Students To Issue Annual.

Three volumes of the "Sandstorm," the Memphis High School annual, have been issued. The annual has now become a permanent part of the school and the fourth volume will be issued by the student body this year. The preceding volumes have been a credit to the school, but this year's prospects for an annual loom bigger and brighter than ever.

During the assembly period Monday morning, Supt. Deen put the matter of the annual before the Junior and Senior High School students. He stressed the fact that the co-operation of all the classes was necessary to make the annual a success. The entire High School pledged themselves to support the Senior Class in putting out the annual, and were very enthusiastic over the prospects. While the Seniors at their first meeting expressed themselves to be unanimously in favor of an annual.

At the close of school last year, the Junior Class met and, with the help of the faculty nominations, elected Chauncey Thompson as editor-in-chief of this year's annual, and Clifford Lemons as business manager. At a recent class meeting of the Seniors, the staff was completed. The staff is composed of the following students: Chauncey Thompson, Editor-in-chief; Helen Madden, Assistant Editor; Clifford Lemons, Business Manager; Henry Goodpasture, Assistant Business Manager; Della Gober, Girls Athletic Director; Rudge Harle, Boys Athletic Director; Thelma Walker, Literary Editor; Lois Pressley, Art Editor; George Broome, Joke Editor; Ruby McCanne, Society Editor.

Prospects for a good annual this year are very good. The staff is composed of interested and business-like students, who will do their best to make the annual a success. The annual will be entered in the state contest held for High Schools. Work will begin at once, and the "Sandstorm" will be ready in the early Spring.

"Pep Squad" Organized.

Friday's game resulted in a manifestation of more school spirit than has ever been shown at a local football game before. It seemed as if each of the large representation of the student body felt the lure of the gridiron and responded to the call by lusty yells of approval and encouragement to our braves on the field.

The High School pep squad, which was organized the past week, must be given credit to a large extent for the pep and enthusiasm aroused among the "rooters."

The squad is composed of twenty-two enthusiastic boys and girls who are 100 per cent loyal to the Black and Gold. A number of yell practice and pep meetings were held the past week and the gang was in a high state of preparation for Friday's game.

The squad plans to be an agent by which the entire student body may be brought to every game with their school spirit aroused. If possible, they intend to make all the trips with the team and back them with their boosting.

Oklahoma Champs Defeated.

October 5, is a day that will long be remembered by Memphis Hi. It was a gala day for the Cyclone, for on that day the football champions of Oklahoma for 1922 went down in defeat before our team by a score of 28 to 0. This fact is even more notable when we remember that a great percentage of the Hollis Tigers are the same players that composed the undefeated squad.

The game was played on our field, refereed by Joe Marsh from Oklahoma. The Tigers were a hefty bunch, and put up the best fight of any opponent the Cyclone has ever met. They gave our team a hard run for the score. The teams were evenly matched, and the Cyclone won only by hard, clean fighting. In this game, our team displayed football ability that is seldom surpassed by colleges.

Weather Reports.

Saturday, September 29—Local showers. Cyclone is reported to have swept Hedley Hi from her feet, having left the field in a "winded" condition, "blowing" very hard.

Friday, October 5—Hollis, Oklahoma, feels the affect of a terrific Cyclone in Memphis, Texas. A threatening sandstorm is said to have hovered near the scene of action.

Forecast—Dust clouds are seen early this week hanging over the field until dusk almost every afternoon. Authorities say that if these disturbances continue throughout the week we may expect unprecedented disaster to those who may be in the path of the Cyclone, predicted Friday.

Victory Dance.

The boys and girls of Memphis Hi were so full of enthusiasm Friday, after the Cyclone had swept Hollis from the field, that an informal dance was arranged for that night in order to crown the end of a perfect day. Everyone felt as if this was one of the big days in the history of the school, and since our boys had worked so hard and performed so beautifully, they were certainly due something in return.

A party was not decided on until a late hour and as there could be no satisfactory arrangements made to have it in a private home, the Buick sales room was secured through the kindness and generosity of Mr. Ragsdale, the Buick agent in this city. The party was chaperoned by Mesdames Beard and Pressley, and everyone enjoyed themselves immensely.

Senior Class Organized.

The Senior Class has been organized and all of the class meetings are now held under the supervision of the officers. The program that has been planned seems to show that in order to carry it out requires that we all work together. The class officers are elected are: Clifford Lemons, President; John Forkner, Vice-President; E. M. Ewen, Jr., Secretary-Treasurer. The class was given the privilege of selecting the faculty sponsor and as a result Miss Hicks was given the honor.

Girls Organize Glee Club.

The boys have all been green with envy this week and it's all due to the girls making good their boast to beat them in the organization of a High School Glee Club.

Wednesday afternoon twenty girls assembled in the High School auditorium in the first regular practice meeting of the Glee Club. Miss Hawkins has offered a splendid course in high school music, in which work the girls may secure a half credit. She has great plans for the future and is now beginning practice on a program to be rendered by the girls sometime during the Christmas holidays. She also plans to give one or two other programs which will follow the Christmas concert.

Ex-Students Abroad.

A large majority of ex-students of M. H. S. are attending colleges and universities throughout the state.

Lucille Read, Ples Harper, Harry Delany are attending the West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon this term. It is understood that Lucille and Ples are taking literary courses while Harry is specializing in music and voice.

A number of our last year graduates are attending Clarendon College this year. These include, Patty Hicks, Elizabeth Kennedy, Ruth Leary, Kennon Hillyer, Harry Blair, and Robert Johnson. Robert and Kennon are reported to be making a good showing in football, making trips with the Bull Dogs as subs.

Abbie Mae Crozier, Verna Crump, Roberta Rogers, and Versa Odum are attending C. I. A. at Denton this year, this being the second year for Abbie Mae.

Raymond Thomason is preparing for the bar at the State University. Raymond was recently elected vice-president of the sophomore class, being quite a distinction of which we all are proud.

Elizabeth Wright is doing nicely at T. W. C. this year. Oliver and Gerald Rosamond are attending Baylor University.

Florence Eiland is going to school in California. Ruth Garner will also attend there upon her arrival.

Clyde Tunnell is going to New Mexico Military Institute.

Frank Foxall is attending the Metropolitan Business College at Dallas.

Exa Reed is attending Italy High School this year.

A few of the Seniors of 1923 are working in town. Coy Lee Odum is working for Wooldrige Lumber Co.;

Mozelle Moses, for Moses Dry Goods Co.; Irvin Johnsey, with his father as contractor; Rainey Elliott, who is now employed by the Farmers Union Co., plans to leave for college Christmas.

A number of last year's Seniors are teaching school this year. These are: Pauline Goodnight, Lakeview; Mary Foreman, rural school in Childress County; Ruth Keeling, Goldsmith, Hall Co.; Charlotte Schoolfield, Bowie County.

Humorous.

Miss Madden: "Have you been reading any fiction lately?"
Genevieve: "Yes, I got a letter from Frank this morning."

Chauncey: "I could die waiting."
She: "Excuse 'em while I speak to the orchestra leader."

George B.: "How'dja spell sense?"
Miss Bradshaw: "Dollars and cents, or horse sense?"
George: "Well, like in, 'I ain't seen him since.'"

Rastus: "Ye all done lick me."

Eb: "I sho' did. Wom demonstrate?"
Rastus: "No indeed, 'er in' statistiks."

The Friendless Child

By Phebe K. Warner

Can you think of anything more lonely in this world than a friendless child? A little human being, born into a world without either love or knowledge or consent. Had he been selected by his parents to be born into a world which was born, he would have been born with a heart that would do with its own orphans. Planted none of the seed of love in his heart. A little human being, born into a world without either love or knowledge or consent. Had he been selected by his parents to be born into a world which was born, he would have been born with a heart that would do with its own orphans. Planted none of the seed of love in his heart. A little human being, born into a world without either love or knowledge or consent. Had he been selected by his parents to be born into a world which was born, he would have been born with a heart that would do with its own orphans. Planted none of the seed of love in his heart.

ready for this wonderful home coming. That the home may be opened and ready to receive the children by January 1, 1924, it is necessary to put over a financial campaign for the cause.

The time set for this campaign is the second week in October. And it is the hope of the finance committee to have every dollar necessary for the operation of this new home provided or promised by November 1. Unless this can be done the opening on January 1 will not be possible.

The business management of this new home has been assigned to the First Presbyterian Church of Amarillo. But as proof of their desire to share this gift with all the churches and all the people of the Panhandle, the Board of Directors has been selected both within and without the Presbyterian church and without and within the city of Amarillo. Everybody who appreciates this gift to the homeless children of our country is invited to help in any and every way they can to make this one of the happiest homes in all Texas for little children.

A special effort will be made in all the Presbyterian churches the last Sunday in October to help prepare the home for use. Every church in the whole country is invited to take part in this day's observations and send any amount they can to help the work. The Panhandle has stood for everything good in the past. It has led the state in building new homes, fine schools and beautiful churches in the past quarter of a century. But what will the Good Lord think of us if we build and support a million beautiful churches in His name and neglect His homeless children?

APPOINTMENT OF TEMPORARY ADMINISTRATOR

The State of Texas, County of Hall, To the sheriff or any constable of Hall County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to cause to be published once a week for ten days, exclusive of the first day of publication, before the return day hereof, in some newspaper of general circulation published in said county, which has been continuously and regularly published in said county for a period of not less than one year, the following notice:

The State of Texas, County of Hall, To all persons interested in the welfare of the estate of W. W. Nivens, deceased:

You are hereby notified that H. C. Nivens has filed, in the County Court of Hall County, Texas, an application for letters of temporary administration upon the Estate of W. W. Nivens, deceased, and on the 8th day of September, A. D. 1923, by order of the County Judge of said Hall County, the said H. C. Nivens was appointed temporary administrator of the estate of W. W. Nivens, deceased, and at the next regular term of said court, commencing on the third Monday in October, A. D. 1923, the same being the 15th day of October, A. D. 1923, at the court house thereof, in Hall County, Texas, at which time all persons interested in the welfare of said estate are hereby cited to appear and contest such appointment, if they so desire, and if such appointment is not contested at the said term of said court, then the same shall become permanent.

Herein fail not, but have you then and there before said court on the said first day of the next term thereof, this writ, with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and seal of said court, at my office in Memphis, Texas, this 8th day of September, A. D. 1923.

(SEAL) EDNA BRYAN, Clerk County Court, Hall County, Texas.

A blue jay was killed by a golf ball driven from the eighteenth tee on the club links at Hempstead, New York, recently. The president of the golf club was playing a foursome and was the first to drive off. As he struck the ball the bird flew from a tree near by, and ball and bird fell together close to the tee.

The powerful voice of Senator-elect Magnus Johnson can be heard a long distance. When the committee on rules assigned him to suite 125 in the Senate Office Building they had this in mind. The partitions between the rooms are very thin and any loud expression can be heard in rooms adjoining. The question was solved by arranging for a "buffer room" between his suite and those adjoining—that is to say, extra rooms were added to the adjoining suites which may or may not be used.

Styles For Fall In Men's Apparel

By Geo. Eliot Taylor

The outstanding features in fall styles are the free and easy lines. A decided preference for conservatism in men's dress has ousted sports style from its seat of high favor. Sports clothes in short are going back to their rightful place—for travel, motoring and games. As an alternative for the comfortable air of the sports suit, the designers have given us an equal amount of freedom in the regular street and business clothes.

Suits are plain of line. Coats are loose—they rather drape than trace the figure. Shoulders are slightly wider. Trousers are fuller and straight hanging, the pleated waist being a popular style innovation. College men still like the bell bottom idea in trousers. Vests more often exhibit the blunt ends, but the peaked points are by no means out of favor.

ENGLISH STYLE POPULAR

The American has cleverly adapted the prevailing English mode to American taste. You'll see it modified and varied in many ways. These models are the best evidence of the English thought. Their soft rolling front, loose flowing lines and high button effect brought them instant recognition from the smartest dressers of two continents.

DOUBLE BREASTED SUITS

Nothing is smarter than the trim and dapper double breasted suit. Primarily designed for the man of rather slim lines his more portly brother now wears it with equal enthusiasm. It is, in fact, the thing for all. Popular alike with the college youth and the business man who favors the buoyant air in dress, the double breasted suit can be recommended to all types. Carried out in the smart striped material, or in plain, navy blue fabrics, this style achieves its finest effect.

YOUNG MEN'S STYLES

The "cake eater" is dead. He was buried to the tune of forgotten jazz blare. In his stead comes an assured young man anxious to follow in the lines of his more conservative elders, withal leaning to a little more flair, a slightly accentuated body line and waisted effect. The style arbiter gives him a trig contour as the best exponent of the young man's fancy. Such a suit has snap and dash aplenty, from its in-curve waist to its group of flap pockets on the coat.

For the rest, style has undergone no radical change since last season. The simply fashioned, slightly form fitting suit remains the most popular model in the country. In east and west alike it is acclaimed by the well dressed man as the most typical of the modern American idea—conservative in line, yet indicative of all the distinction that the man of good taste demands in his dress. Lengths and siz variations remain the same as last season.

OVERCOATS

Fall overcoats favor the box style. The most popular exponent of this idea are the models with straight, swagger lines, set-in sleeves and patch pockets.

The all round belt has practically disappeared from today's fashions. Half belts are featured, but the main tendency is for the straight hanging effect. Set-in sleeves are more popular, but the kimona style overcoat retains its universal favoritism as the all enveloping, roomy effect style.

FABRICS

Many novelty weaves and textures are introduced for fall. Stripes of all widths, hues, spacings, groups and colorings figure in the smartest models. Among overcoat fabrics a new feature is the double faced plaid. This is to be seen as a blocked and fancy plaid on the inner side and an over-plaid or shadow squares on the face of the material. It is almost a reversal of the plain-face fancy-backed material of previous seasons. These fabrics are still shown in the latest and most distinctive models. A worsted fabric with blanket back is another fall innovation. Colorings embrace the whole range of tints from the popular autumn browns and coppers to hazy greens, powder blues and prismatic plaids.

Hazing will be permitted at the University of California, provided the hazers observe the rules of good sportsmanship. Full responsibility for any excesses will be placed upon the shoulders of the student body. Approximately 3,000 freshmen will register at the university soon.

Mount Washington, Oregon, was scaled August 26, 1923, for the first time on record. Six boys from Bend, Oregon, after hours of arduous work, reached the topmost pinnacle. None of the boys in the party was more than twenty-one years of age. At one time a member of the party lost his foothold and clung desperately to the face of a perpendicular cliff, with an 800-foot abyss yawning beneath him. A tube, containing their names, the story of the climb and small personal effects, was left at the top to substantiate their claim. They slid down the dangerous part of the pinnacle by means of a rope which could not be disengaged and still remains on the peak.

A new national park in the Big Horn Mountains, in Northern Wyoming and Southern Montana, is about to be created if plans carry. The park will be in the shape of a triangle with one point across the mountain line and the other side going east from Bald Mountain and north along a line that would include part of the Crow Indian Reservation and the famous peaks of Sheep Mountain and Medicine Peak.

This is the free-and-easy, egotistical period. Age of romance and dreams of success; also of wild oats and extravagance.	The boy begins to "find himself" and buckles down to business; acquires a real respect for his father's judgment; takes his freshman course in the school of hard knocks.	The man is now in the prime of life, approaching the zenith of energy and power. Most of the world's greatest work is done by men in this period. This is man's harvest time.	In this period most men meet reverses and begin to break. Only those well-fortified by saving can look to the future with confidence and without fear.	Ninety per cent have lost their grip and are merely eking out a hand-to-mouth existence.	Not one in 100 self-supporting.

Everything to gain. Nothing to lose. This span represents man's accumulative period. Either success or failure is settled. Strive for a competence. Now or never! Only the thrifty escape poverty or dependence. All is nothing to gain.

One of our policies payable at age 65 will help you save for old age, and guarantee you a family an income in case of your death during your productive period. Only department of 50 cents a day with us.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

The turtle's name was General and he was a very fine turtle.

To be sure, he was not much admired for his beauty but his master thought he was handsome and that was all that really mattered.

Now one day his master was hurt and an ambulance came rushing along to take the master to the hospital where he was to be treated and made well once more.

The turtle's master did not want to get into the ambulance.

"But you'll be well so quickly and then you'll be back home again," said the doctor.

But the master cried and the doctor began to tell him what a nice place the hospital was and how soon he would be well.

Still the turtle's master cried, and between his sobs he seemed to be speaking, but no one could understand him.

"We must hurry," said the doctor, and the master cried still harder.

"You'll be home before you know it," said the doctor. "You are hurt and in pain and so you're crying now but we'll be very gentle with you and you'll be well so quickly, and the horrid old pains will go."

"But still the boy cried bitterly and as they were lifting him into the ambulance the doctor understood what he was saying.

"I want my turtle, I want my turtle," were the words of the boy.

"I want General," he sobbed. "Oh, I want General. General will understand."

"General?" asked the doctor. "Your turtle?"

"Oh," said the boy's mother, "he means he wants his turtle. The turtle's name is General. And the turtle is his devoted pet."

"Well, we'll take the turtle along, too," said the doctor.

And suddenly the boy stopped crying.

"Oh," he said quite clearly, "then I don't mind going at all."

Well, his mother went for General and General was wrapped in a big newspaper, too, and they all went off for the hospital, the boy and the turtle and the doctor.

It was the first time a turtle had ever been in the hospital and every one was much excited about the new patient.

The doctor explained that there was nothing the matter with the turtle but that he had come along to comfort his master.

"He'll make me get well quickly," said the boy. And so the hospital people called General the Trained Nurse Turtle, for he was helping a patient get well.

General had a little bathtub kind of a home brought for him and General did not seem to mind the hospital at all.

In fact he seemed quite happy. At times he would be allowed upon his master's bed and his master would pet his funny, hard back and would say: "General, my General! You wouldn't desert me, would you?"

"You're the right kind of a General. You'll never desert."

Now the boy had owned the turtle for eight years—ever since the boy had been a baby boy, hardly able to walk.

Well, the boy did seem to get well so much more quickly with General beside him.

And all the other boys and girls and men and women in the hospital heard about General and those who were able were wheeled into the room where the boy was, or hobbled in, and admired the turtle friend.

And every time General would be very polite but the boy would boast of his wonderful friend.

"General is loo-ling after me," he always said so proudly.

Before the boy left the hospital he took General around with him and called on all the other patients and General did them a lot of good, too!

Yes, he certainly did cheer them up, and yet General was so modest about it all.

At last the boy and General were home and it was nice to be back where there was lots of space, but it was nicer still to think that they were back home sooner because the dear turtle friend had helped so much in hurrying to make the boy well!

SKIN BAROMETER OF HEALTH

Cuticle Affords Outward and Visible Sign of Internal Physical Cleanliness.

A lovely skin, aside from being the subject for poetic raptures is a sensitive barometer of your health, says Elizabeth Arden in Arts and Decorations. It is the outward and visible sign of an inward and physical cleanliness. Its smoothness is a symptom of a good digestion and the absence of fevered disturbance. Its clarity is proof of the correct balance of diet. Its pinkness registers the swift dance of blood through the tissues.

The body is like an exquisitely tuned engine. Your food is the fuel. The air you breathe is the draught that quickens the fire into life. If you have been a suburbanite without a faithful furnace man, you have battled to keep a fire flickering, perhaps. You know that there is coal that burns with an even hot flame and leaves a fine ash, without fuss or waste. And there is other coal, that burns stubbornly and only partially and leaves great clinkers to clog the channels of the fire.

Now food is like that, too. Simple foods are digested and assimilated thoroughly. Rich foods, heavy mixtures of foods, leave clinkers to clog the system. Meats, pastries, thickened sauces, these foods do not burn as perfectly as fresh vegetables, cereals, whole wheat breads and fruits. You must eat wisely for beauty.

Locked Closely.

"How did you ever get caught in such a compromising position, Betty?" "Well, he wanted to see what color my eyes were."

"That's harmless enough." "Yes—but he's near-sighted."—London Mail.

A Merry Widow.

An English woman recently wrote to a newspaper that she began life as A. Mann (Alice Mann). She married a Mr. Husband and so became A. Husband. He died and she married again, this time a Mr. Maiden. Becoming a widow for the second time, she concluded that though born A. Mann, she would die A. Maiden.—Boston Transcript.

Not Complimentary.

A scorched corpse picked up on an oily, wreckstrewn sea was evidence of the fate of the tanker Swiftstar. It is believed that lightning struck the tanker amidships, disabling the wireless immediately and exploding one or two oil tanks which tore the ship apart, each half going down with all on board. Splintered wood and rudderless lifeboats with the lettering "Swiftstar" on each one were picked up between Cuba and Jamaica together with the body of the dead man.

ESTIMATING ON FOOLISHNESS

There is a wheeze that has gone the rounds of the printers so long that it has lost both author and origin, but it hasn't lost its point. You must have heard it, but it will do you good to hear it again.

"A certain printer has notified the merchants of his town that he will shortly be in need of a shirt, a pair of shoes and a hat. He asks that each merchant furnish estimates as follows:

"One shirt, with and without collar; also in one, two and three colors. Estimate each way.

"One pair of shoes. Estimate for two colors, black and brown. Also give prices, whether high or Oxford, and laced or buttoned.

"One hat, soft or derby (estimate for black, brown, green and grey, with and without band, size to be determined later).

"This printer adds that he is about to place a large order in the near future, and will give special consideration to the merchant who makes him a reasonable price on this small initial order.

"Etc., etc."

How often is the printer asked to figure just such nonsense? Why isn't turn about fair play?

Don't ask for bids on your printing, but have it done in an office that is equipped to give you high-grade work; where the employes take an individual interest in every job.

No. 1620. AIR TRAFFIC WILL NOT DISPLACE HIGHWAYS

What's the use of building great highway systems, at an expense of millions of dollars, when within a few years all the freight and passenger traffic will be carried in the air? The question is always being asked by some one, usually some one who is unendowed by nature with faculty of thinking straight, but sometimes by those who think, but without data on which to go.

GREAT TEACHER OF VERACITY. Socrates, Originating Genius of Common Sense, an Influence in Anglo-Saxon Civilization.

At the dawn of modern history stands the figure of an old stone-cutter; attractive and quaint, likeable and eccentric, but wholly unimpressive; the last man in the world a sculptor would take for any aspect of human glory.

No picturesque dust of the wilderness stains his shabby garment; no prophetic fire burns in his rather ludicrous eyes. On the contrary, he is a playful, a whimsical, a waggish, an ironical person; in form, comic and clownish, so that he is likened by one of his friends to a cottage loaf; in nature, nearer akin to Bunyan, Samuel Johnson, Sir Thomas Browne, or even Charles Lamb, than to John the Baptist, Mohammed, Luther, Robespierre, or any other firebrand of history.

Such was Socrates, the originating genius of common sense, the great teacher of moral and intellectual veracity, one of the profoundest influences in our Anglo-Saxon civilization. —A Gentleman With a Duster, in "Seven Ages."

Colors for Mourning Vary. The colors used as badges of mourning vary in different countries. In this country, as in Europe, the ordinary color for mourning is black. In China, as with the ancient Spartan and Roman woman, it is white; in Turkey it is blue or violet; in Egypt, yellow; in Ethiopia, gray.

Some have attempted to trace the associations which caused the adoption of the various colors to natural causes. Thus black, which is the privation of light, is supposed very appropriately to denote the privation of life; yellow is the color of leaves when they fall and signifies that death is the end of all human hopes.

In the East, to cut the hair was considered a sign of bereavement; among the Romans, on the contrary, it was deemed a mark of sorrow to let it grow.

The Metric System. The metric system is proceeding slowly as regards its adoption in English-speaking countries. One suggestion which was made at a luncheon given in New York on May 5 by the Metric association was that the conduct of international trade is at present hampered and confused by the circumstance that the content of the British gallon is greater than that of the American gallon. The recommendation was made that both governments should abandon their standards and adopt in their place the liter as the common unit of capacity. —Scientific American.

India Wants Merchant Fleet. India wants an Indian merchant marine, says the Nation's Business, or at least there is enough discussion among the people of India to give the subject some importance. The argument seems to proceed pretty largely upon the theory that every well-regulated and proud nation with its feet on salt water should have a merchant marine. In other words, a merchant marine is an indispensable demonstration of sovereignty if a nation wishes to maintain a place in high society. As India's foreign dangers have always lain on the landward side, national defense would not enter into the equation.

THE HORNY TOAD. Miss Dollie Day Dreams, of Pawtucket, who has been reading my explosion on wild animals has specially requested me to discourse a little treaty on the habits and peculiar characteristics of the now almost distinct animal, which is named the Horny Toad. So, Dollie, I will comply.

Now please don't profuse this animal with the other horny ones merely because it has horns on the head. That is no sign it favors the cow, the deer, the mountain ram nor the Hippopotamus and other horny creatures. I can truthfully say, without fear of successful argument to the opposite that the horny toad is the most ferocious and rambunctious of wild animals, and the only good reason why it is called the horny toad is because it has horns on the head.

Seven horns to be exactly precise. In addition to the seven horns it has five legs or limbs, which enables it to run one leg faster than the horse, the elephant and other quadruped creatures. This wild beast also has two tails—one in front and the other behind—and in this respect it differs from many other fierce animals. When full grown the horny toad stands some four feet tall when ready to make the attack on the enemy.

In the winter months or cold weather season of the year it grows a long fluffy coat of fur, and during the severe weather it is much sought after from a fur bearing standpoint by those who wish to pick up a little extra money by capturing and skinning and selling the hides of such furr bearing animals. But when the winter weather is all over, this fast disappearing beast sheds off his coat of fur so that he can all the better stand the hot season of the year, which is summer as most of us have learned. In this one respect the horny toad displays more real horse sense than a lot of women I know who don't shed their furs in the hot weather. But there are a lot of different animals which are smarter than a lot of grown folks I know. For instance, the grasshopper and the bed bug.

Now, Miss Dollie, this very hostile beast becomes very loud and vociferous when hungry and they are hungry most of the time, and they have often been found guilty of criminal assault on people who dress in fast colors. Therefore, when your opportunity comes to gaze upon one of these you will do well to take my advice and leave off that red dress. Neither are they friendly toward bob-
