What Goes Up Must Come Down

Did you take the skyride at the Chicago World's Fair? Then breathe a sigh of relief that you're not still on it, for here is the end of that spectacular creation of engineering genius. The west tower of the ride is shown falling after charges of dynamite wrecked the base. This was one of the most difficult feats connected with demolition of the fair buildings.

RECALLS ROYAL ERROR OF '96

FARMINGHAM, Mass., June 13.—Friends here have just learned that the Rev. Robert Atkinson Smith, a retired minister, once received a reward from the king of two countries. It was in 1896 when the minister was pastor of a small parish on the Nova Scotian coast. One night during a terrific storm a vessel went ashore on a reef near the harbor. The minister summoned all men of his parish and two seamen were rescued from the rocks. Bodies of five more of the crew of twelve were recovered. Weeks passed and a package came from "King Oscar II of Sweden." It contained a beautiful Communion set of gold, wafer cup and a goblet with the arms of King Oscar of Norway and Sweden, the message said, for the rescue of Swedish sailors. A few days later another message arrived. The set was not from "King Oscar of Sweden" but from King Oscar of Norway. The wrecked vessel was from Norway and the seamen he saved were Norwegians. So the communion set was from King Oscar of Norway. The minister and his friends are enjoying the story and the polite formality of the messages which their recipient has saved these forty years.

MEMPHIS GETS OVER .75 OF INCH RAIN

Slow, Soaking Fall Continues Over Entire Area

Slow, soaking rains continued to cover the Memphis Area today, providing a perfect seasoning for early crops but halting late cotton planting.

Memphis has received more than three quarters of an inch since Tuesday night and surrounding territories have received upward to one and a half inches. Rainfall in Memphis Tuesday night totaled .10 of an inch. From 6 o'clock Wednesday morning until 6 a. m. today, .57 of an inch had fallen and by noon today an additional .12 of an inch had fallen, according to J. J. McMickin, local weather observer.

The entire Memphis Area has been blanketed by the "cotton showers" with heavier rains reported south and west. The south plains section has received rains ranging from one and a half to two inches.

This morning's rain extended north to Hedley with the heaviest rainfall south and west of Esteline.

Liberals Called To Chicago Meet

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Political Washington, pondering the implications of the "Grass Roots" Republican convention at Springfield, Ill., heard yesterday that advocates of a liberal national third party will meet at Chicago on July 5 and 6.

Praise for the creed adopted by the Republicans came from members of that party, while Democrats voiced criticism or poked fun at its provisions.

Named at a previous conference in Washington, the committee extending invitations is composed of Representatives Mercantonio, New York Republican; Scott, California Democrat; Schneider and Amle, Wisconsin Progressives; and Lundeen, Minnesota Farm-Laborer.

Robert C. Cummings Undergoes Operation

He will undergo another operation later, it was reported. Mrs. Cummings and son, Robert Frank, accompanied Mr. Cummings. They are staying with Mrs. Cummings' aunt, Mrs. J. L. Casper, at Peoria, Kan.

Relief Head Urges Hitch-Hiker 'War'

AUSTIN, June 13.—Those contemplating summer trips via the thumb route were advised to keep off Texas highways by state relief director Adam R. Johnson. "Unless they have a job waiting somewhere, Texans contemplating hitch-hiking trips ought to stay home," Johnson said. He urged motorists to refuse rides, and advised against hand-outs to house-to-house canvassers.

Senate Crushes Filibuster By Long to Pass NRA Extension

Kidnaper Caught; Suspect Hunted

Confessed kidnaper of George Weyerhaeuser Jr. in Tacoma, Wash., Harmon M. Waley, 24, left, faces the death penalty if convicted under Washington's stringent law. Waley was captured in Salt Lake City after his wife, arrested while passing ransom bills, implicated him. In the search for accomplices, William Mahan, 35, right, was hunted in Butte, Mont., after he escaped from a stolen car leaving $15,000 in ransom bills. Both Waley and Mahan are ex-convicts.

FINAL APPROVAL IS EXPECTED TOMORROW

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Final congressional approval of the NRA extension resolution by tomorrow night was indicated today when President Roosevelt told House leaders he was willing to accept the measure passed by the Senate.

At the White House a conference with the President said he would accept the Borah amendment to lighten enforcement of anti-trust laws.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Having crushed a 15-1-2 here filibuster by Senator Long, Louisiana, the Senate at 6:10 a. m. today adopted, 41 to 13, the resolution to extend the "shadow" NRA until next April. The Senators then went home to sleep.

House leaders conferred today on how final action should be taken on a plan whereby businessmen would be allowed to make agreements governing labor conditions and unfair practices.

Fights for "Rider" Under the amendment by Senator Borah, Idaho, accepted at the last minute, anti-trust laws would be tightened.

Engineers Will Lay Off CCC Camp Site

Construction engineers for the CCC soil erosion camp to be established here in July will arrive in Memphis this week-end or the first of next week to lay off the camp site and prepare for construction to begin immediately, according to word received yesterday by Mayor J. A. Whaley.

Major O. E. Beezley, commanding army officer for this district, informed Mayor Whaley in a telephone conversation yesterday that engineers would be here "within the next few days" to work out detailed plans for the construction of camp buildings.

Considerable difficulty has been experienced by local officials during the past few days over sewage disposal lines that will serve the camp site at the Hall County Fair Park grounds in the east part of the city. This and other detailed problems relative to construction of the eight army buildings will be worked out by the engineers while here, Mayor Whaley said.

Sights is polling legislators on the proposed move, and says the answers have been favorable by a 2-to-1 majority. Sponsors of the movement ar-

BORN THIRTY YEARS TOO SOON

Summer Sweethearts

BEGIN HERE TODAY
KATHARINE STRYKHURST, beautiful, 20, falls in love with MICHAEL HEATHEROE, owner of a riding school. Katharine's father is rich and her stepmother a snob.
ZOE PARKER, Katharine's friend, has an unhappy love affair and is saved from suicide by young DR. JOHN KAYE.
Overhearing two detectives ask for Michael's address, Katharine rushes to warn him, although she has not seen him since his engagement to SALLY MOON, local coquette, has been announced.
Michael refuses to go away unless Katharine comes with him. They are married in an obscure little town. Then Michael insists on returning to face the detectives. He learns he is heir to a fortune and title in Ireland. Michael leaves at once for New York to see the lawyer handling the case. He is injured in a traffic accident.
Katharine, frantic when she does not hear from him next day, tells VIOLET MERSEY, her friend that she thinks Michael has run away.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXIX
Sally said furiously, "I don't understand it. I simply don't get it at all!" She glared at the inoffensive Tips and at Clarence, stooped and graying, in the background.
"You say he said he was going to the city?" Sally demanded.
Clarence nodded. They had been over the ground several times before, but if the young lady wanted to ask the same questions over and over he had no choice but to answer them.
"Has he goin' to the city," Clarence elaborated, with a sidelong roll of chocolate eyes in a dark face. "He's goin' to me to look up."
"Is that was day before yesterday?"
"Yea'm. In the evenin'. We ain't heard nothing from him since."
Sally waved an afternoon newspaper in his eyes. "Have you seen this?"

written, personal letters from a man in Montana—a man who signed himself quite simply "Bill." Nothing incriminating nothing to point to why Michael had gone. Sally stood staring at the letters in bafflement and anger. Her temperament demanded that she expend energy on someone. So she dressed herself in plain dark silk and boarded a train for the city. The clipping about Michael's inheritance lay in a smart dark blue handbag.
She went straight to Mr. Downing's hotel and that gentleman came down to the foyer to meet her. He was a lean, elderly Englishman with a stoop and a courteous, tried voice. No, he hadn't had any communication from Mr. Heatheroe as yet. And that was odd because Messrs. Malley & Gerhardt had assured him Michael was easily found. All his telephone calls the day before had been answered. Mr. Heatheroe, the secretary was away and it was when he would return.
"Something's happened," Sally announced firmly. "Something happened to Michael the night he came into New York. She saw it all now. She was stupid to be so frightened and angry. Of course Michael been hurt. He had no money. (Continued on page 3)

"No'm. Ain't seen nothin'" Clarence's eyes executed a sudden roll of apprehension. "They ain't nothin' in it 'bout Mist' Michael, is they?"
Sally laughed—an unpleasant laugh, drawing back the corners of her lips from small predatory teeth.
"Read it."
Tips bent over. "Pa can't read," he said. "Lissen he has a magnifying glass. His eyes is bad."
"WHAT do it say?" Clarence wanted to know.
Tips bent over the newspaper, reading slowly. "It says how Mister Michael is a lord or something," he said slowly. "It says how his daddy was a son of a lord in England or Ireland—and now Mister Michael, seems he comes into the business."
"Exactly," Sally Moon, with a sound that was more like a snort than the sarcastic laugh she had intended, slipped down into the shabby porch chair. Over her linked, gloved hands she regarded the two shabby men.
"I believe you two know more about this than you pretend to," she said on a note of angry suspicion. "I believe you perfectly well know where Michael is."
"No'm," Clarence shook his head.
"Well, I'm going to find out," Sally said swiftly. Before either one of them could stop her she had flung herself inside the door of Michael's house. "I'm going to search his papers," she said. "And don't either of you interfere!"
She was inside the room which had served Michael as a bedroom before either one could say a word. Tips looked at his father, and the older man looked back apprehensively.
"See ain't got a bit o' business in there," the boy said humbly. "How we goin' to stop her?"
Clarence went to know.
Sally went through bureau drawers like a whirlwind. The neat, plain, bare chamber did not afford many hiding places. A bed, tidily made up with a mended white spread, a common oak chest of drawers, a wardrobe with one of the old-fashioned doors swinging wide—she went through them all.

There was little enough. There was a pitifully little. A handful of old letters with the postmark of a little town in a western state. A hick, clumsy old gold watch. A button box.
Sally rifled through the letters. The stable boy came to the door to stare at her.
"You go away, Tips," she said crossly. "Don't you bother me. This is my business."
"Ain't nobody got any right buttin' into Mister Michael's private things," he said stubbornly. But he dared not interfere. After all, she was the girl his employer had been engaged to marry.
Clarence had shuffled out into the kitchen. You could hear him rattling pots and pans and setting down the cups with angry gusto. Sally paid no attention to all this. She had come with a determination to go through Michael's belongings, to see if she could find any clue to his disappearance. She flounced into the living room after a busy five minutes, a small bundle in her hand.
Tips watched her go, open-mouthed. His father came out of the kitchen to ask him, "That her car goin' away?"
"That's it," Tips sniffed, going into Michael's room and picking up a cushion Sally had dropped in her haste. "She sure made a mess of this here place. She sure is a big-talking young lady, Miss Moon."
"Her!" Clarence uttered contemptuously. "Ain't no Moons ever goin' to come high-tonin' me. I know 'em."
"See taken a way a lot of stuff of Mist' Michael's," Tips offered hesitantly. "Letters and such."
Clarence grinned, an old man's wide, sly grin. His lips were stretched inconspicuously wide. "She did, huh?"
"Yea, sah!" The stable boy was emphatic. "Looks like Mist' Michael run away from her while the runnin' was good. What you think about it?"
His father lifted his shoulders in an eloquent shrug. "Boy, I ain't nothin' nobody's business."
"You think we better stay on a while?" Tips said.

earth to run away on the eve of this triumph. Her manner softened perceptibly. She had met Mr. Downright in the hospital, thinking he knew something about the absent Michael, thinking, perhaps, he had aided and abetted him in his escape.

"You must help me," she said, her voice taking on its cooling note. "We must search the hospitals—the morgues—"
 "My dear young woman," stammered Mr. Downright. "Surely you don't think—"

She was firm, but to show how deeply she was affected by the thought of Michael injured or dead she wept a little, quite prettily and convincingly.

"We must," she said. "We cannot do otherwise. After all," she reminded him, with a liquid glance of those dark, opaque eyes. "I'm his promised wife, you know."

She could see herself telling the story to newspaper reporters. Dead or alive, Michael should not escape her.

WHOSE WORD WILL YOU TAKE FOR BLOWOUT PROTECTION?

Low wheels, larger tires, and the high speeds of today make blowout protection in your tires vital to your safety as never before. Are you accepting exaggerated and unsupported advertising and sales claims—or are you accepting the judgment of men who risk their lives on their tires and know from experience the tire that gives them the greatest blowout protection?

Thirty-three race drivers and their mechanics lined up for the dangerous, gruelling grind of the 500-Mile Race at the Indianapolis Speedway May 30th. Firestone Tires were purchased and used on every one of the thirty-three cars.

Kelly Petillo won the race at an average speed of 106 miles per hour. Wilbur Shaw was second, flashing across the finish line just behind the winner. Both drivers broke the track record without tire trouble. In fact, not one of the thirty-three drivers had tire trouble of any kind.

For sixteen consecutive years Firestone Tires have been on the winning car. The race this year simply emphasizes again the undisputed evidence that Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have the greatest stamina and blowout protection.

Gum-Dipping is one of the outstanding reasons why Firestone Tires give such amazing performance. By this process every cotton cord is soaked and every strand is insulated with pure liquid rubber, preventing internal friction and heat, the main cause of blowouts. Gum-Dipping is a patented extra process not used in any other make of tire.

When you consider that there were 332,000 automobile accidents in the United States last year, and of these, 43,000 were caused by blowouts, punctures, and skidding, you will more fully realize how very important it is for you to protect your life and the lives of others by equipping your car with Firestone Gum-Dipped High Speed Tires—the safest tires built.

It will be worth your time to read these three questions and their answers:

QUESTION 1—"Will the tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"

ANSWER—Leading university tests show Firestone High Speed Tires stop your car 15% quicker than the best of other popular makes of tires.

QUESTION 2—"Are they built to give me the greatest blowout protection?"

ANSWER—Unequaled performance records for sixteen consecutive years prove that Gum-Dipping gives you the greatest blowout protection ever known.

QUESTION 3—"Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"

ANSWER—Thousands of car owners report unequaled mileage records—evidence of the longer wear and greater economy of Firestone High Speed Tires.

Volume—Direct Purchasing—Straight Line Manufacturing and Efficient and Economical System of Distributing to 500 Stores and to 30,000 Dealers, enables Firestone to give greater values at lowest prices

1 Leading University tests show Firestone Tires stop your car 15 to 25% quicker.

2 Gum-Dipped cords give greater blowout protection. Gum-Dipping is not used in any other make of tire.

3 More and tougher rubber in a wider and flatter tread gives more than 50% longer non-skid wear.

Hedley Defeats Estelline To Give Thompson Softball Lead

George Thompson had 'em leaping through the hoop again in the first of last night's make-up games in the City Softball League.

Hedley took the initial encounter from the peppy DeWitts crew, 6 to 3, and Salisbury won over Tarver's by a last-inning rally in the second delirious game, 12 to 10.

The crowd had fits during the first game, which had the important outcome of removing the Estelline club from a nominal tie for the first place. Now Thompson's is the only undefeated team.

Thompson had his usual speed and control throughout most of the contest, retiring the first three batters in the first five innings. He whiffed 11. In addition, he batted rather heavily, clouting a homer in the seventh with two on.

Bud Maby of Tarver's had intermittent spells of effective and poor pitching. He fanned eight to prove that he's no set-up. Salisbury's playing was decidedly below par for that usually lively group.

Tomorrow's games bring together Tarver's and Hedley in the first and Bullard's and Harrison's in the final. Someone has just gotta come out of the cellar in that last contest—unless of course, they tie.

Laughed at Donkeys—Have Another Chance

Memphians have laughed at the antics of educated donkeys in softball games before, but they will be given the first opportunity of the present season Monday night at Fair Park Stadium.

The game, to start at 8:15, is to be sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce for the benefit of its Boy Scout troop. Admission is 10 and 25 cents.

DEFEATS CARL HARRISON IN 1ST ROUND

To Meet Greenhaw in Semi-Final of City Championship

Frank Foxhall, twice Greenbelt champion and several times holder of the city title, took his place beside the other favorites in the second round of the Memphis Country Club championship tournament yesterday.

He defeated Carl Harrison, 7 and 5, to go opposite Reginald Greenhaw, runner-up in the recent Greenbelt and a former champion.

Interest of Greenbelt
In the top bracket of the championship semi-final are Thomas Hampton, the third Greenbelt titlist in the tournament and local medalist, and J. D. Webster, youthful challenger.

The line-up gives the semi-final matches, to be played before Sunday, the interest of a Greenbelt championship match, with just as spectacular golf in the offing.

L. M. Hicks reached the final round of the second flight yesterday by defeating George Lovelless, 2 up. The lower division of the flight went into the semi-final, with Mac Tarver beating O. B. Jones, 3 up, in a match that went only nine holes by agreement.

Other Results

John Deaver advanced to the finals of the third flight by defeating Buster Helm, 3 and 2. He will meet the winner of the Tom Harrison-Frank Garrott match for the title of the division.

O. V. Alexander and C. O. Thompson went into the fourth flight final. Thompson defeated Harry Delaney, 3 and 2, while Alexander was advancing by default by Jim Vallance.

Starting consolation play, R. S. Greene defeated O. B. Smith, 2 up, in the championship division. In the second flight G. D. Beard downed Floyd Springer, 2 and 1. Jack Walker upset M. J. Draper, 4 and 3, in the third consolation. C. O. Davenport erased Loyd Hicks, 1 up, in the fourth consolation, and Raymond Ballew drew a bye in the final.

SOUTHPAW HOOKS IRON SHOT AROUND TEE TO WIN TOURNEY

Everett Livesay, present left-handed amateur champion, won the Mason Dixon amateur championship of 1932 at White Sulphur Springs after hooking a No. 2 iron around a tree and 190 yards to the fifth green on the final round. After this fine shot, Livesay went on to defeat Johnny Hines, 3 up and 2 to play.

"We were all even playing the fifth," explains Livesay. "My drive was pushed into the rough to the left of the fairway. The ball ended up behind a tree. I had to hook the shot to get around the tree and reach the green for a par four."
In playing this shot, Livesay used a closed stance, closed the face of his club, stood behind the ball, and hit from the inside out.

Wainwright, point winner in two Olympic Games, gave up her amateur standing to become a swimming instructor.
I haven't noticed anybody returning those checks they got from the government across state lines.

by Harry GRAYSON

Clerk Griffith calls the deal that Walter Johnson is getting in Cleveland the dirtiest any man ever got in baseball.

By this time you undoubtedly have heard that what perhaps is the most sustained attack in the history of the dodge reached the petition stage in Cuyahoga County recently when Johnson released Glenn Myatt and sent Willis Kamm home from Philadelphia "for the good of the club."

The easy-going Big Train's hand was forced by a group of the younger Indians who, with Hal Trosky as spokesman, demanded to know who was managing the Cleveland club, Johnson or Kamm. It seems that the peacemakers grew tired of being second guessed. For this Johnson was dragged before Judge Landis for the first time.

"It makes me feel sort of ashamed of being connected with the game," says Griffith. "Walter doesn't deserve what they're doing to him. He's a grand fellow and don't let anyone tell you he isn't a god manager."

Griffith explains his release of Johnson as pilot of the Washington club at the conclusion of the 1932 season. Barney reported to the Old Fox as a gangling 19-year-old kid and spent 25 years with the Senators.

"Johnson was doing the best anybody could do with what he had in Washington," asserts Griffith. "I let him go because we needed a new deal. Baseball is funny. It's like the show business. You need new faces, new players, a new manager now and then."

"The Washington club had gone along for four years with the same players, the same manager, and at just about the same position in the race. The fans wanted something different."
"But I am telling you the truth when I say that Walter would have won the pennant in 1933 with the same players Joe Cronin had."

"If Cleveland doesn't win the pennant it will not be Johnson's fault. I think he's doing all right with the Cleveland team now. It's right up in the fight, isn't it?"

Old-Timers' Lament

Cy Young's team of old-timers is finding out that what you were years ago—in sports at least—doesn't mean a thing today.

Young's array walked off a field at Alexandria, Va., the other afternoon when a $25 guarantee was not forthcoming. The barnstorming troupe isn't making expenses. Since April 29 this band of former big league players has been touring the tank towns of the south playing semi-professional and college teams.

The bus is small and crowded. Each day means a jump of 50 or 100 miles, with a pitcher, like as not, doing the driving and then toiling nine innings. The net profit in a stop in Baltimore was $8.75. The bus broke down and the $8.75 went for repairs. And they're booked until Oct. 1.

Although there are plenty of players in the party who have seen long major league service.

MEAL TIME CAP PISTOL CURE IS SUGGESTED FOR GUN SHY DOG

BY A. H. ASMUS
Noted Southern California Trainer
For ages the dog has been asstemed as an adjunct and servant to man—especially the sportsman. Shooting afield without the aid of a trained dog is very poor sport indeed, but nevertheless much better than to be vexed with an untrained, obstinate dog who is the source of constant annoyance and anger.

First, satisfy yourself that you have a dog that is really worth training. A long pedigree, while desirable, is no guarantee that your dog is going to be a good one. Test his nose and his gun shy dog; and be afraid of the gun at a time and the trouble is yours. Assuming that you have a shooting dog and a gun, pick your prey that really is worth hunting. Pick a game that you can train, they are there only a "trained gun dog" commands you to shoot. Second, he must be able to shoot and wing. One dog, he should be trained retrieve, heel and stee. "whoa." Give your commands you can do the field.

At feeding time, pistol, or make something the report of will learn to associate with something he will avoid gun shots. Many owners training as well as intelligently handle—most know what to do.

It would be wiser to go out with a handler and let him back five cents cannot use the dog. Their all dogs. Their the same as those who the English of what would do for another.

One Engel Missed

Glancing through a 1934 baseball guide, covering the business activities of 1933, Joe Cronin, then manager of the Senators, was struck by the size of Johnny Whitehead in a group picture of the Dallas club.

As the result, Scout Joe Engel spent $300 of the Washington club's money last season in looking over Whitehead. Engel seldom makes a mistake, but erred in the case of the current pitching star of the Chicago White Sox. He reported that the Texas farm boy wouldn't do.

American business men are not a group of predator pirates seeking to erind down their fellowmen. They are typical American citizens with a high sense of responsibility and patriotism.

Why Mexico Is Fine Vacation Land

Entered by local vacationists. Entering the northern part of the state, one goes first to Raton or Springer. West of Springer the real scenic beauties of the state begin in earnest. Springer lies at the mouth of the gorgeous Cimarron Canyon as well as the famous "Red River Valley" of New Mexico.

Resorts of Interest
Through the Cimarron, the town by the same name is approached and left behind through mountain drives that make the nervous tourist gasp. Climbing through the mountains to the west and passing between Little Baldy and Ute Peak, Eagle Nest Lake is the next famous vacation spot. Thence to Taos, the widely known Indian reservation and artist colony, the Texas vacationist reaches an elevation of nearly 7,000 feet with aspens and pine trees on every hand.

Passing numerous Indian pueblos and through magnificent country, one reaches historic Santa Fe with its Palace of Governors and views the oldest town in the United States.

Following the Santa Fe trail, the tourist travels on to Albuquerque, one of the southwest's greatest health resorts. From Albuquerque, many vacationists return home while others continue on to El Paso.

At Cloudcroft, the golfer from the Memphis Area will find the highest golf course in the world at his niblick-tip. If the vacationist desires, he may also visit Ruidoso, a rustic resort on the Hondo River, the Lincoln National Park where Billy the Kid reigned during his short life of crime in the southwest, Captain Peak with an elevation of more than 10,000 feet and thousands of other historic and interesting spots.

So great are the vacation possibilities of New Mexico that it is impossible to even mention them in one article, but the summer visitor to the state may rest assured that, regardless of the route he takes or the points he touches, there is an ideal vacation in store for everyone.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kendall arrived yesterday from San Antonio for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Kinslow. Mrs. Kendall is a sister of Mr. Kinslow. They will also visit relatives at Hedley.

Feared Kidnaped by Mistake

Frantic parents of chubby, brown-eyed John Kaul, Jr., 5, above, feared he was the victim of a kidnaper's mistake, as U. S. agents pressed the hunt for the lad, who vanished from a New York playground. The parents, in only moderate circumstances, live in an exclusive section and believed John was mistaken for one of the children of wealth with whom he often played.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Martindale of Childress are spending today in Memphis as the guests of his sisters, Mrs. John Dennis and Mrs. E. T. Prater.

THE VOICE OF THE UPPER RED RIVER VALLEY

CALL FOR PEACE

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT yesterday called for "assurance of permanent peace" before the graduating class of the United States Military Academy...

Whatever happens between Japan and China, it is rather certain that we will not allow ourselves to become involved.

Roosevelt approved legislation to increase the military force because of a conviction the army had been reduced "to a level unjustified by a due regard to our safety."

He is a strong believer in "our safety," but probably would fight to the very last against any attempt to involve the United States in a foreign conflict.

And the United States is not likely to be involved. The manner of public thought has changed considerably in the last two decades.

Of course there is no danger of that now, nor is there likely to be for many, many years to come. So Americans can sit back and read about foreign strife without fear.

U. S. RULE NOT SO BAD

WHEN you let your gaze wander in the general direction of France, you are apt to conclude that there is a great deal to be said in favor of the somewhat stiff and cumbersome type of government which the United States enjoys.

The commonest criticism of the American form of government is that it is slow to respond to shifts in popular feeling.

In France the situation is just the reverse. The government there is almost like a weather-vane, compelled to veer about in obedience to the slightest change in public opinion.

Since the formation of the Clemenceau cabinet in 1917, France has had upwards of 30 governments. A few have lasted as long as two years at a stretch; others have lasted only a few days.

All this indicates a degree of flexibility even more pernicious than the stiffness of the American system.

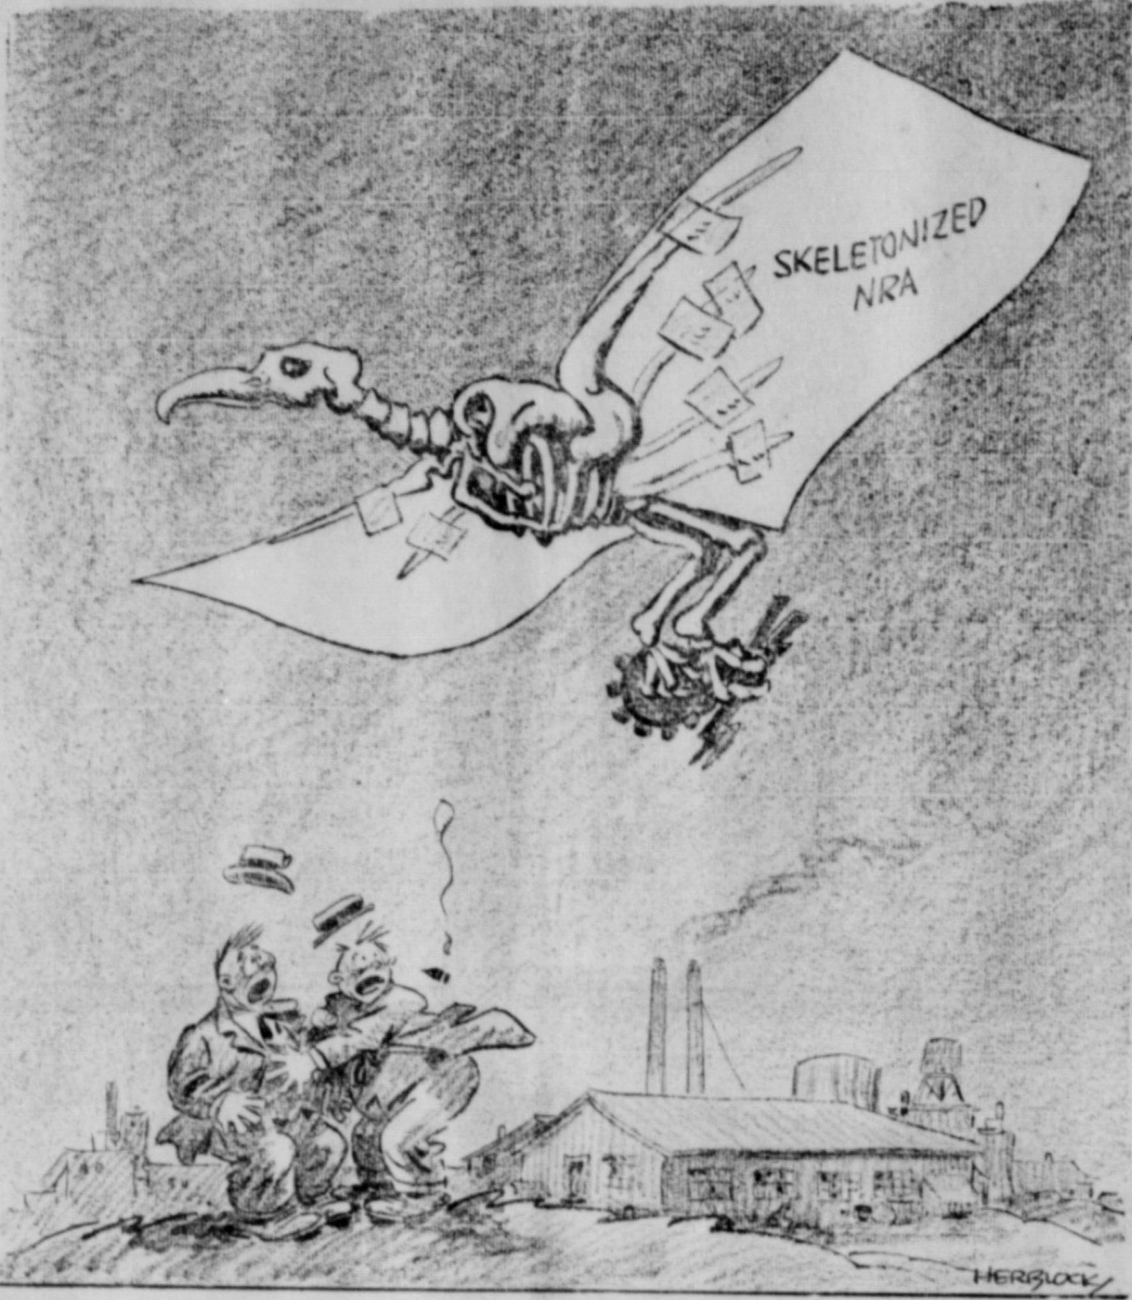

You can best understand how it works by remembering that the French premier must resign whenever he is defeated on an important vote in the Chamber of Deputies.

When you recall that every recent president has used the veto a number of times, you can see what an extreme lack of stability the French system creates.

Installed in the United States, it would put every president completely at the mercy of Congress. He could not fight Congress, for if Congress voted him down he would go out of office.

The peculiarities of parliamentary government in France are not, perhaps, of very great importance in the United States. But the inflexibility of the American form of government frequently comes under attack; and when it does, it is comforting to reflect that too much flexibility can be worse than not enough.

THE WHITE EAGLE

HEALTH

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Some time ago, a man saw his cousin fall out of a third story window. He rushed her to the hospital.

When he got there, nervous and upset, his knees were shaking and his eyes watered for two hours later.

That is one serious effect that the mental reaction which is called emotion can have on your body.

you are stricken with fear, your face becomes pallid. If you normally have high blood pressure, and you become angry, you experience and additional rise in blood pressure.

The discovery of the rise in sugar content of the blood, when emotion occurs in some persons, was made after an extended investigation. Recently at Yale University, scientists tabulated the effects of excitement from various causes.

One was the case of a man who had had a motor accident, in which his wife gave birth to a baby.

In each of these cases, there was a definite rise in the blood pressure, and in a considerable number also a rapid pulse.

You can see, therefore, that profound emotions of any kind are reflected strongly in the body.

The changes that take place in the body, due to some emotion, in most instances result from the actions of the glands.

On the other hand, there are instances in which activities of various glands may be suppressed by emotional conditions.

All of these studies emphasize again the close relationship which exists between mind and body and the necessity of understanding this relationship, when you come to consider any disease.

The radio priest should know that Soldier Field cannot be used as a forum for the debating of any controversial subjects, except, possibly, the one: "Who's de champ?"

Our wars debt experience convinces us that there should be an "a" in the middle of the word, "Finland."

I regard the NRA as dead. In spired propaganda will not bring it back, and straw votes will not scrap the American Constitution.

New Deal May Be Staggered, but It Still Needs Space and More Space for Help... Just See All the Jobs That Keller Got for His Home Folks... Think of It! A Real Poet in Congress.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Try to understand it if you can. At a time when the New Deal is popularly supposed to have received a crushing, decimating blow from the U. S. Supreme Court, it is actually bulging out of the District of Columbia into Maryland and Virginia.

Mr. Roosevelt's administration filled all the old office buildings, moved into thousands of new offices created by Mr. Hoover's big federal building program, and gradually came to occupy every spare inch of space in private office buildings through the city.

Now Dr. Tugwell is trying to move his cramped Rural Settlement Administration—which will have several hundred employees—across the Potomac to Arlington, Va., where the Agricultural Department has an experiment plant.

The Census Bureau will set up headquarters for its next big special census in Baltimore and other agencies are also investigating space in the Maryland city.

They Howl for Space Dr. Morris Cooke and his Rural Electrification Administration are quartered in the old James G. Blaine mansion off Du Pont Circle.

The fellow who is charged with finding space for the New Deal—and is suffering from incipient claustrophobia—has been trying to get an ention on the big Washington auditorium as well as other mansions.

Dismantling of NRA will help the problem a bit, but government officials are clawing for its space like a pack of hyenas and at last reports various agencies—especially those concerned with work relief—still needed 300,000 to 400,000 more square feet.

THE NOSEY GUY: As an example of the inefficiency of governmental agencies at Washington, just read in today's Daily Democrat how one man held up that august law-making body, the United States Senate, and prevented about 95 Senators from voting their convictions. One Huey Long (who never introduces a bill and who never holds any position of honor in the Senate) filibustered all yesterday afternoon and last night trying to delay voting on the NRA measure. He read from the constitution, declaration of independence, and a novel by Victor Hugo, but most of the time talked "extemporaneously to the obvious entertainment of crowded galleries."

Probably, the NRA should be defeated—its merits or demerits are not to be passed upon by TNG. But, surely the way for such a measure to receive action is by a vote of the Senators, rather than delayed by the filibustering of one dispenser of HOOEY.

One would rather risk the judgment of a majority of 96 Senators in matters of deep concern to the entire nation than to leave it up to some one man who knows how to play a cheap brand of politics, but doesn't know statesmanship from prairie-coal slinging. The trouble lies mostly with the Senators themselves. They take it for granted that all Senators are above petty action and filibustering and therefore do not have rules whereby they can stop such foolish actions when one of their number forgets the dignity of his office and stoops to filibustering. It looks to people here at home like the Senate might pass some good rules, and if the members are all right, it will not be necessary to enforce them. If one of their number gets loco (as Hooey is, am and was) then enforce the rules.

If 96 Senators are not capable of passing judgment upon a matter of importance and have to leave it up to one man to kill it by filibustering, they should make that one man dictator—no one will deny that he would like to be—and go back to their homes thus cutting down a lot of agitation as well as expense.

Free speech and a free press must be maintained if our nation is to continue as a government of, for and by the people. Senators and Representatives should have the right to discuss all measures coming up for consideration—no one would deny them this. It is a matter of precaution that safeguards the rights of all. TNG claims that no Senator or Representative has a moral right to obstruct the operation of law making by un-

Senate Crushes—

4 a. m., lasting since shortly after noon yesterday Senators Schall, Minnesota, and McCarran, Nevada, followed for a short time.

The Senate rejected the Gore amendment requiring Senate confirmation of all Presidential appointments drawing over $4,000 yearly, which was the vehicle for Long's filibuster.

Eliminates Codes: The Senate resolution would eliminate all compulsory codes and restore the anti-trust laws to their full effect.

Senator Long was fighting for a "rider" to the extension resolution which would require Senate confirmation of all federal officials drawing $4,000 a year or more.

Sipping milk and cold coffee, Long read from the constitution, the declaration of independence and a novel by Victor Hugo, but most of the time talked extemporaneously to the obvious entertainment of crowded galleries.

Once Long and Chairman Harrison of the Finance Committee were negotiating for an agreement to vote, but Senator Black, Democrat, Louisiana, interrupted with a demand that Long be forced to continue.

Talks Too Loud: "I believe it's the will of the Senate to continue and let the senator from Louisiana speak until Sunday," Black said.

Once Senator Minto, Republican, Indiana, interrupted Long to ask that he speak more quietly "because there are a lot of people asleep around here."

"I am sorry I woke up the senator from Indiana," Long retorted. "It would have been better if he had never waked up."

Senator Barkeley of Kentucky, acting Democratic leader, once asked Long if he had studied music.

When the Louisianian replied that he had, Barkeley suggested that he "sing" instead of talk.

The Louisianian's intimations that Vincent Astor, as head of the International Mercantile Marine, had obtained mail subsidy contracts brought a sharp denial from Senator Black, Democrat, Alabama.

Challenges Statement: Lewis, Democrat, Illinois, challenged Long to make clear whether he meant the President was "in tow" of Astor. Long replied:

"When a man is getting contracts out of the United States for millions of dollars and has the President on his yacht and comes back and gets another piece of money—I would say to the President in words of the Bible, 'Avoid that appearance.'"

What precipitated Long's filibuster was his effort to win adoption of an amendment by Senator Gore, Democrat, Oklahoma, to force Senate confirmation of all federal officials drawing $4,000 a year or more.

He wanted the amendment, he said, to break up the administration's practice of appointing anti-Long men to federal posts in Louisiana.

The amendment was adopted by the Senate Tuesday, 43 to 38, but administration leaders worked desperately over-night to swing votes.

On the first test yesterday, they won, 40 to 36.

Bob Haynes in Miami Chief: When I quit this mortal shore, and mosey round the earth no more; don't weep, don't sigh, don't sob. I may have struck a better job. Don't go and buy a large bouquet, for which you'll find it hard to pay. Don't mope around and feel all blue—I may be better off than you. Don't tell the folks I was a saint, or any old thing that I ain't. If you have jam like that to spread, please hand it out before I'm dead. If you have roses, bless your soul, just pin one in my buttonhole while I'm alive and well—today. Don't wait until I've gone away.
