are urged to use the following method in order to grow good healthy slips.

Before bedding, be sure to carefully select the seed potatoes and discard all that show any black spots or other signs of disease.

The dipping can be easily done in a shallow vat or in barrels or half barrels. Wooden vessels should be used as the bichloride of mercury is corrosive to metal.

gains of the game to let the business proceed. What is their motive for this obstruction?

We launched our Government without providing for a Government issue of money by which prices could be controlled in favor of producers.

Oh, but you say we have legislation in favor of railroads and packeries and manufactories and ship owners, etc. Yes, that is true, but that is because the money lenders themselves own the controlling stock in these lines and spend their money to get laws that favor them.

These money lenders can afford to spend millions for legislation to guarantee good interest rates and good profits to packeries, factories, roads and ships, and they can just as willingly afford to spend millions to crush legislation that looks to the regulation of profits to farmers.

"It is not schemes for borrowing money that the farmer needs, but honest prices that will enable him to pay his debts."

pay his debts." No sounder proposition was ever stated than that, and yet their agents will deny it—deny it in their hearts if not openly.

When the farmer and balancer secure reasonable profits on their outlay, then they will usually soon pay their debts and the job of the money lender is ended.

The scheme at present of those who aspire our money system is to bring the laborers of both shop and field out at the end of each season in the most pressing need for money, for thus only can every dollar owned by usurers be loaned at good interest to supply the public needs for the ensuing year.

No wonder the Federal Reserve Board and Wall Street Journal both savagely resent the intrusion of a farmers into their head council. They will spend millions to prevent any money control from being legally lodged in the hands of the common producers.

What! Change our money system? Yes, if you want the agriculturist to receive the proper prices for his wheat, corn, cotton, meat, etc.

Christ fought them; why not the ministry of today? Christ was provoked to use physical violence only once in his history, and that was against the usurers.

Christ would you redeem your country from this system of spoils? Then you must be willing to walk as did the martyrs of old. You must be willing to face the scorn and contumely of the wicked in power.

Statenment, would you redeem your country from this system of spoils? Then you must be willing to walk as did the martyrs of old. You must be willing to face the scorn and contumely of the wicked in power.

If our ministry would follow in Christ's lead, they must attack this deep underlying and vicious cause that violates every correct moral principle as set forth from Genesis to Revelation.

Pie That Calls For More.

Made same way as any cream pie. This will fill five shells of regular pie pan size. Try this and pass it on, if possible for it is new and fine.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MOTHER BLACK BEAR

"When I am free," said Mother Black Bear, "the very first thing I teach the cubs when we have come out of our winter den is to climb trees."

"I do not teach my cubs that," said Mother Grizzly Bear. "No," said Mother Black Bear, "you have different ways from mine. You keep your cubs with you a second winter, and you take them into your winter den to sleep by you."

"Well," said Mother Grizzly, "I do not like to trust my children to look after themselves until they are a little older. I like to look after them for a longer time. I feel it is better that way."

"I like to be ready each year to welcome more little cubs into the world, so I can train them to grow up into beautiful black bears," said Mother Black Bear.

"I don't feel I can train children so quickly," said Mother Grizzly. "Every other year," she continued, "I welcome little cubs. Not any other, because I want to give at least a year and a half of training and schooling and teaching and mother love to every little set of cubs."

"OK, cousin," said Mother Black Bear. "I feel my children are much smarter than yours, because they are able to look after themselves at the end of the first summer."

"I am simply being very careful of mine, very, very careful. I will not let them leave me any sooner." "Ah," said Mother Black Bear, "I remember when I was free and the little ones used to be rocked to sleep in my arms."

"That was before we came out of our winter den. I would sing them sweet songs which went like this: 'Go to sleep, my dear little bear cubs. Go to sleep, dear little children. I'll keep you warm. I'll keep you from harm. Lie close in my arms, in my nice furry bed. Dear little ones, And Mother will kiss each dear little head.'"

"How often," Mother Black Bear said, "I used to sing that song. It was one of their favorites. And then I had another I used to sing to them, too. It was like this: 'As the days pass along You'll grow good and strong, You'll be soon climbing trees, In the warm summer breeze, You'll grow to be smart, Which will gladden my heart. Dear little ones, Mother's daughters and sons!'"

"They used to like that song, too," Mother Black Bear said. "Of course all right for little grizzly bears, but my ways were the right ways for little black bears."

"Every one to their own ways," said Mother Grizzly. "There is Ivan waving his arm to the keeper, asking for more bread," said Mother Black Bear after a moment. "What an eater he is."

"He says he doesn't eat as much in the winter as in the summer, the way it is with the rest of us here in the zoo, but as far as he is concerned I do not see that he does without much food."

"I can't go without too much," said Ivan, "for I must think of my strength and of my power. And health is power, the wise ones say, wood, wood." "Wood, wood, wood, ha, ha," said Mother Black Bear.

That's All.

A six-year-old girl submitted the following composition on "People" to her teacher: "People are composed of girls and boys, also men and women. Boys are no good at all until they grow up and get married. Men who don't get married are no good either. Boys are a awful bother. They want everything they see except soap. My ma is a woman, and my pa is a man. A woman is a grown-up girl with children. My pa is such a nice man that I think he must have been a girl when he was a boy."

NEVER LINCOLN'S REAL LOVE

His Marriage With Mary Todd Seems to Have Been Largely Matter of Convenience.

Mary Todd, wife of Abraham Lincoln, was the sort of woman who is described as "capable and upright." Lincoln, it is testified by biographers, was not deeply in love with Mary, either before or after their marriage.

Lincoln had suggested in a rather offhand way that he would marry her. Apparently regret set in rather soon, for he made several attempts to gracefully withdraw from the compact.

The Youngest Soldier Killed. Representative Isaac Siegal, of New York, recently made claim in the house of representatives that Albert Cohen, whose parents now live in Memphis, Tenn., was the youngest soldier to be killed in action in France. He was killed in action on October 5, 1918, while serving with the 20th infantry. At the time of his enlistment he was thirteen years and six months old.

There was a good crowd at all services of the local churches Sunday. We are glad the people are taking an interest in religious work.

Candidates are visiting us quite regularly now. Looks like there are to be a good crop of them this year. Come on men let us look you up.

School Notes

"vaccination" period being practically all the pupils in every department are doing splendid work. There are a few absentee marks in primary department due to sickness.

The athletic spirit has been splendid this year. The boy's basketball team has played eighteen games, losing only four. They have to their credit 433 points while the opposing team has 229 points. To show their appreciation of the success of the team in winning the district championship, the citizens of Estelline presented to each of the eleven boys a beautiful white sweater which arrived just in time for the cold spell. The ball team also presented to Prof. Wood a sweater of the same quality.

The girl's team has played four games and lost one.

The familiar "bill" of the diamond made its appearance on the campus and the baseball team will soon be in form. We shall expect some interesting games during the coming season.

The following pupils of the sixth grade have made 100 in their spellings for the week beginning Feb. 16th to Feb. 23rd: Virginia Pittman, Katie May Evans, Sara Dunn, Herschel Hart, Florance Pittman, Golda Kirkpatrick, Greenroy, Beulah Canada, and Royal. Finis Kirkpatrick, Vera

Folk, Fact and Fiction

"By UNCLE FULLER."

Speaking of folks in general and facts in particular, we often ruminate upon some knotty problems. Some of them are, apparently, harder than the one like Newton wrestled with when he was a boy playing under his father's apple tree. Ike was just plain folks like the rest of us but he had eyes with which to see, and he saw; a mind with which to think, and he thought; a will to do, and he did.

I have often wondered if we could ever have built a "flutter-mill," to say nothing of flying a kite, navigating a set-boat or sailing an airship; if somebody like Newton had not done the thinking for us. Our great trouble is that we wait for the other fellow and the other fellow waits for us and we never get anywhere!

There are problems in arithmetic, and there are problems in the home, and there are problems in the civic nature. We usually leave the solving of the problems in arithmetic to the children, the domestic problems to the heads of the home, but the civic problems often go without being solved.

It may be that I am approaching a "limit" and if I am, that is a geometrical problem. But just a word about civic problems. "Civic" is not a bad word at all. Look it up in your dictionary, and then help us solve a few civic problems right here in our own splendid little town.

The merchants, the bankers, the mechanics, the farmers, and even the teachers and the preachers should be interested in our civic problems. What a cosmopolitan bunch to engage in a metropolitan business. All working together with one mind and one purpose all could soon make our town a thing of beauty and a joy forever.

Our streets are always sandy and often very dusty. A Street-Sprinkler would pay for itself a dozen times in the run of a year in cleanliness alone. When I speak of cleanliness I do not refer merely to the body but also to what we eat. There is a splendid old Chinese maxim that reads something like this: "Evils proceed from the mouth and diseases enter through it." This maxim though possibly six-thousand years old, holds good to-day. Of course, if you have a gizzard get sand in it. You will need it. But folks have stomachs and are, therefore, incapacitated for the sand. Sand irritates the mucous lining of the stomach and when your stomach becomes inflamed you are sore from the roof of your mouth down. There is no wonder that we have so much stomach trouble.

As to the "evils" that proceed from the mouth, we will have more to say anon.

Our sidewalks—where are they? I am no "knocker" so I shall not answer the question. As a "BOOSTER" however, I would say, that a few scrapers, shovels and hoes, together with other suitable working tools, would soon put our sidewalks "on the level." Following in close proximity there should be some street lights so arranged as to shed the light on the streets and sidewalks. Then there would not be so much danger to life and limb when one starts out on his "pedestrian point of fellowship."

Spring is nearly here and every one is more or less interested in spring cleaning. We should clear away the debris from every alley and every nook and corner of our town; plant enough shade trees to beautify the landscape; level up the school campus and build a park there with plenty of play-ground equipment; and beautify our church grounds with trees and shrubbery to give them a realistic appearance.

Again, I would appeal to every man, woman and child in Estelline to become a BOOSTER. If you do this much now and begin to boost our town and all of her enterprises and possibilities we will soon get somewhere. Let's go!

TEN YEARS AGO IN ESTELLINE

ESTELLINE MARCH 9, 1912—

Harry Mennifree of Memphis was visiting friends here Tuesday.

Miss Kate Arnold was visiting friends here Thursday of last week.

Cattlemen say that many cattle on the ranges are getting very thin and weak and that the recent cold rain has been very trying on them but, so far, very few have been lost.

Notwithstanding the high price the demand for milk-cows is unusually strong and seems to be in excess of the supply.

An unusually large crowd was in town Saturday and trade seemed to be lively.

The demand for seed oats has been the heaviest for years, several cars having been sold by dealers here.

Estelline merchants are busy this week opening and putting on display spring goods.

Prices for stock-cattle continue to rise and the top is not yet in sight, there may be a limit to the worth of a well-bred mother-cow but there seems to be no limit that some fellow will not raise in order to possess her.

Considerable sickness, mostly cold and grippe, has been reported recently.

The recent cold rain has been hard upon stock of all kinds but it was good for the oat crop.

Many of our farmers will have feed to sell this spring in spite of the unusually long and hard winter.

The indications are that there will be a decided decrease in the cotton acreage in this neighborhood this year.

A Trades-Day for Estelline.

The suggestion is made that Estelline inaugurate a trades-day by naming one day out of each month to be observed as a bargain and trading day. Such an institution properly advertised would, certainly increase the town's trade territory and be convenient and profitable to farmers, and others, affording an opportunity that is not now offered to sell and exchange livestock and other things.

Let us know what you think about it.

The Circus People

By MARVIN ST. JOHNS

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union

"It's a sinful shame!" declared grim, straight-faced Miss Tabitha Duncan.

"Aunt Lucia must have taken leave of her senses!" chorused Bart Duncan, her nephew.

The criticisms were not generous. Both were pensioners on the bounty of Miss Lucia Warden, age thirty-five, looking ten years younger, and, although missing most of the joys of life, by no means soured, and still hoping and longing that some day Love would come along and help fill out her lonely life.

She had given Miss Duncan a home, she had educated Bart.

For this reason any deviation from personal or household rules was viewed with concern by the twins of selfish time-servers. What had aroused their present consternation was the fact that Lucia had not only allowed a traveling circus to show on a lot she owned, but had visited it several times.

"It's just terrible, Bart!" denounced the agitated Tabitha. "Bart, I believe that Lucia has fallen in love!"

"Incredible!" he gasped.

"It's true. It seems that those two little acting girls are under the charge of a man calling himself Henry Morton. He used to be a balloon aerobat, but had a bad fall. His brother, now dead, was also an aerobat, and had trained the children. Morton is traveling with them as their guardian. I won't say that he is not a polite, dignified gentleman, but he has fascinated Lucia, and I hate him. Well, that isn't the worst of it."

"What next?"

"Why, somehow the two children have caught the manges and can't go on with the show. Morton has canceled their contract and Lucia, soft-hearted Lucia, has turned the house into a hospital."

"You don't mean to say that she has taken those two children?"

"Yes, I do, and Morton is there, too, helping nurse them."

It was all true. Without pausing to analyze feelings or motives, Lucia Warden had drifted into a new environment.

Never had an ingenious, true-souled little woman more appreciative friends. After the hardship, uncertainties and discomfort of half a season of roughing it with the circus, the little children snuggled down in the pretty, cozy home of Miss Lucia like birds housed in a cherished nest.

Their uncle would scarcely leave their presence. His ministrations were assiduous and untiring. When Lucia came into the sick room, a sort of glorified contentment came into his bronzed, serious face.

Lucia learned the history of the little ones, left under a year's contract with the circus company, with which their father and uncle had been connected.

"That is all over now," Morton told her, with profound satisfaction. "It has been a providence that their illness came at a time when your kind heart opened the doors of your beautiful home to the homeless and distressed."

He told her how he had never married because of the hard round of duties, the broken fortunes of his brother and his family had required.

And then one evening, as they sat in the glow of the frelight and the shaded lamps, the little ones asleep in each other's arms, like cherubs, Henry Morton boldly, bravely told this superb friend that he loved her.

She was waiting for the declaration, for she was hoping for it.

"We must do something!" declared Miss Tabitha to her nephew two days later, when she learned how matters stood.

Morton had gone away to close out a little piece of property he owned at a distance.

"Leave it to me," replied Bart, after he had gained every detail he could as to the past life and antecedents of Morton.

Four days later he sent for Miss Tabitha in great excitement and exultation of spirits.

"I've got him!" he chuckled. "That hint you had about his living at a certain town five years ago has brought results. I wrote to a law firm there. They sent me a photograph of him. Look there!"

Triumphantly, he handed to his relative a photograph. It pictured Henry Morton—only in a convict's suit.

Henry Morton had just returned to the village as Bart and his aunt appeared.

"I have come upon a solemn mission," said Bart. "Aunt Lucia, this man is an ex-convict!"

The astonished Lucia took the proffered photograph. With supreme confidence in her face she handed it to Mr. Morton.

"My friends," said the latter with a pitying smile, "you seem to have taken a picture of a picture of mine taken when I was an actor in a stage drama. As to the 'trouble' you refer to, that alludes to some financial troubles of my dead brother."

Miss Tabitha thought it best to plant herself with another relative. Bart sneaked into obscurity. As to Lucia, Mr. Morton and the little ones—they became part and parcel of the happiest family circle in all Estelline.

Sure sign.

Make—"Does you really love me or does you just think you do?"

Make—"Yes, indeedly, honey, I really loves you; I ain't done any thinkin' yet."—Black and Blue Jay.

he doesn't want it said of him that even his office people look pinched and pale and ill-treated.—New York Sun.

A Day Dream.

"That was a smooth stock salesman in here just now."

"He was, indeed," said Mr. Dubwaite. "He hadn't been talking five minutes before I saw myself stepping briskly into a bank to deposit a few hundred thousand dollars, then strolling around to my tailor to order a winter outfit of a dozen suits and making an engagement with a friend of mine in the motor business to look at the fall styles in limousines."

"What happened next?"

"Oh, I woke up, glancing hastily about to see if I was still sitting in the little old office and wished him 'good morning.'"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Advertising in a country paper is its life. It couldn't exist without it. The total subscriptions received in a year would not keep a local circulation alive three months. Therefore, if you are to have a home paper, the paper must have advertisers.

Those who advertise do so because they believe it will add to the volume of their business to call your attention to their wares, particularly to such articles, that, for some reason, they can afford to let you have at a lower price than you usually pay, perhaps, because they hope to to secure you and other as permanent customers and sell more goods at a small profit rather than a few articles at a large profit or because they have too much of certain articles and prefer a small profit, or none, to holding the goods and paying interest and insurance. There are numerous reasons why advertisers can well afford you real bargains that will save you money. Nine-nine out of every hundred such offers, that the advertiser is willing to put his name to, are honest and legitimate, and it is a plain business proposition. It will save you money to be in a position to know of and take advantage of them. There may be lying advertisers but it is much more likely that the man who will try to gain your trade by lying will attempt to do so in a confidential way rather than by publishing a lie to the public—there is so much less danger of being caught.

There is seldom an issue of this paper in which there is not special offers made that enable a number of its readers to save more than the cost of a year's subscription. It pays to read the advertisements and it pays to trade with those who advertise!

No man who fails to pay his honest debt can enjoy the fullest measure of self-respect of his fellow-men. It is not intended to reflect against the man in debt. The man who does not from time to time use his credit is a poor man indeed. Most good men use their credit both as a matter of convenience and as a matter of necessity. But no good man will swindle his creditors. He will either pay his debts when due or relieve his creditors of any ground for apprehension as to his honesty or his intention to pay. The man who pays or arranges to pay is the equal of any man. But the man who deliberately dodges his debts is no man at all. Everybody knows that fact and he knows it as well as anybody else. The man who does pay his honest debts, or is unable to pay, conducts himself so as to retain the confidence of his creditors and stands higher in the confidence of everybody in every way than the man who never had occasion to owe anything.—Exchange.

WITECAPPERS INDICATED FOR WHIPPING DENDY

Amarillo Men Charged With White-capping and Whipping Rival.

Amarillo, March 4.—Five Amarillo barbers were granted bonds of $1,000 each on charges of assault in connection with the white capping of J. M. Dendy, proprietor of a local barber college, near here last November. They are John Short, Walter Wilson, Bert Scanor, R. R. Nations and Henry Barker.

According to evidence at a hearing held here the day after the whitecapping is said to have occurred, Dendy was induced to get in an automobile with two women, one of whom left the party, and was driven several miles south of Amarillo into Randall county, where he was seized, blindfolded, his hair disfigured and he was whipped with a razor strap. The arrests of the local men followed, and they were bound over to await the action of the Randall county grand jury. The indictments were returned at Canyon yesterday.

(Dendy formerly lived at Turkey in this county.)
