Miss Virginia Orr Is Presented In Recital Assisted By Miss Hamilton

Miss Virginia Orr, pictured above, is the talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Orr of this city. She was presented in piano recital Friday evening of last week at the high school auditorium by her teacher, Mrs. Elmer S. Shelley. Miss Orr was assisted by Miss Mary Ellen Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam J. Hamilton.

Miss Virginia Orr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Orr, and pupil of Mrs. Elmer S. Shelley, showed unusual musical understanding and artistic interpretation in her recital Friday night, September 11, at the high school auditorium. Miss Mary Ellen Hamilton, soprano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam J. Hamilton, assisted with two pretty song groups.

In the first piano group, "Minuet a l'Antico," by Seeböck, "Scarf Dance" by Chaminate and "The Butterfly" by Merkel, the young pianist with a light, clear touch brought out gay and colorful tone pictures. With equal grace and ease she rendered the two Heiler numbers, "Frolics of a Fairy Night" and "The Chimes of Love," bringing out a rich legato and swinging style. The crisp staccato number, "Dance of the Elves" by Grieg was a fitting contrast.

The "Turkish Rondo" by Mozart and "Hungary-Rapsodie Mignonne" by Koelling formed the closing group. These numbers required a different technique, one of force, weight and a sense of the dramatic.

Virginia showed the result of excellent training and hours of diligent practice. Throughout the program, she played with grace and poise. She achieved the artistic goals of contrast and climax in tone and general effect.

Miss Hamilton's voice revealed good tone placement in her difficult songs, "A Thrush's Love Song" by Travers, "Caprice" by Klemm and "My Heart Is a Haven" by Steindal. The lyric sweetness of her voice showed marked talent. She is a voice pupil of Mrs. Shelley.

Pathfinders Club Meets Tuesday With Mrs. Williams

Mrs. C. A. Williams was hostess to the Pathfinders Club at her country home Southeast of Memphis Tuesday afternoon.

Roll call was answered with current events. The "Star Spangled Banner," was sung by the members that were present. Mrs. J. B. Chitwood gave the founders of the constitution. Discussion of the constitution was given by Mrs. Ira Neeley. Mrs. J. W. Slover told, "What the Constitution Should Mean to the Young American." Mrs. Frank Ellis read a poem on patriotism.

During the social hour the hostess served delicious refreshments to Mesdames John T. Bishop, Frank Ellis, Ira W. Neeley, J. W. Slover, J. B. Chitwood and W. F. McElreath.

Cyclone Is Defeated By Quitaque Last Week

MEMPHIS PLAYS RAGGED BRAND OF FOOTBALL

Locals Show Need Of Practice As Game Is Lost 20 To 7

Playing a ragged brand of football, the Memphis High School Cyclone met defeat Thursday afternoon at the hands of the grid-ironers of Quitaque High School by a score of 20 to 7. The game was ragged throughout with neither team displaying the quality of football expected of teams in this section.

Locals Fail to Star

According to Coach Nolan Walter, Cyclone mentor, none of the local players starred. The playing of Buster Leslie, J. W. West, Charles Flanery, and Cecil Stargle was noticeable, but not spectacular.

Memphis' lone touchdown came late in the third quarter when a drive led by Stargle and Clifford Stewart was finally pushed across the goal line for a touchdown with Stargle countering. The extra point was made good by Stewart who plunged across.

Passes 30 Yards

Stewart got off several passes that gained good yardage. Once in particular, he heaved one that was caught by Jack Davis, end, for 30 yards or more. Had Stewart's line plunging been up to par with his punting and passing, the Cyclone would probably have countered several times.

Captain Curtis Bourland played part of the game but failed to display anything. B. F. Shepherd was noticeable in the line. Others who played a good portion of the game were Jack Davis, Bill Sanders, Jack Sittou, Blanton Bagwell, Gayle Greene, Jake Leggit, Kenneth Oren, George May, and several others who broke into the lineup for a short time.

After watching the game Thursday, local fans are of belief that the Cyclone will have to play a different brand of football if they hold their own against Pampa next week.

Cyclone Needs Practice

The game showed that the Cyclone were badly in need of practice. They had practiced only eight days prior to the game. The Quitaque eleven had been working out since August 15 when they went into the game against Memphis.

Officials for the game were: Henderson (McMurry) referee; Walker, headlinesman; and Bryson (Southwestern) umpire. Britton and Walker were timekeepers.

N. H. Greer, formerly of Memphis, but now of McLean, spent Sunday here with friends. Mrs. J. M. Lane was called to Wellington Sunday to be at the bedside of her mother, Mrs. D. C. Brooke, who was reported ill. Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Lewis of Amarillo were the guests of Mrs. Attamae Lane, Sunday.

Mrs. Lillie Leeper and son, Donald, left Saturday for their home in Lockesburg, Arkansas, after a three months stay in Memphis. Mrs. Leeper came to be at the bedside of Mrs. C. F. Scott.

Schedules Arranged For Meeting Of Physical Education Classes Weekly

Schedules have been arranged whereby Memphis High School students can enroll in physical education classes, a requirement of the State Department of Education, according to H. J. Gore, high school principal. Boys will have their physical education class every Monday and Wednesday morning from 11:15 to 12 o'clock while the girls will have their class at the same period on Tuesday and Thursday, Mr. Gore stated.

Chapel on Friday

The same period on each Friday will be given over to chapel programs and pep rallies. During football season, it is probable that pep rallies will be held each week while chapel programs will be rendered occasionally, Mr. Gore said.

The boys physical education classes have been divided into three groups under group captains. One basketball class has been organized, according to Coach Nolan Walter, instructor. O. B. Smith will captain the basketball group of fifteen boys. Morris Belew, Eugene Clements and Eugene McElreath will captain the three groups of boys. The total number in the class is 64 which does not include members of the football team, as football is recognized as a class of physical education, Coach Walter stated.

Girls Start Work

According to Mrs. Lowell Dalton and Mrs. R. A. Yarbrough, instructors in the girls physical education classes, the girls have not been divided into groups but have already begun work.

"We have a good attendance in the physical education classes," Mr. Gore said, "and we think it a benefit to all who participate."

Former Students Enroll For Study

Ten former graduates of Memphis High School have enrolled for post-graduate work, according to H. J. Gore, high school principal. This number exceeds the number of post-graduate students of any year heretofore, Mr. Gore stated. It is expected that others will enroll for post-graduate work before the first of next week.

The students who have registered to date at the principal's office are: Sarah Bradshaw, Willie C. Wilson, Lucille West, Eugene Clements, Reba May, Clessie Pugh, Marjorie Guill, and Cornelia McCanne. There are several others doing this work that have not as yet registered, Mr. Gore stated.

Eight Cyclone Squad Members Are New In Memphis High School

It was revealed this week that eight members of the Cyclone football squad attended schools other than Memphis High last year. Several of the number have proved valuable additions to the squad and it is expected that others will be before the season is completed.

Outstanding among the newcomers is Clifford Stewart, contender for the fullback position. He attended Hamlin High School last year and won several letters while in school there.

Others are: Boyd Dixon, Santa Anna, California; Jack Davis and

Martin Always Gives Cyclone Gum For Games

R. E. Martin is still a staunch supporter of the Cyclone as he has been for years. He has furnished the members of the team from year to year with chewing gum. Between halves, that is during home games, he seldom fails to give each member of the team a stick of gum. The boys greatly appreciate the gum which staves off thirst while in the game.

Students To Decide Annual Question

It has not as yet been decided as to whether or not Memphis High School will issue the "Sandstorm" this year, according to H. A. Jackson, superintendent. It is planned to leave the question up to the student body.

Mr. Jackson stated Monday that the school would have an annual if the students would back it to the fullest extent and make a sufficient deposit to assure part payment of expenses before orders were placed. Otherwise, he deems it best that the school not publish a yearbook because chances of going in debt are too great.

The members of the staff have not been selected but if it is definitely decided to have an annual they will be appointed in the near future. The question will be put to the students sometime next week.

"I really think we should have an annual," Mr. Jackson stated, "but if we cannot see our way clear, I think it best not to publish one. I intend to leave it up to the students as to whether or not we will have a 'Sandstorm'."

Jake Leggit, of Lakeview; Russell MacMillan, of Tulsa; William and Lois Shields, of Swearingen; and Cecil Cudd, of Sayre, Okla.

Mrs. Ed Teer, of Clarendon, spent on Monday until Wednesday here with her parents, Judge and Mrs. J. M. Elliott.

Yell Leaders Are Elected Thursday

The yell leaders for the pep squad this year were elected at a meeting of the students Thursday morning prior to the Memphis-Quitaque football game. B. F. Shepherd was in charge of the nomination and election of the leaders.

Elizabeth Champion, Loreece Webster and Ivan Thornton were nominated from the Senior Class with Elizabeth Champion being elected. The two nominations from the Junior Class were Francis Ogden and Betty Dale West and the latter won by a majority of votes. She was the yell leader of the Sophomore Class last year. Lewis Foxhall was elected Sophomore yell leader. A good number of students turned out for the yell squad Thursday at the Memphis-Quitaque game and it is anticipated that the pep squad will be larger as the season sets into swing.

Mrs. S. B. Upton returned to her home at Lorenza Saturday after a visit here with her father, J. W. Durham and sister, Mrs. Attamae Lane.

Miss Frankie Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Barnes, left Tuesday for Austin where she will be a student at the University of Texas again. This will be her Junior year.

First Year Football Players To Organize Squad Under Howard

Announcement was made this week by Assistant Coach Arthur Howard that members of the third and fourth teams of the Memphis High School Cyclone football squad would probably have schedule of their own. Plans are being made to play similar teams in this section.

Mr. Howard has charge of the members of this team and it is expected that he will have them ready for games in the near future. It is thought that a game will be played this week-end but the opponent is as yet unnamed.

WEST TEXAS UTILITIES

You Can Make Your Own Electric Rate

YOUR true electric rate is not the amount paid per kilowatt-hour for service used on the first or top step—but the net average cost per kilowatt-hour for all current consumed. Residential customers of the West Texas Utilities Company paid, during 1930, an average of only 6.5c per kilowatt-hour—and those customers using an electric range and electric refrigerator received service at an average rate of approximately 4c per kilowatt-hour!

The statement, then, that "you can make your own electric rate" is obviously true, for the more you take advantage of the many conveniences and comforts of electric service, the more inexpensive your service will become. The addition of new Electrical Servants will reduce your average cost per kilowatt-hour and bring you new comforts and conveniences worth far more than the slight cost of the additional service required.

The average residential customer now uses fifty kilowatt-hours per month. He could increase his service to three times that amount and only increase his total bill by approximately 10c a day.

Investigate the possibilities of complete household electrification. You will be surprised to find the equipment exceedingly moderate in first cost, and the operating expense ridiculously low.

Vernadine Jones And V. L. McGlocklin Win In Atwater Kent Radio Audition

(W. R. C.)
The Atwater Kent Radio audition for Hall County, held at the First Presbyterian church last Friday evening, demonstrates tangibly the generally accepted fact that real musicianship exists in this locality. Although the competing singers were screened from view of the audience, this detail added to, rather than detracted from, the evening's enjoyment.

Mrs. M. McNeely, in her capacity as chairman of the audition for Hall County, was at her gracious best. Her introductory remarks were brief, succinct, adequate. In presenting the program, in introducing the participants with their accompanists, and finally, in acquainting the audience with the judges, she conducted herself as though long acquainted with auditions and their intricacies.

Miss Clytie Cunningham of Lakeview was awarded third place in her class. She chose for her selections, "Mighty Lak a Rose" by Nevin and "Just a Wearyin' for You" by Bond. She was accompanied by Miss Lawrence, also of Lakeview. Miss Cunningham is the possessor of a sweet voice; however, it lacks real expression. Her enunciation was not the best. She prolonged notes and broke cadences at will, giving to her singing "an up and down effect" that time and study should remedy.

I enjoyed greatly the two numbers Miss Margaret Milam sang, "Pirate Dreams" by Hueter and "The Morning Wind" by Bracombe. Miss Milam was accompanied by Mrs. Lelia E. Ballew and was accorded second place by the judges. She will go far, in my judgment, in her musical career. Her voice is endowed with rich, full tones, a volume to be commended at will and a range truly lyric in its possibilities. Mezzo-soprano, in actuality, I was easily transported into the realm of the contralto as I listened to Miss Milam's voice Friday evening. If there is any fault at all to find with her voice at this stage, it lies in a lack of tonal balance and an uncertainty in shading the lighter moods of music into the darker and more subtle passages.

Miss Vernadine Jones, accompanied by Mrs. Elmer S. Shelley, sang "Eostra" by Curran and "Melisande in the Wood" by Goetz. The judges awarded Miss Jones first place consideration. Miss Jones' voice is thoroughly lyric, ranging easily into the coloratura. She has learned, in part at least, how to handle her voice—how to make diction and inflection bring out the inherent beauty of a composition. Her voice structure permits of wide versatility. The bell like notes of the coloratura merge into the more stable notes of the lyric without a transcending idea of change. However, in making quick transitions from one to the other, I detected one or two throaty notes. Miss Jones is at her best in sustaining tones in the upper range of the voice and it is only when she sings in the lower registers that her voice loses some of its brilliance and power. As a whole, her singing was entirely authentic.

V. L. McGlocklin was the only young man entered in the audition and quite naturally won. He sang "Some Day, Some Time" by Clark and "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride" by O'Hara. He was accompanied by Mrs. Elmer S. Shelley.

AMERICA'S ONLY REFINER OF GERM PROCESSED OIL OFFERS . . .

$10,000 IN CASH PRIZES

FOR THE BEST ANSWERS EXPLAINING THE MYSTERY OF THE "HIDDEN QUART" AND TELLING HOW THIS QUART BENEFITS MOTORISTS

Fact No. 1—Thousands of motorists and service station men have observed that after a car has been given its first fill of Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil and is driven 200 to 350 miles, a look at the crankcase gauge shows that about one quart of oil is apparently missing . . . but

Fact No. 2—These same people have noticed that on the second and later fillings with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil, scarcely a drop of oil will disappear during the first 350 miles and practically none at 500 and up to 1,000 miles!

THE above facts have been checked by actual tests with cars that use six quarts of oil for the crankcase, cars in good mechanical condition and driven at ordinary rates of speed. These facts will also prove true for your car, in proportion to the amount of oil your crankcase usually holds, your car's mechanical condition and the speeds at which you drive.

What becomes of the "hidden quart"? The answer is easy if you study the Facts given above and keep in mind the things that only Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil can do. The explanation of the whereabouts of the "hidden quart" is simple—no technical knowledge of motors or oil is necessary.

Remember—The "hidden quart" of Germ Processed Oil does not escape through leakage . . . does not burn up, wear out nor evaporate. It is "present but unaccounted for." Fact No. 2, given above, proves all this.

After you've found where the "hidden quart" goes, you can easily see the special benefits it gives the motorist—advantages that no other oil can give.

Ask at any Conoco Station or Conoco Dealer for free entry blank, which contains information about Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil that may help you win. Conoco Station or Dealer employees will gladly answer your questions. Remember, you do not have to do anything to enter the contest. . . Any Conoco Station or Conoco Dealer will give you free of charge, a convenient Official Contest Entry Blank for writing your answer.

Answers written on one side only of any plain white paper will be accepted as accredited entries in the contest. But we recommend that you secure an Official Contest Entry Blank, which gives valuable information about Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil and its operation in motors—clues about the "hidden quart" that may help you win an answer that will win a prize.

THE QUESTION

"What becomes of the 'hidden quart' and how does this quart benefit the motorist?"

COMPLETE RULES OF CONTEST

- Answers may be any length not exceeding 200 words; length of answer will not determine winners. Write answers on Official Contest Entry Blank preferably, or on plain white paper. Conoco Stations and Dealers will give you an Official Contest Entry Blank free. Elaborate presentations of answers will not count in your favor.
- Write your answer in plain, simple language. Technical terms or special scientific knowledge will not influence the judges.
- Contest closes midnight, September 28, 1931, and no entries bearing postmarks after midnight, September 28, 1931, will be accepted.
- Contest open to everybody except employees and executives of the Continental Oil Company, Conoco Stations, Conoco Dealers and the Company's advertising agency, and their families.
- In case of tie, both contestants will receive amount of prize tied for.
- You do not have to use or purchase Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil or other Conoco products to compete for prizes.
- All entries submitted, whether or not they win prizes, become the property of the Continental Oil Company and may be used in advertising without payment, and none can be returned.

John Bull's ponderous side.

Gandhi wants freedom—something all of us desire and few of us experience. He wants India left to the Indians. As to whether or not that nation is ready to govern its own destinies is a moot question, but if all Indian statesmen are as astute as Gandhi has shown himself to be, England would probably benefit from the experience of withdrawing from that country and looking after matters nearer home.

Gandhi is the dominating figure at the conference now in session. He says little, but thinks much and when he does have something to say, it is memorable. He is unquestionably, in the eyes of his countrymen, another George Washington, Joan of Arc, Abraham Lincoln, or what have you? He has been invited to come to this country, but he says we probably wouldn't understand him and he's probably right. Few people understand great men until it is too late.

Personally, I am for Gandhi, if for no other reason than that he is in search of freedom, but I would like to witness the scene when he meets King George, if he does. That would be worth the money. I'll venture to say the King will be more ill at ease than Gandhi—and to see a King ill at ease would be to see something. But as for drinking goats' milk and wearing a loin cloth—I simply couldn't get off—not even to free India.

Mr. Bayouth stated that he would have a complete line of everything—all new merchandise—priced right for quick turnover. He expects to have a large part of this merchandise priced and marked by the end of next week. No single line was neglected. Jess Rosenwasser, manager of M. Rosenwasser's dry goods store here, returned to Memphis Monday of last week from a three weeks buying tour to Eastern markets, including New York, Boston, Chicago and St. Louis. Merchandise was never cheaper, Mr. Rosenwasser reports. In fact, he believes it is as cheap as it will ever get. He states he bought heavily of fall and winter merchandise and is receiving shipments of it daily. While in New York, Mr. Rosenwasser availed himself of the opportunity of taking in several good shows. He saw the current edition of the Ziegfeld Follies and reports that it is up to par in every respect.

Three States Will Send Delegations To Tri-State Fair

AMARILLO, Sept. 17. (Special)—Within the next few days the Ninth annual Amarillo Tri-State Exposition will be in full swing, with virtually every section of the Panhandle-Plains of three states participating.

The exposition gates will be thrown open free to the visitors on Monday morning, September 21 and will continue through Saturday, September 26, a continual round of education, pleasure and amusement.

Thirty cities of the exposition's territory will be here with their bands during the six big days. They will also broadcast programs over W DAG each day.

Never in the history of the fair has so much interest been shown and never has there been a more general effort to make it the Southwest's greatest exposition. Wilbur C. Hawk, president, declares.

Special days have been set aside for the several cities of Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico, and railroads serving Amarillo have contributed to the success of the institution by establishing exceptionally attractive rates during the week.

New Mexico and Oklahoma Day, Friday, September 25, is also designated "Political Day." Governor William H. Murray of Oklahoma, Governor Arthur Seligman of New Mexico and Governor Ross Sterling of Texas are expected to meet in Amarillo on that day and thousands of people are expected to take advantage of the privilege of seeing and hearing these three state executives. Other state and national officials of the three states will be here for the occasion.

Special attractions, aside from the Dodson's World Fair Shows, with their unusual midway offerings, will be Leonard Stroud's contest rodeo, said to be the greatest aggregation of bucking broncs and daring riders ever assembled, portraying "the Old West in a thrilling comeback."

Spectacular displays in the merchant's and manufacturer's buildings will add to the interest of the magnificent agricultural showings. The livestock department has never been so attractive, more entries having been made this year than at previous fairs. Cattle, hogs, pet stock, school displays, merchandise, implements, boy and girl scout exhibits, are just among the many attractions. Monday, September 21 is Amarillo Day; Tuesday, September 22 is Livestock Day; Wednesday is Old Settlers, American Legion and Press Day; Thursday is Farmers Day and County School Day; Friday is New Mexico, Oklahoma and Political Day, and Saturday will be given over to the traveling men.

The Amarillo Tri-State Exposition's importance among fairs, and its importance to the region which it represents, has been recognized by its admission into the larger Fair circuits, assuring visitors of exhibits and amusement features comparing with any ever seen in the Southwest or those offered by the other regional organizations and great state fairs.

Mrs. Frank Hommel of Clarendon and Mrs. Namon Hardman of Wellington, sisters of Mrs. Roy Scott, were among the out of town relatives here to attend the funeral of Mrs. Chas. F. Scott, Wednesday afternoon at the First Methodist church.

Conoco Announces $10,000 In Prizes

On another page of this issue of The Democrat appears an offer of $10,000 in cash prizes for the best answers explaining "The Mystery of the Hidden Quart," and launching the largest advertising campaign ever sponsored by Continental Oil Company in the interest of Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil.

"Teaser" announcements of this campaign have appeared during the past two days throughout the country, and today's advertisement announcing the cash prize contest is appearing in 1,569 newspapers, with a combined circulation of more than 9,000,000. The advertising in connection with this prize contest will constitute one of the largest campaigns ever conducted by an oil company during a similar period of time, according to Wesley I. Nunn, advertising manager of Continental Oil Company.

"During 1931 Continental will spend more than half of its entire advertising budget for newspaper space," said Mr. Nunn. "Despite the general downward trend of business conditions during the early part of this year, Continental decided to increase its advertising budget. The result has been that we have had a very worthwhile increase in volume of business this year, and have definitely proved the wisdom of going after business by a stronger advertising annual during the so-called depression periods."

The contest announced today is one in which motorists are invited to compete for $10,000 in cash prizes, in telling how the "hidden quart" of Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil benefits motorists. The question is "What becomes of this quart benefit the motorist?" There are 29 prizes, first prize being $5,000.

The contest closes at midnight, September 28, 1931, with all communications being sent to Continental Oil Company, Ponca City, Okla. Judges of the contest are: Dr. W. B. Bizzell, president of the University of Oklahoma; John A. Hunter, professor of mechanical engineering, University of Colorado, and Frank L. Martin, associate dean, School of Journalism, University of Missouri.

Loan Collections Explained At Meet

A meeting of cotton buyers, ginners and members of the county seed loan committee was held at the Chamber of Commerce offices here Wednesday night at which time D. H. Sandidge of the Seed and Loan Bureau, St. Louis, discussed how loans granted farmers are to be collected. Some fifty men attended the meeting.

Sandidge said: "Under existing government regulations, seed loan borrowers are allowed $7.50 and seed from each bale of cotton sold, the balance to be remitted to the government to be applied on the mortgage held against the crop. In some few cases, it has been found that this allowance is not enough to permit the borrower to gather and market his cotton, and in such cases, I am arranging with the county seed loan committee to allow actual expenses for gathering. Farmers may obtain additional information regarding this matter from bankers who are aware of all phases affecting this feature of liquidation of federal seed loan mortgages."

Mr. Sandidge has supervision over 13 Panhandle counties in collecting these loans.

SECOND INSTALLMENT OF BEACH PLAN SEEKS TO GIVE IMPETUS TO BIRTH OF NEW GOVERNMENT

BY BYRLE L. BEACH

At the close of my first conglomeration of suggested ways and means for ending the depression and restoring normal prosperity, I left Herbert Hoover and his vast army standing guard over the wheat and cotton fields of the nation. Acreage has been reduced about fifty percent, and a guaranteed price has been fixed for the producers. Mr. Hoover is still sitting tight on the surplus necessities, dishing out, in monthly installments to spinner and miller who would now like to contract for their year's supplies of raw materials because they now fear that due to crop deterioration and the drastic acreage reduction, prices will advance. In fact, Hoover, the man of the hour, has already intimated that because of the over-night transformation of the general economic situation, by reason of the ten billion bond sale and the guarantee of a fair price to producers, that prices might be consistently elevated, without materially increasing the prices of the finished product, because the manufacturers have always told us that the cost of the raw product has only a small bearing on the price of the finished goods.

Big Headlines

When Herbert and Congress had bought up all of the wheat and cotton they discovered that they had on hand, something like five billion dollars. They they have decided to lend to worthy family heads.

"Did you read the big headlines in the daily this morning?" is the question on most every tongue. Laborers, store clerks, and the multitude are wild with encouragement, because Congress has passed the Hoover Back-to-Farm Land Law, which provides that two million family heads may now borrow money from the government, at a low rate of interest, with which to purchase forty acres of farming land, with forty years to pay. Provided that the borrower actually moves on and cultivates the land according to government instructions and regulations. In addition, the government will provide adequate improvements, necessary tools, equipment, seed and expenses for the first crop year, without being obligated to vote the Republican ticket. "Gee, what-a-man, this Hoover!" Everywhere, the masses are shouting: "I voted for Hoover," "I knew he would save the country from wreck and ruin—I told you that Hoover is all right—just a little bit slow to act, and just as soon as he got that fishing off his system, that he would get the job done." "I hear the Democrats won't even try to put out a ticket at the next election. No use for we are all for Hoover."

Mr. Hoover will soon let the contracts for two million modest farm homes. All ready, the great lumber mills are humming while the massive trees in the forests are groaning from the blows of the woodman's axe. Factories everywhere are tuning up, getting ready to supply the great demands created by the BIRTH OF A NEW GOVERNMENT. No longer do we see the revolting spectacle of human misery, want and woe tramping the national highways, begging Mr. Hoover to furnish them work, food and clothing. Man! what a revelation! What a transformation! And to think it all came about over-night. Even men of wealth and great political influence have thrown aside their selfish interests and have awakened to the realization that, after all, the common people, the men of the shovel, the rake and the hoe, are the basic foundations of national wealth, peace and prosperity. And these great financiers, in an effort to correct and amend their transgressions, have joined hands with Congress and the President hoping to assist in the perpetuation of this final realization of peace, happiness and contentment for the greatest nation on earth.

Congress is now in session, and the President comes before that (now) honorable body, and inspired by the wonderful transformation of the nation, delivers this famous message, which is in reality, THE SECOND DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE: "Boys, we have just awakened from a long snooze. Over-night there has been born a new government, which henceforth shall be by, of and for the people. And to properly nourish this new born baby, so that peace, prosperity and happiness shall prevail unto the end, it is absolutely necessary—in fact, imperative that we immediately pass a lot of constructive legislation in the interest of economy."

"In the past, we have all 'fished' too much; there has been too much poker playing; too much pork barrel politics; too many lobbyists have been entertained in Washington; and too much bull has been spread over these sacred floors. In fact, we have absolutely failed in our sworn duties to the common masses. But now we have turned over a new leaf—in the nick of time. Therefore, in order to convince, beyond a reasonable doubt, that we have absolutely reformed, we must now pass these recommendations of mine, which will save the nation and the common people something like five billion dollars per annum. Of course, to us who are accustomed to handling large volume, this is no staggering amount, but to the average voter, it sounds like a small fortune."

President's Recommendations

"1. That rum fleet of mine is hopeless, ineffective and entirely too expensive. They haven't captured a rum ship in ten days, and the stocks here in Washington are getting low. My big army for enforcing prohibition is fast being killed off by the moonshiners, and today there seems to be more hooch in the nation than was here when prohibition was declared. Before some of my men are accused of accepting bribes, or inefficiency, I think we should disband the whole rum force. It is an evident fact that no less than five million men, women, boys and girls are now engaged in some branch of the liquor traffic. While murder, intrigue, bribery and other crimes have increased tenfold. Thinking men of the day realize the folly, the useless waste of money and the inability to cope with the bad situation. I am for repeal of the EIGHTEENTH amendment, putting the Government into the liquor business as distiller and seller, under very strict and drastic regulations, similar to the Canadian plan, making it a felony to drink in a public place which includes hotels and the halls of congress (groans) and providing a severe penalty for drunkenness.

"2. I am now convinced that world peace and disarmament are essential, but just as long as we carry a chip on our shoulders, just so long will the other nations of the world look upon us with suspicion. Therefore, since we are the most powerful of nations, it behooves us to stop our flourishing and really get sincere about World Peace. Then the other important nations will cooperate. Just as long as we maintain a fine navy and a war prepared army, there is danger of another ruinous war.

"3. I would abolish all of the national gambling halls which are operating under such assumed names as Cotton, Grain and Stock Exchanges, and I would encourage that large army of professional gamblers, who have been parasites on society all these years, to seek some honorable profession.

"4. I would require each and every public official, both state and national, to file personal financial statements on entering and leaving the service and provide a minimum penalty of five years for false swearing. And the crime of lobbying would carry the same penalty (groans).

"5. I would abolish all useless political pie counter jobs; require eight hours of honest effort, daily, from all useful employees and officials and thus rid the government pay rolls of nearly one hundred thousand leeches, parasites, and mug-wumps and lame ducks."

Note: In both my articles I have attempted to convey my dream of the future. All that have advocated is not at all impossible. The great spirit of justice may soon rise up and point the right way to Congress and the President. I do not say that my plan is perfect. Certainly, I do not have the influence nor the political power, but I do hope that something I have said may find its way to those who do have both influence and money, and that they will bring pressure to bear on a lagging Congress. If what I have said meets with your approval, please relay my message to a distant friend, with instructions to pass it on. However, I fear that selfishness is too rampant in the land for us to expect Government reforms.

Acreage Reduction By Legislature To Bring On Collapse

The following article, written by T. H. Kerr of Dallas, has to do with the cotton situation. It is headed "The South Contemplates Suicide," and is published for what it may be worth:

The cotton farmer of America is dangerously ill, his condition is critical and his vitality so low that he is in danger of passing away. Many of his friends shake their heads mournfully and speak of him in low tones and to him in a melancholy attempt at cheerfulness typical of the traditional attitude maintained by mankind as they anticipate the departure of a friend, but he is not dead yet by a long way. However the reduction of acreage by legislature will be his death blow and his demise will result in the collapse of the whole south.

It is perfectly true that he is only one of a great many suffering from the same trouble, a condition which by this time has reached such a gigantic proportion that it will go down in history as one of the greatest epidemics to afflict mankind, but this fact does not relieve his suffering nor does it alleviate the distress which all those who are dependent upon him are now undergoing.

Perhaps the most unfortunate part of his condition is that he is one of the few victims of the epidemic who was either chosen, or voluntarily offered himself, as a subject for experimental purposes.

The experiment took the form of a major operation known by the grandiloquent name of Stabilization. The doctors who advised and performed the operation were the politicians, but they were opposed by others, the economists and the plain business men who pointed out that the experimental operation had already been tried on others suffering in a similar manner and had proved to be ineffectual. They used as illustrations the British rubber industry, the Brazilian coffee grower, the Cuban sugar planter, all of whom had submitted to the same operation and whose last plight was worse than their first. They pointed to the fact that since the days when Joseph sojourned in the land of Egypt there had been years of famine and years of surplus and that ever since that day the corrective law of supply and demand had proved to be never failing in its final conquering of the so-called excess production. They were pook pooked into silence by those interested in trying to experiment. It was to be attempted under an entirely new set of circumstances. Never before had those in charge of the experiment possessed such magnificent resources, never before had they at their command such exhaustive records of business statistics and research, never before such an unlimited supply of wealth to carry the experiment to the final point. All the other attempts to cure had proved abortive because those in charge of the tests had exhausted their resources before they had been able to carry the experiment quite far enough, but such a result could not possibly occur on this occasion.

Such was the argument advanced in good faith by those who had in mind the relief of the suffering patient. Let there be no mistake about the fact that many of those who advocated the supreme trial of the power of stabilization were quite earnest in their belief that on this occasion it would withstand all tests and prove to be the true remedy for the diseases called Surplus Crops. To a large percentage of those interested their arguments were so convincing that the authority they needed was given to them, the tremendous resources of wealth they required were placed at their disposal and several sufferers, notably the cotton farmer and the wheat farmer (who were apparently the sickest of those stricken) were persuaded to submit to the noble operation once more.

The Farm Board was called into existence to advise ways and means to see whether stabilization would not finally emerge triumphant, and the experiment was tried and tested to the nth degree. Very soon afterwards arose the heated controversy of the advocates and opponents of the scheme, the former proclaiming that it was a magnificent success, the latter that it was a colossal failure. For a considerable time many friends of the farmer were inclined to believe the statements of the proponents, they allowed hope to obscure fact but the truth of the opponents' contentions eventually became so evident that the final judgment of failure of stabilization being able to defeat the law of supply and demand is practically universal.

The proponents of this experiment failed the farmer sadly in the final hour of his extremity. Because they removed a surplus in 1929 he has grown another surplus in 1931 and is now faced by double trouble. The proposed disposal of the 1929 surplus on long time credits would be simply a shifting of the 1931 surplus on the farmer to replace that which he had supposed was removed two years before.

As an architect points with pride of achievement to a fine building which arose as a result of his endeavors and as an artist exhibits with enthusiasm his works of art so the farmer views his abundant crop, and his confidence in the leaders was shattered when they proposed that he destroy part of his handiwork. From time immemorial civilized nations have gathered in their places of worship in thanksgiving for harvest home. Surely there is not to be witnessed this year the travesty of hymns of praise being converted into cries of condemnation because the bounteous crops are too bounteous.

The farmer is now badly in need of new leaders, but if these advocate legislative reduction in acreage they will eventually be discredited just as their predecessors now are. The farmers only means of existence is abundance of yield. Stabilization failed and reduction of acreage by law will fail because the farmers' condition has not been properly diagnosed and without diagnosis, correct treatment cannot be applied.

The fact of the matter is that the farmer's condition is the result of a war for the cotton markets of the world. Unfortunately he himself unconsciously provoked this war and no one has ever been honest enough to tell him so. The war started in 1922 and for five years went in the American farmers favor but for the past three years the fortunes of war have changed and he is in great danger of final defeat.

Statistics usually make dry reading and should therefore be avoided as much as possible but in order to discover the origin of the war some of the crop figures must be considered. For the four years, 1914 to 1918, a war ridden world was bent on destruction and some of the means most suitable for the purpose called for tremendous quantities of cotton. It was therefore purchased and used regardless of price. For the next three years those previously bent on destruction worked frantically to rebuild that which had been destroyed and again cotton was one of the principal articles needed and had to be purchased at all cost. During these seven years the price rose from about 12 cents to the very artificial price of 43 cents and it was this artificial price which proved the farmers unding.

Unfortunately 1914 to 1918, had destroyed much of the combatants wealth and the following three years rebuilding exhausted the remainder. The result was one of the most severe financial crises recorded in history and together with all commodities the price of cotton collapsed again to 11 cents. Up to that time the south had a monopoly of the cotton supply and felt that it would be held under any circumstances. Therefore it was determined to advance the price by reducing the supply and a widely advertised campaign for reduced acreage was started.

The reduction took place and was very successful for the next three years. It might have been successful for a much longer time had it not been so widely advertised to the few cotton growing competitors of the south and to the buyers who were dependent on American cotton. Again the price rose until in 1924 Middling cotton reached 37 cents. The corresponding advance in price paid his competitors, furnished them with cash to cultivate more and more land in order to produce a larger quantity of this profitable staple, the larger production enabled these competitors to under-sell American and not only did they increase production, they improved quality while the cotton of the South deteriorated. While the competitor already in the business was thus aided, the purchasers of American cotton were engaged in helping other competitors enter the field. Anyone familiar with European conditions will recall that, starting in 1922, England and Germany were searching for suitable places to raise cotton as they feared the American supply would prove inadequate.

And thus started the great war against 35 cent cotton which together with depressed business conditions throughout the world, has resulted in 6 cent cotton.

But the cotton farmer of the south does not even realize he is at war much less that he fired the first shots in 1922. His crying need is for some one to tell him the truth and explain that in order to win the conflict his only ammunition is cotton.

Whoever heard of war leaders advising their country to cease manufacturing ammunition? Not only are the leaders doing that but they are advertising the fact to the foe and the weakening enemy takes heart.

At the sacrifice of 6 cent cotton the cotton farmer of the South has, this year, the advantage of his competitors and will undoubtedly make great advances into enemy territory, but this great sacrifice will be in vain and the advances nullified by the hope raised in the foreign growers ranks if they know that he will close his munition factories next year.

The cotton war alone would not have caused 6 cent cotton, it needed the added incentive of a world wide business depression to go so low. It is therefore an artificially low price just as 40 cents was an abnormally high one, and with the natural recovery of general business will inevitably advance.

The foreign growers of cotton cannot raise it profitably at the correspondingly low price they will have to accept for it any more than the South can grow it profitably at 6 cents and provided they are not publicly notified of America's intention to grow less, they also will reduce acreage; the movement will be world wide and six cent cotton will be its own cure.

If, however, the South does legislate against cotton growing, the other countries, anticipating an advance, will plant sufficient to supply all markets, and when, in 1933, the farmer of the South gets back to business he will find no purchaser for his produce even at five cents. Any quantity over six or seven million bales, the amount consumed in the domestic mills, will be found to be practically unsaleable.

It is the imperative duty of its leaders to declare these truths and prevent another major operation which the farmer is not able to undergo. The South is unconsciously contemplating suicide by its request for legislative reduction.

You bankers, merchants and land owners of the South wake up; for if this law goes into effect you are all doomed. Keep the cotton farmer alive, aid him to the fullest extent possible; teach him that the problem is not, how few bales nor how many bales; it is not how few acres nor how many acres, but it is how many pounds of lint per acre.

That is the South's problem and the only answer is 175 to 200 pounds. With such a production the South can beat the world. The American cotton farmers extensive experience, his rich land, his improved implements, together with the continued striving for intensive cultivation will undoubtedly give the correct answer.

In addition to his other troubles the farmer also suffered from underproduction of food for himself and his stock. No legislation was called in to treat that disease, he was left to work on it himself with the satisfying result that there will be no lack of food for either man or beast on the Southern farms this winter. Necessity taught him the truth and the truth taught him to correct the evil. If he only knew the truth of the cotton growing part of his trouble he would set to work to correct that also and with your assistance solve the problem.

Surely you do not cannot do it?

Educate him to his him earnestly the truth, him and with him try a removal of tariffs, entrance to the world markets, and he will not but if you sit idly by and ignore the situation, you will not succeed you will defeat with him, for the of the structure of South is Cotton.

You men of the you of the legislature, farmers own request, deliver him his death farmers of the South, for a relief from suffering asking that which will put you out of existence and fight, you are at only weapon to win the cotton.

Let your slogans be: "Tariffs"; "Enough Food dependent of Cotton"; "200 Pounds of Lint Per Acre."

Concentrate on the for them and in attempt will remain supremacy on markets and the 6 cent cotton will not be. Any other alternative thinkable.

Demonstration Agent Gives Recipes for People Interested in Canning

Ruby M. Adams, county demonstration agent, has the following recipes for those interested. Proportions herein may be changed at the present time, Adams stated. She has given the following recipes at the canning demonstration held last Thursday at the home of Mrs. J. B. Burnett.

cooking until a medium syrup is formed and the cubes are glassy in appearance.

Pear Preserves

One pound of pears, one cup of water, three-fourths pound of sugar.

Pears may be preserved whole, in halves, or in quarters. Seckle or small Le Conte Pears are often preferred. If Keiter pears are used, they should be boiled in clear water after being pared until they can be easily pierced with a darning needle (about 20 to 30 minutes). Then place them in the syrup and cook until the fruit has a clear transparent appearance. Cool, plump, pack, process, and seal the same as for all preserves. If desired, a few whole cloves might be stuck into the pears before dropping them into the syrup to cook. A few slices of lemon (two or three slices to each pound of fruit) might also be added to the syrup in which the pears are cooking for flavor. Sometimes grated pineapple in the proportion of one to two tablespoons to each pound of fruit is added to the cooking syrup five to ten minutes before it reaches the finishing point.

Dixie Relish

One quart chopped cabbage, one pint chopped onions, one pint chopped sweet red peppers, one pint chopped green pepper, four tablespoons salt, four tablespoons mustard seed, three-fourths cup sugar, one quart vinegar.

Soak the pepper in brine (one cup salt to one gallon water) for 24 hours. Freshen in clear water for one to two hours. Drain. Remove seeds and coarse white sections. Chop separately, and measure the chopped cabbage, peppers, and onions before mixing. Add spices, sugar and vinegar. Let stand over night covered in a crock or enamel vessel. Pack in sterilized jars. When ready to pack drain off the vinegar in order that the jar may be well packed. Press the relish carefully in jars. Pour over it a wooden paddle to remove every bubble. Garnish each jar with two quarter inch pointed strips of red pepper in a vertical position on opposite sides of the jar. Be sure the seam of jar is at the back. Cap, clamp, and process for fifteen minutes at the boiling temperature.

THE LONG PLAN

The Long plan, commonly called, of declaring a cotton holiday in 1932, continues to meet with disfavor by Governor Ross Sterling, and the Governor has let it be known that no matter what the Legislature does, he intends to veto anything that borders upon cutting out the cotton acreage entirely in 1932. Despite Sterling's ultimatum on the subject Governor Huey Long continues his tirade against the chief executive of this state, having free access to radio broadcasting stations for this purpose.

In a recent interview granted the press, Sterling states that only one other Governor of a cotton state favors the Long plan. We believe that Sterling is following the right course. If a cotton holiday were declared in 1932, it would be the equivalent to bankrupting the South—getting us into such a jam that we would be unable to recuperate for years to come.

The way we look at the matter is that Huey Long—always sensational—wants to capitalize on the situation and direct attention to himself. If he evolved something different, something radical, he probably thought he would be looked upon as a pioneer—a great man trying to do something noble for a suffering people. But Governor Long is a fault. People who have raised cotton all their lives cannot stop, all of a sudden, and take up something else. The idea may be fine in intent, but in the actual carrying out of it, it would be nothing short of a farce.

There is no telling what the state legislature may do. The members may fall in line with the Long cohorts and try to foist legislation on the people that would declare a cotton holiday. In such an eventuality, it is a comforting thought to know that we have a Governor "whose feet are still on the ground" and who cannot be swayed by the hysteria which seems to be sweeping the Southland.

THE FOOTBALL SEASON OPENS

MEMPHIS went down in defeat in the first football game of the season. Already, there are a number who predict a miserable season ahead for the Cyclone squad. They may be right, but we incline to the opinion they are wrong. Not being gifted with making alibis, still it is apparent that Memphis has not become seasoned, in any way, as yet. The plays and the players are still green. Few practices have been held. There is no reason for believing that the team will be a flop just because the boys failed to deliver in the first practice game.

It is going to take more than plays and players if Memphis is to have a successful grid squad this season, however. It is going to require substantial backing on the part of the city as a whole. If attendance drops, if people have a foregone conclusion of defeat and disaster, that is exactly what will transpire. What the Cyclone needs now more than any other one thing is the right spirit for their battles, and we, as citizens, can help them attain it.

SPEAKING OF LANDSLIDES

SPEAKING of landslides reminds us that an election was held in Memphis Tuesday of last week to vote gas bonds for a municipally owned plant—and did it carry? The people have expressed themselves. They want a municipal plant and they will have one, but there is much still to be done. When asked what the gas company planned to do if the bonds carried, an official stated that the company would protect its investment.

There are a number of ways in which such a statement may be construed. All indications point to the fact that the gas company furnishing this city at the present time has no thought or intention of leaving. It stands to reason that no rate reduction will be offered at this late date. Then what must we expect? Unless we are very badly fooled, we have another fight on our hands.

Utilities companies are usually backed by millions of dollars. Their officers and stockholders do not generally give up without putting up a strenuous effort. Just what action the gas company expects to take remains to be seen. However, it might be stated here that in our opinion voting the bonds was just a light skirmish before the real battle begins. If the gas company can make an example of Memphis and Wellington, other towns will hesitate to vote bonds. If, on the other hand, the City Councils of Memphis and Wellington make an example of the gas company, the citizenship of these two towns will benefit directly through low gas rates, and other towns will likely fall in line.

Attention is called to an excerpt from Mayor Allen C. Grundy's published statement last week: "We have but completed our first step in this fight for lower gas rates. We yet have a hard fight before us. If we are successful, we have accomplished much. If we fail, it will not be because we have not exerted every effort for success."

We hope the people of Memphis and Wellington will back their city governments in the future as they did in the matter of the bond elections, so that relief, actual and lasting, will result.

SHOCKING A FRENCHMAN

SOMEHOW or other, we have had a preconceived idea that it would take a great deal of something or other to shock a Frenchman, but the task has been accomplished by a little man weighing only about 97 pounds, dark in color, wearing glasses and a loin cloth. Mahatma Gandhi, the seer of India, gave the French a shock when he entered Marseilles wearing a scant loin cloth.

If you do not know what we are driving at, you should attend a French show. Then indeed, you would have reason to wonder why Gandhi has caused such a furor. The fact worth noting is that finally, after all these years, some one has shocked a Frenchman. This incident should be a turning point in history as it is, to say the least, as unique as it is unexpected.

HIT OR MISS

a column by T. R.

Do you know there hasn't been a single person in the office to drop a nickel in the neat little box I prepared for those who believed that "fishy" dove story that was told last week. I can't figure the situation. It is, in fact, mystifying, and unthinkable that not one soul would believe that story. Let me say, that I wish some one would suggest a plan for making people believe a true story. Since so many ideas have been given on how to remedy the "depression," will someone please give me one on how to make people believe true stories when the evidence has been destroyed.

There is a certain young lady in this city who went to California a few days ago, and came back so elated that she couldn't recognize her folks because she had the privilege of holding the hand of the famous cinema star, Warner Baxter. She said that Warner had always been her masculine ideal, and since she had done such a thing as shake his hand, she was ready to die. All the way home, she said, she bought movie magazines and read about her "dream man." She said, too, that he was a perfect gentleman, and asked her if she felt all right.

Now, she didn't mention whether or not Warner kissed her hand as the Frenchmen do when they meet a young lady, and she didn't say whether or not he looked into her eyes and told her those things he once told Janet Gaynor on the screen. Well, I just wonder if he did. You know Mr. Baxter has his weak moments like the rest of us. Women are funny creatures, and you are never able to tell what one of them is going to do, so they say. Now I'm not going to tell who the young lady is, but she is prominent, and can sing "blues" songs like nobody's business.

And speaking of strange things, there is a woman in this town who has never eaten a hamburger. In talking to her the other day, she stated that she was (blank) years old and had never had a desire to eat one. Folks, the (blank) is because the lady didn't wish her age disclosed. You know all women are that way. But getting back to the hamburgers, I believe the woman has missed half her life, because these "dogs" are plenty good. And further, she said she had never eaten an ice cream cone. Wonder what the lady lives on?

I won't tell who the lady is because she is sitting very close, and when she sees this in the paper this week, you can never tell, there might not be any more "Hit or Miss." It may be all hit. Thursday, when the paper makes its appearance, I am going to wear a catcher's mask, and a stomach pad, and a war helmet on my head. Oh, yes, I'd better get a pair of shin guards and some heavy horse-hide gloves, for this woman can sure use her feet and finger nails, like most of them can. Guess who she is?

Hub Bass, one of J. E. Roper's side men, just passed looking all bothered, and I'll tell you the reason. There was a nice looking young woman by his side. Hub was acting just like a school boy when he is dating a girl that meets his fancy. He was grinning from ear to ear, and blushing like a June bride. You know how that is. And too, he was walking from one side of the walk to the other in an intoxicated manner. It is said that love is intoxicating.

At The Change

A Critical Time In Every Woman's Life.

"During a critical time in my life I took Cardui for several months. I had hot flashes. I would suddenly get dizzy and seem blind. I would get faint and have no strength.

My nerves were on edge. I would not sleep at night.

"Cardui did wonders for me. I recommend it to all women who are passing through the critical period of change. I have found it a fine medicine."

Bill Huddleston told me the other day that I had better not say anything about his suspenders. Now, I have a hobby of noticing suspenders, and especially when they are particularly loud, like J. Y. Snow's, or very conservative and mild like Bill's. Well made the clerk put them on him. Now, you should have been there and seen Bill try to see to fasten up the suspenders. He tried and tried, and finally the man had to come around in front and fasten them. When the job was done "the law" had to sit down and rest for he was very tired. Bill is also a good preacher. He goes over east of the city now and then, and conducts a funeral, and the folks over there say he is one of the best funeral preachers I have heard. Hope the feather beds and good here I come, by Bill's way

It is not my intention that our

it is intended that they should be
