ASK NEW TRIAL FOR NEGRO SLAYER

If Denied, Jordon to Appeal Death Sentence

Motion for a rehearing in the Jordon murder case, in which Henry Jordon, colored, was given the death penalty for the murder of a negro man and woman last April, was presented to Judge Fires in District Court yesterday afternoon.

According to W. J. Bragg, attorney for Jordon, if the motion is denied, the case will be appealed to the higher courts.

The civil case of Beard vs. Beard, which occupied all day yesterday, was given to the jury early this morning.

The case of the State of Texas vs. John Lambkin, charged with cattle theft, was taken up by the court this morning and the securing of a jury to try the case was begun.

FIRE DESTROYS ESTELLINE HOME

Dub Davis Home Is Total Loss in Fire Yesterday

Special to The Democrat
ESTELLINE, Sept. 27.—The home of Dub Davis in this city was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon about 4:30.

The exact origin of the blaze was not determined, but it is believed to have started from an oil stove.

Mr. Davis was out of the city at the time of the fire, and Mrs. Davis was in the back yard washing when the fire broke out. The blaze was well under way before noticed by Mrs. Davis, and by the time the fire department arrived the entire interior of the house was on fire.

Both house and contents were a total loss, and none of the family's clothing was saved.

Should Be Cloudy

By the law of averages, today should be cloudy. For the past thirteen years, we have had only two clear days on September 27th. These were in 1925 and 1929.

But despite the cloudy weather which has prevailed on this date since 1922, it rained only once. An inch and three-quarters of precipitation fell on September 27, 1926.

Temperature Down

By Associated Press
DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 27.—A norther last night sent the temperature plunging downward in Texas. Drops of as much as 36 degrees were recorded in North Texas. Temperatures generally hit the lowest marks of the season, the lowest in the state being at Amarillo, where it dropped to 42 degrees.

Miners Strike Off

Scenes like this one, of idle men before a mine, was typical in a thousand localities the past week, until a peace pact signed this morning calling off the strike of 400,000 miners.

Shamrock Man Hurt When Car Wrecked

Strikes Culvert and Overtakes

G. L. Mayfield, 28, of Shamrock, is in a local hospital today as the result of an automobile accident which occurred last night about 7:30 o'clock a short distance north of Newlin.

Mayfield, who is a brother to S. E. Mayfield of Memphis, was injured when the car which he was driving hit a concrete culvert and turned over two or three times in a ditch. The car landed in the ditch to the left, and was facing in the opposite direction from which it was going.

Mayfield was flung from the car onto the pavement, where he received a hard blow on his head. A companion who was riding with Mayfield escaped from the mishap uninjured. His identity could not be established, but it was thought his name to be Taylor and his residence Childress.

The injured man was unable to tell any particulars of the accident this morning, being still in somewhat of a dazed condition. He remembered nothing of the wreck or of his companion and maintained stoutly that he had not been in an accident. The other man

BOY SCOUTS TO ORGANIZE HERE

Two Troops Assured In C. C. Meeting Last Night

Memphis will probably get two Boy Scout troops in the near future and possibly more later as the result of a meeting held last night in the office of the Chamber of Commerce, attended by representatives of several local churches and members of the Memphis Junior Chamber of Commerce.

According to Kennon Hillyer, president of the junior organization, the Methodist Church has agreed to sponsor one troop, and the Baptist Church has virtually accepted a troop. Raymond Thomson is to be scoutmaster of the Methodist group and Jack Boon will likely serve as scoutmaster for the Baptists.

Other churches have not accepted sponsorship of troops yet, but they will likely do so within a short time, it was said.

DEMOCRAT WILL ENTERTAIN PUBLIC

Reception Tomorrow At the Democrat Office

The Memphis Daily Democrat will be host to the public tomorrow afternoon when open house will be observed.

Every citizen of the trade territory is invited to visit us tomorrow afternoon, get acquainted with the publisher and his staff, see our new newspaper press in operation, and receive free souvenirs and refreshments.

The new press will be in operation from 3:00 to 4:00 o'clock, and visitors during that time will have the opportunity of seeing a modern newspaper printed on modern equipment.

Each visitor to the plant in the afternoon will receive a free budget book, his name on a linotype slug, and will be served with ice cold Coca-Cola and Growers Orange and Growers Lemon, bottled by the Memphis Coca Cola Bottling Company.

We urge you to come. We want to meet you and get acquainted.

END SOFT COAL STRIKE BY PACT

Miners to Go Back to Work in All But 4 Districts

By Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—A peace pact ending the soft coal strike in all but four districts was reached early today, and approximately 400,000 miners who struck Monday will return to work next Wednesday.

Representatives of operators in Virginia and Hazard, Kentucky, districts refused to sign the agreement boosting miners' wages until assured the owners in the Tennessee and Harlan, Kentucky, fields would sign.

Military Rules

By Associated Press
QUITO, Ecuador, Sept. 27.—A military dictatorship ruled Ecuador today, after army leaders had conferred with President Antonio Pons, accepted his resignation and dismissed Congress. Federico Paez, minister of public works, became chief of the army regime.

FEW OF US SANE
 ONE of the reasons why reading the newspapers is a joy is the fact that every so often they pop up with a story like the one about the crazy man in Kankakee, Illinois.

It isn't quite right to call him crazy, at that, because he seems to have had right good sense. But anyway, he was confined in an asylum, having been sent there by his father; and he finally won his freedom on a writ of habeas corpus after he had shown that, although supposedly off his base mentally, he had made $75,000 speculating in stocks.

"No man," remarked the judge, "can make that much money these days on the stock market and be insane."

So, logically enough, he adjudged the man sane and freed him.

Solomon himself could hardly have turned a sounder ruling. But if judge's standard is to apply in all similar cases, we may be obliged to build rows upon rows of new asylums for the insane, for the ruling cuts both ways.

That is to say, if you can figure a man's mental capacity by the things he does, and not by the way he responds to some psychiatrist's tests, which of us is safe?

How about the man who loads his loved ones into the family car and cuts loose on the highway at a mile a minute and faster; tempting the grim reaper to make a clean sweep of the family?

How about the fellow who speeds past the public school grounds just as the children are starting home and crossing the streets?

The BLUE DOOR

by Rachel Mack © 1935 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 RUTH WOODSON, a pretty, high-spirited girl of 19, in search of work, is put off a bus in the little town of Worthville when she runs out of money. A storm is breaking and Ruth seeks refuge in an old stone mansion with a blue door. She faints and is carried upstairs by the queer old housekeeper, BERTHA GIBBS, also known as "PENNY," and by JOHN McNEILL, from next door. Penny believes Ruth to be ELAINE CHALMERS, whose grandfather built the house. Ruth lets the mistake stand. Elaine meanwhile, at Graycastle College, rows in a sorority meeting to win the love of John McNeill, her first sweetheart. She plans to go to Worthville.
 Ruth, in love with John, resolves to stay on a while at the old house, pretending to be Elaine.
 John receives a letter from in the Hunter house is a fake. However, he loves her and plans to tell her so. Before he can do so he is called out of town. He leaves a note of explanation to Ruth, but Bertha destroys it.
 John leaves a note of explanation to Ruth, but old Bertha destroys it. Ruth thinks John has gone away in disgust, having found her out. Sleepless, she goes to the library for a book and there finds a half-finished suicide note. She follows the person who has written it to the third floor and discovers him to be DUNCAN HUNTER, Elaine's uncle, who has been unjustly held in an insane asylum. Ruth urges him to live and to prove his sanity legally.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXV

Worthville was proud of its train service. Long ago Silas Hunter had routed his trains through the town and built an imposing depot. One could reach the little city on through trains, without our hardship.

 Stepping from a Pullman coach at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, a beautiful girl, wearing expensively simple travel clothes and an alert expression, tipped the porter and looked around for a taxi. When a driver presented himself, she indicated half a dozen bags at her feet and directed crisply, "The Silas Hunter house on Garfield avenue!" She had had no breakfast and was feeling rather like a martyr who has undertaken a pilgrimage of great hardship for the good of the world.
 Thus Elaine Chalmers arrived for her campaign to win John McNeill's heart.
 When the taxi turned in at the Hunter gateway, the appearance of the place dismayed her. She had not been quite prepared for such unkempt grounds, such a look of neglect and desolation. The old house was peeling paint, its porch was sagging, and its front door—of all things!—was covered with fresh blue paint!
 She got out and the driver piled her bags around her on the porch and left her there. Almost before her knocking had died away, the door opened a crack and a wrinkled old face peered out.
 Elaine exclaimed, "Penny!"
 "Eh?" said old Bertha in surprise.
 "It's me, penny! It's Elaine Chalmers. I wrote you I was coming, and here I am! Come help me get these bags in. Aren't there any other servants here at all?"
 It was the girl's imperious manner that brought memories flooding back to old Bertha Gibbs. Eight years rolled away like mist and she saw and heard again an impatient 12-year-old girl with yellow curls and flashing dark eyes demanding warmer water for her bath.
 The old woman said in perplexity, "Stand still and let me look at you." She drew the girl into a patch of pale autumn sunlight and peered at her intently. "Would your mind speaking again?" she asked then.

 "Not at all," Elaine Chalmers laughed. "I've every intention of speaking. I want to come in and have a bath. I want breakfast. I've just gotten off the train and I feel perfectly rocky." She began to gather up some of the bags and move toward the door with them.
 "Wait, I'll help you," Bertha said. When they had them inside Bertha urged pantingly, "Will you go into the drawing room and sit down? Your room's not ready."
 "Not ready?" Elaine said sharply. "Why not? You knew I was coming, Penny!"
 The old woman was in a quagmire of perplexity. She wondered if she'd fallen asleep in an uncomfortable position and was having a bad dream. It could hardly be true. Two girls in the house at once, both calling themselves Elaine Chalmers! She said aloud, "But—you're the real one! Yes, you're the real one!"
 "Certainly I'm real," replied Elaine, made cross by the queer remarks. "My head couldn't ache like this if I weren't real."
 "I mean," explained Bertha, growing more excited, "that the other one's a pretender and a liar. She's fooled me."
 "What other one?" asked Elaine blankly.
 "The one that came the night of the big rain, claimin' to be you."
 "Claiming to be me? What utter nerve! What did you do with her?"
 "I took her in," Penny said, "and gave her your room."
 "Penny, you old fool! Do you mean you're that simple?"
 "I don't see good any more," Bertha explained in self-defense. "There was your letter sayin' you'd be here for a rest. And there come this girl, almost on the heels of it. She's been here ever since."

and sat down at the big walnut table. While Bertha prepared breakfast Elaine smoked a cigaret and drummed her fingers on the table. The room held her amused attention. Its furnishings were so stiffly Victorian, so blatantly ugly that they intrigued her. And yet the proportions of the great high-ceilinged old room were excellent.

"Wouldn't it be screamingly funny," Elaine thought, "if John McNeill and I should fall in love, really seriously, and decide to live here and do the old house over: I'd bring a decorator out from New York and do the thing right. Modified Victorian. Leave the little marble mantles. But I couldn't bear to stay here more than a couple of months out of a year. . . . I wonder if John would be hard to handle?"

Again there came back to her a surge of memories concerning the good-looking boy next door whom she used to worship. He'd been indifferent and unattainable in those days. It would be heavenly to make a slave of him now and punish him for that 16-year-old indifference. Suddenly it seemed to her to be the only thing worth doing.

Bertha came in with the tray then, serving the meal with pacifying words and gestures, as one would step around a handsome cat that one wished to mollify. Then, when there was no more for her to do, the old servant went out of the room and climbed to the third floor by means of the back stairs. She must warn Mr. Duncan that there was another person in the house to menace him.

To her surprise, Duncan Hunter was lying on his bed asleep, and looking as rested and as undisturbed as he had looked as a boy. Bertha Gibbs closed the door of the room and went down to the kitchen again.

Shows Backbone Despite Fall

For nearly a year doctors tried to correct 19-year-old Rosina Lawrence's spinal injuries and paralyzed left side from a fall she had had. They suggested dancing lessons, to limber her up. It was hard at first but Rosina had backbone, even if it wasn't in perfect physical condition. Today, as a result, this 18-year-old blond is an accomplished dancer and is being groomed for a star role in films.

Discussion of Naval Conference

By Associated Press
LONDON, Sept. 27.—The United States has asked clarification of British views regarding the holding of an international naval conference before the end of the year, as required under the Washington Naval Treaty of 1922.

It is believed that Great Britain will soon launch a new naval construction program, but will keep within the treaty limits.

Officials here denied press reports that Great Britain had advised the United States that it would soon terminate the treaty.

Cyclone Meets Wheeler in Its First Conference Game

Starting Lineup Yet Undecided

Coach Chesty Walker and his traveling squad of 25 men left in cars this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock for the local high school for Wheeler for the stated purpose of "taking" the Wheeler football team and the first conference game of this season.

Coach Walker was undecided at the last minute as to his starting line-up. "I may start several second stringers," he said, "and then I may start the same boys that were started against Paducah, with the exception of Malone."

Malone is out of the line-up with a "knocked-down" shoulder, and it is doubtful if he gets to see service tonight. Davis will probably start in his place.

Light warming-up exercises and a short dummy scrimmage session yesterday afternoon polished off the week's work in preparation for the crucial game. Cool weather yesterday gave the boys the tang of football weather, and they went through the brief practice session with plenty of fire.

With the prediction that the game to be played under the lights tonight may be played in mud, Memphis' chances for a win tumbled considerably. The Memphis team is smaller than the Wheeler crew, and if the field is slippery, the heavier team will have a decided advantage. The Cyclone depends mostly on fast starts and elusive running by the small Memphis backs, and if the ground is wet the small local players will experience difficulty in getting away for the long runs that mark most of their games.

Owing to the fact that Wheeler is almost 100 miles away and the roads are exceptionally rough at this time, the entire Memphis pep squad did not accompany the team in the school busses. However, several members have left in private cars for the game, and indications are that Memphis will have a creditable representation.

Memphis' probable starting line-up includes Estes, center; Bourland and Capt. McAbee, guards; Grimes and Sanders, tackles; Scott and Davis, ends; Adcock and Ferrell, halfbacks; Deason, full, and Powers, quarter.

Card's School Very Popular

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 27.—Charles Barrett, head coach for the St. Louis Cardinals, is not worried about the years ahead of baseball. He examined a crowd of 600 youngsters working out at the Cardinals' baseball school and said: "This is by far the largest baseball school attendance the Cardinal organization has ever had. It should quiet some of the doubt about a declining interest in the national game."

Wellington and Clarendon Clash

WELLINGTON, Sept. 27.—The Wellington Skyrocks and the Clarendon Bronchos tangled tonight on the local field for the annual gridiron clash between the two teams.

Pop rallies and parades yesterday have the local boys keyed to a high tension, and they are ready to enter the game and "shoot the works" against the invading bronchos. Due to the ancient rivalry between the two teams, the game today is expected to attract one of the largest crowds of the season.

FOUNDER OF THE PORTUGUESE EMPIRE

PORTUGAL had confined its ambitions mainly to its own territory, when Prince Henry, son of King John I, instituted a series of explorations and discoveries that converted his country into a powerful empire.

Henry erected an observatory and a school for navigation, and from there he sent his pupils on voyages that resulted in the discovery of the Azores, the Madeira islands, Cape Verde and the coast of Guinea. For half a century after his death, in 1460, his influence brought about further Portuguese expansion in South America and in India. It was through him also that the trade in Negro slaves was begun.

The stamp shown below is one of three types Portugal issued in Prince Henry's honor in 1894, on the 500th anniversary of his birth.

The "midget team" plan for small schools was worked out in Nebraska last year on an experimental basis. The Iowa is believed the first for regular schedule of play.

From the engravings what are known in the newspaper world as "mats" are made. These mats are made by pressing specially prepared cardboard over the engraving reproducing, in reverse, every line and dot of the engraving.

The mats are sent to the Democrat by air mail.

At the Democrat office, the mats are sent to the stereotyping department, where stereotypes are made from them.

A stereotype is made by clamping the mat in casting box, forming a mold, and then pouring hot metal into the mold. This results in an exact duplicate of the original halftone of line engraving from which the mat was made.

Fall Trade Is Making Up For Lost Time

BABSON PARK, Mass., Sept. 27.—Preliminary reports of September trade now coming to my office are distinctly encouraging. Average sales for the country as a whole are running ten per cent ahead of last September with the best reports coming from the West and the Pacific Coast. In all sections, the backbone of this improvement is rural trade.

Sept., Trade At Recovery High?

As every reader realizes, retail trade is the acid test of business improvement. The fact that local merchants are hiring more clerks and buying more delivery wagons is concrete evidence that business is recovering. That is why the volume of sales should be followed closely, not just by merchandizing people, but by all business men.

Sales so far this year have averaged four per cent above a year ago. This improvement would have been much more striking if it had not been for the poor spring season and the let-down in late August. As I have said above, reports for September now show that retail trade is making up for lost time. I anticipate that the index figure for September will be around 82 or 83. If this estimate proves correct, dollar sales for September will be the best for any month during the recovery and the highest since November, 1931!

Price Rise First In Months

An interesting side-light on these figures is the fact that the actual number of sales has shown an even more striking improvement over a year ago than the dollar volume. This is due, of course, to the drop in retail prices. Most readers sadly recall how quickly the great bargains which existed in 1932 and 1933 disappeared when the NRA Blue Eagle was hatched. Retail prices—especially apparel—jumped thirty per cent within a year. The high point was reached in March, 1934 and since then they have been gradually falling. Last month, however, sales tags were marked up again, but even so prices are still 2.3 per cent below August of last year. Therefore, the three per cent August gain in dollar sales really represents a five per cent rise in the number of articles sold.

The above remarks do not apply to food. Every householder knows that food prices have gone on a rampage in the last eighteen months. They are now at the highest point in five years and ten to fifteen per cent above a year ago! Meats—especially beef and pork—flour, eggs, and a few fruits have become relatively expensive. This has hurt grocery and meat stores for food sales are barely equalling those of a year ago. Alert retailers, however, are maintaining their volume by promoting the substitution of more reasonably priced foods such as fish and certain vegetables in place of meats.

Country Stores Doing Business

The general upping of food prices, plus good crops, is naturally boosting the income of the average United States farmer. This year he will probably receive more than $1,000 cash income, which represents about $50 more than he took in last year. The tremendous gain in rural retail trade is sound evidence of recovery on the farm. Mail order concerns, the backbone of whose business is farm population, report gains in sales ranging up to twenty per cent over last year. Furthermore, business in country stores is running twenty to thirty per cent higher than last year and promises to make a new recovery high in September.

The fine showing in rural areas is a good answer to the question: "Where are the best sales territories at the present time?" On my September map for sales managers, there are thirteen "gold" or good sales states. With the exception of Michigan and Delaware, these are all in the farm sections—the West, South, Southwest, and Far West. Of the five "blue" or poor sales states today, but two are farm states. Last September there were only eight "gold" states but there were nine "blue" states on the "Sales" map. Below is a sample group of cities where sales are good today. In all there are sixty-six good cities this month compared with fifty a year ago:

Hartford, Charleston, Oklahoma City, Wilmington, Peoria, Phoenix, Lexington, Green Bay, Great Falls, Charlotte, Little Rock, Santa Barbara, Raleigh, Tulsa, and San Diego.

Better Collections Healthy Sign

For a long time retail trade has lagged behind the revival in general business. The reason is that people have been paying off their old debts before contracting new bills. For instance, this month's credit survey of a group of nearly one hundred cities reveals collections slow in only six and good in thirty compared with slow in twenty-five and good in only eleven last September. This is very encouraging for a thorough credit adjustment is a necessary forerunner of any healthy trade revival.

At this point I suppose readers are asking: "Will the present trade pick-up continue?" There are two angles to this question:

1. People must have more money to buy more goods. I have already said that farm income this year will be substantially higher than in 1934 while the pay envelopes of industrial workers are fattening every day as a result of the current business up-turn.

2. People must have confidence in the future to buy more goods. My Office recently conducted—in the interests of clients—a survey on this specific point, among a thousand banks. The results were distinctly encouraging and indicate that—whether right or wrong—people from Presque Isle to San Diego and from Vancouver to St. Augustine are taking a far more optimistic outlook on business.

The Babson chart is also forecasting a good Christmas season—it now registers twenty per cent above last September and is only eighteen per cent below normal. Copyright — 1935 — Publishers Financial Bureau.

No Liquor in Drug Stores

AUSTIN, Sept. 27.—The Senate this afternoon finally passed the bill defining the open saloon, to restrict liquor sales to unbroken packages.

AUSTIN, Sept. 27.—The House this afternoon reversed itself and instructed the state affairs committee to remove the tax section from the bill providing old-age pensions. This action clears the way for passage of the bill, with revenue to be raised later in a separate measure.

AUSTIN, Sept. 27.—Senate wet leaders demanded an amendment to the anti-saloon bill prohibiting the sale of liquor by drug stores.

Senator W. K. Hopkins, of Gonzales, sponsor of the license system bill, proposed the ban against the sale of liquor in places where other medicated compounds or carbonated water was disposed. "It will plug up the loop-hole of camouflaged drug stores," he said, "and prohibit persons from buying in such places." The dry group questioned the practicability of the amendment.

The perfected substitute bill, which Senator Clint Small, of Amarillo, and others in the dry group offered, was adopted. It lengthened the definition of a saloon from 42 to 103 words, and was aimed at "drug store crowd," Small said.

Goes Nudist
in 'Fair Way

A good sport, but an awful flop as a golfer, was this luckless lady, and she's paying the penalty. One after another her garments came off and fortunately she found this barrel at the sixth hole. She was one of the luckless duffers in the strip tourney that ended the women's season at the Cadillac, Mich.,
country club.

their way to the ranch. To reach the ranch one must leave the highway and travel four miles over a rough dirt road. There are no markers but that doesn't deter the curious—and neither do markers

"not open to the public" turn them back.

Sightseers come at all time of the day. Many of them do not knock, they just open the front door of the big white ranch house and walk in.

"Many are the times I've come downstairs to find people I had never seen before walking around the house, looking it over," Mrs.
McSpadden said.

"They all want to see the room
Will was born in, so I show them that first," she said. "Then I always explain to them that none of the furniture was Will's, that all of the furniture that was here when he lived here is gone. Then, we walk into a bedroom, they'll say, 'Oh that's Will's' Rogers' bed, isn't it?'"

Then, too, some of the curious yield to an impulse to take something as a memento of the trip.
The chief loss has been stones in the yard. Several of the irons used in putting the Rogers brand on cattle have disappeared. Nothing of importance, however, has been missed from the house.

The McSpaddens accept it all philosophically. After all, their beloved Will did belong to the public they reason, and all comers—they come from all over the nation—are given a gracious reception.

The McSpaddens are non-committal on the proposal to make a shrine of the ranch house in memory of the noted humorist who was killed last month in a plane crash in Alaska.

Volley Ball Practice Is Now In Progress

The Estelline Cubbies have been strengthened by the presence of several excellent prospects from schools served by the bus routes. Partial practice started last week. With Nadine Berryman, Hortense Lawrence, Nettie Faye Baccus and Eloise Elliot back from last year's team, only a few team places will be filled from the large group of likely aspirants—that is if these four can hold their places against some of the others. Among those showing improvement over last year's work can be found Winifred Fortwood, Annie Wise, Lois Marcus, Jimmie Bell, Juanita Phillips, Ethel Mae Stinson, Mary Lillian Moore and Elizabeth Eddleman. New girls include showing us well in practice include Doris Stewart, Mary Nell Davis, Guentz King, Wilma White and Eldein Morehead.

Improvements for Hereford Schools

HEREFORD, Sept. 27.—The Hereford school board has called an election for Oct. 7 on a $32,000 bond issue, which if approved, will secure a PWA loan for school

Football Squad In Go With Flomont

The local eleven were just a little proud to be superior to the Flomont squad when they downed the "Coyboys" with a 13-0 score. During the first quarter neither team made an headway, but the local team gained ground in the second quarter when Leatherwood carried the ball over the line for a touchdown. However, the try for the extra point was a failure. Leatherwood, again in the third quarter, got away from the Coyboys and dashed over the goal line and this time the try for the extra point was successful. All members of the team showed some excellent blocking and tackling. Even this time on however, the ball exchanged sides often, resulting in neither team gaining much ground until the whistle blew. Flomont had a commendable pep squad which showed fine school spirit and plenty of pep. Even though the Estelline pep squad is not fully organized and their uniforms are not yet complete, a majority of the girls were present at the game and showed excellent co-operation with the local squad.

Mass Assembly Of School Held

On Tuesday afternoon the entire school met in the auditorium for a varied program. The entire group sang "The Eyes of Texas" and then the Grade School children sang "In a Little Gypsy Tea-room". Immediately following, the third grade presented a short play. The Choral Club sang and they the pep squad gave a few snappy yells. The coach then gave a short talk concerning the game with Quitaque next Friday, after which the school body sang "You've Got to Be a Football Hero". Announcement was made by Mr. Penick about the game Friday October 4, between Estelline and Memphis "B" teams.

CHORAL CLUB IS NEW ACTIVITY

A new activity to be added in the school this year is a high school choral club for girls. The club is to be directed by Mrs. Alton Carr. The club had its first regular meeting on September 19, at which time officers were elected as follows:

Marjetta Ewing, president; Jimmie Fern Bell, vice-president; Doris Mae Denson, secretary; Bertha Anne Kellison, reporter.

Much interest was shown in the club when about thirty girls offered their names to be included. The club is expecting to do some real work this year using a variety of themes such as classical, religious, and popular songs. Their present objective is to work up an opera to be presented for the general public.

Since this is a new activity, it is going to be necessary for every member to co-operate with the instructor as well as with each other. The club is to be financed by the monthly payment of dues by each member. The days for regular meeting have not been definitely decided upon, but the club will probably meet twice each week.

Stag Bar Is Now Open on North 5th

The Stag Bar, Memphis, beer tavern, is now open in the building just north of the Memphis Hotel, on North Fifth Street, and is specializing in the hamburgers which the manager, Mr. Meringo, made famous at a former location.

The building has been completely remodeled inside and all the fixtures are new. The bar and back bar were built by local carpenters and are very attractive.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS ARE ELECTED

On September 17, the Senior Class had their first class meeting and elected their officers for the year 35-36. Vernon Leatherwood was elected president, Leon Townsend—Secretary-Treasurer, Marjetta Ewing—Editor-in-Chief of the Growl, Sidney Landers—Assistant Editor, and Hortense Lawrence—Senior reporter. Mr. Jo Allen Ballard was selected for Sponsor.

Later in the day the class met with a representative from the Star Engraving company and placed the orders for the Senior rings. The rings are due to arrive in about six weeks.

Junior Class Organization
 The Junior class met Tuesday September 17, and the following officers were elected:

James Cooper, president; Morris Leary, vice-president; Virginia Bumpas, secretary-treasurer; Doris Mae Denson, reporter; and Mr. Walter Labay, sponsor.

During this class meeting a representative of the Star engraving Company met with the group, and the girls ordered wristlets and the boys decided to get belt buckles.

The class motto is "It is better to give than to get"; their colors are Orchid and White; their flower is the Sweet Pea, but no class song was selected.

 The Sophomore Class organization was held last week with the following officers:

 Wilma White, Hinton, vice-president; Moore, secretary; Sims, reporter; Bailey, sponsor.

Freshmen Class Officers for this year are:
 Mary Margaret, Eugene, Winifred, Buck Ewen, Curtiss.

F. F. A. Officers
 A Future Farmers chapter was organized, with thirty-one members. In this meeting was elected President chapter without a committee to be in the meeting to work. Other officers:

L. V. Bruce, Berryman, Treasurer; Leatherwood, Reporter; Rapp, Watch Dog; Bay, Adviser.

 I'm not recommending washday. The point emphasized the cuts of meat, taught us they could be when economy is so unfortunately the lesson comes opportunity, for there still

Streak Is One of Them
 I have never tried a flank is hot for baking put in ought to have room to expand. Bind securely with a soft cord, dredge with flour and bake two hours in a moderate oven.

To make the stuffing, mix 1 teaspoon salt, onion and pepper with bread crumbs, melt the fat in the hot water and pour over crumbs. Cover and let stand five or ten minutes. Mix lightly with a fork, keeping the stuffing light. The mixture should be just moist enough to hold together but not sticky or pasty.

Instead of using the stuffing, spread the meat with the paste as in the preceding recipe. Cut meat to fit casserole. Oil casserole well with bacon fat. If the steak is cut in three pieces, put one-third of a mixture of vegetables in the casserole, then a layer of meat and so on until all is used. Add boiling water, about 1 cup, to five cups of vegetables, cover closely and bake an hour and one-half in the morning and one hour at dinner time. Serve from casserole.

The long cooking and the vinegar break down the tough tissues of the meat and leave it very palatable and nourishing.

A good combination of vegetables is 1 to 2 cups diced carrot, 2 cups diced potatoes, 1-2 cup dried turnip, and one large onion. These make a very savory dish with the meat.

 in the accident was seen by Mrs. D. T. Tucker, Newlin who brought the injured man into Memphis to the Clark Hospital, and by several passers-by. It was reported that "Taylor" was in a dazed condition following the wreck and was taken into Childress by a passing motorist.

Dr. R. E. Clark, examining physician, stated this morning that Mayfield has a "severely skinned head" and has been bleeding "from the right external auditory canal." An X-ray failed to show any fracture of the skull or any broken bones. The injured man was unconscious when brought to Memphis, and was in a semi-conscious state today.

Mayfield is bookkeeper for the R. C. Lewis Tire Company of Shamrock and had been in Memphis checking up on some of the company's accounts here. He was returning to Shamrock by way

Appointing Parole Boards

AUSTIN, Texas, September 27, 1935—Governor James V. Allred announced today that parole boards had been approved in the first eight counties in Texas through the cooperation of district governors and president of local service clubs.

These county parole boards are to be charged with the community service responsibility of rehabilitating paroled or pardoned criminals and making periodical reports to the Governor.

In the past, convicts out of the penitentiary on parole or pardon have been "on their own" and the inclination to return to a life of crime has been ever present. Governor Allred believes that with responsible citizens in each community ready to aid these unfortunate men that the constructive and worthwhile purpose of making honest, law-abiding citizens of them can be accomplished.

It is the Governor's hope that service clubs throughout the State of Texas will respond immediately to the call for board nominations.

Governor Allred originated the idea of county parole boards as a means to aid the pardoned or paroled prisoner get a foothold on
