Boll Cotton or Dirty Trashy Cotton

I have had years of experience in ginning Boll Cotton and with 22750 square inches of screening surface in two big cleaners and cleaner feeders, I am prepared to give you the best sample of any gin in Hall county and at the same time give you as good turnout as can be had—for I get the cotton out of the burrs. Bring me your next bale and let me show you. I can prove to you beyond a doubt that I can give you a better sample than any gin in this section. If you have a remnant remember I am in the market and will give you the market price.

Yours for good ginning,

M. S. SMITH DIES AT LAKEVIEW

Pioneer Citizen of Hall County Passes Away Saturday Morning

The many friends of M. S. (Hank) Smith of Lakeview were greatly shocked Saturday when they learned of the death at his home near Lakeview. Mr. Smith had been ill for some time with paralysis and gradually became worse until he passed to the great beyond Saturday morning about ten o'clock. The remains were made ready for burial by Undertakers King & Battle of Memphis. Funeral services were held at Union Hill church Sunday afternoon at two o'clock and services were conducted by Elder D. A. Leak of Memphis, after which the remains were tenderly laid to rest in the Union Hill cemetery.

Mr. Smith was forty two years of age at his death and had been a citizen of Hall county for the past twenty-five years. It is said of Mr. Smith that he did not have an enemy in Hall county, and that was quite evident by the large concourse of friends that gathered to pay their last respects. It was the largest funeral procession we have witnessed in the Panhandle, the procession being easily over a mile long. There were one hundred and fifty vehicles, forty saddle horses and twenty automobiles in attendance besides many who had gathered on foot. About twelve of these automobiles were from Memphis, all carrying from four to six passengers, who had known Mr. Smith in life and wanted to pay their last respects to this noble citizen.

He leaves a wife and one boy about nine years of age, besides other relatives to mourn his death and to those the Democrat together with a host of friends of the family join them in deepest expressions of sympathy in their sad hour.

Memphis Takes Game From Estelline.

The Memphis High School foot ball team went down to Estelline Saturday and took a hard fought game from the Estelline boys to the tune of 19 to 6. The game is said to have been real interesting and many good plays pulled off by both sides. The Memphis team will play the Goodnight team in about two weeks on the Goodnight grounds at which time we expect the boys to bring home another victory in the form of a buffalo hide.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank the people of Memphis from the bottom of our hearts for the many acts of kindness rendered us during the illness and death of our dearly loved wife and mother. May it be many a long day before any of you will be called upon to undergo this sad loss.

Miss Leeper Here Friday Night November 21st at Presbyterian Church

Miss Augusta Leeper who has been secured by the Woman's Culture Club to sing here November 21st, at the Presbyterian church for the benefit of Carnegie Library, has recently returned from her studies at Milan, Italy, and gave her initial entertainment last night at Corpus Christi with five numbers on Presidents evening, before the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

Miss Leeper comes to Memphis from Amarillo, where she sings the night of the 20th.

The interest shown in this young artist, by famous singers both in America an aboard insures for Memphis an entertainment of the very highest quality.

The committee will deliver tickets to those who subscribed in advance. Tickets will also be on sale at Fickas-Tomlinson Drug store. Prices 75 and 50 cents.

What Is Life.

A sermon will be repeated Sunday night by special request on "What Is Life," at the First Baptist church. The question will be viewed from the standpoint of three definitions, one from the Bible, one from Science and one from the greatest Infidel. You are cordially invited to hear this discussion. Special quartette music.

Card of Thanks

Not being able to see each one personally we wish to sincerely thank our many friends and especially our neighbors through the papers, for their many acts of kindness and tender sympathy extended us during the recent illness and death of our beloved wife and mother. May the time be far distant before any of you will be called upon to bear such a heavy burden of sorrow as our sincere wish.

PLANS TO RAISE EMBARGO ON ARMS

Huerta Has Adopted a Waiting Policy, Considering His Note Places Next Move up to Wilson.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—Develements which became apparent in the Mexican situation here today emphasized the determination of the Washington Government to refuse to recognize any acts of the new Mexican congress.

It also became apparent that President Wilson is seriously considering the question of permitting the shipment of arms to all factions in the southern republic.

Secretary Bryan today had a long conference with Senor Algara who is in charge of the Mexican embassy.

It is understood that Bryan told Senator Algara that the United States would consider the elections of members of congress as illegal as the election of president and vice-president.

Secretary summoned the ministers from the five Central American republics and outlined to them in a general way just what had been done by the United States in its diplomatic parleys with the Mexican government. Later he announced that he had been in communication with the diplomatic representatives of the European powers and informed them the general terms of the steps taken by this government so far.

It is reported that some of these diplomats have sent long dispatches to their home government describing the situation as being closer to a complete break in the diplomatic relations between the United States and Mexico than at any time since the trouble in Mexico began.

The State Department today made public the statement made by provisional president Huerta to the diplomatic corps which he assembled in Mexico City Saturday night at midnight, the burden of which was that the presidential elections would be held null and void and so declared and that the newly elected members of the congress would be installed and that the national legislature would soon be allowed to re-

Interesting Meeting of Literary Society.

The High School Literary Society held its first regular meeting in the Carnegie Library November 7. The election of officers was completed and the by-laws and constitutions were read and adopted with few changes. Philip Clipper was made Sergeant at arms; Miss Coon critic and Forrest Power and Jack Randal censors.

After the business meeting was completed the following program was rendered:

Piano solo—Terra Cagle.
Vocal duet—Ruby Baldwin and Ethelyne Morgan.

Reading—Ruth Randal.

Piano solo—Gladys Denny.

The society has an enrollment of about fifty-eight and every one is invited to come and join.

The next meeting will be held Friday night, November 21, at the Library.

The Woman's Culture Club met with Mrs. W. B. Quigley, Wednesday, November 5th. Sixteen members answered to roll call with familiar lines from Shakespeare. Mrs. Kerr, sister of Mrs. Dial and Mrs. Bonham, Mother of Mrs. Finch were guests. After the business session the following program was rendered. A sketch of Pompeys life and conquest was given by Mrs. D. A. Neeley and Mrs. W. P. Dial was leader of the Shakespeare Lesson, Julius Caesar, Act. II, Scenes II, III and IV. The benefits and evils of Foreign Immigration was discussed by Mrs. H. A. Finch. At the close of the program the hostess brought forth dainty refreshments and an enjoyable time spent. The Club adjourned to meet November 19th, with Mrs. W. P. Dial.

In view of the fact that Huerta's note recited in detail his defense of his recent actions it is taken to be obvious that it was intended to answer Wilson's attitude.

Judge Kittrell Opposes Making Prohibition Sole Test For Governor.

Houston, Texas—Judge Kittrell of this city, who is one of the staunchest prohibitionists in Texas, has issued a public statement in opposition to making prohibition the paramount test of fitness for governor and proposing a vote on state wide prohibition, with a ballot separating beer and whiskey. The Judge takes the position that fermented beverage is not a menace to society. There are no distilleries in Texas, but we have twelve malt liquor establishments, representing an investment of $7,027,000 and giving employment to a thousand persons with an annual pay roll of $900,000.

Texas Made Vinegar Finds Home Market

San Antonio, Texas—A solid trainload of vinegar, composed of fifteen cars and consigned to a local wholesale concern, arrived here today from Paris, Texas. The product was made in Paris, from Lamar County fruits. This is the largest single shipment from the plant since its establishment. There are 963 establishments in the United States employed in the manufacture of vinegar and only four of them are in Texas. The products of the Texas factories are of excellent quality and compare favorably with those of other states. Texas manufactured vinegar is sold in this state principally, although numerous shipments have been made to other states recently.

sion of a man by the name of Barr to the killing of Miss Brown in Dallas several weeks ago and a Mrs. Ellie Lake was

POSTMASTER GENERAL BUR-LESON in his efforts to see that all Christmas packages are delivered on or before Christmas day, will have large signs posted up in all postoffice buildings to the effect, that everybody should packages early so the mails may

Now that Huerta has practically hurled defiance in the face of Uncle Sam, what are we going to do with him? Some people will say we should send an army down there and wipe the earth up with them and make them behave themselves; others will say that the embargo should be raised on arms and ammunition and let them kill each other, but in either case we are taking great risk. It does not matter what course President Wilson pursues in this all perplexing question, somebody will be ready to say, if he had followed this course he would have did the right thing, and there you are.

We notice an account in the Greenville Banner of the death of John A. Hodge, one of Greenville's pioneer citizens and newspaper men. We deeply regret to learn of his death as we had known Mr. Hodge personally every since we were a mere boy.
In fact, we served our apprenticeship in the composing room of the Greenville Banner under Mr.
Hodge's foremanship, and we always found him a perfect gentleman and a man that was always ready and willing to do the right thing towards his fellowman. In his death Greenville loses one of her most active business men. We deeply sympathize with the heartbroken relatives left to mourn his death.

TRUTH CREATES CONFIDENCE IN ADVERTISING

By W. Holt Harris
A modern business concern with its wide-awake eyes on the balance sheet cannot overlook the fact that advertising pays big dividends. Printer's ink distributed through the columns of the local paper, is the best advertising medium, and no merchant can climb the ladder of success without it. Truth in advertising is manifestly essential. It creates confidence, and confidence is the first requisite for securing buyers. Honesty creates good will. The good will of the purchaser is both desirable and necessary in successful selling.
Successful selling consists not only of furnishing the buyer with the commodity he desires.
It is the least of the service he performs in selling. The manner in which the article is transferred to the purchaser, the courtesy, kindness and decency with which the transaction is made is supremely important.
This is the policy of the advertisers of this paper.

BOYS EAT 'SNAKES' DOCTORS ARE IN DEMAND

Amateur Carnival Actors Are Cured of Their Desire for Side Show Fame

Greenwood, Ark., Nov 8—
Snake eating shows no longer have charms for the youth of the rural community of Sebastian county. The epidemic of snake eating which followed a carnival attraction exhibiting here, has passed, and the youths who tried it feel about the same as do those who have just finished the first cigar. Never again for them.
"Bosco" the snake eater, or one of his numerous kin, played Greenwood during a recent agricultural show, and the snake pit was an attraction with the country boy who wanted to see them
"eaten alive."
After the show had gone the snake eating fever remained, and a snake show was organized among the boys of Greenwood.
The tent was made of bran sacks and the performers were secured, but there were no snakes to be found. In vain did the boys turn over logs in the woods, and large rocks along the creek beds
but still no snakes.

Determined to give a performance and positively refusing to return the pins collected for the admission of the anxious audience, the boys took the best substitute they could find. They were successful in their search for worms, and what the snake eaters lacked in quality they made up in quantity. One snake would have been a reasonable measure for the star performer, had the real thing been obtainable, but as a substitute ten worms was the best to be offered.

Each performed tried to outdo the other, and the quantity of worms consumed was amazing.
Greenwood doctors did a thriving business among the performers that night. The worms became obstreperous only they were downed, and would not come up half so easily, so the doctors were sent for to relieve the pains of the would-be snake eaters.

Parental objection is no longer needed to put an end to snake eating contests.

Huerta Plays Waiting Game.

Mexico City, Nov. 10—The acute stage of Mexico's economic situation was shown today in a long continued run on the banks, and served to accentuate the fears of the Mexican people.

This combined with the reports of the military operations which are taking place in different parts of the country appear to have distracted attention for the moment at least from the possible danger that may come from the strained relations with the United States.

Among the Mexican officials, this anxiety is masked.

The waiting policy has now been transferred to Mexico City since Huerta seems to think that his note to the diplomatic representatives places the burden of future action on the government at Washington.

The attitude of John Lind is one of expectancy.

Wilson Explains His Attitude to England

London, Nov. 10—Walter H Page, United States ambassador, today presented to the British foreign office another message from President Wilson, the general effect of which is that under no circumstances will the President recognize Provisional President Huerta or any of his acts.

President Wilson's message is regarded here as in the nature of not calling for a reply.

Great Britain therefore, awaits a more definite pronouncement from President Wilson, setting forth precisely the steps which he purposes to take to enforce his policy before sending a formal reply.

British officers deny British money has been advanced to support Provisional President Huerta.

Boundary Hearing Begins in El Paso for 10,000 Acres

El Paso, Nov. 10—Taking of testimony in the New Mexico Texas boundary dispute was commenced here this afternoon before Commissioners Charles C. Roby for Texas, and W. E. Baker for New Mexico. The sitting of the commissioners will probably last for sixty days and the testimony will be sent to the supreme court of the United States, which is considering the suit of New Mexico for about 10,000 acres of rich Rio Grand valley land over which Texas now exercises jurisdiction.

The land is situated between El Paso and Anthony, N. M., and on whether the Rio Grand ran where it is now, or farther west depends the title. If Texas can prove that the river once ran a mile west, it wins the land. If New Mexico establishes the boundary where the river now runs, New Mexico wins.

Attorney General E. W. Clancy is chief counsel for New Mexico and Attorney General B. F. Looney is chief counsel for Texas.

If you have bought goods from us you will come back again to deal with us, if you are not one of our customers, give us a trial. 19 4c. MEMPHIS SADDLERY CO.

Clint—H. J. Gray, manager of the El Paso Valley Fruit growers' association is endeavoring to get the members of the association to plant 300 acres or more to watermelons next spring. He has the assurance of 200 acres and it is probable that the 300 mark will be reached before planting time. A market has been assured for the yield.

Post City—The progressive citizens of this county have just succeeded in voting the issuance of $50,000 of good roads bonds and work will commence immediately on the building of some of the best graveled and paved turnpikes in the state.

PLEASANT EVENING REVERIES

Crude Thoughts From The Editorial Pen

UNTO YOU, YOUNG MEN. WE WRITE.

It has been asserted that every man can live within the limit of his income; and of the average young man, at least, it is doubtless true. At all events the necessities of life and very cheap and very small, indeed, must be the wage that will not permit a young man to support life soberly and decently. It is the luxuries that come high, the unnecessary cigars, the indulgence in liquors, the questionable entertainments, the betting, the card playing, trying to ape those in better circumstances. These are the things which young men generally go into debt for, not for the necessities of life. For the "husks of swine" verily, that mortgage themselves, souls and bodies. For the sake of gratifying his vanity of dressing as well as others who have more than double his means; by wishing to appear what he calls as up-to-date as his friends or boon companions, many excuses of Esau, whose necessity was at least real. His wants are imaginary, and their gratification only serves to create an army of unlawful desires, which drags him lower and lower into the slough of debt, despondency and degradation, until manhood, honor, hope, enthusiasm, self respect—all that makes life dear—goes out in darkness. "A contented mind is a contented feast," but a feast that can never be enjoyed by the victim to debt.

THANK YOU

It is in the home with those we love best we fail to say "thank you." The wife scarcely thinks to speak the simple words when her husband restores to her the handkerchief she has dropped or rises and gives her the easy chair which he has occupied until her entrance. And how sadly often does the young girl forget to express gratitude for the numberless little things the patient mother does for her. It is taken for granted that mother shall neatly mend the ripped glove or sew the missing button on the shoe, or put the ruching in the neck of the daughter's gown. The girl does not say "she is here to do these things," but her actions speak louder than words. In the depths of her heart, the most loyal mother must sometimes miss and long for the speech of affectionate thanks. Many of the amenities of life become matters of habit. Would it not be well for us in our homes to cultivate the habit of saying, "thank you."

Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it." This motto will hold good in most cases. They will approach their mothers and ask to do thus, which she will forbid, they will insist on it, but she will not consent, and eventually they will resort to tears (or rather bawl) which they know full well will gain the victory. Mother will say, "well, go and do it if nothing else will satisfy you." Right here you have given your child room to doubt your veracity. We have seen children of a few summers stand up and tell their mother they would not do a thing she had firmly commanded them to do. That is fearful to think of, and more than likely that mother will drink the cup of sorrow to the dregs, and that child will bring her gray hairs with sorrow to the grave.

Many college-bred girls never teach. They go out in the world and raise the average intelligence; they elevate their own household and exert an influence in the sphere of the private citizen. The standard is raised at home, and home is the fountain head. Women who marry after being liberally educated make more satisfactory union than they otherwise would have made.

GATHERED FRAGMENTS

Love needs no label. The only way to have a friend is to be one.

The future holds no failures to the eye of faith.

Fast living makes fast links in the devil's chain.

God measures by motives, men by mistakes.

God never forgets the man that forgets himself.

A mother's tears are the same in all languages.

There is good in all to the man who is altogether good.

Do not emphasize your virtues by enlarging on the failings of others.

Never retort an angry word. It is the second word that makes the quarrel.

Learn to say kind and pleasant things whenever the opportunity offers.

A safe way to judge a man is to ascertain just what friends he doesn't make.

It is a good thing for most wives that more husbands don't talk in their sleep.

Many a man pretends to care for a woman when all he cares for is himself.

Think a little of your own defects and you will think less of the defects of others.

When you converse with a gossip you talk into a graphophone; the first person who turns the crank gets the whole story.

ECHOES FROM THE PRESS ASSOCIATION MEETING HELD IN MEMPHIS ON SEPTEMBER 19-20, 1913

On last Friday and Saturday the 25th annual session of the Northwest Texas Press association met in the city of Memphis, the county seat of Hall county, and the meeting was one of the most satisfactory and the best attended in many years.

The program was carried out with very few omissions, and all the discussions and papers were of great profit to the members who heard and took part in them.

Most of the press arrived on the north bound train that reaches Memphis at 9:32 in the morning, and they were greeted by a large delegation of citizens and the brass band. From the depot we were escorted to the Commercial Club room where an hour was spent in getting acquainted with the people of the city, before the meeting of the association began.

The session began at 10:30 in the Carnegie library building. A. S. Moss, former county attorney of Clay county, delivered the address of welcome for the city, and A. W. Read, secretary of the Commercial Club spoke for that organization. The response was by E. P. Haney of Wichita Falls.

The officers of the association elected to serve for the coming year were:

President—E. P. Haney, Wichita Searchlight.

Vice President J. C. Thomas, Childress Post.

Secretary—Cyrus Coleman, Henrietta Independent.

Treasurer—Sam A. Roberts, Buckburnett Star.

Amarillo was chosen as the next place of meeting.

Memphis was lavish in her entertainment of the association. On Friday afternoon we were taken for an auto ride into the country, covering about 60 miles, visiting the two inland villages of Lodge and Lakeview. Like most other sections of the Middle West and Southwest states, Hall county was hurt by the extremely dry and hot summer, but she has made a fair yield of all crops planted. Maize, Kafir corn and other feed crops of that variety were luxuriant, and cotton looked much better than in other parts of the country this way. The gins were all running, and posted on many fences was the sign, "Cotton Pickers Wanted." We were informed that Hall county needs 1000 cotton pickers right now.

Our auto ride was somewhat marred by the high wind and sand which was about the same as prevailed here at the same hour, but it was enjoyed, nevertheless, for it gave us a view of a very fine country with a productive soil covered with good crops. Their land is sandy, some red and some dark, and is especially productive of cotton and feed crops. Prairie Dog Town fork of Red river runs through the county a little to the north of the center, and makes a large quantity of river valley land that for fertility and resistant power to drouth can hardly be surpassed anywhere.

The soil produces garden stuff and truck as good as can be found. One of the best treats the association had was a water melon feast given by Judge J. F. Bradley, who owns a fine farm adjoining the city limits.

Another fine feature of our entertainment was a reception at the Commercial Club room on Friday evening, when we were given the opportunity to meet informally a large number of the Memphis ladies and gentlemen.

Two former citizens of Clay county live in Memphis and they are doing well. One is A. S. Moss, who is the city attorney. The other is John Bird, who is now county judge. He is an applicant for the postoffice and they say he has a fine show of receiving the appointment at the hands of President Wilson.

The city of Memphis is about the same size of Henrietta, has four unusually fine show places. They are the Methodist, Baptist and U. S. A. Presbyterian churches and the Carnegie library buildings.

The three churches cost approximately $90,000, and they are a splendid testimonial of the Christianity and liberality of the Memphis church people. We had the pleasure of attending worship in all of them, and the privilege of inspecting the fine Sunday school facilities of two of them. We believe they are worth what they cost, and though they are rather ahead of the town as far as size is concerned, the people have in no wise been impoverished by building them. The combined seating capacity of the three buildings is approximately 3,100. The Baptist and Methodist have a seating capacity of about 1,200 each, and the Presbyterian about 700. This, of course, is the maximum capacity when extra chairs are brought in. While the Presbyterian church is not so large as the other two, is the finer and more elaborately finished and cost nearly as much as either of them.

The Carnegie library building, in which the meeting of the association were held, was donated by Andrew Carnegie, and cost $10,000. In the second story there is an auditorium with a seating capacity of about 300, while the lower story is devoted exclusively for library purposes. They have quite a nice selection of books and magazines and the number of people who come there to read and who take books home to read runs into the thousands each month. The teacher of the beginners primary grade in the public school is the librarian. Her class work is finished at 2:30 in the afternoon, and the library is only open after that hour except on Saturdays. They find it a very nice combination, and makes the maintenance of the library very easy. The first books of their library were donated by a library association that was in existence before, individuals gave others and they have purchased some.

Memphis has a splendid water supply, coming from springs located six miles northwest of the city. The springs are on a considerably higher elevation than the city and the water comes down with a pressure of 135 pounds to the square inch. The water system cost $75,000 and is owned by private parties. This fact left the city free to issue sewer bonds and they have a very extensive sewerage system. A splendid asset to the progress of Memphis is her Commercial Club. It occupies a large room on a prominent corner and they have a fine display of products produced in the county. A. W. Read is secretary and while he is a home product, he is making good in the very best way.

After the adjournment of the association we with Mrs. Coleman, spent a few days visiting in the home of Senator and Mrs. W. A. Johnson, of the Hall County Herald, and were delightfully entertained. Senator Johnson is a candidate for re election and this far has no opposition. —Henrietta Independent.

SYNOPSIS

Mary Turner, a department store clerk, sentenced to prison for three years for theft she did not commit.

Edward Gilder, owner of the department store, consents to see Mary before she goes to prison, expecting her to confess.

CHAPTER III

The Victim of the Law.

"Yes, three years." "Good God!" There was no irreverence in the exclamation that broke from the girl's lips. Instead only a tense horror that touched to the roots of emotion.

"Say," Sarah demanded, with the directness habitual to her, "why are you so anxious about it? This is the third time you have asked me about Mary Turner. What's it to you, I'd like to know?"

"The salesgirl started violently, and a deep flush drove the accustomed pallor from her cheeks. She was obviously much disturbed by the question. 'What is it to me?' she repeated in an effort to gain time. 'Why, nothing—nothing at all, only—she's a friend of mine, a great friend of mine. Oh, yes!'"

There was a monotone of desolation as she went on speaking in a whisper meant for the ears of no other. "It's awful—three years! Oh, I didn't understand! It's awful—awful!" With the final word she hurried off, her attitude one of wondering grief.

Sarah was thinking intently of Mary Turner after her return to the office. As she glanced up at the opening of the door she did not at first recognize the figure outlined there. She remembered Mary Turner as a tall, slender girl, who showed an underlying vitality in every movement, a girl with a face of regular features, in which was a complexion of blended milk and roses, with a radiant joy of life shining through all her arduous and vulgar conditions.

Instead of this, now she saw a frail form that stood swaying in the doorway, that bent in a sinister fashion which told of bodily impotence, while the face was quite bloodless.

"The district attorney told me to bring this girl here."

visitors, then he spoke curtly to the secretary. "You may go, Sarah. I will ring when I wish you again."

"My girl," Gilder said gently—his hard voice was softened by an honest regret—"my girl, I am sorry about this."

"You should be!" came the instant answer. "Come, come!" Gilder exclaimed testily. "That's no tone to take with me."

"I expected a decent amount of humility from one in your position."

Life quickened slightly in the drooping form of the girl. She stood suddenly erect, and her face lost its bleakness of pallor. The eyes opened wide and looked straight into those of the man who had employed her.

"Would you be humble," she demanded, and now her voice was become softly musical, yet forbidding, too, with a note of passion, "would you be humble if you were going to prison for three years for something you didn't do?"

"Don't mind her, sir," Cassidy said. He meant to make his manner very reassuring. "They all say that. They are innocent, of course! Yep, they all say it. It don't do 'em any good, but just the same they all swear they're innocent. They keep it up to the very last, no matter how right they've been got."

The voice of the girl rang clear. There was a note of insistence that carried a curious dignity of its own. The very simplicity of her statement might have had a power to convince one who listened without prejudice, although the words themselves were of the trite sort that any protesting criminal might utter.

"I tell you I didn't do it!" Gilder himself felt the surge of emotion that swung through these moments, but he would not yield to it.

"What's the use of all this pretense?" he demanded sharply. "You were given a fair trial, and there's an end of it."

"Oh, no, I wasn't! Why, if the trial had been fair I shouldn't be here. Do you call it fair when the lawyer I had was only a boy—one whom the court told me to take, a boy trying his first case, my case, that meant the ruin of my life? My lawyer! Why, he was just getting experience—getting it at my expense!"

There followed a few seconds of silence. Then Gilder, with an effort to shake off the feeling that had assailed him, and to avert his eyes, succeeded.

"The jury found you guilty," he asserted, with an attempt to make his voice magisterial in its severity.

"Yes, the jury found me guilty. Do you know why? I can tell you, Mr. Gilder. It was because they had been out for three hours without reaching a decision. The evidence didn't seem to be quite enough for some of them. After all, well, the judge threatened to lock them up all night. The men wanted to get home. The easy thing to do was to find me guilty, and let it go at that. Was that fair, do you think? And that's not all either. Was it fair of you, Mr. Gilder? Was it fair of you to come to the court this morning and tell the judge that I should be sent to prison as a warning to others?"

"You know!" he exclaimed in momentary consternation. "I heard you in the courtroom," she said. "The dock isn't very far from the bench where you spoke to the judge about my case. Yes, I heard you. It wasn't, Did I do it? or, Didn't I do it? No. It was only that I must be made a warning to others."

Again silence fell for a tense interval. Then finally the girl spoke: "Mr. Gilder," she said simply, "as God is my judge, I am going to prison for three years for something I didn't do. Why did you ask the judge to send me to prison?"

"The thieving that has been going on in this store for over a year has got to stop," Gilder answered emphatically, with all his usual energy of manner restored. "Sending me to prison won't stop it," Mary Turner said drearily. "Perhaps not," Gilder sternly retorted. "But the discovery and punishment of the other guilty ones will."

"Unless you can control yourself, you must go," Gilder pushed away the pad of paper and tossed the pencil aside in physical expression of his displeasure. "Why did you send that message if you have nothing to say?" he demanded, with increasing choler.

"I have something to tell you, Mr. Gilder," she cried quietly. "Only I— I sort of lost my grip on the way here, with this man by my side."

"Well?" Gilder insisted querulously, as the girl hesitated. "When you sit in a cell for three months waiting for your trial, as I did, you think a lot. And so I got the idea that if I could talk to you I might be able to make you understand what's really wrong. And if I could do that and so help out the other girls, what has happened to me would not, after all, be quite so awful—so useless, somehow."

"What do you mean?" he vociferated, with rising indignation. "Why," she said very gently, "I mean just this: Give them a living chance to be honest."

"A living chance?" The two words were exploded with dynamic violence. Gilder found himself unable to express the rage that flamed within him. The girl showed herself undismayed by his anger.

"Yes," she went on quietly, "there's all there is to it. Give them a living chance to get enough food to eat and a decent room to sleep in and shoes that will keep their feet off the pavement winter mornings. Do you think that any girl wants to steal? Do you think that any girl wants to risk?"

It Always Helps

says Mrs. Sylvania Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky., in writing of her experience with Cardui, the woman's tonic. She says further: "Before I began to use Cardui, my back and head would hurt so bad, I thought the pain would kill me. I was hardly able to do any of my housework. After taking three bottles of Cardui, I began to feel like a new woman. I soon gained 35 pounds, and now, I do all my housework, as well as run a big water mill."

I wish every suffering woman would give a trial. I still use Cardui when I feel a little bad, and it always does me good."

Headache, backache, side ache, nervousness, tired, worn-out feelings, etc., are sure signs of womanly trouble. Signs that you need Cardui, the woman's tonic. You cannot make a mistake in trying Cardui for your trouble. It has been helping weak, ailing women for more than fifty years.

Get a Bottle Today!

In the quality of the voice as the girl went resolutely forward with her explanation.

"Do you know how we girls live? But, of course, you don't. Three of us in one room, doing our own cooking over the two burner gas stove and our own washing and ironing evenings, after being on our feet for nine hours."

"I have provided chairs behind the counters," he stated. "But have you ever seen a girl sitting in one of them?" she questioned coldly. "Please answer me. Have you? Of course not," she said after a little pause during which the owner had remained silent. She shook her head in emphatic negation. "And do you understand why? It's simply because every girl knows that the manager of her department would think he could get along without her if he were to see her sitting down—loafing, you know! So she would be discharged. All it amounts to is that after being on her feet for nine hours the girl usually walks home in order to save car fare. Yes, she walks, whether sick or well. Anyhow, you are generally so tired, it don't make much difference which you are."

"What has all this to do with the question of theft in the store? That was the excuse for your coming here. And instead of telling me something you rant about gas stoves and car fare."

Definition of a Knocker.

A knocker is a moss-backed, swivel-headed, penurious, selfish suspicious, with an objectionable, hesitating, nearsighted fellow. His eyes have a fondness for scarecrows and skeletons, his ears itch for grunts, groans and shrieks of distress. His voice is a combination of the squeal of a pig, the bray of a donkey and the growl of an old coffee mill. Perfume is nauseating to him but his nose laughs at the touch of carrion. He delights to tell the inequalities of life's business failures and is a great profit of evil. To him the future is a great dungeon of horror. He says conditions have never been worse for a long time and will be so more rapidly in the future. He has all the horrors of hell in his mind without any of the joys of hope. He is miserable when he is happy. The suggestion of any public improvement gives him an agonizing sensation of his ideal condition. He does not believe in any outlay for the building of schools, churches, roads, bridges, waterworks, sewers, sidewalks, pavements or any other public improvements, because our fathers did not have all of them and he does not have all of them and he does not believe in leaving things for children, but wants them to take care of themselves as he has done. He dwells among the tombs, holds communion with mummies is sorry that he is alive, and is glad that he is going to die.

A knocker is a wart on the public nose. He is a cancerous growth on the face of our beauty. He is the tuberculosis of life. He is a crick in the neck a match in the back, the string-halted, balky horse in the team. A brake upon the wagon going up hill. The leak in the steam chest of an engine, the short circuit of the electric battery, the discordant note of music. Men with healthy spirit for public improvement shun him as they would a leper, tread on him as a serpent and disperse him as a howling coyote.—Swiped.

The Social Side of School

By Mrs. E. P. Turner, Chairman, Homes and Schools, Texas Farm Life Commission.

Social companionship molds the future destiny of our boys and girls so far as character and intelligence are concerned. Manhood and womanhood are the outcome of human ability. The policy of the school during the past has been an open feud with the social hunger of its students, but social life has never been the strongest motive power in helping the progress of civilization.

A social department should be established in every school in Texas and should be equipped thoroughly as the social center of the community. It should be the headquarters for the social movement in the community and should provide in support social use of the pool and complete equipment for recreational sports.

Old Sores, Other Remedies Won't Cure. The worst cases, no matter how long standing, are cured by the wonderful, old reliable, Dr. Turner's Antiseptic Healing Ointment. It relieves Pain and Heals at the same time. 25c, 50c, $1.00

Memphis High School Notes.

Monthly reports were given out this Tuesday afternoon.

The High School Literary had its first meeting Friday night and was well attended by High School pupils, but there seems to be a lack of interest on the part of outsiders in this work. We desire that a greater interest be manifested on the part of the public. We wish to state that Rev. R. B. Morgan was present and gave the society his hearty cooperation. A short and enjoyable program was rendered including an instrumental solo by Terra Cagle, duet by Misses Morgan and Baldwin, reading, Ruth Randal, and instrumental solo Gladys Denny. The constitution was read and with few amendments was accepted. The following officers were elected: press reporter, Leota Bryant; censors, Jack Randal and Forrest Powers, sergeant at arms, Philip Clipper.

The High School foot ball team played a match game with Esteline the past Saturday on the Esteline Campus and enjoyed a decisive victory.
