FOOTBALL PESTS

Posed by Victor Moore, Heier Broderick and Gordon Jones

She comes to the game wearing the biggest hat she can find. To top it off, she becomes frenzied at every play and weaves about to the discomfort of normal spectators.

Here's the pest who has fun with himself while the game goes on. A favorite stunt of his is to pop a toy balloon in your face. This attracts attention to him and away from what you paid money to see.

This individual is the demonstrative type. He loves to clutch someone when the team makes a spectacular gain. Anything goes, you know, on such an auspicious occasion. Pretty strangers are never safe around him.

Next to a man carrying a ladder, the spectator who brings his own umbrella along to the stadium is the prize menace. His umbrella is the only one available in a wide radius. He is the only one.

Committee Named To Pass On Graft Advertising Plans

An advertising committee of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce has been named to pass on all graft and "fly-by-night" advertising schemes. This does not apply to recognized advertising mediums of merit.

The solicitor must first present his proposition to the committee who will consider the merits of same, and if meritorious will issue a letter of introduction that will have to be presented to the business men of the city before they will listen to the proposition. That is, if the business men desire this protection.

This plan is being used in most cities and is saving them plenty of money, according to Carroll Smyers.

When approached by a solicitor who is planning to put out some form of advertising that is of doubtful merit, all the business man will have to say is, "Have you been before the chamber of commerce's advertising committee?" If he has not, then the business man will not listen further, Smyers said.

"As every business man in Memphis knows, much money goes for schemes that have no merit, such as calendars, curtains, placards, signs, etc., where the promoter gets about three-fourths of the money and goes to other green fields to spend it.

"A secretary of another town near Memphis recently refused to give a letter of recommendation to a solicitor for $150 in rural school curtain advertising—the value of the curtain to be placed in the school not to exceed $50, the solicitor to get the other $100 for himself.

"That is only one instance of how merchants can save money through an advertising committee. There are dozens of such schemes being worked every month in Memphis and other towns that do not have an advertising committee," he said.

Attribute Miracle to Weeping Image

Claims of the miraculous cure of a cripple have brought hundreds of devout pilgrims, such as the one shown above, to pray before this "weeping statue" of Christ at Cornwall, Ont. The Armour Creamery, G. H. Gardner manager, has moved from the old Bradford wholesale grocery building to the location vacated by Mr. Kuhn.

Homes Should Not Be Kept Too Warm Health Doctor Says

With colder weather on its way to Texas, it's time to think about home temperatures during the winter months, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, states.

There is evidence that thousands of homes are constantly over-heated during the winter. In fact, many families tolerate an indoor temperature during the colder months to which they would and do strenuously object in the summer.

"People living in homes with overheated temperatures become soft, the system is weakened and is at a decided disadvantage in defending itself against the sudden change from a too great intramural heat to the penetrating cold."

"Consequently colds, bronchial troubles and pneumonia, taking advantage of the situation, step in and do much unnecessary, and not infrequently, fatal damage. You will agree that this is entirely too high a price to pay for a few extra degrees of unneeded heat."

"We all know families who are starting on their annual scourge of colds and sore throats. But this does not alter their affinity for super-heat. They ignore the fact that 68 to 70 degrees is the best temperature. A thermometer kept within that range, plus proper humidity, is a definite safe-guard. We need that safe-guard. What does your thermometer read?"

JONES FAVORS PREMIUM PLAN

Penalty or Compulsory Control Method Will Tend To Curtail Home And Foreign Markets

By MARVIN JONES Most of the members of the House Committee on Agriculture seem to prefer a voluntary farm program as to most commodities. Personally I favor the voluntary or premium method rather than penalty or compulsory control.

By using soil conservation payments and adding additional funds secured through tariff equalizing taxes, premiums can be paid to the farmer as an offset to the tariff, and he will then have a better income and at the same time his products can flow into the markets at home and abroad.

On the other hand, the penalty or compulsory control method will tend to curtail our markets both here and in foreign countries by encouraging foreign competition and domestic substitution.

There are two extremes. Some favor production in unlimited quantities regardless of price. Others would undertake by compulsory control to gain a temporary high price regardless of its final effect on outlets and markets.

GRAIN SORGHUM COVER SOIL EROSION FROM HIGH

The value of a grain sorghum cover or wheat stubble for holding the soil in place already is being demonstrated in the wind erosion region with the first high winds of the blowing season, it is pointed out by H. H. Finnell, regional conservator of the Soil Conservation Service in Amarillo.

Rainfall in the Oklahoma Panhandle, southwest Kansas, southeast Colorado, northeast New Mexico, and the northern part of the Texas Panhandle has been far below normal in most areas this year. Fields that do not have a good stubble or stalk cover already are beginning to suffer soil losses, Finnell reports.

Since the heavy blowing season normally starts in January and extends into May, the full value of maintaining an effective cover on all fields is yet to be fully realized, the conservator predicts.

"Water conserved on the land where it falls by means of contour tillage and terraces not only aids in obtaining increased crop yields, but also provides the necessary protection against blowing at this time of the year," Finnell states.

Ideals for Christian Ministry

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Nov. 14 Text: 1 Timothy 4:6-16; 11 Timothy 2:1-4.

OF particular value not only for ministers but for all who will study it, is a lesson on the high ideals of Christian ministry.

In Paul's letter to Timothy, whom he regarded as his son in the faith and as a man particularly called to the ministry of the Gospel, high standards are clearly set forth. It is appropriate and necessary that they be recalled at the present time.

He must be, first of all, a man of godliness. That is, he must strive to have a character like that of the God whom he worships, and an attitude of love and graciousness toward his fellow-men in harmony with the Gospel of the love of God. A true minister of Jesus Christ must be an example to others "in word, in manner of life, in love, in faith, and purity."

He must be a reader and a teacher, instructing others that they may also become teachers. He must not look for a life of ease, but must think of himself as a good soldier of Jesus Christ, willing to suffer hardship, and keeping himself clear from entangling alliances that he may be free to serve.

OBVIOUSLY, the power of such a minister and the effect of his ministry depend upon those who are under his care. People have a right to expect great things of ministers, but only insofar as in their own hearts and lives they approve of the ideal that they set up for the minister. The worth, power, and effectiveness of the Christian minister in his church and community depend more than is commonly recognized upon the attitude of his church. There is a church that has years of the best and brilliant work when the ministry came to a layman of the highest caliber. We shall not record and compare to the who has no devotion and church will not become interested in a great church made of qualifications him; but even influence could such power to support the wide world. When later minister was distinguished and effect because he is port of laymen and devotion.

If there is any ministry, let the situation be a row criticism, ing, not in sources of his support in program, and constructive work. The church's co-operation in standing before ministers: developed by such lessons

State Designates Memphis-Silverton Road

Parade Opens Armistice Celebration Here

State Hi-way Commission Takes Over 22 Miles Of Pavement, From Memphis To Brice, For Regular Maintenance

The road from Memphis to Silverton has been designated as a state highway.

The pavement from Memphis west to Mulberry bridge is taken over by the State Highway Commission for maintenance.

This was the good news that was received in Memphis Monday from the commission at Austin and John B. Nabors, district engineer, of Childress.

Following is a copy of the Commission's order:

"In Hall and Briscoe Counties, it is ordered that a highway be designated from Memphis to Silverton and that the section extending from Memphis to the end of the concrete pavement approximately 22 miles west of Memphis be taken over for state maintenance when placed in condition acceptable to the State Highway Engineer. This highway is added to the System of Designated State Highways, with the understanding that funds are not available at this time for construction of same, and with the further provision that no additional sections thereof are to be taken over for state maintenance until constructed and accepted by the State Engineer."

An engineer went over the concrete pavement to Mulberry bridge Monday morning and pronounced it ready to be taken over for state maintenance.

In taking over the paved road from Memphis west, the highway commission does not agree to take over the road bonds, it was pointed out by Judge M. O. Goodpasture and Representative Bob Alexander. The bonds will have to be disposed of by an action of the State Legislature, Alexander said.

The appropriation of funds for the road east from Memphis and the designation from Memphis to Silverton is the result of an intensive effort on the part of the highway committee of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the county judge and county commissioners of Hall County, the Briscoe, Swisher, and Castro officials, Representative Bob Alexander, and Senator Clint Small.

It is understood that all three state highway commissioners and the district engineer were in favor of the highway, believing the road would carry an immense amount of interstate travel.

Several weeks ago the State Highway Commission appropriated funds for building a farm-to-market road from Memphis east to a point in Childress County, connecting with highway 138 leading west from Hoils, Okla., which when completed will become a part of an interstate highway from Oklahoma, through Memphis, Silverton, Tulsa, and points west, into New Mexico at Texico.

The commissioners courts of both Childress and Hall counties have been asked by the highway department to sign agreements to furnish a 100-foot right-of-way in the respective counties for the rail-trail-rail route. This was done by the Hall County court Monday, and it is understood Childress County expects to sign also.

As soon as the agreements are signed, surveys of the route will be made by engineers, according to information from the district office in Childress.

To Hold Highway Meeting Here On Tuesday, Dec. 14

The Highway Association will hold its December meeting in Memphis, and will be guests of the Memphis members at luncheon that day, which will be on Tuesday, December 14, according to Judge M. O. Goodpasture.

The association met in Tulsa Tuesday, and Judge Goodpasture, J. E. King, A. R. McMaster, and Wiley Stuart were in attendance from Hall County, and extended an invitation for the organization to hold the next meeting in Memphis, which was promptly accepted.

The Highway 86 Association, composed of five counties—Hall, Briscoe, Swisher, Castro, and Farmer—held monthly meetings, and joined Hall County in applying for a designation of the road from Memphis to Silverton.

The road from Silverton west through Briscoe, Swisher, Castro, Farmer counties is already a state highway, and the new designation to Memphis will give them two outlets to the east; the other outlet goes through Turkey and Estelline.

It is estimated that Democrat readers totaled approximately 12,000 last week in Hall County alone. The paper was sent to every boxholder in Hall County, and some 400 copies were mailed outside the county to former citizens.

"This was in an effort to thoroughly advertise the Armistice Day Celebration here and to see that it was a big success. These additional copies were issued without any extra cooperation from the business firms of Memphis," the publishers stated.

ROLL CALL OF RED CROSS TO START NOV 11

Workers for Memphis and County Have Been Named

Hall County's Red Cross Roll Call begins Armistice Day, according to Zeb A. Moore, roll call chairman who is moving his second year.

The American Red Cross was called upon to give assistance to victims following 128 disasters this past year. Millions of persons were helped by this great agency. Your Red Cross membership dollar makes this work possible. "Civic interest should inspire you to join the Red Cross between Armistice Day and Thanksgiving," the roll call chairman has pointed out.

The drive in Hall County will be conducted by eleven chairmen in as many communities and will strive for a goal of $600. The quota this year has been set at this figure by the committee in view of the fact that Hall County's quota was set at the low of $435 last year.

County roll call chairman last week announced the appointment of community chairmen as follows: O. V. Alexander, Memphis; Fred Hemphill, Newlin; T. A. Power, Estelline; J. B. The game is called for 2 o'clock.

To a committee of public-spirited men of Hall County credit is due for the good work done in securing a highway designation, an appropriation for a farm-to-market road which will be designated later, and the taking over of 22 miles of pavement for maintenance by the State Highway Commission.

The committee is composed of chamber of commerce members, county officials and others who have been untiring in the work of interesting the Highway Commission. These men are F. N. Foxhall, chairman, J. E. King, S. T. Harrison, Judge M. O. Goodpasture, J. A. Whaley, Butler Morrison, Buri Bell, John Russell, A. R. McMaster, Lyman Davenport, Roy Russell, and Dr. H. Gilmore.

The designation of the road from Memphis to Silverton came within three weeks after a delegation went before the commission to ask for it. This, one of the highway officials said, was a record breaker, for it usually takes months and sometimes years to get any action in such matters, especially if there is any doubt as to the need for such highway.

The Highway 86 Association, composed of members along highway 86 from Silverton to Farwell, are also due thanks for participation in asking for the designation.

HAS NEW GRANDSON

J. R. Harrell has received the announcement of the arrival of a new grandson, Jimmie Joel, born to Mr. and Mrs. Alton Harrell of Houston on Tuesday, November 2. The baby weighed 8 pounds.

Gracie's Hat

This smart Peter Pan beret of black suede cloth is worn with a dash by Gracie Allen in her latest picture, in which she plays an important role with her co-partner, George Burns. Brilliant red piping outlines the hat and decorates the side where a jaunty black feather, highlighted with red, shoots up.

Armistice Means Much to Hall County Ex-Service Men; Complete List Given

Why Did We Die?

By I. G. THOMAS
Member Memphis, Texas, CCC Camp

In countless rows in foreign soil
Our broken bodies lie;
A foe's attack we helped to foil,
Then torn and wounded, die.
We did our best in days of war;
We kept our flag on high;
We gave until it hurt, and more,
And that's the reason why
Our souls cry out "Why did we die?"

Yes, years have passed, with millions dead,
Because of shot and shell;
Yet still lives hate, distrust and dread
In spite of that war's hell.
There still is suffering to ease,
There still is wrong to right;
Could we, the dead, but find release
We'd stand once more and fight!
Our souls cry out "Why did we die?"

America! don't lower now
The flag we kept on high!
In time of peace, it's hard somehow,
To hear your country's cry.
It calls not for your gun or sword,
But heart and service true;
It needs the best you can afford,
But most of all needs YOU!
Our souls cry out "Why did we die?"

The Democrat presents here the complete list of ex-service men now residing in Hall County, according to the records of the American Legion. Others may reside in this county, but have never been registered with the local post.

This list is more than just names. They are the men who marched and fought under the American colors during the World War. Many of them saw months of service "over there," others were in training at the time the armistice was signed nineteen years ago. In either case they pledged their lives with the hope that ever-lasting peace would be their reward.

To them the Armistice Day observance is more than a celebration. To them the occasion is dedicated.

Ex-service men living in Memphis total 107 and are as follows:

Donald Bradley, a young man just tasting the first fruits of business success, is roped in on a wild orgy a short time before his approaching marriage, and finds himself emmeshed with a beautiful woman of a shady character.

The film, "Damaged Lives" quickly develops into one of the frankest and most sensational exposures ever to reach the screen. It deals with a subject that has long been considered "dynamite" by censorship boards over the country. It was only recently that critics of the picture consented to its general release to the public, according to reports.

The film, according to authentic advance notices, is the frankest and most sensational expose of pitfalls of youth to ever reach the screen. It shows at the local Texas Theatre Wednesday, Nov. 17, of next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Burleson returned Sunday from a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Burleson, in Abilene.

War-Torn Rheims Cathedral Rebuilt

Restored to its former medieval glory is the famed cathedral of Rheims, shown above in an interior view looking toward the altar before which the kings of France were crowned. Partially destroyed during the World War it was rebuilt largely through contributions of the Rockefeller family of America, and re-consecrated by French ecclesiastical dignitaries in impressive ceremonies.

Must Get Ready!

Daniel J. Doherty, national commander of the American Legion has returned from Europe with the advice to America to "get ready."

While the nation is observing the nineteenth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice, Doherty is asserting the necessity for a universal service bill to insure adequate preparedness of the nation and prevent profiteering in event of war.

Sulfanilamide, New Mystery Medicine, Claims Lives of 46 Persons in U. S.

SULFANILAMIDE—life-saving drug or deadly poison?

Paradox of modern medicine is this German-discovered dye derivative hailed as the means of saving the lives of more than a score of persons, for whom hope had been abandoned, and blamed as the deadly agent in 46 deaths throughout the United States.

Following the first warning of the American Medical Association that use of the medicine in certain compounds on the market might be followed by fatal results, a frantic nation-wide search was conducted by federal and medical authorities for approximately 700 bottles of the medicine, known to have been sold to druggists.

In too many instances the warning came too late. To eight deaths in Tulsa, Okla., upon which the first announcement was based, were added in rapid succession seven in Illinois, 14 in Mississippi, five in Alabama, and so on until the ghastly total was reached.

Seven of the 13 patients for whom Dr. A. S. Calhoun, above, of Mount Olivet, Miss., prescribed the deadly elixir of sulfanilamide have died, although the other six are reported to be on the way to recovery. Mrs. Frank Hamilton, right above, one of Dr. Calhoun's patients, is now recovering. Lower right is shown a bottle of the compound.

SEARCHING for something to kill the germs of the cocci family of bacteria—microscopic circular organisms of the streptococci or chain-like groups, the staphylococci, arranged in clusters, and kindred forms—Prof. Heinrich Horlein, pharmaceutical research chemist of the German dye trust, and his assistant, Gerhardt Domagk, discovered that reagents developed from the red azo dyes had a deadly effect upon the germs.

Following experiments with animals, tests were made upon human patients with surprising results. Sulfanilamide—a condensed form of its long chemical name—was acclaimed on the continent as a cure for the almost inevitably fatal streptococcal infections, childbed fever, and as an effective remedy in the treatment of gonorrhea.

Introduced to America, the preparation gained nationwide attention when it was administered to Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., son of the President, for a streptococcal infection. Other cures, deemed almost miraculous, brought it quickly to the attention of the medical profession. In Baltimore, a child of 5, her temperature skyrocketed to 106 by streptococcal infection, was treated and recovered within a few days. Similar effective results were soon reported.

BUT, one wonders, how did this drug undergo such a drastic Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde transformation?

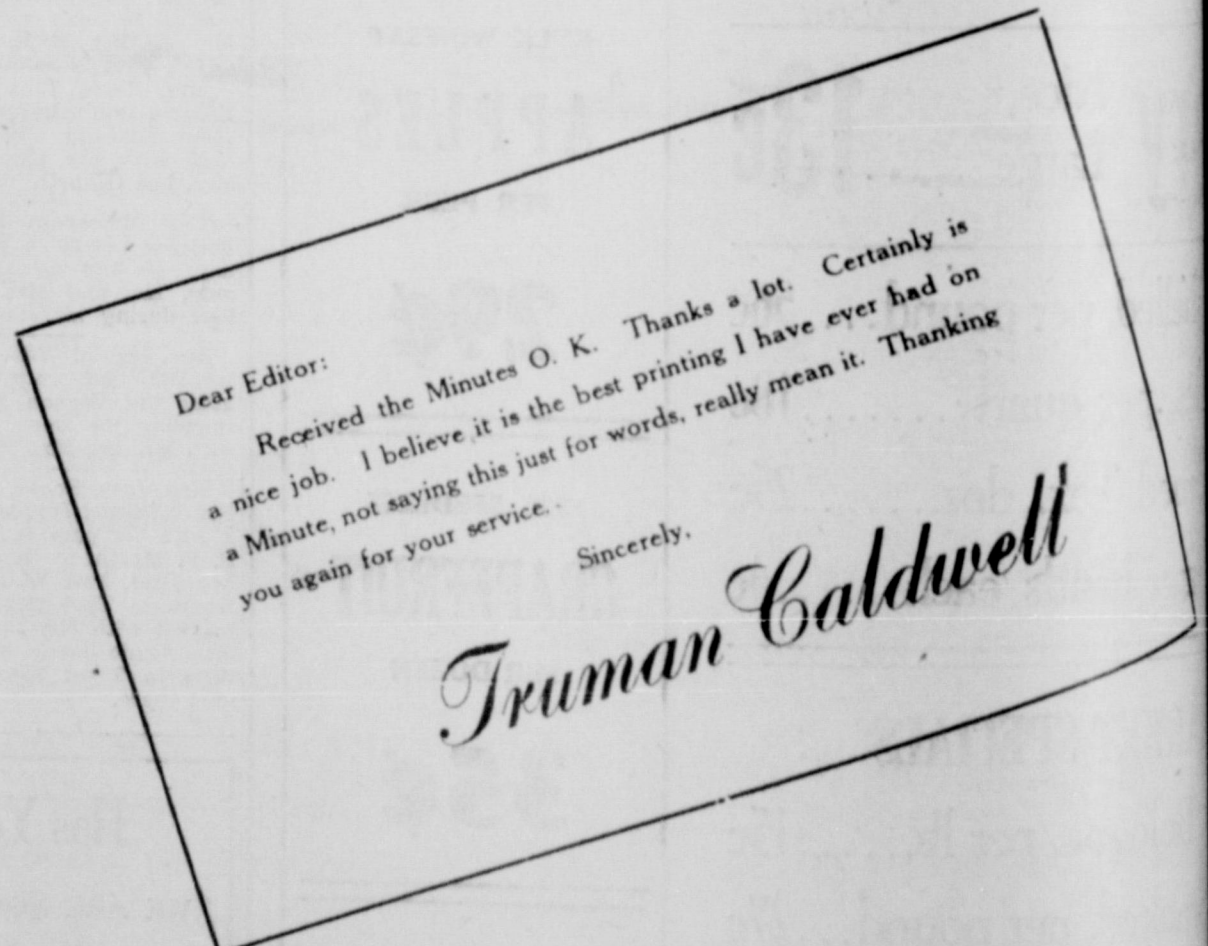

The current opinion, announced by the American Medical Association and substantiated by results, is that an elixir of sulfanilamide, not the drug itself, produces fatal effects.

Available at a surprisingly low price, the drug appeared in several commercial compounds, one of which was a solution of sulfanilamide and diethylene glycol. The glycol, not the sul-fanilamide, Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association announced, is responsible for the deaths. A similar compound of glycol is used in some automobile anti-freeze solutions. The substance has the same effects as bichloride of mercury, for which there is no known antidote.

Not entirely doomed, therefore, is the use of sulfanilamide, for, after thorough investigation and research in medical laboratories, it may be returned to market, to continue saving life.

THE BAND

"It Pays to Play"

The richest child is poor without musical training.

The opportunity to study music and learn to play a musical instrument is the birthright of every American child or youth.

It is the gateway to a world of happiness, popularity, good times and pleasant associations.

Those denied this opportunity miss an essential part of their lives which cannot otherwise be filled.

Conscientious parents recognize—and desire that their children have the widespread advantages of musical training, but hesitate about spending very much money for outright purchase of instruments before they can see just how well their child will "take" to music.

Give music to your child while he is young, and later when he grows up he will have within him a light which neither age nor poverty can dim—a joy strong, sure and permanent.

Band music began in Memphis High School as an organization for the first time September 7, 1936. At that time we had seventeen members enrolled. At that time the band work was an experiment; but over a period of a year its membership has grown to fifty-five, which should prove that band music in Memphis High School is here to stay. The high school band will be supplied with membership through three channels, namely that of the rhythm band of West Ward, saxette band of Junior High, and beginners band of the high school. We have fifty playing members at present, and we are endeavoring to reach a goal of seventy-five by next year.

Sunday night you will be taken on a journey from the rhythm band up to and including the first band. This will be in the form of a demonstration. We have for our motto the following—
"Teach your child to blow a horn and he will never blow a safe."

Greater Response From Parents and Public Is Reward

Memphis schools are observing National Education Week, which opened Sunday, November 7, and continues through the coming week-end.

We find that observance of Education Week in Memphis brings greater response from parents and directs the public's attention to one of America's greatest institutions. It brings about a closer relationship between the home and the school, which in turn gives a more equal opportunity to the boys and girls for an educational program that we hope will teach them "How to live and how to make a living." As you know, teaching methods and materials are changing with the needs of the times. We believe you will understand our procedure better if you will arrange to visit our schools more.

If each of us would resolve to make this year even better for our children in school through closer cooperation and sympathetic understanding of our daily programs, we would still be climbing higher and higher.

On November 9 our schools held Open House so that parents might have a chance to visit the schools and get an impression of our work. This gives the teacher and parent an opportunity to get better acquainted with each other and an insight into the child's life. At this cooperative program, there was an exhibit of the child's work, a class demonstration with as natural set up as possible and a short program in the auditorium. This was followed by a social hour. Then as culminating activity of our week's program everyone is invited to the Methodist Church on Sunday evening where music will be furnished by the different music departments of the school and a talk will be made by Rev. Carter on an educational topic.

Individuals, Teachers Prepare Copy

In recognition of National Education Week, teachers of the Memphis schools, and individuals of this city, have prepared all school copy reproduced in this special section. The edition marks the observance of the week in local and Hall County schools. The articles herein do not necessarily reflect the editorial policies of the paper, but are carried strictly as news stories.

Through the cooperation of the business firms of Memphis, The Democrat is publishing this section in the interest of educational work in Hall County.

THE HOME-ROOM

The introduction of the Home-Room into the high school has in the first place made for smoother functioning of the routine machinery of the school. During the Home-Room period the attendance for the day is checked and announcements are made insofar as possible. This takes a burden off the office and avoids many class-room interruptions.

The major value of the Home-Room, however, is the program planned for that period.

Betty Johnson went to Clarendon Friday and spent until Sunday as the guest of Louise Russell.

High School Vocational Agriculture Department Outlines Complete Work

Students regularly enrolled in the Vocational Agriculture Department of Memphis High School are required to take in connection with their class room work complete Supervised Practice Program. This is divided into parts:

1. Projects—Home projects are conducted on the boy's home farm for the purpose of training his skill in farming; of developing his skill in improved practices that are considered sound and practical in application. He earns money from his enterprises of livestock, row crops, and cotton.

2. Other than projects—This type of work is done also under supervision of the teacher, but it is not connected with his projects every time. It too has its training value in that it develops the boy into doing useful jobs around the farm home in improving the farmstead, terracing, contouring pastures, culling hens, putting running water into the kitchen, or maybe repairing farm implements. Each student is allowed grade points for his home work of this type by the instructor.

The following is a brief summary of projects carried out by the students. (The training and money value can be easily noted from the amount of things accomplished by these boys.)

(a) Productive Farm Enterprises for 1935-36: Hens for egg production, 885; beef calves, 14; broilers, 2,500; cotton, 365 acres; grain sorghums, 243 acres; hogs for market, 20 head; pigs for pork production, 23; cows for milk production, 21; turkeys, 475; (Continued on page 2)

THE SANDSTORM IS PUBLISHED AS SCHOOL ANNUAL

1938 Yearbook Staff Named; Issue Will Have 96 Pages

The Sandstorm, Memphis High School annual, is the representative of the school. It is published by pupils chosen from the student body. The annual is for the students, as it portrays their school life.

Jeanne Draper is the editor of the yearbook for 1937-38, and her assistant is Evan Roberts. It is their duty to see that the book is put out on time and in perfect form. Jack Walker will take care of the sports. Joyce Read seems to be the artist of the school; consequently she was chosen Art Editor. Kermit Monzingo has the big job of collecting money in any way possible. Janie Sue McMurry may snap your picture if you don't watch out. She was elected Snapshot Editor for our Sandstorm. Little Katherine Robinson may be small, but we are mighty proud to have her for Typing Editor. Martha Jeanne Parks is Features Editor. She is responsible for the social part of the book which includes clubs, Who's Who, Queen of Memphis High, etc. This is one of the best staffs any editor could ask for.

The annual for this year will contain ninety six pages. The cover of the book is to be black with "The Sandstorm" 1938 in gold letters. The contents are of the school, the faculty, classes, favorites, activities, athletics, and the grind section.

Our business manager states that he has planned several ways of financing the yearbook. First, we hope to sell about two hundred books at two dollars each. The annual date for the pie supper when the Queen of Memphis High will be elected has not been set. The staff has been selling drinks, coffee, and candy at the football games and we have one more game at home. We plan to sponsor a movie with the consent of the manager of the theatre, but have failed to attend to that matter as yet. This money proposition is a problem with us as well as with the majority of people, but we hope to come out on top.

As this book does represent the school, the staff must have the co-operation of the entire student body in order to compile a good yearbook. With your help, we will have one of the best high school annuals in the state.

Clarendon Loses to Memphis Grid Team Friday, 37-0

EASY VICTORY IS REGISTERED BY LOCAL '11'

Memphis Much Too Much For Rivals In 3-B Game

The Memphis Cyclone grid team registered two touchdowns within the first eight minutes of the opening quarter with the Bronchos at Clarendon last Friday night to begin their goal-line parade for a 37-0 victory. The Bronchos, resting in the 3B cellar with no victories, appeared completely outplayed throughout the game.

The high point of the tilt was a 45-yard run made by Hall in the first quarter and resulting in the first score of the game. Hall broke through from scrimmage in mid-field and raced for pay dirt while Memphis fans went wild. The try for extra point failed.

A few minutes later Lindsey crossed over for the second score. This time D. Sanders accounted for the extra point to bring the score to 13-0. The Bronchos held the local gridmen scoreless during the second quarter while they were chalking up their only score of the evening. Their try for extra point failed and the half ended 13-0.

71 Yards From Scrimmage
The Cyclone came back in the third quarter to score twice more while making 71 yards from scrimmage. Lindsey scored first and D. Sanders converted the extra point. Sometime later Harris went over for another six points and this time Leroy Robertson accounted for the extra point. At the end of the quarter the score stood 27-0.

Scores Third Touchdown
In the fourth quarter Lindsey tallied for the third time during the evening and brought his team's score to 33 while the Bronchos had only been able to score a lone touchdown. The game ended a few minutes later.

Many Substitutions
Shortly after the Memphis squad chalked up their second score Coach Hubbard began a steady stream of substitutions that saw virtually every member of the Cyclone roster in service. Harris was shifted from left tackle to right half, replacing Foster. B. Bruce took charge of the left tackle position. Brannon replaced D. Sanders at right tackle. After scoring the first touchdown, from his fullback position, Hall was replaced by J. R. Sanders.

Lindsey at Quarter
Lindsey, playing his first game at quarter, turned in an excellent account of himself with three touchdowns to his credit. In other conference games this year Lindsey has been performing from the right half post.

Play Full 60 Minutes
Besides winning a victory over their long time rivals, the Clarendon game set a precedent for at least a few of the Cyclone squad. For one thing, Kesterson, B. Bruce, and Brannon played through an entire game for the first time in their lives. They were on the starting line-up and still in the thick of the battle when the final gun sounded.

Three Cyclone subs saw service for the first time. They were: Joe Crump, Robert Lane, and J. H. Dodson.

First Downs and Yardage
According to tabulations the Memphis team was credited with 15 first downs to Clarendon's 2. Memphis piled up 207 yards from scrimmage while Clarendon could count no higher than 19. Memphis completed 5 out of 15 attempted passes for a total of 73 yards. Clarendon also completed 5, while they only attempted 11 passes, for a total of 59 yards. Pass interceptions during the game were Memphis 2, Clarendon 1. Memphis fumbled twice and recovered once. Clarendon recovered twice while fumbling once.

Memphis was penalized twice for 10 yards while Clarendon drew four penalties for 20 yards. Memphis retained a slight edge in returned kick-offs, having an average of 16 yards to Clarendon's 15. Clarendon penetrated once and permitted Memphis to register five penetrations.

Punts Average 40 Yards
Memphis punted twice during the four quarters for an average of 40 yards. The Bronchos punted nine times for an average of approximately 30 yards.

Cyclone Line Up
The Memphis starting line-up: Glenn Bruce, le; Harris, lt; Clarke, lg; Kesterson, c; Dewlen, rg; D. Sanders, rt; Evans, re; Foster, rh; Dodson, lh; Lindsey, q; Hall, f.

Mrs. D. H. Arnold returned Saturday from an extended visit with her daughter, Mrs. T. C. Delaney in Lubbock. Mr. Delaney and Miss Verna Crump accompanied her to Memphis and spent Sunday as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Delaney.

Part-Time Class In Agriculture Will Be Started

A part-time class in agriculture is to be organized soon by Riley W. Carlton, vocational agriculture teacher in the Memphis High School. The tentative date for starting the class will be Monday, November 15.

The class will be started, provided a sufficient number want it, as an additional service to the community, by making it possible for young men out of school between the ages of 17 and 25 to secure some special training in agriculture.

The first 25 young men to mail post cards giving name, age, and mail address will be admitted to the class, and there will be no cost to such students. The aims, purposes and objectives of the part-time class: To give practical and worthwhile training to students who would not otherwise receive specific training in vocational agriculture; to stimulate a greater appreciation and love for the work, especially farm life; to secure knowledge that will help to earn a better living; afford some opportunity of graduate from high school; to lay an important stone in the foundation of a better future in agriculture.

Mr. Carlton urges all who are interested in this special course to mail post cards at once for enrollment.

Cyclone Is Resting For Skyrocket Tilt

Coach Frank Hubbell's Memphis Cyclone is having a comparative rest this week, as no game is scheduled for Friday night. The interval will undoubtedly be to the team's advantage when it plays against the Wellington Skyrockets Friday, November 19, for the last game of the season.

The neighboring team is admittedly the stronger of the two, having run wild this season to trounce every other squad it has played and to gallop away with conference honors—so far. If the local warriors intend to put a hitch in the Skyrocket plans, they will have to not only trust to luck but also put in some of their hardest playing of the year.

Organized Clubs Form Important Part Of School

This year has seen the organization of a number of clubs in the school. Heretofore no concerted effort has been made to have every student a member of a club. These clubs have been encouraged with the purpose in mind of benefiting the child through the contacts and programs of the clubs. None are compulsory; a student also has his choice of the club to which he will belong. Practically every student in school belongs to a club.

The teachers who are sponsoring the clubs had their choice of the type of club they would organize, the administration feeling that the first prerequisite for success being the interest of the sponsor. In each club each child is expected to take part in the work of the club. Whenever a member loses interest they may drop out and report to the regular study hall work.

The clubs meet twice a month in regular meetings. Called meetings are held occasionally for special work. The time of the meeting is from 1 to 1:45, during the home-room period.

At present the following clubs are active:

- Home Economics Club—Janet McQueen, president; Miss Rachel Deahl, sponsor. F. F. A. Club—Doyce George, president; Riley W. Carlton, sponsor. Dramatic Club—Naomi Smith, president; Mrs. Alfred Burks, sponsor. Debate Club—Evan Roberts, president; Clinton Voyles, sponsor. Spanish Club—Doris Ann Odom, president; Miss Anna Belle Perkins, sponsor. "M" Club—John Harris, president; Frank Hubbell, sponsor. Athletic Club—Bill Johnson, president; Wilson Dees, sponsor. Kodak Club—Genevieve Prater, president; H. J. Gore, sponsor. Senior Girls' Club—Amilda Thomas, president; Miss Joyce Sheats, sponsor.

WEST WARD TEACHERS MEMBERS OF STATE BODY

Two weeks ago an item appeared in The Democrat stating that the entire faculty of the Memphis Junior High School belonged to the Texas State Teachers Association. After its publication, Principal H. J. Gore of the High School informed a member of the staff that each high school teacher was also a member of the association, and that fact was published in last week's paper.

This week Mrs. H. B. Estes reports that West Ward School also has a 100 per cent membership in the organization.

The Memphis Public Schools have a complete representation in the teachers association now.

MEMPHIS FORTUNATE TO HAVE THREE ORGANIZED P. T. A. UNITS

Parent-Teacher Association work is a long neglected phase of education that is fast coming into its own. It has passed the experimental and formative period. Gone is the doubtful, tolerant smile or lifted eye brow of the cynic because parent-teacher work has become an established school system. The objects of the Parent-Teacher Association are as follows:

- To promote the welfare of children and youth in home, school, church, and community.
- To raise the standards of home life.
- To secure adequate laws for the care and protection of children and youth.
- To bring into closer relation the home and the school, that parents and teachers may cooperate intelligently in the training of the child.
- To develop between educators and the general public such united efforts as will secure for every child the highest advantages in physical, mental, social, and spiritual education.

Memphis is fortunate in having three well organized Parent-Teacher Units, each functioning cooperatively under the Parent-Teacher City Council. The collective objective this year is the erection of a hard surface tennis court.

The very magnitude of this town project in which each citizen will share alike. It is with this unity of purpose and cooperative response that the Parent-Teacher Work is being carried on.

Skyrockets Still Lead Conference

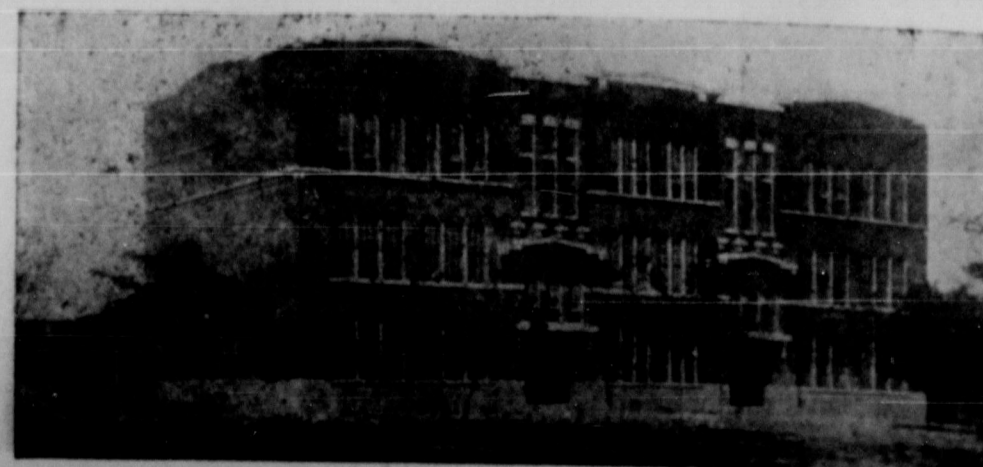

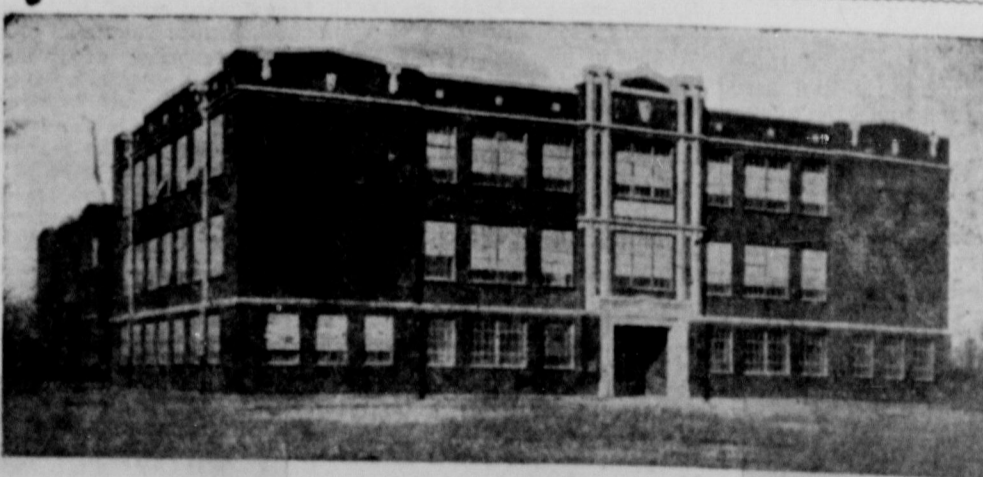

Last Friday night the Memphis Cyclone blew through the Clarendon Bronchos, as expected, for a 33-6 win, remaining, by statistics, the fourth best football team in the 3B conference.

The McLean squad took a 20-0 victory from Lefors to tie for a second place with Shamrock, the Irishmen taking a rest last week. The Wellington Skyrockets also were idle, and remained the leading and only undefeated group.

Wheeler's Mustangs, though out of the conference race, continued their winning streak, begun when they beat the Shamrock Irishmen three weeks ago, by whipping Mobeetie 12-7.

High School Offers Enriched Educational Program

A Message to Parents

The problem of educating your child is the most important thing in your life. You cannot do this alone but must entrust part of it to the school. This makes the business of education a cooperative one. If the fullest cooperation is to be realized, there must be a thorough understanding between the school and the home. Very often this can only be obtained by personal interviews. Parents often hesitate to come to the teachers about their children and in like manner the teachers possibly do not contact the parents as often as they should.

As High School principal, I invite you and urge you to consult us on any problem that concerns your child. Do not think that we, as teachers, do not have time to give to you. This is your school and it is for your children. We are interested in your children, not as much possibly as a good parent, but to the extent that we have made the teaching of them our life work.

Nothing makes a teacher happier than to feel that the parents look upon him as a friend and a fellow worker in the most important work of all. Come to see us about your child, visit him in his classes, talk to his teachers. Do not hesitate to consult us about his education.

It is the objective of the school to place the child in the field most suitable as determined by his abilities and personal characteristics. In this the parent's advice and counsel is always welcome.

Remember that the aim of the school is always to benefit the child. Study your school, its objectives and methods. Become acquainted with the teachers. When you do these things we believe that you will find that you have a school of which you may justly be proud. We also believe that such knowledge and understanding will be reflected in the improved character of work your child will do.

(2) Is the course one which adapts itself to the needs of this particular community? (3) Are there other courses which deserve first consideration? (4) Can the school afford the financial outlay necessary for the introduction of this course? If the school is to improve, the faculty must constantly be working toward higher professional standards. The Memphis High School faculty evidences this attitude by the number of teachers attending the summer schools of the country, the interest in the county professional organization, and by the one hundred percent membership in the Texas State Teachers Association.

The slogan of the year is "Better Methods of Directing Pupil Learning." One of the steps in this direction is the return to the hour periods and the introduction of directed study. The first twenty minutes of each period is given to directed study. Under proper guidance a pupil will accomplish more in twenty minutes than he will in an hour or more of ordinary pupil study.

The supervision of school activities has come to be a real problem in the new school. These activities, once called extra-curricular, have come to mean so much they are no longer classed as "extra" but have come to be a part of the real program of every first class school. Under activities are listed such things as the Year-Book, Clubs, athletics, Interscholastic League work, social activities of the classes, banquets, programs, concerts, class meetings, Home-Room work, financing of various projects, pep-squad and drum corps, etc. If these activities are to bring about the desired results they must be carefully planned and closely supervised. This requires that every teacher must be able to take charge of one or more of these things. The value of a teacher to a school system is no longer measured entirely by the preparation of that teacher in some particular field of study but to a large extent by the ability to take hold of some of these activities and make a success of them. This ability does not come to all teachers naturally but must be acquired through careful planning and study. It is the work of the school to help train these teachers.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Fields visited with relatives in Hollis Sunday.

GOOD RELIEF

of constipation by a GOOD LAXATIVE
Many folks get such refreshing relief by taking Black-Draught for constipation that they prefer it to other laxatives and urge their friends to try it. Black-Draught is made of the leaves and roots of plants. It does not disturb digestion but stimulates the lower bowel so that constipation is relieved.

Arithmetic Course Is Most Unique In Its Possibilities
The high school course in arithmetic is unique in its educational possibilities. It is rich in its results in general mind and character training. For all pupils who take it, it develops skill in computation, and furnishes indispensable knowledge of business and industrial processes and facts that are not acquired in the lower grades or elsewhere in school. For many pupils, such skill and knowledge are distinctly necessary preparation for vocations which they later enter; the girl who becomes a teacher, the boy who becomes a farmer or mechanic, the boy or girl who enters any form of commercial work—all these all find arithmetic skill and the information acquired in solving the problems invaluable.

The "general mathematics" furnishes material for such instruction. It is adapted to the needs of all pupils, whether they take a general course, a vocational course, or a commercial course. It is modern and varied in its appeal because of the use of a great variety of problem material drawn from current life—an abundance of problems having vocational interest for boys and domestic science problems for girls. The appeal is made to the interest of the rural pupils as well as those in the city by a well balanced selection of problem matter. An effort is made to arouse interest in national and local affairs by the study of our system of taxation from a mathematical standpoint.

How much and what to include in the course of mathematics in our community depends upon the previous preparation of the pupils and the special aims of the course. For our criteria we use the rule: "Teach each student to do more efficiently those things that he is going to do in life anyway."

WEST WARD MUSIC
"Music for every child" is the slogan of the music department at West Ward. Believing that every child has the right to his natural singing voice, each child has a regular music period in which songs reflecting his own activities and experiences are taught.

Mrs. Clarence Burks and daughter Merlene and Mrs. Carl Wesley spent Sunday in Amarillo. They went to visit with Mrs. Wesley's sister-in-law, Fawn Ryer, who is ill in the St. Anthony Hospital.

Summer Projects In Home Making Is Part of Work In 10-Months Course

Homemaking students continue their work through June. These summer activities and achievement projects are planned by the pupils and approved and supervised by parents and homemaking teacher. During the summer term larger projects can be undertaken and more definite achievements attained. Homemaking students learn to use their leisure time to increase the satisfaction which can come only through well-planned and shared home and family life.

The summer months afford the homemaking student an opportunity of attaining objectives set up in the state course of study within a home environment in an atmosphere of freedom and pleasure. These projects are a normal extension or outgrowth of the year's work and not an appendage to it. At least 75 per cent of all home economics I and II students continue through the extra month and if a worthwhile piece of work is carried out the student receives half a credit for her extra month's work. The pupils select individual projects for summer that will involve the equivalent of one semester's work if they receive credit.

The homemaking teacher is expected to supervise this extra month's work very closely and put in at least as much time as during any regular school month. Part of this time is spent in:

1. Conferences.
2. Guiding group projects.
3. Home visits.
4. With an adult group.
5. Some inplanning work.

Boys as well as girls may be included in summer work when there is a boys class during the regular term. A summer Home Economics Club is organized during the summer. Through this club the social side of the work is carried out. Good times are essential to the success of any organization. Group projects are also carried out through this organization. Some of these might be:

1. A community improvement project.
2. A department improvement project.
3. A school improvement project.
4. A nursery school.
5. The making of play equipment for a group of neighbor children.
6. Entertainment in the homes of girls.
7. Flower gardens.
8. Projects in cooperation with relief work in the community.

Early in the fall an achievement day is held to show the results of summer projects. The outstanding projects are visited and told about an interesting way. New girls in the department are invited on this trip so that they may know something about the work the following summer.

Progress of Health Education In MHS Takes Rapid Stride

Progress in physical and health education has been so rapid in recent years that laymen have failed to grasp the remarkable change that is taking place, and even physical educators themselves find it difficult to keep up with the vigorous strides. It is not a matter of blame that citizens are scarcely aware of the change. It is difficult for them to conceive of physical education outside of their earlier experiences.

Our progress has developed a field for all. The profession itself is the natural outcome of the scientific study of the child's health. In other words, the profession found that health was not purely physical, but also mental and social. It considers the correction of defects, the teaching of correct attitudes, the teaching of body hygiene, health examinations, and health standards.

About half of our time is spent upon the athletic field developing skills, skills for leisure time and for activity. Giving the school child something to do that he may enjoy after school hours, and something of which society will approve. Play, not for health, or to miss a study hall, but to decrease our juvenile delinquency. Three-fourths of our time is spent in correcting faults of body, movement, body coordination, developing attitudes of sportsmanship, and skills of safety. Many forms of play have been eliminated which have heretofore been over organized and in which the spirit of play has been killed.

The remaining part of our instruction is given over to health instruction, health supervision, and health service. We give specific measures against diseases, first aid service, and recommendation for correction of defects.

The Three R's Are Out of Date; MHS Curricula Varied

What is the curriculum of Memphis High School? Ours is a school of varied activities. No longer do we instill the routine of "the three R's," but class-room work and extra-curricula activities have been moulded into one inseparable unit. Extra-curricula activities have given animation to a passe, formal, secondary program—resulting in the possibility of reproducing life situations in a far-reaching activity program.

With our regular class work we have combined the home-room, clubs, athletics, etc. Just as the home is the center for larger social groups such as the community, state, and nation, in like manner, the home-room centers the larger groups of school life. A thirty minute period is given every day for programs of various interests, stressing citizenship, assembly programs and club work.

We urge each student to become a member of a club of his own choice. The clubs from which he has to choose include the Dramatic, Spanish, Home Economics, Debate, Commercial, Athletic, Kodak, Art, Music, Senior Girls' Club, F. F. A., Choral and Glee Clubs.

For the aesthetic side of life, band, art, Interscholastic League work, and choral singing are offered. The pep squad is composed of girls who represent the spirit of our school.

For the physical welfare we have football, baseball, track, volleyball, basketball, tennis, and other sports.

We think a well balanced school life consists of practical, physical, and aesthetic education fused into one unit—the activity program.

Commercial Unit Has Broad Usage

The Commercial Department is one of the indispensable departments in the high school curriculum. While the primary purpose for the existence of this department is not to equip the students for a vocation, but for their personal use as well. In a larger sense, the study of commercial branches should develop in the student habits of order and clear thinking, should stimulate his imagination and intelligent initiative, and should instill concepts and lofty ideals in business, irrespective of whether all this preparation will seek expression in the field of bookkeeping, secretarial work, salesmanship, and advertising or business management.

It is necessary for this department to do typing, mimeographing, and hectographing for the superintendent's office, principal's office, home economics, vocational agriculture, English, history, mathematics, band, annual staff, and other departments of the high school. Work is being done at present as well as in the past for the teachers and principals of Junior High and West Ward schools.

The commercial department is always available to any and all teachers, and all organizations connected with the schools.

At present there is only one course being offered in typing, bookkeeping, and shorthand, but it is possible that in the near future another course each in Junior Business, Commercial Law, and Office Practice will be taught.

INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE

The Interscholastic League activities are sponsored by the teachers of West Ward. This includes spelling, declamation, story telling, choral work, and rhythm band. Several months training is given in this work in the spring to those pupils who are most interested. West Ward expects to enter a primary chorus in the Interscholastic League Contest which will be held at Turkey next spring.

NATIONAL EDUCATION WEEK

THE NATIONWIDE observance of American Education Week affords an opportunity to focus the attention of parents, teachers, and all citizens upon the importance of education to American democracy. Parents join with teachers in parent-teacher associations in furthering the observance through participation in school and community programs. The theme of the week is: "Education and Our National Life".

Throughout the nation such topics as "Can we Educate for Peace?"; "Our American Youth Problem?"; "Schools and the Constitution"; "Buying Educational Service"; and "Lifelong Learning." Some of the suggested activities that may be engaged in by the parents during this week are as follows:

- (1) Learn how the home and school, working together, may function in reaction to the community with reference to the welfare of children and youth;
- (2) Discover how the individual home may contribute to the effectiveness of learning on the part of the child;
- (3) Ascertain what provision is made in the school program for the health, intellectual growth, social cooperation, and emotional stability of the pupil;
- (4) Become familiar with a day's program of school work as followed out by the child.

In short, the object of the National Education Week is to bring the schools to the community in such a way that the people will know what the schools are doing toward building better citizens for the community. It is only through the schools that the national life of the nation will be improved; as go the schools, so goes the nation. It is the responsibility of the people to see that the schools are headed in the right direction.

The schools of Memphis invite the parents and friends to visit the schools at any convenient time, but more especially during the week from November 7-13. The open house program was planned especially for those who are not able to make daytime visit.

ARMISTICE DAY WAR CLOUDS

IN COMMEMORATION of the signing of the Armistice, nineteen long years ago, Memphis and Hall County will reverently celebrate. But, will it be the last joyous Armistice?

Nineteen years after, and once again there are rumbles of war throughout the world. Nineteen years after, and still we cling to every effort toward Peace.

War clouds gather, to grow blacker and blacker, in the far East, and yet the fact remains that all the people in any one country never want a war. Any group of men, from any variety of nations left together socially will talk and laugh and have a fraternally good time. But there are a few individuals in the world who have the power to force the issue of war at the cost of millions of innocent lives.

There is only one reason for war and that is the protection of one's own land. Every young boy in every home in America should know that, and understand its full significance. The best man to make him understand is the father who remembers the events that preceded Armistice Day.

None can forget, who were in the last war. None can forget who had sons or husbands or fathers in the last war. None can forget who have read facts about the last war. Everybody hopes the world never wars again! Is it too much?

The world still thrills to a martial air. But, these are emotional reactions. When the world stops to really think—the world wants peace. The theme of the Armistice celebration in Memphis this year, "World Peace," expresses that desire.

An odd-job man of Lancaster, N. Y., known only as "Ben," never walks on sidewalks or roads. He says he has no right to do so as he does not pay any taxes. "He always walks in the gutter. . . . "There's a divinity that shapes our shapes. . . . Now that the world's most powerful bomber has been built, the ranking military brains will complete the vicious cycle by rigging up the most powerful anti-aircraft gun to bring it down.—The Wellington Leader.

Trail Dust
He is braver than I who looked upon the golden leaves dangling as tempestuous butterflies in the autumn sun with the knowledge that his eyes were doomed forever before another summer should leave its wealth at the door of fall. And yet his silvery laughter echoes down from the dismal steeps of shadows with a sincerity which convinces that only in the heart can a man be blind. . . . Gossip is a fire burning dry weeds between the water holes of truth but its smoke appears genuine. . . . When a man waits for opportunity, he has tasted the Lotus flower of procrastination and will remain a victim of the pleasant stupor until need, tragedy or age holds lighted tapers to his feet.—Douglas Meador in Matador Tribune.

Pay Your Poll Tax
Every citizen should pay his poll taxes for 1938 this year, and most especially the farmer who might profit materially as a result. Next year will be a political year for Texas, with state, district and county officials to be elected. Every member of the lower house of the legislature must be elected in November with the real election coming in July and August.—Paducah Post.

Self Preservation
And talking about folks being imposed on, some of us men are imposing on our wives too much.

The Apostle Says
Reading these modern day murder reports, one must come to the conclusion that some men are so sentimental that they can't jilt a girl without putting her out of her misery. . . . West Texas air takes the "complex" out of complexion, then covers the complexion with an air-tight tan that keeps it securely for ages. (Many an old squaw had a fine complexion at 120—if you took time to dig down to it). . . . Cotton, readily accepted as king for ages, is also a dictator and master of the people of his kingdom. . . . With the scarcity of hogs the past few years, what in the dickens are they slicing this 60-cent bacon off of all this time?—Donley County Leader.

Subconscious and Otherwise
Everybody has a subconscious mind. So have I and it gets on my nerves sometimes. . . . I want a three-room house and a back yard full of Plymouth Rock chickens. . . . LOADING RUBBER ON SMALL BOATS IN LIBERIA FOR TRANSPORTATION TO OCEAN FREIGHTERS
From the Firestone plantations in Liberia comes an ever-increasing supply of the world's finest rubber. More saved here and in manufacturing and distribution enable Firestone to sell a safer, higher quality tire at lower prices.

Why FIRESTONE MAKES A SAFER TIRE AT A LOWER PRICE

IN THE Firestone Standard Tire, you get extra value in the form of extra safety. It costs more money to build a safer tire. But Firestone can build a first-quality tire made of top grade materials and sell it for less money, because Firestone controls rubber and cotton supplies at their sources, manufactures with greater efficiency and distributes at lower cost. YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST BLOWOUTS—eight extra pounds of rubber are added to every 100 pounds of cord by the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process. YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST PUNCTURES—because under the tread are two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords. YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING—because the tread is scientifically designed. YOU GET LONGER NON-SKID MILEAGE because of the extra tough, long-wearing tread. Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign today by equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Standard Tires.

DON'T RISK YOUR LIFE ON SMOOTH TIRE DO YOU KNOW THAT last year highway accidents cost the lives of more than 38,000 men, women and children? THAT a million more were injured? THAT more than 40,000 of these deaths and injuries were caused directly by punctures, blowouts and skidding due to smooth, worn, unsafe tires?

West Ward Is Doing Outstanding Educational Work

Teachers and Directors at West Ward School

Student Body 300 Strong At Local Grammar School

The student body of West Ward is a group of interested, enthusiastic little children who are eager to find their way into learning. The picture presents a tremendous challenge both to those who teach and to those who support the schools financially.

Our school consists of first, second, and third grades. The enrollment to date is approximately 300. About 60 of these pupils are coming into our school on buses. There are ten teachers working in this unit.

One of the aims of the year's program is to enrich the lives of these boys and girls and to lead the children to accept and discharge effectively their responsibilities as members of the home and school groups in such a manner as to develop initiative, self-control, originality, and responsibility.

Another objective is to stimulate pride in worth while accomplishments and lead them to do creative work.

PLAYGROUND ACTIVITIES TEACH WEST WARD CHILDREN SELF-CONTROL

A great lesson can be taught through playground activities. This lesson is that of self-control. No child who is not taught self-control can be a success at any game. Take for instance the high tempered boy or girl who cannot take defeat. With the right kind of training, it is possible for them to overcome that unfortunate obstacle to a certain degree, that keeps them from being the kind of student they wish to be.

Citizenship can be taught in no better place than on the playground. The wide awake teacher will not find a lesson of good time to teach a lesson of good citizenship. We should be the kind of playground supervisor that will create within the child the desire to be loyal to his school and his fellow students. In this way he realizes that he has a responsibility, a duty to perform for his school. When the child feels this responsibility, it will give him the desire to be loyal and true in every respect. There is always a splendid opportunity for creating a desire for leadership and after having learned the former lessons, will the students not also have enough respect for his fellow students to have the willingness to be a follower?

Social Relations
Another problem which may be solved by proper playground supervision is that of social relations. It is true that we have in our schools children who have been reared under very different environments. No child can do his best play or work if he has the feeling that he is superior or, on the other hand, inferior to other children around him. The ability to meet strangers, make them feel welcome, and interest them in activities may be taught to children on the playground.

The activity program, while its ideal and the aim and dream of educators generally, makes new demands upon the housing and the equipment which cannot be met as promptly as we might wish. So in our school we must enrich the curriculum in every way we can while the change is being done. We have a need to keep little hands busy with profitable tasks while another group is under the direct supervision of the teacher. In former times these in-between periods were filled with much aimless, wasteful activity. Now the teacher provides as definitely for the child's growth or learning in his inter-recitation periods as she does for his direct supervision periods. Out of these supervised periods, we see two outgrowths—learning to study and carrying on activities independently.

Mrs. Omer Nations of Wheeler spent Saturday and Sunday in Memphis visiting with Mrs. J. E. Hughes and with Mrs. S. W. Black and family.

West Ward P. T. A. Is An Enthusiastic Group Of Workers

Much credit for the success of our school should be given to the work of our parent-teacher organization. We have a group of enthusiastic workers in our West Ward unit all striving to perform their duties 100 per cent. Each room has a room-mother who co-operates in making school conditions of the child more comfortable. Such an organization, working in harmony with teachers and other school officers, proves an asset to any school.

Through the good fellowship and understanding established between the parent and the teacher, their viewpoint is broadened and needed insight is given unto their pupils' homes and environments thus making possible a more intelligent understanding on the part of the teacher of the children's needs and potentialities.

Our school's annual Halloween Carnival is an outstanding project sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association. This year we realized a reasonable amount from the proceeds.

Teaching Methods Offer Advantage

The unit and project methods of teaching are proving to be an advantage over the "straight text book diet" in that they bring out originality and creative thinking. In doing the research work needed, the child is able to show his resourcefulness or lack of it and to express his particular idea in the development of the subject at hand. It is another experiment to a much better understanding and appreciation than can be gained by merely reading the subject matter.

The project gives a picture of the thing mastered or a definite conclusion to work toward, a certain objective to be accomplished usually through work done outside as well as inside the school.

This pupil centered program is in harmony with the purpose of education which will develop co-operation and effective participation in social life. It will also develop capacity for readjustment that is necessary in a changing civilization.

Memphis' Junior High School Leads As Progressive Laboratory School

THIRTY MINUTE MUSIC CLASSES

Teach Music Theory And Appreciation

Each section in Junior High School has a thirty minute period for music each day, with the exception of two sixth grade sections, which alternate with art. In that thirty minutes is taught both theory and appreciation. Every child in school is learning to do sight-singing. Every child is learning to appreciate the lives and works of the Music Masters, singing songs composed by them and hearing records of their compositions.

In our school we have a Girls' Chorus and a Boys' Chorus. These choruses appear on our assembly programs, P-T. A. programs, will take part in the church program at the close of Educational Week, and will broadcast from Amarillo during the year. In addition to the choruses, Junior High has a Saxette Band, directed by Mr. Pulis, of twenty-five members. Fifteen Junior High boys and girls play in the High School Band.

It is the desire of the Music department that boys and girls who leave Junior High School will have a fuller appreciation for music, both vocal and instrumental, and that each student will enjoy participating in musical performances of some kind.

Junior High Open House Is Attended By Many Parents

The open house at Junior High School was visited by many parents.

In keeping with National Education Week the Junior High School students and teachers presented a cross section of their work to the parents. All the teachers and some 300 students had part in the program.

An outstanding feature of the program was a contrast between the old and new methods of teaching. The teachers had their units started and the program was a climax to the units. This made it possible for the parents to see the school at work.

Each student was awarded five points on his grade for the attendance of his parents.

The program was as follows:

- Old methods of teaching, Miss Hammond.
- New method of teaching, Mrs. Montgomery.
- Refreshments, P-T. A.
- Aims of Parent-Teacher Association, Mrs. DeBerry.
- Music directed by Miss Foreman.

After this program the parents were invited to the following:

- Language Arts, Mrs. Compton.
- Language Arts, Mrs. Lemons.
- Mathematics, Mrs. Hall.
- Mathematics, Mr. Devin.
- Art, Mrs. Beckett.

Junior High Takes Lead In Progress

Our school is a work shop for every type of problem in life. We are trying to fit the learning to the child rather than the child to the learning.

Our students are engaged in a wide variety of activities; in fact, we are trying to let these people live a rich natural life while they are in school, as well as teach them how to live when they have finished school. To do this we use many methods such as: Units, socialized recitations, group study, laboratory, and problematic.

We believe that "people learn to do by doing." We allow much freedom in what the child does, but he is not free to waste his time.

A Whole or in Parts?

In our Language Arts classes, instead of reading, spelling, and language being taught separately and apart as if they were unrelated subjects, we are attempting to teach them as they are—each an important and essential part of the other. In the students' search through reference books, readers, magazines, newspapers, and other sources, for information relating to various subjects of interest being studied in our units, they are certainly becoming more independent readers.

In giving much of this information to other members of the class by means of class discussion and oral and written reports they are given practice in oral and written language and in spelling. Instead of the teacher saying, "You must learn this or read that," the child is saying, "I have read this or I learned that; may I tell it to the others?"

Fourth Grade Activities

The Fourth Grade Language Arts Classes are learning how to use reading material outside of their regular text books, such as finding words in the dictionary using material in reference books and magazines. They are becoming interested in problems of every day life and are realizing that there is more to school than just learning to spell and read mechanically.

This is being accomplished through the development of units. Some of the units for this year are: Wild Animals, Indian Life, Homes of Different Nations, and Our Clothes. One would think when stepping into one of these classes that there is more play than work, but after all if the good is accomplished by the use of activities then we have achieved our purpose.

Imaginary Journeys

Our Social Science in the fourth grade, consisting of geography and health, lends itself well to the unit method of teaching and our "Journeys in Distant Lands" is very interesting and informative to the children. In our imaginary journey we plan to visit several countries, learning as much as possible about the people, their modes of living, and other facts as they appear in the unit.

Friendly Rivalry Develops Ability

The literary activities of our daily school program are given opportunity for still further development in the interscholastic events of our annual spring meet.

Students interested in, or having a special ability in, music are encouraged to take part in the choral singing; those interested in art, in the picture memory contest; those desiring further training in arithmetic may compete in the number sense group; and from the Language Arts and Social Science groups come entrants in debate, declamation, extemporaneous speech, ready writers contest, spelling and plain writing, and story-telling.

Every child is permitted and encouraged to enter one of these groups and to enter into the spirit of friendly rivalry, learning to be a gallant winner or a gracious loser—whichever may fall to his or her lot—knowing that the greatest value lies not in having won but in having tried and profited by the training given.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy McQueen and Ann Bryan arrived in Memphis Friday night from Corpus Christi to spend a week visiting with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Hayes and daughter Bernice were visitors in Amarillo Thursday of last week.

There are 343 pupils enrolled in Junior High School.

There are ten teachers, including the principal.

Each student carries five subjects.

There are five hour periods and a home room period.

The first twenty minutes of each period is a study period. In this way the teacher is able to give supervised study which is much better than the old study hall.

for WOMEN only

CARDUL is a special medicine for the relief of some of the suffering which results from a woman's weakened condition. It has been found to make monthly periods less disagreeable, and, when its use has been kept up awhile, has helped many poorly nourished women to get more strength from their food. This medicine (pronounced "Card-u-i") has been used and recommended by women for many, many years. Find out whether it will help you by giving it a fair trial. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

Sports Find Places In School Program

The various school boy sports find their places in the time allotted for group exercise. During the recent months football has received emphasis and from twenty-five to thirty boys have been practicing daily. Basketball, playground ball, and track will have their places during the year.

While engaging in these outdoor sports the aim to develop stronger bodies with better muscle co-ordination, and more courage is not forgotten. Fair play, which is that one play as he expects his opponents to play against him, is demanded at all times. The playground is recognized as a fine place to develop the child mentally, socially, and physically.

Unit Method Used In Public School

"The old school was an autocratic laboratory trying to train the child for a democratic society."

Never before and perhaps never again in our lifetime will we have an opportunity like the present to make such an outstanding advance in human democracy.

The unit method used in our public schools is one of the agencies to teach the child to live richly, enjoy fully, and accomplish successfully; thus in helping him to grow and develop his individuality, initiative, and appreciation, he has an opportunity to get on the right train and start in the right direction.

The seventh grade has completed a unit on "Mexico, Our Neighbor." One of the objectives of this unit is to establish a background for a wholesome, friendly feeling towards the Mexican in the United States and the people of Mexico. This understanding was brought about through their interest in the people, their lives, their customs, their backgrounds, and their contributions to civilization. A museum containing a collection of real articles from Mexico and an extensive exhibit of material from the child were displayed.

The fifth and sixth grades have just completed a unit on "Indian Life." By engaging in the study of this unit the pupil was given an opportunity to enrich and develop his abilities and powers within his environment.

Some of the activities engaged in were: Planning and preparing an assembly program, collecting and arranging an Indian display, having an Indian Powwow.

Knowledge was not an end in itself, but used as a tool to develop a spirit of cooperation, tolerance, sympathy, constructive thinking, reasoning, helpful habits, skills, and to solve life-like problems as they develop in the units.

Math Important In Junior High School

Numbers need not be eliminated from the curriculum. We are trying to teach the child more numbers so that he will have a means of thinking precisely. Our aim is to introduce Mathematics as the child needs it to carry on his work. Less drill and more practical transactions should be stressed.

A better method of solution is strived for; it is that experience that will help to master the situations in life. Then, too, proper study habits are stressed. Every student in the school is required to take Mathematics.
