District Court Is Opened For Fall Term Here Monday

Grand Jury Returns Nine Indictments After Three-Session Forepart of Week

The fall term of the Hall County District Court was opened Monday morning with Judge A. S. Moss presiding. Other court officials were District Attorney John M. Deaver, District Clerk Mrs. Isabell Cypert, court reporter H. B. Hill Jr., Sheriff Lindsey Hill, Deputy W. C. Anderson and J. Y. Snow, bailiffs.

After a three-day session, the grand jury, composed of J. F. Mann, Alfred Hutcherson, Grover Moss, G. H. Hattenbach, Albert Meacham, John Fuston, Solon Owens, J. B. Reed, George C. Dickson, J. E. Masterson, P. O. Young, and J. O. Adams, foreman, returned 9 indictments, including 6 felonies and 3 misdemeanors.

In his charge to the grand jury Judge Moss stressed the point that grand jurors are officers of the court just as much as any of the other officers, and that the law enforcement of the county depends on their action as grand jurors.

"It is your duty," he said, "to investigate every law violation, whether a misdemeanor or felony, and where evidence warrants, return an indictment regardless of whether it is against a private citizen or an officer of the district court or any other court."

Judge Moss stressed the value of economy, but stated that if a law violation comes before the grand jurors they should return an indictment without considering the few dollars it might cost, for "poor law enforcement is the most expensive after all," he said. He explained that the grand jury is the best body for getting evidence, and each juror representing a different section of the county should individually report violations, and also should call in justices of peace and constables and all other officers of the county to get their information.

Investigation of felonies and misdemeanors, and especially liquor violations and gaming, were stressed in the closing of the charge to the grand jury.

Judge Moss called for the old civil docket for setting cases following the emancipation of the

SURVEY ON DAM SITE REPORTED PROGRESSING

Four Survey Crews Are In Field; Seven Local Men Working

The work of surveying the Prairie Dog Town Fork of Red River and the area surrounding is between 30 and 40 per cent complete, according to announcement issued this week from the surveyor's office here.

Two transit parties and two level parties are in the field each working day, according to the announcement, and are pushing their work through as fast as possible. Eighteen men from the Little Rock, Ark., office of the War Department are located in Memphis to carry on this work and are being assisted by seven local men.

Daily reports on the progress of the survey are made to the army engineer headquarters at Little Rock, giving in detail the progress of the work as well as the results of each day's surveying.

Due to recent rains on the water-shed of the stream, the river was flowing the forepart of the week. This caused some delay in the work, but unless the water rises higher than reported Tuesday of this week, the delay in the surveying will be slight.

Firemen Elect New Officers to Fill Vacancies Monday

Vote to Observe Regulations Of Department, Fifteen Firemen Are Present

At a meeting of the Memphis Volunteer Fire Department held Monday evening at the City Hall, Tom Wood was named first assistant chief of the department, succeeding Ellis Veteto, who resigned to accept the position of driver of the company's truck. In the same election Cecil Grimes was elected as second assistant chief, succeeding J. E. "Monk" Harper, also resigned.

The meeting was presided over by Chief Alvin Massey and routine business matters of the company were brought before the body. The group voted for a stricter observance of the constitution and by-laws of the department.

Fifteen firemen were present at the meeting Tuesday night, including Lloyd Ward, Harry Aspren, Dale Hill, Albert Crump, C. B. Hume, John Dennis, Jim Henson, Cecil Grimes, J. D. Sims, Tom Wood, Lester Grimes, Ellis Veteto, Ed McCrary, W. V. Coursey and R. A. Massey.

Initial organization plans were made Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock for a Rural Electrification project in Hall County when thirty farmers representing twelve communities in the county met in the county court room to discuss ways and means of securing electric service for the rural districts. Communities represented were Parnell, Brice, Lesley, Eli, Plaska, Salisbury, Newlin, Hulver, Deep Lake, Estelline and Webster.

Several weeks ago the project was started by the organization of a temporary pre-allotment committee made up of Doyle Hall, Harold Hodges, Ed Foster, Jack Lamb and T. E. Lenoir all of the Plaska community, who, with R. E. L. Pattillo, Hall County agent, secured information from the government agencies concerning REA projects. J. O. Fitzjarrald, attorney, assisted the group in studying the plans and proposals to be presented before last Tuesday's meeting.

Memphis, Parnell Will be in Contest

The first game of the final play-off series of the Hall County Baseball League will be played at Cross Roads Sunday between Memphis and Parnell, according to Jack Boone, president of the league.

The team winning two out of three games will be the champion team of the league this year, and the contest beginning Sunday promises to be a hard-fought battle from start to finish.

Parnell eliminated Cross Roads last Sunday in an 11-inning game by a score of 4 to 1. At the end of the tenth inning the teams had a tally each, and in the eleventh inning, due to two errors and four hits Parnell ran in three scores. The Cross Roads players failed to score during their time at bat.

At a discussion of the various phases of the proposal at Tuesday's meeting, it was pointed out that the REA projects had, as a minimum, 100 miles of rural line with not less than an average of 3 subscribers to the mile. The membership fee is only $5

Work Progressing Rapidly At Stadium

Work toward completing the new Cyclone stadium is progressing rapidly this week as WPA workmen are building forms preparatory to pouring concrete for the seats. During the past week workmen have leveled the ground for the football playing field and have been moving fences and rebuilding them at the boundary lines of the stadium property.

According to Sam Pressley, foreman of the construction crews, the stadium will be completed for the first home game of the Cyclone team with Lakeview here September 30.

SHELTER-BELT MEETINGS WILL BE HELD IN HALL COUNTY COMMUNITIES

At a general mass meeting of Hall County landowners and tenant farmers held Tuesday evening at the City Hall, plans were discussed for shelter-belt projects in the county. Edgar H. Kemp of Childress, government representative of the shelter-belt project in this portion of the state, led the discussion.

As a result of this meeting similar mass meetings are being planned in all of the Hall County communities at which time the details of the shelter-belt work will be discussed and farmers will be signed up under the project. The first of the community meetings was announced for Thursday night, September 15, in the Plaska community.

According to the discussion Tuesday night, application for a shelter-belt must be made to the United States Department of Agriculture through the Forest Service. The application must contain a description of the land which is to be protected by the project and the type of belt desired.

Mr. Kemp, in explaining the procedure in securing a shelter belt for the individual farmer, stated that signing and making application for the project in no way created an obligation, but was merely an expression of interest in securing this method of protection from high winds and dust. The only obligation that the farmer is under for a shelter-belt project on his land is to give the necessary property for the construction of the belt and to cultivate it and care for the young trees during the growing period.

It is estimated, according to government figures, that 90,000 trees are used in the planting of a belt one mile long. These trees are planted from hardy stock, grown in government nurseries, from seeds taken from trees already growing in this portion of the state. This procedure, Mr. Kemp pointed out, will insure a protective belt with most of the trees surviving the transplanting.

The Hall County shelter-belt movement is sponsored by the Memphis Chamber of Commerce and the Tuesday night meeting was held on call of the local chamber officials.

Although the Forest Service plans to carry the shelter-belt project into all parts of Hall County and into Donley County this year, the only meeting announced for a discussion of the matter was the meeting scheduled for Plaska Thursday night of next week.

A group of Childress County people, interested in the movement, accompanied Mr. Kemp to Memphis Tuesday and were in attendance at the meeting.

Amarillo Preacher Is Rotary Speaker

Rev. J. Howard Williams, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Amarillo, was guest speaker at Rotary luncheon Tuesday. He told how service clubs are helping to bring about a better understanding between individuals and between nations.

If one knows an individual's religion he can understand him better, and if one knows a nation's religion he can understand that nation better, the speaker stated. He also told how China has more educated people than the United States, not in percentage but in number of people. But China's religion is grounded in the superstitions of ages ago, and this religion of the ancestors keeps that country from developing its great resources. India has a similar condition, and will never have a national life until her inherited tendencies are overcome.

The secret of America's greatness is not due to superiority of mind and natural resources, the speaker said, but it is due primarily to the predominant religion of America, which was established and has grown with the Bible open, and has had for its purpose unselfishness, integrity, purity, honesty, and outstanding home, community and church life.

RIVER-MINDED TEXAS

UP UNTIL recently rivers, politics and music have all kept the even tenor of their ways, each conflicting with the other as little as possible. Song writers wrote pretty ditties about rivers, including "the sleepy Rio Grande," and "moonlight on the Colorado . . ." and "ole man river," and the rivers didn't mind, but this year music switched over to politics to play an important part in the unprecedented nomination of a Texan for governor without the necessity of a run-off primary; and politics, as if slighted in the matter, has turned to rivers.

Congressmen, representatives, senators and all other public servants are endorsing dams to be built to impound water for power purposes, flood control, irrigation, water supplies and in a few cases, just for fishing purposes. Corps of government engineers are surveying the country-side in numerous localities, including our own Hall County, for proposed dams and there's a wild scramble in political circles for federal funds for the construction of dams.

The advent of music into politics has little if any importance on the lives and welfare of the people of the country with the exception of an interesting sidelight on an otherwise uninteresting political campaign. But politics' interest in rivers is far more important and if the proposals for the projected dams go through, Texas will benefit immeasurably and in many ways.

On the Colorado River, floods did untold damage this year, taking lives, destroying property and crops. Our own upper Red River flooded in the Spring and caused heavy damage. During highwater seasons the lower Red River whips its snake-like coils through the fertile farming belts of north Central Texas and Southern Oklahoma to endanger life and property. So proposed dams in Briscoe County and Grayson County are planned to stop the ravages of Red River while plans are being made to improve Buchanan Dam to prevent further damage by the Colorado.

The result of music on rivers is largely sentimental. The result of music on politics and politics on rivers would hardly soothe the love-orn, but so far has been highly effective.

THE SEASON CHANGES

ALTHOUGH the thermometer continues to hit in the upper brackets every day of the week, the calendar announces that it's September and Fall is officially here. And Fall means more than just another season of the year to Memphis and Hall County. During the days and weeks that mark its duration the annual cotton crop will be harvested and ginned and for the most part, its attendant flow of cash will be spent right here within the confines of our own county.

During the weeks to come the stimulant that cotton money brings to this section will cause business to enjoy an upturn, stores will thrive and business will cause the merry ringing of the cash register to be heard again in the land. Merchants of Memphis are invited to utilize the facilities of Hall County's predominant advertising medium, The Democrat, to offer their stocks for sale during these Fall days when business will be revived. Readers of The Democrat, whose number equals the number of families in the county, follow the columns and pages of this publication each issue for advertisements and for news. It is through a medium of this kind, whose stability and efficiency has been tried and tested for nearly a half-century, that lasting beneficial results can be expected.

All of which reminds us of the story of Mark Twain's adventure into the field of the Fourth Estate. During the process of printing one of the famed author's issues a spider was caught in the press and transferred to the paper. The subscriber who eventually received the copy with the remains of the spider embedded in the print, called Mark Twain's attention to the fact in a letter. In replying, Twain apologized profusely for the mishap and explained that the unfortunate spider's untimely demise came about in an effort to read the paper to discover what merchant was not advertising so he could spin his web across that businessman's door and be domiciled for many months without disturbance.

The moral to this story, if it has one, is: Running a business without advertising is like winking in the dark. You know what you are doing, but no one else does.

Money in the Bank

By T. C. RICHARDSON, Secretary
 Breeder-Feeder Association

"Feed in the silo is like money in the bank—safe as long as you leave it there and subject to checking out whenever you need it." That's what thousands of trench silo users will tell you after a year's experience. There are now known to be about 11,000 of these "money in the bank" ditches in Texas and probably that many more in the four adjoining states, for which figures are not available at the moment. They range in size from 6,000 tons capacity down to those just large enough to feed one or two family milk cows, the tiny ditch just as efficient for its purpose as the huge canyons holding feed for thousands of beef steers.

The Southwest probably has the greatest crop of feed, both grain and roughage, in history. Many farmers who diverted land from cotton or wheat into other crops, will have more feed than the livestock now on their farms can use in one season. If stored above ground as dry forage its palatability and feeding value gradually deteriorates, but if properly stored in a trench silo it will be as good ten years from now—if it should be that long before the next drought or hard winter—as it is a month after filling the silo.

The trench silo can be constructed with little or no cash outlay. Any dirt-moving tool from a spade to a drag-line will do the work. It can be dug in a hillside or on the level, any length, depth or width to suit the conditions and the needs of the owner. If rock is too close to the surface or ground water too high for the desired depth, the dirt excavated can be piled up to raise the walls above the ground level, and increase the depth of the trench sufficiently to insure good packing of the ensilage, which is essential to proper curing and keeping of the material.

Any crop can be ensiled, even after the grain is mature and the stalks partially dried out. The ideal condition of course is while stalks and foliage are still green and succulent, but if drought or frost gets in its work before the crop can be ensiled, adding water will supply the deficiency of moisture and make ensilage of dry, or partially dry, material.

Corn, sweet sorgho and grain sorghums carry sufficient sugars and easily convertible starches to insure the fermenting process which turns the material into ensilage. Sudan grass and the legumes require the addition of some fermenting material, and black strap molasses, a few gallons to the ton of ensilage, will do the job.

Crops may be successfully ensiled in whole stalks or an ensilage cutter may be used. In either case success or failure depends on thorough packing in order to exclude air pockets. It is easier to properly pack cut ensilage than stalks, and it is easier to feed out, but the lack of a cutter has not prevented hundreds of farmers from making and using whole-stalk ensilage. Those who have not had previous experience in storing ensilage should consult their neighbor who has or the county agent, who will supply detailed information in person or by bulletin.

Ensilage is more digestible than dry forage, hence an acre of feed in the silo is worth more as feed than the same acre cured dry. There is also less waste, and the acre of feed will go farther in the silo. It furnishes succulent feed when green pastures are not available, and is therefore relished by all livestock. It keeps the digestive apparatus of cattle and sheep functioning better, they get more nourishment from dry grain feed, and therefore produce more milk or weight for each pound of expensive grain they eat.

No farm, even if it has only a family milk cow and the work-

Farm Tenants May Apply for Loans to Purchase Farms

Application Must be Made Before October 1, States Rural Supervisor Land

Application from farmers in Hall County for loans with which to purchase farms under the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Purchase Act program will be received from now until October 1, Bob Land, county rural rehabilitation supervisor, announced today upon his return from Amarillo, where he attended a two-day school of instruction.

Also attending from this county were Jim Eudy, Jess F. Mann and Robert Hanvey, county committeemen, recently appointed by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, to check applications in this county.

All farm tenants, sharecroppers, farm laborers, or others who obtain or recently have obtained most of their income from farm-stock, can afford to do without a trench silo. One year's use will pay for it, and if not needed this winter, think what it would mean to have "money in the bank" when the next drought hits!

ing, may make applications for one of several loans to be made in this county, Mr. Land said.

It was explained that preference for these loans will be given to married persons or persons with dependent families; to persons able to make a down payment; or to persons who own livestock and equipment necessary to carry on farming operations.

Applicants who will receive loans will be given a wide choice in selecting the farms they want to buy. The price of the property, however, must be in keeping with its value, as determined by the county committee and the FSA. Preference will be given to farms needing a minimum outlay for repairs and improvements. However, loans will be large enough to cover building repairs and other farm improvements.

The county supervisor said the Farm Security Administration will assist applicants who receive loans in developing sound farm and home management plans, preparing operating budgets, and maintaining business like records.

Loans will be made for a 40-year period at three per cent interest. Annual payments of 4.3 per cent of the sum borrowed will cover both interest and principal.

All farmers in Hall County interested in this program are urged to contact Mr. Land at his office in the Hall County Bank building at their earliest convenience and obtain application blanks.

Fire Boys and City Officials Feast at Gin

Memphis Co-Op Society Is Host to Fire Boys In Appreciation of Good Work

Members of the Memphis Fire Department and City Council were guests of the officials of the Farmers Co-Operative Society No. 1 at the company's gin plant on Tuesday evening, where they were treated to a bountiful repast consisting of roast or barbecued beef and all the accessories that go with such a feed.

C. F. Stout, secretary of the company, and Horace J. DuVall, manager, and a number of the gin crew members played hosts and saw that everything went off to the satisfaction of all present.

Mr. Stout welcomed the visitors, and stated that the feed was given in appreciation of the work done by the fire department several weeks ago in extinguishing a fire in the burr piles near the gin. He also said he was a member of the first fire department of Memphis a number of years ago when the hose cart was just a two-wheel affair and had to be pulled by hand.

The mayor and the fire chief, Alvin Massey, made responses to the welcome, and led the parade to the food-laden tables.

Following the feast, an inspection of the gin machinery was made. The company has lately installed an after cleaner which is claimed to take all trash and foreign matter out of bollie cotton and make it look like picked cotton. This after cleaner is the first installed in Hall County, the gin officials stated.

per subscriber and in the event that the project for some reason or other does not go through, the pro rata share of this fee will be returned. It was pointed out that this fee was all the cost attendant to the organization and that no matter how many miles of line are hung or how many subscribers are secured in the project, the initial fee will not be raised.

Individual requirements include whatever wiring that each subscriber cares to do on his own property and right-of-way privileges on property lines and section lines where the REA power-line meets his property.

It was pointed out that the power furnished by the REA projects may be used for schools, churches and commercial establishments in the communities through which the lines pass as well as for farm lighting and power. Unless demand is great enough, the power placed over REA lines can be used only for lighting and household appliances operation, including cream separators, electric refrigerators, radios, irons, small feed mills, and other mechanical devices operated by fractional horse-power motors. Gin plants and other heavy machinery cannot be operated on REA lines unless provisions are made in the contract for such heavy loads.

Following the organization meeting of the board of directors next Tuesday and the securing of a charter for the project, right-of-way privileges and subscribers will be secured from maps and charts made by REA engineers who will make a county-wide survey.

Plans Made For First Game of Year

Preparations are being made by Coach Frank Hubbell and the Memphis High School Cyclone football team for the first game of the season with McLean, to be played there Friday, September 16.

Tuesday night of next week the team will be issued 24 new gold and black uniforms and the season's first work-out under the lights at Cyclone Stadium will be held, in preparation for the opening game.

The tilt with McLean is a non-conference game since district 3B was divided into a south half and a north half. In the south half of district 3B, Lakeview, Clarendon, Memphis and Wellington will decide which team meets the winner of the north half of 3B, the play-off game to be played by November 11.

The Cyclone team is out 38 strong this year centered around a nucleus of Boyce Bruce at right tackle, Captain Pounds at quarterback, Robertson at fullback and Engene Lindsey at right half. According to observers, prospects for numbers and weights are good.

CHURCHES

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The pastor's message Sunday morning will be on the subject, "Witnesses" taken from Acts 1 and the message in the evening will be on the subject "Visions and Promises" from Isaiah 6. We believe that these are timely subjects for our church at this time and we shall be happy to welcome you to the services.

The Sunday school and B. T. U. are taking on new life with the opening of school and we are hoping that you will find your place in these organizations and be the assistance that the Lord wants you to be. You should make a place in your program for the Wednesday evening services as well. Remember that Wednesday evening belongs to the church.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The sermon subject for Sunday morning will be, "The Christian Faces New Frontiers." It may surprise most of us to discover that Jesus made frequent use of the word "new." He said he came

LUMBERMAN MOVES HERE FROM HOLLIS, OKLA.

Marlow Dill of Hollis, Okla., came last week to accept a position with the J. C. Woodbridge Lumber Co. at this place. He is an experienced lumberman, having been with the Cicero Smith Co. at Hollis for several years.

Mr. Dill bought a residence at 510 South 9th street and moved his family here last week.

to bring a new commandment, John 13:34; He spent his life working on a new covenant, Mark 14:24; He placed great value on new treasures, Matthew 13:52.

Jesus founded a movement which should be made up of people who both expect and are unafraid of new happenings. The criers for "the good old days" are all heretics. The Christian who is genuine accepts the conditions of his own day, "warts and all" and he tries to do a good job of living in the present.

Our services begin at 10 a. m. for Sunday School and 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. for church. Prayer meeting is at 7:45 on Wednesday evenings. Christian Endeavor 6:30 Sunday.
